Farmers Are Urged To Register Tractors

Crop Planting Getting Good Start In Area

Crop planting is getting a good start this week, both for cotton and feed crops and vegetables. Fear of a shortage of labor will cut some of the truck crops short, it is reported, but farmers have been assured of plenty of help to handle the harvest.

Bailey county ranks twelfth in crop acreage, according to a survey by J. San Lewis, of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, with 271,952 acres.

Hale county has the largest crop acreage, 528,395 acres reported in cultivation. Likewise, it has the largest soil conservation acreage, 105,659 acres.

Lubbock county ranks second; Lamb, third; Swisher, fourth; Floyd, fifth; Castro, sixth; Lynn, seventh; Hockley, eighth; Farmer ninth; Dawson, tenth, and Terry, eleventh. All of these counties have more than 250,000 acres in crops.

In general acreages, Lamb ranks first; Lubbock, second; Hockley, third; Terry, fourth; Dawson, fifth; Farmer, sixth; Hale, seventh; Lynn, eighth; Bailey, ninth; Castro, tenth; Swisher, eleventh; Crosby, 12th; Floyd, thirteenth. These counties have more than 100,000 acres in general crops.

Crop allotments on the South Plains, approved by the Agricultural Adjustment agency, show the following acreages for 21 counties on the South Plains, with county totals for cotton:

Farmers Warned Against 'Hoppers'

Grass hopper infestation is breaking out in the south part of the county, it was stated Wednesday morning by Winford F. Jones, vocational agriculture instructor here. All farmers are asked to inspect fields and pastures for hoppers, which, according to Jones, are just hatching. They are so small at this time that one will have to look closely to see them. However, all farmers are requested to report any hoppers found on their farms just as soon as possible.

Judge Jim Cook, J. W. McDermott and Mr. Jones were in Ancker Wednesday afternoon to get information on obtaining poison. Poisoning should be done at once, they said, in order to check the threat now. If this is done, it will save thousands of dollars in wheat and labor, they stated.

MEUT, THE NICKOLS VISITS AT WEST CAMP

Lieut. The Nickols was a visitor for a short time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Roark of the West Camp community Sunday a week ago. Lieutenant Nickols is a brother of Mrs. Roark. He received his commission at Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz., a week sooner than expected, with orders to report to Kaye Field, Miss., as an instructor in the Air Corps.

Lieutenant Nickols had previously been a student at Hardin Simmons University, Abilene, and was well known by several young people of this county who are attending the school.

Bring on that Jap

Bugga Brigadier is a snappy little wire-haired pup whose master, Edward E. Williams of Dallas, is serving with the fighting fleet. Bugga would dearly love to bite a Jap and would give part of his daily hamburger meat for Navy Relief. The pup's plea for the war's cause was answered by his mistress, Mrs. Williams, with a contribution sent to Gerald C. Smith, Austin, State chairman of the Navy Relief Society.

12 Million Men Are Needed In All-Out Effort

Major General Lewis B. Herge, national selective service director, declared this week that 12,000,000 men — nearly one-tenth of the nation's population — would be shifted to new jobs, either in the armed forces or in the war production front, by Jan. 1, 1942.

"In 1942, we must triple the number of men who were working in war industries last Jan. 1," he said. "We must double the number of men in the armed forces by the end of the year. That means only one thing — moving some 12,000,000 individuals."

Addressing state selective service administrators and others at Detroit, Mich., Hershey said:

"We have to solve the problem of taking 60,000,000 human units and getting 60,000,000 or 70,000,000 units of work in the armed forces and in industry."

"It means that those capable of doing more or better work in some other job must be upgraded. It means also that we will have to forego all of the luxuries and many of the so-called necessities of our present life."

$1.34 Basic Loan Rate On Wheat

Basic loan rate for this year's wheat crop in Texas is $1.34 per bushel, but individual prices will vary according to locations, it was announced this week from College Station, Tex.

The loan program, with rates based upon returns equivalent to 85 percent of parity, became effective when wheat farmers approved marketing quotas in national referendum May 2. Unofficial vote indicates Texas wheat farmers approved quotas by approximately 89 percent, while national approval is expected to average about 82 percent.

General provisions of the loan program are similar to those of the 1941 program, according to P. C. Colgin, state AAA commodity loan specialist.

Realizing that loose war talk may upset employees in the plant, one war factory devised a rumor and placed it in the shop. Now, when a worker repeats a rumor, his fellow workers tell him to write it on the Rumor Board and sign his name. In most cases that ends the rumor.

Price Ceiling Goes Into Effect May 18

Several Muleshoe business men were in Lubbock last Friday night to attend a meeting in regard to the federal ceiling on retail and wholesale prices. This new law is to go into effect Monday, May 18. A bulletin just received from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce gives all the available information at this time, which says in part:

"At least one official copy of the full text of the Maximum Price Regulations of the Office of Price Administrator covering all features of the federal ceiling on retail and wholesale prices which become effective May 18, have been furnished to each local Chamber of Commerce in the 18 county area surrounding this city in which the OPA has asked the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to serve as a liaison agency between it and the public.

Due to the short amount of time before the over-all ceiling applies, it is impossible to provide a copy of the regulations to every business affected, according to officials of the regional OPA office at Dallas.

A small number of copies of the order have been furnished the Lubbock Chamber with the request that the organization make them available in as many places in the region as possible, in order to assist business operators in determining what they are to do and how they are to do it.

The Lubbock organization has had a limited quantity of the regulations duplicated and a copy has been mailed to each business concern which was represented at the price regulation clinic in Lubbock on May 8."

Wool Shortage Is Inevitable; Care For It

Two or three times this nation's domestic production of wool will be necessary to meet military needs in 1943. With the manufacture of woolen blankets prohibited and a similar order for clothing expected shortly, homemakers should take the best possible care of these articles.

Louise Bryant, Extension Service specialist in home management, offers the following suggestions for making woollens last longer:

Collect all winter clothing, blankets and woolen accessories which will not be used again until next fall. Inspect the garments carefully for soil and grease spots. If they are spotted or dingy, send them to the cleaner. Dry cleaning or washing in a correct solution of neutral soap kills all forms of moths.

Articles not soiled enough to warrant cleaning or laundering should be hung out to air on a sunny, breezy day and given a thorough brushing.

Give each garment as much chance as possible to keep its shape. If articles are packed in chests or trunks, place the heaviest things on top. Fold everything lightly sprinkling flake paradichlorobenzene between the folds.

There are dust-proof bags on the market made of heavy paper treated with a moth preventative. These will hold several garments and will allow the garments to hang in natural lines. Stuffing the sleeves and body of the garment with wads of tissue paper will help keep it free of wrinkles. Do the same with folded garments.

Louis D. Vaughn Trains For Radio Job In Navy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 9.—Louis D. Vaughn, of Muleshoe, Tex., has recently arrived at the U. S. Naval Training School, Naval Armory, here, and has started an intensive course designed to train him to become a Navy radioman. Lt. L. F. Brozo, USNR, Commanding Officer of the school, has charge of directing the training of Vaughn.

Vaughn, who enlisted in the Navy Feb. 6, 1942 at Dallas, came to the local radio school to receive the training of the U. S. Naval Training Schools located in the United States. Upon completion of his training, the new radioman will be assigned to the fleet or to some shore station.

Vaughn's training to become a radioman is only one of the many opportunities for men to learn a skilled trade in the U. S. Navy. Recruiting stations have complete details.

Rules For Better Planting Given By SCS Officials

It's about planting time, and here are some simple practices which the Blackwater Valley conservation district supervisor and Bailey county USDA war board recommend:

Due to excessive wet weather last year, your planting seed are generally below average. Have yours tested so that you will know how many to plant.

Treat both sorghums and cotton seed before planting. (Use sulphur or copper carbonates on sorghum. Use Cresolan for cotton seed.)

Plant cotton on best land and plant full allotment. If possible, plant where you had feed last year.

Plant feed on land which is bad to blow.

Plant from one to one and one-half acres of Sudan for each grown head of livestock (or its equivalent) which you expect to pasture.

Where land is bad to blow and cotton, corn, peas, beans or peanuts will be planted, plant in strips with wind.

Be sure your garden is large enough to meet your needs.

Parmer County Singers To Meet Sunday, May 24

The Journal is asked to announce that the Parmer County Singing convention will be held on Sunday, May 24th, instead of May 17th, as formerly planned. The change of date was necessary due to Commencement activities at Friona High School, where the convention is to be held.

The people of Friona and Parmer County extend an invitation to everyone in this territory to attend the program on May 24, which will start promptly at 10:00 A.M. The city of Friona will furnish lunch, the announcement said. Visiting musical organizations and singers from adjoining counties will be on the program, and everyone is assured of a full day of fine entertainment.

New Walks Are Built At School

About 200 feet of new concrete walks have been completed at the High School during the past week, sponsored and financed by the P.-T. A. These walks have been needed badly for a long time, especially the one built between the High School building and the auditorium. This walk is thirty by eight and one-half feet. In addition, a 150 by 4 feet strip has been put down on the south side of the building, from the auditorium to the street in front of the High School.

It was stated that additional shrub and flower beds would be added as soon as possible, which will make the grounds much more attractive.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil H. Tate and family were in Amberly to visit with Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Stevens recently.

LITTLE MORE BOUGH

W. Lee O'Daniel is in for a real old-fashioned political skinning, according to one Dan Moody and a federal judge by the name of James V. Alfred. Mr. O'Daniel doesn't seem to be overly excited about his competition, and as far as we can determine in this neck of the woods, there is no reason for him to be.

Sunday's papers carried the announcement of the intention of what was once Texas' two wonder boys - Dan Moody, who for years wrestled with state sin to the delight of many an East Texas snuff-dipping audience and Jimmie (Florida Alge) Allen, who blasted the political corruptionists out of Texas for the sake of the pee-put. Their intentions are to "gang up" on Pappy. At least, that, in so many words, was their first line supporters say, and we quote the line-up as they stated it.

Whoever is eliminated in the July 24 primaries, he and his forces will unite for the candidate who will oppose O'Daniel in the August primaries.

The basis for the fight on O'Daniel will be his past record, and it seems that this is principally the fact that he dared to stand up in the Senate of the United States on or about the second day he was in Washington and tell the chosen of the Lord what he thought about labor racketeering in war factories.

It was he, who with General MacArthur, stepped out to meet an enemy who outnumbered him ten, fifteen and even twenty to one, and outsmarted the smartest that Japan had for months. He is the guy who, even though he knew there was no hope of help arriving, and with food and water and all the necessary items of war running short, had the sense of humor to send word to Californians to "hold out for twenty more days and they would send a relief party."

THE STORY SO FAR: Buck Hart, the sheriff's brother, has been "drummed" about in the back. So has Jim Tetter. Both were supposed to rustle. The rustlers and small cattlemen don't like Calhoun Terry, manager of the Diamond Revere B ranch. He used to be a small rancher himself. Lee Hart, another brother of one of the killed men, believed to have taken a shot at Terry behind his back. Jeff Brand and Jack Turley, believed to be rustlers,

"The big ranches claim they can't keep going unless the stealing of stock is stopped. There's a lot of rustling, isn't there?" Ellen asked. "Yes," He added cynically: "Why make any bones about it?"

"So that the Diamond Revere B and the other big outfits really are fighting for their lives, in a way of speaking?"

"They are fighting for dividends to pay to absent owners, most of them. Who ought to own this country - rich men in Edinburgh and New York, or settlers right here on the ground?"

He looked at her, eyes hard and bleak. "We have guns too. I reckon on this war won't be one-sided. We'll find out who this guy is with the Winchester. One thing is sure. He's mighty familiar with the habits of the men he killed. How did he know where Pete would be staying last night?"

Ellen was finding it difficult to draw sharp lines between good and bad. Jeff Brand was an example. Her interest in him was growing.

Ellen spoke to Brand, including Terry in a general bow to a couple of others present.

Ellen stopped with Terry in front of the porch, coming swiftly to what was in her mind.

"Isn't there any way, Mr. Terry, of stopping all this killing that is being done?" she asked. "Does it have to go on, building up hate, murder and wrong existed, of course, yet there was a borderline of conflict where the differences ran. Ellen brought the more impersonal aspect of the difficulty to her father. The time was after supper when he was reading one of Horace Garvey's editorials in the Gazette.

"Garvey takes a strong line about these assassinations," he said. "He sure enough hits out right from the shoulder. Just what he should do. Tells the big ranches they can't sow wild wind without reaping the whirlwind."

Ellen was silent for a minute. A frown puckered her forehead. "Isn't there any way to stop this dreadful business?"

Lane Carey shook his grizzled head. "Not so easy, honey. The big cattle outfits want a wide-open free range for their stock. They don't want the land plowed up or the country along the creeks fenced. They have grabbed what they can, one way and another, by using their rights for hunting and pre-emption rights. But that isn't enough if they are going to run herds as big as they have been doing. So there you are. If the little ranches are to have the land, the big ranches can't have it for range. Cattle came here first. The large concerns feel the nesters and homesteaders are interlopers, and they want to come farther than the law allows to let them know it."

"You think the Diamond Revere B and the No. By Joe, with the other big outfits, are to blame. They made it mighty hard for the small fry to earn a living in these lean years when they quit emigrating. They had places and stock of their own. But there it is, another side to it. Rustlers have been very active, and I'm afraid a good many of the nesters have helped the rustlers to calves to build up their herds and to steers for food when they got hard up."

"So everybody is wrong and nobody is right," she said. "But all the talk is the other way. I heard that fellow Jack Turley say at the dance he was going to carry a rifle with him when he rode after this. The men he was talking with seemed to agree."

"I don't like the man," Ellen cut in, deflected from the main thought. "He has been hanging around me a little."

Ellen kissed her father good night, lit a lamp, and went upstairs to her room. It was some time before she could get to sleep. Into her mind came the thought of the man with ambushings and sudden death, and even after she slipped into sleep her dreams were wild and turbulent. She saw Jeff Brand and Calhoun Terry standing each other in the sage. A gun would crash, but before her flying feet could take her to the scene the protagonists had turned back. It was her father who was wounded, and Jack Turley was straddling his body rifle in hand.

Strangely enough, Ellen saw next day at Black Butte all the four men of whom she had dreamed. Terry came up on the stage, on his way back to the Diamond Revere B ranch from Denver. Brand and Turley were dropped into the post-office shortly after the stage had arrived. The mond Revere B ranch. He used to be a small rancher himself. Lee Hart, another brother of one of the killed men, believed to have taken a shot at Terry behind his back. Jeff Brand and Jack Turley, believed to be rustlers, ranch foreman was eating dinner at the restaurant, but after he had finished he strolled across to the post-office to watch while the fresh horses were being hitched.

He asked for his mail. Ellen made a pretense of looking, though both of them knew it was not the office to which his letters came.

"She came back to the window. 'No mail for you, Mr. Terry. . . . May I see you a minute . . . alone?'"

He was surprised at her request, but scarcely more than she was. For it had been born of a sudden urgent impulse.

"Of course," he replied. "Here?"

Her father came into the building. "At the house - if you don't mind." To Lane Carey she said: "Will you take care of the mail a little while, please?"

Carey glanced at her, at Terry, and back at his father. "Why, yes," he agreed. "He did not know what was back of this, and he did not quite like it."

Ellen spoke to Brand, including Terry in a general bow to a couple of others present. Ellen stopped with Terry in front of the porch, coming swiftly to what was in her mind.

"Isn't there any way, Mr. Terry, of stopping all this killing that is being done?" she asked. "Does it have to go on, building up hate, murder and wrong existed, of course, yet there was a borderline of conflict where the differences ran. Ellen brought the more impersonal aspect of the difficulty to her father. The time was after supper when he was reading one of Horace Garvey's editorials in the Gazette.

Muleshoe Library News

Among the new books received recently at the Muleshoe Public Library is: "PIED PIPER" By Nevil Shute

Set against the devastation that was France after Dunkirk, "Pied Piper" is the story of a strange journey. The characters are a young-year-old Englishman, a seamy and beautiful French girl, and a group of children of various nationalities.

When John Howard decides to end his holiday in the Jura mountains, knowing nothing about the crumbling of the western front, he agrees to escort two young English children across France and home to England. The journey starts - and ends. Therein lies the story.

"Pied Piper" is both gripping and tender. Quite as much as it is the story of John Howard, Nicole, and their little band, it is the story of the indomitable spirit of those men and women the world over who are struggling through the barriers of oppression - risking danger and death on the long, hard way toward freedom.

Trouble for Axis

SIXTEEN AUTOMOBILES represent the weight—24 tons—of the bombs being carried by the three R.A.F. Stirling bombers shown in this remarkable picture. These giant four-motor airplanes are on their way to blast German war plants in the mountainous British rear—the clock air offensive that has already smashed at the big Krupp, Skoda, and Thyssen works, and at Kiel, Lubeck, Rostock, and other supply bases important to the enemy.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From files of May 13, 1927)
Last Thursday morning, May 5, Miss Thelma Morris and Mr. Ivan Mardis were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Morris, Reverend Farmer of Morton, officiating.

C. R. Adams of the Stegall community was in town Monday looking after business. He recently moved here from Kanima, Okla.

Saturday night fire broke out on the Orval Fowler farm below town and burned his feed stacks, wagon and about $250 worth of fence posts, a feed grinder and some other tools.

O. K. Angley and wife are the parents of a fine girl, born May 11.

H. M. Thompson of West Camp was here Monday on business and came in to tell us of his misfortune Sunday. An oil burner brooder exploded during the height of the windstorm and burned up about 350 baby chicks, and damaged the brooder house. Part of the chicks were nearly ready for market.

S. P. Ramey and J. J. Willis were here the first of the week from Lubbock, giving the switchboard at the local telephone office a complete working over.

TEN YEARS AGO

(From files of May 12, 1932)
At the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, held Monday night, Mrs. Clay Beavers was unanimously elected president of the organization, succeeding Mrs. Fred Reynolds.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Calvert of Enochs last week.

Buford Butts and mother are visiting in Shattuck, Okla., this week.

Sheriff Jim Cook held a foreclosure sale of horses and farm tools at Enochs Monday.

Joe Robertson, a tennis ace from Oklahoma Lane, annexed the bi-district singles championship recently in straight sets.

In keeping with the general expense reduction being maintained throughout the state, the school board, Muleshoe Independent District, in meeting Monday night, applied the knife, cutting off a total sum of $1,500 in the salaries of teachers of this district for the coming year.

FIVE YEARS AGO

(From files of May 13, 1937)
A marriage license was issued Saturday to Miss Ruby Smith and L. A. Green, who reside a few miles west of town.

The largest land deal transpiring in Bailey county for some years past was consummated last week.

YOUR SCRAP METAL Is Needed Now for VICTORY!

A critical shortage of scrap metal now exists in United States War Industry. Unless more scrap is forthcoming at once, war production will slow down and months, even years will be added to this fearful battle.

It is of the utmost importance that every pound of scrap metal on your farm start moving now toward America's steel mills and foundries to make more war material.

To help you get your scrap moving, this store will cooperate in every way possible. Canvass your farm from the attic to the farthest fence corner. Gather every bit of old metal into a conveniently located pile and drop a post card to this store telling us approximately how many pounds you have collected, or—

Because there is no local scrap dealer, this store has set up a scrap depot to serve as a collection point for farm scrap in this area. Bring all your scrap metal here. You will be handed a receipt for it and as soon as it is sold to a scrap dealer you will receive full credit in cash or Defense Stamps.

Your card will be turned over to a scrap dealer who prepares scrap for the mills. His truck will be routed past your farm to pick up your scrap soon and get it started toward the fighting front.

This store collects this information and passes it along as a patriotic service without commission or profit of any kind. Our work in this campaign and the cost of this advertising is our contribution to victory.

It is your patriotic duty to collect your scrap and notify this store at once.

were the words most often reported to the Game Department following the opening of the Texas fishing season May 1.

Fish had had a favorable spawning season, according to the department's chief aquatic biologist, and the "planting" of Texas lakes and streams by the department's 10 hatcheries contributed at least in part to the favorable opening day.

Due to the many dams, both large and small, found in the state today, the flood waters that zipped down many streams did little to mar the hopes of fishermen, according to available reports. The Colorado River, which feeds the long stretch of Lower Colorado River lakes, was extremely muddy when its waters entered the upper reaches of huge Buchanan Lake, but it succeeded in making only the upper part of the lake turbid and relatively unfit for an opening day outing. In the middle and lower parts of the lake the water was clear and bass, crappie and other fish were yanked out by the score.

Other lakes in the series—Inks, Marble Falls, Marshall Ford and Lake Austin—also provided good catches. Two hopeful but, because of their calling, naturally skeptical newspaper men, hurried plugs in Marble Falls Lake and two of the several streams that feed it, and got their limits easily and quickly. For reasons known to no person bass were more partial to minnows in Lake Austin than to artificial lures.

Lake Waco anglers reported good fishing, as did those who cast in Lake Worth, Eagle Mountain Lake, Lake Bridgeport, and the more northwesterly Lake Kemp and Diversion Lake below it. Medina Lake near San Antonio was also heard from, some good catches being reported. Stream fishing was reported satisfactory except in flood areas.

Good fishing is expected in Possum Kingdom Lake in Palo Pinto, Stephens and Young counties when the season opens on that body of water June 1. Anglers now are catching bass and crappie below the dam with ease, according to reports.

RAY GRIFFITHS ELEVATOR

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

REMINDING through my desk the other day, I came across some snapshots of friends of mine made back in 1933.

If you don't think time flies... if you don't think this world ever changes... you ought to look at the women's hats and dresses in those pictures taken 9 years ago! Wow!

It gave me quite a start... and then it set me to thinking... and remember! Lots of things sure happened in 1933. A new administration in Washington... the turning point of the depression... and the coming of Repeal.

I remember the re-legalization of beer. It came before Repeal, when Congress amended the old Volstead Act to allow legal sale of "3.2" beer.

What talk and arguments they had in those days! One argument I remember well... was that beer would do a lot to help bring back prosperity. I wondered at the time whether that argument could be proved.
