THINGS IN GENERAL

To be thankful, or appreciative, for favors and courtesies extended us is a trait we all have to a certain degree. But few there are, during recent years, who take the time or the trouble to express themselves on the subject, even if the favor is large.

Today, if we extend the helping hand to a friend or neighbor, we take it for granted that he appreciates it, and the beneficiary—who is entitled to the same attitude—seldom strains his vocal cords in expressing appreciation beyond a hurried or mumbled "thank you," which is insufficient that it might be taken for anything.

Conditions and customs change, of course, but we regret the near-passing of a grand old tradition. It is true that a bunch of thanks cannot be traded for a new pair of shoes for the baby. Neither will the doctor accept them for services rendered. But the pleasure derived from such practice is almost as satisfying as a case of down-east, cotton patch religion.

One of the secrets of Harley Sadler's success in the show business in West Texas is the fact that he never forgets to express his thanks to those citizens or firms in each town for any and all favors shown him. Some time during each show, Harley will call them by name, presenting them individually, with a verbal bouquet which is both beautiful and lasting. The expense for such bouquets is small but the dividends are good. We venture to say that there are few men in West Texas with more real friends than Harley Sadler.

As for the home town weekly newspaper, to be publicly—or otherwise—thanked for its efforts in behalf of the community or some individual, is the occasion for great rejoicing among the workers in the office. Not that

Your attic, basement or backyard may be a treasure trove. Uncle Sam needs rubber and scrap to build the weapons of war. Do your part by cleaning up and cleaning out! Trash to you may be tanks to the army.

Here's How Your Junk Can Help

- An old flatiron will furnish enough iron for four hand grenades.
- 50 feet of old garden hose will furnish enough rubber for four army raincoats.
- Four pairs of old overshoes will furnish the rubber for a pair of army galoshes.
- One old tire will furnish enough rubber for eight army gas masks.

... And in the Kitchen—Waste Fats are Vital too

To help relieve shortage of fats and oils (needed for aviation and other purposes) save pan and broiler drippings and deep fats after you've gotten the cooking good from them. Strain into a tin can that is spotlessly clean. Keep in refrigerator or cool dark place until you have collected a pound or more. Then sell to your nearest meat dealer.

West Texas Gas Co.

the home town papers are whining to be thanked for every service they render their communities, but it is a noticeable fact that few are the times when they are the recipients of anything other than wise cracks by the town wit.

And thus it is that we are grateful for any expression of gratitude on the part of the public, no matter how small. But there are a few individuals who never forget such insignificant, yet valuable things, and so, this week, we enter on our private scroll of honor, the name of Medora Field, author, of Atlanta, Georgia, whose letter of appreciation to us will never be forgotten.

Authors, of course, are busy people, and it takes time to write letters. Yet it is often the little things which pay off, either in financial reward or peace of mind in the evening of life.

One man who should be publicly thanked—but who will likely be cussed and ridiculed—is Supt. of Schools W. B. Irvin, of Lubbock. In a talk before a meeting of the faculty of the Lubbock schools last week, he stated some facts which fit every town and village in this state. So far as we have been able to find out, Mr. Irvin is the first to exhibit sufficient nerve, brass, or whatever it takes, to get up and express his honest opinion on the present day method of education. In part, he said:

"The movement which developed about 10 years ago brought with it the theory that teachers should sit back and let children develop themselves and should not control the child. These whisperings were heard: 'Let Johnny alone; he'll develop'... 'Don't correct him; you'll ruin his personality'... 'He'll learn mathematics, he'll learn to write, he'll learn to spell; just let him alone.'"

"There has been too much coddling of students. We have had too much pussy-footing. Our teachers have been afraid they were going to make some papa and mama mad."

"Our citizens, our whole nation are crying out for discipline. Why not give it to them in the schools?"

"I think we have the weakest high school students now that we have ever had, not only in our school, but everywhere in the United States."

"Students can't spell because they have not spelled. They can't read and understand because they have not read and understood. They cannot compose because they have not composed. They are hard to control because they have not been controlled."

Supt. Irvin is a competent school man and knows what he is talking about. There are even a few parents who know that he is right, but whether they will heed the warning and demand that his advice be followed remains to be seen.

But regardless of the system of education which may be in vogue, each town and village will always have at least three or four exceptional minds who have waded, hip deep, through the agony of learning, outdistancing all others, to reach that pinnacle of knowledge seldom attained by ordinary mortals. A mere hint at inquiry will bring the "reluctant" admission that they are smart." In fact, they have gathered unto themselves the combined wisdom of Noah, Solomon and Lamech, and will, on the slightest provocation, contribute a short three-hour lecture on the Mosaic Book of the Cabala, or give a none too lucid translation of the Oracles of Delphi.

They strut through life like the Seven Pillars of Wisdom, occasionally meeting, casualistically, to butt heads on some ancient and unpurged volume of slash which meant little to the world either in the past or present. Most of them have been slightly contaminated with a smattering of Shakespeare, but will gladly enlighten you on Aristotle, Caesar or Cicero. They try to impress the villagers by talking glibly, though ignorantly, on the works of Rembrandt or Tolstoy or Da Vinci, and wind up by making a general ass of themselves, and the local gentry usually look upon them as suffering from a case of cephalic petrification—or worse. Personally, we'll take the old country boy, who has been inoculated with a double dose of common sense, and who, invariably, ends his letters with a "hoping you are the same."

COOPER-DENNIS WEDDING EVENT OF OCTOBER 2

PUBLIC MILEAGE SNATCHER NO. 1 is not the thief who puts one car out of commission by stealing a tire.

Speed! That's the name of the Nation's tire thief. Speed robs the heavy-footed driver of one-third to one-half of the essential mileage remaining in his irreplaceable tires.

Speed hastens the day when cars must be laid up because rubber is lacking... bringing almost fantastic dislocations in our economic life and in our ability to hold war production at maximum.

Remember that tires last only half as long as 55 miles an hour as at 35!

So today... right now, as you read this message... make a solemn promise to yourself: "Until we win the war, I will never drive over 35."

Say it again, and let the words sink in: "Until we win the war, I will never drive over 35."

To help keep your car from becoming a "orphan", stop at the Orange and Black 66 Sign. That is where you get Phillips 66 Poly Gas, Jax for pop and mileage, and Phillips 66 Motor Oil 100% paraffin base.

And that is where the Phillips 66 Service Maat ready with a variety of services which make tires longer and go farther. He checks inflation, inspects and corrects cuts and bruises. Rotates tires to wheel to wheel. He helps you:

Check Your Lighting For The Duration

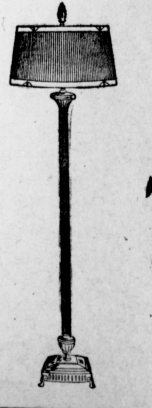

War priorities have made it necessary for floor lamp manufacturing companies to substitute materials for the metal they heretofore used in the manufacture of I.E.S. floor lamps. We were fortunate in securing a limited number of ALL METAL I.E.S. FLOOR LAMPS before war priorities took effect.

Surveys reveal that every home should have several more floor lamps for proper lighting than they now have. Check your home and see that you have plenty of I.E.S. floor lamps to give you proper light for the duration.

Take advantage of the opportunity now offered you on these 1942 model all metal I.E.S. floor lamps.

Why your own car's Zero Hour comes at 00 miles an hour

ON THE OFFENSIVE you've got to be on the instant. Eager fighters, frisky jeeps, and all that's going along, must get going together—exactly at Zero Hour. But on the home front these brisk mornings, will your own precious car and its engine lubrication get going together—without deadly oiling delay? You can be sure as shootin', with your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by Conoco Nth motor oil... oil that OIL-PLATES!

Even while the speedometer snoozes at 00 miles an hour—and you're still snug in your "kivers"—the chilly insides of your OIL-PLATED engine will already be coated by lubricant. Protective OIL-PLATING is really sort of "magnetized" to piston rings, bearings, and straight up the cylinders, by Conoco Nth oil's strong "power of attraction"—created by an added modern synthetic. This keeps the OIL-PLATING from all draining down to the crankcase overnight—over week-ends—and longer.

No complete lack of lubrication then, at 00 miles an hour—starting up cold. No long needless risk till cold oil comes inching along through passages as slim as spaghetti.

You're off safely, because OIL-PLATING safely stays on—ready to lubricate before any oil can circulate.

This season don't merely change oil. It's fully as simple and inexpensive to change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Just change to patented Conoco Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Co.

JOIN FREE Elect yourself to the ONCE-A-WEEK CLUB at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Choose your own regular day to drive in and have him check your tires, oil, radiator and battery. His systematic expert attention means trouble-prevention. He'll report to you in advance on lubrication and anything that he finds you need for the duration of your car!

Witness my hand, this 21st day of September, 1942.

Canning Sugar Amount Varies In Most Cases

Canning sugar allowable under present regulations varies in amount according to the actual canning done by a family unit, its present supply and its reasonable needs not set at a fixed amount. Ed Johnson, chairman of the Bailey County War Price and Rationing Board, explained today.

"There has been a lot of confusion among some householders on this point," Mr. Johnson explained, "because the boards in some counties have been more strict than others."

"The State OPA office recommended on June 16 that canning sugar be limited to six pounds per person yearly in urban or city areas, and to nine pounds per person in rural areas which is the national canning average."

"However, the State OPA office made it clear that this was not a hard and fast limit on the quantity of canning sugar allowable. It still is within the discretion of the local board to increase a canning sugar allowance up to one pound of sugar for each four quarts of finished fruit.

"All applications for the 6 and 9 pounds national average or less will be handled at the time the application is made. Applications in excess of this national average will be referred to the local board to be considered at its next meeting."

"Of course, we have to consider each application on an individual basis, in the light of the number of quarts of fruit a family canned last year, how much it has on hand now, and the amount of fruit available to it this year which it expects to can. The size of a family is another factor."

"We realize that the canning sugar regulation imposes a great responsibility to administer. It is flexible. We must administer the regulation in a manner that will conserve the available fruit supply, and at the same time, carry out the objectives of the sugar rationing program."

"For this reason, he said, the local board will ask for a strict account of the use of the sugar, and its misuse for preserving, or for any other purpose besides canning constitutes a violation of federal rationing regulations."

Mr. Johnson added that home canning contributes to the war effort, because it conserves fruit that otherwise might be wasted. It also supplements commercial supplies," he said, "and cuts down the burden on commercial canning and transportation facilities which are already taxed beyond their capacity."

From 1870 to 1900 the population of Texas increased 273 percent, and main line railway tracks increased from 711 miles to 9,867.

Income taxes may be unpleasant but we know of no other tax that we hope to pay in larger amounts. The achievements that adorn human progress are not the rewards of those who did not plan.

There was a time when I could get around and catch up with my work too. Now I scarcely find time to get around.

DESCENDANT OF COMMODORE PERRY—Here is one descendant of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, hero of the Battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812, who believes ships of the air will be the deciding factor in America's victory in this war. He is Private Leslie Burton Perry, of Barton, N. Y., recently graduated as an airplane mechanic at Keefer Field Army Air Forces School, Biloxi, Miss.

"I am 29 years old," said Private Perry, "the same age as the Commodore when he won the Battle of Lake Erie September 10, 1813, but I like the planes and can contribute most as an air mechanic. Uncle Sam needs trained men for this service right now and I should like to see more fellows enlist."

Habit Is Killing A Lot Of People At Crossings

AUSTIN, Tex. — Habit is killing a lot of Texas people.

A survey by State Police statisticians showed recently that accidents involving trains and motor vehicles increased from 2.63 percent of the total in the first eight months of 1941 to 4.89 percent of the total in the same period last year. This was an increase of 86 percent.

And why were 58 persons thus killed in the last eight months? It's because the victims—mostly farmers, truck drivers and tradesmen—have failed to realize that train schedules aren't what they used to be. They're people who used to know when the trains ran, and they never bothered to look out for a train unless one was due. But now troop and supply trains come whizzing by at all hours, and these people are being hit and killed by trains that weren't supposed to be there—according to their subconscious reckonings.

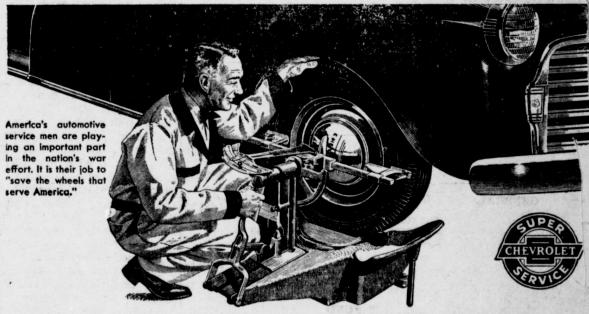

All 44 of the drivers were men, 40 of them lived in rural areas; and 38 lived near the scene of their particular accident. And 26 of the collisions occurred on country roads or in towns of less than 2,500 population.

- Automobiles and trucks form the sole practicable means of transportation for war workers and war materials in many communities throughout America.
- In some sections, 78% to 100% of the workers drive by automobile to vital war plants.
- 2,314 U. S. cities, with a population of 12,524,000, depend on private cars for transportation;
- 54,000 communities depend entirely on motor vehicles.
- Six out of every ten farms use car or more; 67% of farm mileage is necessarily driving.
- More than 65.2% of all plants reporting in Michigan typical war production state depend on trucks to haul their incoming outgoing freight.
- Trucks haul nearly 100% of milk supply of most large cities and 58% of all livestock market in the U. S.
- Trucks are the sole transportation system serving our 54,000 communities not reached by railroad.

Madagascar Today

A BRITISH "TOMMY" stands guard at Madagascar's Diego Suarez naval base, while a small Malagasy looks on with approval. Coveted by the Japanese because of its strategic location on United Nations supply lanes through the Indian Ocean, Madagascar was occupied by British troops last month. President Roosevelt has pledged that the island will be held in trust for France. This photograph, which was flown to Cairo then cabled to London and New York, is one of the first pictures of the occupation to reach the U. S. The scene typified the friendly welcome which the natives gave the British.

Weather Data May Be Sent Now By Telephone

Before the days of radio, rural telephone lines were used extensively to get weather forecasts out into the country, but with the war-time ban on general forecasting by radio, the Weather Bureau is encouraging dispatch of weather information by telephone and other non-radio channels.

H. H. Williamson, director of the A. and M. College Extension Service, points out that rural families especially need to know about forecasts of severe weather conditions potentially dangerous to lives, property, crops and damage.

Recent experience during and following a hurricane which struck the Texas coast and swept on toward San Antonio, revealed that the neighborhood leader system which was set up five months ago can function to keep in contact with farm families when all other lines of communication are destroyed.

Mrs. Minnie Solomon was in Muleshoe Tuesday, visiting old friends. She has been in California for the past several weeks, but is now living in Lubbock.

Staff Sgt. Ira Thomas left Monday for Alabama, after spending a 15-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thomas.

Sue Bradley and Miss Sally Haney spent the weekend in Portales visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bayless and daughter, Clota Nell, were Lubbock visitors Friday.

While we certainly hope there won't be any more such disasters, it's comforting to know that farm people can be reached with weather warnings and other emergency information under conditions similar to the devastation of war," Director Williamson said.

Paper patterns will be governed by the same restrictions imposed by the War Production Board on ready-to-wear non-woolen garments. Wool restrictions will not apply because manufacturers naturally do not know whether their patterns will be used for wool, rayon or cotton.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO (From files of Oct., 1927) A. C. Gaede is having a granary constructed on his farm this week.

City officials have let the contract to Smallin Bros. for the construction of a fire station and city secretary's office. The building is now under construction.

A deal was made the first of the month whereby the Muleshoe Motor Company, under the management of R. B. Jones, goes to the management of Neil Rockey and L. M. Carmichael of Portales, N. M.

No Place For Loafers In The Poultry Flock

There's no place for loafers in the poultry flock in these days, says George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the A. and M. College Extension Service. The loafer can't conceal herself from an owner who knows the signs. Before finishing the laying year, she looks slick, with glossy, oily feathers. On the other hand the dry and frayed laying clothes of the hard-working, well-fed hen are easily identified. The oil and fats from her feed went into egg yolks. The loafer stopped laying and made feathers. Her place is in the stew pot.

Another way to test is to examine the peak and shanks. If the hen belongs to one of the common yellow skin varieties and is a layer, the color will be faded or bleached out, and the comb will be full of blood, red and waxy. If she's a loafer it will be pale and shriveled. The skin of a layer is soft textured like a glove. A non-layer has a hard, dry skin which is relatively tight. Cull the loafers and save the best layers for breeding stock, McCarthy says. Next year their daughters will help you produce more Food-for-Victory.

THIS BUSINESS OF Living
BY SUSAN THAYER

The frost came last night and this morning the tomato plants were limp and black against the ground. I called the children and together we gathered all the green fruit still hanging to the vines. Later on I spent hours getting them ready for the pickling kettle. Some I cut in slices. Others I chopped. Now two great iron pots are bubbling thickly on the stove, sending out the fragrance of cloves and vinegar and onion, sharpened by the touch of basil and tarragon from my herb garden.

It's a rich, enticing smell, speaking of autumn and home and plenty—and of the peace that is gone from the world. It takes me back to the days of my childhood when all of the women along this street made as many preserves and jellies and pickles as they could manage at this season of the year in order to have variety and interest in winter meals.

That was a long time ago. For years now it's hardly been worth while to do much home canning and preserving. Our food industry, with its mass production methods, has given us old-fashioned delicacies at lower cost than we could produce them ourselves. So many of us had tucked the mason jars back in some dark corner of the cellar and forgotten that there were dozens of jelly glasses on the shelves back of the spider webs.

But this year the food industry is taxed to the limit to produce adequate rations for the "best-fed army in the world" and at the same time send millions of pounds of food supplies to our allies overseas. This year there is going to be a shortage for home use of such staples as canned fruits and juices and tomatoes. So housewives like you and me are cooperating with the food industry to meet the situation. We are rolling up our sleeves and going to work as our mothers and grandmothers did before us and "putting up" all of the largess from our gardens and orchards.

But, while we may go back to this old-fashioned work, we need never go back to the drudgery and inconveniences our grandmothers contended with. Our manufacturers, who must now concentrate all of their efforts on war work, have already provided us with stoves and water systems and refrigerators that would have been unbelievable luxuries to our ancestors. So no matter how much more kitchen work we must do, it will be comparatively easy.

When the war is over, the food industry will once more work for the homes of the nation. Until then, let's be thankful that we can all go back to the homely, satisfying work of preparing good things to eat for those we love.

Pantry Saboteurs May Be Outwitted

Texas homemakers likely won't be able to catch spies in their own kitchens like Mrs. Miniver of the movies, but they can be on the alert to outwit saboteurs in the pantry.

These saboteurs include insects, mice, mold and dampness, according to Winifred Jones, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service. Here are ways she suggests for storing staple foods:

Sugar and spices should be kept in clean, tight containers. "When you open your cupboard door and get a spicy whiff of cinnamon or cloves, you've been caught off guard," the specialist says. "You are losing fine flavor along with that fragrance on the kitchen air."

The best place to store flour is in a tight can, jar or bin which will keep out light as well as moisture, mice, bugs, and dust. In humid climates, bread will stay fresh longer and keep from molding if it is wrapped in moisture proof paper and put in the refrigerator. In drier climates it can be put in a ventilated box. The specialist advises scalding, airing, and sunning cake and bread boxes often. Crackers and crisp cookies should be stored by themselves in clean, air-tight tins or boxes. They get soft if they are kept with bread or cake.

Poof canned in glass needs to be protected from heat and light for heat destroys food value, and light destroys food value and vitamin C. Tinned goods should be kept dry to prevent rusting. "Put dried fruits and vegetables in tight, moisture-proof containers and store them in a cool dark place," Miss Jones suggests.

Out in the Middle West is a bond salesman who has been far from making a fortune there, while his girl has a nice job in a department store, and does very well. One night recently, while they were walking home, he seemed to have something on his mind.

"Listen, honey," he said. "I want to—er—that is—I—would you—er would you marry me?"

"Sure," she rejoined instantly. "For a minute there you had me worried—I thought you wanted to borrow money."

There was either oil production or active leasing and drilling in all but three counties in Texas in 1940.

Texas' annual cheese production of over 20,000,000 pounds is valued at more than $2,000,000.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Our church is buying 100 new song books on a plan which gives each member an opportunity to buy one or more books. The congregation responded in a fine way to the plan last Sunday morning. Fifty-six new books have been pledged and $23.00 already turned in. The price of one book is sixty cents. Anyone who has not bought a book, but wishes to do so, is asked to see one of the committee - Mrs. Clarence Goins, Mrs. Jim Cook, and Mrs. Byron Griffiths.

The Baptists of Bailey county will meet at our church for their monthly workers' conference on Tuesday, October 27. Let us keep that date in mind and plan for a good day.

We are planning to organize our Training Union in the near future. Our people are to be thinking and praying about the training service of our church.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning on the subject, "Main taining the Church Through Visitation and Recreational Activities." The time of our Sunday school has been changed from 9:45 to 10:00 a. m.
