Our Composers

GEORG FRIEDRICH HANDEL 1685 to 1759

Unlike most composers, Handel did not turn to music as a means of livelihood. On the contrary, he was wealthy because his father was a surgeon and he wanted his son to become a lawyer. His mother was a minister's daughter. He turned to music instead of being a lawyer because he had the talent for it and he loved music very much.

Handel was born in Halle, Germany in 1685. His family name was originally pronounced Hayndel but was changed to Handel when he went to England.

At the age of 11, he played the clavichord, organ, violin, and oboe. At the age of 12, his father died thus leaving only him to support his mother. At the age of 17 he became an organist in the cathedral in Halle. Everyone marveled at his playing. Like Bach, he paid a visit to Buxtehude, the great organist in Lubeck.

His restless spirit caused him to want to travel. He went to Italy, where he wrote some of his operas. He was loved by all, especially by the musicians. He stayed there only 3 years.

In 1721, there were political disputes, resulting in riots and fighting. For one of the companies, as they were called in those days, he composed 14 operas only to keep his reputation.

The last public appearance he made, was only 8 days before his death at the famous Covent Garden, the musical center of London. This was April 6, 1759. Upon this occasion, he directed a performance of his oratorio, "The Messiah."

Handel was unlike Bach in his compositions because of his being the religious type, while Handel's compositions showed the adventure that was in the heart of the composer. Bach and Handel were born in the same year in German cities but there was a difference in the music ideas. Handel composed some religious music but they were not hymns but they were oratorios.

National HD Club Week Is Observed

COLLEGE STATION—National Home Demonstration Week will be observed throughout the United States and in the territories from May 5 to 12. But the Texas observance is expected to differ considerably from those in the other states.

In addition to receiving public acclaim, club women and 4-H Club girls will work actively in a program to help rebuild war wrecked homes in other parts of the world. Miss Maurine Hearn, who is in charge of the home demonstration program for the A. and M. College Extension Service, says she is asking club women and girls to join the Texas home demonstration staff in a gift of gratitude for "the things that home demonstration club work has brought to them."

Each women's and girls' club in the state is being asked to give one or more of several kinds of gifts either to their fellow club members in the Philippines or to families in Europe and the Far East.

Purpose of the nation wide observance is to focus attention on the contribution of the home and family toward progress and world peace. The theme for the week will be "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

Farmers Urged To Lend Wheat To Government

Bailey County farmers who have 1946 wheat on their farms are urged to lend it to the government now and collect any time that want to until March 31, 1947. C. S. Sullivan, chairman of the county ACA committee, reports.

The county ACA office has a supply of forms for the use of producers and warehousemen in making the sale agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Wheat eligible for purchase is wheat which would have been eligible for CCC loans under the 1945 program. On or after the date of delivery, the seller may name the date on which he wishes the purchase price to be determined, but he must submit his request as to purchase date in writing. If no such request is submitted, he will get the market price as of March 31, 1947. The offer to purchase under this plan will remain open until July 1, 1946.

Purpose of the so-called "wheat Certificate Plan" is to bring out wheat which is stored on farms awaiting higher prices. Sullivan said, since the government has been unable to meet its full quota of wheat for shipment to famine areas.

Charlie Musson of Manitou, Colorado, was here visiting over the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Musson. He is a government engineer.

Information For Veterans

Q. How does a veteran make application for a course of education or training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (GI bill of rights)?

A. By filing an application on Veterans Administration Form 1950, with the Regional office nearest his location or through the approved educational or training institution which he has selected.

Q. Upon what condition is a disabled veteran eligible for vocational rehabilitation under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944?

A. The disabled veteran must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and must have a disability incurred in or aggravated by active service for which pension is payable or would be but for the receipt of retirement pay, under the laws administered by the Veterans Administration and must be in need of vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap caused by such disability.

Q. Are all veterans entitled to education or training under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944?

A. Yes. All veterans, whether disabled or not, who were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and who have served 90 days or more in the armed forces, are entitled to education and training under this act.

Q. Who may borrow money under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944?

A. Any veteran who was in active service after September 16, 1940, and before the end of the war was established by act of Congress, who served at least 90 days or was discharged for disability incurred in line of duty and who was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. If eligible he should apply through his local financial banking institution.

Sunday Shriner's Hospitals Day

Crippled children throughout North America will dramatically receive assurance of all possible aid for resuscitation on National observance of Shriner's Hospitals for Crippled Children Day, Sunday, April 28. It was announced last night by H. H. Lovestern, potentiate of Khiva Temple.

General Douglas MacArthur has been named as honorary chairman of this year's celebration by William H. Woodfield, Jr., Imperial Potentate, and serving with General MacArthur will be General Henry H. Arnold, Edgar Guest, General James H. Doolittle, J. Edgar Hoover, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, and Jack Warner, of Warner Bros. Studio in Hollywood, and all officers of the Imperial Divan and the Hospital trustees.

Throughout the United States, Canada and Honolulu, Potentate Aide J. S. Glasscock, of Muleshoe, said, the 159 Shrine Temples with a membership of 500,000, will stage on April 28 special activities in behalf of all crippled children, to assure them, especially those whose families cannot afford top medical attention, that there is a chance for many of them to walk again.

Colorful exercises are being planned in the 15 cities in North America in which Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children are located. These cities are: San Francisco, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Honolulu, Greenville, S. C., Lexington, Ky., Portland, Ore., Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., Montreal and Winnipeg in Canada, Salt Lake City, Spokane, Wash., Chicago, Shreveport, La., and St. Louis.

MULESHOE NEGRO COUPLE FACE PASHANDLE CHARGE

A Negro man and Negro woman, who gave their home addresses as Muleshoe, were being detained Tuesday in the Carson county jail at Panhandle on charges of negligent homicide and failure to stop and render aid in connection with the death Saturday night of Mrs. Margaret McVea, of Amarillo. The two, who gave their names as Jackson Curtis and his wife, Hattie B. Curtis, were employed on a farm near White Deer.

Mrs. McVea was killed instantly when she was struck by a vehicle on the highway a mile south of White Deer. She had left the bus at White Deer and was walking to the farm of a friend.

PRODUCTION MOVES AHEAD

From the quarterly report of John W. Snyder, director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, dated April 1, we learn:

Total civilian production now stands at the highest level ever reached by the nation, in war or in peace; an annual rate of more than $150 billion.

Non-agricultural employment is higher now than before V-J Day; total employment, exclusive of those employed on farms, was 44,700,000 in February.

Barring serious work stoppages, production should rise rapidly during the second quarter of 1946, and jobs should be available for most of the added workers.

The prospect for increased output has been greatly improved by the collective bargaining agreements reached in many industries during the first quarter of the year and the special steps that have been taken to put price policy on a flexible basis and remove or prevent bottlenecks in production and distribution.

The supply of goods and services available to consumers, therefore, should continue to increase during the coming quarter. Exports will continue, construction activity will increase, and so in all probability will business purchases of equipment of goods for inventory.

It is quite possible that the increase in civilian output may more than offset reductions in Federal payrolls and purchases, and result in a total national output several billion dollars above the level of the quarter just ended.

The reduction in the Federal deficit is aiding in the campaign against inflationary pressures. The deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1946, will be several billion dollars less than was anticipated when the President delivered his budget message.

The upward pressure against price ceilings has not relaxed. During the first quarter of 1946 food and commodity prices continued to inch higher. Huge deferred demands, added to normal demands, have created a bigger market than ever before. These include the needs of individuals who had to postpone buying essentials during the war and business needs for plant and equipment. With the removal of war time restrictions and motives for "doing without", demand has jumped to a new high. Overseas there are commercial markets and enormous requirements for relief and rehabilitation supplies.

At the year's end business held $80 billion in liquid assets, and individuals $145 billion, a total of $225 billion in liquid assets, currency, demand deposits, time deposits and government securities. This compares with the total liquid assets held by business and individuals of $65 billion at the end of 1939, and of $81 billion at the end of 1941, and is the largest reserve ever accumulated in this country.

Letters From Our Readers

Readers of the Journal will be interested in the following letter from Captain Marshall Formby, former State Senator of this district. It is a personal letter but we are sure he will not mind our publishing it.

Austin, Texas, April 8, 1946
Dear Milton (that's ye editor):

I hear you are running the Journal. Glad to hear you are a publisher again. I'll be up to borrow some money soon. I am here at the university doing some work in journalism, before going back to work. I got out of the army on Jan. 30, and am still on terminal leave.

Milt, I wish you would run this mat of Senator Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur who is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor this summer. He is 38, married, the father of two children and has served 12 years in the Senate. He was in Europe in the Army almost two years. I ran into him in London

Farmers are your neighbors - They want you to know that -

Cooperatives

"As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy".
—Abraham Lincoln

build DEMOCRACY

"of the people, by the people, for the people"

THE Declaration of Independence declared "all men are equal". Abraham Lincoln further defined our democracy as "government of the people, by the people, for the people."

Your neighbors, the farmers, have taken the Declaration and Lincoln's definition literally. They have based their cooperative enterprise on those principles of American government.

Farmers stand on equal terms in their co-ops.

Each has a voice and a vote in its affairs. Each shares in the cooperative savings in proportion to the amount of his patronage.

Farmers have seen to it that no "Mr. Moneybags" holds a controlling interest by owning a majority of the stock. One man, one vote is the rule.

If it is true that deeds are better than words, then the farmers have built real democracy through cooperative enterprise. And, success of farmers' co-ops has built renewed faith in democratic processes. Let's keep that faith.

Bolster our democracy by backing the farmers' co-ops in your community.

RIBBLE'S RIPPLES

Speaking of the Bible, why should the Bible be taken as the supreme authority? We are told the Bible leads all books in the sales reports. It is still the world's best seller. There must be a reason. Supreme, says Mr. Webster, means the state of quality of being highest in authority; highest in power. This is what is meant by supremacy of the Bible.

Our Savior said: "Heaven and earth shall pass away; but my words shall not pass." Mk. 13:31. The words of Jesus and their prophetic coming, and their divinely inspired histories make up the bulk of the Bible. Without the things related to Jesus there could be no Bible. Every effort has been made by men through the ages to destroy the Bible but they have signally failed. To fight against the Bible is to fight against God. "The word of the Lord endures forever," says Peter. And from the ashes of burned Bibles seeds of hundreds of others sprang up.

If God's word is supreme, then out of its teaching must come the reason for doing all we do religiously. Paul tells Timothy, "all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works." 2 Tim. 3:16-17. There appears no need for creeds, disciplines, confessions of faith, if we accept the word of God as supreme.

How convenient to have all we need religiously in one handy volume. How simple to have this supreme standard to go by. If we hear a doctrine preached that can not be read in the Bible, we should cast it aside. Reckless sneers may be made about "being a thus saith the Lord" sort of folk, but there is religious safety NOWHERE ELSE. "Prove all things, hold fast to the good" is still good advice. Our Savior warned of those who teach "for doctrines the commandments of men." They worship in vain who do such. Matt. 15:9.

Great men have always realized the greatness of the Bible. With its greatness its supremacy as well. Thomas Jefferson is quoted as saying, "I always have said, and always will say, that the studious perusal of the sacred volume will make better citizens, better fathers and better husbands." The Bible has led men to leave native shores and to go into the wilderness. Men have lived for it, and men have died by it and for it. God himself declared the superiority and supremacy of his word when he said, premise of his word when he said, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord, for as the heavens are higher than the earth so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isa. 55:8-9.

We plead that you accept the Bible as supreme; live by it, and it alone. Prove all things you practice religiously and see if you can find a "thus saith the Lord" for it. If you can't, why not cling tenaciously to the Bible? If you obey this supreme book you can truly look "from the cross to the crown."

George Mahon Visits In District
 Congressman George Mahon has been spending the week in his district, the House of Representatives having taken a ten-day recess. Mahon plans to be back in Washington April 29 to continue hearings on a pending House appropriations bill before a sub-committee of which he is chairman. The House itself will reconvene on April 30.

Mahon will report his findings to the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Branham of Pampa were here over the week end visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Glaze.

Behind Your Bonds Lies the Might of America

BONANZA FARMS
 Super-sized farms of spring wheat and winter rye have afforded profits from North Dakotas purchased War Bonds and will buy Victory Bonds. Farms, once the size of towns or three townships, today average 463 acres as against the national average of 154.8 acres. They will afford jobs and assets to help guarantee the bonds.

TERRITORY

 We're working day and night on our expansion program to hurry efficient electric service to your home and farm.
 When this program (begun nearly two years ago) is completed, it will mean more electric service to more homes and farms at a lower cost than ever. Just think of the conveniences and joy you will get out of electric refrigeration, electric cooking, electric cooling and a score of other electrical labor saving devices.
 Yes, we're on our way to bring better living to you—Electrically.

What is your GUESS?
on our profits...
 SOMETIMES, although an idea is wrong, it does no harm. Like the idea that a square jaw is the sign of will power. That winters aren't as severe as they are used to be, or that red hair denotes quick temper.
 But there are other wrong ideas, which are definitely harmful to public confidence in and understanding of industry. One such idea is the current "guessing" about profits made by large business organizations.
 Many people are apt to grossly exaggerate the money made by business. So Opinion Research Corporation (an independent organization) made a survey to learn just what the public thinks about profits. Compare these guesses and yours with the International Harvester profit figures given below.
 rate of profit in normal times. Many large businesses, including ourselves, would consider it a banner year if we could reach this figure. Our average profit for the last ten years—four war and six peace—was 6.43%—more than a third less than what the public considers fair.
 All these figures show that our profits are not high. As a matter of fact, the entire farm machinery industry is a low profit industry. In 1944, the Federal Trade Commission published a list of 76 industries ranked in order of their ratio of profits to sales. The farm machinery industry was 57th on the list.
What About Current I H Prices?
 When the War ended and we planned our peace-time production, we had hoped to be able to serve our farmer customers at the same level which has held since 1942, regardless of war-time increases in costs of wages and materials up to that time. But recent developments have forced a change in our plans.
 Wages and materials consume nearly all of every dollar Harvester takes in from sales. A Government board has recommended and the Company has agreed to pay a general wage increase of 18 cents per hour for Harvester factory employees. The Government has also allowed price increases on raw materials which we purchase in large quantities. Steel has had an average increase of 3.2%.

 There has been no general increase in our prices since they were frozen by the Government early in 1942.
 So our situation today is that what we BUY costs us 1946 prices. We will be paying average hourly wages 56% above 1941. For what we SELL we get only 1942 prices. This condition cannot long be met out of our present low rate of profit.
Future Prices on I H Products
 It is plain that price relief will be needed to meet the increased wage and material costs which we must carry.
 We regret this necessity. We prefer to lower prices, when possible, rather than raise them and we know our customers prefer to have us do that. We had hoped to be able to "hold the line" at least.
 But we do not see how we can avoid operating at a loss if our prices continue to remain at their present frozen levels. We will NOT "cut corners" on any of our products, because QUALITY IS THE FOUNDATION OF OUR BUSINESS.
 Our customers can be certain that we will seek no more than a moderate profit, both because of our policies and because we have approximately 300 competitors fighting us vigorously for your business. Our request for price relief will be no more than is necessary to insure continued service for our customers, continued work for our employees, and a reasonable return for our stockholders.

full transformation of the material into the spiritual. It is the sudden metamorphosis of the corruptible into that which is incorruptible; a transition of the now into the then. One may be slowly dying for a half dozen years; but death itself is only the last instant. It is the billionth twinkle of duration, whose infinitesimal existence is absolutely unmeasurable by the mechanics of time and perhaps unnoticed by the geometry of eternity. Yet in that ultra-incomprehensible brief space which no human instrument is capable of detecting, life is eliminated and death superimposed upon the body.

However, it has touched the soul, that thinking principal of humanity which is endowed with consciousness and bears the impress of immutability. It has only changed its location of activity, transformed its relationship and enlarged its realms of knowledge. Untold secrets of the universe are immediately revealed, space loses its boundary lines and time becomes an inevitable non-entity which knows no limitations.

When I die I know not where I be, yet every scintilla of reason assures me I shall still be. Some may wonder and some may doubt; but few there are who steadfastly believe they shall not still be after death has done its work. There may be a total and permanent cessation of all the actions and functions of the physical body; yet something inherently within me says I shall still live. Where and just how I do not know. The theologians of the ages have attempted to explain that future existence and describe its location; but have succeeded only in part; yet I know—I have a feeling within—one that transcends logical rationality; that is far and beyond all superstition and known reason, that I shall still live.

Now "I see through a glass darkly," but when I die all infinite knowledge shall be mine. Here on earth there is no barrier to my thoughts, no limitation to their mode and time of travel. In that other existence there shall be no barriers of any kind to me. My personal ego will be capable of sudden and unhindered transportation to the farthest degree of unlimited space and of free communication with billions of other rational and spiritual beings who preceded me millions of years ago into that celestial estate, though if they could measure it, would seem but yesterday.

In some unmeasurable far away spot, a billion light years distant, I may have achieved my eternal destiny before the last breath of earthly life shall have left the quivering chamber of my mortal residence. I may pass the gates of pearl and tread the streets of gold the Apostle on the Isle of Patmos saw in his vision which were no supernal, yet he could describe in no other manner than with the language of earth, which is never fully comprehensive, all-explanatory nor self-satisfying, because hindered by terrestrial limitations.

I may have future and eternal residence upon some far away star frequently observed by loved ones still on earth, and which in the future they may continue to watch and imagine they can discern my personal form as I tread with ethereal feet the nebulous surface of that spot the mightiest of telescopes have not yet been able to bring into analytical vision. No shackles of a physical kind will then bind me. There will be no twinge in the throb of my heart, no hesitancy in the course of blood through my ultra-purified and refined body, only the warm feeling of love for those whom I left below will be manifest in my spiritual being.

It is our general belief that faculties of mind and heart are never affected by death; they never die. Absolute consciousness will continue forever after the sun has ceased to shine, the moon is no more, and this earth, as a burning star, shall flicker and go out. All faculties, save those once physical, shall be enlarged and developed and keep on enlarging and developing and never grow weary. They shall forever have the resiliency of youth coupled with the alertness and perfect adjustment of immortality.

There will be celestial libraries and museums, celestial music halls and art galleries, and innumerable other places for intellectual and spiritual development far greater and more elaborately perfect than the finite mind of earth could possibly conceive. The celestial book nor the celestial canvas will never degrade the word celestial because they will have become perfect manifestations of our earthly conception of the word "celestial."

Yet the grandest of celestial cathedrals or the most wonderful poems of illuminated eternity will never impress us so much as will the association of those beautiful characters of earth who have become immortals and live everywhere about us. Their spiritual beauties, the recalling of their noble deeds, their tender and self-sacrificing attention while here on earth, will be as a changing kaleidoscope, ever revealing new nature and wonderful new manifestations of character and talent fitting them to become residents of that never ending clime of paradise. All the precious memories of time, all the ineptive faculties of mind and all the beginnings of heart affections on earth will enlarge and grow to multipotent grandeurs as the ages of eternity onward roll.

True, there may be a period of interruption between when my spirit shall leave time and gain eternity, when I must do a penance for mortal faults and physical errors; but in my conception of an infinite, tender, all-loving and all-wise Providence, I find it impossible to believe that shall be of comparative length, and perhaps, the very thing

I need to make me more fit to inherit and enjoy the magnificence of that new estate for which I am destined. It may be wise and well I have that period of atonement for the fullest appreciation of eternal joys in astral climes. That is a suggestion far beyond mortal ken and of which no human possesses any positiveness.

There may be a period of dreamless sleep ensuing between the time when I, myself, shall leave this encasement of mortal flesh and wing my way toward the eternal vitality of celestial climes where's perfections of thought, motive and knowledge know no impairment nor diminution. There may be many things of intermediary nature of which we are not very certain. Only in our inherent belief, feeling and quasi-proven knowledge of eternal felicity are we sure.

After all, why fear death? It may be life's greatest boon the eternal deliverer, the Omnipotent manifestor. It is that which launches the race upon its greatest adventure. The process of dying may be repugnant, yet I do not fear death!

Howdy, folks; The chief difference between the movies and real life is that in the movies they get married after all their troubles are over.

At that, the movies would be better off if they shot less film and more actors.

And "screening" a picture doesn't take the trash out.

We shouldn't be so harsh on the movie actors, though, in view of the fact that we had stage ambitions once.

We got as far as having our leg in a cast, anyhow.

We will go a long way to make a friend out of a customer.

That's why we like the electrical business. It is possible to make friends as well as customers.
