THE AG SIDE

Presented By DANNY FUSTON

Farmers have been faced with a problem in the using of chemicals from people who consider the word chemical the opposite of ecology. This of course has stemmed from the fact that ecologists have publicized the misuse of some chemicals which has taken place of the past few years. What the ecologist forgets is the farmer is probably the most ecologically minded group in the country. Proper chemical application increases the fertility of the soil by replacing those elements used from the soil to grow the farmer crop. The use of pesticides keeps the quality of the food high and increases the production. Therefore we would have to say that proper use of chemicals both fertilizers and pesticides have been a blessing to all of us as quality and production goes higher our food prices become less. Then it would be a good idea if we let the agricultural experts and the farmer decide what chemicals could be used in producing food rather than the ecologist.
