Tragedy Strikes Quitaque

Prominent Citizen Shot To Death ; Local Resident Charged With Murder

(some of the following information is from the Amarillo Globe News, Chip Chandler)

Roye Pigg, a Quitaque community leader and president of the town's chamber of commerce, was shot and killed early Thursday, June 4.

District Attorney Becky McPherson said another Quitaque man, 63-year-old Johnny Miller 'Corky' Garner, was arraigned on a first degree murder charge about 2 p.m. Thursday.

Pigg, 48, was shot sometime between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. in Garner's home, Sheriff Max Whitworth said. Garner reported the shooting to authorities, and Pigg was dead when authorities arrived, the district attorney said.

After a deputy arrived at Garner's home, Garner broke out the window of the deputy's patrol car, and was arrested and charged with criminal mischief, Whitworth said.

He formally was arrested on the murder charge while being held in the Swisher County jail Thursday afternoon. He remains in jail under a $500,000 bond.

The shooting is being investigated by Texas Ranger Warren Yeager of Lubbock, and the Briscoe County Sheriff's Office, McPherson said.

Whitworth said Pigg was shot with a .22 caliber rifle, according to a preliminary autopsy report.

Meanwhile the motive for the killing remains a mystery. Garner isn't talking, authorities said.

Trails Day Wrap Up

A very lovely day appeared Saturday for the National Trails Day Celebration. Although the local folks were still stunned by recent happenings in town, many out of town folks arrived to see the parade, visit the craft booths and enjoy the different foods available by both local organizations and out of town vendors.

Winners in the Guinea Drop were Neil Barrett of Lubbock, a former resident of Quitaque, Bobby Evans of Canyon and Roberto Valdez, a student of Valley School from Turkey who was quite excited that he had caught the guinea.

Valley Cheerleaders had the Cow Patty Bingo set up during the day. Winners were Sunny and Callie Helms, Wanda McKay and Lacy Shannon, Mike Davis and Tiffany Woods.

"This (the shooting death) is not supposed to happen in these small towns," Whitworth said. Residents said they can't remember the last time someone in the community was shot to death.

Pigg, 48, was president of the Chamber of Commerce in this quiet community of about 500. He was arguably the town's best-known figure, a vocal proponent of dropping guinea fowl from airplanes to draw attention to Trails Day, and the owner of the Sportsman Restaurant and bar, known far and wide as the best place around to feast on homemade bread, fajitas, and barbeque.

Kelly Payne, Pigg's cousin, who works at the restaurant, said Garner had been at the bar and Pigg was seeing that he arrived safely home. There was no apparent animosity between the two. His practice of seeing customers home safely was part of his overwhelming concern for people.

"I've seen him bring people in off the street and feed them, and tell them 'Don't worry about it,'" Payne said.

Pigg took over the restaurant 15 years ago, and his strong determination to keep the business operating was evident last summer when the building was heavily damaged by an early morning fire, employees said.

"We opened that night for supper," Payne said.

But Pigg was more than just a good businessman, many residents said.

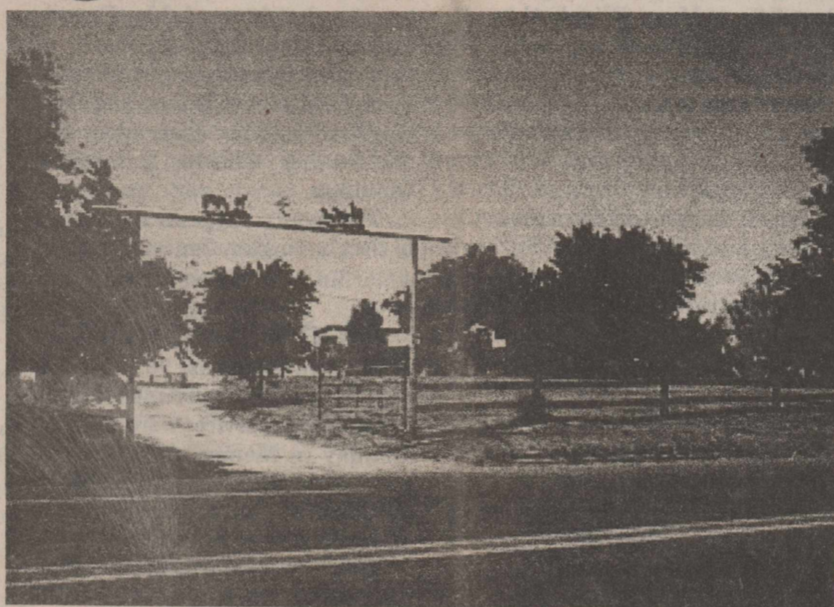

"He was just a real caring individual," Barbara Saul said, from behind the counter at the Valley Farm Store across the street. "He was unique in his own way. Anybody who was in trouble, Roye was usually the first person you would call."

Residents of the small town say they will sorely miss the restaurant owner.

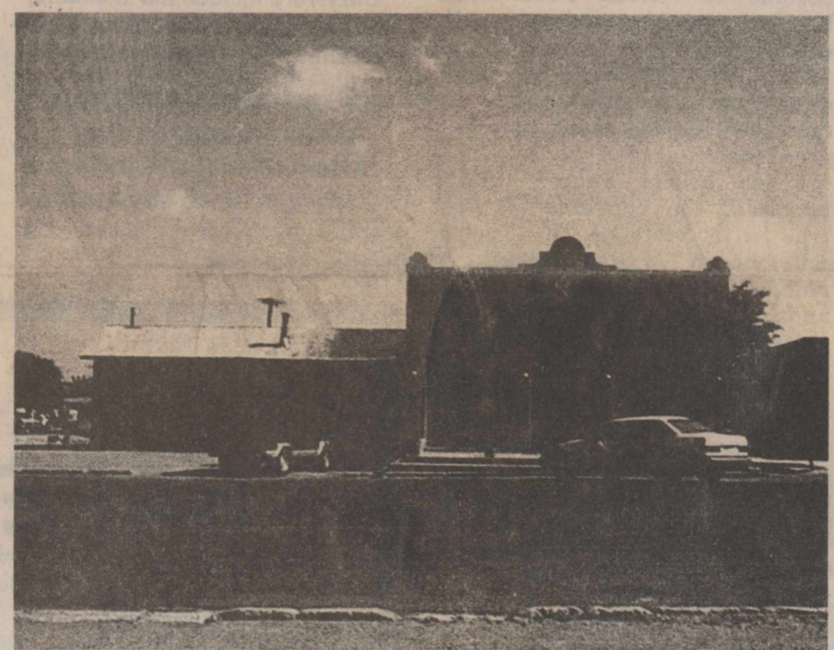

Guy Young said "Pigg was the community's heart and soul."

Garner, known to locals as "Corky" was a pilot at one time, but has lived in Quitaque most of his life. Mary Woods, a Chamber volunteer, said, "We thought he (Garner) was an upstanding citizen, which he really was in Quitaque."

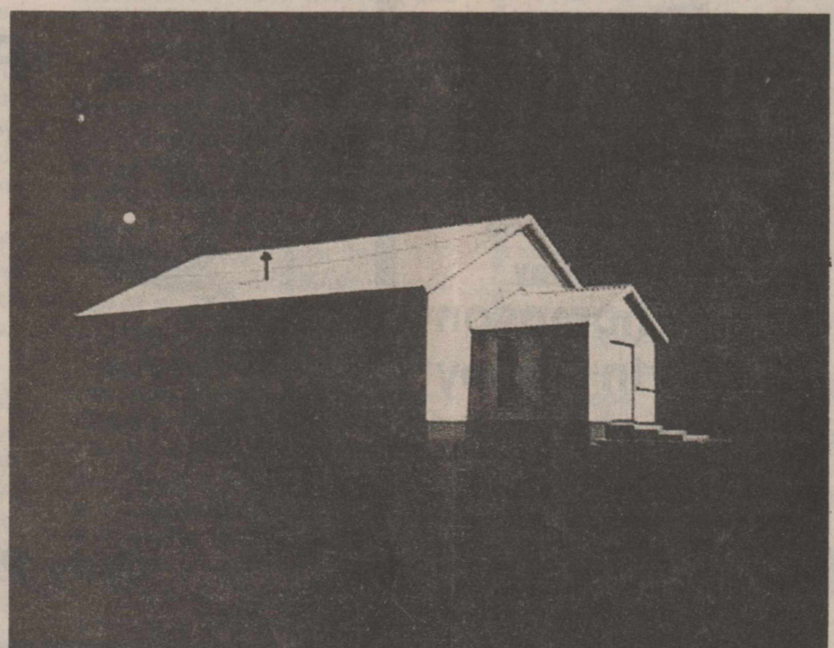

Funeral services for Pigg, an outspoken community leader, were held at the Fairmont community Baptist Church Saturday.

The parking lot of Fairmont Baptist Church, where services were held for Roye Pigg last Saturday stand empty now, but cars lined the highway for miles on Saturday and the church was packed, with most of the more than 1000 persons attending having to stand outside.

Renewed Gem Theater In Turkey Closer To Becoming A Reality

The refurbished Gem Theater is beginning to seem more a reality due to the diligent work in the area of bookings with Hank Thompson on June 13 and Ray Price in October of this year. Application has also been submitted for a $30,000.00 grant from the Meadows Foundation. They want to help, but the Turkey Heritage Foundation has to show that they are in earnest before the grant can be made.

In response to overwhelming audience approval and the many people that expressed the desire to have something like this more often, Ray Price has been scheduled for October 17th, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. On June 13, Hank Thompson and the Brazos Valley Boys will do one performance at 7 p.m.

Tickets are still available for the Hank Thompson concert. Proceeds received from the concert after expenses will be used for the refurbishing of the Gem theater. Caps and T-shirts will be available for purchase that evening.

Discussions are ongoing regarding the Wall of Fame recognizing Bob Wills & the Playboys, as well as local artists, craftsmen, talent, etc. Another wall, Turkey's Treasures Wall will feature the old-timers and contributors that were responsible for settling and making this town the warm, friendly place that it is. They are not recognized enough.

Services of the prison personnel were available to clean up the theater. Electrical work is in progress and twelve antique

Come out to listen to some great music and help support the Junior High Cheerleaders.

We who live quiet lives in our small towns do not feel that we have anything to fear from our neighbors and friends. We feel quite safe late at night to travel the streets to drive to Allsup's to get a coke or a gallon of milk. We do not think anything about going to the store at any time of day or night. Our only thought is if they will be open for us to purchase what we need. We feel safe walking to our neighbors down the street to visit or to leave a piece of cake that we want them to try out, regardless of whether it is 12 noon or 12 midnight.

This trusting attitude was greatly damaged this past Thursday. When such a tragedy happens it touches many many lives. Mothers become much more protective of children. Fathers are more cautious when they allow their children to go out alone at night. Those working in the evening hours feel a bit of uneasiness as they go about their duties. Not only that but there is a sense of sorrow in the air as we meet the family of the ones that are involved in the tragedy. We in our small towns expect to hear of such happenings on the 6 o'clock news to people in the large cities. But we do not expect to hear of it happening in our towns and to people that we know! We feel that we know each and everyone in our town and that they are all different, yes, but good people.

Our first thoughts are of disbelief. The second thoughts are of how we can be of assistance to those left behind. Everyone wants to be that helping hand. Everyone wants to help make the world right once again for those that are hurting and still in shock. How do we help them to cope with the great sorrow that they have to face each day. All we can do is be there for them and do our jobs as usual; offer comfort and help in any way possible to them.

We must certainly think of the future and try to keep such a thing from happening again. Life does go on but the fabric of it is torn and it will never be quite the same as it was before last Thursday.

Shannon Davidson Days in Motley County July 10 - 12

CARS!!! You can't live with them and you damn sure can't live without one! But if you are like me you have more than one, and sometimes even two isn't enough. Vehicles are expensive to buy and maintain especially if you have as many as I do. My wife and I live in Roaring Springs, I work in Quitaque and Paducah. She works in Crosbyton and all over about a six county area. Laura is a Field R.N. for the Home Health Agency there. My daughter ShaVonne just turned seventeen, has a car and a hundred things to do at school, and with after school activities, she is always on the go too. I'll tell you right now that there is a hell of a lot of driving going on, and a whole lot of maintenance and expense. The local service station gets a large chunk of my change every month for tires, oil changes, gas, etc... Sometimes I feel as if I ought to be a part owner in it. I know cars are suppose to make our lives easier, but sometimes I think I'd rather be riding a horse. I think the big auto makers have let us down, not only are they making cars lighter and cheaper while charging more for them, they have made them so good of boys like you and me can't even begin to work on them ourselves. We end up having to take it back to a dealer "the only ones that can afford the computer to analyze it's little micro-chip brain" only to be told it's going to cost between $75 to $100 to just hook it up to the machine to tell them whats wrong with it. We as Americans should not have to settle for inferior products. What happened to quality and pride in manufacturing? What happened to the customer is always right? I'm afraid the almighty dollar takes presidece over whats right. OH... how I long for the days when gas was 35¢ a gallon, a new car was $3500 dollars, and even my grandmother could work on her on car!

If you want to make candles burn more slowly and evenly with minimum of wax drippings, place them in the freezer for several hours—even overnight—before using.

Citizens Pitch In To Complete Sixth Annual National Trail Day

by Arlene Hinkle
The sixth annual National Trails Day Celebration went off like clockwork--due largely to the efforts of Maria Cruz, City Secretary and Clyde Dudley, City administrator. After the tragic death of Roy Pigg, the yoke of responsibility fell on Maria's shoulders. Guy Young was designated spokesperson of the Chamber which was a tough responsibility, too.

Maria, with phone in hand and a desk covered in notes, memos, and call-backs, made final arrangements and firmed-up events for Saturday's Celebration. Clyde and his capable crew, along with Mr. Faulks and the prisoners from TDJC gave the town a "spit-shine", tents were put up, and streets were swept. For every hour of celebration, at least ten hours of preparation was necessary.

The weather was perfect; and although, the crowds were not as abundant, nor as jovial, the day was as successful as could be expected under the circumstances.

The parade was a big hit with the small fry, and the candy was flying everywhere. The police cars, fire trucks and ambulances cleared the streets with screaming sirens and flashing lights. The riderless horse lent a somber air and the yellow ribbons worn by volunteers were sad reminders of our missing friend.

As the day progressed, and the events went along as scheduled - there was almost a collective sigh of relief that the day was almost over and we could all get back to the business of grieving and trying to make sense of a senseless situation.

The next morning, at 7:30 a.m., once again found Maria and Clyde on the streets with the prisoners setting things back to order. The tents were folded and put away, the streets were cleaned and chairs and tables put away -- another long day. Congratulations on a job well-done.

Now, the town is neat and tidy -- and all traces of the recent celebration is gone. Yet, in the heart of each of us beats the sad refrain, "Ah, Roy, we were proud to know you and you will be sorely missed."

Letter To Editor

Astonishment!!!

I strain to write this without negative overtones. Shocked and saddened however, I question how is it society in general has become so violent. Fear often breeds paranoia and paranoia causes us at times to imagine the worst, over preparing for some dangerous antagonist, when in fact none for any reasonable degree exist.

Peace begets Peace. Unfortunately, the converse is also true with violence the easier road chosen. To that charge I too plead guilty. What seems lawful and right may not be so advantageous. Is an occasional wrongful death the price we pay for the right to keep and bare arms? I hope not. Perhaps a bit of exorcised foresight as to consequence and responsibility could buffer decisions made down the line, at least we'd like to think so. The joker in the deck is we all make mistakes and no matter how careful or experienced, eventually the odds will catch up with us.

Quitaque's community conscious has been wounded and I would hope that the injury does not become a scar. A positive thought to reflect on might be how to turn this tragedy into an opportunity for personal improvement, by emulating the good qualities of a sorely missed civic leader.

May I offer my deepest condolences to the family and friends of Roy Pigg.

Mrs. Alan Chance nee Amanda Simmons

Amanda Simmons and Alan Chance Wed May 23, 1998

Amanda Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Simmons of Nolan, married Alan Chance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Chance of Sweetwater on May 23, 1998. The double ring ceremony took place at 6:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Sweetwater. Richard Petre led the couple in their vows.

The bride, escorted by her father, entered down the center aisle that was flanked with white illusion bows decorated with white silk flowers, English ivy and pearl drapes. The couple repeated their vows in front of an arch of white candles and knelt before an altar table featuring a floral arrangement of white silk flowers. Tulle and tiny white lights were entwined around the arrangement. The candlelit altar rail was swagged with white illusion tulle and white lights. Peace lilies and palm trees strung with white lights completed the romantic scene.

Song selections included Give Me Forever, I Do, sung by Barry Fox, My Valentine and The Lord's Prayer sung by Wayde Clay. From This Moment by Shania Twain and Bryan White was also a part of the ceremony. Bonnie Walters played wedding and love songs on the piano while guests were seated and played the traditional wedding march on the organ as the bride and party entered the sanctuary.

Amanda wore a white satin gown featuring a beaded and sequined Basque bodice. Ricocco sleeves were sprinkled with pearls and Schiffli lace medallions and pearl swags. The full sweeping skirt was enhanced with a scalloped bodice that cascaded into a full semi-cathedral train, adorned with Schiffli lace medallions and baby ruffle insets. The back of the dress featured a deep "V". She wore a fingertip veil of illusion tulle sprinkled with pearls that attached to a headpiece of satin roses, pearl swags and sprays. The bride also wore a blue garter that was worn by her grandmother and mother on their wedding days. She wore the wedding ring of her grandmother, Delene Tyler and her great-grandmother Ussery's pearl necklace. She borrowed pearl earrings from her Aunt Sue Rowlett and carried a Bible that belonged to her late grandfather, Grady Tyler. She carried the tradition penny in her shoe for luck.

She carried a cascade bouquet of all white flowing cymbidium orchids, fragrant roses, enchantment lillies, with ivy trails and pearl sprays.

The groom wore a black full dress tuxedo with tails, white shirt and white satin brocade vest. He also wore an all white boutonniere that matched the bride's bouquet.

Maid of honor was Kristen Wells of The Woodlands, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Michelle Robinson of Palestine and Regina Boyce of Chandler.

The attendants wore sleeveless black and white floor-length dresses that featured scooped neck bodices of white satin rose brocade. The bodices were attached to flowing black taffeta skirts with black organza overlays. The back of the dresses featured a deep "V" that was laced with a tiny white satin cording. Black organza neck scarves completed the gowns. They each carried nosegays of red velvet rosebuds and baby's breath, complimented with white illusion bows with ribbon and pearl streamers.

Best Man was Roscoe Chance of Sweetwater, brother of the groom. Groomsman were Tommy Carriger of Chandler, uncle of the groom, and Slater Simmons of Nolan, brother of the bride. They each wore black single-breasted tuxedos with black satin brocade vests with matching bow ties and white shirts. Red velvet boutonnieres accented their attire.

Justin Chance of Sweetwater, nephew of the groom served as ringbearer. He wore a tuxedo to match the groom's attire.

Shanna and Shawana Metcalf of Sweetwater, cousins of the groom were the flower girls. They wore sleeveless empire, floor-length dresses that featured black velvet bodices and full white satin skirts. Each waistline was accented with a red velvet rosebud corsage with streamers.

Rusty Ledford, brother-in-law of the groom served as usher. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. A collection of Precious Moments figurines belonging to Delene Tyler, the bride's grandmother was used as the theme in decorating the tables. A Precious Moments bride and groom adorned the top of the tiered wedding cake. The cake was decorated with pearls, white flowers and greenery and was atop a fountain. The bridal bouquet was the centerpiece on the bride's table. A red velvet cake topped with chocolate dipped strawberries was served at the groom's table. Food tables featured a swan ice sculpture, a decorative fruit cascade and a vegetable topiary. Crystal and silver appointments, mirrors, tapers and votive candles, white flowers, greenery, tulle, white lights and ficus trees were also used to enhance the romance setting.

Prior to the wedding the couple was honored with a bridal shower in Nolan and Michelle Robinson was hostess for a party for Amanda in LaRue. The groom's friends also gave Alan a party prior to the wedding. Fonda Holman honored Amanda with a bride's maid brunch on the wedding day. Mr. and Mrs. Chance, parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner.

Following the wedding, the couple took a short honeymoon to Fredericksburg and Kerrville. The groom's employer is sending the newly weds on a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada in the near future.

The bride is currently employed by Loans of Texas in Tyler, and Eastern Front Enterprise of Coffee City employs the groom.

The couple makes their home in LaRue, Texas.

- Dress children with wide-brimmed hats, UVA/UVB blocking sunglasses and a long-sleeve T-shirt.
- Apply sunblock liberally to children's skin 15 minutes before they go outside.
- Reapply sunscreen after prolonged swimming, excessive perspiring, vigorous activity or toweling.
- Limit sun exposure between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., when the sun's rays are strongest.
- Set a good example by practicing sun protection habits yourself.

Mr. Green, representing the Motley County Chamber of Commerce, told of the progressive plans being implemented for a successful Shannon Davidson Day celebration.

Mrs. Green gave an enlightened presentation of the many intellectual advantages offered at the Motley County Library. The library is not only a source for good and current reading material, but has a Genealogical and Historical Society, Reading Programs for children, microfilm census records, computer, Soundex tapes and video films for everyone. She stated they are working on an update of MC cemetery records and that The Friends of the Library have been a benefit for the library. She closed saying, "The Motley County Library is truly an asset for area residents and hopes the citizens will continue to enjoy and give their support to this establishment." Mrs. Green had members put their names in a basket and the name of Mrs. Trula Martin was drawn for the certificate giving her a free hour use of computer at the library.

Mrs. Mary Jo Calvert, president, conducted a short business session. They voted to have a work day at the center, Monday, June 8 to clean inside and outside and to quilt.

Hostesses, Mrs. Calvert and Mrs. Nada Starkey served refreshments of cookies, banana bread, nuts, mints and iced tea at a colorful Spring designed service. The table was draped with a white cloth, centered with a cascading ivy plant and an Indian doll made by Mrs. Bessie Starkey.

Those attending besides those mentioned above were Mmes. Edith Washington, Sylvia Lee Martin, Annie B. Cloyd, Alma Shorter, Topmie Jo Cruse, B. Rogers and Jimmie Hunter.

NOTE TO READERS
It is the policy of this paper not to print poetry, for various reasons -- the main one being that everyone has poems which are worthy, and they would like to have printed, but there is not room for everyone's...so we don't print any. If you would like to have a specific poem printed, we will run it at the same rate (cost) as our regular advertising.

THANK YOU
Many of you said "I don't know what to say." Now it is our turn. We don't know what to say to you. Words can seem so inadequate but sometimes the squeeze of a hand, a hug or just mere presence can lift the spirit and begin to mend a broken heart. Gods love that came shining through each of you has sustained us. You shared food, flowers, cards, calls, and time out of your busy lives. We thank you for that, but most of all we thank you for your prayers. We get our strength and comfort from God and we felt it as a result of your prayers. We love you all. Roye's family 52 ttc

ANOTHER THANK YOU
Thanks to our friends and neighbors for your prayers on our behalf and the food you brought to our home in the loss of our brother and uncle, Rollie J. Smith. May God bless you. Ike & Thelma Smith John & Hazel Worchester Joe Edd & Janelle Smith Glen & Faye Childers 52 ttc
