Walls to Build

by James M. Decker

My friend Lee Burton is a ranch manager in Albany. He's also one of the most thoughtful people that I know, in all facets of his life. He spends as much time thinking about the restoration and renewal of rural communities as I do. Recently, he proposed this analogy and I've not been able to shake it from my mind.

I have long been inspired by the character and leadership of Nehemiah in the Old Testament. If you aren't immediately familiar with the details, Nehemiah was a Jewish exile in Persia. While serving as cupbearer to the Persian king, Nehemiah heard from some travelers that Jerusalem was a wreck. The people who remained there were in trouble. The city wall was broken down, its gates burned by fire. Nehemiah was greatly troubled. After a lengthy period of mourning, fasting, and praying, he asked God for guidance on this situation. After a conversation with the king, Nehemiah departed with a mission to rebuild the wall of Jerusalem.

Next came a sequence of events that would make action heroes blush. Nehemiah, a man with no engineering, military, or organizational training, arrived at Jerusalem and organized a rebuilding project. Numerous foreign tribes opposed the effort and attempted to stop the rebuilding with intimidation and threats of violence. Not to be deterred from the mission for which he had been called, Nehemiah pressed on. He stationed defenders along the project and the remaining men did all of their work with a shovel in one hand and a sword in the other hand. Within 52 days, the wall was rebuilt. Thereafter, Nehemiah worked with Ezra to repopulate the city and renew the faithfulness of the Jewish people.

There is much that I can say about the inspiration of Nehemiah, but today, the wall building is my focus. In those days, a city's wall was something very important. A wall secured a city from invaders and other threats. It provided its citizens with safety and an opportunity for prosperity. A city with a broken wall left its citizens exposed, their fates subject to the dangers and whims of the outside world. A city whose wall had been broken was a city in its last stages of life.

I've talked many times about the challenges that are faced by rural America in today's world, but Lee put this into amazing perspective. Like Jerusalem in the time of Nehemiah, rural America's wall is broken. He's right. Much like a city with a broken wall, rural America's fate has been left to the dangers and whims of the outside world, whose people may or may not care about rural America.

Lee challenged all those who heard this idea to take Nehemiah's lead and become rural America's wall builders. Rural America may not need a physical wall, but it needs what the wall represented to ancient cities - an opportunity for its people to prosper. Our challenge may be great, but Nehemiah wasn't exactly dealt a simple task. Despite lack of training, despite the threats and dangers he faced, Nehemiah rebuilt the wall of Jerusalem and helped restore its people.

Will you join us in rebuilding rural America's wall?

USDA Partners with Texas A&M to help Veterans

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue recently announced a partnership between the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and Texas A&M's AgriLife Extension Service to help military veterans obtain loans and pursue careers as farmers and ranchers. Secretary Perdue joined local dignitaries, members of the Armed Forces, veterans, and community leaders at the Dallas Farmers Market to unveil the new pilot program.

USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) is collaborating with AgriLife Extension Service on the pilot, which is part of the Texas A&M Battleground to Breaking Ground project. The program makes it easier for veterans to meet federal requirements to get FSA direct farm ownership loans, which can help provide access to land and capital.

Impromptu Class Reunion! Several members of the Bronte High School Class of 1980 met Saturday evening, June 2, 2018, at Zentner's Daughter in San Angelo. Attending the gathering from the Class of 1980 were Russell Johnson, Mark Ball, Miles Brown, Don Hamilton, Kathy Ensor Griffin, Donnie Jackson, Bruce Snow, and Melinda Barrett McCutchen (not pictured). Joey Luckett from the Class of 1981 was also in attendance. The group enjoyed the evening and looks forward to their 40th reunion in early summer of 2020.

"Veterans retiring from active duty face many challenges, and this effort provides them with hands-on training and financial planning to help them succeed as new farmers and ranchers," said Secretary Perdue, who is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force. "Through this pilot, veterans will learn how to build an agricultural business and how USDA can help them at every step of the way. We are committed to supporting veterans, whether they are starting or growing their farming or ranching operations. This is an important step in our efforts to strengthen the American economy and support our American heroes."

The pilot program, which will include 15 to 18 veterans, will roll out in three phases: an introductory workshop, a business planning curriculum, and a production curriculum over a period of 12 to 18 months.

Typically, loan applicants must participate in the business operations of a farm for at least three years during a 10-year period. However, as part of this pilot program, participants can combine the certificate they receive with their military leadership or management experience to satisfy this requirement. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, approximately 45 percent of armed service members are from rural America.

Pilot program applications will be accepted from interested veterans between June 15 and July 20, 2018, until 11 pm, central standard time. Apply online at <http://txagrability.tamu.edu/farm->

USDA resumes continuous CRP enrollment

As part of a 33-year effort to protect sensitive lands and improve water quality and wildlife habitat on private lands, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will resume accepting applications for the voluntary Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

Eligible farmers, ranchers and private landowners can sign up at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office between June 4 and August 17.

"The Conservation Reserve Program is an important component of the suite of voluntary conservation programs USDA makes available to agricultural producers, benefiting both the land and wildlife. On the road, I often hear firsthand how popular CRP is for our recreational sector—hunters, fishermen, conservationists and bird watchers," U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue said. "CRP also is a powerful tool to encourage agricultural producers to set aside unproductive, marginal lands that should not be farmed to reduce soil erosion, improve water quality, provide habitat for wildlife and boost soil health."

FSA stopped accepting applications last fall for the CRP continuous signup, excluding applications for the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) and CRP grasslands.

This pause allowed USDA to review available acres and avoid exceeding the 24 million-acre CRP cap set by the 2014 Farm Bill. New limited practice availability and short sign up period helps ensure that landowners with the most sensitive acreage will enroll in the program and avoid unintended competition with new and beginning farmers seeking leases.

CRP enrollment currently is about 22.7 million acres. 2018 CRP signup

For this year's signup, limited priority practices are available for continuous enrollment. They include grassed waterways, filter strips, riparian buffers, wetland restoration and others. Visit <https://www.fsa.usda.gov/programs-and-services/conservation-programs/conservation-reserve-program/crp-continuous-enrollment/index>.

FSA will use updated soil rental rates to make annual rental payments, reflecting current values. It will not offer incentive payments as part of the new signup.

USDA will not open a general signup this year, but a one-year extension will be offered to existing CRP participants with expiring CRP contracts of 14 years or less. Farmers and ranchers eligible for an extension will receive a letter with more information.

CRP grasslands

FSA established new ranking criteria for CRP grasslands. To guarantee all CRP grasslands offers are treated equally, applicants who previously applied will be asked to reapply using the new ranking criteria. Farmers and ranchers with pending applications will receive a letter providing the options.

About CRP

In return for enrolling land in CRP, USDA, through FSA on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), provides participants with annual rental payments and cost-share assistance.

Landowners enter into contracts that last between 10 and 15 years. CRP pays farmers and ranchers who remove sensitive lands from production and plant certain grasses, shrubs and trees that improve water quality, prevent soil erosion and increase wildlife habitat.

Signed into law by President Reagan in 1985, CRP is one of the largest private-lands conservation programs in the United States. Thanks to voluntary participation by farmers, ranchers and private landowners, CRP has improved water quality, reduced soil erosion and increased habitat for endangered and threatened species.

The new changes to CRP do not impact the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, a related program offered by CCC and state partners.

Farmers, ranchers and landowners wanting to apply for the CRP continuous signup or CRP grasslands should contact their USDA service center.

To locate your local FSA office, visit <https://www.farmers.gov>. More information on CRP can be found at www.fsa.usda.gov/crp.

Skip the Trip to DL Offices During Busy Summer Months

The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is reminding residents that many customers can skip the trip to a driver license (DL) office altogether, which is especially convenient during the busy summer months. Most residents who are eligible to skip the trip are not taking advantage of the option to quickly renew their Texas DL or identification (ID) card online (or by phone). Address changes can also be taken care of online (or by mail) in many instances.

Rifle Team! On Saturday, June 2, 2018, the Coke County 4-H Rifle Team competed in the Callahan County Fun Shoot in Baird. Julian De La Garza (left) won third in the Junior Air Rifle Silhouettes and Juan Orlando De La Garza won second in the Intermediate Air Rifle Silhouettes.

Find out if you are eligible to renew online by visiting Texas.gov.

"Summer is one of the busiest times at Texas driver license offices, but taking advantage of technology options can save you time," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "If you qualify for online renewal, you can skip the trip to an office altogether.

...Driver License Offices

However, if you must go to an office in person, we encourage residents to visit a high-capacity Mega Center or to 'get in line' remotely before heading to the DL office, if those options are available."

High-capacity DL Mega Centers are primarily available in major metropolitan areas. In addition, many offices across the state also leverage a queuing system that offers customers the convenient option of reserving a spot in line through the DPS website, by mobile phone or a landline before going to the office. For a list of the high-capacity Mega Centers, as well as the offices that offer the "Get in Line, Online" feature, visit the DPS website at www.dps.texas.gov.

Another underutilized option available to customers who are required to make an office visit is renewing their DL or ID card early, which allows customers to choose a convenient time that best fits their schedule, and potentially avoid the busiest times at DL offices. Did you know you can renew up to two years in advance of the expiration date on your current card if you go into an office, or up to one year in advance if you are renewing online? The new expiration date will remain the same - even if you renew early. Visit the DPS website to make sure you have the proper paperwork (including documents needed for residency requirements) before making a trip to the office.

To be eligible to renew online, the cardholder must be a U.S. citizen and the expiration date on the card must be within one year. Additionally, in order to renew online, the card cannot have been expired for more than two years. Requirements for renewing online are available at Texas.gov, the official website of the State of Texas. Customers can also renew by phone at 1-866-DL-RENEW (1-866-357-3639).

Boaters urged to stay safe on Texas waters

As part of National Safe Boating Week, which was held May 19-25, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department boater education and law enforcement are reminding Texans to be safe this summer by following the law and taking basic safety precautions while on the water.

In 2017, 45 boating fatalities occurred on Texas waters, an increase of more than 28 percent from 2016. On top of that, marine enforcement officers logged 172 boating accidents and 83 boating related injuries. While boating fatalities and accidents can be caused by a variety of circumstances, surviving an accident on the water boils down to one important precaution – wearing a life jacket or personal flotation device (PFD).

“Wearing a life jacket is the most important strategy boaters can take to stay safe on the water,” said Tim Spice, TPWD Boater Education Manager. “The overwhelming majority of boating fatalities are caused by drowning and most of those drowning victims are recovered without a life jacket.”

“It’s not enough to just have a life jacket on board – people need to wear it,” Spice added. “Accidents on the water can happen too fast to reach and put on a stowed life jacket.”

State law requires that a life jacket must be available for each occupant of the boat and children under 13 years of age are mandated to wear one while the boat or paddle craft is underway or drifting. Despite these laws, in Texas last year the number of citations issued for children not wearing a life jacket increased by nearly 12 percent.

“Texas Game Wardens regularly perform vessel safety checks to ensure boat operators and passengers are following the law,” said Cody Jones, TPWD Assistant Commander for Marine Enforcement. “Everyone who will be operating a boat, personal water craft or paddle craft this summer should make sure they are in compliance with all vessel safety requirements before hitting the water.”

Law enforcement will also be on alert for those violating boating under the influence laws. Operating a boat with a blood alcohol concentration above 0.08 percent is an offense that can lead to fines, the loss of a driver’s license and an increased risk of accidents or fatalities on the water. In 2017, game wardens issued 152 citations across the state.

“Alcohol use is the leading contributing factor in recreational boater deaths,” Jones said. “Not only does it endanger the lives of boat operators and passengers, it endangers the lives of everyone who is outside enjoying Texas lakes and rivers.”

Other boating safety tips to keep in mind this summer include:

Take a boating safety course: Paddlers can find a free online safety course on the TPWD website. For larger vessels, anyone born on or after Sept. 1, 1993, must complete a boater education course to operate a personal watercraft or a boat with a 15-horsepower rating or more. Boater education courses are regularly offered in many locations around the state, or boaters can find a selection of online boater courses that can be taken anytime online.

Learn to swim: The American Red Cross offers swimming lessons by certified instructors across the state.

Use an ignition safety switch: Most boat and personal water crafts come equipped by the manufacturer with an emergency engine cut-off switch. This safety device can shut off the engine if the operator falls off the personal water craft or out of the powerboat, or is otherwise thrown from the proper operating position.

For more information about boating safety, laws and requirements, visit TPWD’s boating laws website at <https://tpwd.texas.gov/fishboat/boat/laws>.

New TDI website sheds light on medical costs

Need rotator cuff surgery and wondering what it’s going to cost you? Texas consumers now have a new tool to help them find out.

The Texas Department of Insurance has a new website - TexasHealthcareCosts.org - that provides cost information on more than 200 of the most common medical procedures, including many tests, surgeries, and office visits. The site provides both the average amount billed for the service and the average insurance payment by ZIP code.

“It is incredibly difficult to get information on what a procedure will cost before you get the bill,” said Insurance Commissioner Kent Sullivan. “This website is going to help with that problem.”

Consumers can use the site to search for a procedure by ZIP code. For procedures that involve multiple bills, like a surgery, the search results will provide a total cost. The total can be broken down by the costs for the facility, surgeon, and anesthesia.

Consumers can use the information as a comparison tool when asking doctors and facilities about their charges for a procedure. The site includes in-network and out-of-network cost information.

“Consumers should be able to know the cost of a procedure up front, compare prices, and budget for medical care,” Sullivan said. “That’s the goal of this website.”
