

AF changes PCS/TDY sign-in/out policy

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (AFNS) - Cancel the time-honored sign-in and sign-out drill for reassignments and temporary duty (TDY), effective Jan. 1, 1976.

Once necessary to the personnel strength accounting system to track people on permanent changes of station (PCS) and TDY assignments, the old procedure has outlived its usefulness.

Since the advent of the advanced personnel data system (APDS), the sign in/out register (Air Force Form 1323) has been a formality only. The actual PCS and TDY departure-arrival inputs to the automated data system have been accomplished via other source documents.

With Air Force members recording their departure date at the Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO) prior to leaving the losing base and reporting arrival information during CBPO in-processing at the new base, the PCS sign in/out register has become superfluous, and will no longer be practiced.

"I Have a Dream. . . ."

By 2nd Lt. Mike Dale
Information Division

Yesterday marked the anniversary of the birth of one of America's greatest spiritual leaders and social reformers, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

It was on Jan. 15, 1929, that King was born, in a wooden frame house on Auburn Avenue in Atlanta. He was the second child of Martin and Alberta King.

Though his birth preceded the Great Depression by only a few months, young Martin Luther King Jr. was more fortunate than most. His father was a respected minister and businessman, and a good provider.

Education Important

From an early age, King felt a need to speak, to convey his thoughts and ideas to others. He believed strongly in the importance of education. More than half his life was spent in educational institutions.

Graduating from high school at the age of 15 (he skipped the ninth and 12th grades), King entered Morehouse College. During his junior year at Morehouse, King chose the ministry as his profession. At the age of 18 he was ordained a Baptist minister and became assistant pastor of his father's Atlanta church.

Completing his work at Morehouse in 1948, King moved to Pennsylvania to study at the Crozer Theological Seminary. He later studied philosophy and theology at Boston University from which he received his doctorate degree.

Many Offers

His studies finished, King set out with his wife Coretta (he married at age 24) to find his place in the world. He was offered many jobs from colleges, churches, and businesses. Destiny led him to Montgomery, Ala., and the pastorate of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church.

The Freedom Movement to which King devoted himself began in Montgomery.

The Montgomery City Lines bus company practiced extreme discrimination, based on state and city segregation codes. Blacks were given second class treatment and often forced to relinquish their seats to white customers.

On Dec. 1, 1955, a black customer refused to give up her seat on a Montgomery bus. The woman, Rosa Parks, was arrested for violating Montgomery's segregation ordinances.

Bus Boycott

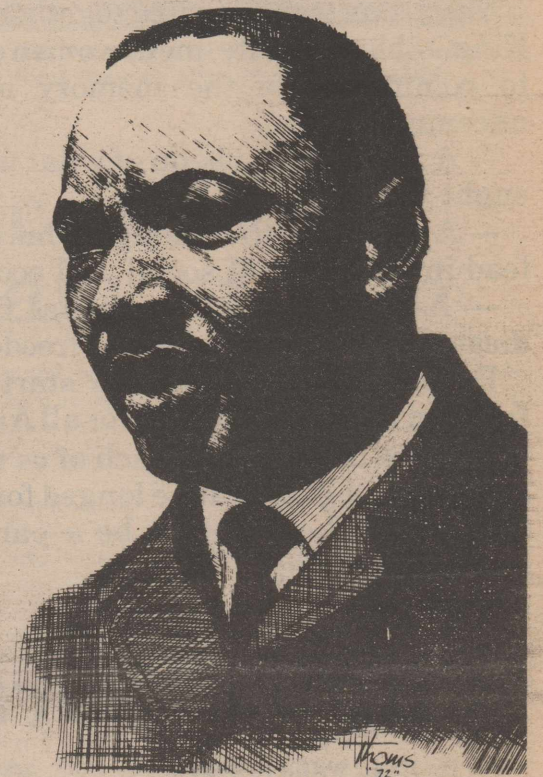

The action united leaders of the black community, who called meetings in city churches. A one-day Montgomery Bus Boycott was planned, coupled with minimal demands for improving bus services for black customers.

The boycott stretched on for 382 days and King, as president of the Montgomery Improvement Association, played a major role in sustaining the boycott effort.

The boycott ended after the U. S. Supreme Court affirmed a decision of a special three judge U. S. District Court in declaring Alabama's state and local laws requiring segregation on buses unconstitutional.

Victory Not Easy

The victory had not been an easy one. (Continued on Page 8)

Suggestions earn Reese people big money

By Fred A. Flewellan
Base Suggestion Program

A total of $1,985 was shared by 15 Reese people for ideas they submitted to the Base Suggestion Program and five others received Suggestion Certificates.

SSgt Charles E. Tedder, 64th Supply Sq., submitted a suggestion that cut down on evaporation loss of aircraft fuel. His idea was simply to close off one storage tank. The procedure afforded a savings in fuel loss of $13,425.42 annually.

For his efforts and thought he was awarded $725. Sergeant Tedder has been recommended for the Presidential Award for Resources Conservation.

Placing a filter screen on the golf course irrigation system saves $6,453.20 in work hours and material for the base annually. Because of the gin located near the base, heavy lint and debris collects in the system and causes malfunctions to occur. John H. O'Neill, 64th Civil Engineering Div., devised a method to prevent malfunctions.

For this idea he earned $375.

Air Training Command (ATC) approved for local optional use the alignment of supply organization codes. The idea was submitted by Capt. Robert G. Jones, 64th Comptroller Div. He was awarded $200 while saving $2,928 annually for the base.

Ist Lt. Phillip G. Schoewe, 64th Student Sq., earned $200 by suggesting that the Bicentennial symbol be placed on all certificates and diplomas. The procedure was approved with intangible benefits by ATC and recommended for Air Force wide use.

Amn. Kenneth R. Jennrich, 64th Supply Sq., recommended the turn in of excess R-9 Defuel Kit. The kit was immediately picked up by another ATC base and afforded a savings of $1,291.29 for the command. Airman Jennrich was awarded $115 for his efforts.

Previously SSgt Wayne H.J. Demers, 64th Field Maintenance Sq. was awarded $485 while saving $8,103.12. His suggestion to remove the battery preheat system in GTC trailers has been adopted by two other bases with additional savings of $2,630.00 plus intangible benefits. An additional award of $85 will be granted. Further, Sergeant Demers has been submitted for the Presidential Award for Resources Conservation.

A new method of cleaning aircraft earned Sgt. Richard A. Loyd, 64th Org. Maintenance Sq., $80. His idea saves $760.32 annually in work hours and material for the base.

Based on the requirement of addressograph machines in our Hospital, they were being improperly utilized. Sgt. Dennis B. Cawthon, USAF Hospital, corrected this error, saved $423.50 annually and earned $45.00.

A1C James D. Newcomb, USAF Hospital, suggested a new procedure for washing vehicles of the Hospital. His idea was approved with intangible benefits that are moderate and limited yielding $25.

TSgt. Samuel D. Tribble, formally assigned to the 3314 Management Engineering Sq. DET 11, earned $25 for his idea on the evaluation of AFR 11-4, Host-Tenant Support Agreement. The procedure is in use locally and has been forwarded to ATC for further consideration.

In an effort to conserve energy, Sgt. George L. Brown, 64 Air Base Group, submitted his idea on exterior Christmas lights in Reese Village. The procedure was approved with intangible benefits that are moderate and limited.

Hq USAF approved a procedure that will provide a better appearance for Security Police. A1C Jimmy D. Parsons, 64th Security Police Sq., was cited with an award of $25. No savings resulted.

John R. Musler, 64th Civil Engineering Division, devised an air drier for air conditioning units. He was awarded $25 based on intangible benefits.

Five employees were awarded Suggestion Certificates for ideas that improve operations here. They were: Luciano Perez, 64th Supply Sq.; Mrs. Donna Shirley, 64th Personnel Division; Capt. Roger L. Pyle, 35th Flying Training Sq.; Maj. James W. Millsap, Base Chaplain Division; 2nd Lt. Terry D. Armstrong, 64th Civil Engineering Division.

FROM THE TRAIL BOSS

"Be positive,
look for ways to help people..."

Col. Edward Mendel
Wing Commander

Yesterday we celebrated together the birthday of Martin Luther King — black, white, men, women — Americans all of us. We met to commemorate the memory and achievements of a very uncommon man.

— A man with a vision of what was right, what might be, what ought to be.

— A man with the courage of his convictions, willing to take the lead in the cause of social and economic reform.

— A black leader, a national figure, a strong American dedicated to ideals of personal freedom and equal opportunity.

Dr. King gave us a good start along the path toward true freedom and social justice for all Americans. We're not quite there yet. There is much that each of us might do, can do, every day, to achieve that goal that he longed for. Be involved, be positive, look for ways to help people, be a part of this change for a better, stronger America.

Dear Ed

This year's Combined Federal Campaign was the most successful in the history of Air Training Command. It is a pleasure to report that Command military and civilian personnel contributed or pledged over $2,400,000 to support human care services through the Combined Federal Campaign. This amount represents 139.8% of the total goals established at ATC bases.

I wish to personally commend you, your project officer, and other members of your installation who were able to exceed the established base goal through dedication and hard work. Please accept and convey to those concerned my deep gratitude and appreciation for this outstanding achievement.

Sincerely

John W. Roberts

8 January 1976

I am most pleased to share General Roberts' letter with you and add my personal appreciation to all; for it was through your "caring" attitude and generous participation that we were able to achieve 102% of our established goal.

I extend special recognition to Major Jones, our Wing Project Officer, and his Key Workers for the many fine talents, professional efforts, and organizational abilities they provided toward making our 1975 Combined Federal Campaign highly successful.

Thank you one and all!

Why celebrate the American Bicentennial

By MSgt. Willie E. Jones
NCOIC, Social Actions

I'm still mad about Watergate and I now disguise my voice on the phone, don't sign my mail, and glare at the self-service signs at gas stations. I'm worried about taxes, afraid for the children of Boston, fed up with inflations, recession, depression, Dow Jones averages and expert opinions.

The United Nations is cracking up, Angola sounds strangely like Vietnam, 50 people are running for president while I'm still trying to figure out who Spiro Agnew was and Buffalo got rooked out of a football game in Miami. What's there to celebrate???????

Yesterday some clown asked me to help plan the celebration. I said, "Why," waiting for him to pull out a miniature flag and sing the first and third verse of the Star Spangled Banner. Instead, he smiled gingerly, sat down and spoke very quietly.

"You see that building over there, well I had it put there. I read where someone was proposing a factory be built there and I didn't like it, so I went to City Hall and argued with them. Other people joined me and the politicians backed off on the factory."

"Big deal," I said.

Ignoring my remark, he continued. "When I was a young boy, I learned all the fairy tales about Patrick Henry, Abe Lincoln, George Washington and red letter days. My pride soared until I reached high school and learned that those men were people who had done good and bad things, depending on who you listened to. When I got to college I read actual accounts of what really happened from July 4, 1776."

"So what," I countered.

"Well," he went on, "now that I can see darkness forming on my horizon it occurs to me that this country was founded on a single idea. There was no collective thought or conspiracy. From 1776 until now this nation has inched forward on the strength of a single persuasive voice that was able to get the people to rally to its support. Some ideas were good, some bad, but everybody had a choice."

"And what," I screamed, "about the slaves, the Indians, the Mexicans, and other disfranchised people, what about their choices?" For the first time he looked straight at me with weathered eyes, filled with determination.

"Where did you learn about all that?" he asked.

Warming up I told him about the books I'd read, the classes I'd taken, the pictures I'd seen, the speeches I'd heard, and the pain and frustration I'd suffered or witnessed. "And what did you do about it?" he asked.

I told him about the protests I'd led, the letters I'd written, the petitions I'd signed, and the people I'd voted out of office.

"Did you change anything?" he pressured.

I laughed loudly and said, "Yes, I changed something, I've changed plenty," and proudly listed my accomplishments.

As I wound down my speech, I noticed the old gentleman had gotten up and was walking away, humming softly to himself and smiling. I started to call out to him when suddenly a thought struck me like a wounded rattlesnake. "If all the people from John Adams to John Zenger had sat around wringing their hands and crying 'woe is me' instead of raising their voice and advancing an idea, I probably wouldn't have to be worried about the state of things, or know what really happened yesterday, or what's going to happen tomorrow."

I would probably be doing what I was told, when I was told and how I was told, in fact, whether or not to celebrate the Bicentennial wouldn't be a choice. "Hey, ole man," I shouted, "wait for me, you jive turkey, we've got something to celebrate!"

BICENTENNIAL NOTES

THE MINUTEMAN — They came from the cities and the farms, heeding the call to arms as the Militia was summoned to resist the forces that threatened their freedom. Leaving wife and family, they were to give their all, bearing untold hardship in the name of independence. It was the Minutemen who responded to the call to confront the British at Lexington on April 19, 1775, when the first shot was fired to signal the beginning of the Revolutionary War. This event was to be recorded as "the shot heard around the world".

Energy Conservation

I personally know that the lighting of the Wing Headquarters each night actually consumes little energy, but I often hear complaints from others, wondering why they cannot have exterior Christmas lighting in Reese Village and must limit their use of interior Christmas lighting, while Bldg. 800 is "lit up like a Christmas tree." Although I do set straight people I hear voicing this complaint, I am sure there are others who hold the same question. Suggest you publish the facts and figures on the Bldg. 800 lighting to set the doubts at rest. Thank you.

You are right! The mercury vapor lights consume little energy, but every little bit counts. The lights in front of the Wing Headquarters are turned on for a limited period until 10 p.m. to provide area lighting to pedestrian traffic, such as night class students in Bldg. 820 and theater goers who are usually out of the area by this time. A survey by the Energy Conservation Committee is in progress to determine minimum street lighting requirements without significantly affecting ground safety and security considerations. We will all see in the very immediate future a reduction in the number of street lights left on, including those around the Wing Headquarters. I appreciate your comments and the concern of others. We must all work to save energy which spells $$$.

54th initiates new mascot for Bicentennial festivities

Boy oh Gosh oh Howdy do we have some outstanding news for all of you in Talon Land. As you know this is the big year for the old U.S. of A. and the 54th is proud to be a part of it.

So, to honor this great event the boys in blue at Talon Central have added a staff member sure to rival Rudy Reese and Reddy Kilowatt. Carrying the boisterous banner of the boys in building 105 will be the namesake of the celebration year. We have provided a picture of our newest hero so you will recognize him when you see him partaking in the celebration activities.

Yep that's him. Our hero BISON TENNIAL will be representing the 54th in the Talon Talk articles by giving you all the news on Bicentennial activities at Reese and the South Plains area. We solicit any contributions for Bison to building 105 or call 2544. "Charging" forward to bring you a "herd" of information which we hope will cause you to "stampede" to our National Celebration activities, "BISON TENNIAL" urges you all to get involved in our country's birthday, and that's no "Bull."

The 54th is going through a lot of personnel changes over the next few weeks so don't be surprised if you call a number and find out that the person you are seeking has moved. A few of the more recent moves and returns involve Capt. Vic Vasquez and 1st Lt. "Space" Ace Beall going over to support the boys at Pre-PIT.

Capt. Craig Upton and Capt. Charley Yates have returned from Squadron Officers School and report it was a "memorable experience." Notification has been received sending Lt. Dave Huether to Randolph for PIT. We think it is as an instructor but it may be to go thru the course again. The Talon Taskers welcomed 2nd Lts. Michael Chase and Wayne Higgins back to the fold after attending Randolph training.

Capt. Stan "The Man" Symons gets a well done for his newest arrival. It seems that the little tyke is very sharp and immediately asked his proud father if he knew what the stork looked like that brought him? Capt. "ever ready with an answer" Stan immediately replied that he didn't know for sure as "He only saw the bill."

This Wednesday the wives of 76-07 will be furnishing lunch for the squadron, in the form of a hotdog sale.

New Faces

Two new faces around the squadron are Capt. John Gruser and Robert Watson. Captain Gruser comes to the 35th from KC-135's at Beale AFB, Calif., and Captain Watson from KC-135's at Pease AFB, N.H.

We have also said "goodbye" to some of our squadron, but only temporarily. Capt. Bob Grinder, John Wesley and William Byers are TDY to Squadron Officers School. We know they're enjoying the warmer climate to the south.

Capt. Don Johnson is moving PCA to Air Base Group. Sgt. Lou A. Michael is also TDY to Base Ops.

There has been some moving going on in the squadron. 1st Lt. Bob Winkler is moving down to the squadron scheduling office, taking his expertise with him.

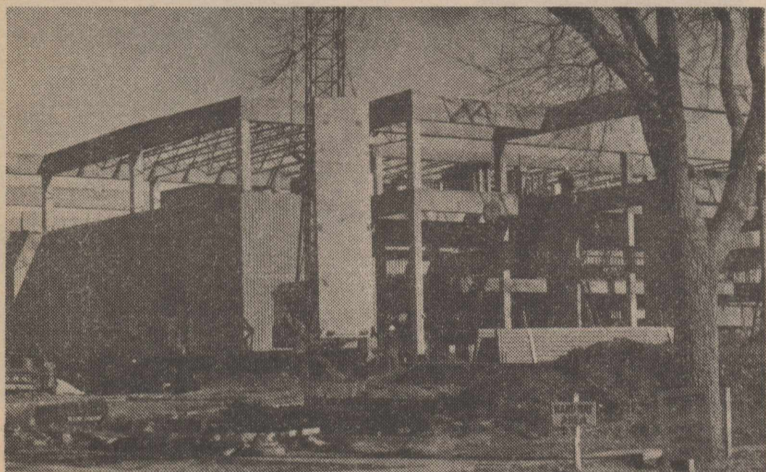

Capt. Bill Thurston is moving into "A" flight as the assistant flight commander. Capt. Mike Jackson has taken over as assistant flight commander of "C" flight.

IP of Month

This month's IP of the Month award goes to 1st Lt. Ed Churchill. The 35th's Airman of the Quarter is Sgt. Hector Caro. Capt. Mike Bannon was cited as the Outstanding Senior Controller of the Quarter. 1st Lt. Earl Smith was named the 35th's Outstanding Observer of the Quarter.

There is hope that the squadron lighters will arrive soon. The question is who will use them. It seems a bet was made between Lt. Col. Robert Bradshaw and Capt. John Morris concerning each other's ability to quit smoking cigarettes. The bet was made of a large quantity of spirits at a New Year's party. From the looks of things, no one is having a happy New Year. Captain Morris has now become addicted to styrofoam cups. Colonel Bradshaw has not been seen around the squadron without a pipe clenched tightly between his teeth.

EASY DOES IT — Construction on the new simulator building continues. Use of pre-fab building materials greatly reduces building time. Workers use giant pre-fab siding material for the walls. (U.S. Air Force Photo by Sgt. Ron Pack)

OMS changes command

Maj. Eckbert M. Hartung-Schuster became the new Commander of the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron (OMS) Dec. 19, 1975 assuming command from Lt. Col. Jack D. Herbert.

Major Hartung-Schuster is a graduate of Memphis State University with a bachelor of science degree in Industrial Management. He received his master's degree in Public Administration from Auburn University.

He entered the Air Force as a student in the aircraft maintenance officer's course at Chanute AFB, Ill. His first duty station was Glasgow AFB, Mont. as a B-52D/KC-135 Maintenance Officer with the 91st Bomb Wing. In early 1968 he was assigned as a Maintenance Staff Officer on the Material Staff of 15th Air Force Headquarters (SAC) at March AFB, Calif. Following assignments included Thailand, Norton AFB, Calif., and duty as a Plans and Programs Officer for the Inspector General's Office.

Returned checks hurt everyone

Dallas - Because of increased costs for the processing of returned checks, the Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) has announced that effective Jan. 27 there will be a $10 administrative charge levied against any person whose check is returned dishonored.

That announcement came from Maj. Gen. C. W. Hospelhorn, AAFES commander, who disclosed that the new charge is being implemented to offset growing processing expenses and "to make abusers understand that AAFES means business." AAFES currently has a $5 surcharge for each dishonored check returned to the Exchange Service.

According to General Hospelhorn, AAFES last year was forced to spend $1.2 million to process dishonored checks. "The drain of the honest soldier's and airman's dollars cannot be disregarded or absorbed," he stated. "Now is the time to let the dishonest and the careless bear the full cost of their actions. We must require them to bear that cost."

General Hospelhorn cautioned potential bad-check passers that although the new charges will go into effect on Jan. 27, checks dishonored prior to that date will be assessed the higher charge if the checks are returned from the bank after that date. AAFES

64th FMS selects best

AIC Walter Harmon has been selected as the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron Airman of the Month.

"Airman Harmon demonstrates a unique capability in the performance of his duties in the servicing, pick-up and delivery section of the Aerospace Ground Equipment (AGE) branch," said Maj. James E. Cason, commander, 64th FMS.

"He has shown a high degree of competence in this career field and performs his duties with minimum supervision. He is especially adept at trouble shooting electrical circuits. On numerous occasions his knowledge of electrical systems has helped provide powered AGE necessary to meet mission requirements," Major Cason said.

King faced abuses and threats on his life at the hands of segregationists. He and 90 other black leaders had been arrested. His house had been bombed.

Courage cannot be measured in easy successes, but in difficult and far-reaching attempts. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was not afraid to try.

Always the movement relied on the people. If change was to come, it would come through mass action and concern. Marches, sit-ins, prayer vigils and boycotts were coupled with Freedom rides, voter registration and education, and leadership training.

Great Accomplishment

Nonviolence

King and the Freedom Movement were strongly committed to nonviolence. "If blood must be shed," he said, "it must be our blood." Commitment meant suffering and self-sacrifice.

When riots erupted in the East, King, though sympathetic with the plight of the rioters, spoke out: "Lawlessness, looting and violence cannot be condoned whether used by the racist or the reckless of any color." King travelled north to Chicago and Cleveland to expand his philosophy of nonviolence.

More riots erupted in Newark, N.J., and Detroit, Mich. in 1967. Tensions and unrest clouded the country. King evolved his Poor People's Campaign to reverse the national drift toward violence. He planned to take thousands of poor people to the nation's capital and camp there until Congress passed sweeping national reconstruction measures. Between King and Washington, D.C. lay Memphis, Tenn. . . .

Black garbage workers went on strike in Memphis, Tenn. on Feb. 12, 1968, to protest discriminatory management practices. King made two trips to Memphis to support the strike. During the second, in April, his life was ended at age 39 by an assassin's bullet.

Though short, his life was one of great accomplishment. He was a devoted family man. His skills as a minister, author, lecturer, and social reformer won him hundreds of awards, including the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964. He helped to write and pass through Congress the Civil Rights Bill of 1964, proposed by President John Kennedy before his death. His epic march from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., was a catalyst for voting rights reform. In the 1963 March on Washington, 250,000 people gathered before the Lincoln Memorial to hear King speak:

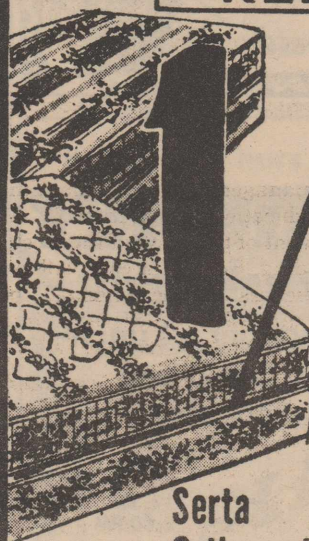

"I say to you today, my friends, even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow, I shall have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. I have a dream that one day this Nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'"

King gave Black Americans a leader, a symbol of hope and pride and purpose.

John F. Kennedy once said, "Some men see things as they are and say why. Others dream things that never were and say why not." Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was such a dreamer.

SIT BACK AND WAIT — Airman Christine A. Clark (right) and A1C Pam Reusch have done all they can. Now they have to wait and see if they will be one of 150 women to

Two seek Academy nomination

Airman Christine A. Clark and A1C Pam Reusch, assigned to the 64th Supply Squadron, have joined other women in applying for admission to the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. Airman Reusch was one of the first Air Force women to arrive on Reese and has done numerous activities to promote the Air Force to women in the Lubbock area.

A native of Sacramento, Calif., Airman Reusch attended Consumness River Junior College for one year. When asked why she would like to attend the Academy she replied, "To get my degree and I think that it would be a great honor." She would like to make her career, if accepted to the Academy, in some form of liberal arts or counseling.

Airman Clark is a native of Toledo, Ohio. After completion of high school she wanted to do something besides "just stay at home." During high school she was on the track and gymnastic teams.

She became interested in the Academy after a visit there and was impressed with the curriculum and the school. Her plans, if she is selected, is for a career in the medical field. She would like to major in life sciences. How does Airman Clark feel about all of this? "I'm nervous about waiting so long to find out if I have been selected," she said.

Capt. Jerry Wacker, Supply Squadron Section commander said, "I think it is a good deal. I honestly feel the Air Force Academy should accept women. They are doing a good job in the Air Force and should be given this opportunity."

RES. 745-1203

4433 50th STREET

ACADEMICALLY
 SPEAKING...

By Capt. Ed Hayden
 64th Student Squadron

The Student Squadron is buzzing again with the shuffling feet and beaming faces of student pilots. They've returned en masse, rejuvenated after the long holidays, to bring us another yearful earful of what really goes on behind the scenes of Undergraduate Pilot Training.

Class 76-06

With the holidays behind us, Class 76-06 looks forward to Feb. 21, and graduation activities. Section one is well on our way to that objective as we finish up our formation checks and blast into our I-Nav checks. Meanwhile, the optimists in the class are joyful to be only ankle deep in early weeks and EPQs while the pessimists are quick to counter with "Yeah, but we're on our heads!"

Class 76-07

All our members fared well over the holidays except for three Norwegian students who went to Mexico. We told them not to drink the water, but they did and sure enough, Montezuma got his revenge. Pass the Kaopectate please.

Prayers and anxieties were at a peak last week as we filled out our dream sheets for aircraft and found out whether we are fighter and/or IP qualified. Look guys, somebody has to get that KC-135 Minot.

A fond farwell from "G" Flight to Capt. Vic Vasquez and 1st Lt. Keen Rees who are leaving to go to P-Qual and LCAT respectively. And, our deepest sympathy to Capt. Stan Croley who is taking over as Assistant Flight Commander.

Class 76-08

Everyone enjoyed their Christmas break and all of us made it back safely. Some went east, some west, while others stayed right here in Lubbock to see a white Christmas. Otherwise, those to solo out since the last report include 2nd Lts. Joe Goodell, Bill Wetzig, Dave Morgan, Gary Bohn, Tom Simmons, Fred Imker, Lowell Gossell, and Frank Douglas. Lieutenant Bohn assured all those turned in to his frequency that he was breathing during his solo touch and go, while Lieutenant Douglas' oxygen system failure sent him into orbit over Smyer.

Class 76-10

It's been a fairly quiet week for section one, only to be interrupted by 2nd Lt. Russell Newland's attempt to pull out to the number one position in the squadron vehicle.

Over Christmas, 2nd Lt. Ken Montgomery found Santa had brought him a new wife while Capt. Buff Malloy was issued a brand new baby boy named Danial.

Class 76-11

Section one has 2nd Lts. John Janson, Ted Stallone, and Art Leiker getting dunked for their solo performances last week. Otherwise, things have been slow except for that unidentified student who got a real close look at the tail of a T-37 during a dark, early morning preflight.

WHEN'S THE LAST TIME YOU HEARD A SALESMAN TALK ABOUT SAFETY?

You'll hear a lot of gushing about gas economy. And expansive talk about smaller-size cars. But rarely will you hear the man who's trying to sell you, tell you what happened when his car was test-crashed into a barrier.

But in our showroom, you will.

Our people sell Volvos and their living is based in good measure on explaining to people like yourself the protection built into every Volvo they show you.

So your salesman will explain why Volvos come with four—not two—power disc brakes. And how the two independent braking circuits each work on a total of three wheels. He'll tell you the roof pillars have supported a weight of seven tons. (Turn that over in your mind.) And why the front and rear ends are designed to crumple rather than remain inflexible under heavy impact.

He'll even point out a little thing like the defoggers/defrosters that help clear the front side windows. Because when you have traffic thundering to the right and the left of you, it isn't a little thing.

So whether you come in to inspect the luxurious new Volvo 260 series or one of the new 240s, he has a lot of explaining to do. And it won't hurt you to listen.

The car for people who think.

USAF Academy meets Tech tomorrow

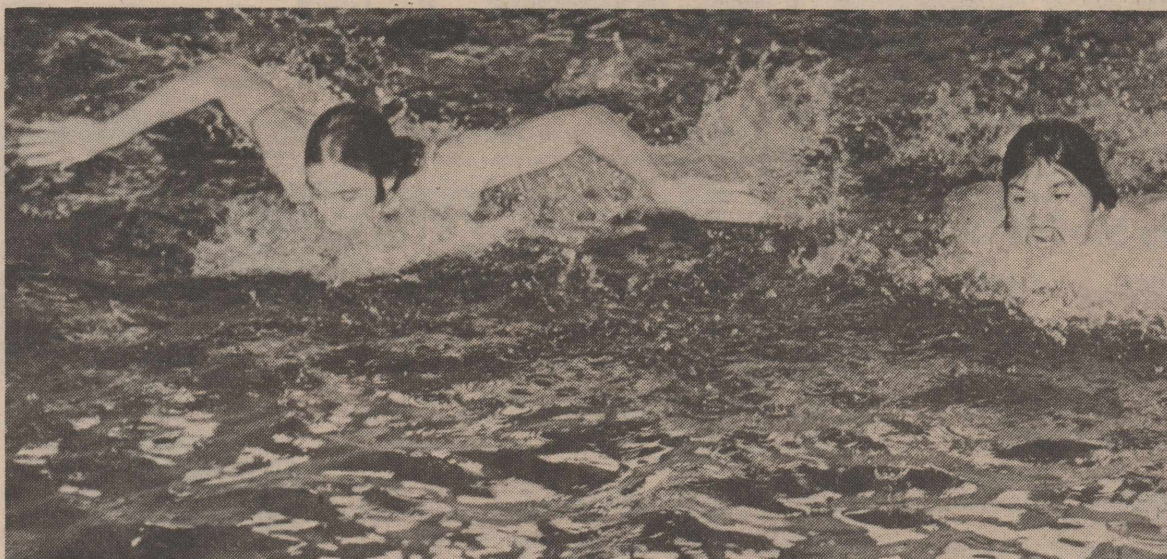

The U.S. Air Force Academy (USAF) Falcons and Texas Tech University Red Raiders will hold a dual swimming meet tomorrow at the Tech pool in the Men's Gym starting at 2 p.m.

As in past seasons the USAFA team has a lot of tradition to protect this season. Part of this includes a winning streak of 37 straight dual meets and a stretch of not having lost a diving event in the last four seasons.

This meet will be the first for the Academy this year, while Tech opened its season with a 74-39 defeat over Midland College on Nov. 7. Tech also finished fifth in the Southwest Conference Swimming and Diving meet held at SMU in December.

The Academy is lead by team captain Jim Hogue in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. Hogue qualified for the national championships last season in the 50 yard. Another leader for the Falcons is the record holder in the 100 yard breaststroke, junior Bill Marshall, who also qualified for the national championship.

Hogue and Marshall will be matched up against Jim Dean, freshman, and Bill Mason, sophomore, who supports a .01 better record than Marshall.

One other interesting matchup will be in the 100 yard backstroke pegging Steve Tibbitts (USAFA) and Eric Muehlberger, both having the same 53.8 record.

This will be the 17th time that Jim McNally's Tech team has met in dual competition with Lt. Col. Paul Arata's Academy team.

Weekday specials at lanes

By Sonny Serutan
Reese Lanes

It's good to see some of our people back from leave and ready to bowl. The holiday lay-off did little to hurt their games and the scores and averages continue to climb.

Some of you are missing out on our specials. We have a special every weekday, bowl two games and the third game is free. Sunday the rent-a-lane program gives a bowler a chance to practice at a really low price, $3.50 rents a lane for two hours. It's your lane, put as many people on it as you like.

Let's see who bowled well this week.

Gladys Mele led all the bowlers in the Ball and Chain league with a 207/573 series, and they say the Irish can't bowl.

Rod Wilson led the men with a 223 game, 570 series. "The Rock" is forming a team to take the Showboat Tournament in Las Vegas. Interested people should contact Rod at Ext. 2207.

Other good scores were bowled Thursday night by Bob Hotaling, 554; Jim Turner, 543; Tex Payton, 524; Bob Wocking, 511 and Jay Bill, 508.

The American Junior Bowling Congress coaches have discovered they coach a little too well. In the "Beat Your Coach" day activities, the kids did and oh how they did. The coaches were left without even a good excuse.

In the Jr.-Sr. division, Erin McGarrigh had a 172 game, 466 series and Ronald Rodriguez had a 154 game, 447 series.

In the Bantams, Jason Eaton has a 332 series and Randall Swape had a 116 game. Sylvia Rodriguez had a 133 game and a 333 series.

Bring your boss to the lanes at lunch time. You can bowl three games each, have a pizza, and get back to the job in the prescribed time, for only $4.

S.S., our dum-dum entertainment director, is really trying to get us an act, but he was busy this week working for charity. He is the head coach of an organization that is trying to get seeing-eye dogs for the National Football League officials.

Sonny says, "Don't be down on Texas, any state that lets a man named Jesse James be Treasurer can't be all bad."

Ft. Sill adds wins

The Ft. Sill "Cannoneers" from Ft. Sill, Okla., emerged from the Reese Varsity Basketball Tournament undefeated and extended their season record to 22-1. The tourney was played at the base Gyn Jan. 9-11.

In the first game of the tourney, the Texas Tech JV defeated the Reese Rattlers 74-68. High scorer for Reese was Carl Van Pelt with 35 points.

Ft. Sill played Oakwood Baptist from Lubbock and proved that the "Cannoneers" were real gunners. All ten Ft. Sill players saw action in the game, with four of them scoring in double figures. The final was Ft. Sill 115, Oakwood Baptist 84.

Saturday's action matched Oakwood Baptist against the Tech JV and Reese against Ft. Sill. The Texas Tech JV won the first game 100-58. Danny Ivey scored 33 points for the Tech Piccadors. In the second game, Ft. Sill clobbered Reese 130-67. Ouch!

Sunday, Reese met Oakwood Baptist and the Texas Tech JV tangled with Ft. Sill. Oakwood Baptist won the contest over Reese 101-93. Michael Narkiewicz hit for 24 points for Reese, closely followed by Jack Cusano with 22.

In the final game of the tourney, Ft. Sill beat the Texas Tech JV 86-70, despite Danny Ivey's 33 points for the losers.

Gym Shorts

The Base Athletic Department is now accepting participant signups in the Base Racquetball Championship tournament, singles only. Commander's trophy points will be awarded. Winners will represent Reese in the ATC tournament. Interested persons should sign up for this single elimination tournament before Thursday.

A base Volleyball team meeting will be held at the base Athletic office at 4 p.m. Monday. Persons interested in playing or coaching should plan to attend.
