

AF announces early out for first termers

RANDOLPH AFB, TEX. (AFNS) - First-term airmen in 99 Air Force Specialty Codes with worldwide surplus manning may apply for a voluntary date of separation (DOS) rollup or early release to be effective in May.

Reese airmen may apply if they are in one of the listed CAFSCs and have a DOS from June 1 through Sept. 30.

Those with a DOS in June may apply for a DOS rollup. Those with a DOS from July 1 through September may apply for early release.

Applications from eligible airmen must be received by the Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO) not later than March 15.

Air Force Military Personnel Center officials stress that application approval isn't automatic and airmen shouldn't take any action in anticipation of approval.

If approved, the separation will take place during May, with the exact date being determined by CBPO based on the desire of the airman and ability of base agencies to schedule necessary processing.

After submission, applications can't be withdrawn except for reasons of undue hardship.

Complete details and a list of the CAFSCs may be obtained from the Customer Service Center, CBPO, Ext. 2276.

Wing chooses best airman, NCOs of 1975

MSgt. Robert Schuster, SSgt. William T. Davis and A1C James D. Newcomb have been selected by the 64th Flying Training Wing as 1975's best airmen.

Senior NCO of the Year

Sergeant Schuster, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, Propulsion Branch, was chosen as the Wing's Senior NCO of the Year.

"He has aided the Wing's flying training mission immeasurably by coordinating an average of 400 aircraft monthly requiring engine trim, runup, troubleshooting, and repairs of engine malfunctions," said Maj. James E. Cason, commander 64th FMS.

"Through superb supervisory ability and unwavering devotion to duty, Sergeant Schuster has led his personnel to excel in diagnosing a multitude of deficiencies that could seriously jeopardize the mission if left to a less qualified leader," Major Cason concluded.

Sergeant Schuster currently participates in several squadron and wing boards including the Squadron Airman of the Month Board, the Base Exchange Advisory Board, and the Community Action Counsel.

NCO of the Year

SSgt. William T. Davis was honored as 1975's NCO of the Year. Sergeant Davis is one of the instructors for the Reese Noncommissioned Officers Leadership School.

"Sergeant Davis possesses the level of instructional ability that is sought by most instructors but realized by few," said Lt. Col. Ivan R. Jenkins, chief, Personnel Division. "He has the unique ability to tie his instructions directly to mission accomplishment. His students are able to see the relationship between the two and, therefore, can effectively relate one to the other."

Sergeant Davis is very active in community activities. He served as coach for the Reese Chiefs football team, President of the Reese Little League Association, President of the Reese Youth Basketball Association, and President of the Reese Elementary School's Parent Teacher's Association.

During the Reese Christmas Basketball Classic, he volunteered to be responsible for the stocking and operation of the concession stand. His efforts in this program netted $700 for the Youth Sports Program.

Colonel Jenkins said, "His devotion to duty and continual outstanding performance make him a credit to himself, the NCO Leadership School, and the U.S. Air Force."

Airman of the Year

A1C James D. Newcomb,

USAF Hospital, Environmental Health Section, was selected as the Wing Airman of the Year for 1975.

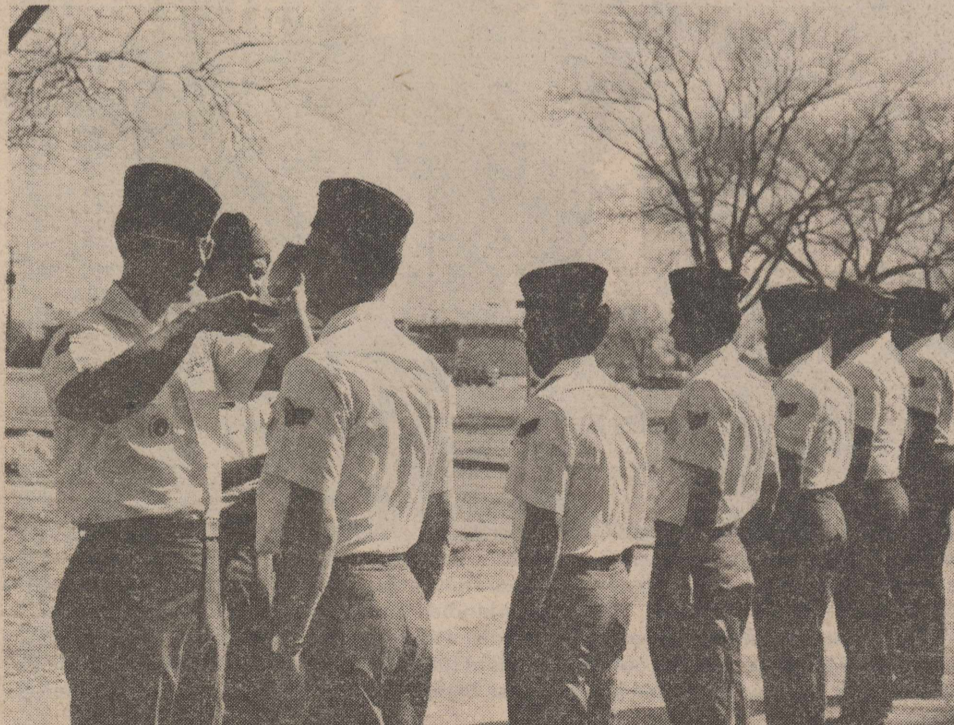

"He has shown distinct characteristics toward leadership, supervision, and a mature acceptance of responsibility," said SSgt. William S. Mabrey, NCO In Charge Environmental Health Service. "The performance of his duties are accomplished not only with perfection, but with minimal supervision."

Capt. Allan L. Haynes, chief, Aeromedical Services, said, "Airman Newcomb has shown the initiative and curiosity to easily accomplish the duties of his AFSC without previous experience and has rapidly comprehended more than the required knowledge. He has performed those duties of and Environmental Health Specialist in an outstanding manner and has made excellent progress in the On-the-Job Training program. Airman Newcomb is personally handling the Air Force Hearing Conservation Program in a most professional and outstanding manner."

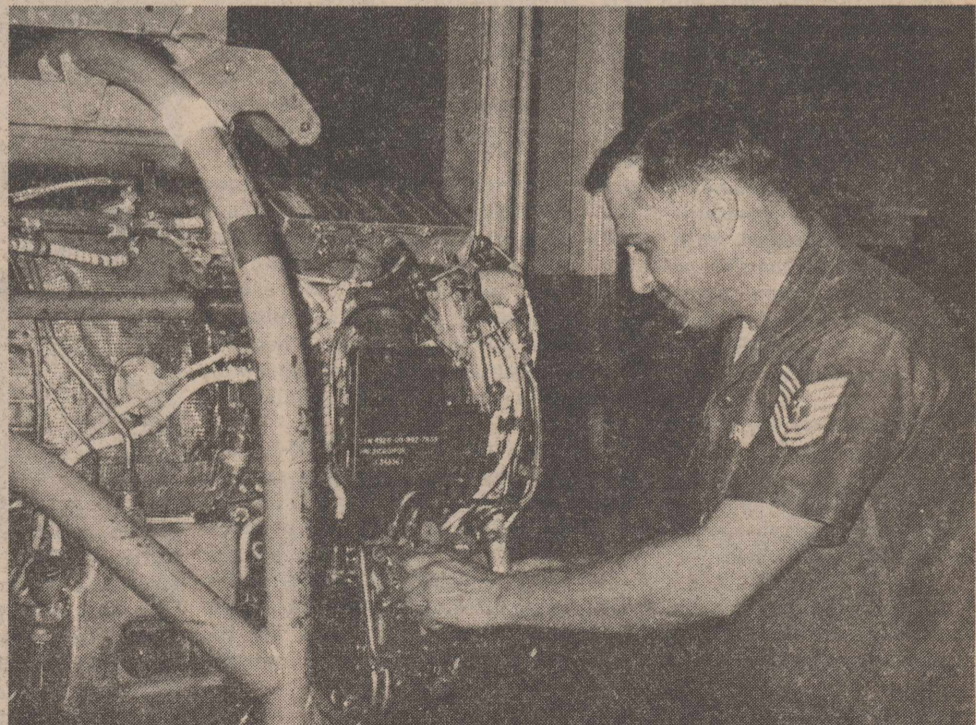

Second Lt. Carmelo F. Scalzi concluded, "Both on and off duty this individual reflects the Air Force image that we all strive to instill in our young airmen. He is a mature individual who has demonstrated an exceptional knowledge of his job, as well as a willingness to accept responsibility."

BOSS

Our singular operational mission is to train military aviators. While it sounds simple, there is a myriad of complex inputs that lead to the daily accomplishment of our mission. Safety must be a way of life, for without this crucial ingredient the magnitude of our failure can be overwhelming.

We must think safety and make a conscious effort to instill its presence in ourselves and those around us. The concept of safe operations can be more easily understood if we address it in terms meaningful to individuals; I think of it in terms of discipline, certainly something that every military person perceives. We must think positively, however, in terms of saving lives, hands, machines and money rather than punishment.

Discipline is the adjustment of personal priorities to those of your superiors. Discipline must be uncompromising in nature and must begin with our own personal standards. We must honestly admit that the easy way is not always a safe approach; a different method may take more effort now but save an irreplaceable resource in the end. Our inner, self-integrity must be firm when honest evaluation of a corner-cutting approach proves that approach to be faulty.

Safety - discipline if you will - radiates in many ways. The most obvious to me is in the maturity of our people. Students come to us for training and the quality of that training is affected to a great degree by our quality and maturity. This equation of quality training to maturity is apparent in all areas of our operation from the flight line to the OJT program. As officers or airmen we must demonstrate high standards and personal integrity in all facets of our duties. We have the job, we are the example.

If we work at safety, honesty and quality - if we set the example for maturity - our mission cannot help but follow naturally.

Selfless men died for right to vote

AFR 35-10 governs things besides hair

By Maj. Gen. Cecil E. Fox,
Commander, Sheppard
Technical Training Center

Are you in compliance with AFR 35-10? Before you answer "yes, of course" in pious indignation, you had better make a quick check.

Many people seem to get "telescopic vision" when it comes to grooming and dress standards, and only consider the provisions of the regulation concerned with hair. While these provisions are probably talked about more among the younger members of our force, they are by no means all-inclusive of what is expected of us.

A recent survey was conducted by students in the NCO Leadership School and in a short time they observed 126 discrepancies. No grade was exempt; they ranged from colonel to airman basic.

The discrepancies ranged from the ever-present haircut violations to unbuttoned pockets, jackets not zipped at least halfway up, and pants too short.

The most frequently observed discrepancies were objects protruding from pockets. Does your checkbook extend above the top of your back pocket? Did you remember to rebutton your shirt pocket when you replaced your pen?

You may consider many of these discrepancies "nit-picking," but if you are a supervisor, remember that you are under constant scrutiny by your people. They just cannot understand why you are hassling them on their haircuts when you yourself are not in compliance with some provisions of the regulation.

The standards of AFR 35-10 have one purpose-to present a uniform, disciplined image to our friends as well as to our critics and potential enemies. If we abide by our regulations in small matters, we can be expected to do what we are called upon to do in carrying out the national objectives of our country.

By Bob Reed

ATC Office of Information

The other day I was writing a standard "get-out-the-vote" article. Reaching the usual "Remember, please, to vote . . ." I stopped. I had had it.

"Please?" Legions died to endow you with the precious right to vote. It is your duty, your obligation. For your country. For yourselves. For your children.

But the sad fact is that those who vote often constitute a minority. A proud one, but a minority nonetheless. Even in the heavyweight bouts-Presidential elections-we go through the roof with joy when more than 60 per cent of the eligible electorate registers and goes to the polls.

What reasons do nonvoters give? "I don't like the candidates."

Unacceptable. Write in a name. If that isn't possible, pick the one you think most likely to grow in office. You can always bug him or her later.

"I'm sick of all politicians." Unacceptable. The country can't run without them.

"The polls say my candidate can't win, so my vote would be wasted." Unacceptable. Not voting isn't a vote against anything. It's a vote for the winner. Your vote could have cancelled out one cast for him.

I couldn't care less how you vote. (That's not completely honest, but let it ride.) Sure I have personal preferences; but what they are is none of your business, unless I choose to tell you. And vice versa.

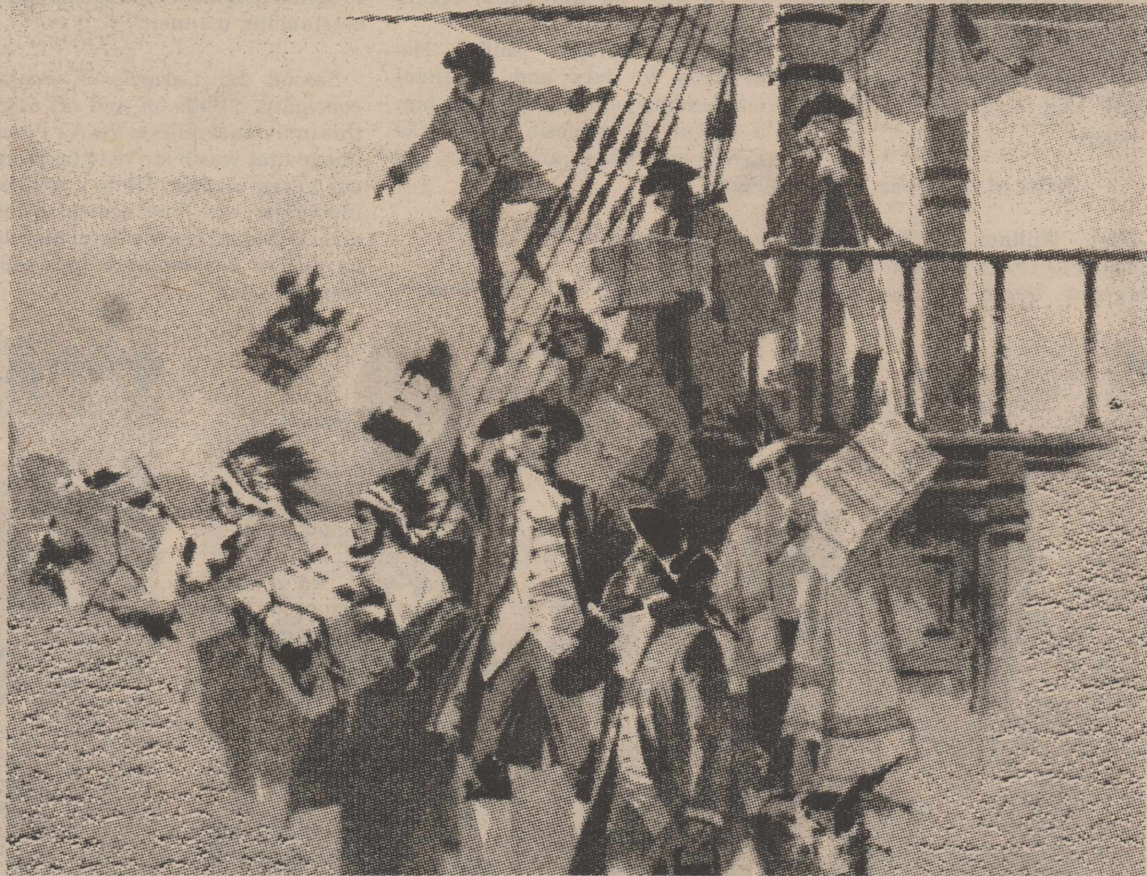

In that case we can disagree violently; but I grant you full rights to your conviction and admire you for fighting for it at the polls.

Another thing: I've sworn off listening to nonvoters cry about "our lousy lawmakers" after the election. Let 'em go find another nonvoter's shoulder to wet.

Vote. If you do, you're a dues-paying citizen in good standing.

If you don't, you don't deserve America.

BICENTENNIAL NOTES

THE BOSTON TEA PARTY-The King's ministers had placed a heavy tax on tea, the very wellspring of the colonists' life. It was decided that tea stood for tyranny and should not be bought. Sensing the serious mood of this rebellion over a pot of tea, John Adam's wife wrote, "The flame is kindled, and like lightning it catches from Soul to Soul." In Boston, in 1773, three East India Company ships loaded with tea refused to return to England. In the course of a drizzly evening, 342 chests were taken out of the holds of the ships and dumped into Boston Harbor by colonists disguised as Mohawk Indians. It became known as the Boston Tea Party. (Story and artwork courtesy 64th Student Squadron)

Spring weather brings tornado warnings

Six years have gone by since one of the most destructive forces on earth whipped through the City of Lubbock.

What started as a calm spring day, May 11, 1970 erupted into a nightmare. At 9:35 p.m. a funnel cloud protruded from a churning black sky and gouged an eight and one-half mile path out of north Lubbock. Moments later the vortex withdrew and in its wake 1,700 houses, 119 aircraft, and 10,000 cars were damaged or destroyed. The total damage was placed at $135 million, most of which would never be recovered. Lubbock escaped with 28 deaths in its worst natural disaster ever.

Constant Watch

Both the National Weather Service and the AWS unit stationed at Reese AFB watch all threatening weather developments, and issue a severe storm warning as soon as possible. On the night of the 1970 tornado, a warning for severe thunderstorms was issued one hour and 45 minutes in advance. Radio and television stations were alerted and broadcast further developments. Of the 28 people who died, few had taken the time to properly protect themselves.

Each Weather Bureau Severe Thunderstorm Warning should be treated as a primary alert. There is always the chance of a Severe Thunderstorm Warning being upgraded to a Tornado Warning. The forecaster has certain criteria to meet before a Severe Weather Warning is issued. When these are met, areas where potential storms may evolve are outlined. These areas often cover hundreds of square miles and last for several hours. Where a funnel cloud might develop and touch down is almost impossible to tell in advance.

The Tornado Belt

Reese is in the southern corner of the "Tornado Belt," which extends northward to Oklahoma and northeastward into Iowa. While tornadoes occur in other states, the greatest number occur in this region during the months from March to September.

The normal path of a tornado is from the southwest to the northwest at about 30 to 35 miles per hour. Winds as strong as 300 m.p.h. have been observed in the stronger vortices.

Cooperative Effort

Detachment 11 of the 24th Weather Squadron at Reese and the National Weather Service, located at the Municipal Airport, assist each other during times of severe weather.

Fireman and policemen are posted around the city at the beginning of a severe weather watch, and Reese has a trained observer ready to relay the approach of any danger. The National Weather Service issues its warnings to the general public through Civil Defense radio and television stations while the Base Weather Station relays its warnings directly to the Command Post. Sirens, both in Lubbock and here will not be sounded until a tornado has been sighted. Don't wait to hear the siren before reacting.

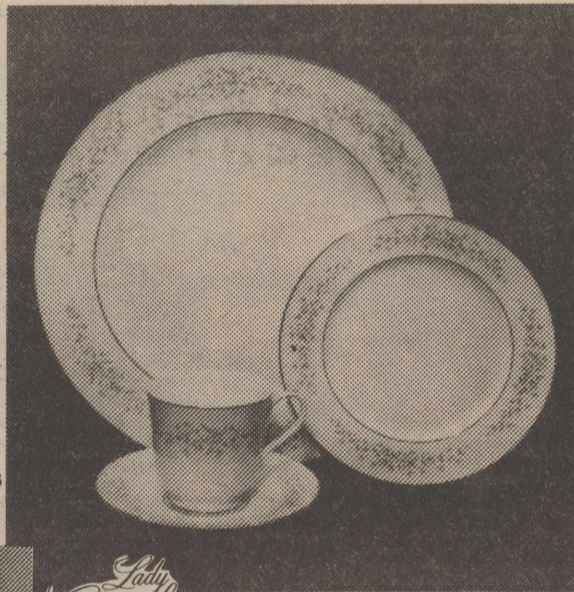

Preparation is the key to the protection of all those concerned.

The tornado instructions here will help. Cut out and place in a central location for quick reference.

TORNADO INSTRUCTIONS

TORNADO WATCH - Weather conditions are favorable for the development of tornadoes. Tornado activity may be expected.

TORNADO WARNING - Tornado has actually been sighted.

WHAT TO DO:

TORNADO WATCH

1. Monitor Emergency Broadcast System, KFYO Radio, 790 on the dial, for official Weather Bureau information if thunderstorm activity is observed.
2. For Weather Information on Television: Watch for the weather symbols that will be posted in the lower left hand side of the screen. The definitions of the symbols are listed below.

(Transparent Cloud)
Severe thunderstorm watch.

(Solid Cloud)
Severe thunderstorm warning.

(Transparent Funnel)
Tornado Watch

(Solid Funnel)
Tornado Warning

NOTE: The station will broadcast what counties the weather watch/warning will cover.

3. Secure all movable objects in the vicinity of your residence/shop. They readily become deadly flying missiles if left insecure.
4. Locate your children and restrict their movements to the immediate vicinity of your house.
5. Open windows slightly to help equalize inside and outside pressures if a tornado strikes.
6. Gather emergency supplies, i.e. flashlight, first aid kit, water, and have readily available.

TORNADO WARNING

1. STAY INSIDE YOUR BUILDING! Potential loss of life and bodily injury may result if you are caught in the open on the move.
2. Monitor KFYO Radio 790. It will keep you posted on location and time of confirmed sightings and direction of tornado movement.
3. Listen for a 3 to 5 MINUTE STEADY TONE on the base siren system, or deep roar like the rumble of a large bomber squadron or a freight train.
4. Watch for a dark, funnel-like cloud.
5. If either the roar of the tornado or sound of base sirens is heard, or the funnel actually sighted, take immediate cover in the strongest part of your residence/shop by lying flat on the floor, using mattresses or blankets for protection from flying glass/debris. For Reese Village occupants this would be in the center hall or closet. Second floor BOQ and barracks occupants should go to the strongest portion of the first floor. In offices and shops, desks and tables could protect you if you stay underneath them. REMEMBER. LIE FLAT ON THE FLOOR UNDER SOME PROTECTIVE COVER. AVOID AREAS NEAR WINDOWS OR UNDER LARGE POORLY SUPPORTED ROOFS. DO NOT REMAIN ON THE SECOND STORY OF ANY BUILDING!

POST TORNADO ACTIVITY

1. Keep calm, determine injuries, and render first aid.
2. Stay away from utility poles and power lines.

SPECIAL NOTES

1. If in a mobile home, leave and go to the community shelter.
2. If in a shopping center, stay inside! Do not try to go to your parked car.

Poor safety procedure causes fire

Five fires occurred in Air Training Command during January. One of these fires and its cause is provided for the information of all personnel.

A fire incident that occurred in a dormitory on Jan. 25 is of special significance and concern. Details of the incident show that an Air Force member was melting paste floor wax in his room for easier application to the floor. The wax ignited and, as the individual attempted to extinguish the flame with his jacket, the can of wax spilled, spreading fire across the floor.

Room curtains, bedding, and a mattress were destroyed before the fire was extinguished by the fire department. A similar fire of this nature occurred in a dormitory in September 1975.

Paste floor wax is highly combustible, easily ignited, and must never be heated/melted for application to floors.

Carelessness and disregard of established fire prevention policies and practices and failure to exercise good common sense was the cause of most of these incidents, resulting in a loss to the Air Force of $1,977.

SEASONAL HAZARD — A Lubbock fireman fights a wind-whipped fire in a nearby field last Sunday. The Wing Safety Office reminds Reese personnel that dry weather and gusty winds can turn a small spark into a raging blaze in minutes. Please be careful with fire outdoors! ## Leave selling policy changes WASHINGTON (AFNS) - Military members can be paid for no more than 60 days of accrued leave during a career. The Air Force Accounting and Finance Center announced that this change went into effect Feb. 10.

Persons who were paid for unused leave before Feb. 10 may still be paid for up to 60 days leave in the future. The new policy means that if someone sells back 15 days at one enlistment, he has only 45 days left to sell for the remainder of his career.

Persons coming up for reenlistment must use their leave, sell it, or lose it.

Younger airmen who plan to reenlist should think about selling leave at a later date. Accrued leave payments are established on base pay. An airman may benefit by waiting until later in his career to sell back his 60 days leave.

For more information contact the Customer Service Center in CBPO at Ext. 2276.

Reed discusses future of base commissaries

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - Secretary of the Air Force Thomas C. Reed visited Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, recently and during an interview, discussed the future of commissaries.

"The fundamental issue is that there have been economic hard times in the United States in the last several years. But, we have tried to protect the service people to whom I feel a tremendous loyalty. The cold hard facts are that, with the economic difficulties, we the taxpayers are just finding it hard to make ends meet. That means that there have to be some reductions. There have to be reductions throughout the system if we are to carry out the mission that you and I joined the Air Force to do.

"When it gets right down to it, I have a feeling that an awful lot of us will do whatever has to be done: the commissary issue and the other fringes. I think that there should be a benefit package that stays fixed, that doesn't change. But, in fact, I can't pledge to solve the commissary problem, because that may be one of the sacrifices that we have to make personally in order to keep carrying out our mission.

"I think all of us in the Air Force want to make darned sure that the B-52 or the F-111, or whatever aircraft, can meet their mission and if there are other conveniences along the way that must go, that's the way life is."

Bus service available to concert

Free bus service will be provided to all Reese personnel and their dependents who desire to attend the Department of Defense Bicentennial Band's concert in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on Sunday.

Two busses will leave from the flagpole parking lot in front of Bldg. 800 (Wing Headquarters) at 2:30 p.m. sharp! The concert is scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m. and should finish by about 4:30 p.m. The busses will return to Reese about 15 minutes after the concert ends.

Admission to the concert is by ticket only, but there is no charge for these tickets. At Reese, the free tickets may be picked up during duty hours at the Information Office, Room 306, building 800.

The capacity of Reese's two busses is 58 passengers, so the number of riders is limited to that number. You may make a reservation to ride the busses by informing your squadron commander or division chief.

The Bicentennial Band is composed of 64 instrumentalists and 24 vocalists from the Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, Marine Corps and the Navy. It was created specifically to supplement the bands of all the services during the two year bicentennial period. Its members were selected from the service bands already in existence and from service field bands. The Air Force has contributed 18 members of the band, 5 members of the chorus and the conductor, Lt. Col. Richard E. Thurston, to the Band.

Good weather, new class hit squadron

The 35th is recovering this week from the effects of the good weather and the new class, 77-01, trying to solo.

The volleyball team has started the season in fine fashion. Their record is now two and one. Coach Earl Smith is still soliciting members of the squadron to play volleyball.

This week Capt. John Gruser received a Commendation Medal for his performance in KC-135s, his previous assignment.

Capt. Bill Slattery was seen leaving the squadron bowling league with not one but two pairs of "rented" bowling shoes. Really Bill, how did you forget two pair? As we understand it Bill did return the shoes. The squadron bowling team under the direction of Capt. Phillip Bentley is in dire need of fresh players for intermural competition.

Conservation from the freshmen class: I.P., "Did you chair fly the mission?"

Student, "Yes sir, but I had some problems ... everytime I went over 30 degrees of bank the chair fell over."

Yes they are at it again - new class, new problems to overcome.

ACADEMICALLY SPEAKING...

By Capt. Ed Hayden
64th Student Squadron

Tucked away in the corner of the 64th Student Squadron lies the Base Audio - Visual Library.

Henry Ussery, Amn. Vivian Hunt, and Amn. Christopher Ryan are the A-V specialists at Reese, who ensure the audio-visual needs of the base and the local community are met.

They are challenged with the primary duty of supplying and maintaining the Undergraduate Pilot Training (UPT) program with required films, slides, and other training aids. Additionally, they fulfill area Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) detachments and local civic organizations requests for Air Force films, programs and related subject matter.

As a service organization, they hope you know that their job is to serve you and your dependents. So if you or your organization is in need of any audio-visual equipment, check out YOUR A-V Library in the 64th Student Squadron.

Class 76-10

At last our class can claim to be completed with the T-37 phase, except for those lucky few who return as IPs. Meanwhile, the academic house will soon be challenging section one's "no pink" policy on an upcoming systems exam. We've managed to complete seven exams without one failure.

Those singled out this week for their antics in the program include 2nd Lt. Tom Mckee, whose sock tricks are attempting to poison himself and his roommate, and 2nd Lt. "Mad Dog" Newland for his fouling grace on the basketball court.

Class 77-01

Section one's illustrious leader, Maj. Tom Fryer, failed to recover from his inverted high speed dive entry into the solo pool after soloing out our student boss, Capt. "Duck" McCoy. Duck looked right at home in the water as he happily splashed around with Major Fryer. Other splashers that haven't learned to stay above water include Second Lieutenants Carl Van Pelt, Gregg Landolt, Jeff Duncan, Mike Narkiewicz, Luis Descartes, Arther Allison, Steve Vreeland, and "Its" Heald.

The wrong award this week goes to Lieutenant Landolt for climbing into the right side of the cockpit and strapping in. Your other left - Dolt.

Class 77-02

The wives of section two were hosted at a coffee last week by the wives of "D" flight at Mrs. Wortham's home. Since 10 of the 14 students in our section are married, it turned to be quite a gaggle of girls.

Meanwhile in "Dynamic" flight, everyone has now taken their first few rides in the T-37. That can only mean business is good for the people of the Baggie Barf Company.

General Jones sets AF priorities

Randolph AFB, Tex. (ATCPS) -- In his presentation to the house Appropriations Committee, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. David C. Jones listed six future objectives and priorities. He said:

"The first is to maintain the qualitative edge we have gained. Technological advantages are perishable and in order to maintain the technical base which has so far managed to produce a qualitative edge, we must find a way to reverse the downward trend in research, development, technology and engineering (RDT&E) funding.... "Second, the efficiency of tradeoffs between mass and quality has its limits. Therefore we need to maintain force structure of sufficient size to assure adequate capability for support of national objectives....

"Third, we must continue to exploit the qualitative advantages we have (at whatever force levels are available) by improving our readiness still further....

"A fourth management objective is to improve our methods of acquiring new weapons systems....

"Fifth, as part of both R&D and acquisition improvements, we must strive to develop systems with a lower life cycle cost, particularly costs for operations and maintenance....

"Finally, permeating all the other objectives, we must maintain the professionalism of our people while achieving even better productivity."

Wing selects Airman Gable as January's top performer

Amn. Lawrence A. Gable, Publications Distribution Branch (PDO), Central Base Administration Division, has been selected as the 64th Flying Training Wing's Airman of the Month for January.

In performing his duties in PDO, Airman Gable has initiated a new system for eliminating excess forms in the PDO warehouse. This new procedure provides a system of checks which enables the PDO to cut to a minimum the problems of excess forms and to insure excess forms are reported in a timely manner. Through his hard work, methods to verify and reestablish form requirements and insure that proper form stock levels are maintained in the PDO has been established. This action resulted in a savings to the Air Force of more than $1,600.

Airman Gable has accrued 84 semester hours with St. Phillips College in San Antonio and will be attending Texas Tech University in the fall semester.

Girl Scout Week plans set

"You Belong" is the theme of National Girl Scout Week, Sunday through March 13. The broadness of that theme includes more than just Girl Scouts—it includes everyone.

Girl Scouts from the area Caprock Council of Girl Scouting will participate in a "Flames of Freedom" candlelighting ceremony to symbolize a pledge of freedom for all peoples.

The ceremony is planned in conjunction with the 64th birthday of Girl Scouting (March 12) and the 200th birthday of the United States.

Caprock Council troops will light red, white and blue Bicentennial candles at the council service center, 2567 74th Street, Lubbock, any time between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Sunday through March 13.

Troops from the 18 Texas counties in the Caprock Council will light individual candles from a taper brought back from Washington, D. C. and the 1975 National Girl Scout Convention. First Lady Betty Ford, national honorary president, lit a torch to begin the National Bicentennial project for Girl Scouts in the United States and across the world.

According to National Girl Scout president Gloria D. Scott, the ceremony will unite an international sisterhood of Girl Scouts in a Bicentennial effort to promote freedom among all races.

Girl Scouts of the USA is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world. It has more than three million girl and adult members-linked worldwide with girls and women in 94 other countries through membership in the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts.

Tournament at Chapman Field proves fruitful for Monjes

The Reese Karate Club entered three of its members Saturday in a Karate tournament sponsored by the Black Dragon Institute at Chapman Field and won a first and third place trophy.

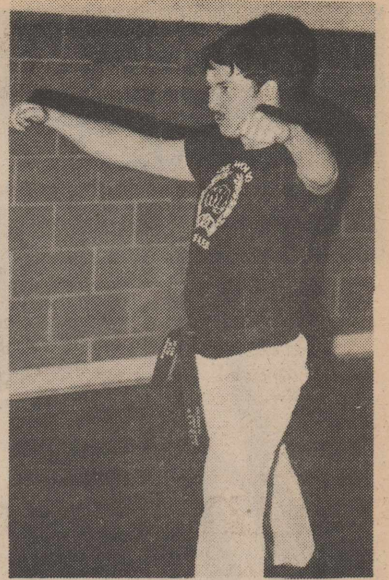

Alex Monje won a first place trophy in the Black Belt Division while Shela Monje took the third place trophy in the Green Belt Division. Richard Tilton, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, did not win a trophy but showed great technique according to Fred Flewellen, instructor of the Reese club.

Karate schools from Abilene, Amarillo, Plainview, Leland and Lubbock took part in the tournament. Entrants numbered more than 100.

The Reese Karate Club is open to all interested people. The club offers instruction in Tae Kwando, the Korean style of Karate. Instruction is free and workouts are on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 6-8 p.m. in the Base Gym. Also offered is a ladies self-defense course.

Fred Flewellen, instructor for the course, is a Second Don Black Belt and has more than four years of teaching experience in private schools.

Ten Pin Alley

By Sonny Serutan

The fire trucks have come and gone and bowling has resumed at your bowling center.

The fire was caused by a spark from a welder's torch that touched off some saw dust under the lanes. Quick work by the fire guard and the Fire Department kept damage to less than nothing.

Spark causes fire at lanes

The only scores we have are from the American Junior Bowling Congress (AJBC). The Dancy brothers shared honors Saturday morning as Maurice had a 441 series and Samuel had a 163 game.

Erin McGarrigle led the young ladies with a 153 game, 390 series.

In the Bantams Division, Stephen Davis had a 132 game, 383 series. Jason Eaton had a 132 game.

Sylvia Rodriguez took the high game honors with a 102 game while Wendy Bolkosky had the high series with a 270.

Coaches Week is from March 15 through March 22. This is the time that is customary to honor the people that have helped your children all year. Let's get together and do it up right for the Rodriguezes the Dew's etc. You have some good guys working for you folks.

Scotch Doubles was a complete sell-out Saturday night. Twenty-four couples showed. Again we advise, come early and don't be left out.

Rent-a-lane reservations for the 12-2 p.m. period on Sunday may be called in. We will reserve the lane for you but you must be there by 12:15 p.m. or lose the lane.

S.S. is doing a great job this week. He auditioned many acts and came up with a real winner. He has the entire Intramural league doing a sing-along led by Rod Wilson and Dewey Payne.

Sonny says, "Please come to us with your complaints; but come before you drink the six pack if you can arrange it."

Stucker, Geehring take FMS honors

The 64th Field Maintenance Squadron (FMS) has honored three of its members for their outstanding work and contributions to the squadron.

MSgt. Robert Schuster Jr., Propulsion Branch, was selected as the 64th FMS Senior NCO of the Year. "He has aided the Wing's flying training mission immeasurably by devoting many hours of overtime in order to insure reliable, safe aircraft are available to meet the flying schedule," said Maj. James E. Cason, commander 64th FMS.

A1C Bobby G. Stucker, Non-destructive Inspection Section, was chosen as the squadron Airman of the Year. Major Cason said, "His excellent attitude towards his work enables him to work efficiently with his fellow workers and also promotes his desire to increase his job knowledge in all systems."

A1C David A. Geehring, Flight Line Support, was chosen as the 64th FMS Airman of the Month for January. "His natural mechanical ability enables him to satisfactorily handle unusual problems encountered on the job. He grasps instructions quickly, completely, and accurately, and works calmly and effectively, no matter what the workload or working conditions," praised Major Cason.

CHAMPUS rules undergo changes

On Feb. 9 President Ford signed into law the Defense Appropriation Bill which affected the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS).

Past policy allowed eligible beneficiaries the option of selecting a military medical facility or a civilian medical facility under CHAMPUS for their inpatient care. However, it was the opinion of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives that inpatient services of military facilities were not being sufficiently utilized.

Effective Feb. 9, active duty dependents (including those residing away from their sponsor), retirees and their dependents, and survivors of deceased members who reside within a 40 mile radius of a military hospital will be required to first seek inpatient care in that facility. If the inpatient care required is not available in that facility, CHAMPUS care may be sought by obtaining a Nonavailability Statement, DD Form 1251, from the military facility. No claim will be accepted by CHAMPUS for reimbursement without a DD Form 1251, except for those beneficiaries who reside outside the 40 mile radius. This change does not pertain to emergency patient care.

For more information about the impact of this recent legislation please contact the Hospital Registrar's Office, Ext. 2521/2522 or the Registrar's Office of the military hospital nearest you.
