Major points and minor, too

It's about time: To talk water safety.

The swimming and boating season is at hand—which you easily gather from reports of recurring water mishaps.

Water accidents are so needless! They can be prevented by a minimum of common sense.

Good advice for swimmers: Never swim alone, don't go beyond your depth, don't venture into a swift current or water where the tidal action is strong.

As for boaters, never overload your craft and be sure to have plenty of life preservers aboard.

Overheard teen age girls: "Gee it's hard to realize that some day we'll be dead." "Well, that's life."

Comment in an elevator: I worry a little. I think my wife's overdrawn at the brain bank.

A man stopped to aid a feminine motorist with a flat tire: What kind of jack do you have?

After a few moments of thought, she replied: Will $5 be enough?

ON THE BEAM

I know what the first man on the moon is going to find—a lot of smashed TV cameras.—Bob Boehm.

SURGICAL POEM

His features need much rearranging; he left the curb as the light was changing.—Liz of the Tunnel Top.

Purely Personal: Why do so many apartment houses have such thin walls that one practically lives with the family next door?—I can't understand the thinking of a family that spends more on its dog than it does on church and charity. I lose my appetite whenever I see the chef at work with a cigar in his mouth.

A slender figure to some women is what they find on their husband's pay check.—Al Spang

A Tokyo used car dealer exhibits this sign: We pay highest prices for cars we buy. We get lowest prices for cars we sell. How we stay in business? We lucky.—Catholic Digest.

Experience is what we have left after you've already made the mistake!

THINGS I'LL NEVER HEAR FROM MY WIFE

Dear, what you need is a good rest. Why don't you take the vacation this year, and I'll stay home.

I've decided I really don't need a new hat.

I'm so pleased. Marge has bought a new dress for the dance, too, and exactly like mine.

There's much more space in the closets than I need. Are you sure you don't need more room for your things?

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

How's your housekeeping IQ? Gallup interviewers took a survey recently of women across the country to find the answers to these questions:

Q.1. Do you think a household cleaner should also act as a disinfectant, as a deodorant, or both?

Q.2. Have you, yourself, changed from a non-pine oil type of general household cleaner or disinfectant to a pine oil brand within the last year or two, or not?

Q.3. In buying a general household cleaner or disinfectant, how important to you is it that it contains pine oil?

Q.4. Why do you feel that way?

Q.5. Do you use disinfectants in your home, or not?

Q.6. For what purpose do you use them? Are there any other uses you have found for a disinfectant?

Now how do your answers match up with those of the women in the survey? Here's what they had to say:

A.1. Three out of four women today think that a household cleaner should also act both as a disinfectant and as a deodorant. In addition, about one woman in six thinks a household cleaner should also act as a disinfectant.

A.2. One out of every ten women say they have changed from non-pine oil type of general household cleaner or disinfectant to a pine oil brand within the last year or two.

A.3. One out of seven women say that it is "very important" to them that it contains pine oil.

A.4. Pine oil gives a cleaner than clean smell, it improves the cleaning power of a cleaner, it kills germs, it makes a cleaner a disinfectant also, and "I like pine oil."

A.5. 83% use disinfectants in their homes.

A.6. The principal purpose for which a disinfectant is used in the home is to clean the bathroom; the next most widely-mentioned use is to kill germs.

During the past 25 years Texas Forest Service tree nurseries have produced almost 400 million pine seedlings. Such a quantity is sufficient to plant a strip of land 100 feet wide, along each side of the earth at the equator. Such pine and hardwood seedlings are sold in Texas nurseries at a nominal cost each winter. They are made available only for re-creation and windbreaks.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

It is a violation of the law to either carelessly or deliberately set on fire the lands of another. In 1951 the Legislature made it a felony for a person to deliberately set fire to grass or forest land owned by another. They also enacted a law making it a misdemeanor to negligently set, or cause to be set on fire, the lands of another. The Texas Forest Service is primarily responsible for enforcing these statutes.
