Supplemental Medicare Deadline Near

Postmaster Hankins announced today that application blanks for supplemental Medicare benefits are available at the Main window of the Newcastle Post Office.

The application blanks are being made available as the Social Security Administration seeks to contact 31 million senior citizens before a March 31 deadline imposed by the Medicare law.

President Johnson has proclaimed March as "National Medicare Enrollment Month." He urged all federal agencies and all citizens to cooperate in enrolling senior citizens in the program.

Through direct mailing and other means, the Social Security Administration has had contact with 16 of the 19.1 million citizens who will be 65 or over on July 1. Of the 16 million who replied, less than one million said they did not want to sign up for the supplemental program.

The supplemental program costs $3 a month and provides doctor bills and other benefits. Everyone 65 or over is eligible for the basic hospital benefits under Medicare.

Senior citizens who reached 65 before 1966 face a two year delay if they do not sign up by March 31. The application forms are preaddressed to the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, Maryland.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS:
Hunters Are Really Conservationists!

That title may surprise some of you, but it's true. And it seems to me that it's time once again to speak out in defense of the hunter.

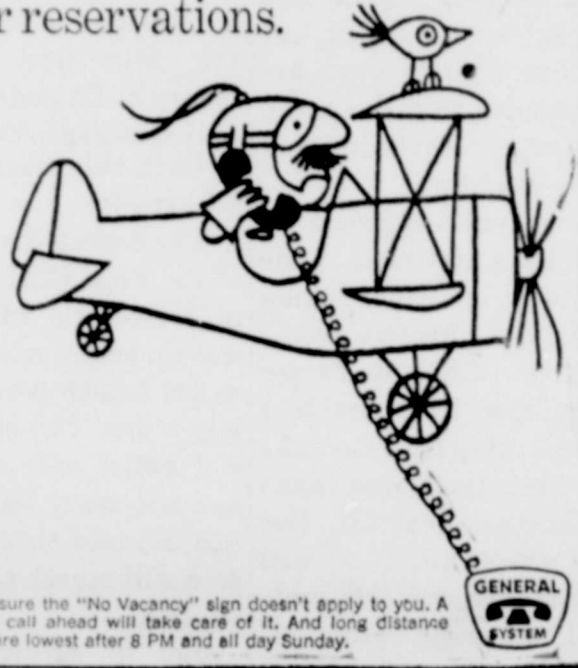

First, remember that the license dollars of hunters and fishermen finance many kinds of conservation activities — pollution control, soil conservation, stream and watershed protection, etc. These dollars also benefit many kinds of wildlife which are never taken for sport.

Most important, however, is the proven fact that most wildlife produces more young than the environment can support.

This surplus must be harvested, for not only will many die of starvation, but the overcrowding leads to epidemics of disease which could wipe out the entire population. And what could be less humane than slow starvation or being eaten alive by a predator?

Anyone who understands how nature keeps wildlife in balance with its environment also realizes that the hunter is taking only what will be lost, anyway. Many will die within the year; the surplus cannot be stored. There's no disputing that the hunter is biologically right.

Phone ahead long distance for reservations.

Make sure the "No Vacancy" sign doesn't apply to you. A phone call ahead will take care of it. And long distance rates are lowest after 8 P.M. and all day Sunday.

FISH IN THE DIET

The Pennsylvania Medical Society reports that an estimated one billion tons of fish are born every year in the waters which cover so much of the earth. The balance of this huge increase is maintained because the larger fish feed on the smaller fish, and themselves fall prey to the still larger fish. And to man.

In many homes during this Lenten season, religious considerations call for abstinence from meats and meat products on fast days. There may also be some meat-lovers who will give up meat as a Lenten sacrifice. If so, protein alternates are essential to keep a balanced diet.

Fish Is Plentiful

Among the best of these is fish. There are many nations where fish is much more plentiful than meat. One finds fish as a course routinely on hotel and restaurant menus in all of Europe, at dinner and sometimes at luncheon. In the Orient fish is a staple in many diets where meats seldom appear. The variety and tastiness of fish dishes in the Scandinavian countries is well known.

When we say 'fish', we include as a matter of course, the shell fish — oysters, clams, crayfish, lobsters, crabs, mussels, abalone, scallops and the less popular squid. Any variety of fish supplies good quality protein. Fish and seafood from the ocean contribute in addition, necessary minute quantities of iodine required by the body. Before the cause of simple goiter was ascertained about 45 years ago, populations using extensive quantities of deep sea fish in their diets thus were automatically protected against this condition, and they still are.

Former Problems

Fish used to be difficult to handle. They had to be cooked and eaten rather promptly in order to avoid spoilage. Good fish from the ocean were scarce inland. Out of this there arose the superstition that fish and milk should not be eaten at the same time. Actually, fish and milk were both about equally perishable before modern methods of handling were available, so any disturbance created by taking fish and milk together was probably due to one or the other being spoiled. Now that both can be handled safely, no one need be afraid of delicious fish-and-milk dishes such as oyster stew, fish bisques and Boston chowders, scalloped fish and seafood, or just a good cold glass of milk with a fish dinner.

Fish Is Delicious

There is no end of delicious fish dishes to suit any taste; broiled swordfish steak, boiled finnan haddock, deep-fried Dover sole, pompano en papillote (baked in a paper bag with shrimp and lobster sauce), tuna casserole with rice, brook trout, shrimps in cocktail or deep-fried, lobsters in a dozen different styles, oysters Rockefeller, fish sticks (good for a change at breakfast), salmon loaf, smoked fish of various kinds, herring marinated or peppered . . . Fish, in fact, should be included in the diet year 'round. It's a good food.

TYPE OF HEART DISEASE

PREVALENCE OF HEART DISEASE AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE IN U.S.

In addition to the 14,621,000 Americans with definite heart disease, and the 6,902,000 with high blood pressure (hypertension), there are 12,979,000 others with "suspect heart disease."

HEART AND BLOOD VESSEL DISEASES are not only responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States each year but also afflict more Americans than any other cause. (In prevalence, arthritis-rheumatism is second, and mental-nervous disorders third.) Chart is based on recent National Health Survey. The study did not cover persons suffering from the after-effects of stroke, one of the major forms of heart and blood vessel disease. You can help in the fight against the Number One health enemy by giving generously to the Heart Fund.

Consumption of poultry products is expected to take another jump this year as pork and beef production declines, according to statements made at the recent Junior Poultry and Egg Fact Finding Conference at Kansas City, Mo.

Among the young delegates attending the 13th annual event were 4-H Club and FFA members chosen for their top poultry projects.

They held their own clinics and heard expert poultrymen and toured the vast display of equipment used in the $6 billion poultry industry.

Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc., of Kirkland, Wash., sponsor for the fifth straight year of the national 4-H Poultry program, was one of the exhibitors. Representing the worldwide hatcheries was A. L. Carter, assistant manager of the franchise department.

Mr. Carter talked to the young visitors about careers in the industry. Among the challenging fields, he said, are genetics, nutrition, veterinary science and teaching.

Successful careers also can be found in advertising, transportation, engineering, marketing and accounting, he added, for farm youth who plan to earn their livelihood off the farm.
