

Parmer County Strong

By Wendy Case

County stock shows can be full of all kinds of activity... animals getting a cold bath on a freezing morning before the sun comes up, a runaway pig, a stubborn steer, a variety of foul smells, lots of laughter, and even a few tears. To many, it seems like organized chaos. To the families that show, the county show marks either the ending of countless hours spent caring for those animals or the beginning of more busy months ahead. Either way, most families love to see their child's name on the list of those that made it into the sale.

ing what was happening - but his mother knew. When the auctioneer said, "SOLD!" Pam was in tears, something you will rarely see from her in public. Her son's goat had just brought in more money from the sale than any other animal had or would that day. But the goat had very little to do with what had just happened...

The crowd was on their feet - clapping, smiling, and crying. Everyone had come together for that moment to show one of their own that they were there for them and loved them beyond measure. Sadly, less than two months ago, Pam's husband Heath passed away after complications from COVID-19. He was a loving husband and dedicated father and he was grateful for the friends in his community.

This small Texas county that people pass through, usually on their way to somewhere else, wrapped this sweet family in a blanket of love, strength, support, compassion, friendship, and hope. It was truly a moment that warmed all our souls. Thank you Husted family for allowing us to walk with you through this journey. And thank you to the residents of Parmer County for blessing this family with immeasurable kindness!

In Parmer County, the sale and buyer's meal is held on Saturday. The show ring is transformed into a dining hall and auction house of sorts. The top placing animals make it into the sale. When an exhibitor has multiple animals qualify for the sale, they take their top 2 and the rest are pulled from the sale. In turn, animals get "bumped" up the list and more kids make it into the sale. This year, 28 exhibitors got bumped. There were 147 animals in the sale, from some amazing rabbits to some incredible steers and loads of goats, sheep, and pigs.

While most people would say the show itself is where all the action is, the place to be on Saturday, January 16th was in Friona, Texas for the 2021 Parmer County Junior Livestock sale. That was the day the people of Parmer County came together and showed how great small town, country living truly is. You see, there was a boy named Grayson who had two older brothers that were a little disappointed that his 9th placed goat got bumped into the sale instead of one of their animals. Grayson's mom said he loves raising and caring for the animals but he doesn't love the showing part yet.

Several hours into the sale, it was Grayson's turn to stand at the front of the room, hold his white, 9th placed ribbon, and let the bidding begin on his goat. The bidding started and quickly the dollar amount began to rise. It got higher and higher and higher - all the while Grayson just stood there with a smile on his face not fully understand-

Alexis Carpenter is all smiles (probably) as she poses with her prized barrow and a first place ribbon. See complete coverage of the 84th Parmer County Livestock Show in the special section of this week's Friona Star.

Pigtastic!

Congratulations to all the 4-H and FFA students who participated in the 84th edition of the Parmer County Junior Livestock Show conducted at the Friona Community Center last week. The 320 animals exhibited during the annual event consisted of 14 rabbits, 152 barrows, 56 goats, 68 lambs, and 30 steers.

The Premium Sale total of $260,550.00 set a new record for the Parmer County Livestock Show. It eclipsed last year's total of $201,300.00 by almost 30%.

Thanks to all of the Ag teachers, 4-H leaders, and parents for providing an opportunity for kids to get involved with agriculture at the ground level.

Small Town Cookin'

By Jeri Lynn White

National Soup Month

I just don't think you can go wrong with soup, so here are a few more soup recipes to try out this week.

VEGETABLE BARLEY SOUP

www.budgetbytes.com

Total Cost: $6.67 recipe / $1.11 serving

INGREDIENTS

- 1 yellow onion ($0.32)
- 2 cloves garlic ($0.16)
- 2 Tbsp olive oil ($0.32)
- 1/2 lb. carrots (about 4) ($0.45)
- 1 28oz. can diced tomatoes ($1.59)
- 1 cup pearly barley ($0.89)
- 1/2 tsp dried basil ($0.05)
- 1/2 tsp dried oregano ($0.05)
- freshly cracked black pepper ($0.05)
- 6 cups vegetable broth ($0.78)
- 1 russet potato (about 3/4 lb.) ($1.22)
- 1 cup frozen green beans ($0.271)
- 1/2 cup frozen corn ($0.10)
- 1/2 cup frozen peas ($0.19)
- 1 Tbsp lemon juice ($0.03)
- 1 handful fresh parsley (optional garnish) ($0.20)

INSTRUCTIONS

Dice the onion and mince the garlic. Add the onion, garlic, and olive oil to a large soup pot and sauté over medium heat for about 5 minutes, or until the onion is soft and translucent. Meanwhile, peel and dice the carrots. Once the onions are soft, add the carrots to the soup pot, along with the canned diced tomatoes (with juices), barley, basil, oregano, some freshly cracked pepper, and vegetable broth. Stir the contents of the pot to combine, place a lid on top, turn the heat up to medium-high, and bring the broth up to a boil. Once boiling, turn the heat down to medium-low, and let the soup simmer, with the lid in place, stirring occasionally, for 30 minutes. While the soup simmers, peel and dice the potato into 1/2-inch cubes. After the soup has simmered and the barley is mostly tender, add the diced potatoes and continue to simmer for 10 minutes more, or just until the potatoes are tender. Once the potatoes are tender, add the frozen green beans, corn, and peas. Stir to combine, and heat through (about 5 minutes in the simmering soup). Finally, add the lemon juice to the soup and stir to combine. Taste the soup and adjust the salt or pepper to your liking. Serve hot, with fresh chopped parsley on top as a garnish, if desired.

Potato Soup

DIRECTIONS

Peel, cube, boil, drain and "mush" potatoes to the consistency you like (I like them lumpy, but my kids like smaller pieces). In separate pan, melt butter, add flour, and cook while stirring for about a minute or so.

Add half the milk and stir until lumps are out of flour mixture. Add remaining milk and on med-high heat, heat to a boil. Stir almost constantly or it will scorch. After boiling, turn heat off and add remaining ingredients.

CHUNKY HAM AND BEAN SOUP

www.budgetbytes.com

Total Cost: $6.70 recipe / $1.68 serving

INGREDIENTS

- 1 yellow onion ($0.32)
- 3 carrots ($0.30)
- 3 ribs celery ($0.35)
- 2 cloves garlic ($0.16)
- 1 lb. cooked ham ($3.75)
- 1 Tbsp cooking oil ($0.04)
- 3 15oz. cans cannellini beans ($1.47)
- 1/4 tsp dried thyme ($0.02)
- freshly cracked black pepper ($0.03)
- 2 cups chicken broth (or more as needed) ($0.26)

INSTRUCTIONS

Dice the onion, peel, and slice the carrots, slice the celery, and mince the garlic. Dice the ham into bite-sized chunks. Add the ham and cooking oil to a large soup pot. Sauté the ham for 3-5 minutes over medium heat, or until it achieves a decent amount of browning. Remove the browned ham to a clean bowl. Add the onion, carrots, celery, and garlic to the pot in place of the ham. Sauté the vegetables for about 5 minutes over medium heat, or until the onions have softened. Allow the moisture released from the vegetables to help dissolve the browned bits of ham from the bottom of the soup pot as you stir. While the vegetables are sautéing, add one of the three cans of beans to a blender, with the liquid from the can, and purée until smooth. Drain the remaining two cans of beans. Add all three cans of beans (one puréed and two drained) to the soup pot with the vegetables. Also add 1/4 tsp dried thyme, some freshly cracked pepper (about 10 cranks of a pepper mill), and 2 cups chicken broth. Stir to combine, then turn the heat up to medium-high and allow the soup to come to a boil. Once it reaches a boil, turn the heat down to medium and allow the soup to continue to boil for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. As the soup boils it will reduce and thicken. If the soup becomes too thick, add more chicken broth or water to achieve your desired soup consistency. After the soup has boiled for 15 minutes and has thickened, stir the cooked ham back into the soup. Give the soup a taste and adjust the salt or pepper to your liking. I did not add any additional salt, but I did top each bowl with a little fresh pepper. Serve hot!

God's Authority Rejected

By Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

God's sovereign authority and control over all his creation is a foundational truth that his children can rest in through trials and tribulations as well as in the midst of their triumphs. God is omniscient, omnipotent, and omnipresent, and those who live under his rule by following Jesus Christ and his ways can expect a life of joy and peace in the Lord, yet those who reject God's authority will continue to spiral deeper into the depravity of their own hearts and minds.

Romans 1:16-17 boldly proclaims "I am not ashamed of the gospel..."; but in the following verses God proclaims what happens to those who reject his authority. Naturally, hell is the final destination of those who reject the Lord, and Romans 2 is clear about that, but in Romans 1:18-32 we see the divine wrath of God's abandonment on a culture that rejects God's authority. This divine wrath is when God pulls back his hand of restraint on a people and gives them over to their own sinful, selfish, depraved desires. In fact, the problem with the rejecting of God is not that they don't know he exists, but the problem is that they willfully reject this truth and plunge themselves into worshipping the creation instead of the Creator. As God's hand of restraint is pulled back, this allows for a plunging into greater sin that progresses from idol worship of the creation (v21-25), to perversion of creation order through homosexuality and other immoral sexual acts (v26-27), and finally ends up with morality itself being desecrated as people cast off restraint and marinate in their depravity and wicked ways.

Romans 1:18-32 is a disturbing passage not only because of the truth that is proclaimed, but also because this is what is happening to our culture. This evil drift has been going on for decades, and we desperately need to turn back to the Lord instead of drift into further ungodliness.

Panhandle Parables

When You Meet a Skunk...

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

When I was in high school I worked one summer out at Paco feed yard. One morning early I rounded the corner of the shop and heard someone yell, "Jeff! Look Out! SKUNK!" I froze long enough to see a skunk running at cheetah like speeds towards me. It hadn't really seen me, but the meeting was going to be immediate. Let me just say, "When you meet a skunk, don't kick it!" As you might have gathered, I know this from experience. The outcome was as obvious. I kicked him right in the nose only to find that caused him to flip in midair and like one of those Brazilian soccer players in the flip he let lose. As he went sailing through the air he left me with a reminder.

At first, I thought I smelled like garlic, but as the scent soaked in nausea soon followed. I ran to the wash bay and sprayed myself down with a high-powered spray gun. Lesson #2: When sprayed by a skunk don't add water under pressure it will just spread the smell around. Needless to say, I made a few cowboys chuckle, but no one sat with me at lunch and it was a while before I could eat garlic bread.

Sin sometimes shows up this way. Not always, but sometimes we do things in the heat of the moment that seem right then, but afterward the reality and often the consequence stink and I don't mean just a little bit. Sin may cause some to chuckle, but they won't sit with you or help you get rid of it. All this because you chose to react in a situation that left others noticing you for all the wrong reasons. Yes, I can argue my case, justify my actions, but it doesn't change the fact that I now stink.

If sin really smelled like a skunk, I bet most of us wouldn't kick it either. Yet sin may not smell too bad to us, but it sure does to God. After all He desires a fragrant aroma which is us imitating Christ. Think carefully how you react and be careful sin is waiting to share with you a consequence you really do not want.

My Covid Journey

By Teena Hughs

On January 2nd, I woke up with no sense of taste or smell, and thus began my journey with covid.

I readily admit I had a mild case of the virus. At first, I had no trouble eating, but then nothing started tasting or looking good. So, I started eating less and less, and sleeping more and more. As a result, I found myself getting weaker, with even less desire to eat. On the 11th, Feller came up and started helping me gain back my strength. To be honest, I didn't realize how weak I had become!

So, as I started getting better, I thought about what I was learning from my experience. First thing, covid is the work of satan. It affected me negatively in every way possible: mentally, physically, emotionally, spiritually; it affected my nerves and my level of frustration. Some days, I feel like I am getting over it; some days my mind doesn't work as well as it did the day before. In doing Bible study, some days I can think clearly and do my lessons without problems; some days it is the opposite. I just never know.

The number one thing I have learned is that NO ONE should go through covid alone. You need someone who will call you and check on you; you need someone who will go to the grocery store and get food for you, even when no food looks good, or you have no desire to eat anything. Nourishment is the key to getting through covid, because you have to keep up your strength.

Feller called me at 8:20 a.m. every morning, and that made me get up and get my clothes on; it made me look outside to see what the weather was doing so I could tell him; it made me get going.

Then, he would call me at noon, in mid-afternoon, and in the evening. Those phone calls were my life-line to the outside world. Because I never felt terribly bad, I thought I could handle everything by myself; but, the lack of energy was a problem. It was when Feller asked me if I was weak, and I had to say YES, that I got the help I needed to get through this.

If you know someone with covid, please don't hesitate to help them in any way you can, especially by talking to them. You don't have to make personal contact with them; you can leave food by their front door. Just don't let them go through covid alone. It is an evil virus, and sadly no one knows if they are going to get a mild case like I got, or a severe case like my brother-in-law. Whether people know they need help or not, they need it. Please be that person that helps!

School Board orders General Election

A Regular Meeting of the Board of Trustees of Friona ISD was held on Monday, January 18, 2020 at 7:00 p.m. in the Board Meeting Room of the FISD Administration Building located at 909 E. 11th Street in Friona, Texas.

January is recognized nationally as school board appreciation month. Superintendent Jimmy Burns commended the Board of Trustees for their hard work and dedication to the students. He presented each board member with a token of appreciation from the school district.

Board members heard a report from Parkhill, Smith, & Cooper and Teinert Construction regarding the school construction/renovation project.

The Board approved a motion to order a General Election for the election of three (3) at-large School Board Trustees to be held on May 1, 2021. The terms of Jason Rector, Andy Montana, and Antonio Rocha expire this year. The deadline to file for an application to become a candidate is Friday, February 12th. Approval was also given to enter into a Joint Election Agreement with the City of Friona.

The consent agenda was approved. This agenda includes the Minutes of previous meetings, fund reports, maintenance reports, account reports, and the payment of monthly bills. The Board then went into Closed Session.

This is only a brief summary of the meeting. Any questions should be directed to the FISD Board of Trustees. The agenda for this meeting can be found at frionaisd.com and by clicking on the Boardbook link.

Check Your Mirrors

By Sue Jane Sullivan

Texas seceded from the Union in 1861 for political reasons. Some in the Lone Star State want to do this again. I would rather be identified as both an American and a Texan. Smugly I say, there is no more extraordinary birthright. But, for those of you on the secession train right now, here are some considerations.

From the Smithsonian Magazine publication (March 2, 2017) writer Erick Trickey noted that "Article IV, Section 3, of the U.S. Constitution states that Congress must approve any new states. But Texas' claim to an exception comes straight from the 1845 joint congressional resolution admitting Texas into the Union. It reads: New States of convenient size not exceeding four in number, in addition to said State of Texas and having sufficient population, may, hereafter by the consent of said State, be formed out of the territory thereof, which shall be entitled to admission under the provisions of the Federal Constitution. Supporters of Texas division say this means that Congress pre-approved a breakup."

However, some scholars argue that the 1868 Supreme Court Case, Texas vs. White, settled the secession issue after the Civil War. That ruling maintained that when Texas "became one of the United States, she entered into an indissoluble relation."

Modern day secessionists could push for the former Republic of Texas to be subdivided. Efforts by Texans Isaac Van Zandt, Peter Flanagan, E.J. Davis, and John Nance Gardner came up short. Still, they kept the possibility alive that perhaps a subdivision approved by Congress might benefit Texans. Proponents of the split argued that Texas would gain more representation in Washington, D.C. Texas divided into four additional states would net eight more senators.

Just in case, let me throw out some suggestions for your realignment: (1) PECOS with capital city El Paso, (2) CAPROCK with capital city Lubbock, (3) MISSION with capital city McAllen, (4) BRAZOS with capital city Houston, and (5) WILLIE NELSON with capital city Fort Worth.

My preference? Let me put it to you this way--I don't mind Alaska being the largest state in our country, but I darn sure don't want California to take our spot as the second largest. I say we keep Texas our Texas big, bold, and beautiful as is.

State Capital Highlights

By Chris Cobler

Observers welcome quiet opening to Legislature

The Texas Legislature opened quietly, which delighted everyone after the violence inside the U.S. Capitol the previous week.

At the Texas State Capitol, a variety of legislative agendas took center stage at the start of the 87th session, which will run 140 days. Gov. Greg Abbott's goals include ensuring Texans have access to high-quality healthcare, improving public safety, getting Texans back to work and promoting the state's economic recovery.

Many other state organizations announced their agendas, too:

- The Texas Farm Bureau outlined 11 priorities, starting with protecting property owners' rights under eminent domain law. Other legislative priorities include protecting landowners and agricultural producers' rights to surface water and groundwater; legalizing reasonable chemical controls for feral hogs and maintaining all current legal methods of controlling feral hogs; and supporting efforts to install broadband and cellular infrastructure in underserved rural communities.

- Raise Your Hand Texas is focused on making sure public dollars remain in public schools. Some of those policy recommendations include protecting all investments made in 2019's House Bill 3, including the funding for full-day pre-kindergarten; ensuring federal stimulus dollars are used to increase public education funding; continuing to invest in students with the goal of reaching the national average in per-student funding; and opposing any form of taxpayer subsidies to private schools and vendors, such as tax credit scholarships, education savings accounts, vouchers for students in special education and virtual vouchers.

- The Texas Alliance of Energy Producers will be working with lawmakers to avoid proposals to raise taxes, impose new or higher fees, or shift additional regulatory costs onto the industry or mineral interest holders. The alliance also plans to participate in the Coalition for Critical Infrastructure to put forward reasonable solutions to address landowners' concerns about eminent domain.

"This session will have some unique challenges due to COVID protocols and how the legislative process will be conducted," Farm Bureau President Russell Boening said. "It will be different, but what has not changed is the importance of making sure the voices of farm and ranch families are heard at the Capitol."

Raise Your Hand Texas officials said lawmakers can keep their promises to education despite the tight budget outlook.

"Even during this difficult budget cycle, the state has options to continue investing in and fully funding public education. These options can give our schools the ability to provide the services our students need and to effectively implement targeted interventions for learning loss that occurred over the last year due to COVID-19," Raise Your Hand Texas wrote in a statement.

Jason Modglin, energy alliance president, encouraged lawmakers in search of revenue to consider whether all energy sources are paying as much as oil and gas producers.

"Renewable energy projects in the state do not pay a severance tax to the state like we must do," Modglin wrote in Shalemag.com. "Those arguing Texas and the U.S. should fully transition to renewable energy sources have offered no plan for how they will fund schools, roads and water infrastructure in the same way oil and gas severance taxes do. For example, electric vehicles are currently not required to pay for the use of roads like gasoline and diesel vehicles must."

Connecting rural Texas

Regular readers of "Capital Highlights" know of readers' high interest in improving the access to high-speed internet for rural Texans. Connected Nation Texas recently asked lawmakers to offer their thoughts on the need.

"Many of the counties I represent do not have a hospital or even a doctor, and broadband can help bridge the healthcare gap these rural residents face," said Sen. Charles Perry, a Republican representing West Texas' District 28.

Connected Nation Texas does not do any lobbying for legislation, but state program director Jennifer Harris said she anticipated many lawmakers would try to offer solutions this session.

Sen. Robert Nichols, R-Jacksonville, and Rep. Trent Ashby, R-Lufkin, have announced their intent to file legislation aimed at expanding access. They said their bill would "affirm the state's commitment to closing the digital divide for Texans who lack either access to internet service or the means to subscribe to the services offered in their community."

"The coronavirus pandemic has underscored the need for reliable access to the internet and exposed the breadth of ways in which connectivity impacts daily life," Ashby said in a statement. "It's my hope that passage of this bill will ensure our state is serious about working to make 21st century investments in favor of economic development, education, healthcare, public safety and the many other industries which benefit from connectivity."

The upcoming legislation includes:

- Creation of a broadband development office within the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts.

- A broadband development program funded by the newly established broadband development account.

- Establishment of a broadband development map to be updated regularly and published by the office.

The development within a year of a statewide broadband plan.

Gas prices continue higher

By GasBuddy

Gasoline prices in Texas have risen 7.4 cents in the past week, averaging $2.09 per gallon, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 13,114 stations in Texas. This compares with the national average that has increased 4.2 cents versus last week to $2.38 per gallon, according to GasBuddy.

Including the change locally during the past week, prices were 14.9 cents per gallon lower than a year ago and are 18.4 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has increased 15.6 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 17.4 cents per gallon lower than a year ago.

"Gas prices have jumped to yet another multi-month high as crude oil price rise amidst perceived improvement in the COVID-19 pandemic, which continues to pump prices up as demand shows renewed signs of recovery," said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy. "In addition, with rumors swirling that President-elect Biden plans to cancel approval of the Keystone XL pipeline, which would cut off reliable Canadian oil to the U.S., oil prices may see additional pressure in the coming days. For now, the upward trend in gas prices may slow from the sharp rise in the last week, but motorists shouldn't expect much of a break from rising gas prices, which now stand less than twenty cents from their year-ago levels."

GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for station-level data spanning nearly two decades. GasBuddy's survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country. GasBuddy data is accessible at <http://FuelInsights.GasBuddy.com>.

Weather negatively impacts annual Silage Trial

By Kay Ledbetter

The 2020 Texas A&M AgriLife Research and Extension Forage Sorghum Silage Trial was grown during a summer cropping season marked by hot, dry and windy conditions as well as a Sept. 9 cold front.

Grown near Bushland, the trial consisted of 71 sorghum hybrids including forage sorghums, sorghum-Sudan grasses and grain sorghum hybrids. Evaluated hybrids included brown midrib and brachytic variants.

"Lower-than-average yields in 2020 were a function of stressful environmental conditions, which resulted in reduced biomass production and poor grain development," said Jourdan Bell, Ph.D., Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service agronomist, Amarillo.

Yields decline under weather stress

The average forage yield was 18.2 tons per acre with yields ranging from 12.3-25.3 tons per acre at 65% moisture. In comparison, the average yield in 2019 was 22.2 tons per acre with yields ranging from 18.4-28.8 tons per acre.

While sorghum yields were significantly reduced by weather conditions, the impact is very noticeable when evaluating corn hybrid checks, Bell said. Because corn silage is the silage of choice, corn hybrids are included as a check in the AgriLife forage sorghum trials at Bushland. The Bushland trial is conducted under conditions representative of regional, limited-irrigated forage production systems, so corn hybrids are a good indication of the in-season stress as well as the yield potential of sorghum in a water-stressed environment.

While corn hybrids have the ability to make up to 30 tons per acre under well-watered conditions, yields will be reduced in a water-limited environment, she said. However, sorghums do not shut down as quickly under water stress. In 2019, the average corn yield was 17.7 tons per acre while in 2020, the average corn yield was 12.6 tons per acre at 65% moisture.

Damage comes in waves

Bell said the 2020 in-season precipitation totaled 6.24 inches, with none of that occurring after Sept. 9. Although sorghum is a heat-tolerant crop that can withstand temperatures as high as 104 degrees, crop water demand increases with elevated temperatures. Limited crop water - soil moisture, precipitation and irrigation - compounded plant responses to heat stress, resulting in curling leaves, poor panicle exertion, stunted height and reduced biomass in some hybrids.

Adding insult to injury, the crop was hit by another weather extreme on Sept. 9, when temperatures dropped to as low as 35 degrees at a critical sorghum grain development stage and further impacted yields. This is significant because grain adds both tonnage and energy to the forage.

"We know from previous documentation that temperatures below 40 degrees reduce pollen viability and the number of grains per panicle," Bell said. "The Sept. 9 cold front resulted in temperatures less than 40 degrees for 19 hours with the low temperature reaching 35 degrees when early hybrids were at the milk stage and later hybrids were at vegetative, heading and bloom stages."

These temperature extremes resulted in variable pollination for hybrids that bloomed after early September, she said. Because grain yield can be a significant component of forage tonnage, yields for many hybrids were reduced due to poor pollination.

"We also noted the 2020 starch levels as an indication of lower grain yields," Bell said. "During grain fill, assimilated carbohydrates are translocated to the developing grain and converted to starch. If grain does not develop, starch levels will remain low."

She said the impact of the 2020 season is evident when comparing starch concentrations between the 2019 and 2020 trials. In 2019, the average starch concentration for sorghum hybrids was 15.1%. In comparison, the average starch concentration for sorghum hybrids in the 2020 trial was 8.6%, with values ranging from 0.1% to 27.6%.

Lessons learned

Bell said the trial was grown under center pivot irrigation within a production forage sorghum field that was irrigated at approximately 50% evapotranspiration demand of the crop.

"Since we are comparing 71 hybrids in the same production environment, the 2020 data provides a very good indication of how different forage sorghums compared side-by-side," she said. "The 2020 data demonstrated that yields for early maturing hybrids were more consistent with previous years because of grain development, but there were still later maturing hybrids that performed well because of the hybrid's tonnage potential."

Bell said producers realize that water stress is increasingly a problem as water supplies decline so they understand variability in yields due to water stress. However, she added, the early season cold front was not normal, so it is important producers also consider data from previous years.

"As we look at the extended 2021 forecast, we are expected to be dry through the spring," she said. "Under dry conditions, producers with limited irrigation may need to evaluate their forage plan for this summer. We need to be realistic about well capacities and not over-plant acres in anticipation of rainfall."

Bell said while forage producers understand sorghum needs to be placed on the sorghum acre, it is becoming increasingly important for livestock producers to understand that many producers no longer have the well capacity for high-yield corn silage.

"Consequently, it will become a concerted effort between forage and livestock producers to meet the regions forage demands with limited water," she said. Because forage quality requirements vary between livestock class and ration formulation, evaluated parameters provide a broad comparison of forage quality in the respective production environment, Bell said. Producers who want more information can review the full final report for 2020 as well as previous years' results.

A groundbreaking ceremony was held Tuesday to kick off the construction of the new library bookstore at the southwest corner of the lot.
