

Soviet Union hit by another quake

Mountain village destroyed, 1,000 killed

MOSCOW (AP) — An earthquake destroyed several mountain villages in Tadzhikistan today and buried one village under a 45-foot wall of dirt and mud, killing up to 1,000 people, officials said.

"Almost everybody died," said Zainiddin Nasreddinov, editor-in-chief of the official Tadzhikistan news agency, who visited the buried village of Sharora in Soviet Central Asia.

A preliminary estimate indicated about 600 people had died there, he said in a telephone interview from Dushanbe, about 10 miles northeast of Sharora. The population of the village was not known, but Nasreddinov said about 70 families lived there.

An official at the Dushanbe seismic station, who refused to be identified, said families are being rescued from the area and one dwelling often houses eight to 10 people.

"The total number of deaths is now evaluated at up to 1,000," said the official Tass news agency. It said hundreds died in Sharora but did not give an exact figure.

The tremor struck about 1,800 miles southeast of Moscow, north of Afghanistan and bordering China, at 2:02 a.m. (6:02 p.m.

EST Sunday). It was the strongest quake to hit the Soviet Union since the Dec. 7 quake that struck Armenia and killed about 25,000 people.

Rescue teams were searching for survivors and soldiers were rushed to the area to keep order and restore communications and power and water to the buildings left standing, said Nasreddinov.

Roads into the area were damaged and thousands of head of cattle were killed, Tass said. Bulldozers and cranes were being sent into the area to help rescuers, the report said.

The magnitude of the earthquake was uncertain.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo. said it measured 6.0 on the Richter scale. The survey office in Menlo Park, Calif. put the magnitude at 5.4 on the Richter scale.

A torrent of dirt and mud slid from a nearby hill and buried Sharora after the earthquake hit, Nasreddinov said.

"Everything is destroyed — all the homes, the schools, the hospitals and clinics, the stores," he said. Communications, electricity and water were disrupted and many injured were rushed to hospitals in Dushanbe and other large cities.

"Small buildings made from earth were hit especially hard," Tass said. "The quake caused a serious landslide, some two kilometers (1 1/4 miles) long, from a hill near the village." It said Sharora was buried beneath 45 feet of mud and rocks.

Nasreddinov said the buildings destroyed were all one-story structures made of brick. He said Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev called Tadzhikistan officials to promise help from the national government.

Prisoner housing, computer add-ons okayed by county

Scurry County commissioners Monday authorized County Judge Bobby Goodwin to sign contracts with Palo Pinto and Dawson counties for jail inmates from those counties to be housed in the county jail here.

At the same meeting, computer equipment purchases were approved to handle needs of both the sheriff's office and county auditor's office.

Regarding the prisoner housing plan, Sheriff Keith Collier had explained that sheriffs from Dawson and Palo Pinto Counties wanted the option of sending inmates here, to be incarcerated for $30 per day, if their jails reach capacity.

Collier said neither county currently has an inmate overflow problem.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting included approval of Collier's proposal to buy a new computer system so that his office may switch over to the new TELETS II statewide system that the Department of Public Safety will begin using next December.

The sheriff said staying with the current system, which would require the leasing of space on the city's computer system, would cost $30,959 over the next five years.

He said going to a new IBM Model 36, with the auditor's and sheriff's offices combining on it, would cost $26,414 over the next five years.

In this option, the actual equipment purchase involves just over $21,000. Maintenance fees for a five-year period add the additional costs.

The commissioners approved the purchase, with the authorization for bids not to be advertised and the system purchased from IBM because IBM equipment and components that the sheriff's office already owns will be needed for the change-over.

County Auditor Linda Franklin said she favored the purchase because it would increase efficiency in her office.

Rick Hall of Snyder Insurance Agency reported that the county's 1989 insurance premiums will cost $48,473, a decrease from the $55,532 that the same coverage cost last year, explaining that liability insurance went up by $1,000 and coverage for county buildings decreased by about $8,000.

Accountant Jerry Vestal's scheduled presentation on auditing the county's 1988 finances was postponed.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Tommy Pate was absent, on a trip to Bryan.

and 40 lambs.

Rana Eicke showed the reserve champion steer, a Hereford, Raymond House the reserve champion hog, a crossbreed, and Jamie Beck the reserve champion lamb, a lightweight medium-wool.

The exhibition lasted from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, preceding the annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show, which will run Wednesday through Friday nights, with the premium sale at 1 p.m. next Saturday.

Results by classes were as follows:

Bhakta lawsuit begins

The jury selection process was completed Monday morning and testimony begun in 132nd District Court in the case Bharat N. Bhakta vs. Mercury Bonding of Snyder and Sweetwater.

Bhakta, currently an inmate with the Texas Department of Corrections, has filed the lawsuit to regain $6,000 he says was improperly claimed by the bonding company.

The lawsuit stems from Bhakta's $40,000 bond being revoked when he left the United States to visit his native India prior to his trial here in connection with the death of his wife.

The 34-year-old suspect was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter on Aug. 23, 1985 and sentenced to 18 years in prison.

He was charged following the April 25, 1985 choking death of his 25-year-old wife, Kumud. The incident occurred at the 25th St. motel, formerly the Strayhorn Motel, which the couple operated at the time.

Bhakta is represented in the action by Pat Simek of Lubbock. Representing the bonding company is Jim Clark of Snyder.

District Judge Gene Dulaney is hearing the case.

Testimony in the case began around 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Bell offers digital system for Snyder

Southwestern Bell Telephone proposes to install a state-of-the-art switching system in Snyder within the next five years as part of the company's "Texas First" plan to boost the state's economy.

Also, basic local telephone rates would be frozen for a five-year period, four party service would be eliminated and some long distance rates could be reduced under the Southwestern Bell plan.

"The 'Texas First' plan was presented to the Public Utility Commission last week and we hope the PUC would act quickly on our proposals," said Jim West, area manager-external affairs. "Southwestern Bell is committed to continued leadership in providing quality telecommunications service at reasonable rates to our customers. 'Texas First' meets this commitment and also will help stimulate economic development locally and statewide," West said.

"Our 'Texas First' proposal would provide Snyder with the most advanced digital switching technology. Digital switching provides more accuracy with less likelihood of malfunction," West said.

In addition, West pointed out, digital technology can improve voice transmission and offers expanded services for both business and residence customers. "Digital switching would bring a full range of Southwestern Bell's popular custom calling features to Snyder including forwarding, call waiting, three-way calling and speed calling."

Snyder is among 195 locations across Texas that would get the latest digital switching technology if Southwestern Bell's plan is approved. In the Snyder area other exchanges to be updated include Hermleigh, Roby, Rotan, Roscoe, Colorado City and Westbrook. When those conversions are completed, every Southwestern Bell location in Texas would be totally served by digital or electronic switching systems," West said.

"Texas First" would freeze

Snyder's one-party residential rates at $8.35 and one-party business rates at $19.60," West said.

"The five-year freeze on basic local rates would keep Southwestern Bell's local rates among the lowest in the nation," West said. "Our last local rate increase in Texas was June 1, 1984 — almost five years ago. Thus, by the end of another five-year freeze, Southwestern Bell's rates in Snyder would not have changed for nearly a decade.

The freeze would apply only to local rates and would not include federal subscriber line charges, taxes, or charges for any other services, such as touch tone or custom calling features.

Other elements of the "Texas First" plan would:

—Reduce Southwestern Bell's charges to long distance carriers for their access to the local network. We would expect those carriers to then reduce their rates for long distance service within Texas.

—Offer four-party customers the opportunity to upgrade their service to two-party service at the same rate. If the customer chooses to upgrade to one-party service, the present one-party rate would apply.

—Expand optional toll-free calling scopes around Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio. See BELL, page 8

Ask Us

Q. — Reference the Ask Us question last Friday, you said the closest Super Bowl was a 16-13 game in Super Bowl V involving Baltimore beating Miami. I remember it as Baltimore and Dallas. Would you recheck your information?

A. — We checked our original source, provided by the Newspaper Enterprise Association, and it listed the game as Baltimore versus Miami. However, both a list compiled in the Dallas Morning News as well as the official Super Bowl XXIII magazine show it as Baltimore beating Dallas. The NEA listing was apparently in error.

In Brief

Jet trouble

DALLAS (AP) — There were no injuries reported, but emergency crews were dispatched for two jets at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport in separate incidents.

About 12:30 p.m. Sunday, a Braniff Airways 737, carrying 51 passengers and five crew members, returned to DFW after it began to lose cabin pressure. Wendell Glenn, assistant manager of Braniff's DFW office told The Dallas Morning News.

Traffic fines

AUSTIN (AP) — Speeding tickets last year helped generate $4.8 million in traffic fines, a record amount that Austin officials hope to top by more than $1 million this year.

The total for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 topped by $300,000 what was expected.

Police cited increased law enforcement as one reason traffic deaths decreased in 1988 for the second year in a row.

Bakker brings colorful lawyer to court

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — PTL founder Jim Bakker has selected as his attorney a flamboyant octogenarian whose legal career spans six decades and whose clients have included Alfried Krupp at the Nuremberg trials.

George T. Davis may not be a household name like Melvin Belli or F. Lee Bailey, but he has defended some notable clients, including Krupp, heir to the German munitions empire who was convicted in 1948 of war crimes and sentenced to 12 years. He was released after three years.

Among the others: Caryl Chessman, who was executed for kidnapping two women and sexually assaulting them in 1948, and labor agitator Tom Mooney, who was sentenced to death for his participation in the 1916 bomb killings of 10 people in California. Mooney was given an unconditional pardon in 1939.

Throughout Davis' long career, his courtroom style often has been colorful.

"I always try my cases a little differently," Davis said. "Let's just leave it at that."

His background includes paying his way through the University of California at Berkeley's law school in the 1920s by playing drums in a jazz band. He has studied hypnosis, portrayed himself in a documentary, and is writing a book about the death penalty.

At 81, Davis remains active, as evidenced by his workout before an 8 a.m. interview last week. He still finds time to work on his horse ranch in Hawaii, where he lives with his fourth wife, Ginger. Davis walks his dog for an hour every morning and he occasionally surfs.

Chefs cook gourmet feast for residents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A homeless shelter that had expected donations from an event featuring celebrity chefs instead got the chefs themselves, preparing a dinner that included crab meat, lamb and chocolate-covered macadamia nuts.

"Obviously, we could use the money and we're sorry that didn't work out," said Mitch Snyder of the Community for Creative Non-Violence, which runs the 1,400-resident shelter. "At least people in our shelter are going to get one nice meal."

A commercial event had been scheduled for Saturday night and Sunday, charging $50 per ticket for Saturday night and $15 for a Sunday Super Bowl party. The for-profit organization planning it, A Taste of America, had said it expected to donate $150,000 to $300,000 from the profits to the homeless shelter.

The event was canceled late in the week because of last-minute contract problems with the hall where it was to have been held. But the chefs were already in town, and they decided since they'd come to help the homeless, that's exactly what they would do.

The scene in the homeless shelter's kitchen was chaotic.

The apron-draped chefs scurried around the alien kitchen, checking the pantry, surveying the equipment and the volunteer help.

"This is how you slice the potatoes. First you cut like this, then this," chef Filippo Milone of The Pillars Restaurant of Mobile, Ala., instructed the volunteers from the College of St. Benedict in St. Joseph, Minn.

Milone then moved to the containers of crab meat, dumped one on a stainless steel tabletop and showed three other volunteers how to finger through the meat to find hidden pieces of shell. "Well, we came here to learn things," said freshman Jenny Langenfeld. "Did I come here to learn how to finger through crab meat? No," she added with a laugh.

The chefs — including John P. Hughes III of Windows On the Water in Kennebunkport, Maine, John Weichman of All Seasons restaurant in Mobile, Ala., and Daniel Thiebaut of the Mauna Kea Beach Resort in Kohala Coast, Hawaii — decided Friday that they'd cook for the homeless on Saturday.

"The original purpose was not only to be part of a national, historic event, the bicentennial inauguration. It was also to benefit the homeless," said Weichman. "When the original vehicle fell apart, we felt we should go ahead."

The menu decisions were as impromptu as the cooking lessons, in part because some of the chefs had managed to cancel their shipments of expensive items.

Weichman had already brought more than $500 worth of crab meat with him, and Milone offered to split the cost.

Thiebaut's company donated lamb, fruit and special colored chocolate-covered macadamia nuts.

In addition to the crab meat with a sauce of bell pepper, onions, mushrooms and pimentos, they prepared a dish of roasted garlic potatoes, pasta with a red sauce as well as a lamb dish and salad.

Snyder said the change was good for the shelter residents.

"We normally serve a very nice meal, a hot meal with either fresh fruit salad or fresh green salad. But ... we don't serve clams or crab. People around here got all perky about that," he said.

Herman Jackson, 51, of Washington, appreciated the change of pace from typical shelter fare.

"I think it's a very good idea," he said. "I'm thankful for everything we get."

Bakker, 48, and his former top deputy, Richard Dortch, 57, were accused in a Dec. 5 indictment of diverting more than $4 million in PTL funds for their personal use. Two other former aides, brothers David and James Taggart, were accused in a separate indictment with federal tax violations.

All four have pleaded innocent to the charges, which came at the end of a 16-month grand jury investigation. Bakker's U.S. District Court trial has not been scheduled.

Davis, who spent most of his career in San Francisco before moving to Hawaii, met Bakker the day the indictments were issued.

He was introduced to Bakker through a mutual acquaintance, a Texas minister. Davis, no supporter of Bakker's ministry in the past, did not discuss his religious views nor did he cite religion as a motive.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have developed a physiological addiction to caffeine. When I try to eliminate it from my diet I become tired, depressed and have terrible headaches for weeks. I also crave sweets. How do I kick this socially acceptable drug?

DEAR READER: Fortunately for most people, caffeine is not nearly as physically addictive as many other drugs. This is not to say that some caffeine-users are not (in a strict sense) addicted. However, the physical need for the mild stimulant is far below the craving that drug-habituated patients have for other compounds, such as nicotine, alcohol and narcotics.

In my experience, the primary addiction to caffeine is psychological. People come to need and expect the "lift" given by caffeine. Patients who are naturally depressed, for instance, may crave caffeine. When the drug is withdrawn, such people suffer symptoms of fatigue, lassitude, irritability and feeling unwell and "undercharged." These symptoms, like many others, should be addressed as a health issue by medical professionals, because they are probably not due to caffeine withdrawal.

In addition, drinking caffeine-beverages establishes a mind-set. If you expect to experience a feeling from a mild mind-altering drug such as caffeine, you will — even though the drug may not be the cause of the feeling.

This observation was brought home to me several years ago when I read a study in which doctors investigated the way caffeine causes wakefulness and insomnia. Two groups of college students were tested. The first group was given decaffeinated coffee at bedtime; the subjects were told that they were drinking regular coffee. Predictably, many of the students complained of insomnia. The second group was given warm milk at bedtime. The milk had been laced with caffeine, a tasteless compound. You guessed the result: The students given the caffeine milk slept like babies. The investigators concluded that the subjects' expectations were a more valid predictor of insomnia than was the caffeine.

Many people drink too much caffeine. The easiest way to overcome this habit is to drink one less caffeine-containing beverage (soda, coffee or tea) per day, substituting a decaffeinated liquid. By cutting down by one drink a day, you will soon find yourself consuming only one or two caffeine servings daily; this is a reasonable amount for most adults.

If, after several days at the lower "dose," you are still having symptoms of tiredness, depression and headaches, see a doctor to discover what is really ailing you.

Sad Story Has Sadder Ending For Stranger Who Tries to Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago, while leaving downtown Seattle, I was approached by a friendly looking young woman who told me that her luggage and purse had been stolen on the bus ride from Bellingham. She told me her name and asked if I was a Christian, saying that she was — then she told me how terrible it was to have been on the street all night.

To make a long story short, she persuaded me to go to a cash machine and get $40, which was how much she needed to get "home." She promised to repay me as soon as she got home.

Well, I never heard from her, and now I feel like a fool for having fallen for her story. I suppose I should have known better, but I kept thinking, "What if I were in such a spot and needed help; I would be grateful if a stranger helped me out."

Abby, how can a person tell the honest people from the phonies? These people can be so convincing. Please print this as a warning to others who are gullible and tenderhearted.

SEATTLE SUCKER

DEAR SUCKER: When you are approached on the street by a stranger with a friendly face and a sad story, suggest that he call a crisis hot line. You may have to shell out the price of a telephone call, but that's a far cry from $40. (In some cities, the operator will put the call through free of charge.) Stranded travelers should be directed to Travelers Aid, which will provide temporary food, lodging and transportation home.

If I sound heartless, it's because I have also been taken in by a sob story when I was approached by a stranger who needed bus fare "home" where a job was waiting for her. She promised to repay me as soon as she got her first paycheck. This happened to me — twice. (I'm a slow learner.)

DEAR ABBY: We adopted a wonderful little boy 2 years old. "Micky" will be 5 soon. His birth mother had left him for three days, unattended. (She had a lot of problems — drugs, alcohol and mental.) At any rate, when Micky came to live with us, his appetite was enormous. Abby, you would not believe a child could eat that much. We were told that this was probably due to the three days he was left alone — and his need for food will always be with him.

It's a pleasure to have a child who will eat everything and ask for more, but Micky goes around asking the neighbors for food — and he stuffs himself! He is not a fat child, as he is hyperactive.

How can we control Micky's food glut? Or do you think he'll outgrow it?

MOM AND DAD

DEAR MOM AND DAD: The food glut problem and the hyperactivity should be discussed with your pediatrician. They could be symptomatic of Prader-Willi syndrome, or a physical or emotional problem that may require therapy and possibly medication. Don't ignore these symptoms hoping Micky will outgrow them.

San Antonio mayor may seek another term in office

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Flushed with adrenalin after a victory in the domed stadium initiative, Mayor Henry Cisneros said he may seek re-election after all, even though he had announced he would not run for another term.

But Cisneros said Sunday he would not make a final decision until he talks with former mayor Lila Cockrell, who already announced her plans to run.

Cisneros said he will consider his options during a trip to Massachusetts in the next couple days, then may seek out Cockrell upon his return to San Antonio.

"I love my city," Cisneros said. "I love what I do."

He expressed his passion for the job when asked if he would miss not being mayor when the newly approved domed stadium is dedicated.

"I do not live for symbols and ceremony," he said, "but I do think there's a big job ahead and that's what turns me on."

Cisneros answered the questions about his political future during a press meeting in which he discussed voters' approval of Alamodome stadium financing, which passed on Saturday.

A close adviser to Cisneros said last week that many of the mayor's friends had advised him not to run, the San Antonio Express-News reported.

But on Sunday Cisneros said: "I'm not going to be pressured one way or another. I'm sort of beyond pressure at this point in my life — from supporters, or advocates, or financiers, or other people. This is a decision that's internal and has to do with, frankly, the relationship that I have with Mayor Cockrell and the relationship that I have with the city at large."

Cockrell said Sunday she would rather not discuss the situation until she has talked with Cisneros.

He announced in September that he would not seek a fifth term as San Antonio's mayor.

"Since Mayor Cockrell is a dear friend and I respect her greatly ... I think I owe it to her to sit down and talk to her before I say anything further," Cisneros said.

If Cisneros were to re-enter the race, there is no firm indication Cockrell would step out.

Cockrell's campaign financial statement filed last week showed she has raised about $40,000, the San Antonio Light reported.

Her campaign organization is headed by members of the business establishment that have traditionally supported Cisneros.

Protecting your slam

By James Jacoby

It's human nature to expect normal distributions in the play. A little experience teaches that one should try to provide for adversity, but doing so requires discipline. Today's declarer failed to notice the absolutely certain play for six no-trump, but many of us would be in his company.

When declarer won the spade ace in dummy and led the club jack, he limited himself to 11 tricks. A 5-0 club split is not a serious problem if East has all five, but to protect against West's having all the length, South must lead a low club to dummy's J-10. That will sacrifice a trick in many instances, but that is a fair price to pay to guarantee making the slam contract. However, even this farsighted play is not free of snags.

Suppose you play low from dummy on the opening lead. East plays the jack and you win the king. Now you lead a low club to dummy's jack, West playing low. You return to your hand with a diamond to lead another club. West now goes up with the queen and plays back a diamond. Where has your transportation gone for the fifth club trick? What you must do to be absolutely safe for 12 tricks is win the ace or queen of spades in dummy, then come to your hand with a high diamond to lead up to the J-10-3 of clubs in dummy. Now your communication is secure since you can return via the second diamond for another club play toward dummy and save the king of spades until you need it.

Secretary of state goes public with his plans

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains said he wants to run for governor next year — even if that should mean facing the President's son.

Rains, who said he is "95 percent" certain he will be in the race, said he won't be intimidated by the prospect of facing George W. Bush in the Republican primary.

George W. Bush told reporters and political supporters in Washington last week that he is "interested" in the governor's race, although he said he has made no final decision on whether to enter.

Mayor doesn't want job

HICO, Texas (AP) — In the town in which no one wants to be mayor, Glenn Marshall is the current holder of the hot-potato post.

But Marshall says he has no desire to be the mayor of Hico, Texas, either.

"I don't plan to take the job," said Marshall, who won a candidate-less election on Saturday with 41 write-in votes.

Only 66 people voted in the election and the remaining votes were scattered among nine other non-candidates.

The Hamilton County town of about 1,500 located 65 miles southwest of Fort Worth has been without a mayor since J.M. Blakley resigned last July after serving two months in the post. Marshall, who was mayor pro tem, has been serving as acting mayor since Blakley's resignation.

"Please don't fast forward the VCR...it affects Grampa's pacemaker!"

Rice, Montana lead the way as...

49ers rally for 'Super' win

MIAMI (AP) - Ten years of dealing with deadlines, pushing aside pressure and certifying their greatness had prepared the San Francisco 49ers for this. In the best of all Super Bowl finishes, they claimed the 1990s as their decade.

They had Joe Montana and Jerry Rice and Roger Craig, the usual stars, and John Taylor, an unexpected hero. They had the poise, resourcefulness and guts to stare down defeat, drive 92 yards in less than three minutes and snatch Sunday's NFL championship from the Cincinnati Bengals, 20-16.

Ultimately, they had earned the label "Team of the Decade," with their third Super Bowl crown of the '80s.

"We battled through great odds tonight to win the game," said Bill Walsh, who hedged after the game on whether he would retire as 49ers coach. "It's a culmination of years of hard work and a quarterback who is one of the greatest of all time."

Montana and Rice, who was named Most Valuable Player with 11 catches for a record 215 yards, engineered the magnificent march. Taylor culminated it with his only reception, a 10-yarder for the winning touchdown with 34 seconds left.

Montana completed eight of nine passes on the drive through a Bengals defense that had not folded down the stretch of any game this season.

"It's got to be one of our best," said Montana, who added yet another jewel to his sparkling 10-year career. In that span, Montana has led the 49ers to three Super Bowl victories in as many tries. "In the situation in this type of game, being down by a field goal and to come back and win it, that way has got to rank right up there."

SUNDAY, JANUARY 22, 1990
JOE ROBBIE STADIUM - MIAMI, FLORIDA

It does. In 22 previous Super Bowls, no team had staged such a reversal in the dying moments. The 49ers' turnaround Sunday was as dramatic as they come.

And it provided a crushing ending to Cincinnati's own turnaround, in which the Bengals went from 4-11 and racked by dissension in 1987 to the best record in the NFL. And to 34 seconds from their first Super Bowl championship.

"All of us are devastated," defensive end Jason Buck said. "We know it's possible we'll never get another chance, never get this close again."

The Bengals were so close that, after Jim Breech's third field goal gave them a 16-13 lead, some of them felt secure.

"I did feel like we had it won," cornerback Eric Thomas said, "because of the way the defense played all year. On the last drive of every game, we would get them out of there and make sure we came out with a win."

"But Joe Montana showed great leadership and Jerry Rice asserted himself as a great, great receiver."

Taking over at their 8, the 49ers staged the most memorable march the Super Bowl has seen. Rice had catches of 7, 17 and 27 to set up the decisive touchdown.

Cincinnati's attack, in which the no-huddle barely played a part Sunday, did not get into the end zone, allowed a season-high five sacks and managed just 226 yards in total offense.

Yet, they almost won. Breech had field goals of 34, 43 and 40 yards. Stanford Jennings streaked 93 yards with a kickoff with 34 seconds remaining in the third period after Cofer had kicked his second field goal, a 32-yarder that tied the game 6-6.

It was 3-3 at the half, the first halftime tie in a Super Bowl.

"There was nothing wrong happening on offense," Bengals coach Sam Wyche said. "Our guys made a winning effort. I was disappointed for our team in that we didn't win. But I'm not disappointed in the way we played."

The defense played superbly until the final drive, even though its star, All-Pro nose tackle Tim Krumrie, broke both major bones in his left leg in the first quarter. Pro Bowl safety David Fulcher was the best player on the field until Rice began to sizzle.

The Bengals also played without running back Stanley Wilson, who was suspended Sunday morning for substance abuse. It was the third time Wilson has been sidelined by such problems.

Two months ago, not many 49ers would have envisioned a championship and the $36,000 winner's share that goes with it.

"We were really down when we were 6-5," Rice said. "But we got it going against Washington (37-21) and never really stopped."

Rice, who tied a record with six postseason touchdowns, caught a 14-yarder earlier in the fourth quarter for a 13-13 tie. In the second half, he couldn't be stopped, catching eight passes for 157 yards.

Lewis' free throws help lift TCU Frogs past Texas Tech

by The Associated Press
Texas Christian forward John Lewis apparently felt right at home as he stepped up to the free-throw line.

Lewis said he looked around and saw family and friends in his hometown of Lubbock and decided he wasn't going to let his chance slip away. Lewis proceeded to sink two free throws with just 21 seconds left in the game.

The Horned Frogs then managed to hold off the Red Raiders' final scoring attempts for the 57-56 win and to stay on top in the Southwest Conference with a 6-0 mark. "Our guys played hard. I can't complain about the way they played," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers, whose team fell to 1-4 in the league.

In other conference basketball action, the Rice Owls and Houston Cougars are elevating cliff-hanging finishes to an art form.

The Owls beat the Texas Aggies 79-77 Saturday in the final four seconds and the Cougars beat Southern Methodist 84-83 on a free throw with no time remaining in overtime.

Rice sophomore David Willie's free throws with four seconds to play gave the Owls their second league victory.

"It's one we needed badly," Rice Coach Scott Thompson said. "We played a lot of games that could go either way. This one could have gone either way but it always helps to be at home."

Rice beat Texas Tech 79-74 in overtime and lost to Texas 66-65 when its final shot fell short earlier this season.

Although Texas beat the Cougars on a final shot, 88-86 Jan. 14, Chris Morris gave the Cougars a happy ending Saturday against SMU.

The score was tied at 83-83 and Morris missed a 12-foot jumper as the buzzer sounded but he was fouled by SMU's J.D. Green and sank a free throw for the victory.

Neither the Texas Longhorns nor the Baylor Bears saw much late excitement in their weekend games.

Vanderbilt buried Texas 94-79, giving Commodore Coach C.M. Newton his 500th victory as a coach. Frank Kornet scored 25 points and got 16 rebounds, both career highs, in the victory.

"I think it's great that C.M. reached this milestone, I just wish he hadn't done it against us," Texas Coach Tom Penders said.

The Arkansas Razorbacks extended Baylor's league winless streak to 0-5 with an 88-58 victory, aided by Mario Credit's 18 points and eight rebounds off the bench.

Credit led five Arkansas players in double figures as the Razorbacks beat Baylor, boosting their record to 11-4 for the season and 5-1 in SWC play.

Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf still is picking Arkansas as the conference champion, but he has admiration for the Horned Frogs.

"I like Arkansas but TCU is playing great," Metcalf said. "I just can't see Arkansas losing a game in 'the hills.' They have a nice collection of athletes."

Texans shying away from Oklahoma clubs

DALLAS (AP) - Those normally pesky Oklahoma and Oklahoma State recruiters appear to have been shut out so far in the scramble for top Texas high school footballers.

Both Oklahoma schools, which annually cross the Red River and reload their gridiron powerhouses with a few select Texans, seem to have been stung by the stigma of NCAA sanctions.

But the benefactor hasn't been a Texas school. Instead, it's another "Big Red" team that is sneaking into Texas to loot some top prizes. So far, the University of Nebraska has pocketed commitments from five Texas schoolboys, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

NCAA sanctions against Oklahoma and Oklahoma State for recruiting violations prevent the schools from appearing in bowl games for the next two and three years, respectively. Both schools also have had scholarships taken away.

Sanctions against Southwest Conference schools have also contributed to the exodus of the top Lone Star talent. Texas A&M has already lost five scholarships and may be penalized more. Houston lost 10 athletic grants and Texas Tech may not use two of its 25 scholarships.

Six of the nine SWC schools have been penalized since 1985. This year's Cotton Bowl champion, UCLA, recruits more players out of Texas than any other state besides California.

So far, the University of Texas is the only SWC school to keep in step with Nebraska. The Longhorns, coming off a 4-7 season, have commitments from six Texas players. One is Austin Westlake quarterback, Jimmy Saxton, a member of the Morning News' "Top 30" list of prize Texas recruits.

Two Texans have committed to play at Arkansas, which leads all SWC schools with seven scholarships verbally accepted to date.

National signing day is Feb. 8

Casper, 57, playing in the Skins competition for the first time, won $60,000 on the second playoff hole, No. 18, when he rolled in a 25-foot birdie putt, and Palmer missed his birdie attempt from 12 feet.

Palmer, 59, won two holes and a total of $70,000 during the two-day event at La Quinta Hotel Golf Club, and Gary Player, 53, also won two holes, earning $90,000.

Calcavecchia wins Phoenix

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - For Mark Calcavecchia, it was a case of better late than never.

Calcavecchia, who blew a two-stroke lead in the final round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic a week earlier, blew away a strong field Sunday for a seven-stroke victory in the Phoenix Open.

"I just told myself to forget everybody else and just go out and play your game, be yourself," he said.

"That's as good as I can play. No doubt about it," the husky 28-year-old said after his 7-under-par 64 left him at 21-under-263.

Calcavecchia, who was sixth on the 1988 money-winning list with $751,912, won $126,000 from the total purse of $700,000 and boosted his total for the young season to $176,575.

Chip Beck was a distant second at 270 after a closing 67.

Paul Azinger, Bill Glasson and Scott Hoch were another shot back at 271. Glasson had a closing 65, Azinger a 67 and Hoch a 68.

Mark McCumber, at 70-272 was the only other man within 10 shots of the run-away winner.

The Chicago Bears and New England Patriots each had seven former NFL players on their coaching staffs, the most for any of the 28 clubs in the league.

Miami 'under control' after police wound another man

MIAMI (AP) — A police officer shot a black sniper in a neighborhood torn by riots last week, but a recurrence of the violence that left one dead and stores looted and burned seemed unlikely, authorities said today.

"It's under control. It's all quiet," Police Sgt. Robert Edwards said a few hours after late Sunday's shooting in the Liberty City section.

The wounded man, David Ford, 20, was in "stable but not critical condition" at Jackson Memorial Hospital, said hospital spokesman Mark Santo.

No charges were filed against Ford pending a police investigation, said Metro-Dade police Detective Lucy Fitts.

The man fired on two police officers who had been called to assist firefighters at a house fire.

Missing cattle noted to sheriff

O.M. Martin of Ennis Creek Rd. told sheriff's deputies Sunday that six cows and calves had been stolen from his property.

Martin described the stock as two 6-year-old cows and two calves born last June that were missing about a month ago and a dry cow and a yearling heifer that were stolen either Saturday or Sunday.

He said all of the cattle bear a "TL" brand behind the right shoulder and that all of them have been dehorned.

Several misdemeanor thefts were reported to the sheriff's office and police also during the weekend.

Don Fisk of 1107 N. Ave. L told the sheriff's office Saturday that a Minnetoka boat trolling motor with a black plastic propeller had been stolen from his garage.

In addition, police are investigating a vehicle burglary in which two jackets and a cassette box full of tapes were stolen.

Russell Merchant reported at 3:21 p.m. Sunday that his unlocked 1989 Ford Supercab pickup had been entered while it was parked in the 4000 Block of College Ave.

Jackie Nix told officers at 2:23 p.m. Saturday that a freezer full of meat at 1109 41st St. had been entered and all the meat stolen.

Steve Parker reported at 12:17 p.m. Sunday that a half-gallon of milk had been stolen from the back porch at 1805 27th St.

Six fires cause runs

Firemen extinguished six grass fires Saturday and Sunday, the first one at 1:45 p.m. Saturday on property owned by Robert Durst at 34th St. and Ave. K.

Firefighters were at the scene until 2:20 p.m., at which time a grass fire was reported 23 miles southwest of Snyder, taking until 5:50 p.m. on property whose owner was not reported.

The final Saturday fire was from 8 to 9:10 p.m. 10 miles south of Snyder off County Road 397 on property whose owner was not known.

Sunday fires included one from 10:59 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. 15 miles south of town and another at the same location from 6:15 to 8:10 p.m. The property owner was not reported.

The last fire of the weekend was a grass fire from 8:12 to 8:33 p.m. Sunday on Ave. K between 29th and 30th Sts.

Tim and Susie Mitchell are the parents of a baby boy weighing 10 pounds, 10 ounces born at 8:04 p.m. in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

police Sgt. William Harvey said. One of the officers, Paul Cahal, 26, returned the gunfire, striking the sniper, Harvey said.

"There were a lot of civilians at the scene and there was no adverse reaction," he said. "They saw the officers were shot at first and were acting in self-defense."

The shooting came near the end of a quiet day in which the riot-weary city was host to the Super Bowl.

Police put on shows of force in the troubled black neighborhoods of Liberty City and Overtown, where the shooting of a black motorcyclist a week ago today triggered three days of rioting.

Many residents of Overtown spent Sunday washing cars, playing basketball, cruising the streets past housing projects and watching the San Francisco 49ers defeat the Cincinnati Bengals 20-16.

"There's more excitement about the game now than about what happened," said Anthony Burnes, 28, who donned a Bengals T-shirt to watch the game with friends.

"Everything seems normal now."

A panel of police officers and Overtown residents were scheduled to hold their first working meeting today to investigate the shooting of Clement Lloyd, 23, who was shot in the head by Officer William Lozano while being pursued by another officer for speeding.

Lloyd was to be buried today. His passenger, Allen Blanchard, 24, who suffered fatal injuries when the motorcycle crashed, was buried Saturday.

Supreme Court decides

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, dealing a serious blow to some forms of affirmative action, today struck down a Richmond, Va., program aimed at helping construction industry businesses owned by minorities.

By a 6-3 vote, the court ruled the plan is an unlawful form of reverse discrimination.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, writing for the court, said, "Under Richmond's scheme, a successful black, Hispanic or Oriental entrepreneur from anywhere in the country enjoys an absolute preference over other citizens based solely on their race."

"We think it obvious that such a program is not narrowly tailored to remedy the effects of prior discrimination," she said.

The Richmond plan would require the prime contractor on any city building contract to subcontract at least 30 percent of the value of the project to firms that are at least one-half minority owned.

Miami had agonized about the tarnish to the city's image from rioting during what was supposed to be a week to showcase the city to the world.

"Put parties, anxiety behind: It's game day," implored a banner headline in The Miami Herald on Sunday.

Police allowed only Super Bowl ticket-holders close to Joe Robbie Stadium north of Miami. Twenty-four people were arrested on the stadium grounds on charges ranging from theft to loitering during the Super Bowl.

"We didn't get mugged at all. We were going to stay in the hotel because of the rioting, but we were a long ways from it," Pat Murphy of Great Falls, Mont., said outside the stadium. "I didn't see anything going on. ... I'll come back."

Rioting by blacks left one man dead, and 11 others wounded with gunshots. Thirteen buildings were torched and others looted, and 372 people were arrested, authorities said.

About 150 of those arrested were unable to post $250 bail and would not be arraigned again until today, police said. If they plead guilty, they probably would be released for time served, said Sgt. Mike Mazur, a police spokesman.

On Sunday morning, New York civil rights attorney C. Vernon Mason and two members of Miami's black community announced formation of People United For Justice In Miami.

Mason said the group is in response to "a national epidemic" of police violence against blacks. Local leaders called for creation of citizen patrols and for the arrest of Lozano.

Bell proposes new equipment

O'Connor said, "The 30 percent quota cannot be said to be narrowly tailored to any goal, except perhaps outright racial balancing. It rests upon the completely unrealistic assumption that minorities will choose a particular trade in lockstep proportion to their representation in the local population."

The ruling is expected to have far-reaching impact on the use of so-called set-aside programs by states and cities.

Bell proposes new equipment

"Over a five-year span, Texas First' proposals would require $327 million in investment outlays, plus $320 million in revenues that the company would forego," West said.

"By adopting this plan, Texas would be a leader in innovative telecommunications regulation," West said.

"Under traditional planning, installation of many new switching centers such as the one proposed in Snyder and other capital improvements would not have been completed for many years, perhaps 10 or more. However, our company recognizes that an up-to-date telecommunications system is essential for all locations in the state to enjoy the fruits of economic development," West said.

"The key to our plan to speed up installation of new technology and lock in local rates would be the PUC's agreement that an earnings range would replace the current fixed ceiling of Southwestern Bell's earnings," West said.

Currently, southwestern Bell is limited to earnings of approximately 12 percent on investment. Jim West pointed out that a fixed return does not provide an additional incentive for innovation. "Once a company reaches a certain level of earnings the existing regulatory scheme calls a halt which is not practiced in today's market," he said.

"Under our proposal, we are asking that the PUC authorize a range of return on our investment from 11-13 percent," West said. "If the company's earnings should exceed 13 percent, Southwestern Bell would automatically credit half of the amount over 13 percent to customers' bills."

"Our goal is to enhance economic development in Snyder and to provide quality telecommunications service," West said. "Texas First' will allow us to achieve both goals."

Cut your own taxes and save Rule changes affect filing status

By George W. Smith, CPA
(Second of 14 parts)

If you are married, you may file a joint return or you and your spouse may file separate returns. In the past, couples almost routinely filed jointly in order to save taxes. This may have made sense in prior years, but numerous tax changes may give separate filing an edge for some couples.

To find out which filing status is best, compute your tax liability using both a joint return and separate returns and choose the method producing the lower tax.

Married couples with only one salaried worker or with one partner earning considerably more than the other will probably benefit by filing a joint income tax return.

Since joint filers combine their income and deductions, they are given credit by the Internal Revenue Service for filing as two people. Half the income is taxed to the breadwinner with the higher salary and half to the other spouse.

Working spouses who make roughly the same amount of money may save taxes by filing separately. This may be especially advantageous if:

- A spouse is not covered by a qualified retirement plan and has income of less than $10,000 and the other spouse is an active participant in a qualified retirement plan with considerable income. Separate filing may allow for a partial individual retirement account deduction by the non-participating spouse.

- An alternative minimum tax is due on a joint return.

- You live in the community or marital property states of Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, Washington or Wisconsin. Wisconsin is considered a community property state for federal income tax purposes.

- One spouse with less income has large uninsured casualty losses or numerous miscellaneous itemized deductions plus unreimbursed employee business expenses.

By filing separately, you may lose the benefits of the child care credit as well as the $25,000 allowance for rental losses. If one spouse itemizes deductions, the other spouse must also itemize, since he or she may not use the standard deduction.

In case of death: Your tax status at date of death is the controlling factor for the entire year. Therefore, if your spouse died during 1988, you are considered married for the entire year.

You may still file a joint return for the year, assuming that you were living together and were qualified to file a joint return at the date of death. Any income earned by the deceased spouse prior to death must be reported on the final tax return.

In filing a joint return with a deceased spouse, write "filing as a surviving spouse" in the signature area and then note the date of death.

If a dependent child died, you may still claim that child as an exemption for the year and receive the $1,950 deduction.

Single parent with dependent child: Head of household status permits a taxpayer to enjoy a lower tax rate than a single person. To qualify, on Dec. 31, 1988, you must have been either single, legally separated or married and living apart from a spouse for the last six months. If single or legally separated, you must have paid more than half the cost of maintaining a home that was the principal residence of a child, stepchild, foster child, grandchild or dependent parent.

To qualify as a "married person living apart" the qualifying dependent must be your child, stepchild or adopted child, and you must have paid more than half the cost of maintaining your home.

The name of the person who qualified you (parent or child, for example) must be included on the tax return on line 4 or line 6c on Form 1040 or 1040A.

If you are a widow or widower with a dependent child, you may use the tax rates provided on a joint return if you were eligible to file a joint return in the year your spouse died; your spouse died during 1986 or 1987 and you did not remarry in 1988; and you had a dependent child or stepchild living with you for all of 1988 and you paid more than half the cost of maintaining the home.

Special cases: While these categories seem clear-cut, the IRS recognizes that life is not always that simple. Is a spouse who has been abandoned considered single or married? For tax purposes, an abandoned spouse may qualify as head of household and receive a larger standard deduction and a lower tax rate than a married taxpayer filing separately or filing as single. A married person may be treated as unmarried if the individual lived apart from a spouse for the last six months of the year and has paid more than half the cost of running a home. The home is the principal residence (for more than half the year) of a child who could be claimed as a dependent.

Voters easily pass domed stadium referendum

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Proponents of a plan to build a $174 million domed stadium, outmaneuvered and outplayed their opponents in a successful battle Mayor Henry Cisneros called a victorious giant step for the city's future.

Cisneros played a game of touch football Sunday, a day after Bexar County voters approved by 53 percent a plan to levy a half-cent tax increase over the next five years to pay for the 65,000-seat stadium. The vote was 93,091 for the proposal and 82,612 against. About 31 percent of the 566,000 eligible voters went to the polls.

Cisneros, scheduled to leave office in May after eight years as mayor, shied away from talking about his political future, saying he wanted to think about it and wanted to savor his latest political victory.

Cisneros said the city now will be able to compete with other cities for larger conventions and more dollars.

"I think tonight the city took a giant step onto a national plateau. The name of San Antonio will be all over America as a city that is investing in its future," Cisneros said Saturday night.

"I've been spending all of my time focusing on getting this project done. I really haven't had a chance to really even allow myself one distractive thought, so I just have no plans or intentions of that type," he said.

Over the past 18 months, Cisneros and dome proponents had argued that the facility would attract larger conventions and, perhaps, a National Football League franchise, which would generate more tourism on top of the $1.5 billion annual tourist industry.

Opponents argued that a tax increase could better be used for education programs and basic services and that the dome would become an elephant without the NFL franchise.

Pro-dome forces raised about a half-million dollars to promote the dome through television and radio advertisements, placards and billboards.

The anti-dome factions raised a little over $10,000 in their fight.

Anti-tax advocate C.A. Stubbs, president of the Homeowner-Taxpayer Association, said dome proponents were better organized and that led to the stadium approval.

"I think we were outspent and outadvertised. We were just outperformed," Stubbs said Saturday.

"We're going to go from here, no cry-baby speeches," Stubbs said. "We are disappointed, but we will fight another day."

The Alamodome is expected to be built on a 57-acre tract on the eastern edge of downtown near the Convention Center. VIA, the transportation entity, will own the facility, but the city will build and operate it.

Officials have said they hope to have a design and land acquisition within a year and break ground by next spring. The facility is expected to open by late 1992 or early 1993.

The Rev. Rosendo Urrabazo, a Catholic priest and co-chairman of Communities Organized for Public Service, which opposed the dome, said the organization did its job in informing the public and said it would go on.

Since the beginning of the year, both groups debated each other at town meetings and on television programs and Urrabazo said that was worthwhile.

"Our leaders made a heroic effort in getting the word out to the people about our position in the face of a half-million dollar media barrage," Urrabazo said.

"Win or lose, COPS is here to stay and COPS will continue to ask hard questions," he said.

Although numerous businessmen and city officials played a part in getting the dome proposal approved, it was Cisneros who was in the limelight.

In October, published reports of the popular mayor's close, personal relationship with a former fundraiser rocked the city and the country and Cisneros began to shy away from the national attention and reiterated his vow not to run again for mayor or any other elected office.

He had said his personal difficulties, including that of his son, John Paul Anthony, who is suffering from a congenital heart defect and stomach abnormalities, would force him to step out of public life.

He has devoted the last three to little else but the dome, speaking to numerous groups and walking door-to-door, even on election day, to encourage voters to get to the polls.

Saturday night, he said the voters should be proud of themselves. "I can't tell you how proud I am of this community for having had the courage, even in tough times, to make an investment in the future," he said.

Most fired cops back on job in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police officers fired for such reasons as beating prisoners and stealing are turning to arbitrators to get their jobs back and most are now back on the force.

During a four-year period, records show that 19 of 30 fired officers who appealed before third-party arbitrators won their jobs back. The Houston Post reported in a copyright story Sunday.

Arbitrators, who act as judge and jury in the appeal process, charge between $300 and $500 a day for their services, records show. The bills, which almost always exceed $1,000, are paid equally by employee groups and the city.

The only other appeal option for fired and disciplined police and firefighters is the Houston Civil Service Commission — a three-member appeal board appointed by Mayor Kathy Whitmire and confirmed by the City Council.

Records show that no fired Houston police officer has turned to the commission since arbitration was passed into law in September 1985.

According to unofficial records at the city Legal Department, 136 police officers and firefighters have appealed to arbitrators on cases ranging from one-day suspensions to firings. Out of that number, disciplinary measures and firings were upheld in 48 cases, 55 cases were reversed and 33 resulted in a reduction of discipline, the records showed.

Another 120 cases are scheduled to be heard by arbitrators, records with the city's Personnel Division revealed.

Since its inception in Houston in September 1985, the issue of arbitration has pitted city management against rank-and-file police officers and firefighters. Police Chief Lee Brown and Fire Chief Robert Clayton claim arbitrators have wrested away control of their respective departments and have lowered the standards of morality, legality and efficiency within their forces.

"I think it stinks," Clayton said of the arbitration system.

Employee groups, on the other hand, say arbitration is the only fair recourse a disciplined or fired worker has to appeal his case.

According to records, cases in which Houston police officers have won their jobs back — with full pay or after reduced suspensions — include:

— An officer who was fired by Brown for beating a handcuffed juvenile suspect. An arbitrator agreed the officer was an "unprovoked aggressor" who did "verbally and physically abuse" the teen, but ruled that firing was "excessive." The hearing officer added "stress" from the confrontation "clouded his (the policeman's) judgment and adversely affected his temperament."

— A police sergeant who was fired after he admittedly stole $9.61 worth of produce from a company where he moonlighted as a security guard. Though the theft was small, Brown argued that "stealing is stealing." An arbitrator disagreed and wrote: "This may have been a situation where a basically honest and normally law-abiding man was tempted to pick up a few inexpensive produce items for the family ..."

In addition, a Houston firefighter is back on the job after he was fired by Clayton for alleged unethical conduct leading up to the slayings of the firefighter's estranged wife and the woman's lover.

The firefighter is the prime suspect in the double slaying, though the case remains open, according to authorities.

Soviet troops leaving with sense of failure

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Soviet troops came to here, said Serebrov, a political officer at the military high command in Kabul. "We came here with an honorable task, with open hearts ... We are leaving and we have a sense of not having accomplished our mission to the end."

Under a U.N.-mediated accord signed in April, the Soviets' 100,000 troops began leaving Afghanistan on May 15, and half were out by Aug. 15. The remainder are to leave by Feb. 15.

The Soviets, who have lost more than 13,300 men in the conflict, announced late last year they had indefinitely suspended the withdrawal of remaining troops because of continued U.S. and Pakistani aid to the guerrillas.

Serebrov, dressed in camouflage uniform and chain-smoking, said Soviet officers were communicating with guerrilla commanders on parts of the Salang highway, the main route to the Soviet border, to try to keep it open so supplies can get through to the embattled Afghan capital.

He said a guerrilla blockade had forced Kabul's residents to rely on Soviet airlifts for food.

"We have not succeeded in everything we planned to do here," said Serebrov, a political officer at the military high command in Kabul. "We came here with an honorable task, with open hearts ... We are leaving and we have a sense of not having accomplished our mission to the end."

Pat Gray's specializes in quality work

You can now get a factory-perfect paint job on your vehicle following body work.

Pat Gray Body Works, 700 N. Owens in Big Spring, has installed a Blowtherm Ultra spraybooth oven. According to Gray, this is the finest automotive refinishing machine made and it creates the ideal spraying and baking conditions for refinishing in West Texas.

"This spraybooth oven is made in Italy," says Gray, "and it is specified for many Mercedes and BMW dealership body shops in the United States."

No body shop in the immediate area has this equipment, Gray says.

The machine controls humidity, temperature and air-flow, creating the perfect environment for painting. "Of course the skills of the person doing the painting are important, too," Gray adds.

The air is filtered three times, so there's no chance for dust to get in.

Car owners are assured perfect matching of their paint colors. Pat Gray Body Works can now use the same paints that auto factories use, plus the equipment enables them to utilize the two-stage finish process which offers higher gloss and longer wear.

The firm mixes its own colors, which helps assure a wider variety of shades and a better match when repainting body parts. Lights duplicate sunlight so personnel don't have to "guess" how it will look.

There are tremendous advantages to the baking process offered by the Blowtherm Ultra, Gray says. Because of the perfectly controlled environment, the bake cycle produces a cured paint job when the vehicle rolls out. With other equipment," says Gray, "the paint would need about 48 hours to cure and during that time you had to watch for tree sap, bugs, washing and waxing compounds and even leaning on the car."

"The bottom line is, after your car is wrecked it can look as good as new," Gray said. "The color and finish will be right and it won't fade."

Of course, the process is ideal for car owners who want a new overall paint job.

From the personnel's point of view, the factory-like work chamber will add greatly to the efficiency of the shop. All functions of the unit are fully automatic, just requiring the setting of controls.

"We can paint now no matter what the weather is like," Gray says, explaining that rain or dusty days would bring painting to a standstill previously.

Pat Gray Body Works invites the public to come by and see the Blowtherm Ultra spraybooth oven. In the Snyder area they have free pickup and wrecker service. The number to call is 915-263-0582.

Britain and France declared war on Germany Sept. 3, 1939, two days after the Nazi invasion of Poland.

THE NEW BLOWTHERM Ultra spraybooth oven produces the finest finish on automobiles this side of the factory. The facilities at Pat Gray Body Works underwent extensive alterations to accommodate the imported equipment. A factory perfect paint job is made possible by perfectly controlled air, humidity and temperature.

Texans observe Bush's inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobbie Sue Williams left her satin, sequins and spiky heels back at the hotel and came decked out in white leather with multicolor fringe swinging from her coat and cowboy boots.

"My husband said wear it. If you can't be from Texas tonight, you can't be from Texas at all. I let my sequined gown hang," the Dallas woman said as thousands of Texans, would-be Texans and anyone else lucky enough to snare a ticket to the hottest inaugural ball in town two-stepped across the Washington Hilton's giant dance floor Saturday.

"I've never had as much fun at any other inauguration," Mrs. Williams said, the rhinestones studding her hat and shirt sparkling in the ballroom glow as she recounted how a group of people from Alabama asked to have their picture taken with her because she was the "most Texas person" they had seen.

Billed as a uniquely Texas event, the Black Tie and Boots Ball measured up with doses of Tex-Mex munchies, yellow roses (including on the laps of some of the state's most prominent citizens), a new red Ford pickup truck with gun rack for the grand door prize, and a visit by card-carrying Texas State Society member George Bush.

"I will never forget where it all started for us in politics and I'm grateful to our state," the former Texas oilman and congressman said at the end of his first full day as president, speaking to the sold-out crowd.

Teen attacks on parents puzzle Texas authorities

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — By some accounts, they were an organized gang of devil-worshippers, by others a loose-knit band of young misfits gone astray when they attacked their parents, battering one mother to death with a baseball bat.

The four teen-agers called themselves Wolverines, and on a September night carried out or arranged the attacks on four of their parents in a scheme to run away from home, authorities said.

Rhonda Macha, 49, was killed. Police say her 15-year-old son, Michael Beaver, repeatedly swung a baseball bat into her head.

The other adults survived gunshot wounds.

"The crimes being committed by an adult would be terrible enough. But when you think of it being a 15-year-old and this being his own mother, it just makes it that much worse," said Susan Lowery, an assistant Fort Bend County district attorney.

Authorities say the youths planned to steal money, weapons and a pickup truck and escape to a place where they could live off the land. Their destinations, however, suggest that the teen-agers were more vicious than they were sophisticated, prosecutors said.

"They wanted to go to either Canada, Louisiana or Port Lavaca," Ms. Lowery said, noting that Port Lavaca is just 70 miles away from their homes in this community southwest of Houston.

"That tells you something about their thinking. There are just a lot of things in this that don't make any sense on a normal level."

Prosecutors say 16-year-old Iva Candelaria was the ringleader and ordered the attacks, including a shotgun assault on her parents.

"It's not like she took normal everyday kids and turned them into criminals," says Alan Small, an assistant district attorney. "They didn't come from good homes. They all had a bad family situation to start off with, and then they found each other and agreed to kill their parents."

Texans speak out on gambling in casinos

By The Associated Press

Most communities would welcome a new business with welcome arms, but not the voters of Pleasanton — at least when the new industry would be a private prison.

Voters in the Atascosa County city turned out in record numbers Saturday and told the Pleasanton City Council they oppose locating a private prison in their community.

The election was one of several significant decisions around the state on a day in which San Antonio voters approved financing for the proposed Alamodome and Galveston residents took a stand on casino gambling.

The vote in the non-binding Pleasanton referendum was 445-439 against attempts to locate a private 252-inmate prison in Pleasanton. But voters there also approved by 424-369 a plan to continue attempts to get the Texas Department of Corrections to build a $35 million state penitentiary for 1,200 prisoners elsewhere in the county.

In their fight to build a $174 million stadium, San Antonio residents supporting the plan scored a victory Saturday. Approximately 53 percent of those casting ballots voted to increase the sales tax a half-cent in the next five years to pay for stadium construction on the east edge of downtown.

Galveston residents decided Saturday to ban future non-binding referendums on the legalization of casino gambling. By a 2-to-1 margin, voters approved Proposition 6, which bans all straw polls on casino gambling until the issue is approved by the state Legislature.

In the last five years, residents have voted down casino gambling three times. After the most recent attempt last August, Galveston's anti-casino movement mounted a petition drive to place Proposition 6 on Saturday's ballot.

Surrealistic painter dies at the age of 84

FIGUERAS, Spain (AP) — technical virtuosity, although his Surrealist painter Salvador Dali, whose fantastic and memorable dreamscapes were as eccentric and flamboyant as his behavior, died today in his hometown, his doctor said. He was 84.

Dali died at 10:15 a.m. at Figueras Hospital, said Dr. Charles Ponsati. "The cause of death was cardiac arrest brought on by his respiratory insufficiency and pneumonia," he told reporters.

He had been in poor health and confined to a wheelchair since suffering severe burns in an electrical fire in his home in August 1984.

A founder of the surrealist movement, Dali was the last of an outstanding generation of Spanish painters that included Pablo Picasso and Joan Miro.

Dali's "Persistence of Memory" — with its melting clocks and barren landscape — is perhaps the world's most celebrated Surrealist painting: a vivid image that became an indelible part of 20th century culture.

"The Divine Dali," as he liked to call himself, also was instantly recognizable: his pointed, waxed mustache curling up like a bull's horns, his long hair falling over his neck and one of his more than 30 walking sticks draped over an arm.

What Dali called his "sublime craziness," began early — he was suspended from art school and briefly jailed for political activities as a youth. He said later, "The only difference between a crazy person and me is the fact that I am not crazy."

Few critics faulted Dali's

Vietnam veterans to build health clinic in Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A dozen U.S. war veterans are returning to Vietnam to build a rural health clinic "to help the Vietnamese and also help ourselves," members of the group said today.

Ground-breaking for the project — believed to be the first reconstruction effort by U.S. veterans in Vietnam — is scheduled Jan. 31. The group, which includes carpenters, electricians and architects, is to spend 10 weeks building an eight-room clinic in the southern seacoast town of Vung Tau.

"It seemed like a way to heal the insanity of the war itself," said Ruben Robert Gomez of Santa Cruz, Calif. "We'd like to see American hands-on restoration in Vietnam and put it behind us."

Members of the Veterans-Vietnam Restoration Project, a small California veterans group, say the clinic will meet an urgent need for better medical care in rural Vietnam; help foster U.S.-Vietnamese ties; and perhaps serve to alleviate individual psychological and moral problems from the war.

A psychiatrist who specializes in helping Vietnam war veterans will accompany the group to evaluate effects of the effort on participants.

Gomez said the project cost of $60,000 to $100,000 and the supply of medicine and equipment is being met by a number of private organizations including Operation California, the Christopher Reynolds Foundation and the U.S. Committee for Scientific Cooperation with Vietnam.

"Everywhere I go people say: 'Hey, great, good luck to you,'" Gomez said in an interview, adding that more than 80 veterans had applied to join the group.
