

Part of observance...

Trailhand naming slated by college at halftime tonight

The Western Texas College observance of Community College Week continues Monday with the first of two double-header basketball games and the crowning of the 1989 WTC Trailhands.

On Sunday, the slate of activities began with initiation ceremonies for new members of the Psi Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa.

Monday night, WTC's Lady

Dusters and Westerners will host South Plains College at the coliseum. The Dusters game begins at 6 p.m. and the Westerners are to tip off 8 p.m.

During half of the Westerners game, the new Trailhands will be introduced.

Candidates for the honors include Shondra Robinson and Allison Adams of Snyder, Zane Benson of San Angelo, Donna Aiken of Roscoe and Julie Roewe of Haskell as well as Chawn Cummings of Richardson, Lester White of Odessa and John Pyburn and Barry Byrd of Snyder.

Also Monday, a college display will be on view in the lobby of the coliseum.

On Tuesday, a volleyball game between campus representatives and members of the community will be played beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the WTC gym.

WTSB retained as county depository

Scurry County commissioners Monday designated West Texas State Bank as the county's depository bank for 1989-90, continuing an arrangement that has been in effect for over the past decade.

WTSB board chairman Martin Brooks tendered a bid that calls for 6.5 percent interest to be paid on large, long-term deposits while Snyder National Bank, represented by president Rex Robinson, offered a 6-percent rate.

The third bank in Snyder, American State Bank, did not bid.

County Clerk Frances Billingsley said she thought WTSB has been the county's depository bank for about the past 15 years.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting included an outline of Southwestern Bell's "Texas First" telecommunications alternative by Bell representative Jim West of Plainview, whose request for a resolution supporting the plan was unanimously approved. West said the proposal, filed with the Public Utilities Commission, would replace non-digital equipment with digital equipment in the 195 Texas towns and cities, including Snyder, that are currently still on a rotary system.

Bell would freeze its rates in those areas for five years, after which time its maximum allowable profit margin would be raised from 12 to 13 percent.

In an aside, West said Snyder will apparently be one of the first areas in the state to install a new 911 emergency calling system, and he said all of the rural houses in the county will have to be numbered for the system to work.

The court accepted a high bid of $7,600 from Lease Equipment Service Co. to buy a surplus 1983 Ford diesel truck and a 1959 hydraulic dump trailer from commissioner's Pct. 3.

Sweetheart event tomorrow at SHS

Mr. and Miss Snyder High School will be announced Tuesday during the annual Valentine's Day assembly honoring club and organization sweethearts at SHS.

The assembly will begin at 2:30 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium. Nominees for Mr. and Miss SHS are Becky Bynum, Michael Riggins, Rhonda Echols, Kenny Miller, Nichole Overman, Jeff Franklin, Christy Quintela, Royce Hataway, Michele Anderson and Benny Miller.

The group of nominees was selected by a vote of their fellow students.

During the assembly, sweethearts will be recognized also from SHS clubs, organizations and athletic teams. Also to be recognized will be class favorites previously selected at the high school. Serving as emcee Tuesday will be Jerry Worsham.

WTC audit proposal due decision tonight

The February meeting for Western Texas College trustees will include a board decision related to next year's outside audit of college funds.

Consideration of audit proposals is one of three action items listed for the 5:45 p.m. meeting.

The board is to consider for approval also the small class report for the spring term and a request for expense money related to an upcoming convention trip for members of Phi Theta Kappa.

Two college projects scheduled for bid are to be reviewed for board members also.

These will include the replacement of galvanized pipe beneath the WTC Student Center and the purchase of tanks for grain feed storage at the college farm.

Reports will be given to trustees also. Mike Thornton is to report on the new TDC correctional officer class; Dr. Duane Hood will profile spring enrollment figures; and administrators will discuss new coliseum rental fees proposed by the county.

North's hearing in recess

Jury sent home as delay mullied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge in Oliver North's Iran-Contra trial today sent the jury home and scheduled a hearing for Tuesday on a proposed agreement for additional national security safeguards that could allow the case to go forward.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell indicated he is in no hurry to rush to trial, referring to the administrative stay issued at the Justice Department's request Sunday by Chief Justice William Rehnquist.

The full Supreme Court on Friday is to consider the Justice Department's request to delay the trial.

"You're still jurors in this case, of course," Gesell told the panel. "You will be advised as soon as the court knows whether the case is allowed to go forward or not. I regret the inconvenience this will cause you."

Hours after Rehnquist issued the stay, the Justice Department announced it had reached an agreement with independent counsel Lawrence Walsh to seek additional controls from Gesell designed to protect the government against disclosure of sensitive national security material by North, a former White House aide.

The Justice Department said it will ask that Rehnquist's stay be vacated immediately if Gesell approves the agreement.

Gesell scheduled arguments on the agreement for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. He told the jurors to "call in tomorrow after 4" to see whether they are to be given a reporting time for court.

The judge and lawyers for North and the independent counsel's office, which is handling the prosecution, then went into a closed session to discuss an undisclosed matter touching on national security.

Walsh and the Justice Department had been in conflict since last Wednesday, when the department began seeking an order that would impose eight restrictions on classified material that North wanted to present at trial.

Gesell rejected the proposal and accepted more moderate controls offered by Walsh, who said he wanted to proceed with the trial immediately. On Thursday, the Justice Department went to court to try to delay the trial.

The department said it had concluded, and that Walsh concurred, that "the trial could not go forward without an additional protective order."

Walsh had initially opposed further restrictions on evidence in the trial, but the department had countered with a threat to invoke the Classified Information Procedures Act, which gives the attorney general broad power to prevent disclosures. Such a move could make any trial of North impossible because his lawyers argue they could not present an adequate defense.

It wasn't known how quickly Gesell would rule on the motion. Since Rehnquist issued the stay, Gesell is expected to send the jurors home until he does rule.

In its statement Sunday, the department said it believes that "the joint motion will resolve any remaining differences" with Walsh regarding the handling of classified information.

Foggy conditions don't produce rain

From Local, Wire Reports
The Snyder area was under a dense fog advisory early Monday morning following a day of overcast skies and misty conditions Sunday.

Parts of Northern Texas had developed rain showers from the weather system, but no measurable amounts of precipitation were reported in Scurry County.

The immediate outlook is for skies to clear locally, but the extended forecast for all of West Texas indicates some shower activity may return later in the week.

All sections of West Texas are expected to be cloudy by Friday. The long range forecast lists a chance of afternoon and evening showers Wednesday and Thursday.

The Snyder area forecast for Tuesday is for mostly sunny conditions with a high in the mid 60s. Dense fog formed over western and southeastern parts of the state early Monday as a warm front that stretched across central Texas Sunday retreated northward.

Dense fog advisories were posted for the South Plains, Permian Basin, Concho Valley, Abilene and at Galveston along the upper Gulf coast.

Suspect arrested for food delivery holdup

A 19-year-old Snyder man was arrested for aggravated robbery Sunday night following the knife-point robbery of a Pizza Hut delivery man early Sunday in the 1800 Block of 19th St.

Pizza Hut employee Ester Jaramillo told officers at 12:11 a.m. Sunday that delivery man Mark Hill, 19, of 1202 21st St. had been robbed of less than $10 by "a man with a knife" while attempting to make a delivery.

Luis Antonio Herrera of 1911 10th was arrested on the robbery charge at 8 p.m. Sunday at the police station and was being held in the county jail pending a bond-setting.

Police report the delivery man was threatened also with a shovel.

A. — Honor rolls for both the high school and junior high are now being prepared, school officials note, and the SDN will be publishing these.

In Brief

Suspect shot

DALLAS (AP) — An off-duty police officer shot and wounded a man who authorities said had attempted to rob a convenience store with a toy gun.

The 23-year-old man was in fair condition today at Parkland Memorial Hospital with a gunshot wound in the right hand. The suspect surrendered to police shortly after the attempted robbery early Sunday.

Charges against the man were pending, the Dallas County district attorney's office said.

Police said the suspect was shot about 5:20 a.m. after he pulled what appeared to be a black pistol on a store clerk, then refused to drop it.

The suspect ran from the service station and convenience store, pursued by police Cpl. Kerry W. Harris, working as a plainclothes security guard there. He said the suspect surrendered to officers a short time later. The suspect was determined to have brandished a toy gun.

Man accused

DALLAS (AP) — Police tactical officers who rescued a Lewisville woman from an apartment where she had been held about 25 hours have arrested a 35-year-old man in her abduction.

The unemployed house painter was so obsessed with his victim that he had followed her and telephoned her house as often as 50 times a day in the weeks before the kidnapping, said investigators.

The suspect remained in Lewisville city jail today on a charge of aggravated kidnapping, said police dispatcher Larry Love. He said the suspect would probably be arraigned by afternoon on the charge.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Don't tell me tomorrow is St. Valentine's Day already — we just finished with Christmas! Well, it is, so be a sweetheart and call someone you love and say, "I love you." Make two or three calls. Who said you can't love more than one person? — in different ways, of course.

Go through your closets and part with those clothes you've been saving until you lose 10 pounds. Your favorite charity can turn those good-as-new garments into cash.

Call someone who's lonely and say, "I'm thinking of you." Or better yet, say, "I'll be over tomorrow to take you to lunch, run some errands or give you a ride."

Arrange a date for someone who doesn't get many.

Take an oath never to drive if you've been drinking — and don't let anyone who's been drinking drive.

Forgive an enemy, quit smoking, count your calories, return that book (and everything else) you've borrowed, update your will, donate your eyes, your kidneys and all usable organs to someone who can use them after you're gone. Spay your dog, neuter your cat, pay your dentist, hug your teen-ager, listen to a bore and stop littering.

Always drive carefully, and if you're walking, thank God you're able to, and watch where you're going. And don't wait until next St. Valentine's Day to be a sweetheart again.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure my problem isn't too uncommon, but even at my age (I'm a senior citizen), it has me somewhat baffled.

I was asked out to lunch by a gentleman who made it rather clear that we should order the "special" of the house. (It was not an expensive restaurant, by the way.)

Abby, I'm not used to having to order the cheapest thing on the menu, and I resent it. I believe that when a gentleman asks a lady out, he should be prepared to allow her to order whatever she pleases. Am I wrong?

Well, he has asked me out again. I really like going to nice restaurants, and this man can well afford it. He seems to want to spend some time with me (he calls me every day), but how can I let him know I enjoy the finer things of life without seeming greedy or grabby?

At my age, I really don't need someone who is always looking for the cheapest way to go. I'd rather pay my own way, but it's nice to have a male companion. We get along very well, by the way. What do you suggest?

LIKES TO GO FIRST

DEAR LIKES: If you get along well and enjoy the gentleman's company, insist on going Dutch. That way you may order whatever you want, and he can see firsthand that you are a lady who enjoys the best. If that doesn't loosen the old boy up, he's hopeless.

The facts about drugs, AIDS and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy are all in Abby's new, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Postage is included.

Roses are Valentine's Day favorites

HOUSTON (AP) — Roses seem to be the all-time favorite love offering on Valentine's Day, and a new business in Houston offers romantics a unique way to impress the one they love with flowers.

couriers will deliver a dozen long-stemmed roses — wrapped in a box the old-fashioned way — to any office or home in the Houston area.

Soviets serious about treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets are bending over backwards to comply with the treaty calling for destruction of all intermediate-range missiles, a sign that they are eager for a more sweeping pact to slash nuclear arsenals, says the chief U.S. inspector.

"The whole thing is going a whole lot better than we expected," said Brig. Gen. Roland Lajoie, who in 19 previous years of dealing with the Soviets had found little reason to love them.

Lajoie, 52, has served two stints as a military attache in Moscow and was commander of the U.S. liaison office in East Germany in 1985 when Soviet soldiers shot and killed American Maj. Arthur Nicholson.

"Each of us has some unpleasant little anecdote," said Lajoie, whose face was smashed when the truck in which he was riding was rammed from behind by a Red Army vehicle in East Germany five months after the Nicholson incident.

But, says Lajoie, "we are professional officers."

And "there is a political will on both sides to make this thing work. But I am under no political pressure to whitewash the process," Lajoie said in an interview.

He said the Soviets clearly view verification of the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces, or INF, treaty as a foundation for cooperation on the more ambitious Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty — START — to cut long-range superpower weapons by 30 to 50 percent. START talks are stalled while the Bush administration reviews overall U.S. policy.

START, said Lajoie, "is going to be much more complicated" to verify because the number of weapons involved is much larger and because it calls for reduction rather than elimination of specific systems.

Overhead satellites will remain the backbone of U.S. verification, said Lajoie, but like the INF pact, START calls for on-site inspections on demand at dozens of locations in the United States, Western Europe and the Soviet bloc.

Under the INF regime, the United States also is allowed to keep 30 inspectors outside a Soviet mobile missile plant in Volkovsk, 700 miles east of Moscow, while the Soviets leave a similar group in Magna, Utah.

Lajoie and the other 250 Americans assigned to the inspection agency consult regularly with the START negotiators, and some of the military officers on the START team have accompanied the INF inspectors on their rounds to make sure that lessons are learned.

"There are certain minor provisions for which we would prefer different wording," said Lajoie, noting a requirement that inspectors tour a facility within one hour of arrival, no matter what time they get there.

Election of woman bishop is battle's turning point

BOSTON (AP) — Religious leaders say there's no turning back from women in the Episcopal Church hierarchy now that a 2,000-year, all-male bastion has been broken by the Rev. Barbara C. Harris' consecration as a bishop.

Presiding Bishop Edmond Lee Browning, spiritual leader of the Episcopal Church, said Harris' consecration Saturday "means that this church is realizing the wholeness of ministry, the totality of ministry, and I'm sure that others will be following Barbara in the days ahead."

The Rev. I. Carter Heyward, one of 11 women "illegally" ordained in a 1974 service in Philadelphia that paved the way for the Episcopal Church's approval of women clergy two years later, said Harris' consecration was "a major step" for the denomination.

"I think we still have a long way to go," she added. "My experience in the Episcopal Church is that it really does take some pushing, and I doubt that that's over."

The ceremony made Harris the first woman bishop in the three denominations that believe in apostolic succession, that church leadership can be traced to the apostles commissioned by Jesus. The denominations are the Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Anglican churches. The Episcopal church is one of 28 national branches of the Anglican communion.

In her first sermon as a bishop, Harris told 400 worshippers at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul on Sunday to resist the temptation to shut their eyes to issues such as racism and AIDS.

"If Jesus had not taken risks, we would not be saved," said Harris, who became a priest in 1980 in Philadelphia. "If the Diocese of Massachusetts had decided to play it safe, I would not be here wearing a broche and a chimere and a pectoral cross."

While nearly all of the more than 8,000 people who packed the convention center shouted their approval, others fought to the end to preserve the all-male tradition.

The Rev. James Hopkinson Cupit Jr. of New York City said the election of a woman may represent an "intractable impediment" to relations with other the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches.

The election of the 58-year-old Harris as suffragan, or assistant bishop, of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts in September has been the church's most controversial one in recent years.

In addition to being the first woman bishop, Harris, who is black, is thought to be the first bishop elected after a divorce and the first U.S. bishop, at least in modern times, to lack both a seminary degree and an undergraduate college degree. She studied theology through correspondence courses and with tutors, and worked in corporate public relations.

While approval of a locally elected bishop is usually perfunctory for the national church, Harris barely won approval from the majority of standing committees and head bishops of the 118 dioceses. By Saturday, only 61 standing committees and 66 bishops had given their consent.

Your Birthday

Feb. 14, 1989

Some important changes could be in the offing for you in the year ahead that you will not personally orchestrate. However, they could work out better than those you will plan yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If it gives you enjoyment to whip the house into shape today, that's nifty, but don't get down on your family if they fail to share your enthusiasm. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to get in touch with people today with whom you've been wanting to communicate, but be very careful you don't spill the beans about something that isn't meant for their ears.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your eagerness to gratify your self-interests today, you could make yourself vulnerable and instead of taking care of No. 1, you might be the one who is taken.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Establish your own pace today and work toward what you believe to be worthy objectives. Your goals might not please associates, so don't be dismayed if they are not in complete accord.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you may want to spend time on activities today that are free from outside influences, this might be extremely difficult because of your involvements with others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) When socializing with friends today go along with the wishes of the majority. If you try to impose your will on them, they may be determined to do just the opposite.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to achieve your goals today, your tactics may leave a lot to be desired. Should you err in some manner, don't try to blame someone else.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's best to avoid an acquaintance of yours today who always seems to disagree with any position you take. Neither of you is apt to have tolerance for the other.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be on guard today so that you are not drawn into a development where you could end up having to make good on another's obligation. Turn a deaf ear to smooth, suspicious sales pitches.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your mate might have a chip on the shoulder today and intentionally bring up issues to provoke you. Instead of responding in anger, tactfully change the subject.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's likely that your physical energies will be at a high point today, and this is well and good, provided you don't push yourself to the point of exhaustion. Known when to call it quits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being involved with the wrong type of people could make you feel very uncomfortable today. Make arrangements to share your time with intimate friends with whom you feel at ease.

LULAC observes 60 years

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Members of the League of United Latin American Citizens gathered at the gravesite of the group's founder to reaffirm the goals of the man who began the fight for equality for Mexican-Americans 60 years ago.

Community and Hispanic leaders joined family members for the graveside memorial Sunday in honor of Ben Garza and other LULAC founders.

"I'm not crying so much for Daddy as I'm crying because people don't realize how hard Daddy fought for us to even go swimming," Garza's daughter, Mary Guerra, told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Garza died of tuberculosis in 1937 at the age of 44.

The first chapter of LULAC was formed in 1929 at a Corpus Christi dance hall. The organization, which began with 25 charter members, today has a membership of more than 100,000 from every state and several foreign countries.

When the organization was founded, Mexican-Americans were considered neither black nor white, attended separate schools and were refused service in restaurants.

"Sixty years ago, the pain and outrage of Hispanics in Texas resembled a lost cause," Victor M. Gonzalez Jr., president of LULAC Council No. 1, said in opening the service that drew about three dozen people. LULAC was started "to ensure parity of social, economic, educational and political opportunities for Hispanics."

LULAC leaders say that battle is fought through a new round of problems.

Gonzalez singled out the English Only movement — a campaign to make English the nation's official language; a recent Supreme Court decision against set-aside provisions for minority business owners, and immigration issues.

Teens' belief about alcohol reveals problems in future

NEW YORK (AP) — A questionnaire assessing beliefs about alcohol can identify adolescents who are at risk of drinking excessively within a year of taking the survey, a study says.

The 90-item test also may indicate what steps would best help each individual avoid problem drinking, researchers said. Junior high school students who believed alcohol could help them think or improve their physical coordination tended to be at particular risk, said Mark Goldman, a psychology professor at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

His study in this month's Journal of Consulting and Clinical Psychology is the first demonstration that a measure of psychological dependency can predict later alcohol use and tendencies toward problem drinking, said G. Alan Marlatt, director of the Addictive Behaviors Research Center at the University of Washington in Seattle.

"It's certainly a very exciting development," he said.

Peter Nathan, director of the Rutgers-affiliated Center of Alcohol Studies in Piscataway, N.J., said the study represents an advance in identifying "what looks like a rather important difference" that distinguishes early adolescents at risk of an alcohol problem.

The predictions were not perfect, but Nathan said their accuracy was "pretty impressive."

Since writing the paper, Goldman said, researchers have found the questionnaire also indicates risk of problem drinking within two years and possibly three.

The questionnaire measured how strongly students believed that alcohol could help them relax, be sexier, think better, enjoy social gatherings more, or perform better socially or athletically.

Prior research shows that such expectations strongly affect the way a person behaves after drinking, quite apart from chemical effects of alcohol, Goldman said.

One power plant burns cow dung

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A desert power plant burns enough cow dung to electrify up to 20,000 homes, thanks to 250,000 cattle, $37 million in tax-exempt bonds and an environmentalist-lawyer seeking his fortune as an "entrepreneur."

It's the first commercial power plant that burns only cattle chips for fuel, although smaller facilities "digest" manure to produce methane to generate electricity, said Will Parish, founder and president of National Energy Associates Inc.

Parish, 36, left his job with a San Francisco law firm to start the Mill Valley company, which he said is dedicated to "doing well by doing good" by building profitable but socially and environmentally responsible energy projects.

The $46 million, 17½-megawatt Mesquite Lake Resource Recovery Project, financed by the bonds plus $9 million from investors, is located next to its fuel supply: cattle feedlots near Imperial in the desert about 110 miles east of San Diego. It was fired up in November 1987 and began continuous on-line electricity production last October.

"It truly is a unique plant," said Bill McCroskey, a project development manager for Southern California Edison Co.

"We are presently buying power from them (under a 30-year contract). The plant satisfactorily passed its operating test last fall. They are considered a reliable energy source."

The plant runs at 70 percent to 85 percent of its maximum capacity as its construction company, Lurgi Corp. of Frankfurt, West Germany, "tweaks" it toward full net capacity of 15 megawatts, enough to power 15,000 to 20,000 homes using 800 to 900 tons of manure daily, Parish said. The plant runs on the other 2½ megawatts it produces.

Parish said the plant's output represents annual savings of 300,000 barrels of oil that otherwise would be burned for power, and relieves pressure on Imperial Valley landfills.

Throw the odds out the window

By James Jacoby

Poor Willy Nilly! Last summer his partners were berating him for not knowing much about percentages, so he started to study that subject. Although he lost interest rapidly, he did learn that a five-card residue will divide 3-2 about 68 percent of the time, a useful statistic if applied properly. We come now to today's deal, with Willy opening one no-trump and his partner raising him to three.

Willy covered the club 10 with dummy's queen and won his ace when East played the king. He led a diamond to dummy's king and East's ace, and East played back a club. Willy ducked. West won and switched to a spade, covered by the jack, queen and Willy's ace. Now Willy played another diamond and went right up with dummy's jack, remembering the percentage for 3-2 splits. But East showed out. Declarer eventually worked out an end-play in the major suits to get out for down one, but should he not have done better?

In fact, percentages go out the window when a defender with his head on his shoulders takes the first diamond. There's no way any defender would not hold up the ace of diamonds to break the communication for declarer if that defender held more than one diamond. So the chance that East's original holding was the singleton ace changed to 98 percent. Why only 98 percent? This was a friendly game, and there's always a 2 percent chance in a friendly game that a player will pull a wrong card. Willy should put in the eight or nine of diamonds on the second play of the suit and make his contract.

'New Wave' leads West Stars

HOUSTON (AP) - Coach Pat Riley had the best seat in the house for watching the next generation of superstars in the NBA.

He saw the new wave, led by Utah's Karl Malone and John Stockton, take a few plays from the Jazz playbook as the West beat the East 143-134 Sunday in the NBA All-Star game at the Astrodome.

"Stockton, Dale Ellis and Malone are showing us that we are seeing the changing of the guard in the league," Riley said. "The young stars are really making their impact."

The West started the game in a gallop and had taken control by the second quarter with Stockton feeding passes to Malone.

Riley also gave the record crowd of 44,375 what they wanted by sending retiring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar onto the floor for the final time in an NBA All-Star game.

Abdul-Jabbar played 13 crowd-pleasing minutes and it didn't matter to the fans that he didn't score until two seconds remained in the half and he connected only once with his famous sky hook.

"I just wanted see him hit that sky hook before it was over," Riley said. "He thought it might be his last chance."

Abdul-Jabbar replaced Akeem Olajuwon of Houston in the final minutes of the game and finally hit a hook, his only field goal of the game.

Malone, voted the game's most valuable player, scored 28 points, including 8-for-9 shooting in the first half.

Isiah Thomas of Detroit scored 19 points and Philadelphia's Charles Barkley added 17 points for the East.

Ellis, $20,000 richer after winning the long distance shooting contest on Saturday, scored 27 points for the West.

Stockton scored 11 points and had 17 assists for the game, including an All-Star record nine assists in the first quarter.

Stockton finished second to Malone in balloting for MVP after replacing Magic Johnson as the West's starting point guard.

"Magic is the best point guard in the league," Stockton said. "None can ever replace him. Today was just one of those days when I saw the floor real well and everybody just anticipated the passes."

After Johnson had to withdraw from the All-Star game because of a hamstring injury, Riley decided to take a few pages from Utah's play book.

"As soon as I learned that Magic wouldn't be there, I switched to the Utah Jazz offense," Riley said. "Stockton really did a good job of running the team."

The West led 47-31 at the first quarter and its biggest lead was 76-45 with 3:53 left in the first half.

"In the locker room yesterday (Saturday) before practice, most of the team had that look in their eye," Malone said. "Last year, a lot of us were just happy to be on the West squad and a part of the All-Star game."

"But this year, we wanted to win it. We were determined to give it our best shot."

The East rallied in the second half to make the final score respectable, led by Chicago's Michael Jordan, who scored 16 of his 28 points in the second half.

Western, South Plains meet on basketball court tonight

Cowboys expected to hire new coach

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The anticipated shakeup of the Dallas Cowboys' coaching staff is expected to begin today when George Hill is named to replace longtime assistant Ernie Stautner as defensive coordinator, according to published reports.

Hill, defensive coordinator with the Indianapolis Colts for the past four seasons before he was released, will be introduced at an afternoon news conference, The Dallas Morning News and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported in today's editions.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry declined comment, but Hill confirmed from his home in Indianapolis that he would fly to Dallas today for the announcement.

"I'm excited about being part of the Dallas organization," Hill told The News.

Fans who attend tonight's basketball doubleheader between Western Texas College and South Plains College will be admitted free if they wear WTC colors.

They also need to bring strong voices, because the 6 p.m. women's game promises to be a crucial one in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

The men's game, which features Western Texas trying to play spoiler against South Plains' 13th-ranked Texans, tips off at 8 p.m. Both games are set for Scurry County Coliseum. Youngsters are encouraged to be accompanied by an adult.

Western Texas and South Plains women have battled three times already this season with the Lady Dusters coming out on top 2-1. Tonight's game is the most crucial, however, for both teams. In fact, the entire week is.

The women's standings are led by Odessa with a 6-2 mark. Western and New Mexico JC are 6-3 and South Plains and Frank Phillips are 5-3. In addition to tonight's game, Western hosts New Mexico JC on Thursday while South Plains travels to Odessa.

"I feel like we have to win both of these games (versus SPC tonight and NMJC on Thursday) to get into the regional tournament," said WTC Coach Kelly Chadwick.

South Plains' Coach Lyndon Hardin - whose Lady Texans also must face New Mexico JC next Monday - would undoubtedly agree. With tonight's matchup weighing so heavily on the WJCAC standings, it promises to be one of the better contests put on at the coliseum this season.

The Lady Dusters are 19-8 for the season. South Plains is 17-8.

South Plains' men are a boastful 25-2 for the 1988-89 campaign. The Texans' only conference loss in 12 games was to top-ranked Odessa.

Western Texas men, under the direction of second-year coach Tony Mauldin, are 12-15 overall and 3-10 in the WJCAC. Injuries and youth have kept the Westerners off balance this

Sauers enjoys Hawaiian win

HONOLULU (AP) - It's been a great three weeks, Gene Sauers said.

"First, my son, Gene Jr., was born Jan. 23," he said. "Then I finished fourth in LA" and won $41,333.

"Then this," "This" was his one-stroke triumph in the Hawaiian Open, only the second victory of his six-season PGA Tour career.

It was worth $135,000 and completed the most productive two-week period of Sauers' career. Sauers has some of it earmarked. "I've got to put that boy through college," the Savannah, Ga., native said.

On a more immediate basis, his birdie-birdie finish in the weather-shortened tournament put him halfway to a seasonal goal.

"I'd kind of set a goal for myself, to win two tournaments this year," Sauers said Sunday.

And it could come soon, Sauers suggested.

"I like these Bermuda grass greens," he said. "I'm from the South and that's the kind of greens I grew up on. That's the kind I usually play my best on."

And it's the kind he'll play in his next four starts. Sauers, who is taking some time off this week, ticked them off: "Doral, Honda, Bay Hill, the Players Championship. I like all of them. And I've played all of them pretty good before," he said.

Tigers scrimmage here

Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder High varsity baseball team was to entertain Lubbock High in scrimmage action at 4 p.m. today.

Snyder opens the season Feb. 28 in Lubbock against Estacado. The Tigers will also scrimmage Midland Lee in Midland at 1 p.m. Feb. 18, Brownfield in Brownfield at 5 p.m. on Feb. 21, and Midland Lee here at 1 p.m. on Feb. 25.

Hoopsters play Tuesday

Snyder's Tigers, looking for their fourth straight victory, entertain Sweetwater at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Scurry County Coliseum. A junior varsity contest is set for 6 p.m. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Snyder's girls, the Lady Tigers, finished their season last weekend with a win over Monahans.

Snyder's boys are 15-11 overall and in third place in the District 4-4A standings with an 8-4 record. Because Andrews and Big Spring have already wrapped up the district's two playoff berths, tonight's game is for pride, however. The Tigers wind up their 1988-89 season on Friday when they entertain Pecos.

Sweetwater is 10-17 for the season and 5-7 in district play. In other 4-4A games Tuesday, fifth-ranked Andrews (26-3, 11-1) battles Pecos (15-9, 7-5), Monahans (6-21, 2-10) meets Fort Stockton (6-18, 0-12) and Lake View (13-16, 4-8) takes on Big Spring (18-11, 11-1).

Although regular-season girl's play is over, 4-4A co-champs Sweetwater and Big Spring will playoff Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Big Spring's Garrett Coliseum for first and second place. Big Spring is 25-3 overall; Sweetwater is 24-5.

Razorbacks face tough road trips

by The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns hope the Arkansas Razorbacks' reputation as a shaky road team holds true this week in visits to Dallas and College Station.

If Coach Nolan Richardson's Hogs can defeat Southern Methodist and the Texas Aggies on the road this week, they will be in great position to win the top seed for the post-season tournament in Dallas.

Arkansas has lost to Texas Christian and Texas Tech away from the friendly confines of Barnhill Arena.

The Hogs and Longhorns each reached the century mark on Saturday in staying locked atop the SWC ladder with 9-2 records.

Arkansas whipped TCU 100-60 to extract a measure of revenge for an earlier loss in Fort Worth.

TCU lost Reggie Smith, Tony Edmond and Rich Antee to fouls.

"The crowd put pressure on the officials and it went from there," said TCU coach Moe Iba. "When you run out of players, what can you do?"

Texas' Lance Blanks and Travis Mays scored 33 points each in a 116-74 victory over the Rice Owls, who are 3-8 in SWC play.

"We tried zone and man-to-man and if you have any other defenses to try call them out to me and I'll listen," said Rice coach Scott Thompson.

"When both Lance and Travis are tracking, we are an awfully tough team to beat," said Texas coach Tom Penders.

In other games, Houston finally won a close one, nipping Texas Tech 71-67 and SMU pounded Baylor 64-51.

TCU is third in the league race with a 7-4 record followed by Tech at 6-5, Houston and SMU each at 5-5, Texas A&M at 3-7, Rice at 3-8, and Baylor at 1-10. Every team is eligible for the post-season tournament except the ninth-place team.

In other games on Wednesday besides Arkansas-SMU, Texas A&M is at Baylor, Houston is at Texas, and TCU is at Rice.

The 1953 Washington Bullets qualified for the NBA playoffs despite a record of 16-54 in the regular season.

HANK MURRAY

Hank Murray appearance set

Hank Murray, a former gospel D.J., promoter and manager, will appear at 7 p.m. Wednesday night at the Church of the Nazarene. He is now an ordained minister and has preached and sang for the past 20 years. He has worked as a gospel D.J. and is known throughout the country as a gospel promoter. In 1983, Murray was selected the number one gospel D.J. in New Mexico. Everyone is invited.

VCR explosion injures 1 person

HOUSTON (AP) — Arson investigators were trying to determine who planted a pipe bomb inside an abandoned videocassette recorder that exploded when a woman plugged the machine into an electrical outlet.

Dorothy Lee Gipson, 52, suffered a broken ankle and cuts to her legs and right arm in the explosion. She remained in fair condition Sunday at Ben Taub Hospital, officials said.

The rigged VCR exploded Saturday in the beauty salon Mrs. Gipson operates from her Houston home. She was alone in the salon at the time.

Mrs. Gipson's son had found the VCR early Saturday morning outside an adult newsstand but had not been able to make it work.

Arson investigators were continuing their probe into the explosion and had not yet made any arrests.

Adrian Gipson, 23, said he found the recorder on the ground beside his car when he and a friend left a 24-hour newsstand about 3 a.m. Saturday.

Gipson took the VCR home where he tried unsuccessfully to plug it into his extension cord. He then shook the recorder only to find it was filled with water.

"I thought I might get electrocuted so I quit trying," he said.

Gipson discarded the machine at the curb for garbage pickup and went to work. Mrs. Gipson found the recorder sometime later that morning and plugged it inside her beauty shop, triggering the explosion, authorities said.

"You can't find a whole piece (of the recorder) anywhere. It was blown to bits," her son said. Gipson said he couldn't think of anybody angry enough at him to try to hurt him.

Damage to the Gipson home is estimated at $15,000 to $20,000, Houston arson investigator Butch Lewis said.

"This was a big pipe bomb," Lewis said, adding that whoever was responsible did not have to be an expert. The VCR's plug acted as a spark plug, tripping a wire and igniting an explosive in the pipe, he said.

"All they need is the pipe and a little bit of knowledge of how to put one together. It doesn't take much."

Ira seniors plan donkey basketball for next Monday

The Ira senior class will sponsor a donkey basketball game at 7:30 p.m. next Monday, Feb. 20, in the new gym. The senior boys will play the men faculty and the senior girls will play the women faculty. The winner of these two competitions will play again in the finals. All players will be riding real donkeys.

Advance tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for grades eight and under. Tickets will be priced at $4 and $3 at the door. Advance tickets will be on sale at Merle Norman Studio, Haney's Jewelry, Ira School and D&J Country Corner. A Tae Kwon Do demonstration is planned for halftime.

Texans underpaid by standards of colleagues

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas legislators who claim they are underpaid at $7,200 a year might be right — at least if compared to salaries paid by many other states.

An Associated Press survey found that Texas, the nation's third-largest state, ranks well behind the two biggest states in legislative pay. Many smaller states pay better, too.

In Texas, serving in the biennial, part-time Legislature pays $600 a month, plus $30 per day in expenses during sessions.

In contrast, California's full-time legislators get $40,816 in salary plus $87 a day when they are meeting.

New York state legislators receive $57,500 a year, which may be the nation's highest compensation following a raise from $43,000 starting in January 1988. New York's Legislature meets annually and is technically a part-time body.

But it's not just the bigger states that pay more.

In Massachusetts, the 160 House members and 40 senators all draw a base annual salary of $30,000, with party floor leaders and committee chairmen receiving bonus pay ranging from $7,500 to $35,000 for the speaker and Senate president.

Base pay of Ohio legislators is $36,650 annually. Leaders, committee chairmen, vice chairmen and ranking minority party members earn more.

Oregon lawmakers receive salaries of $937 a month, or $11,244 a year. They also receive expense payments of $66 a day seven days a week during legislative sessions, and $400 a month between sessions.

Illinois legislators are paid $35,661 annually and receive $72 a day for living expenses during sessions.

Colorado legislators are paid $17,500 a year. Those living less than 50 miles from Denver receive $35 a day expenses when Legislature in session. Those living 50 miles or more receive $70.

Hawaii's 25 senators and 51 House members get $27,000 a year, just raised from $15,600. That's scheduled to go to $32,000 in 1993, with the Senate president and House speaker getting an additional $5,000 a year.

In Georgia, legislators make $10,251 per year, plus a maximum of $4,800 per year as reimbursement for expenses.

Minnesota pays its 201 lawmakers $25,138, with top leaders making more. Expenses are $48 a day during sessions and authorized interim work. House and Senate members also receive a monthly housing allowance during the annual sessions.

The Texas salary of $600 a month is written into the state Constitution. So voters would get to decide on any proposed pay increase.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, has said he thinks lawmakers are underpaid and supports a raise. One leading proposal, by Rep. David Hudson, D-Tyler, would pay legislators 25 percent of the governor's annual salary.

If that amendment were approved at current salary levels, legislators would see their pay more than tripled to $23,358 a year.

Gov. Bill Clements, who is paid $93,432 a year and gets free rent at the Governor's Mansion, opposes a raise. "I don't think they need a raise. I sure don't," he said.

Clements says recent voter outcry over the proposed congressional pay increase ought to tell state legislators something.

Regardless of the outcome of this question, Texas lawmakers can take some comfort in knowing they are better-paid than at least a few others.

In tiny Rhode Island, for example, state legislators get $5 a day, plus 8 cents a mile to and from the statehouse, for the first 60 days of a session; nothing thereafter.

Officials said the Rhode Island pay scale was put into the state Constitution and may go back as far as 1843. Repeated attempts to raise it have been rejected by voters.

Transplant survivor says she is lucky

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Every day, but especially on Valentine's Day, Stormie Jones quietly gives thanks for the historic transplant operation five years ago that gave her a new, healthy heart and liver, and a new, healthy life. "I just think of how lucky I was because I survived the heart and liver transplant that nobody ever had," Stormie said. "I think about how lucky I am to have a lot of friends that really, truly mean a lot to me."

The first recipient of a heart-liver transplant — and the only one to survive — has learned to adjust since doctors saved her life Feb. 14, 1984.

"I leave all the bad things in the back of my head and I keep all the good things in front of my head," the 11-year-old explained matter-of-factly. "So I don't have to worry about what's going to happen later on."

"It's easy. All you have to do is think good thoughts. Some days you might feel a little bit bad ... but you try to think about good things."

Good things include playing basketball and climbing trees at home in White Settlement, Texas. Bad things are returning to Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh because of complications and seeing other sick youngsters die.

When Stormie and her sister Misty "were smaller, they would pretend things would go away and things would get better," said their mother, Lois Purcell. "Misty said, 'We're older now, Mom, and we just can't do that.'"

Mrs. Purcell, 32, tries to think good thoughts. But it's not easy.

"I worry a lot. ... As she gets older, she gets more risky at playing. Of course there's supposed to be no contact sports for these kids anyway. Well, Stormie is so normal it's just kind of hard to keep tabs on her."

Mrs. Purcell also lives with the nagging knowledge that Stormie's immune system, at any time, could reject her transplanted heart and liver.

Those fears intensified recently when Stormie developed liver problems that required her to return to Children's Hospital twice in three months.

"I was really shocked by the whole ordeal because she had done so well," Mrs. Purcell said. "We thought we had it made, that nothing could go wrong now."

Misty, 14, took the news particularly hard. Like Stormie, she suffers from a cholesterol problem but it's treatable by diet.

During Stormie's month long hospitalization in November, surgeons removed a bile duct obstruction. She was back in January for a week because of elevated enzyme levels that interfered with her anti-rejection medication.

"They're not tremendously serious but they're quite stressful, probably for everyone," said Dr. Thomas E. Starzl, who performed the transplant. "She doesn't need another transplant. She's fine."

Stormie was dying when Starzl decided in January 1984 that her only hope would be a heart-liver transplant. She suffered from a rare congenital disease that increased the cholesterol in her blood to nearly 10 times normal. Because of the imbalance, caused by a faulty liver, she had suffered two heart attacks and underwent two triple coronary bypasses and a heart-valve replacement.

The 16-hour transplant instantly improved Stormie's chances for life. Her dramatic progress paved the way for two more heart-liver transplants during the next year in Pittsburgh, but both patients died within a few days of surgery.

"She's proud of the fact that she made medical history," Mrs. Purcell said. "Before she wouldn't show anybody her scar. But now she's not shy about it. She'll raise her shirt to a certain point and say, 'See.'"

Newspaper: two astronauts received medical waivers

HOUSTON (AP) — The veteran astronaut who commanded the first shuttle mission since the Challenger accident had kidney stone problems that should have kept him from flying last September, the Houston Chronicle reported.

In addition, sources said another astronaut who is scheduled to command a November mission is colorblind, a reason for flight disqualification, the Chronicle reported in a copyright story published Sunday.

But a chief NASA administrator said no rules were broken by allowing the astronauts to fly.

Sources told the newspaper that the Johnson Space Center medical qualification board recommended last year that Discovery commander Frederick H. Hauck be disqualified because of kidney stone problems, but was overruled. They also said Daniel C. Brandenstein, chief of the astronaut corps, failed an eye test in 1987 but received a waiver to fly.

"The main premise of the Houston Chronicle story seems to be that NASA managers somehow subverted agency policy and failed to ground medically disqualified astronauts. That is categorically untrue," said Johnson Space Center Director Aaron Cohen.

Rear Adm. Richard H. Truly, NASA's associate administrator for flight operations at Washington headquarters, interceded in both cases, the Chronicle's sources said.

The sources, who asked for anonymity, are active members in Flight Crew Operations, which includes the astronaut office, and in the Space and Life Sciences Directorate, which includes the xlight medicine clinic and medical operations branch at JSC, the newspaper said.

"Unlike the Chronicle's anonymous sources I speak on the record and for attribution when I state there has been no rule bending. There have been no special dispensations and there has been no favoritism and there have been no medically disqualified astronauts assigned to the space shuttle missions," Cohen said.

Truly declined to comment on individual medical cases Friday but said: "I try to do two things. I try to make sure from the management view that the (medical) process works, that individual health problems are treated fairly by the (medical qualification) board and management, and secondly to protect the rights of the individual involved, and the major objective is to get healthy astronauts to the launch pad for the mission."

Truly's spokeswoman Sarah Keegan told The Associated Press on Sunday she also could not comment on specific medical cases.

During October interviews and again last week, Hauck and Brandenstein would not discuss their medical records, the Chronicle said.

Sources told the Chronicle that the Space Medicine Board grounded Hauck early in 1988 because of a kidney stone problem, but the recommendation was later overruled, and subsequently reversed.

Brandenstein, the sources said, failed the Farnsworth Lantern color perception test in 1987, but he received the only waiver ever issued to an astronaut for color blindness.

Some of about 2,000 circuit breakers and switches on the shuttle orbiter are color-coded, including some of those used in the launch and re-entry, a source said.

Brandenstein is scheduled to command the Columbia space shuttle in November. He has flown on two previous shuttle flights, in 1983 and in 1985.

Hauck flew on shuttle flights in 1983 and 1984, as well as commanding the first shuttle to fly since the Challenger tragedy. But he has said that the Discovery flight was his last shuttle mission.

The Chronicle said Hauck underwent a lithotripsy at Houston's Methodist Hospital last April to dissolve a kidney stone. The process, however, doesn't guarantee that another kidney stone will not form.

About 60 other astronauts are awaiting assignment to space flights, according to JSC spokesman Jeffrey E. Carr.

The 7,000-square-foot conservatory at the Day Butterfly Center in Pine Mountain, Ga., is the largest glass enclosed butterfly exhibit in North America. It has nearly 1,000 tropical butterflies of 50 species.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 34. About four years ago I started getting severe symptoms four to six hours after I start menstruating. I get violently ill, have uncontrollable muscle spasms, severe cramps and almost pass out. It lasts three hours or so. My doctor shrugs it off but I'm worried it might happen in public or while driving a car. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: I do not know the cause of your symptoms. Menstrual cramps, particularly on the first day of bleeding, can be severe but they do not usually lead to faintness and muscle spasms. I suggest that you review your symptoms (and their unusual timing) with a gynecologist, if you haven't done so already — or request referral for a second opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT: After 30 years of diarrhea, my niece suggested that my husband take acidophilus pills. It worked. Is there any harm in him continuing with the acidophilus from now on? He takes blood pressure medicine.

DEAR READER: Acidophilus pills contain harmless microorganisms (lactobacillus) that change the bacterial population of the intestine. This change is sometimes helpful for people with bowel problems, particularly diarrhea. Acidophilus will not interfere in any way with medicine for hypertension. Your husband is safe to continue his double treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During my teen years I was very gregarious and active. Since getting married I have let the fear of getting sick in public rule my life. I take two Triavil daily which helps some. What can you suggest so I can enjoy life again?

DEAR READER: You seem to have developed an irrational fear called a phobia. Medicine, such as Triavil (for depression and anxiety), is unlikely to cure you. You probably need counseling with or without behavior modification, a method by which you can be relieved of your fear. Discuss this with your doctor.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Mental and Emotional Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been told I have pulmonary hypertension. What can I look forward to?

DEAR READER: Pulmonary hypertension means increased blood pressure in the lungs. It is caused by blockage of blood vessels in the lungs (pulmonary emboli), lack of oxygen (as in emphysema), loss of lung tissue (from surgery) or primary pulmonary hypertension (irritation and thickening of lung blood vessels). If left untreated, the condition eventually leads to heart failure. Therefore, therapy is important and depends on the cause of the disorder.

As a general rule, the administration of oxygen is useful. Also, diuretics (kidney stimulants) will often lower the hypertension and reduce the work of the heart. Patients with pulmonary hypertension should, in my opinion, be under the care of a pulmonologist, a doctor specially trained in lung diseases.

Some angry enough to send worst

DALLAS (AP) — Valentine's Day can also be a time when folks are angry enough to send the very worst.

Jilted lovers, angry spouses, fed-up neighbors or miffed employees can turn to an East Dallas florist to deliver dead floral arrangements to their unloved one complete with a visit from a black-robed Grim Reaper.

"Some people have wanted us to send Venus' flytrap or poison ivy with the dead flowers — or just by itself," said Susan Roberts, owner of Balloonograms-Drop Dead Florists. "But we don't want to get into trouble for doing that."

Her store will deliver dead flowers in a ceramic skull with a plastic snake poking through an eye for about $38. To arrange a personal delivery by the Grim Reaper, the sender must pay an extra $10.

Mrs. Roberts incorporated the dead flower sending into her story several months ago as a spinoff from "Over The Hill" birthday arrangements.

Public disbelieves PLO, favors talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans widely disbelieve the Palestine Liberation Organization's claim to have abandoned terrorism but favor the U.S. dialogue with the PLO and the establishment of a Palestinian state, a poll shows.

Nearly seven in 10 respondents to a Media General-Associated Press survey approved of the United States holding talks with the PLO, and six in 10 said Israel should follow suit.

But just 6 percent of the 1,162 adults said they believed the PLO's recent renunciation of terrorism, and 74 percent said they thought the group only made that claim for political gain. The rest were unsure.

The poll indicated other misgivings about the PLO. Respondents were split on whether the organization would coexist with Israel or still seek to destroy it, regardless of its recognition of the Jewish state in December.

Still, the public endorsed the basic tenet of the Palestinian cause: Sixty-two percent said the Palestinians should have their own country. Eleven percent disagreed. Twenty-seven percent had no opinion.

The national poll was conducted Jan. 4-12, the month after PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat said his group was recognizing Israel and renouncing terrorism. The United States responded to Arafat's move by opening its first official talks with the PLO.

Israel rejected the PLO declarations as a ploy and continued its refusal to negotiate with the organization. The poll found acceptance of that position: Although most favored such talks, 67 percent said the United States should not try to force Israel to talk with the PLO.

But the survey also found some frustration with Israel's supporters in the United States: 35 percent said they had too much influence on U.S. policy. Twenty percent said pro-Palestinian groups had too much influence.

Roughly a quarter of the respondents had no view on many of the questions, reflecting the distance of Mideast issues from the daily concerns of many Americans. Significantly more men expressed opinions than did women.

Better-educated respondents were more likely to favor dealings with the PLO. While 67 percent overall approved of U.S.-PLO talks, for example, that number swelled to 79 percent of college-educated respondents.

Six in 10 of the most-educated group, those who had done postgraduate study, said Israel should allow the creation of a Palestinian state on land it occupies in exchange for recognition from the PLO. Among all respondents, just 44 percent agreed.

But respondents in all education levels doubted that the PLO has given up terrorism. And 63 percent overall said some group other than the PLO could represent the Palestinians in negotiations with Israel.

Arab countries have declared the PLO the Palestinians' only legitimate representative. Israel has said it would negotiate with Palestinians, but not with PLO members because the organization's charter calls for Israel's destruction.

One-third of the respondents thought the PLO wants to destroy Israel; about a third believed the PLO would coexist with Israel. The last third weren't sure. More of the most-educated group, 55 percent, said the PLO would coexist with Israel.

Six in 10 of that group, and five in 10 overall, said the United States should not recognize the Palestinian state the PLO declared in November. The rest split between support for recognition and no opinion.

The poll had a 3 percentage-point margin of error.

Tulsa, Okla. seeks to change charter

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Every few months, David Breed leads a bus with white people, many of whom have lived in Tulsa all their lives, and takes them on a tour of the city's northside.

This is the other Tulsa, where most of the city's poorest families live, most of the city's low-income housing is located, much of the city's crime occurs and many of the city's vacant buildings crumble under neglect.

This is also where most of the city's blacks live.

"The tour is really designed to take people out of their way to show them a part of Tulsa they otherwise would never see," said Breed, who is a white volunteer in several groups working on problems in north Tulsa. "These problems really do exist here."

City officials and black leaders hope a proposed change in government that residents will vote on Tuesday will open City Hall to northside blacks for the first time and begin redressing some of those problems.

Tulsa was once referred to as a "promised land" by freed slaves escaping the South, but a 1987 civil rights lawsuit filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People claims the city has discriminated against blacks for decades.

The city's 1908 charter established a commission form of government, with commissioners elected at-large. A black from the northside has never been elected.

The lawsuit, filed after the NAACP won a similar case against officials in Springfield, Ill., claims Tulsa's 42,000 blacks are ignored in this predominantly white city of 360,000. That lawsuit could become moot if voters approve a new charter calling for a strong mayor and a council with members drawn from nine districts, including one majority black district.

"With the very force of his knowledge, his influence, and, yes, his role in city government, a black councilman will make a difference to every aspect of this community," said Jim Goodwin, a black attorney assisting the NAACP.

Tulsa officials vehemently deny the city has discriminated against blacks. They say the proposed new charter is an attempt to introduce a more efficient form of government, not a response to the NAACP.

Still, they said a history of segregation has had its effect on the city's largest minority.

"There's no doubt but that there was a system of segregation that effectively kept blacks from being active participants ... in the local government game in this community," Finance Commissioner Gary Watts said. "As to how rapidly we have opened up as a community since the late 1960s, I think there would be a great deal of debate on that perception."

"I'm still not ready to say that representation has been denied on a racial basis. I don't believe that," Mayor Rodger Randle said.

Blacks trace the racial problems to events that led to a bloody 1921 riot. After that, Tulsa complied with state segregation laws at least through the 1960s. The riot "left a legacy of segregation. It left a legacy that Tulsa would tolerate racism," said Dr. Charles Christopher, a black leader. "It has left a second class of citizens that has not been treated fairly. It has left a legacy of two separate school systems."

The mayor said he is optimistic voters will embrace the charter, despite the failure of four previous attempts at change since 1954, because many people realize the limitations of the current system.

Special Valentines are available

HOUSTON (AP) — Romantics who prefer culinary delights to cards and flowers can gorge on gourmet sweets or have breakfast in bed on Valentine's Day.

The Executive Sweet in Houston is tempting sweethearts with an all-you-can-eat Valentine's Special that began Saturday and lasts through Tuesday.

Offerings include chocolate mousse tortes, Italian cream cake, praline cheesecake and chocolate peanut butter truffles. Those looking for fewer calories can try the low cholesterol apple tart.

If sweets are off limits, Houston caterer Renee Ferrell will serve a valentine breakfast for two delivered like hotel room service to your home.

Valentine offer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Parks Board hopes some romantic couples will buy a commemorative tree for their valentine.

For $100 a tree, the board will send a card inscribed with a personal message. The donor can choose the tree type and even specify the location.

Original board member Jerald Mize started the commemorative tree program in 1977 when he planted 100 red maple trees on Buffalo Bayou in memory of a friend.
