Bush meets with Israeli, Arab leaders

TOKYO (AP) — President Bush arrived in Japan today and plunged into a series of mini-summits with Israeli and Arab leaders, as the United States suggested that new Soviet initiatives in the Middle East were merely "rhetorical exercises."

Against the backdrop of an imperial Japanese funeral, Bush conferred with Jordan's King Hussein, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Israeli President Chaim Herzog. Bush pledged that the United States will take an active role in the search for peace in the region.

Reporting on the talks, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said there were "perhaps some opportunities out there with respect to the Middle East peace process that haven't existed before."

In particular, Baker noted that the United States has opened talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization, which Washington had shunned for years as a terrorist group.

It was Bush's talks with Hussein, Mubarak and Herzog that provided a counterpoint to the 10-day trip through the Middle East by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, who is trying to advance Moscow's role in the region.

Baker said "it's healthy, quite frankly, that the Soviet Union would be interested in contributing to the cause of peace in the Middle East."

He added: "I suppose we would want to know that there were concrete contributions that they have in mind, rather than simply rhetorical exercises."

Baker said Bush did not offer any new U.S. initiatives in the Middle East.

Bush held private talks with a handful of world leaders, including French President Francois Mitterrand, Portuguese Prime Minister Mario Soares, Japanese Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita and Prime Minister Chatchai Choonhavan of Thailand.

On his first overseas journey as president, Bush will attend the funeral Friday of Japanese Emperor Hirohito, who died of cancer Jan. 7 at the age of 87.

Bush will travel to China on Saturday and make a 4½ hour stop in South Korea on Monday before returning home.

Showing no signs of jet lag, Bush appeared in good spirits as he sat down with Mitterrand in the elegant dining room of the ambassador's residence.

Tower decision expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee headed for a possible vote today on John Tower's nomination as defense secretary, with majority Democrats bluntly challenging President Bush's claim that an FBI report swept away allegations against the nominee.

Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., appearing today on ABC's "Good Morning America," reiterated his plan to vote against Tower's confirmation.

"There remain some concerns in my mind about Senator Tower's personal habits ... Certainly the report does not give a clean bill of health to the personal habits of John Tower," Exon said.

Armed Services Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said Wednesday he disagreed with Bush's view that the FBI report cleared Tower. "That's the president's opinion ... That is not my opinion," he said after chairing a three-hour closed-door committee session to review Tower's nomination.

But Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, a Tower supporter, complained on ABC this morning that the former Texas senator "has been maligned, he has been slandered, he has been held up to ridicule, I think irresponsibly ... I think it's very unfair what's happened."

Tower has been battling allegations of womanizing and excessive drinking, and also faces questions stemming from his consulting work for defense contractors before his nomination. Even his closest supporters concede he had a drinking problem in the 1970s, but they say it no longer exists.

"What we're seeing here is a situation in which members of the Senate, based upon what I think is fairly thin allegations, are going to substitute their judgment for that of the president of the United States," Cohen said.

Exon said he hoped the committee would vote sometime today, predicting the margin there and on the Senate floor would be "quite close."

Nunn said the panel would meet in private again today.

CENTER MEMORIAL — Donations made to the Scurry County Senior Center in memory of Santos Ortiz were used recently to purchase two new tables for the center's dining room. Shown with one of the tables is Ortiz' grandson, Lupe Guerra, and his daughter, Mary Ann Juarez. Mrs. Juarez and Lupe visited the center Wednesday to express their appreciation for the gifts which made the table purchases possible. (SDN Staff Photo)

Coverage for ER due vote

An effort to relieve three local physicians who are currently providing weekday on-call coverage for the Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room will be considered Thursday by members of the hospital board.

The board has scheduled its regular February meeting for 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Among the agenda items is consideration of "two nights per week" ER physician coverage.

In earlier discussions, the board authorized Tom Hochwalt, hospital administrator, to investigate expenses related to contracting with a firm to provide such coverage.

Traditionally, physicians on staff at Cogdell agree to be "on call" for 24-hour emergency room coverage during the week. During the past year, however, three doctors who were on this rotating list have left the

A special memorial dedication for Santos Ortiz, one of the Scurry County Senior Center's "regulars" for the last 14 years of his life, was made Wednesday.

Although he was legally blind, center workers note he found ways to contribute to the operation of the center. He carefully arranged the salt and pepper shaker and a bottle of catsup on each table in the dining room every morning, and he positioned the step which assists senior citizens to exit or enter the center van.

"He attended almost every function of the center, day or night, if his health permitted," remembers Norma Laywell, Senior Center secretary.

"That included walking in the American Heart Association Turkey walk to raise funds for the Heart Association. Everybody knew him, and he was a source of encouragement to all of us."

Ortiz became involved with the Senior Center when it was first opened on the campus of Western Texas College in 1974. He was a newcomer to Snyder and he soon found friends among the people who came to the center.

Friends remember he was delighted when he was elected Valentine King at the center one February and when he was recognized as a center volunteer at the annual recognition banquet each year.

Following Ortiz' death last August, his fellow members at the center began thinking about a memorial for him. Monies were placed in a special memorial fund, and that money was recently used to buy two 6 ft. round tables for the dining room.

Plaques on each table identify them as gifts in memory of Ortiz.

Mary Ann Juarez, his daughter, and her son, Lupe Guerra, a third grader at Central Elementary, visited the center Wednesday to see the tables and to express the family's appreciation.

Program at SJHS, NAACP event due

Two events here Friday will culminate the February observance of Afro-American History Month in Snyder.

At 1 p.m. Friday, a program honoring black history will be staged at the patio area of Snyder Junior High; and Friday night, the local NAACP Chapter will have an officer installation banquet at 7 p.m. at the Western Texas College Student Center.

At that event, the featured speaker will be Frank Burns of Houston, the state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The afternoon program at the junior high will include special music and speakers and a reception at the junior high library beginning at 1:30 p.m.

During the program, the topic of black history will be addressed by two local teachers, Sammie

Lee Harrison, high school math teacher; and Elizabeth Jenkins, second grade teacher at Central.

Both will also speak to junior high social studies classes during the day.

The music will be provided by the junior high choir. All parents are invited to attend.

For the Friday night NAACP banquet, ticket sales were to end at 5 p.m. Thursday.

On Saturday, the local NAACP Chapter plans also a leadership training seminar from noon until 4 p.m. on the WTC campus. It will be open to all members.

During February, the chapter planned such events as a candlelight march from the old Lincoln School in eastern Snyder to Mt. Olive Baptist Church, a celebration ball and an Afro-American heritage program.

Top spellers named at junior high, West

At noon Thursday, only one series of campus spellings bees remained as entrants are selected to compete at the March 3 Scurry County spelling competition.

Still ahead was the Hermleigh Junior High and Elementary contest scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

The top two spellers from each campus event will advance to the county contest.

Wednesday afternoon, the Snyder Junior High School winners were determined and, Thursday morning, West Elementary completed its campus bee.

Those winning in these competitions were:

—Snyder Junior High: James Graham, seventh grader, won first and Maria Rodriguez, seventh grader, won second. James is the son of Clifton Yocom and Darlene Yocom; and Maria is the daughter of Victor and Consuelo Rodriguez.

—West Elementary: Tiffany Jones, sixth grader, won first and Jannica Northerns, fifth grader, won second. Tiffany is the daughter of Joe and Linda Jones; and Jannica is the daughter of Corky and Janice Northerns.

Students in grades 4-8 have competed in the campus spelling events. The winner from the March 3 bee will advance to the regional competition scheduled April 1 in Lubbock. It is sponsored by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "This is still the land of opportunity—everybody can be a taxpayer."

Big city cousins seem to look on rural America as being backward and unsophisticated. That may be true, but some of the problems that must be dealt with in the cities have no appeal to us.

For example, the city council in Chicago has passed an ordinance making it illegal for school students to wear electronic beepers.

The law was passed in hopes that it might hobble students dealing in drugs and prostitution. Beepers, once a status symbol worn by professionals, are being used by Chicago teens to conduct illegal business.

Nobody would object to such a law, right? Wrong! The American Civil Liberties Union contends that students have a constitutional right to wear and use these beepers.

We hope school officials stand firm. If they don't, big city ways can easily become small town problems too. If that's sophistication, we're not interested.

The Roper Organization has defined an Influential American as a person who plays an especially active role in his community. What these people desire most is another four hours in each day.

According to the study, if such people had the extra time in a 28-hour day, 50 percent would spend the time reading while 37 percent would spend it on hobbies. Of the group, 35 percent would fix up their homes while 31 percent would spend more time with their families.

Among average Americans, only 33 percent would spend more time with books while 31 percent would work on homes and 27 percent would spend time on hobbies. About 25 percent would spend extra time socializing while about the same number would spend more time with family.

If you had an extra four hours in each day, 14 percent of Average Americans would spend spare time sleeping while only 8 percent of Influentials would spend more time in the sack.

Most Americans with extra time, we suspect, would simply waste more time.

In Brief

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost more ground today in a carryover of selling from Wednesday's sharp drop.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped .18 to 2,283.75 in the first half hour of trading.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about 5 to 2 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with 267 up, 691 down and 510 unchanged.

Volume on the Big Board came to 22.69 million shares as of 10 a.m. on Wall Street.

Analysts said the markets were still struggling to recover from the jolt of the report Wednesday that the consumer price index jumped 0.6 percent in January.

The news sent bond prices lower and stepped up expectations that the Federal Reserve might feel compelled to tighten credit further and faster than it had previously planned.

LTV decision

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — The decision by LTV Corp.'s Aircraft Products Group to halt construction of a new $150 million next-generation aircraft parts facility has stunned city officials and stirred speculation about possible layoffs.

The surprising and apparently sudden move, announced Wednesday, stunned employees, analysts and Grand Prairie city officials, who had just approved a tax abatement package for the facility last month.

LTV officials had announced just three weeks ago the company was resuming construction on the so-called Flexible Composites Center, or FCC.

The 642,500-square-foot facility on State Highway 303 was to be highly automated and produce advanced composite parts for the U.S. Air Force's secret Stealth bomber, the service's C-17 cargo plane and commercial airliners.

Social workers happy about court decision

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Social workers say a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that protects them from lawsuits for failing to prevent child abuse means more cases will be reported, but critics say it denies children their constitutional rights.

The court ruled Wednesday that the state of Wisconsin was not liable for the injuries of 9-year-old Joshua DeShaney, who was left permanently brain-damaged and physically disabled from beatings by his father beginning in 1983.

The boy's mother, Melody DeShaney, sued the department for allegedly violating the boy's constitutional rights by failing to prevent the abuse.

The lawsuit contended social workers failed to take action despite their suspicions the boy had been abused several times by his father, Randy, before the child was hospitalized in March 1984.

The boy remains institutionalized in the custody of the Winnebago County Department of Social Services.

Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, writing for the court, said the state's awareness of the abuse did not mean it had a duty to protect him because he was not in the custody of the state at the time.

"While the state may have been aware of the dangers that Joshua faced in the free world, it played no part in their creation nor did it do anything to render him any more vulnerable to them," Rehnquist said.

Tom Birch, counsel for the National Child Abuse Coalition in Washington D.C., said the decision "should have a positive effect on child protective services throughout the country."

Academy picks 'happy' over 'fast'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bobby McFerrin's feel-good song "Don't Worry, Be Happy" was the choice of the music academy for song and record of the year over Tracy Chapman's downhearted "Fast Car" at the 31st Grammy awards.

McFerrin, the vocal gymnast who uses his voice and body as an instrument, won four Grammys Wednesday night, while Miss Chapman, a shy 25-year-old folksinger from Boston whose self-titled album dealt with racism, poverty and desperation, won three trophies.

"I think it was so popular because it went to the spirit," McFerrin said backstage of his song.

Both big winners lost to George Michael for album of the year. He won for his platinum "Faith," a crossover blend of ballads, rock and soulful pop, including the hit single "I Want Your Sex."

Fifteen of the Grammys were handed out in a 3-hour, 20-minute long ceremony broadcast live to the East Coast by CBS. The rest of the 76 awards for the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences were handed out during a pre-broadcast ceremony.

Singer Anita Baker took two rhythm & blues trophies for her "Giving You the Best That I Got," including best female performance and a shared songwriting award with Skip Scarborough and Randy Holland.

In country music, Randy Travis won best male vocal with "Old 8 X 10" and K.T. Oslin won female vocal honors for "Hold Me," which also was voted best country song. The Judds won best country group for "Give a Little Love."

Willie Dixon, the 73-year-old blues master whose songs have been hits for so many rock groups, finally won his first Grammy for his "Hidden Charms" album in the best traditional blues recording category. He mounted the stage with the aid of a cane and received a standing ovation.

"I've been in the music business for about 50 years," Dixon said backstage. "It's about time, don't you think?"

Besides best song and record, McFerrin won best pop male vocal for "Don't Worry" and the male jazz vocal award for the song "Brothers."

Chapman did not appear backstage to talk to reporters. Her Grammys were for best contemporary folk recording, best new artist, and best pop female vocal performance for "Fast Car," a song about a woman trying to escape poverty by driving away from it with her jobless boyfriend.

"I want to thank my family — my mother, who bought me my first guitar, my sister, who's always been my best audience, best critic and best friend," Chapman said tearfully as she accepted the award for best female pop vocalist.

A check of Grammy records showed "Don't Worry, Be Happy" was the first a capella song, or one without instrumental background, to win best song and record of the year. Another a capella group, the sextet Take 6, won the soul gospel duo-group award for their self-titled debut album.

Readers Aren't Mum When Talking to Nuisance Callers

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I, too, stand by your opinion that telephoning the general public, either to sell something or to gather information for whatever purpose, is an invasion of privacy and should be abolished.

I read in the February 1989 Reader's Digest that one way to stop most "junk" phone calls is to write the Direct Marketing Association's Telephone Preference Service, 6 E. 43 St., New York, N.Y. 10017. This trade organization keeps a list of people who don't want to be bothered by sales calls. I am certainly going to write and get my name on the list.

Thank you for your many years of good, sound advice.
KATHRYN A. BEDFORD,
OMAHA, NEB.

DEAR KATHRYN: And thank you for the tip. I'm also going to write to them. And if that doesn't work, read on for a stronger approach:

DEAR ABBY: I don't usually read your column, but today's on telephone soliciting grabbed me, and I want to add my support for your cause against all types of telephone intrusion.

In this case, it is unfortunate that our society has taught us that we should always be polite and considerate of others' feelings, even when they are abusing us! Most people think that when someone calls them they must listen to the pitch or answer the questions to keep from offending the caller. In my opinion that's hogwash!

When I receive unwanted calls, I very quickly break in and tell the caller: "I object to your invading my privacy with this call. If I had wanted your product (or service or to give you information), I would have come to you. Please remove me from your list because if I receive further calls from your company, I will report you to the Better Business Bureau and the state attorney general."

I don't remember ever having gotten a second call. Just thought I would share my solution with you.
POLITE AND FIRM

DEAR POLITE AND FIRM: Well, that's one way. You also can say, "I'm not interested, thank you," and hang up before the caller begins his spiel.

DEAR ABBY: Eight months ago, when I went to my first Overeaters Anonymous meeting, I weighed 370 pounds and I was miserable. Since then, I have lost 130 pounds and gained a new sense of serenity and self-worth. I am happier now than I have ever been in my life. For years, fear kept me from going to my first O.A. meeting. Now I want to reassure others who may be apprehensive about going to their first meeting.

Overeaters Anonymous is free, and there I found love, understanding and acceptance that I couldn't get from my family, friends or society. In loving gratitude for the O.A. fellowship, I will remain ...

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from diverticulitis. At times it's very bad and I must take medicine. It seems to be getting worse and I can't eat any of the things I like.

DEAR READER: As we age, small pockets or herniations tend to develop in the linings of our large intestine. This is called diverticulosis. It is usually discovered by accident (during the course of investigation for other diseases). The only treatment is the avoidance of fruits — such as raspberries, strawberries and blueberries — that contain small, indigestible seeds.

On occasion, these intestinal sacs become inflamed, causing diverticulitis, little abscesses that produce abdominal pain, fever, bowel irregularity and intestinal bleeding. When diverticulosis becomes diverticulitis, the patient must use antibiotics and antispasmodics to reduce infection and control painful muscle contractions of the bowel wall.

In the past, doctors insisted on stringent diets to prevent diverticulitis: no fruits, salads, roughage or fiber. Now we realize that such strict diets are neither effective nor practical for the average patient. You may want to check this out with your own doctor, but I suspect he or she will agree. Because small seeds are still believed to activate diverticulitis, you should avoid berries (and jams) that contain them. However, roughage and vegetable fiber are all right to eat.

Therefore, your diet may not have to be as limited as you think. Most people who have a tendency to diverticulitis can eat relatively normally, with the exceptions I have mentioned.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Diverticular Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 92369, Cleveland, OH 44102-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A member of my family was treated for asthma. For six months he was given Alupent, atropine, Vancericil, Theodor and cortisone. He was also given an influenza B vaccine and six weeks later, another HIB and pneumonia vaccine and sulfamethoxazole trimethoprim. Within a week he developed tingling in his hands and feet. He now has a dropped foot, sensory and motor polyneuropathy, peripheral neuritis in hands and feet, and is blind in both eyes. I'm afraid this is all due to the combination of drugs and vaccine. What do we do now?

DEAR READER: Polyneuropathy, the malfunction of certain nerves in the body, is a consequence of many medicines, including sulfa drugs, barbiturates and cortisone. It can also be caused by nerve injury, bleeding around a nerve, and several diseases, such as diabetes, lupus, rheumatoid arthritis, nutritional deficiency and Lyme disease (an infection caused by the bite of a tick). Polyneuropathy is an extremely unusual consequence of some vaccines, including those for flu, hemophilus (HIB) and pneumonia.

Therefore, I cannot predict what the future holds for your family member unless the cause of the neuropathy can be identified and corrected. Some forms of nerve malfunction clear up with time; most are permanent.

I suggest that you seek out the services of a neurologist. Such a specialist should be able to diagnose the cause of the neuropathy and coordinate the enormous amount of ancillary, supportive professional guidance required in such a situation.

NAACP president speaks to ABWA

Members of the Deep Creek Chapter of American Business Women's Association met Feb. 16 at Jaramillo's Restaurant with president Pam Dortch presiding. Penny Cochran offered the invocation.

Evelyn Malone was guest speaker for the evening. An educator in the Colorado City school district, Malone stressed that she keeps her roles of wife and mother as her top priority. She said her husband, Albert, is her support friend. The couple has three children, Norman, Patrick and Misty.

Malone is currently taking paralegal courses at Texas Tech University. She is president of the Scurry County branch of NAACP, an office she has filled for over four years.

Malone's topic, "Power of Black Women," included culture and heritage information. In 1909, NAACP was formed to encourage a safe environment and to bring an end to discrimination due to race, creed, color and sex.

Malone stated that only 28 years ago, Blacks and whites could not sit at the same table. She said all races still need to work together, and she looks forward to the time when NAACP is no longer needed. Malone said NAACP is for all races, and the local organization is open to anyone who wishes to join.

Malone offered a question and answer session. Mae Cole, secretary, read the minutes and Brenda Clark gave the treasurer's report. Cole also gave the communications report and executive board meeting report.

The club earned some $200 at their last bake sale, funds which will further scholarships and other club activities.

The club is also selling $7 tickets for professional 8-by-10-inch framed photos to be taken March 11 at the Purple Sage Motel. Tickets may be purchased from any club member. Pauline Withers is ways and means chairman for the club.

The group's Spring Tea is set for March 16 with Cole and Brenda Clark chairing the membership drive.

Bosses night is set for April with Cochran and Penni Coffee chairing the event.

Cochran, employed with the Texas Department of Human Services in the Income Assistance Office, gave the vocational speech. Only recently changing to her present office, Cochran began her tenure in Children's Protective Services.

She is now office coordinator for the local TDHS office. She answers the phone, types, files, and sets appointments for clients applying for food stamps, Medicaid, and aid for dependent children. Cochran is a part-time employee.

Winners of the hostess drawing were Vivian Cochran, Brenda Clark, and Cole.

Sorority plans cooking school

Members of Xi Alpha Alpha Theta of Beta Sigma Phi met at the Snyder Country Club Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. with president Dena Ellis presiding.

Jacalyn Lowrance read the minutes and Jeanne Johnson gave the treasurer's report.

Anne Foster, social co-chairman, reported that the next social event would be a mother-daughter luncheon March 4 in the home of Carolyn Limmer.

Compression chamber

It was strange that West did not open one no-trump with his balanced hand of 16 high-card points. Perhaps that was why he felt constrained to bid two diamonds over one spade. North raised spades, and East, who might have competed with three diamonds, tamely passed. West would not make three diamonds if North finds the club lead. However, against an opening spade lead, West could shed a club loser on the queen of spades. Meanwhile, it was up to South to try to make eight tricks with spades as trump.

At first glance, six losers seem to be inescapable — three trump tricks, a diamond, and two hearts. Sometimes unwary defenders can err if some card like the jack of spades is suddenly played from dummy. Here, if East were to cover the jack of spades, the defenders' trump tricks would be compressed into only two. But it is better to rely upon a true chance for the contract than upon an opponent's mistake.

The straightforward play for eight tricks is to find the club suit dividing 3-3 while the trumps split 3-2. So declarer can play four rounds of clubs, discarding a diamond, and allowing either defender to trump. The hope is that a defender will ruff with a trump honor or, if he ruffs low, that subsequently the trumps will split, leaving declarer with only two more trump losers. And so it was with today's hand. Four rounds of clubs eliminated the diamond loser. Although East trumped in with a small card, eventually East's and West's trump honors fell together.

Club features antique jewelry

Members of Twentieth Century Study Club met Feb. 7 in the home of Sue Trice for a display of antique costume jewelry by Lois Bartels.

Bartels showed pieces from 1870 to 1945 with each reflecting the period of its origin. She spoke about the varied prices of the pieces and the grades of pearl jewelry.

Bartels stated that costume jewelry gained popularity in the 1920s. Trice also had jewelry in the display.

Language problem

LONDON (AP) — At least one king of England could neither speak nor write English.

He was King George I (1660-1727), a German prince whose father was Elector of Hanover and whose great-grandfather was the English King James I.

In 1714, at the age of 54, George I succeeded Queen Anne as sovereign of England. In his 13-year reign, the king made no attempt to learn the English language.

ALTRURIAN DAUGHTERS — Dr. Jim Palmer, Miller Robinson, Mike Thornton, and Roy McQueen (left to right) gave information concerning the prison including educational opportunities to be offered to inmates, the economic impact to the area, and Snyder's role in its success. Children's genre is featured at club

Scurry County Penwomen met in the home of Garnet Quiet Feb. 15 with Christine Killgo offering the invocation.

Sherry Bryant presented a program on "The Wonderful Literature World of Children." To be a writer of children's literature, she said one must observe, listen to children, and use originality in perception. Bryant said the writer needs to become the one written about.

Poetry, children's magazines, fiction, biography and information books are all options for writers to consider. Folk literature includes fairy tales which are fiction and folk tales which are true and are either written or handed down orally.

Bryant suggested that retired people who are interested in the field should get in touch with children. Work is available as a library volunteer, help with Little League, baby-sitting, or reading to children in the hospital.

During the business session, members' poems were collected to send to the Odessa Poetry Society to be critiqued and judged. Winners will be announced at the joint meeting planned April 1.

In the reading session, Killgo read her poem, "Our Kitty Cat." Others were Bryant with an article, "Strong in One"; Mary Westmoreland with a poem, "My Priceless Art Collection"; Dorothy Cox with her poem, "Ancient Fences"; and Quiet, "Change and Time," a poem.

Cox won the hostess gift and also gave the word of encouragement.

The March 15 meeting will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bryant. Writers and visitors are welcome.

Texas Tech nips Horned Frogs...

Razorbacks run past Baylor

By The Associated Press

Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson credited a pressure defense for his team's easy victory over the Baylor Bears.

Lenzie Howell scored 19 points Wednesday night to lead the Razorbacks to a 89-54 victory over Baylor.

In other SWC games, Southern Methodist edged Houston, 88-85, Texas A&M defeated Rice, 72-58 and Texas Tech slipped past Texas Christian, 58-54 in overtime. Texas clobbered Miami, 123-104, in a non-conference game.

"Our defense forced Baylor's shooting percentage down," Richardson said. "We didn't force many turnovers in the first half, but our pressure worried them. They were so worried about not turning the ball over that they didn't shoot very well.

"We're happy to win," Richardson added. "We had to piece our team together. We have had some guys sick, including myself. I was afraid we wouldn't play very well."

Howell hit on six of nine while the Razorbacks as a team shot 53 percent from the field.

Keith Wilson added 14 points and Cannon Whitby made three late-game 3 pointers for a season-high 12 points.

Melvin Hunt and Michael Hobbs scored 16 each for the Bears, who shot 41 percent from the field.

The victory boosted Arkansas' SWC record to 11-3 and 18-6 overall. Baylor fell to 1-2 in conference play and 5-19 overall.

Eric Longino had 27 points and keyed a 16-7 surge in the second half that helped Southern Methodist defeat the Houston Cougars 88-85.

Houston's Craig Upchurch missed a 3-point shot at the buzzer as SMU improved to 11-13 and 6-7 in conference play. Houston fell to 15-12 and 6-7.

The Cougars have lost three games in a row and dropped six conference games in the final seconds.

SMU Center Glen Puddy added 22 points and six of the last eight points for the Mustangs.

Horace Chaney scored 18 of his 25 points and hit five 3-point shots in the first half, including 11 points and three of Houston's four 3-pointers during the surge.

Donald Thompson scored a game-high 27 points to lead Texas A&M to its fifth straight Southwest Conference basketball victory, a 72-58 decision over Rice.

Freddie Ricks scored 15 points and Tony Milton added 12 as the Aggies upped their league mark to 6-7 and their overall record to 13-12. Kenneth Rourke had 20 points and D'Wayne Tanner 12 for the Owls who fell to 5-9 and 11-14.

Sean Gay connected on a 15-foot jumper with 19 seconds left in overtime to seal Texas Tech's 58-54 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Christian.

Texas Tech improved to 11-13 on the year and 7-6 in SWC play, while TCU falls to 15-11 on the year and 8-6 in league play.

Gay scored four of his 15 points in overtime, after the Horned Frogs battled back from a six-point deficit with 7:22 left in regulation.

Richard Antee led TCU with 14 points and Lewis scored 10 points and grabbed seven rebounds.

Junior guard Travis Mays struck for a career-high 40 points to lead Texas to a 123-104 thrashing of Miami, handing the Longhorns their first 20-win season in a decade.

Texas improved to 20-6, its best mark since the 21-8 squad of 1979. That team won the Southwest Conference Championship. Miami sags to 15-11.

Mays, who came in as the conference's top scorer with a 21.3 average, helped the Longhorns establish a conference mark for 3-point goals. His 21-footer with 11:12 left in the first half gave Texas 185 for the year, snapping Rice's mark of a year ago.

It was the first time in 11 years that a Longhorn had scored 40 points or more.

Dennis Burns paced the Hurricanes with 20 points.

Girls' all-loop team features Osborn, Pickering, Housden

Snyder junior Anne Osborn was named to the underclassman-dominated 4-4A All-District girls' basketball team, released today.

Also receiving recognition from Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers were Melody Pickering and Evette Housden. Both were honorable mention.

The 11-member all-district squad includes only two seniors - led by Most Valuable Player Tami Wise, 6-1, of Big Spring.

The other senior on the squad is LaDawn Puckett, 5-5 from Sweetwater.

Wise, who is being heavily recruited, was one of four girls who were unanimous all-district selections. The others were Pam McNary, a 5-9 junior from Sweetwater, Sophia Terry, a 5-10 sophomore from Pecos and Nikki Heath, a 5-9 sophomore from Sweetwater. Heath was chosen Newcomer of the Year.

The remainder of the elite team includes Osborn - who missed being a unanimous choice by one vote - Peggy Smith, a 5-5 junior from Big Spring; Gisila Spears, a 5-11 junior from Big Spring; Christa Rogers, a 5-10 junior from Andrews; Sonja Gant, a 5-8 sophomore from Pecos; and Vernetra Allen, a 5-9 sophomore from San Angelo Lake View.

Honorable mention went to Evette Housden, a 5-5 junior, and Pickering, a 5-10 senior, and to Michelle McCain of Sweetwater and Paulette Jones of Andrews. McCain is a junior; Jones a senior.

Osborn led Snyder's Lady Tigers with averages of 14 points and 9 rebounds a game. Evette Housden averaged 11 points, 3 rebounds and 3 assists and Pickering averaged 9 points and 8 rebounds. Pickering is a repeat honorable mention selection.

"When you look at this overall group, the all-district and honorable mention, I'd think we're in for some pretty good basketball next year," said Coach Housden. "Out of 15 girls, 11 are underclassmen. I think we ought to have several strong teams next year. I don't think any one or any two teams will dominate like they have in the past."

Finishing touches for WJCAC teams

The Western Junior College Athletic Basketball Conference, its regional tournament berths already filled, will put the finishing touches on regular-season play tonight and Friday.

The action won't involve Western Texas College, which wrapped up its regular seasons Monday. WTC's Westerners finished at 13-17 overall - up from 8-23 a year ago - and 4-12 in conference play. The women's team, the Lady Dusters, completed their season with a 22-8 mark. By virtue of their 9-3 conference record, they will advance to the Region V Tournament for the 14th time in 15 years.

Joining the Dusters at the Feb. 28-March 2 women's Region V Tournament in Waco will be Odessa, New Mexico Junior College and Frank Phillips College. The four teams qualifying for the men's March 2-4 event, also in Waco, are Odessa, South Plains, Midland and Howard College.

This week's games, while also wrapping up regular-season play, will determine seeding for teams competing in the regional tournaments.

Briefly, teams will be seeded 1 through 4 based on their conference records. The other opponents in both eight-team tournaments will come from the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference and will also be seeded 1 through 4. First-round tournament games will pit the WJCAC No. 1 team against the NJCAC No. 4 squad, the WJCAC No. 2 against the NJCAC No. 3 and so on (W3 vs. N2 and W4 vs. N1).

In men's play tonight, Howard (19-11, 10-5) is at Levelland to play South Plains (27-3, 13-2), Odessa (29-1, 14-1) visits Clarendon (10-17, 3-12) and Frank Phillips (12-15, 3-12) plays in Midland (19-9, 10-5). In one other game, New Mexico Junior College (15-15, 7-8) plays New Mexico Military Institute (10-20, 4-11) in Roswell, N.M.

Of importance to the standings are the Howard-South Plains and Frank Phillips-Midland games because Howard and Midland are currently tied for third place in the conference.

In the only women's game of importance this evening, league-leader Odessa (19-7, 8-2) is at Clarendon (4-19, 0-11). The Lady Wranglers also play Friday, taking on Frank Phillips (23-5, 7-4) in Borger. Should Odessa lose either of the games, they would have to share first place in the conference with Western's Lady Dusters.

The conference has a rating system in case two tournament teams wind up tied.

Also tonight in women's play, Howard College (12-17, 2-9) is at Levelland to play South Plains (17-11, 5-6).

Sutton won't be around long, says source from Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) - Eddie Sutton will be out and Lee Rose will be in as basketball coach of the Kentucky Wildcats in a few weeks, according to a published report.

The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch, in a copyright story today, quoted a source close to the Kentucky program as saying "Sutton is going to be told he's gone in 10 days to two weeks. The new coach is picked and it's Rose. He's (C.M.) Newton's choice for the job."

Newton will become athletic director at Kentucky on April 1, replacing Cliff Hagan, who resigned last year. Newton refused to discuss the Kentucky coaching situation with the newspaper.

"I'm not AD there until April 1," said Newton, Vanderbilt University's head basketball coach.

Two Kentucky officials, however, told The Associated Press that no decision has been made on the coaching position.

"I'm not going to answer that stuff," said Joe Burch, the school's interim athletic director. "It's just pure speculation and rumor."

Bernie Vonderheide, a UK spokesman, said, "As far as I'm concerned, there's no basis to that report."

The Dispatch said its source had spoken on condition of anonymity.

Rose, contacted by the newspaper before Wednesday night's New Jersey Nets-Cleveland Cavaliers NBA game, was asked if he would be a candidate if the Kentucky job opened. Rose has been an assistant coach with the Nets since last summer.

"Until there is a position open, no one is a candidate because the job is still in the hands of the man who has it," Rose said. "My mother lives in Lexington and I have a lot of ties there. And that's no secret."

Rose said he was one of "four or five" people interviewed for the Kentucky job when Sutton accepted it in 1985. "So I'm well acquainted with the situation in Kentucky," Rose said. "Basically, that's all I'm going to say."

Rose was coach at Purdue from 1978 to 1980. His team was third in the NCAA tournament in 1980 and runner-up in the National Invitation Tournament in 1979. He also has coached at Transylvania University in Lexington.

Rumors have circulated about Sutton's job since the NCAA levied 18 allegations of wrongdoing against UK's basketball program, including improper recruiting and charges that a player cheated on his college entrance exam.

Sutton, whose team on Wednesday night broke a six-game losing streak, the longest at Kentucky in 64 years, could not be reached for comment. Sutton has maintained throughout the investigation that he wanted to remain at Kentucky.

Mavs look to trade Dantley for first-round draft choice

DALLAS (AP) - Adrian Dantley has become an NBA hot potato to the Dallas Mavericks hope to trade before the league's deadline late today.

The 6-5 forward obtained last week from the Detroit Pistons in a trade for Mark Aguirre said Wednesday he didn't want to play for Dallas unless his contract was extended.

Team officials, scrambling to beat the 8 p.m. trading deadline, decided they would try to deal Dantley to another team.

"There were no harsh words, no bridges burned," Mavericks' owner Donald Carter said after a phone conversation with Dantley Wednesday. "Dallas has to do what we have to do. A.D. has to do what he has to do. I respect his decision and I hope he respects mine."

Dantley could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Carter hopes to get a first-round draft pick for the 13-year NBA veteran.

"No team is off our list and the first team which gets here with a first (round pick) gets Adrian," he said. The Mavericks lost to Denver Wednesday night, 109-106, playing without Dantley, Derek Harper, who has tendinitis in a knee, and Bill Wennington, out with a sprained ankle. The Mavs also lost center James Donaldson with a groin injury early in the fourth quarter.

2 chains to restock 'Verses'...

Writers rally for Rushdie

By The Associated Press

Writers famous and obscure rallied nationwide in support of Salman Rushdie, with some daring Iran to kill them along with the author of "The Satanic Verses." Meanwhile, two large book chains reversed a decision to remove the novel.

Some of the nation's most prominent authors marched on the Iranian mission to the United Nations in New York and read excerpts from Rushdie's book, which has enraged Moslems and prompted Iran's fundamentalist government to put a price on the author's head and threaten those involved with its publication.

Rallies or readings also were held Wednesday in Washington, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, San Francisco and Boston.

At the New York reading, Norman Mailer said authors should "stand in his place" if Rushdie is killed — a challenge to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to kill them all.

"Join with me ... in such a vow, and we are relatively safe," Mailer told the gathering. "At least, we are safer to a considerable degree, and can feel honorable to ourselves. We will have struck a real blow for freedom."

Boston author James Carroll expressed similar sentiments at a gathering in Cambridge, Mass., where Rushdie had been scheduled to read from his novel Wednesday night. Rushdie's promotional tour was canceled when he went into hiding.

"We are here to be with Rushdie," Carroll told more than 100 people at a panel discussion on the novel. "The world should be with him and not permit harm to come to him. If you kill him, you have only begun — you will have to kill us all."

However, in Los Angeles, where Alvin Toffler, Betty Friedan and others gathered at a reading held by the PEN Center West, science fiction writer Ray Bradbury counseled calm in the face of the Iranian threat. He stressed the historic ties between Western and Middle Eastern culture.

"Let's guarantee that all of our libraries remain intact. ... We've got Hitler and Genghis Khan and Lyndon Baines Johnson up there but we don't take them off the shelves," Bradbury said. "They're all monsters in their own way but we ... learn from the monsters of history."

In both Boston and New York, demonstrators rallied in front of B. Dalton and Barnes & Noble bookstores.

Those bookstore chains, which are under common ownership, had pulled the book from their shelves last week. However, they reversed themselves later Wednesday and said they would have "The Satanic Verses" in stock in about 10 days.

The decision was made at "the urging of an overwhelming majority of ... store managers and employees," according to a statement.

The Waldenbooks chain, the nation's largest, continued its policy of not displaying the book but selling it on request. The New York Times reported in today's editions, however, that because some of the 1,200-store chain's managers objected to the ban, Waldenbooks president quietly sent a memo Friday giving them the option of displaying the book.

In San Francisco, vandals spray-painted the word "cowards" on the windows of a B. Dalton and a Waldenbooks store. In Birmingham, Ala., the nation's fourth largest bookstore chain, Bookland, Inc., said it would continue to stock "The Satanic Verses."

At Dutton's Books in North Hollywood, Calif., owner Davis Dutton had his full-time workers vote to decide whether to display "The Satanic Verses." Without hesitation, he said, they favored it.

The New York reading, sponsored by PEN American Center, Article 19 and The Authors Guild, featured authors Susan Sontag, Anthony Lukas, E.L. Doctorow, John Gregory Dunne and Joan Didion, among others.

Anorexia can cause a reduction in how well the body performs during aerobic exercise, says the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau. Anorexia nervosa is a disease with psychiatric complications in which a person becomes obsessed with diet and body weight. During exercise, heart rate and blood pressure response are not as strong in an anorexic and oxygen consumption can be as low as 50 percent of a healthy person, according to researchers at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. In one study, the exercise performance of anorexics averaged 52 percent the capacity of that done by healthy exercisers.

Basic liability cost to increase...

Overall auto insurance will decrease

AUSTIN (AP) — Automobile insurance premiums will drop about $11.4 million statewide under a rate change adopted by the State Board of Insurance.

That figure means overall rates will decrease an average of 0.3 percent. But drivers who only purchase the required basic liability insurance will see a 13.1 percent increase.

"The presentations showed that was, in our view, the most suitable change," Board Chairman Edwin J. Smith Jr. said Wednesday after the 3-0 approval.

The new rates take effect June 1, and represent baseline rates, meaning insurance carriers can deviate up or down from the rates with board approval.

Insurance industry representatives, who had requested a 6.5 percent rate increase, were disappointed the board adopted its staff recommendation.

"It's disappointing that the board continues to ignore that their staff model is flawed," said Richard Geiger, of the Texas Auto Insurance Service Office. The model is used to calculate proposed rate changes.

But Kay Doughty, general counsel of the Office of Consumer Protection, praised the board's decision.

"I'm pleased that they didn't grant the full increase the industry asked for. We obviously didn't think it was justified," Ms. Doughty said.

The major dispute centered on the amount of expenses insurance carriers claim when calculating a rate change, and investment income earned by the carrier.

Insurance board staff members said they recommended the 0.3 percent rate decrease because insurance carriers will be able to make up for the lower profits through investment earnings.

Chairman Smith and other board members said studying expense factors could possibly be considered at a hearing separate from a rate request.

"It would be a real plus for us and a real plus for the consumers of Texas if we can get them to take a real serious look at that issue," Ms. Doughty said.

Under the rate changes, liability coverage will increase 14.8 percent. Of that increase, the basic insurance coverage required by law would increase 13.1 percent. But physical damage coverage will decrease 18.5 percent for a total liability and physical damage decrease of 0.3 percent.

Coverage for a low- to medium-priced car driven to and from work with no male driver under 25-years-old and no female driver under 21-years-old would cost the following under the new rates as compared with the current rates:

— In Houston, a comprehensive policy will cost $677, down $47. Basic liability will cost $282, an increase of $52.

— In Dallas, a comprehensive policy will cost $733, down $49. Basic liability will cost $315, an increase of $27.

— In San Antonio, a comprehensive policy will cost $640, down $19. Basic liability will cost $277, an increase of $38.

— In El Paso, a comprehensive policy will cost $608, down $20. Basic liability will cost $255, an increase of $22.

— In Austin, a comprehensive policy will cost $560, down $56.

Basic liability will cost $247, an increase of $17.

— In Amarillo, a comprehensive policy will cost $524, down $121. Basic liability will cost $176, an increase of $10.

Dozens arrested in $1 billion money laundering operation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. authorities raided the downtown jewelry market and arrested at least 37 people nationwide in an effort to smash a $1 billion cocaine money-laundering ring allegedly run by a Syrian national.

The surveillance investigation, which lasted for more than a year, was the biggest of its kind undertaken by the government, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh and Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady said in a statement released Wednesday.

During the past two years, the illegal network processed at least $1 billion through jewelry merchants in Los Angeles, Texas, Florida and New York, authorities said.

A key leader of the ring was identified as Wanis "Joseph" Koyomejian, 47, a Syrian national who lives in suburban Northridge. He was ordered held without bail Wednesday night by U.S. Magistrate Ralph Geffen.

A man answering the telephone at Koyomejian's home declined to comment and hung up.

The Los Angeles raid began just as stores in the nation's second-largest jewelry district prepared to open for business Wednesday.

Hundreds of federal agents swept through the downtown district, creating a traffic jam as incredulous onlookers stared while dozens of employees were handcuffed at jewelry counters.

Complaints filed in U.S. District Court here charged 33 people and a Hollywood, Fla. corporation with laundering Colombian cocaine profits. The 13-month-old probe, nicknamed Polar Cap, also led to the seizure of 640 pounds of cocaine, according to court documents.

It was unclear exactly how many people were arrested Wednesday as authorities searched 85 locations in Los Angeles, New York and Miami. The Justice Department statement, issued in Washington, said 37 people were arrested.

The Los Angeles money-laundering operation was directed primarily from two wholesale jewelry companies, Ropex Corp., owned by Koyomejian, and Andonian Brothers Manufacturing Co., according to court documents.

The owners of Andonian Brothers, Vahe Andonian and his brother, Nazareth Andonian, also were arrested Wednesday.

The defendants were charged with aiding the distribution of thousands of pounds of cocaine by laundering hundreds of millions of dollars in cash. The money, packed like bricks and shipped by armored car, was generated from cocaine sales in Los Angeles, New York, Houston and other cities, Thornburgh said.

In addition, the defendants were charged with conspiracy for knowingly violating the Money Laundering Control Act and avoiding requirements to report all transactions over $10,000, the government said.

Suspicious Wells Fargo Bank officials in Los Angeles notified federal authorities in early 1988 that the Andonian brothers had deposited $25 million in cash over a three-month period, documents show.

The complaint alleged the Andonian firm alone had laundered over $500 million since 1986. A telephone call to Andonian Brothers was answered by a woman who refused comment.

Koyomejian was arraigned Wednesday in Los Angeles with Sergio Hochman, a Uruguayan native charged with overseeing the alleged scheme. Hochman also was ordered held without bail by Geffen.

Affidavits attached to the complaints indicated the scheme was uncovered with the help of confidential informants, including drug dealers, electronic surveillance and searches of trash collected at the various businesses.

From banks in California, New York, Panama, Uruguay and elsewhere, millions were transferred by wire to various locations around the world and into the hands of narcotics suppliers in Colombia and elsewhere, the documents said.

Ropex created false invoices for the sales of huge quantities of gold to fictitious persons in order to explain the source of the currency, the documents alleged. In addition, Ropex and another company, Ronel Refining, allegedly transferred large amounts of gold between themselves to reflect new sales.

Ronel, based in Hollywood, Fla., was the lone corporation accused in the complaints. A call to Ronel was taken by a telephone answering machine Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Bush clams up on sensitive issues

TOKYO (AP) — In a sudden switch, Barbara Bush has decided not to speak out on such controversial subjects as abortion and gun control after an apparent difference with President Bush over whether military-style assault rifles should be outlawed.

The first lady's decision was disclosed today by her press secretary, Anna Perez, as Mrs. Bush arrived in Tokyo with her husband to attend the funeral of Emperor Hirohito on Friday.

Ms. Perez said Mrs. Bush had adopted a new policy on controversial issues such as guns and abortion.

"She will not discuss them," the spokeswoman said. "They are not the issues where she wishes to have a focus. It doesn't mean she doesn't have a right to an opinion. It means she has a right to discuss them or not."

Ms. Perez said the first lady has decided instead to highlight such concerns as the homeless, AIDS and illiteracy.

Mrs. Bush and the president appeared at odds after she said in an interview with The Associated Press that she "absolutely" favors banning military-style assault weapons such as the one used recently in a schoolyard massacre in Stockton, Calif., in which five children were killed and more than two dozen children were wounded.

The president, questioned separately, said he does not believe semiautomatic weapons should be banned because they are used by sportsmen and hunters. A semiautomatic AK-47 was used in the Stockton incident.

Bush, a lifetime member of the National Rifle Association, the nation's biggest gun lobby, said police should do more to enforce existing gun laws.

Oliver North's lawyer claims Congress can't be trusted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver North's lawyers in the Iran-Contra case are trying to blunt charges that he lied to Congress by suggesting that he had good reason to think lawmakers couldn't be trusted with government secrets.

But under cross-examination, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., steadfastly defended the record of the House intelligence committee in protecting some of the nation's most well-kept secrets.

Hamilton, the panel's former chairman, testified Wednesday that for 18 months before the Iran-Contra affair became public, he relied on White House denials that North was secretly helping the Nicaraguan rebels despite a congressional ban on such aid.

"I relied on what Col. North told me," Hamilton said on an Aug. 6, 1986, meeting of the intelligence panel had with North, then a National Security Council aide, in the White House Situation Room.

"I believed what Col. North told me at the meeting. I did not think there was any credible evidence to the contrary," Hamilton said.

The congressman also said that in 1985, he accepted as "accurate, honest and correct" then-national security adviser Robert McFarlane's assurances that North was not raising money for the Contras or giving them tactical military advice as prohibited by the so-called Boland Amendment of 1984.

North, a retired Marine lieutenant colonel, is charged with 12 felonies arising from the Iran-Contra affair that could result in 60 years imprisonment upon conviction.

Among other things, he is accused of obstructing congressional inquiries into his efforts to raise money for the Nicaraguan rebels. This allegedly included lying at the 1986 meeting and helping McFarlane, who has pleaded guilty to withholding information from Congress, draft false denials in response to congressional inquiries.

Cross-examining Hamilton, defense attorney Brendan V. Sullivan Jr. argued that North rightly feared Congress couldn't be trusted to keep secrets because it "leaked like a sieve."

"From 1984, 1985 and 1986 leaks occurred on Capitol Hill as a result of members and staff members who provided information," Sullivan said.

"We're very pleased to have these new tables as memorials for Santos," said Jerry Baird, center director. "The money for them came from a special fund, but the center has a permanent memorial fund to which donations can be made at any time."

"For example, we used money from that fund recently to buy a new kiln for use by senior citizens who enjoy making ceramics. Anyone who would like more information about the memorial fund is invited to call the office or come by the center," he said.

hospital. This left three physicians to provide the weekday coverage, doctors who were on round-the-clock call status a minimum of 24 hours out of every 72.

The situation was eased somewhat several months ago when two other local physicians whose tenure with the hospital had allowed them to be exempt from ER duty agreed to alternate providing coverage for one day per week.

An effort is also underway currently to recruit other physicians for the hospital staff to include a general surgeon and an internist.

Other action items before the hospital board Thursday will include re-appointments to the medical staff and a request to relocate the registration office for the facility's emergency room.

The expense associated with this relocation is estimated at $2,345.

The board will hear also the monthly medical staff report, financial report and quality assurance report.

"(The late CIA) Director (William) Casey told me he didn't know a single leak from the House intelligence committee," Hamilton replied. "I will not deny leaks, but neither can I prove any such leaks."

Asked about a newspaper report containing classified information that appeared "the very next day" after the panel was briefed by the CIA, Hamilton said he had only a "cloudy recollection" of the incident.

"I don't assume for a moment that the leak came from the Congress," Hamilton added. "There are some very experienced people in the administration who leak information after it comes to the Congress."

Threat issued

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Pro-Iranian captors of three American educators today threatened to take revenge against Salman Rushdie, the publishers of his novel "The Satanic Verses" and their supporters for insulting Islam.

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine said in a handwritten statement that it would "take revenge against all those who took part in strong and ferocious campaigns against Islam."

It said the revenge would cover "all institutions and organizations that insulted in one way or another" members of prophet Mohammed's family, meaning Moslems.

European governments have recalled their ambassadors from Iran to protest Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's decree last week that Moslems seek out and kill Rushdie and his publishers because "The Satanic Verses" blasphemes Islam.

Authors have led demonstrations of outrage at the threat from Iran's fundamentalist patriarch, who has refused to accept Rushdie's apology, and President Bush has called the threat an insult to the civilized world.

Rushdie, a naturalized Briton who was born a Moslem in India, is in hiding with his wife in Britain and reportedly under police guard. Iranian clerics have offered $5.2 million for Rushdie's murder.

Jihad's Arabic-language statement was delivered to the office of a Western news agency in Moslem west Beirut accompanied by an instant photograph of American hostages Alann Steen, Robert Polhill and Jesse Turner.

Tapes said stolen from parked auto

Police are investigating the reported theft of cassette tapes from a car parked in the 3100 Block of Ave. B.

Holly Joplin of 3106 B told officers at 9:59 p.m. Wednesday that the tapes were missing.

Backyard fire involves grass

Firemen extinguished a grass fire Wednesday afternoon in the backyard of a house occupied by Ricky Sosa at 2103 Ave. O.

A department spokesman said the 1:07 p.m. call took about 30 minutes and that the cause had not been determined. The property is owned by Pete Martinez.

Parked auto hit

An unknown vehicle and driver struck a parked 1977 Chevrolet station wagon owned by Estello Gutierrez of 2001 Ave. R in an incident discovered at 2:37 p.m. Wednesday in the Lawrence IGA supermarket parking lot off College Ave.

Arrest follows report of fight

A 34-year-old Snyder man was arrested on several charges following a reported fight at 7:39 p.m. Wednesday in the 300 Block of 28th St.

A woman had told officers that a fight was in progress, and the man was taken into custody for possession of dangerous drugs, possession of alcohol with intent to sell and possession of less than two ounces of marijuana.

A city detective said the possession of dangerous drugs charge would be held in abeyance pending the results of laboratory tests.

He also denied threatening to leak CIA information himself in a Jan. 16, 1985, letter to then-Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

"I did not threaten to leak anything," Hamilton said. "I was prepared to follow certain procedures of the House intelligence committee to try to release information."

"If I had succeeded in that, it would have been an authorized disclosure and not a leak," Hamilton said, describing an elaborate procedure by which the House would meet secretly to discuss releasing sensitive information.

The matter was dropped, Hamilton said, after Shultz met with him and said he "agreed with my point of view."

Hamilton conceded Sullivan's suggestion that North's prosecution "is a product in one sense of the controversy that existed between the Congress and the executive branch in 1984, 1985 and 1986."

LUBBOCK (AP) — The Associated Press reported erroneously Feb. 22 that real estate appraisers Paul Tannehill and Arthur Formann were charged with racketeering in the Interstate 30 condominium trial. Tannehill and Formann are charged with conspiracy. They are not charged with racketeering.

Cut your own taxes and save

You and your family can be exemptions

By George W. Smith, CPA

(Fourth of 14 parts)

There are two kinds of exemptions: those for you and your spouse (personal exemptions) and those for children and relatives (exemptions for dependents). You are allowed a $1,950 deduction for each exemption to which you are entitled for 1988.

You can always take an exemption for yourself, unless you are a dependent on another taxpayer's return.

If you are married and file jointly, you may claim an exemption for you and your spouse. If you file separately, you may take your spouse's exemption only if he or she had no gross income and was not a dependent of another taxpayer. If your spouse files separately and has any gross income, you may not claim his or her exemption.

A child born any time during the year entitles either parent to claim a full exemption for the tax year. An exemption may not be claimed for a stillborn child.

Extra exemptions for age and blindness are no longer allowed. Instead, additional standard deductions are provided.

Exemptions for age and blindness: Under prior law, a taxpayer could claim an extra exemption for being legally blind or age 65 or older. Those extra exemptions also applied to the taxpayer's spouse.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 eliminated the extra exemptions for age and blindness. It replaced the extra exemption with the additional standard deduction.

There are five tests that must be met to claim an exemption for a dependent:

Gross income: The claimed dependent must have had less than $1,950 in gross income for 1988. The exceptions to this rule are a child who is under the age of 19 or was a full-time student during some part of five calendar months in the calendar year and for whom the taxpayer continues to provide more than half the support.

Household or relationship: A member of your household who lives with you for the entire year need not be related in order for you to claim that individual as a dependent — as long as that person qualifies as your dependent and the relationship between you and that person does not violate any local law.

Temporary absences: Temporary absences from your home for such reasons as vacations, attending school or sickness do not disqualify a person as your dependent.

Citizenship: Your dependent must be a U.S. citizen, resident or national, or a resident of Canada or Mexico for some part of the calendar year.

Joint return: You are not allowed an exemption for a dependent if he or she filed a joint income tax return. However, the dependent may file a joint return if it was only to get a refund for all taxes withheld.

Example: Your daughter, who received her total support from you while her husband was overseas in the armed forces, is lost as a dependent if she files a joint return with her husband.

Support: In general, you must have provided more than half of the dependent's support in 1988.

Often, several children will collectively provide more than half the support for one or both parents. While no one member of the group furnishes the chief support, there is a special rule that permits one of them to claim the dependency exemption.

Here is the way to do it: If each of the children who furnished more than 10 percent of total support completes and signs a Multiple Support Declaration (Form 2120), the exemption can be claimed by any one of the group who furnishes more than 10 percent. The one making the claim simply attaches to his return all the signed Form 2120s from the other members of the family.

The exemption claim may be rotated with a different child each year. Or, by agreement, it could be claimed by the child in the highest tax bracket who would receive the greatest tax savings by the exemption.

Child support: A divorce or separation involving children can bring problems when it comes to claiming exemptions. Often both parents try to claim them.

The custodial parent is entitled to claim the exemption, regardless of the amount of support furnished by the non-custodial parent. This can be waived if the custodial parent signs Form 8332, Release of Claim to Exemption for Child of Divorced or Separated Parents, and attaches it to the return of the non-custodial parent. The waiver may be made on an annual or permanent basis.

Greenspan: Fed will aid banks in purchase of troubled S&Ls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan said today the Fed will make it easier for bank holding companies to buy troubled savings and loans, and he suggested that a specialized thrift industry may not be needed in the future.

Greenspan, in testimony submitted to the Senate Banking Committee, also said the Fed has made arrangements to support the Federal Home Loan Bank system in the event of runs on S&Ls.

The committee was holding its second day of hearings on President Bush's plan to rescue the ailing industry by selling $50 billion in bonds to raise the money to close insolvent institutions.

Some analysts have said the president's plan won't provide enough money, but Greenspan said that "in our judgment, all things considered, the $50 billion should be adequate" to take care of 470 insolvent S&Ls.

Investment from outside the thrift industry, from banks and other firms, likely will be needed in order for the thrift industry to meet the new capital standards that the administration is proposing, analysts have said. Greenspan said "more than a majority of thrifts" that are not insolvent will be able to meet the new capital requirements.

The central bank chairman also said he "attaches considerable importance" to a proposed Treasury Department study of the deposit insurance system. He said the study should help "ensure a smooth transition to modified insurance arrangements."

Part of the study should include whether it is "unnecessary to provide special government subsidized facilities for mortgage lending," Greenspan said. In the future, it may be "possible to bring all the depository institutions under one regulatory and supervisory system," he suggested.

He told the committee "it is vitally important for Congress to move very promptly to consider and enact the president's proposals."

Congressional leaders say an attempt by Bush to keep the rescue plan from inflating the short-term federal deficit will add billions of dollars to the eventual cost.

Bush wants to pay for part of the rescue by selling $50 billion in "off-budget" bonds over the next three years through a special government-sponsored corporation. That way, the government could spend $50 billion that would not show up on the books as part of the budget deficit.

Senate Banking Committee Chairman Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., said Wednesday that figures compiled by his staff show the off-budget mechanism will cost the government an additional $4.6 billion over 30 years. Meanwhile, James Blum, acting director of the Congressional Budget Office, told the House Ways and Means Committee that the administration's plan would boost the government's interest payments by $100 million to $200 million a year.

But Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady vigorously defended the arrangement Wednesday before Riegle's committee, which conducted the first congressional hearing on the 2½-week-old plan.

Brady acknowledged that the bailout could be financed on-budget through regular, long-term Treasury borrowing but said that would be at a cost of "one less Trident submarine or no day care."

Brady also was sharply questioned about whether the administration is proposing a big enough rescue to put the industry on a sound footing. He said that not only would the plan provide money to close 350 insolvent institutions and meet the commitments on 205 failed S&Ls rescued last year, it would provide $24 billion from 1992 through 1999 to handle the possible failures of another 150 weak institutions.

Riegle told reporters after Wednesday's hearing that he was keeping an open mind, but so far could find no reason to favor an off-budget arrangement. "If there are advantages, they're not obvious to me. ... I think you start from the premise that you ought to keep the cost to a minimum, especially when you and your folks and your neighbors are going to have to pay for this problem, or a large part of it," he said.

UT, A&M mergers approved by Senate education group

AUSTIN (AP) — Bills that would bring five schools from the poor, rapidly growing South Texas area into the rich University of Texas and Texas A&M University systems have been approved by the Senate Education Committee.

The 10-0 vote on each bill Wednesday indicated that there should be little, if any, difficulty in winning approval of the 31-member Senate.

"This is a great day for South Texas," said Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi.

One bill would merge Pan American University's two institutions at Edinburg and Brownsville with UT. The other would make Texas A&I University at Kingsville, Corpus Christi State University and Laredo State University, which are in the University System of South Texas, part of the A&M system.

The proposed mergers, which already have been approved by the schools' governing boards, are in response to legislator and citizen complaints that South Texas — a region of 1.5 million people with high illiteracy and school dropout rates — has been shortchanged in higher education.

Truan said South Texas now has only one doctoral program and no state professional schools. Blas Martinez of Laredo, president of the South Texas system board of directors, said, "The people of South Texas have waited patiently for many years to be brought up to the mainstream of higher education. Our grandparents tolerated the inequities, our parents requested the change, and our children demand it."

UT regent Chairman Jack Blanton said of the UT-Pan American merger, "This is probably the most important thing that will happen to me during my time on the University of Texas Board of Regents."

Truan said the proposed A&M merger "is the result of the aspirations of an entire region which has historically received nothing but the short end of the stick when it comes to educational resources."

Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, asked Blanton how he thought the merger with Pan American's schools would benefit UT, which is the state's largest and richest university.

"We simply recognize that the Hispanic leadership in this state is very important to our future," Blanton said. "It's important to us today, it was yesterday, and it will be even more so to our children and their children."

Committee Chairman Carl Parker said, "I believe from your remarks that it is the intent of the board of regents and administration of the University of Texas to take this new member of the family in as a full participating member of the family and not the stepchild."

"That's exactly our unanimous attitude, and it should be no other way," Blanton said.

Nat Lopez of Harlingen, Pan American regent chairman, said of the UT merger, "We think it's going to be terrific for Pan American, and it's going to be a tremendous opportunity for the Valley as a whole."

Pan American at Edinburg, which has a predominantly Hispanic enrollment of 11,200, would be known as the University of Texas-Pan American. The Brownsville campus, with a 1988 enrollment of 1,500, would be known as the University of Texas at Brownsville.

The schools proposed for merger with the A&M system would retain their current names.

The committee also approved proposals that would:

- Establish Pan American at Brownsville as an upper-level institution with authority to design its own curriculum and award its own degrees. Pan American at Edinburg is a four-year university.

- Direct the governing board of Laredo State University to pursue establishment of a graduate school of international trade.

- Create a committee to study making Laredo State a four-year college.

Truan said he would introduce separate bills to create a law school at Texas A&I and to make Corpus Christi State a four-year school.

Some S&L crooks may have been placed on payroll

by The Associated Press
In their rush to catch up to thrift industry fraud and mismanagement, federal regulators may have unknowingly hired some of the culprits responsible for the savings and loan debacle. The Associated Press has learned.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board hired as many as 800 people — a "high percentage" of them from failed S&Ls — without performing background checks, government and industry officials said.

Two of them are now targets of criminal investigations. One is being prosecuted for alleged fraud committed last year at the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp., the agency that insures thrift deposits.

The other has been transferred from a top regulatory job while the FBI pursues a probe requested two years ago when his old S&L went under. Regulatory officials in Washington did not know about that inquiry, which had been launched in Dallas, when he was hired last year.

The bank board made 6,000 such criminal referrals to the FBI from insolvent thrifts, asking the bureau to look into specific transactions and individuals.

When employees of failed thrifts are hired as regulators, "that's a risk, sure," acknowledged bank board spokesman Bill Fulwider.

Still, he added, "The assumption is it's generally not their fault the institution went down. They understand the assets, and they have expertise that's valuable."

Most of the people hired to handle the billions of dollars' worth of property and loans seized from failed thrifts are honest, officials said. Yet they expect to find more bad apples.

"I would not be surprised to see one or two instances of that emerging as the (Justice Department's bank fraud) task force proceeds," said U.S. Attorney Marvin Collins, who has been working on S&L fraud since the mid-1980s.

Added one longtime industry official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity:

"I would imagine there would be one or two others when you hire 800 people. Maybe 80 or 50 or 30 people — some percentage that drops over the line. ... It will take a long time before it all gets out."

The collapse of the S&L industry is expected to cost some $100 billion to resolve. A large portion of that cost, officials have said, results from mismanagement and outright fraud by S&L executives.

Some criminal activity is still going on, Collins said. "Some people feel they can take advantage because the system is currently overloaded by investigations," he said. "We'll be very attentive to them."

Committee ponders sterilization proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — It is "repulsive" that half a million dogs and cats are destroyed annually in Texas because they are unwanted, says a state lawmaker pushing passage of a bill to mandate sterilization of animals adopted from shelters.

The measure by Rep. Bob Richardson, R-Austin, was sent Wednesday to a subcommittee of the Committee on Agriculture and Livestock.

"We're putting down somewhere around 500,000 animals in a process which I find personally repulsive and very upsetting for society to have to engage in," Richardson said.

John Davenport, president of the Texas Humane Federation and former president of the Austin Humane Society, said about 85 percent of the pets that come into shelters nationwide are euthanized.

"This is a horrible, horrible number, but we cannot find homes for pets ... The main reason is this uncontrolled breeding," Davenport said.

According to a report by the Humane Society of the United States, one female dog and her offspring in six years can be the source of 67,000 puppies. In seven years, a cat and her young can produce 420,000 cats, it said.

Millions of animals "face almost certain death" in shelters in the United States because they are not adopted, the report said, and thousands of others live without care or companionship.

Under the bill, there would be two options for an animal adopted from a shelter, pound or humane organization. Either the animal would have to be sterilized there, or the procedure would be done elsewhere under an agreement with the person taking the pet.

A person failing to have an animal spayed or neutered after signing an agreement to do so could face a $200 fine for each day of the violation and the shelter could reclaim the animal, Richardson said.

A woman who says she has 26 cats in her home joined representatives of veterinarians, shelters and animal control officials in testifying for the measure.

Cathy Taylor of Austin said she wouldn't take the cats to the shelter because they are older animals who likely would not get adopted. She said she has spayed or neutered her cats.

"I'm not going to promote having unwanted kittens in my neighborhood," she said.

Most larger cities in Texas have sterilization programs, Richardson said, and people testifying for his bill said they exist in Austin, Midland, Bryan and Houston. Those programs have stabilized the unwanted animal populations in those areas after several years, Richardson said.

A similar bill was approved by the Senate in the last legislative session and was passed by the House committee, Richardson said, but it was killed on a point of order on the House floor.

Some concern about the bill has come from small, rural areas, Richardson said. Last session's bill contained an exemption for communities of less than 25,000, he said, and he would consider a similar provision this session.

Reform still needed in education system

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is "a step ahead" in setting education goals, but state lawmakers must continue addressing concerns such as equal public school funding, teacher salaries and needs of minorities, an education expert says.

"It is extremely important that the states set goals for education," said Dr. Winfred Godwin, president of the Southern Regional Education Board in a speech to a joint session of the Legislature.

"Texas is a step ahead, and indeed it may be several steps ahead, when it comes to setting such goals," Godwin said Wednesday.

He said Texas "is one of the very few states in the nation to set specific goals for student achievement," but he warned that the number of disadvantaged students, who usually have low achievement scores, is increasing.

Godwin predicted that minorities will comprise more than half of all elementary and secondary students in Texas by the year 2000, "and a disproportionate number of these will be from disadvantaged backgrounds."

"Texas must take this into account and deal with it," Godwin said.
