Ride of a lifetime earns Appleton top PRCA prize

In any sport, it often comes down to one last chance, be it a final "at bat," a field goal attempt in the closing seconds or, in the case of a rodeo competitor, one last ride.

For Dave Appleton, a 1982 alumnus of the Western Texas College rodeo circuit, that last ride occurred on Dec. 11.

At the start of the PRCA National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, Appleton found himself in third place in the money standings, trailing the reigning "All Around Cowboy" winner, Lewis Feild.

The difference was a margin of some $15,000. Feild went into the finals rodeo with $107,821 for a year's rodeoing compared to Appleton's $92,399.

Before the week-long finals would end, however, Appleton would manage to add more than $44,000 to his total.

His ultimate victory would not be decided, however, until that last ride in the finals bareback competition.

In interviews later, Appleton described it as when "preparation and opportunity finally met."

To get a top score, he needed the event's top horse. And luck was on his side last December, as he drew the 1988 Bucking Horse of the Year, King's Way Skool.

By combining the bucking difficulty of the horse he rode and his seven years of professional rodeo experience, Appleton scored an 81.

Feild, the cowboy he sought to beat, scored a 68 in the same event. When the winner's money was counted, Appleton had $121,546 for his 1988 winnings and Feild had $120,902.

At the level of rodeo these two men compete at, $643 is considered "pocket change," but it was enough to gain Appleton his first title as the PRCA's All Around Cowboy.

Tower says no surrender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are promising a vigorous and lengthy Senate debate over John Tower's nomination as defense secretary, even as his chances of confirmation fade under the mounting weight of Democratic opposition.

Tower's GOP allies made their fighting intentions clear late Wednesday while the man at the center of the storm said he has no intention of giving up. "Never surrender or retreat," the former Texas senator said, quoting the commander of the Texas forces at the Alamo.

The full Senate arranged to begin debate shortly after noon today, although no vote was expected until next week at the earliest, and there were fresh Democratic pleadings that Tower withdraw his nomination. Tower on Tuesday renewed his vow to abstain from drinking if he is confirmed. Asked during a National Press Club appearance if he had broken any previous pledges, the twice-divorced Tower said he had broken his marital vows.

Tower also said he would not return to the defense consulting industry even if his confirmation fails.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, said there would be a "vigorous" debate on the Senate floor, adding that the issue involved is more important than a single nomination.

In a reference to the Senate's majority Democrats, Republican leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said, "We hope the door is not closed on the other side."

But not a single Democrat has thus far supported Tower, and two Democrats announced their opposition in speeches on the Senate floor.

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell had been expected to vote no, but the decision of Sen. David Boren of Oklahoma to oppose Tower was a blow to the Republicans.

By day's end Wednesday, an Associated Press survey showed 36 Republicans in favor, 36 Democrats against and the remainder undecided or not answering. Democrats hold a 55-45 majority in the Senate.

Bush met at the White House with additional senators in his effort to win Democrats over to support the nomination. He summarized his appeal this way: "Do what you've got to do, but remember fair play, remember decency and honor and then remember also historically the concept of advice and consent where reasonable doubt is given historically to the president of the United States."

Top spelling title on line tomorrow

The Scurry County Spelling Bee will begin at 9 a.m. Friday in the Fine Arts Theatre on the campus of Western Texas College.

Twenty-two top spellers from Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh will compete after winning the right to advance at their respective school campus bees.

Students in grades 4-8 were eligible to enter.

The pronouncer for Friday's meet will be Janie Carroll, fourth grade gifted and talented teacher from Snyder.

The judges will include Dr. Ed Barkowksy and Dr. Mary Hood from WTC and Tracey Stahl of Ira. The top speller from Friday's bee will advance to regional competition in Lubbock April 1. The winner of that event will go on to the national spelling competition in Washington D.C.

The public is invited to view Friday's contest. The spellers qualifying for the meet are:

—Snyder Junior High: James Graham, seventh grader, and Maria Rodriguez, seventh grader. James is the son of Clifton Yocom and Darlene Yocom; and Maria is the daughter of Victor and Consuelo Rodriguez.

—Central Elementary: John Baez, fifth grader, and Lionel Aviles, sixth grader. John is the son of Blas and Lidia Baez; and Lionel is the son of Saul and Cruz Aviles.

—East Elementary: Jason York, sixth grader, and Jennifer Featherston, fifth grader. Jason is the son of Larry and Keta York; and Jennifer is the daughter of Daylon Featherston.

—North Elementary: Misty Clem, sixth grader, and Angelia Gonzalez, fifth grader. Misty is the daughter of Fred and Brenda Clem; and Angelia is the daughter of Manuel and Angelia Gonzalez.

—Northeast Elementary: Michelle Olivarez, sixth grader, and Angelia Suarez, sixth grader. Michelle is the daughter of David and Arlene Olivarez; and Angelia is the daughter of David and Arlene Olivarez.

AARC work center linked with Abilene

Scurry County Work Center, a program affiliated with the American Association of Retarded Citizens, is now functioning under the Abilene office of the Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

As a result, significantly greater benefits are expected, according to an MH-MR spokesman in Abilene.

Previously under the Lubbock MH-MR and Lubbock State School, the center was reassigned to the Abilene area three months ago to conform with original statewide MH-MR organizational plans. Martha King, director of community information at Abilene State School, said.

"We're going to try to be more involved," King said, noting that a registered nurse, a psychologist and a case worker will visit as often as is considered necessary.

AARC members from Snyder will also be treated in Abilene in some dental surgery cases, she said.

There are three staff members at the work center behind Humble Smith School on 37th St., director Debby Cawthron, assistant Ruby Gregory and a part-time employee.

MH-MR training specialist Kathy Galvan of Abilene visits regularly as part of her duties in the agency's 15-county Abilene region.

The Scurry County Work Center "had asked to be under Lubbock years ago," King said. See AARC, page 9

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Stealing a kiss may be petty larceny, but sometimes it's said to be grand."

It's been an interesting week—Tom Landry got fired and John Tower is trying to get hired.

The former Texas senator has been raked over the coals by his former colleagues on the arms services committee. We suspect there might be a double standard. You can do some things as a senator, but not as secretary of defense.

Tower said he'd quit drinking if he were confirmed as defense secretary. We guess if the president isn't successful in getting enough Democratic votes for confirmation, John didn't want to close the door on being able to drown his sorrows.

We find one thing about the Tower debate refreshing and encouraging. If the short, plump and aging John Tower can become a womanizer—there's hope for all of us.

The Tom Landry thing proves one point—there is no nice and easy way to fire somebody. After 29 years, Landry was relieved of his coaching duties by the new owners of the Dallas Cowboys.

Fans, players, ex-players and even critics of Landry are crying foul. We noticed several folks in the coffee shop taking up for Landry who, during the losing streak last season, were ready to hang him out to dry.

What folks forget is that pro football is not a game, it's a business—and a big one. The reported $140 million paid for the club gives the guy who writes the check the right to call the shots.

Don't feel too sorry for Landry. Depending on which report you read, his salary has been between $700,000 and $1 million annually. We suspect his demand as a consultant and speaker will provide adequate pocket change should he stay in "retirement."

Even Gov. Bill Clements came into the picture, saying he will encourage Landry to get into Republican politics. It might be a good idea—ole Tom is used to the criticism.

Q. — When will the paving project on the Clairemont Highway be started?

A. — State highway officials say the project is scheduled to go to bid in May. The repaving is projected to cost in excess of $4 million.

In Brief

Sword battle

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A century after Kinney County citizens gave a military officer two ceremonial swords for helping drive out hostile Indians, two South Texas museums are dueling over the display of the sabers.

The swords, one gold and one silver, which were given by the citizens of Kinney County to John Lapham Bullis in the 1880s, are not on display, but are being kept in storage at the Witte Museum in San Antonio.

The museum received the swords from Bullis' daughters.

Serial killer

HOUSTON (AP) — A serial killer who admitted killing 13 women will be eligible for parole after serving only about 12 years of a 60-year prison term because of a ruling by the Texas Court of Criminals Appeals.

The appeals court ruled Wednesday that prosecutors failed to warn Coral Eugene Watts that they would seek a finding that he used a deadly weapon in the attempted murder of a woman during a 1982 burglary.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: May I reply to "M.S. Sejal, D.D.S.," whose letter you published accompanied by an article titled "The Dumbest Person in the World?"

I am sick of hearing that I should go somewhere else if I don't like it here. This is my country, too, and I love it just as much as you do. Possibly more, because I'm not afraid to criticize it when it is wrong. It takes courage to face the truth and try to correct things. Nothing was ever accomplished by waving the flag and saying, "We're better than the trash next door, so shut up!" Being better than the worst is nothing to be proud of.

To take issue with a few things we Americans have to be "proud" of:

— Almost unlimited natural resources. Not anymore — thanks to the unbridled greed of industry.

— A ballot box nobody can stuff. Really? Ask Nixon about 1960 in Chicago.

— A judicial system that is the envy of the rest of the world: Our judicial system is NOT the envy of the world. Plea bargaining, which allows sleazy criminals to get off with a slap on the wrist, is unique here. So is getting off on a technicality. In England, if the arresting officer errs, he is reprimanded and suspended, but his mistake does not allow the accused to go free. Sentencing disparities are a disgrace — six years for beating a baby to death, but 10 years for striking a police officer. We have country club accommodations for political prisoners, and capricious parole for perpetrators of some of the most heinous crimes imaginable. What country would envy that?

— Food so plentiful that over-eating is a major problem? Tell that to the below-poverty-level citizenry.

— One hundred million jobs, when too many of them are engaged in an overabundance of offensive weapons production, is nothing to brag about.

We have lost our prestige in the world because too many wrongs have been allowed to flourish for too long, and it's our own fault.

Pollyanna never solved any problems. She just smiled and said, "Isn't everything wonderful?"

DIANE STACOM,

DEAR DIANE: Ouch! The truth hurts, but it's worth examining. Thanks for a good letter.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say when someone walks up to you and says, "I'll bet you don't remember me, do you?"

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: I say, "You win! Won't you please refresh my memory?"

New bill would boost state pay

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawmaker says his $520 million plan for a state employee pay raise is a new concept that would give lower-paid workers the biggest percentage gains.

"What makes this plan unique is that it provides a graduated scale for pay raises, where the lowest-paid employees will get the biggest-percentage raises.

We will be trying to sell a new concept here," Rep. Nicolas Perez said of the plan.

Wednesday's announcement of the pay raise proposal coincided with a union-organized protest in which state workers were urged to wear black to show support for a pay increase.

Secretary of State says...

So-called LBJ law is unfair

AUSTIN (AP) — Even though it has the potential to adversely affect a friend and fellow Republican, a state lawmaker says he wants to repeal the law that allowed Democrats Lyndon Johnson in 1960 and Lloyd Bentsen last year to run simultaneously for Senate re-election and vice president.

Rep. Jeff Wentworth, R-San Antonio, told the House Elections Committee Wednesday that his proposal to eliminate the so-called LBJ Law would affect U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm if Gramm is re-elected in 1990 and wants to run for vice president or president in 1996.

Wentworth called that "proof positive" that his proposal is non-partisan.

"Phil Gramm is a dear friend of mine, and a Republican," Wentworth said. "But I just think it is unfair for somebody to take advantage of the opportunity that currently exists in law to run for two offices at the same time."

Wentworth's bill, and a similar measure by Rep. A.R. Ovard, R-Dallas, were sent to a subcommittee.

The LBJ Law, which was passed in 1959, allows a candidate's name to appear more than once on the ballot if the candidate is running for president or vice president and another office. It was approved to allow Johnson to seek the Democratic presidential nomination and Senate re-election, and it ultimately allowed him to win both the vice presidential and Senate posts.

A special election was required to replace Johnson, a move that was not needed in Bentsen's case because he was re-elected but lost his Democratic vice presidential bid.

Secretary of State Jack Rains testified for Wentworth's bill, which would allow a party to nominate a replacement candidate for a nominee to office who has become the nominee for president or vice president. Ovard's measure does not contain such a provision.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under Lenin's dour gaze from a giant portrait, Soviet officials uncorked their new export supervodka and hustled American guests like born-again capitalists, with grins, backslaps and heaping bowls of caviar.

Glasnost was in full flower Wednesday night at the Soviet Embassy, and warm feelings of "openness" were stoked by frequent gulps of Stolichnaya Cristall, the ultra-premium Russian vodka that will appear on liquor store shelves in 10 American cities this week.

"You might ask, what is the difference between Stolichnaya and Stolichnaya Cristall," Soviet ambassador Yuri V. Dubinin smilingly told the happy throng. "I suspect the effect is just the same, but Stolichnaya Cristall is better for your health."

If Dubinin and his marketing comrades get their way, Stolichnaya Cristall will be good for the health of the Soviet economy, which suffers from a shortage of hard Western currencies.

The Commerce Department says United States imported a record $1.7 billion in Soviet goods last year, compared with U.S. exports of nearly $2.8 billion to the Soviet Union. The U.S. export figure, representing largely grain, was up 87 percent from the previous year but below the record $3.6 billion in 1979 before the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan prompted a U.S. embargo.

Stolichnaya Cristall, like the older Stolichnaya brand, is bought by PepsiCo Inc. for resale in the United States under a 1972 agreement that allows the Soviets to produce Pepsi Cola at 21 bottling plants. Under a newly negotiated deal, 26 additional Pepsi Cola plants will be opened within the next few years.

"It's an old-fashioned barter deal," said PepsiCo chairman Donald M. Kendall, who received the first bottle of Stolichnaya Cristall from Dubinin at the embassy reception.

Stolichnaya Cristall is named for the Cristall distillery in Moscow, one of the two plants that produces the prestige export vodka. The latest version, developed in 1982, is made from the finest winter wheat and the purest spring waters from the Moscow region, said Suren S. Santurian, senior engineer of Amtorg Trading Corp., the Soviet government's export marketing agency.

A bottle of Stolichnaya Cristall will sell for $18 to $20 retail.

The new vodka, served in brimming shot glasses from silver trays by waiters in black ties, was a hit among the several hundred American representatives of the wine and spirits trade, members of Congress and journalists who attended the reception.

One reporter observed after downing a shot glass of Cristall: "It's real smooth, compared to the cheap rotgut I buy. It's like a sipping whiskey. There's no burn. It just goes straight down."

PepsiCo officials said only a few thousand cases will be available in the United States this year for stores in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, San Francisco and Washington.

ABWA sees flowers arranged

Sue Travis, owner of Travis Flowers, gave a presentation Feb. 23 to members of The Scurry Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Introduced by Barbara Scrivner, program chairman, Travis gave a review of new ideas and products in the florist field.

For a web-look arrangement, Travis criss-crossed flowers. She pointed out that one should determine the height and width of an arrangement with the main item, then fill in with other flowers.

For a different effect, ribbons may be spray painted. She told members never to throw away flower ribbon; it can be used later in other arrangements.

Travis Flowers has employees who can help in flower selections. The shop also offers silk flowers and potted plants which are a more permanent gift.

Irene Brooks of the club gave the vocational speech. She has been doing clothing alterations for men and women for several years.

Brooks is also the club's MAWC representative and told members there are still club cookbooks for sale. Other activities at the club house are a special luncheon, game day and bake sale set March 18 with tickets $6 plus tax;

An offer you can refuse

By James Jacoby

"Have you ever seen such luck?" South exclaimed to his partner, having just gone set in four spades. "First the king of hearts is with East; then the ace of diamonds is over the king; and finally the queen of diamonds is with West. All three cards had to be wrong for the contract to fail." From these remarks, you astute readers should be able to figure out the scenario in the play of four spades. With the lead of the heart four, declarer had finessed dummy's queen. East won the king and returned a club. Declarer won the ace of clubs, drew trumps and cashed the ace of hearts and the other high clubs before leading a diamond to dummy's king. But East won the ace and returned the suit, enabling the defenders to take three diamond tricks and set the contract.

Despite the bad luck dogging the declarer, he could have guaranteed his contract with a simple play. Suppose he rises with dummy's ace of hearts at trick one. Next he draws trump and plays out his high clubs. Then he can exit with a heart. Since the defenders now have to play the diamond suit for him (or offer a sluff and ruff), he has at most two diamond losers and makes the contract.

Just because a finesse is staring you in the face, do not neglect the availability of an elimination play and throw-in for a sure-fire way to make your contract.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

12-min. workout

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't worry if you can squeeze in only a short workout.

The Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau says you can benefit aerobically by exercising as little as 12 minutes, three days a week.

It says the University of Massachusetts Medical School tested 23 women of average fitness over 12 weeks on stationary bicycles. Aerobic condition improved 10 to 15 percent on the 12-minute, three-times-a-week regime.

Previous advice said you needed to exercise 20 to 60 minutes a day, three to five days a week, to reap aerobic benefits.

Divorce can make you sick

ORADELL, N.J. (AP) — The cost of divorce in terms of emotional trauma and physical illness is enormous, according to RN Magazine.

"Divorce grief" may appear as alcohol abuse, attempted suicide, anorexia, bulimia, automobile accidents or heart attacks, it says.

Divorced persons often need constructive advice from a lawyer, support organization or therapist to discuss their feelings. A professional can listen and offer guidance to help reconstruct a shattered life. There's also the importance of touch for consolation — hold a hand or give a hug.

Championship tonight...

Dusters continue roll

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor
WACO—New Mexico's Lady Thunderbirds got their feathers plucked by a team and a player with something to prove here Wednesday night.

Western Texas, feeling overdue on respect, blasted the former No. 4-ranked New Mexico team, 72-58, in semi-final action of the Women's Regional V basketball tournament.

The convincing win put the Lady Dusters in tonight's 7 o'clock championship game opposite Odessa. The winner goes on to the NJCAA National Tournament in Tyler later this month.

"I think this team has a lot to prove," said Nickey Allen, offensive catalyst for the team. "We think we deserve to go to the nationals after being underrated this year."

Allen also had personal reasons for wanting to beat New Mexico. Since the beginning of the season, the Thunderbirds' Tonya McCaster has been heralded as the conference's top player. Allen got the MVP award from the coaches however, and proved they were right here Wednesday night.

The 5-11 sophomore scored 25 points to key the Dusters victory, and she and freshman teammate Tami Wilson held the 6-2 McCaster to just 12 points.

"I think I did have something to prove," said Allen. "They (New Mexico players) all think she is better. I wanted to prove something."

While Allen carried out her revenge on the scoreboard, it was defense that set up the Dusters' 5th straight win. After a tight first half that left the game tied 28-28, Western began to warm up. The Lady Dusters almost equalled their first-half output in the first 10 minutes of the second half. With Allen, Wilson, Julie Roewe and Valery Jackson all attacking the basket, WTC reeled off 27 points.

New Mexico, its normally high-scoring offense shut down by the Dusters' man-to-man pressure, managed only six points in the same time span. The result was a 55-34 lead and a quick end to what most fans thought would be a classic, down-to-the-wire game.

"It took us a while to get started. We are still too tight," explained Coach Kelly Chadwick. "But you want your players ready to go and excited. We played with a lot of intensity out there, especially on defense."

There were five lead changes and five ties in the first half. New Mexico opened the scoring with a basket by Shelia Harris. Western caught up 8-8 when Jackson hit a medium-range jumper and went in front with 12:20 to play when Allen scored from underneath.

The teams traded hoops until Wilson put a rebound up and in for a 19-18 WTC lead with 6:30 left. The Dusters added six more points as Tabitha Walton and Bobbie Brown came off the bench for a basket each, and Allen followed with another of her own.

Undaunted, New Mexico rallied back to outscore the Dusters, 10-3, and tie the game at intermission.

McCaster's 12 points led New Mexico which finished the season with a 25-6 record. Tweet White and Wendy Gerhart added 10 each.

WTC, now 24-8, got 12 points from Wilson, 11 from Jackson and 10 from Roewe in addition to Allen's 25. Elayne Maddox added six off the bench.

Odessa, a 77-75 winner over fourth-ranked Grayson in Wednesday's other semi-finals game, was co-champion with Western Texas in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. The Lady Wranglers are 22-8.

WTC 72, New Mexico 58.
WTC—Allen 11 3-4 25; Jackson 3 5-8 11; Maddox 12-4-6; Wilson 6-2-12; Walton 1-0-2; Brown 1-2-4; Roewe 5-0-10; Smith 1-0-1; Harris 0-2-0; Totals 30 12-25-72.
NEW MEXICO—Harris 3 2-2 8; McCaster 4 4-12; White 3 3-3 10; Nix 2 3-4 8; Gerhart 3 4-10; Caldwell 1 1-4 3; Lund 1 2-2 4; Griffin 1 0-0 3; Totals 18 19-23-58.
Halftime—WTC 28, New Mexico 28.
Three Point Goals—New Mexico 3 (White, Nix, Griffin); Fouls—WTC 19, New Mexico 24; Fouled Out—White; Technical—New Mexico Coach; Records—WTC 24-8; New Mexico 25-6.

PROVES HER WORTH—Nickey Allen, 5-11 sophomore who this week was named the league's MVP by WJCAC coaches, backed up that honor by scoring 25 points to pace the WTC Dusters to a 72-58 victory over New Mexico Junior College. The Dusters advanced to the Region V championship game tonight against the Odessa Lady Wranglers. (SDN Staff Photo)

Past indicates 1989 is Dusters' year for crown

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

WACO—If you follow sports closely, you begin to look for patterns to predict an outcome. So I was sure I had stumbled across absolute proof that the Dusters would beat Odessa tonight and become the 1989 Region V women's basketball champions.

I tested the theory out on the main man—Dusters Coach Kelly Chadwick.

"Yeah, it's our year. It sure is," Chadwick spouted. "Who told you that? I don't believe in that stuff."

Except for 1985, the year he took over at Western Texas, Chadwick has coached a team to the regional championship. His first three titles were at Amarillo College in 1979, 1981 and 1983. The Badger program was discontinued after the 1984 season and Chadwick moved to Western Texas. The veteran coach didn't come up with another championship in his first year at Snyder, but did get the Dusters to the regional finals.

In 1987, he was back on track winning another Region V title. And in 1989 the Dusters are here again.

Is it chance or logic that has put Chadwick in the winners circle every two years?

"I think it has to do with sophomores. At Amarillo, those three teams were sophomore classes. It was the same in 1987."

So forget superstition.

"I've got no superstition. I get gut feelings about these tournaments," Chadwick added.

Great. Something better than superstition, a coaches intuition. So what is his gut feeling?

"Well," said Chadwick. "I haven't thought about it yet."

Cowboys' sale won't impact Troy Aikman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Agent Leigh Steinberg says the sale of the Dallas Cowboys to Jerry Jones won't affect contract negotiations with his newest client, UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman, the anticipated first pick in next month's NFL draft.

"We're making the presumption that the new owner is a sophisticated businessman who knows the cost of doing business," Steinberg said Wednesday. "He was skillful enough to beat out a lot of bidders to buy the franchise, so he's skillful enough to negotiate contracts."

Jones, an Arkansas oilman, paid a reported $140 million for the team, Texas Stadium and the team's training facility.

Steinberg compared the additional cost of signing the former UCLA quarterback to an incident in his life.

U.S., Soviets near drug testing pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union, concerned over the use of steroids by athletes, are moving toward an agreement that would include setting up testing labs in each country for use by the other. Officials of the U.S. and Soviet Union are scheduled to meet March 20 in Colorado Springs, Colo., to discuss details of a pact that would call for random drug testing in the years leading up to the 1992 Olympics.

Baseball action

Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers were to take on Hereford at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the Abilene ISD high school baseball tournament. The Tigers opened the 1989 campaign Tuesday with an 8-4 loss to Lubbock Estacado. A win by the Tigers would put them in a 5 p.m. game Friday, and a loss would see the Tigers play at 10 a.m. Friday. The Snyder junior varsity team will host Lamesa at 1 p.m. Saturday at Moffett Field.

Golfers play Friday

Snyder High School boys and girls golf teams will play in the Andrews Invitational Golf Tournament beginning Friday. The tournament in Andrews continues Saturday.

Lady Tigers set to run

Snyder High School girls open their 1989 track season Saturday as they enter the Concho Belle Relays in San Angelo. Field events begin at 9 a.m., prelims at 12:30 p.m. and finals at 4 p.m. Other teams entered in the division are Lake View, Hereford, Brownwood, Lubbock Dunbar, Frenship, Fort Stockton, Big Spring, Monahans and Pecos.

Tiger boys at Andrews

Snyder varsity boys will compete in the Mustang Relays in Andrews this Saturday.

Netters in Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — Snyder varsity tennis team will play in the two-day Sweetwater Tennis Tournament, beginning Friday. The squad comes off a solid performance in the West Texas Championships, where its boy's doubles teams won first and second place. Coach Charlie Chrane noted that this weekend's action in Sweetwater will involve only the varsity. Snyder junior varsity and freshmen will join the upperclassmen for a March 10-11 tourney in Midland.

Tied with UT...

Arkansas back in lead

By The Associated Press
Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson credits a scoring run late in the first half with giving the Razorbacks a victory over Rice, allowing them to pull back into a first place tie with the Texas Longhorns. Lee Mayberry scored 26 points and Keith Wilson had 23 to lead the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 83-70 victory over the Rice Owls Wednesday night. In other SWC games, Texas A&M defeated Texas Tech, 71-60 and Houston whipped Baylor, 75-69.

Arkansas improved its record to 20-6 overall and is tied for first in the Southwest Conference with Texas with a 12-3 conference mark. The loss snapped a four-game winning streak for the Owls, who are now 12-15 and 6-10.

The Razorbacks built a 42-24 halftime lead and that was the deciding factor, Richardson said.

"The key point was the 18-point lead at the half. With Rice playing at home, I knew they would come back sometime," Richardson said. "This is a great win for us. Give Rice credit. They never gave up."

Rice Coach Scott Thompson was pleased with his team's effort.

"Close, but no cigar. Our kids got down and we fought back like we have all year," Thompson said. "We needed some key baskets and some key defensive situations that didn't come through."

Dana Hardy had 20 points to lead Rice, while Kenneth Rourke and Andy Gilchrist followed with 14 points each.

Donald Thompson scored 25 points to lead Texas A&M to a 71-60 comeback victory over Texas Tech.

The Aggies improved to 7-8 in the SWC and 14-13 overall, while Texas Tech fell to 7-8 and 12-13.

Doug Dennis came off the bench to score 12 points for the Aggies, who are back in the middle of the logjammed conference race.

Aggies Coach Shelby Metcalf credited his seniors, Thompson and Dennis, with spurring the comeback.

"I felt the key point of the game was the end of the first half," he said. "That's when our seniors took a little command. Doug and Donald hit some key buckets."

Texas Tech held a 29-26 halftime lead, but the lead had been 29-17 until the closing minutes.

"We gave up a nice lead at the end of the first half and that really hurt us," said Red Raiders coach Gerald Myers. "I think they scored six points in the last minute and that was important."

The Aggies tied the game 9:40 remaining on a basket by Tony Milton, who finished with with 16 points.

The game stayed close until the Aggies began pulling away in the final three minutes.

Sean Gay led Tech with 15 points.

Richard Hollis scored 20 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Wednesday night to pace Houston to a 75-59 victory over Baylor.

Hollis, who made all 10 of his free-throw attempts, scored 12 second-half points as the Cougars improved to 17-12 overall and 8-7 in the SWC.

Baylor, losing its ninth straight contest, drops to 5-12 overall and 1-14 in league play.

Craig Upchurch scored 19 points and grabbed seven rebounds for Houston.

Michael Hobbs led Baylor with 18 points.

Brady says media headlines caused S&L withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady is blaming newspaper headlines and television reports for causing billions of dollars in withdrawals at savings and loan associations so far this year.

Federal savings and loan regulators on Wednesday revealed that depositors withdrew at least $1 billion last month after publication of a list of institutions targeted for government takeover.

Brady, appearing before the Senate Budget Committee, said, "It's our conviction that the outflow is due to the stories on the nightly news and the black headlines on the front of the business pages or page 1 almost every day for the past two months."

He said S&Ls have been forced to increase interest rates on savings by an average of three-fourths of a percentage point to hold deposits following the increase in public attention to the industry's problems. He predicted that the rates would drop once President Bush's plan to bail out the industry is approved and public confidence is restored.

"We feel growth (in deposits) will be strong in the future," he said.

M. Danny Wall, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said the nation's 2,950 S&Ls suffered net withdrawals of $4 billion to $5 billion in February, $1 billion to $2 billion of it at the 220 institutions earmarked for takeover by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Wall, in a separate appearance before the Senate Banking Committee, said the bulk of the withdrawals were a normal response to rising interest rates. Other investments offering a better return, such as money market mutual funds, lure bank and S&L customers away, he said.

Also, shaky and rescued S&Ls, under orders from regulators to scale back their operations, represented another substantial portion, he said.

Roger Martin, another member of the bank board, told reporters that withdrawals throughout the thrift industry totaled $7 billion in January.

That represents a continuation of the so-called "silent run" that began gathering steam with a $7 billion outflow in November and a record withdrawal of $8.1 billion in December.

The withdrawals add up to $26 billion to $27 billion over the four months. All S&L deposits at the end of 1988 totaled $970 billion.

In January, public attention to the industry's problem soared after the administration revealed it was considering a controversial proposal, since dropped, to charge depositors a fee. The industry's problems received another dose of publicity in early February, when the president proposed his rescue plan.

The FDIC, which regulates commercial banks, has been assuming control of the worst-off savings institutions as a preliminary step before enactment of Bush's plan.

So far, the agency has taken over only 36 of the targeted institutions in a legal arrangement called a conservatorship. The agency plans to have about half of the 220 under control by the end of next week and the rest by the end of the month.

The affected institutions, while still privately owned, are controlled by the government. They remain open and all accounts continue to be protected up to the $100,000 insurance limit.

Martin said the high withdrawal rate at the 220 insolvent institutions has since stabilized.

Last week, the bank board and the Federal Reserve Board announced a joint lending agreement with the Treasury to pump cash, if necessary, into any S&L that needed it. Wall said, however, that he expected little use of the agreement.

Fifth straight winner from Texas is a true cowgirl

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Four of the five were chosen by one man and all were trained by the same team.

Gretchen Polhemus of Fort Worth, the latest Miss Texas to win the Miss USA crown, was discovered by Joe Rinelli, area director for North Texas-USA pageant.

She was trained by Richard Guy and Rex Holt — GuyRex Associates — just as the four who preceded her.

Rinelli said all the women had "a certain spark of magic," in addition to being beautiful.

Miss Polhemus, 23, who will spend her year-long reign in Los Angeles where she'll live in an apartment provided by the Miss USA pageant, is a Fort Worth model and part-time cattle broker.

Plans are already under way for a Stockyards parade when she returns later this week from Mobile, Ala., where the pageant was held Tuesday, said Pam Minick of the North Fort Worth Business Association.

"She's a real Fort Worth cowgirl, and we're pretty proud of her," Ms. Minick told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Miss Polhemus said she will pursue an entertainment career while continuing her real estate and broker businesses in Fort Worth.

AIDS... Third community-based research center to open

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas could become known as the Southwest center for AIDS research rather than the city where gays are persecuted, the leader of the Dallas Gay Alliance said.

William Waybourn, president of Dallas Gay Alliance, said Wednesday his organization and the Foundation for Human Understanding plan to open the nation's third community-based AIDS research clinic in Dallas by August 1.

"This is significant to the Southwest because no longer will AIDS patients have to go to the coast — the east or west — to be part of the latest medical treatments and research available," Waybourn said.

Patterned after the CRI Clinic of New York and the County Community Consortium in San Francisco, the William H. Nelson-Terry Tebedo Community Clinic for AIDS Research will be operated by the Dallas AIDS Resource Center and funded through private donations and research grants.

"We have begged and we have pleaded (with local medical schools) ... to get more research done in Dallas and our only alternative is to do it ourselves," Waybourn said. "This way we can get our own research done and we anticipate that we will help make Dallas a research center for AIDS studies."

The announcement comes less than a week after arsonists torched the resource center site where the clinic would have operated and in the midst of a fervor over State District Judge Jack Hampton of Dallas who admitted he gave a convicted murderer a lighter sentence because the two victims were "queers."

In addition, Waybourn said the reticence among the area's medical facilities in becoming involved in acquired immune deficiency syndrome research "borders on criminal negligence

... Anybody who knows anything about medicine knows Dallas is in the Dark Ages as far as AIDS is concerned."

But Waybourn said he is convinced the community can support an AIDS research center.

"The Hampton issue, the fire and all of those things really don't say anything at all about Dallas," Waybourn said. "What it really says about Texas is the response to these things. Hundreds of people have written to the judicial standards commission to complain about Hampton and we have had unqualified community support since our fire."

The clinic, which will provide as yet unapproved drugs and treatments on a trial basis for those afflicted with AIDS or its related virus, not only will help AIDS victims, but also researchers, Waybourn said.

"AIDS is going to be the disease of the century and if you want to do research, you want to miss out on it?" Waybourn said. "The person who finds the cure for AIDS is going to be the Jonas Salk or the Louis Pasteur. It's just a different decade."

The $250,000 annual budget for the facility and two full-time physicians and other staff members will be funded by proceeds from a benefit symphony concert, private donations and research grants, Waybourn said. Eventually, proponents hope drug manufacturers will provide research funds.

"Once we get this started, we will have this funded by pharmaceutical companies because they want the research done," Waybourn said. "We'll offer them a fast track for (federal drug) testing."

Waybourn said Texas hospitals and medical schools traditionally have not been interested in AIDS research.

Dietary supplements not recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vitamin, calcium and fiber supplements that Americans consume by the millions of doses are useless and potentially harmful, says a report today by the National Research Council.

The massive NRC study called "Diet and Health: Implications for Reducing Chronic Disease Risk" recommends that higher-than-needed doses of vitamins be avoided and says that neither fiber nor calcium supplements have any value to health.

Instead, the 1,300-page report said, people should eat a variety of foods that provide nutrients naturally. Particular attention should be paid to reducing dietary fat, alcohol consumption and salt intake, it said.

The findings on dietary supplements come at a time when Americans are spending millions of dollars on vitamin pills, calcium powders and capsules, and on high fiber compounds.

On vitamins, the NRC study said a good health recommendation is to "avoid taking dietary supplements in excess of the RDA (recommended daily allowance) in any one day."

A daily dose of multiple vitamins with 100 percent of the RDA "is not known to be harmful or beneficial," the report said. "However, vitamin-mineral supplements that exceed the RDA and other supplements (such as protein powders, single amino acids, fiber and lecithin) not only have no known health benefits ... but their use may be detrimental to health."

Though the study recommended foods high in calcium, it noted that "the potential benefits of calcium intakes above the RDAs to prevent osteoporosis or hypertension are not well documented and do not justify the use of calcium supplements."

Dietary fiber, the study said, could be acquired by eating fruits and vegetables. "The committee does not recommend the use of fiber supplements," the study said.

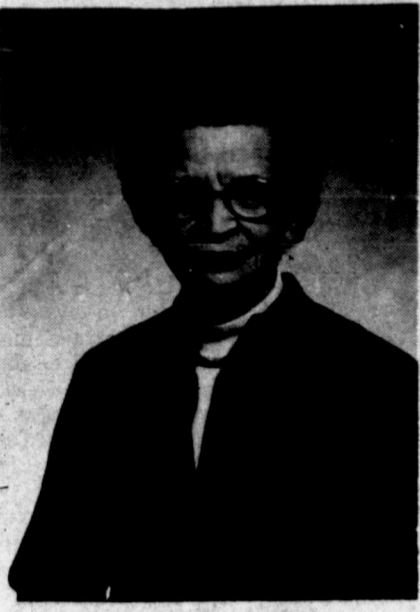

"Fruits and vegetables ... contain high levels of fiber, but there is no conclusive evidence that the dietary fiber itself" is a protection against cancers of the stomach, intestine or lungs, the study said.

Healthful diets should include five or more servings of fruit and vegetables daily, and six or more servings of breads, cereals and legumes.

On fermented beverages, the report was blunt: "The committee does not recommend alcohol consumption."

The study said pregnant women should avoid alcohol.

ERMA SMITH COX

Erma Smith Cox

Services for Erma Smith Cox, 84, of 3724 Rose Circle will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel with Rick Cunningham of the Clyde Church of Christ officiating. He will be assisted by Tom Holcomb of East Side Church of Christ and Bill Looney of 37th Street Church of Christ. Graveside services will be conducted at 4 p.m. Saturday at Clovis Memorial Garden in Clovis, N. M. with Elton Dilbeck of Roswell, N. M. officiating. She died at 9:40 a.m. Wednesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. She was born Oct. 22, 1904 in Reyno, Ark. She was a member of 37th Street Church of Christ, a homemaker and she had worked for Templeton Pharmacy in Abilene for 20 years.

She was married to Lewis Calvin Cox on Nov. 24, 1922 in Clay County, Ark. He died in 1959. She had lived in Snyder since June of 1985 and was a former resident of Clovis, N. M. and Abilene. She is survived by two daughters, Jane Neeley of Rochester Hills, Mich.; one son, Lewis C. Cox, Jr. of Roswell, N. M.; nine grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; one sister, Edna Hitesman of Valparaiso, Ind.; and one brother-in-law, Jess L. Cox of Winne, Ark. Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Dayne Ramey

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—Services for Dayne W. Ramey, 84, of Muskogee, Okla. will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Trinity United Methodist Church in Muskogee. Burial will follow at Memorial Park Cemetery. Ramey, who died Tuesday in Muskogee, was the father of Dr. Joseph H. Ramey of Hermleigh. He is also survived by his wife, Frances of the home; a daughter, Mildred Tackett of Checotah, Okla.; 15 grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; and two step-daughters.

Alta Bowden

MUNDAY—Services are set for 2 p.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church for Alta Virlea Bowden, 88, who died Wednesday at her home. Burial will follow in the Johnson Memorial Cemetery. She was the sister of Mamie Davis of Snyder. Born in Knox City, she was a long-time resident of Munday. She was a homemaker and a member of the First Baptist Church and Munday W.G. Club. Her husband, Chester Bowden, preceded her in death. Survivors include a daughter, Marilyn Preslar of Dallas; another sister, Lera Paulsel of Fort Worth; a brother, G. W. Brown of Plainview; two granddaughters; and two great-granddaughters.

LULAC-Tower

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens has urged the U.S. Senate to confirm the nomination of John Tower as defense secretary. In a telegram sent Wednesday to Vice President Dan Quayle, LULAC president Jose Garcia de Lara said that further delay on the matter may jeopardize the integrity of the nation's defense systems. "We're endorsing the confirmation for (former U.S.) Senator Tower as secretary of defense because our primary concern is the defense of our country against foreign invasion," De Lara said in an interview.

TV interviewer is under guard for alleged insult to Khomeini

LONDON (AP) — A TV interviewer is under guard because an anonymous caller claiming to represent a pro-Iranian group threatened him for allegedly insulting Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, news reports said today. The caller had telephoned news agencies claiming Peter Sissons insulted Khomeini on Saturday while interviewing Iran's former charge d'affaires, Mohammad Mehdi Akhond Zadeh Basti, on an independent television station.

Britain had just recalled its diplomats from Tehran in response to Khomeini's call Feb. 14 for Moslems to seek out and kill British novelist Salman Rushdie and his publishers for his "The Satanic Verses," which many Moslems consider blasphemous. During the interview, Sissons forcefully asked, "Do you understand that we don't regard it as civilized to kill people for their opinions? Do you understand that people in this country fought a world war to protect themselves and others from being murdered for their beliefs?"

The caller said he represented the Guardians of the Islamic Revolution and that Sissons "will pay the price of insulting the Imam Khomeini." Iranian clerics have backed Khomeini's call by offering a bounty of $5.2 million for the head of Rushdie, who was born in India to a Moslem family. Rushdie has since been in hiding under armed police guard. The British Broadcasting Corp.

said today that Sissons, his wife and three children were placed under police guard after the threats by the anonymous caller. More than a dozen European countries have recalled ambassadors from Tehran in response to Khomeini's threat, and some including West Germany have also cut back on their commercial dealings with Iran.

The official Soviet news agency Tass suggested in a commentary that such treatment was too harsh. "Any acts of violence or calls for it, obviously, arouse indignation. At the same time, one cannot fail to notice that the world press has been presenting the conflict in black and white terms, as Iran having thrown down a gauntlet to the West," Wednesday's commentary said.

"But perhaps Imam Khomeini, the supreme religious authority in Iran, had no choice proceeding from Koran teachings, other than denouncing a man who has insulted Islam?"

"The denunciation was nothing more, by the way, than the position of a religious leader," Tass diplomatic correspondent Vadim Biryukov added. "The Iranian government has not condemned order to deal with a motion by North's lawyers to have the indictment against him dismissed. North's lawyers contend that restrictions placed on the defense in the use of classified information are an unconstitutional infringement on his right to a fair trial.

New dispute surfaces in North's court trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another fight over classified material looms in Oliver North's Iran-Contra trial after defense lawyers cross-examine a former Army officer who worked closely with North to help the Nicaraguan Contras.

On Wednesday, John Singlaub, a retired Army major general, testified about a series of contacts with North from 1984 to 1986 when Congress had banned U.S. military aid to the Contras.

The government is trying to prove that North lied to Congress and the attorney general about his efforts to help the Contras during the aid ban. Prosecutors introduced a letter that Singlaub sent to then-CIA Director William Casey a few days before North — then a National Security Council aide — told a House panel he hadn't had any contact with Singlaub for 20 months.

Singlaub's letter to the CIA suggested otherwise, and Singlaub testified that he in fact met with North "maybe six times" from the summer of 1985 to August 1986.

In addition, Singlaub said he had contacts "perhaps one or two times a month" with North through Robert Owen, North's courier to the Contras during the period, and said he spoke to North on the telephone on "four to six" occasions.

The letter to Casey included a list of weapons available for shipment to the Contras. The letter said the list was developed "in conjunction with a member" of the National Security Council "who is knowledgeable of the urgent needs of the United Nicaraguan Opposition with which the U.S. has a continuing interest." Singlaub testified that he was referring to North.

After Singlaub is cross-examined by North lawyer Brendan Sullivan, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell plans to send the jury home for the weekend in order to deal with a motion by North's lawyers to have the indictment against him dismissed. North's lawyers contend that restrictions placed on the defense in the use of classified information are an unconstitutional infringement on his right to a fair trial.

The most recent dispute over such material came this week, when the judge learned that memos the government was trying to censor on national security grounds had already been made public eight months before.

The office of independent counsel Lawrence Walsh opposed the motion to dismiss the charges, saying the government's ability to restrict use of classified material as evidence "is not, as North contends, a reason to conclude that the trial is unworkable."

Prosecutors called Singlaub to the stand to bolster their contention that North lied to Congress. On Aug. 6, 1986, North told the House Intelligence Committee in the White House Situation Room that he had not had any contact with Singlaub in the previous 20 months, according to one of the 12 counts in the indictment against him.

Sniping continues in hills over city

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Snipers in the hills above Caracas kept up their firing early today on troops trying to quell a three-day uprising over price increases that has claimed the lives of at least 200 people, officials said.

The government of this oil-rich country has blamed the rioting and looting — the country's worst unrest in 31 years of democratic rule — on "miniscule" groups of leftist extremists it has not named.

But the scope of the disturbances prompted it to impose martial law and an overnight curfew beginning Tuesday, a day after increases in gasoline prices and transit fares touched off the violence.

On Wednesday night, troops were being shot at in the shantytowns east and west of Caracas

Appleton wins with single ride

This coming Monday, Scurry County residents will recognize Appleton's feat and the other goals he has reached since his graduation in 1982 from Western Texas College.

The 27-year-old cowboy who hails from Clermont, Queensland, Australia now boasts a career earning total of some $600,000 from the professional rodeo circuit.

His winnings plus income from such areas as promotions and work as a model and rodeo spokesman have given him enough earning power to become his own one-man corporation, The Lone Roo, patterned after the kangaroo he has adopted as his official logo.

Tickets for Monday's Dave Appleton Appreciation Banquet are now on sale priced at $5. It will begin at 7 p.m. in the National Guard Armory.

Nationally known rodeo clown Quail Dobbs will appear and former WTC President Dr. Don Newbury will be a featured speaker.

A filmed tribute from professional rodeo announcer Bob Tallman, a perennial supporter of the AJRA National Finals Rodeo in Snyder, is scheduled also.

Austin update

Higher education needs more funds

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas needs to spend about $1 billion more on higher education to make up for inflation, increased enrollment and budget cuts made four years ago, a group of high-powered education boosters said.

"It is critical that this deficiency be eradicated," Jess Hay, former chairman of the University of Texas Board of Regents told a joint session of the Senate Education and Finance committees on Wednesday.

The bulk of the approximately $919 million increase would go toward adjustments for inflation ($292 million), covering the cost of increased enrollment ($279 million), and proposed faculty pay raises ($200 million), Hay said.

Hay, joined by others with the Texas Foundation for Higher Education, said the increase would bring the budgets of the state's 34 general academic institutions and 49 community colleges up to 1985 levels.

Senate members of the two committees responded favorably to the request.

Sales tax option is proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposal that would allow counties to hold local option elections to increase their sales tax rate will be part of a House-backed prison program, Speaker Gib Lewis said.

The proposal is aimed at helping reduce county jail overcrowding. Under the proposal, county officials could ask voters to raise their sales tax rate by up to one-half cent, Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Wednesday.

"What I am endorsing is allowing the counties to vote on a local option basis whether or not they want to impose a sales tax for that county, to be used for the criminal justice system in that county," Lewis said.

The current state sales tax rate is 6 cents per dollar, while both cities and metropolitan transit authorities are allowed to assess one cent. The sales tax rate in Austin, Dallas and Houston is 8 cents per dollar.

Lawmaker: Texas is near revolt

AUSTIN (AP) — Local government leaders say they like a lawmaker's proposal to require the Legislature to pay for programs it forces onto cities, counties and school boards.

Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio, said Wednesday his proposed constitutional amendment would be more fair to cities, counties and school boards — and their property taxpayers — than the current practice of forcing them to pay for requirements dictated by the Legislature.

Tarrant County Judge Roy English hailed the plan, saying his county is scrambling to pay the cost of holding state prison-bound inmates in its jails.

"For 100 years, it was the responsibility of the state" to imprison felons, English said. "A year ago, we had 50 convicted felons; today we have 750 convicted felons in Tarrant County. Our costs have gone up $30,000 a day."

"That, I think is indicative of the type of thing that can happen to a lower level of government," English said.

Morales said Texas property taxpayers are fed up.

"Texas is headed straight toward a property tax revolt. Our homeowners are sick and tired of watching state government place its obligations on the backs of already overburdened local taxpayers," said Rep. Dan Morales, D-San Antonio.

State approves franchise tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A state senator described the Texas tax system as a bad one, even as he and his colleagues were approving a franchise tax measure under a tight deadline.

The Senate on Wednesday approved, 30-1, and sent to the governor a bill that would yield $90 million in franchise taxes this year with higher sums coming in from corporations each year over the next several years.

Gov. Bill Clements was expected to sign the bill into law today, according to a spokesman in his office.

The House approved the same bill on Tuesday, 142-3. Time was important, Sen. Bob Glasgow said, so franchise tax forms can be mailed out by the state comptroller on Friday.

Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said the franchise tax dates back to 1908 and described it as a "horrible tax."

Minor wreck involves three

Police investigated three minor traffic accidents Wednesday, including one involving three vehicles at 7:52 a.m. in the 700 Block of 13th St.

A 1981 Lincoln driven by Jeni Cox of Rt. 3 was in collision with a 1965 Chevrolet driven by Petra Vasquez of 801 23rd St. and a 1981 Chevrolet Suburban driven by Joseph Sickler of 1805 15th St.

At 7:12 a.m. Wednesday at 25th St. and Ave. Q, a 1979 Chevrolet pickup driven by Jerry D. Greene of 2106 KSNY Dr. was in collision with a 1987 International tractor-trailer rig driven by Rocky Johnson of Sweetwater.

The fire department and state highway department were notified about spilled diesel fuel resulting from the accident, an officer said.

At 12:39 p.m. Wednesday in the 3100 Block of 37th St., a 1988 Chevrolet driven by Brandi Bell of 3606 Irving Ave. was in collision with a 1987 Pontiac driven by Rebecca Brown of 3500 44th St.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our son used to take Dilantin. When he got married he quit taking it. When we talk with him on the phone, we can tell he's not thinking right. He's in the armed services, and we're not sure what to do.

DEAR READER: Dilantin is customarily given to people who have seizures. The medicine acts as an anti-convulsant for epileptic patients. If your son was taking the drug for this reason, he should not have discontinued it without being under the supervision of a neurologist.

Patients who require Dilantin may have seizures if they stop the medicine, so your son may be at real risk when operating a motor vehicle, swimming or engaging in dangerous activity. Also, some forms of epilepsy can affect thought processes.

Not all patients who are given Dilantin for convulsions will have to continue treatment indefinitely. If a person has been seizure-free for a year or more, a neurologist might elect to discontinue the drug or reduce its dose to see if the patient will have difficulty without it. However, this drug-free period requires close monitoring, hardly the kind of follow-up a serviceman is likely to receive.

I suggest that you share this information with your son and encourage him to consult with the proper medical authorities. Not only his life but the lives of his comrades may be in jeopardy.

If your son refuses your advice, I think that his civilian doctor should write the physician assigned to your son's military unit and explain the medical history. In this way, both your son and his fellow soldiers will be protected.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Epilepsy — The Falling Sickness."

Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My toes are so itchy, I feel just miserable. I have tried so many remedies for my athletes' foot. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: If your foot problem has not responded to over-the-counter remedies, you may not have athlete's foot. Various types of dermatitis (skin inflammation) can cause symptoms identical to the fungus of athletes' foot. Perhaps you should see a dermatologist to establish the cause of your difficulty.

In treating athletes' foot (skin infection from the fungus T. mentagrophytes), I use a step-wise approach in my practice.

First, Tinactin — an odorless, colorless, non-prescription liquid — is usually effective when applied twice a day and rubbed in well.

If this doesn't work, a prescribed topical imidazole — such as clotrimazole or ciprotriox alamine — applied as directed, usually does the trick.

The third step, for recalcitrant cases, is messy but cheap. Potassium permanganate tablets are dissolved in water and the patient soaks his feet two or three times a day. The chemical kills the fungus and is non-irritating to skin, although it will color the toenails a dark brown.

Finally, for the toughest cases, I prescribe griseofulvin, an oral anti-fungus drug, 250 milligrams four times a day.

I do not use ketoconazole, an oral anti-yeast compound, because it occasionally causes liver toxicity. However, I have been told that in topical cream form, it is effective and safe.

Bishop declines to make presentation

FORT WORTH (AP) — he was emotionally devastated by the consecration of the Episcopal Bishop Clarence C. Pope Jr. said he could not make a presentation to the church's national Executive Council because Pope was asked last year to address the executive council along with other Fort Worth leaders of the 23-county Diocese of Fort Worth.

Presiding Bishop Edmond Browning told Council members Wednesday that he received a letter from Pope a week after the consecration of the Rt. Rev. Barbara Harris declining the invitation.

"He said he was emotionally devastated by the consecration of Barbara Harris and could not make a presentation to this Executive Council," Browning said. Browning said he asked Pope to reconsider, but the Fort Worth bishop refused.

Episcopal leaders should be sensitive to the feelings of Pope and other traditionalists who do not accept women's ordination, Browning said.

Joyce McConnell of Seattle, Wash., a member of the council, said she was "saddened and disappointed" by the failure of Pope to appear with other local leaders for a program about the activities of the Diocese of Fort Worth, which has 57 congregations and 20,000 baptized communicants.

Pope, who attended a luncheon of the Executive Council Wednesday, said his actions should not be misinterpreted. A reception for the Executive Council held Tuesday night after a worship service at All Saints Cathedral served the same purpose as the presentation scheduled at the business meeting, he said.

During the time originally scheduled for the presentation by Pope, Browning told of the consecration services of the Episcopal Church's first woman bishop last month.

"The most exciting thing I've done is the consecration of Barbara Harris on Feb. 11," Browning said. "I felt the deepest abiding presence of the Holy Spirit that I've ever felt. It was overwhelming."

Texas water supply bill introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trio of Texas lawmakers has introduced legislation that would help finance a desalination project on Lake Meredith, the endangered source of drinking water for 430,000 West Texans.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is promising to try to push his bill quickly through Congress because of the salt threat to Lake Meredith, which increases during times of drought.

Reps. Larry Combest, a Lubbock Republican, and Bill Sarpalius, an Amarillo Democrat, have introduced legislation similar to Bentsen's bill.

The legislation calls for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to design and supervise installation of a salt-diversion system at the source of the salt pollution in Lake Meredith.

"Frequently, especially during times of drought, water from Lake Meredith is too salty to drink," Bentsen said in a statement Wednesday accompanying the bill. "The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation has looked into the problem and reports that 70 percent of the salt in Lake Meredith is from a single artesian aquifer."
