Easter services all week

In keeping with an Easter tradition, the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance will sponsor noontime services and meals Monday through Friday as part of the observance of Holy Week.

Monday through Thursday, these services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 2706 Ave. R. On Friday, the week's rites will conclude with an early morning Tennebrae service of candles and readings at the First Methodist Church, 2700 College Ave.

Members of all congregations are invited to the Holy Week events. The noon services will end around 12:30 p.m. and individuals are then invited to have a noon meal in the basement fellowship hall of the Presbyterian church.

At meal time, a goodwill offering will be accepted to cover the costs of preparation and to support the activities of the alliance.

Different congregations in the city will be responsible for the noon meal each day through Thursday.

In Brief

Plane mystery

ROME (AP) — Technical experts concluded Friday that a missile caused the crash of an Italian airliner in 1980, but they failed to determine who fired it.

All 81 people aboard the Itavia DC-9 perished when the plane plunged into the Tyrrhenian Sea on June 27, 1980, during a flight from Bologna to Palermo, Sicily.

The six experts said in a 477-page report that the disaster was caused by a missile exploding in the rear section of the plane.

An airplane near the DC-9 at the time of the incident may have been involved in the disaster, the report said, but added it was not possible to identify the second plane or tell whether it was an aggressor or also a target.

"At this point, we lack sufficient elements to determine the type, the starting point and the identity of the missile" that downed the plane, the experts said in their report.

Two killed

PAVIA, Italy (AP) — A 900-year-old tower collapsed on to a square Friday, killing two people, injuring 15 and damaging an adjacent cathedral. Rescue workers pulled three people from the rubble.

None of those treated at the San Matteo hospital in the northern Italian town of Pavia were injured seriously, doctors said.

Experts said the 255-foot tower crumbled either because of natural decay in the mortar holding the bricks together or because of a sudden sinking following a dry spell that lowered the water table.

Shortly before the thick walls toppled, several rocks fell from the top, prompting passers-by in the square to flee, authorities said.

"The toll could have been higher without that warning," said a spokeswoman for Mayor Sandro Bruni.

Local

Court agenda

Scurry County commissioners Monday will consider specifications for recarpeting the first two floors of the courthouse and will discuss advertising for bids for the project.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting will include a presentation by Raident Barrier roofing material representatives.

Jury call

Jury summonses have been issued for the Monday 132nd District Court trial of a Snyder man who has been indicted for hindering a secured creditor.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Friday, 91 degrees; low, 43 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 43 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1989 to date, 2.51 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Sunday, partly cloudy. High in the lower 70s.

SACROC prepares effort to stabilize loss of production

If oil prices on the world market stabilize in the coming months, SACROC officials say they are committed to a project which holds the promise of curbing annual production declines from the massive Canyon Reef.

If implemented, oil production could be significantly increased in certain portions of the unit, SACROC official say, thereby stabilizing the overall unit rate of production.

For this to occur, however, they say oil prices are needed in the $16 to $18 per barrel range for West Texas Intermediate Crude.

With such oil price incentives, Chevron officials say they now have sufficient supplies of CO2 gas—made possible by newly secured contracts and sources—to begin tertiary recovery operations in other select areas of the reef.

The most adaptable region now projected is the so-called "centerline" area with 16 existing wells targeted.

The hopes for substantial increases in oil production have been buoyed by the results of a pilot injection well using the CO2. When the gas was added to the salt water already injected during secondary recovery operations, the daily production level of the well increased by more than 600 bpd.

This well's injection process began in September of 1987 and, to date, the well has maintained this increased average of around 600 bpd.

Based upon this pilot test, SACROC has now converted four more of the 16 wells.

If oil prices will hold in the $18 per barrel range, company officials are looking at completing the conversion of all 16 during 1989.

Following the assumption that all 16 were to be eventually converted and produced at levels in line with the pilot project, the results multiply out to an added estimate of 9,600 barrels of oil daily.

Company engineers are more conservative in their estimates, however, figuring a potential increase of some 6,000 bpd. Even at this "conservative" level, this would represent a six-fold increase over the amount of oil produced in 1988 in the centerline area.

SACROC's production of oil during 1988 declined by an estimated 11 percent, going from more than 32,000 bpd to an average of some 29,000 bpd, a loss of 3,000 barrels.

To compare the decline of reserves in the Canyon Reef, in 1980, SACROC was able to produce oil at a rate of 79,596 bpd.

Price curbs SACROC Gross income falls 45 percent

SACROC's production of oil during 1988 from Scurry County's Canyon Reef declined by an estimated 11 percent, but the wildly fluctuating price of oil resulted in a drop in gross income at the unitized field of more than 45 percent.

These facts and others are noted as part of the annual report from SACROC to its working interest owners.

For '88, SACROC officials had initially projected an average price of $18 per barrel, but the oil market's instability resulted in an average price of $15.30 for West Texas Intermediate crude. The daily oil production for 1988 was an average of some 29,000 barrels of oil per day (bpd), compared to over 32,000 the previous year.

The possibility for continued fluctuations in the price of oil during 1989 has also prompted SACROC officials to break down projections for the coming year into three different scenarios, each based on a different price of oil.

The "best case" for Scurry County would see prices in the range of $18 per barrel. If this occurred, the value of Canyon Reef oil production could actually increase over 1988's.

This assumes SACROC production levels in the range of almost 26,900 barrels per day. While this is a decrease from actual production during '88, an $18 value applied to it would see the estimated value of this production increase by more than 8 percent.

With the scenario of $15 per barrel oil, the production would drop to just over 26,000 bpd due to shut-in wells.

Ticket sales brisk for chamber event

Chamber officials report that ticket sales for next Saturday's chamber banquet in the coliseum are already near the 300 mark and "going fast," interest apparently sparked by speaker Henry Cisneros, mayor of San Antonio.

The 41-year-old Cisneros enjoys a nationwide reputation as both an administrator and politician, as evidenced by his being interviewed in 1984 by Democratic Party officials as a potential vice presidential candidate.

He has also been widely discussed as a potential candidate for governor of Texas.

In 1987, then-Vice President George Bush asked him to assist in the briefing of Soviet General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev during the Washington summit meeting.

Cisneros has been mayor of San Antonio since 1981, previously serving as a city council member from 1975-81. He holds a master of public administration degree from Harvard University and both his undergraduate degree and a masters in urban and regional planning from Texas A&M.

His honors include being named a White House Fellow from 1971-72 and being named one of the "Ten Outstanding Young Men in America" by the U.S. Jaycees in 1982.

Candidate filing date draws near

Wednesday is the last day to file as a candidate for the May 6 election involving three seats on the Snyder city council and two on the Snyder school board.

Snyder ISD is on spring break this week, but the administration building will be open through Wednesday to accommodate potential candidates.

Filing for city council positions takes place at city hall.

The city election includes a contested race for mayor. Incumbent Troy Williamson, 51, owner of Williamson Auto Supply, is seeking his second term. He has been on the council since 1983, serving three years as a councilman.

He is opposed by Alfred Kohl, 60, a former city fire chief and city department head who retired in 1984 with 30 years service to the city.

In addition, four candidates are announced for two at-large council seats due to expire in May. These include, in order of filing, incumbent Paul Zeck, 38, president of Y-Z Industries and a member of the council since April of 1987; Mike Thornton, 40, director of adult and continuing education at Western Texas Col-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "When you're dog-tired at night, it may be because you've growled all day."

Dust off those golf clubs, hunt the mate to the other jogging shoe, or just plan to walk—because Monday is the first day of spring.

Most likely the first quarter of 1989 was spent violating all the promises made at the beginning of the year. If you use a special occasion, such as the end of winter, you can still get a head start on three-fourths of the year. But be careful, if you wait until summer, that swim suit from last year likely won't be adequate.

That's the way the cookie crumbles....

A man has pleaded guilty to forgery and was jailed. However, he denied having unreported income from the forgery. Despite the denial, he had a hard time explaining why he had a Cadillac and $15,600 in cash.

The U.S. tax courts agreed with the IRS and rejected the man's contention that he got the money "selling cookies in prison."

The idea that attitudes tend to become more conservative and more rigid with age is a myth, according to Vermont University researchers.

They concluded that as people grow older, their attitudes change in the same general direction and about the same pace as the views of society as a whole.

On such issues as race, premarital sex, distribution of birth control information, death penalty and equal rights in the work place, all four age groups studied became consistently more liberal on issues during a 25-year period.

On law enforcement issues, the country became more liberal on attitudes toward marijuana but more conservative on capital punishment. However, on capital punishment, the oldest group actually showed to be the most liberal.

All that just goes to show you can prove almost anything or nothing with figures.

Tougher inspections planned...

Fruit from Chile to return to market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chilean fruit could be back in U.S. stores next week under an intensified inspection plan designed to assure the safety of the produce after traces of cyanide were found in two grapes last week.

The Bush administration cleared the way Friday for new shipments of Chilean fruit with announcement of an inspection plan that officials said will provide "maximum feasible safety" of the fruit and end a week-long health scare.

Under the plan, fruit held by importers, wholesalers and retailers in the United States "that cannot be practically inspected" will be destroyed, while fruit at the docks, on ships or awaiting export in Chile will be subjected to heightened inspections, officials said.

"This is a plan that deals with safety and what is maximum feasible," said Frank Young, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration.

Responsibility to see that fruit already in the United States is destroyed lies with state health departments, Young said.

Neither FDA nor representatives of Chilean exporters could give figures on the value of the fruit to be destroyed.

Young said questions about who would bear the cost of the lost fruit are also not his to consider.

"I've got to look at safety, I've got to look at the scientific data and I can't allow economics or politics to move into those decisions," the FDA commissioner said.

A third poisoning threat was telephoned to the U.S. Embassy in Santiago on Friday, sometime before the plan was announced in the early afternoon Friday, Young said.

Young said officials believe the caller may have been the same Spanish-speaking man who made the two earlier threats that prompted the inspections that found the tainted grapes.

About 5 percent of Chilean fruit at U.S. docks or in transit to the United States will be visually inspected, and all suspicious-looking fruit will be subjected to laboratory tests before it is released for sale.

In Chile, fruit to be exported will be subject to increased security, inspections and lab tests. An FDA team will be sent to Chile soon to assist and observe their procedures, Young said.

"It is impossible to assure 100 percent safety," without checking every piece of fruit, he said.

Chilean grapes, which make up the bulk of grapes on sale this time of year, and other fruit could be back on the shelves of U.S. stores in five to nine days, he said.

Young said grapes — which constitute about 70 percent of Chile's sales in the United States — raspberries, blueberries, blackberries and strawberries will be the first fruit released because cyanide contamination of them is the easiest to spot since the fruit discolors quickly and becomes mushy.

He said buyers should look for needle marks, any unusual appearance or discoloration or a chemical or 'burned almond' smell.

Young said the inspections of 13,000 crates of fruit since small amounts of cyanide were found in two seedless red grapes last weekend turned up no additional evidence of contamination.

Bush, others wants to buy Rangers

DALLAS (AP) — George W. Bush, the president's son, and the group he is leading will buy the Texas Rangers baseball team.

"It's very important that the team stays in Texas and Bush has agreed to keep it here in the Metroplex," said team owner Eddie Chiles, who agreed Friday to sell his 58 percent interest in the major-league team Friday.

Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth helped assemble the Bush group last month in Dallas. The group includes Edward "Rusty" Rose of Dallas, Richard Rainwater of Fort Worth and Bill DeWitte Jr. of Cincinnati.

Chiles, who declined to give the purchase price, said he chose the Bush group because he wanted local ownership and "because they were the first to come up with an offer that I thought was good." Bush, 42, is an energy consultant for Harken Energy Corp. He is the largest individual stockholder of the company, based in Bedford, a Dallas suburb.

Voters will not be attacked

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas trying to sabotage Sunday's elections with a boycott and transportation ban have assured voters they won't be attacked if they go to the polls.

However, some election workers in the capital and eastern areas resigned Friday, saying they had been threatened. Two mayors also quit after similar warnings.

Despite the resignations, soldiers were ready to distribute presidential ballots Saturday to 236 of the nation's 260 municipalities. The exceptions are 24 municipalities under the control of the rebel Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front.

Attorney General Roberto Garcia on Friday asked radio stations to censor rebel dispatches and not broadcast appeals from the guerrillas for an election boycott. Some statements were broadcast anyway.

The Christian Democrat party of President Jose Napoleon Duarte is trying to retain power with candidate Fidel Chavez Mena, a former foreign minister who says he represents new leadership and dismisses charges of corruption and incompetence. Duarte has liver cancer and by law cannot run for re-election.

The front-runner, according to the polls, is businessman Alfredo Cristiani, leader of the rightist and free market Republican Nationalist Alliance, or Arena. That party, which in the past has been linked to rightist death squads, already holds a slim edge in the Salvadoran congress.

Running third in the polls after Chavez Mena is Guillermo Ungo, a left-wing Social Democrat who returned from exile in 1979. Four other candidates are not given much chance in the polls of affecting the outcome.

Accurate polling is difficult in El Salvador, where nine years of civil war and 70,000 deaths have made many people reluctant to express their real preferences.

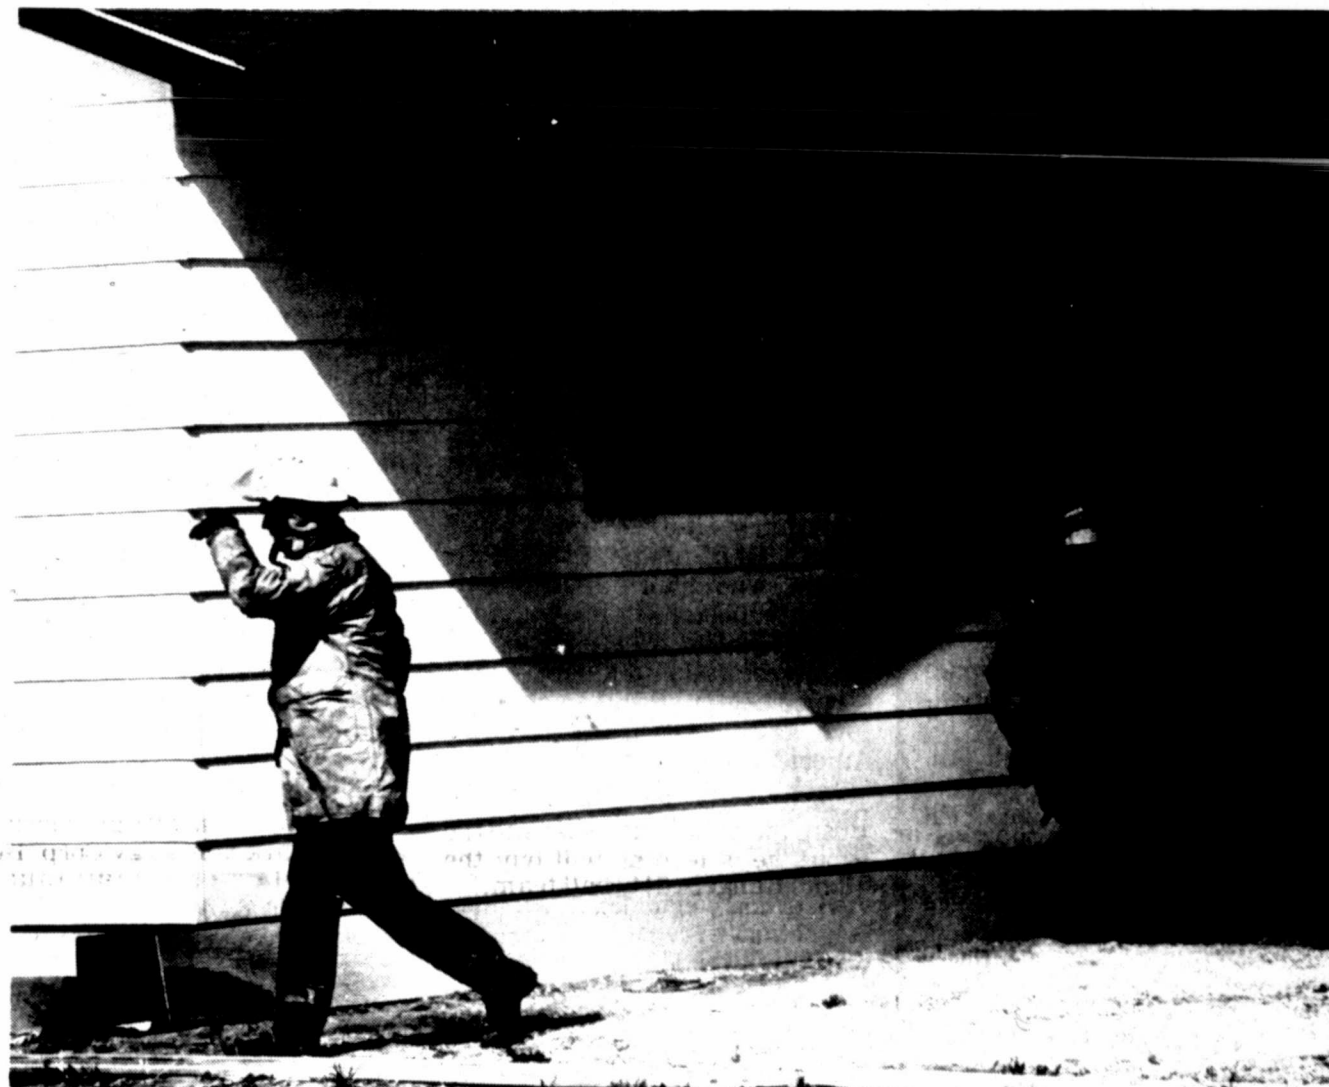

The winner will replace Duarte, whose has been supported by the United States in its efforts to reinforce a Democratic middle ground against rightist and leftist extremes. The leading parties squabbled over placement of polling booths in the capital, San Salvador. The Christian Democrats and Democratic Convergence said Arena is trying to make the booths hard to reach.

The mayors of Chalatenango, the northern provincial capital, and Metapan, a northwestern city, resigned Friday under rebel warnings. More than half the country's municipalities are without mayors, and nine mayors have been assassinated.

2 fatalities in military crash

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A cargo plane carrying explosives crashed after takeoff from Carswell Air Force Base early today, killing the two people on board and igniting numerous fires, authorities said.

"The area is being cordoned off until daylight. It's my understanding this plane was loaded with explosives," said Robert Parkey, an investigator for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office.

Lt. Brad Schudt said the two people killed likely were civilians since the DC-9 was under contract to the Air Force from a private company. Their identities were not immediately available.

Pentagon spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Edward Lundquist said in Washington initial indications from the Air Force were that the cargo included explosive fuses.

Lundquist said the plane was operated by Evergreen Air, a private contractor based in Oregon.

The plane was en route to Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma when the crash occurred about 2:30 a.m. CST, Senior Airman Mark Webb said.

The plane crashed into a field about five miles north of the base, and the fire department was at the scene.

Dallas bartender exceeded his authority

DALLAS (AP) — For one night in a Dallas bar, everything was on the house — even much of the house itself. Dallas police say a brash bartender, without the owner's permission, apparently gave away $2,000 worth of liquor, beer and wine. He also gave away or sold tables, chairs, glasses, a television set and 15 neon beer signs.

Not that there would have been any cash register in which to store money. Police say he gave that away, too. "It was a drinks-on-me-type atmosphere," police investigator Michael Falls told the Dallas Times Herald. The bar's owner, Jimmy Fields of Garland, discovered the loss when he arrived at the Subs Club about 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Several patrons told him that the 64-year-old manager informed those in the bar at 5 p.m. that they could have anything they wanted on the house. "Apparently their liquor license was expiring and they were going to close shop," Falls said. "The manager may have just taken advantage of the situation. He apparently decided to just go ahead and give everything away."

Falls said he already has tracked down one person who got in on the windfall happy hour — a 27-year-old woman who was still tipsy when he awakened her. She told police a tale of a going-out-of-business sale gone crazy.

Tejano music awards are given out

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ramiro Herrera of San Antonio and Selena Quintanilla of Houston took top honors as male and female entertainers of the year at the ninth annual Tejano Music Award ceremonies Friday.

The two won the same categories last year. Ms. Quintanilla also won female vocalist of the year, while Joe Lopez, lead singer of Grupo Mazz of Brownsville, won in the male vocalist of the year competition.

David Marez of San Antonio won the song of the year category for his tune, "Fijate," and Luis Silva of San Antonio repeated as songwriter of the year for the seventh time in nine years.

Los Dudes of San Antonio, a duo that uses keyboards and synthesizers to create music, was named the Most Promising Band of the Year.

David Lee y Los Musicales, a Poteet-based conjunto band, took the single of the year category with "Mi Quieres Tu y Te Quiero Yo," and their "Tour 88" album was named the album of the year in the conjunto category.

Marez's "Sold Out" LP won in the orchestra album of the year category.

The ceremonies were cohosted by singer Vikki Carr and comedian-actor Cheech Marin.

Employees linked to drug probe

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Six employees of the Internal Revenue Service center in Austin who were linked to an IRS investigation into use and possible distribution of drugs have resigned or offered to resign because of the inquiry, officials said.

U.S. Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Austin, who chairs an IRS watchdog subcommittee, said late Friday that he was shocked by the investigation and that every service center should be checked for drug use, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Jack Crum, spokesman for the IRS Service Center in Austin, said while only one of the six has been charged, results of the investigation conducted by the IRS inspection service will be forwarded to the U.S. attorney's office for possible criminal prosecution.

Five managers are among the six workers linked to the investigation, agency officials said.

Pickle, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee's subcommittee on oversight, which oversees administration of the U.S. Tax Code and IRS functions, said drug use and trafficking among IRS employees cannot be tolerated.

"I am shocked and dismayed that this has been going on," Pickle told the American-Statesman. The congressman said he knew little about the investigation, but added, "I sure am going to find out."

Pickle said the idea of drug use by IRS workers "causes concern to me, and I think we'll have to check every center to see if (drug use) is involved. I can't pass judgment on whether they're guilty, but if it is proven that this type of activity is going on at the center, it can't be tolerated."

The employee who has been charged is Jesus Castro. He was indicted in June by a federal grand jury on five counts of distribution of a controlled substance. Castro pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six years in federal prison in October. He resigned at the time of his conviction, Crum said.

In Castro's case, Crum said, he did not know if the drugs — which included marijuana, cocaine and amphetamines — had been distributed at the service center. He would not say whether investigators believe the other employees distributed drugs at the center.

Moore quits role

LONDON (AP) — Actor Roger Moore, who is pulling out of Andrew Lloyd Webber's new musical "Aspects of Love," will be replaced by his understudy for the part.

Kevin Colson, an Australian who recently starred in the musical "Chess," will take over Moore's role and the show will open as planned April 12 at the Prince of Wales theater, said a spokesman for the production.

Colson had been scheduled to take over the Moore part — the dashing George Dillingham — in October. The part of Dillingham is the third-largest in the musical after those of two young romantic leads.

But Moore, 61, who's probably most famous for his James Bond role in the movies, said earlier this week he was having "terrible nightmares" about it and felt he lacked musical expertise.

His departure came six weeks into rehearsals for the show, which is sold out through December.

Lloyd Webber's most recent musical was "Phantom of the Opera."

In 1948, President Harry S. Truman signed the Marshall Plan, which allocated more than $5 billion in aid for 16 European countries.

Another rural hospital has to close its doors

BUFFALO, Texas (AP) — The administrator of Leon Memorial Hospital says a decision to close the doors on the county's only hospital is further evidence of the rural health care crisis facing Texas.

John Stevens placed much of the blame on the Medicare and Medicaid systems of reimbursement in which rural hospitals receive less money than those in urban areas for similar treatments.

Leon Memorial was shut down at 2 p.m. Friday. It joins more than 70 hospitals that have closed in Texas since 1984, the majority of them in rural areas.

Owner Gerald Tipword made the decision to close the facility, Stevens said.

Rep. Mike McKinney, D-Centerville, who is leading the battle in the Legislature to rescue the ailing health care system, was chief of staff at Leon Memorial.

"I was there the day it opened in 1977, and I'm here on the day that it's closing," McKinney told the Bryan-College Station Eagle. "It's like losing a member of the family."

Buffalo paramedic Julie Morrison said the closure would be felt most in the distance that patients will now have to be transported for treatment.

"With Interstate 45 running all the way through Leon County, we have a lot of accident calls," she said. "With our hospital closed, the nearest place to take people is Fairfield, which is 20 miles away."

Although he knew the hospital's closing was imminent, Stevens said Friday's move surprised him.

"I had known the situation was bad, but I thought there were still some things that could have been done to save it," he said.

Too late to save Leon Memorial, which Stevens said lost $44,000 last year, was McKinney's Omnibus Rural Health Care Rescue Act, which was introduced last week to mend what he termed the inequitable federal and state methods of funding the state's hospitals.

The bill seeks to raise the minimum amount a hospital can be paid for admitting a patient, to establish an office of rural health care within the Texas Department of Health and to ensure that the federally administered Medicare program doesn't discriminate against rural hospitals.

McKinney said the closure of Leon Memorial would have no bearing on his support for the bill.

Dallas bartender exceeded his authority

DALLAS (AP) — For one night in a Dallas bar, everything was on the house — even much of the house itself. Dallas police say a brash bartender, without the owner's permission, apparently gave away $2,000 worth of liquor, beer and wine. He also gave away or sold tables, chairs, glasses, a television set and 15 neon beer signs. Not that there would have been any cash register in which to store money. Police say he gave that away, too. "It was a drinks-on-me-type atmosphere," police investigator Michael Falls told the Dallas Times Herald. The bar's owner, Jimmy Fields of Garland, discovered the loss

when he arrived at the Subs Club about 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Several patrons told him that the 64-year-old manager informed those in the bar at 5 p.m. that they could have anything they wanted on the house. "Apparently their liquor license was expiring and they were going to close shop," Falls said. "The manager may have just taken advantage of the situation. He apparently decided to just go ahead and give everything away."

Falls said he already has tracked down one person who got in on the windfall happy hour — a 27-year-old woman who was still tipsy when he awakened her. She told police a tale of a going-out-of-business sale gone crazy.

Tejano music awards are given out

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ramiro Herrera of San Antonio and Selena Quintanilla of Houston took top honors as male and female entertainers of the year at the ninth annual Tejano Music Award ceremonies Friday.

The two won the same categories last year.

Ms. Quintanilla also won female vocalist of the year, while Joe Lopez, lead singer of Grupo Mazz of Brownsville, won in the male vocalist of the year competition.

David Marez of San Antonio won the song of the year category for his tune, "Fijate," and Luis Silva of San Antonio repeated as songwriter of the year for the seventh time in nine years.

Los Dudes of San Antonio, a duo that uses keyboards and synthesizers to create music, was named the Most Promising Band of the Year.

David Lee y Los Musicales, a Poteet-based conjunto band, took the single of the year category with "Mi Quieres Tu y Te Quiero Yo," and their "Tour 88" album was named the album of the year in the conjunto category.

Marez's "Sold Out" LP won in the orchestra album of the year category.

The ceremonies were cohosted by singer Vikki Carr and comedian-actor Cheech Marin.

Employees linked to drug probe

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Six employees of the Internal Revenue Service center in Austin who were linked to an IRS investigation into use and possible distribution of drugs have resigned or offered to resign because of the inquiry, officials said.

U.S. Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Austin, who chairs an IRS watchdog subcommittee, said late Friday that he was shocked by the investigation and that every service center should be checked for drug use, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Jack Crum, spokesman for the IRS Service Center in Austin, said while only one of the six has been charged, results of the investigation conducted by the IRS inspection service will be forwarded to the U.S. attorney's office for possible criminal prosecution.

Five managers are among the six workers linked to the investigation, agency officials said.

Pickle, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee's subcommittee on oversight, which oversees administration of the U.S. Tax Code and IRS functions, said drug use and trafficking among IRS employees cannot be tolerated.

"I am shocked and dismayed that this has been going on," Pickle told the American-Statesman. The congressman said he knew little about the investigation, but added, "I sure am going to find out."

Pickle said the idea of drug use by IRS workers "causes concern to me, and I think we'll have to check every center to see if (drug use) is involved. I can't pass judgment on whether they're guilty, but if it is proven that this type of activity is going on at the center, it can't be tolerated."

The employee who has been charged is Jesus Castro. He was indicted in June by a federal grand jury on five counts of distribution of a controlled substance. Castro pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six years in federal prison in October. He resigned at the time of his conviction, Crum said.

In Castro's case, Crum said, he did not know if the drugs — which included marijuana, cocaine and amphetamines — had been distributed at the service center. He would not say whether investigators believe the other employees distributed drugs at the center.

SHS boys in finals of net tournament

Snyder boys appeared to be on the verge of capturing the championship in the Snyder Tennis Tournament here Saturday.

Some 120 matches were played Friday on the junior high, high school and Sacroc courts in a day-long session that finished under the lights. Play was expected to be completed by mid-afternoon Saturday.

Friday, Snyder boys advanced its doubles teams of Brandon Martin and Alfred Brice, and Michael Rodriguez and Kevin Winter to the finals. Singles players John Griffin and Stetson Merritt had two matches remaining and were to go after seventh through tenth place.

Those outcomes left the Tigers 66 points with a possible 70 in reach. Plainview, which sent Jeremy McKinnis and Jody Arrington to the finals in singles play, has wrapped up second place. Plainview's doubles teams were to battle for 12th and 14th in the competition.

Sweetwater, San Angelo Lake View, Abilene High JV and Cooper JV were all in a battle for third place.

In girl's action, Lake View guaranteed itself first place on Friday by placing a singles player and a doubles team in the finals. Lake View had 64 points with a possibility of adding 11 more. Teams close for second place included Sweetwater, 47 points with a possible 58; Andrews, 46 points with a possible 59; and Abilene High JV, 48 points with a possible 57.

The girl's singles final was to pit Carol Rogers of Andrews against Lake View's Deana Martinez. In doubles, Beth Bartlett and Sue Lynn Hughes of Sweetwater were to face Diana Garcia and Adele Hippe of Lake View.

Lady Dusters defeated 72-70 by Hilbert College in Tyler

TYLER - Coach Kelly Chadwick had almost predicted the outcome of Friday's balgame between Western Texas and Hilbert College before it happened.

"We don't play very well for fifth place," said the Region V Coach of the Year following Thursday's 78-74 loss to second-ranked Florida College at the women's NJCAA National Tournament. "We'll go out there and try, but it will be tough to have the same intensity we had earlier."

Western built a solid lead early and held on for a five-point advantage at halftime, but lost to the New York based Lady Hawks, 72-70.

"We didn't play well and we got beat. I think the game last night (against Florida) took a lot out of us," said Chadwick. "I'm not sure you can criticize the kids for that. I don't know if you can ask the kids to play with the same kind of intensity. They've played all year long to be No. 1 and that's what they were after. We didn't get it but I guess we finished, well, about eighth in the nation or so and it's been a good year."

Western led 31-25 at halftime but lost the lead early in the second half and chased Hilbert the rest of the way. The Lady Dusters tied the score down the stretch but couldn't hold it. After a Christie McGee free throw lifted the Hawks up 71-70, Western had time for a final shot. Julie Roewe got underneath and put the ball up. It wouldn't fall, and Hilbert rebounded. The Hawks added another free throw with the clock reading zero.

"Hilbert has a good team. They came back and played real hard and it's no disgrace to lose to them. I think we're a better ballclub, we just didn't have the intensity," said Chadwick.

Western was led by Nickey Allen and Tami Wilson, who scored 19 and 18 points respectively. Stacy Smith bagged 10, Roewe 8 and Bobbie Brown 7.

Hilbert, 28-3, got 27 points from 6-3 freshman post Kieishsha Garnes and 22 from 5-10 sophomore Ruth Lovelace.

The Lady Dusters, co-champions of the Western JC Athletic Conference, Region V winners and one of the "Final Eight" of the NJCAA National Tournament, complete their season at 27-10.

Hilbert 72, Western Texas 70
HILBERT (72) - Starling 2 0-4; Simpson 0 1-2; McGee 3 2-6; Lovelace 10 2-4 22; Nolan 3 0-0; McDonald 1 1-2 3; Garnes 12 3-5 27; TOTALS 31 9-19 72
WESTERN TEXAS (70) - Smith 3 4-5 10; Roewe 4 0-8; Brown 3 0-0 7; Walton 2 0-1 4; Harris 0 0-1 0; Allen 8 3-4 19; Maddox 1 2-4 4; Wilson 9 0-5 18; TOTALS 30 9-20 70
Halftime: Western 31, Hilbert 25; 3-Point Goals: Hilbert 1 (McGee), Western 1 (Brown); Fouls: Hilbert 19, Western 17; Fouled Out: None; Records: Hilbert 28-3, Western 27-10.

Chadwick takes over at Howard

BIG SPRING - It's all in the family.

Royce Chadwick, son of Western Texas College coach Kelly Chadwick, will take over the reins at Howard College as women's basketball coach.

The younger Chadwick, 31, fashioned a 40-42 record in three seasons at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville. He is 80-68 overall, counting two years at Panhandle State University.

Chadwick's 1987-88 team at Sam Houston State went 18-9; posting the school's best record in six years.

Chadwick will replace Don Stevens, who retired after the 1988-89 season. Stevens led the Hawk Queens to a Region V championship in 1980.

Neither Royce Chadwick nor Kelly Chadwick - whose Dusters were returning from the women's NJCAA National Tournament on Friday evening - was available for immediate comment.

Howard and Western Texas both compete in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

READY FOR THE RELAYS - Snyder High School pole vaulter Charles Guynes was expected to be one of the school's top competitors at Saturday's Canyon Reef Relays at Tiger Stadium.

Guynes recently cleared 13-3 at ing finals set for 2 p.m. (SDN Odessa. The annual meet was to begin in the morning, with run-

In Midwest Regionals...

UT eliminates Georgia Tech

DALLAS (AP) - Missouri emerged from the NCAA tournament's first round for the first time in four appearances, and Florida barely made an appearance as four teams were sent home from the Midwest sub-regional.

The Tigers earned a trip to the second round on Sunday by dispatching Creighton 85-69, while Florida fell to Colorado State 68-46 on Friday to advance.

Defeating Bucknell 104-81, Syracuse showed what it could do without Derrick Coleman in the lineup, and Texas showed it could play with an Atlantic Coast Conference team, eliminating Georgia Tech 76-70.

"I've been preaching for months that our conference is one of the most underrated conferences in the country," said Texas coach Tom Penders, a newcomer to the Southwest Conference whose team will face Missouri on Sunday. "Our kids proved tonight we belong here."

Travis Mays led the Longhorns, 25-8, with 23 points, including five 3-pointers. The Yellow Jackets' Brian Oliver had 24 and Tom Hammonds had 18.

"Their perimeter game is very dangerous, and Texas came to play," said Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins, whose team finished at 20-12. "It's one of the better perimeter games I've seen because they do such a good job of penetrating."

The Tigers, 28-7, spared interim coach Rich Daly the shame of heading home after its first tourney game, something Missouri has suffered through for the last three years.

"It's embarrassing to go back to your hotel and leave on the same night you play," said Daly, who took over coaching duties for Norm Stewart after the head coach was diagnosed with cancer. "We've done that three years in a row."

Missouri was felled by Alabama-Birmingham in 1986, Xavier in 1987 and Rhode Island last year.

This year Creighton's Chad Gallagher nearly sent Missouri home early again, scoring 22 points, including 16 in the first period. The Tigers were down by five with seconds to go in the first half when Doug Smith hit a 3-pointer to make it 39-37.

"I practice that shot every day," he said. "Coach won't let me leave until I make it."

The Bluejays ended the season at 20-11.

Another team that made an early exit last year, Syracuse should be back at full strength with the return of Coleman.

Out with back problems on Friday, he is expected to play Sunday against Colorado State, but was barely missed against Bucknell.

Freshman Billy Owens had 13 rebounds and scored 27 points on 12-of-17 shooting to lead the Orangemen, 28-7, who had little trouble with the Bison, 23-8.

"Without Derrick I knew I was going to have to pick up the scoring slack," said Owens, who is three points away. "I got some great passes from Sherman Douglas."

All-American Douglas, the NCAA's all-time assist leader, had nine assists.

Bucknell was led by Mike Butts' 22 points but fell victim to the Orangemen's press.

"We finally solved Syracuse's press then (Matt) Roe hurt us with his outside shooting," said Bucknell guard Mike Joseph.

Roe had 19, including four 3-pointers, for Syracuse.

Deadly outside shooting and a slow tempo lifted Colorado State over a Gator team that was never really in the game.

Florida, 21-13, shot 39 percent from the floor, committed 18 turnovers and got just eight points from forward Livingston Chatman, the most valuable player at the Southeast Conference tourney.

To play twice Saturday...

Tigers blitz Vernon, 21-4

Coach Albert Lewis was to send his Tigers against Brownfield in the winner's bracket of the annual Snyder Baseball Tournament here Saturday.

Snyder and the Cubs were to take the field at 10 a.m. The winner was to advance and play Brownwood in the tournament championship game at 5 p.m. Saturday. The loser was to play a Canyon-Vernon winner at 3 p.m.

for third place. Canyon and Vernon were to play at 12:30 p.m.

In games Friday, the Tigers got 14 hits to run past Vernon 12-4, while Brownwood downed Canyon 12-2 and Lamesa beat Sweetwater 12-2. Later in the day, Pecos stopped Lamesa 9-7.

Tommy Lane and Bart Morton combined for six-hit pitching in Friday's win over Vernon.

Snyder jumped out to a five-run, first-inning lead on singles from Jason West, Randy Morris, Lane and Simon Gutierrez and on two Vernon errors. The Tigers added another run in the third, and three each in the fourth and seventh innings.

Bert Otto led the way, going three-for-three with a pair of doubles. West hit a triple and was two-for-four. Tracy Odom was also two-for-four with a double while Lane and Toby Goodwin were both two-for-two and Morris was two-for-five with a double.

Vernon batters struck out 14 times. The Lions got three runs in the fifth on a single, an error and two walks, and added one more run in the sixth.

Snyder was to take a 7-3 record into Saturday morning's game with Brownfield.

Bush group set to buy Rangers

DALLAS (AP) - George Bush the younger could soon become George Bush the owner of the Texas Rangers.

Rangers owner Eddie Chiles told The Associated Press Friday that he has agreed to sell controlling interest in the American League ballclub to a group led by the president's eldest son, George W. Bush.

A formal announcement is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Bush has an unlisted phone number and could not immediately be reached for comment Friday.

Bush's group - which reportedly also includes Bill DeWitte Jr., son of the former owner of the Cincinnati Reds, Fort Worth businessman Richard Rainwater and Ed "Rusty" Rose of Dallas - is likely to encounter less opposition from major league owners than did Oklahoma businessman Edward L. Gaylord.

Owners rejected Gaylord's bid last month after expressing concern that his broadcast dealings may not benefit the sport.

But Bush and his partners were practically hand-picked by Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth to take over the team. After Gaylord's bid was rejected, Ueberroth held meetings in Dallas last month that resulted in the development of Bush's group.

Bush grew up in Midland and Houston and served in the Texas Air National Guard. He formed a small oil company in 1975 after returning to Midland with a Harvard business degree.

The company slowly grew and in 1986 was merged with Harken Oil & Gas, now Harken Energy Corp., an independent explorer and marketer. Bush, 42, is an energy consultant for Harken and is the largest individual stockholder of the company, based in Bedford, a Dallas suburb.

Bush sold his oil business in Midland before he went on the presidential campaign trail for his father.

Bush served as senior adviser to his father's campaign and at the Republican National Convention read the vote total of the Texas delegation, which put his father over the total required for nomination.

"Those who liked me said I was the eyes and ears of the campaign," he said. "Those who didn't said I was the campaign's Bobby Kennedy. Either way I had a great experience, a fascinating time."

paigned, Bush moved his wife, Laura, and twin daughters Barbara and Jenna to Dallas.

Bush's only other political experience was an unsuccessful run for a West Texas Congressional seat in 1978, which he lost to then Democrat Kent Hance.

But recently Bush has expressed interest in being the Republican candidate for governor.

Karl Rove, a Republican Party political consultant and consultant to Bush said the purchase of the Rangers would make no difference in Bush's political moves. "It's a separate deal. It's a business deal separate from political aspirations," Rove said.

END OF THE INNING - A Vernon Lions first baseman nabbed an infield pop-up to end the first inning against the Snyder Tigers Friday after the Tigers had knocked in five runs. Snyder went on to defeat the Lions 12-4 and earn a berth in Saturday's 10 a.m. semi-final tournament game at Moffett Field. The championship contest was set for 5 p.m. (SDN Staff Photo)

Bruce Lietzke survives scare to hold Players tourney lead

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - The devil made him do it, Bruce Lietzke said.

"It was like I had a little devil on one shoulder saying 'hit the 3-iron,'" Lietzke said, "and there was a little angel on the other shoulder saying 'hit the wedge, hit the wedge.'"

"And I just brushed the angel off my shoulder."

He hit the 3-iron, which he knew he shouldn't do, and got it in the water on the 16th hole in the second round of the $1.35 million Players Championship.

But the brushed-away angel was a persistent little fellow and must have been watching as Lietzke took his drop, hit his fourth shot to 10 feet and made the par putt that preserved his lead on Friday.

And when South African David Frost bogeyed two of his last three holes, Lietzke's lead grew to two shots at the halfway point of the annual championship of golf's touring pros.

The veteran Lietzke, winner of 11 titles and more than $2 million in a 15-year PGA Tour career, completed two trips over the TPC course at Sawgrass in 135, nine under par.

Frost, who won two American titles last year, had a 71 and was at 137 in the chase for a $243,000 first prize.

Fred Couples shot a 70 and was another stroke back at 138.

Defending champion Mark McCormack and those old Texas teammates Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite led a group of eight at 139.

McCormack and Kite each had a 70, with Kite's effort spiced by an eagle-three on the second hole. Crenshaw matched par 72.

Dan Pohl, Chip Beck, Paul Azinger, Gary Koch and South African Fulton Allem also were at five under par.

Beck shot 68, with a rallying 31 on his back nine. Allem had a 69 despite "feeling dizzy from the flu." Koch also had a 69. Pohl had

Sets black bass record

Gary Gale of Snyder has set a new record for Lake J.B. Thomas. Using an artificial lure, Thomas reeled in a black bass weighing 9-12, eclipsing the record set in 1984 by Leroy Geddie of Colorado City. The previous black bass record was 9 lbs.

Terese Rogers of Snyder also caught a black bass which weighed 6 1/2 lbs. Lake officials reported black bass fishing to be generally good with slight improvement in crappie catches along with some white bass with stringers up to 20. Bass fishermen had best results in three to five feet of water along brushy areas.

In tournament results at Lake Thomas, Johnny Spruell of the Snyder Bass Club had 11 and three-quarters pounds for three fish. George Lowe had two fish for a total of 10 lbs., 10 oz.; Wendell Pinkerton weighed in four fish at 8 and a fourth pounds. The biggest fish caught in the tournament was 8 lbs., 2 ozs.

Representing the Colorado City Bass Club, Snyder's Gary Gale had three fish weighed in for a total of 18 lbs., 1 oz.

In other fish reports, Joe Liles of Snyder caught 50 crappie.

National Invitation Tournament...

Oklahoma State stops Boise

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) - A young Oklahoma State team took a bruising but came out on top against a more experienced Boise State squad in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament.

Oklahoma State coach Leonard Hamilton says his players "should have grown up a little bit" in the 69-55 victory Friday night.

The maturity of Hamilton's Cowboys will be tested in a second-round game at St. John's on Tuesday night.

The game was the only contest scheduled Friday. Second-round play begins Monday with Alabama-Birmingham at Richmond, California at Connecticut, Nebraska at Ohio State, Penn State at Villanova, St. Louis at Wisconsin and Wichita State at Michigan State.

In addition to the Oklahoma State-St. John's matchup, Pepperdine visits New Mexico on Tuesday.

Hamilton started three freshmen and two sophomores in a lineup that was minus leading scorer Richard Dumas, suspended Tuesday after admitting a substance abuse problem.

The Cowboys, averaging 85 points a game, were pitted against a veteran Boise State team that allowed opponents an average of 58. Three seniors and two juniors started for the Broncos.

True to form, the Broncos allowed the Cowboys to attempt only a season-low 25 field goals, hitting 15.

But Oklahoma State marched to the free-throw line 50 times, canning 35. Boise State was 20-40 from the field and 8-10 from the line.

Lawmakers propose health insurance plan

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's largest educator association endorsed measures by two state lawmakers to create a state-funded health insurance program for public school employees.

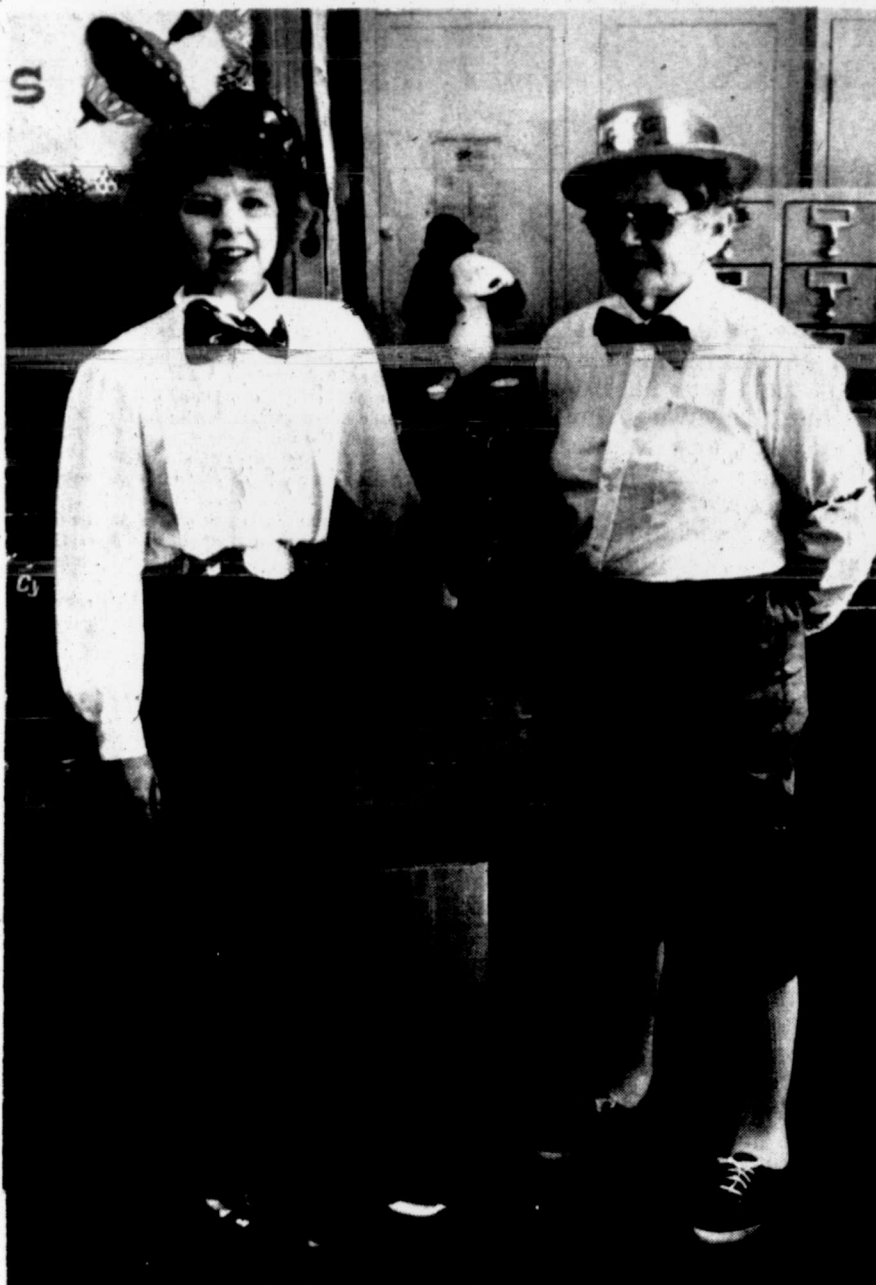

Rep. Jerry Johnson, D-Nacogdoches, and Sen. Bill Haley, D-Center, filed companion bills in the House and Senate that would place the insurance program under the Teacher Retirement System.

The House bill was co-authored by Reps. David Counts, D-Knox City, and Barry Telford, D-Dekalb.

"We have come to a point where local district efforts to provide some form of health benefit is costing employees as much as a monthly house payment," Haley said Friday. "And that's simply to provide coverage for themselves and for their children."

"I've heard too many times from too many people that they either aren't offered health insurance or can't afford it," Haley said. "That has to change."

Mike Morrow, executive director of the 50,000-member Association of Texas Professional Educators, said the group supports the bills.

American student is reported missing

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Mexican and U.S. police authorities combed the border Friday for a mysterious man last seen talking to a University of Texas student just before he disappeared in Matamoros, Mexico.

University of Texas pre-med student Mark Kilroy, 21, disappeared shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday after leaving the Hard Rock Cafe on Avenida Alvaro Obregon, his three companions said. The students, long-time friends who were visiting South Padre Island for spring break, said they were walking toward Gateway International Bridge when they noticed Kilroy no longer was with them.

Agents with the U.S. Customs Service, Cameron County Sheriff's Department, Mexican Federal Judicial Police and State Judicial Police have banded together in the search for the missing student. Repeated searches of Matamoros jails turned up one other spring-breaker, but not Kilroy.

Sheriff's Lt. George Gavito said agents began checking Matamoros colonias and shantytowns — known among law enforcement officers for their high criminal element — for clues to Kilroy's disappearance.

"If something happened to him, the word hit the street," Gavito told The Brownsville Herald. "We feel there might be foul play."

Police are investigating a string of violent episodes along the river near the international bridge, including the reported gang rape Tuesday night of an 18-year-old female student also on spring break.

"All these kids are here and they've all got money," Gavito said. "This is easy prey for them (local criminals)."

EPA urges conservation measures for cars, homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservation techniques that were urged during the energy shortages of the 70s should be adopted to combat global warming caused by pollution, the EPA says.

The Environmental Protection Agency, in a report Friday, outlined actions such as development of fuel-efficient cars, energy-saving homes and solar technology, needed by the end of the century to curtail global warming. They say such warming will occur unless air pollution is reduced. In its report to the Senate subcommittee on environmental protection, the EPA said most scientists agree that without action to reduce pollution, the Earth can be expected to warm by 4 to 11 degrees Fahrenheit over the next 100 years.

Scientists believe that a variety of pollutants are causing a "greenhouse effect" that traps the sun's infrared radiation, instead of allowing it to go back into space, resulting in increased warming.

The Senior Citizens Center will hold its annual Easter party Thursday morning starting at 10:30 a.m.

Prizes will be given for the best decorations on a man's hat and on a woman's hat and also for the best decorated Easter egg. Senior citizens are asked to bring colored eggs or candy eggs for an Easter egg hunt.

The center will be closed on March 24 and March 27 for an Easter holiday.

A 42 tournament is planned in the center Monday morning starting at 10:30 a.m. AARP will hold a meeting in the center's conference room at 1 p.m. Monday.

Hoss Clayton and his band will present a musical program in the center starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Swimmastics will meet at the Western Texas College swimming pool at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

On Wednesday, Lesa Pearson from United Blood Services will present a program starting at 10:30 a.m. Senior citizens give volunteer time to assist with the monthly blood drives held in Snyder.

Textile painting will be taught in a class starting at 9 a.m. Thursday. Beginners are welcome to attend this class and may contact Nancy LaRoux for more information.

Cheney begins new duties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Wyoming congressman Dick Cheney was sworn in as the nation's 17th secretary of defense after a unanimous Senate endorsement that one Republican complained may have been too swift.

Cheney won Senate confirmation Friday on a 92-0 vote, just one day after the Senate Armed Services Committee gave him its unanimous blessing.

Shortly after Friday's vote, Cheney resigned as Wyoming's sole congressman and then was sworn in as defense chief during a private ceremony in his Capitol Hill office. A large, formal oath-taking ceremony was scheduled for next Tuesday.

Later in the afternoon Friday, Cheney traveled to his new Pentagon office where he met with Donald Atwood, the GM executive who has been nominated to become deputy defense secretary, and with several Reagan administration holdovers for briefings.

Officials said Cheney would probably work at least part of the weekend trying to get settled in.

Cheney's elevation to the defense post finally completed formation of President Bush's Cabinet, a process slowed by the bruising fight over the president's first choice for defense secretary, former Texas Sen. John Tower.

Tower was rejected by the Senate, 53-47, on March 9 after weeks of controversy over his personal life, drinking habits and consulting work for large defense contractors.

Cheney was sworn into office by David Cooke, director of administration and management in the office of defense secretary. Present were his wife, Lynne, their two daughters, Elizabeth and Mary, and his parents, Richard and Marge.

The rancor surrounding the Tower nomination was largely absent when the Senate moved quickly this week on Cheney, although some bitterness remained.

Judge urges singer to stay off drugs

AIKEN, S.C. (AP) — A judge on Friday urged imprisoned soul singer James Brown to refrain from using drugs, but did not lengthen his jail time for having drugs in his system during a probation check in December.

"I would hope that you can put your troubles behind you," Circuit Judge Rodney Peebles told Brown. "I believe you can still do a lot of good for a lot of people. I would urge you, please, to stay off drugs."

After making his admonition, the judge revoked a probationary sentence Brown received last July 24 following his conviction for resisting arrest and carrying a pistol. Brown could have been ordered to serve a one-year jail term.

But Peebles dismissed six months of that sentence and ordered the "Godfather of Soul" to serve the remaining time concurrently with a six-year prison term Brown began serving Dec. 29 following his conviction on charges stemming from a Sept. 24 car chase with police from two states.

Friday's hearing was ordered after Brown tested positive for marijuana and PCP in violation of his probation for the July case.

Brown, 55, said after the hearing that he is faring well in prison. He said he is getting a much-needed rest, learning to cook and counseling other inmates at the State Park Correctional Institute near Columbia.

"It's not really a low point," said Brown, dressed in a suit and tie. "A lot can be gained" from the time in prison, he added.

Brown is eligible for parole on May 12, 1991, but a nationwide movement is pressing for an early release.

The Diamond M Museum of Fine Arts is continuing its second annual quilt show, "Stitches in Time," through April 8.

Included in the show are about 20 quilts borrowed from local residents and on loan from the Senior Citizens Center. The quilts from the Senior Citizens Center are to be included in the May Day auction this year.

The Diamond M Museum is in the Diamond M Building at 909 25th Street. It is open from 1-4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. There is no charge for admission.

HONORED—Tolle Faver, right, who celebrated his 94th birthday Friday, received a certificate of appreciation from David Adams, commander of the American Legion Post in Snyder, Friday night at a special dinner held in honor of the American Legion's 70th birthday. Faver, who has been a member of the American Legion for 69 years, is the oldest living member of the local chapter and the oldest living man in the county who was born in the county and lived all of his life here. (SDN Staff Photo)

Shuttle astronauts return safely to Earth

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discovery's astronauts swooped out of orbit to a desert landing and the cheers of 450,000 spectators today after a nearly flawless journey that completed a vital space communications network and mapped a fragile Earth.

Commander Michael Coats guided the 97-ton winged spaceship to a touchdown on a concrete runway at this flight test base at 6:36 a.m., concluding a flight that covered 1.9 million miles in 4 days, 23 hours, 39 minutes.

The shuttle landed on the runway's center line.

"Well done Discovery. That's one to be proud of," capsule communicator Frank Culbertson said as the craft rolled to a stop.

Forty-five minutes after touchdown, the five astronauts, all looking fit and smiling, left the spacecraft and were met by several NASA officials.

They took the traditional walkaround inspection of Discovery, and closeup television pictures showed the fuselage in very good condition. There was no evidence of the severe tile damage that Atlantis suffered in December when it was hit by insulation falling off a booster rocket and fuel tank during the launch.

The crew was driven to a medical facility for brief examinations and later were to meet with their families before flying back to their training base in Houston.

Two loud sonic booms cracked over the California desert as Discovery glided powerless through clear skies, with the huge crowd, some waving American flags, shouting its approval from viewing sites on parched Rogers Dry Lake.

The Air Force estimated the crowd, which streamed in overnight in more than 138,000 vehicles, at 450,000.

An hour before landing, Coats fired braking rockets 196 miles above the Indian Ocean to drop Discovery out of orbit and start it on a fiery dive through the atmosphere on a course over the mid-Pacific, across the California coast south of Santa Barbara and into this Mojave Desert base. "Discovery's coming home," Coats radioed after the firing.

The spaceship was traveling more than 200 mph when it touched the runway, but slowed quickly as Coats operated new brake systems designed to improve performance.

SACROC looks to price of oil

At $12 per barrel, the "worst case" scenario, the production is projected to drop to 24,600 bpd. Compared to 1988 values, this would equal a 33 percent decline.

As for the long range outlook for SACROC and its production from the massive Canyon Reef, the "best case" for Scurry County is again $18 per barrel oil.

SACROC Superintendent H.J. Payne commented at the meeting, "At $18 oil, we project the field has an economic profitability into the late 1990s."

He added that if the price of oil is less, the economic forecast would decrease accordingly. Conversely, prices higher than $18 could see the field's viable life increased.

During 1988, SACROC undertook such major projects as the repair of two absorber columns at the Sun plant and the drilling of five new "infill" wells.

The outlook for 1989 is more subdued with two projects proposed, but with the qualifying word "possibly" attached to both.

If the price of oil warrants it, SACROC has plans to "possibly" further increase CO2 separation capabilities at the BHP plant which contracts to process a portion of the field's recovered CO2 gas; and to "possibly" drill two to four additional infill wells.

The unpredictability of oil prices also prompted a SACROC operating plan for 1989 with qualifications built in. The "scenarios" again use as a basis the possibility of oil prices ranging from $12 to $18.

At the high end of price, the unit plans to take CO2 deliveries, the gas used as the primary agent in its secondary recovery methods, "in excess of the daily contract quantity."

Price levels at $18 would also prompt an acceleration of a pilot project the unit has undertaken, CO2 processing at the so-called "centerline" area (see companion story).

In addition, the unit would drill five additional "infill wells" during the year and perform some 400 workovers of existing wells.

At the opposite end of this projected operational schedule is a scenario for $12 oil. In this case, SACROC would find itself taking the minimum delivery allowed of CO2, drilling no infill wells, shutting in wells deemed uneconomic and cutting its level of well workovers to approximately 200.

In addition to the oil production figure of 28,898 bpd during 1988, other production figures include water production of 776,710 bpd; gas production of 100,816 mcf/d; and CO2 production of 52,684 mcf/d.

To compare the steady decline of reserves in the Canyon Reef, in 1980, SACROC was able to produce oil at a rate of 79,596 bpd while water production was held to 519,577 bpd.

Arrests noted

A 16-year-old girl was arrested for public intoxication at 12:07 a.m. Saturday in the 1300 Block of 37th St. and subsequently released into the custody of a relative.

A 30-year-old man was taken into custody for driving with his license suspended at 5:05 a.m. Saturday in the 1500 Block of 19th St., and two 29-year-old men were arrested for disorderly conduct at 5:41 a.m. Saturday following a reported fight at a residence in the 2000 Block of Ave. K.

State highway patrolmen arrested a 37-year-old man for DWI Friday night a mile north of Dunn on the Colorado City Hwy.

2 fire calls are answered

Firemen answered two fire calls Friday, the first to a trash pit that had caught fire at Brooks Oil Well Service off the Lamesa Hwy. in western Snyder and the second an apparent hoax.

Firefighters were at the trash pit fire from 1:19 p.m. to 2:10 p.m.

A woman called the department at 2:20 p.m. and said a mobile home was on fire on Ave. N and then hung up without giving an exact location, after which firemen and volunteer firemen searched the street and various mobile home parks for a possible fire.

No trucks were ever dispatched, however, and the effort was abandoned after about an hour.

Minor wrecks are reported

Police investigated two minor traffic accidents Friday, the first at 1:13 p.m. at Sonic Drive-in at 4100 College Ave., where a 1981 Ford driven by Bill Vestal of 3011 Ave. X struck a parked 1986 Chevrolet pickup owned by Jeanne Butler of Rt. 2.

A 1979 Ford pickup driven by David A. Strunk of 3307 Ave. A struck a stop sign owned by the state highway department and a utility pole owned by Southwestern Bell at 3:02 p.m. at 25th St. and Ave. J.

Tycoon ordered to pay cost of company's insolvency

DALLAS (AP)—A Travis County District Court judge ordered the former president of National County Mutual Fire Insurance to pay $55.6 million to cover the cost of the company's insolvency, but the executive is out of the country.

Robert H. Walker, who controlled National County, has fled the country and may no longer possess the allegedly misappropriated funds, authorities said Friday.

The judge issued the order this week demanding Walker make the multimillion dollar payment and surrender all his assets.

The order stems from a lawsuit filed against Walker by the State Board of Insurance. The panel contends Walker used an elaborate scheme to funnel policyholders' premiums into his own pockets which led to the October collapse of Dallas-based National County. The insolvency, the biggest in state history, affected 170,000 policyholders in Texas.

Neither Walker nor any attorney representing him has contested the insurance board's lawsuit.

Walker was spotted in Switzerland in January, but authorities are uncertain where he is now, said Susan Martin, the insurance board attorney handling the case.

Ms. Martin said Walker took perhaps $25 million in cash from National County, "and there certainly could be more."

Banquet to have annual awards

The program will include the annual award presentations to honor outstanding service to specific areas of Scurry County.

These include the Vestal Award, honoring service to the city; the Winston Award, honoring service to agriculture; the McLaughlin Award, honoring service to the oil industry; the Paul Sizemore Award, naming the year's outstanding Gold Coat member; and the Educational Excellence Award, presented by the Council for Educational Excellence and recognizing outstanding service to the teaching profession.

This year, the President's Award will be given also, an honor chosen by the past year's chamber board president and executive committee to honor individuals who have made a significant contribution to the organization.

Serving as master of ceremonies for the banquet will be Mel Gilbert.

lege; Jim Tully, 59, a former director of student financial aid at WTC who is currently employed as a public relations staffer for Wal-Mart; and Roger Potts, 34, a lineman for Midwest Electric who also serves as a volunteer fireman here.

The other incumbent council member with an at-large post due to expire, John Johnson, has indicated he will not seek a second two-year term.

For the two at-large council seats, the two candidates receiving the greatest number of voters will be declared the winner.

For two at-large posts on the Snyder school board, both incumbents are announced as well as two additional candidates.

Incumbents seeking their second term are Ken Branam, 40, pastor of First Baptist Church; and Luann Burleson, 38, both first elected in a special ballot in April of 1987.

Also filed are Sam Robertson, 47, owner of Sam Robertson Insurance and a former high school band director here; and Mark Zeck, 35, vice president here for YZ Industries.

For at-large posts, elected by all school district voters, the two candidates receiving the greatest number of votes will be declared the winners. School trustees serve three-year terms.

An eligible candidate for the board must be a registered voter and must reside within the school district.

'Instigators' told to leave center following disturbance

BAYVIEW, Texas (AP) — Forty-nine aliens suspected of spurring at least 200 of their fellow detainees to rush the fence at an immigration service center have been moved to other border facilities, an official said Friday.

"We sent 40 people to the Webb County Jail (Laredo) and nine to the Starr County Jail (Rio Grande City)," said Duke Austin, a spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service. "It was felt that they were the instigators."

A disturbance broke out at the 315-acre, minimum-security center for aliens facing deportation about 2:45 p.m. Thursday. About 200 men started throwing rocks, and ripped up a section of fence, but did not try to escape, officials said.

An INS anti-riot squad quickly assembled and brought the situation under control, said officials and immigration attorneys who witnessed the demonstration at the Port Isabel Service Processing Center.

The rural camp is just south of the Laguna Atascosa National Wildlife Refuge and about 20 miles northeast of the border city of Brownsville.

"They (INS officials) cannot make any determination on why it started," Austin said, but he speculated that it probably was the result of frustration of detention.

He said the center was calm Friday. Extra guards sealing off the main entrance and exit Thursday were gone Friday.

Brownsville immigration attorney Linda Yanez, who was at the center interviewing clients when the demonstration broke out, said the incident was inevitable.

"These people do not have any sense of what their legal rights are, what their situation is," Ms. Yanez said. "They don't have any telephones."

All 1,600 people at the recreation area rushed the fence, but did not try to escape, she said.

"They could have easily walked across that fence," Ms. Yanez said.

Representatives from the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees also were present for a regular observation visit Thursday when the INS cleared all visitors and civilian personnel from the camp. The UN officials declined comment on the incident.

Jim Judah elected v-p

Jim Judah, agriculture instructor at Western Texas College, has been elected vice president of the Junior Division Intercollegiate Meat Coaches Association (IMCA).

Jim Lillie of Texas State Technical Institute in Waco is the new president and Randy Hines from Tarleton State University is secretary-treasurer. The officers serve two-year terms.

The IMCA is designed to coordinate meats contests held each year. It serves as a communication link between the National Livestock and Meat Board based in Chicago, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and college meats programs. The new officers were elected during the Houston Stock Show this year.

BOW HUNTERS—Robert and Audrey Taylor and their children, Tara, 3, left, and Britt, 6, are bow and arrow enthusiasts. The Taylors like to go on several hunting trips each year, armed only with their bows and arrows. Son Britt is learning how to use a bow also and goes target shooting and bow fishing. Even Tara is taking lessons but at the moment she does not have the strength required to draw the bow. (SDN Staff Photo)

Robert Taylor, veterinarian turned artist, picked up his first bow and arrow 20 years ago.

An avid hunter, he has used the bow and arrow exclusively for the past seven or eight years.

Taylor said he prefers the bow and arrow because it is more fun and challenging and hunters have to be more knowledgeable of the sport to succeed.

Since range is a critical factor, bow hunters have to know not only the game they are after but the territory as well.

He noted it is essential to control both scent and movement and to discipline yourself to be absolutely quiet.

His enthusiasm has rubbed off on his family, too. Three years ago, his wife, Audrey, obtained her first bow and arrow and she has been on several hunts with her husband since then. Prior to learning to shoot with a bow and arrow, she said she often accompanied him on his hunting trips.

Two years ago, she killed a blonde black bear at 14 yards with her bow and arrow. Blonde black bears are considered quite rare, she said. Twenty yards is her maximum shooting distance and Taylor's is 30.

Sometimes inadvertently, the distance becomes shorter. During one hunting trip, Taylor said he shot a black bear at two yards because it was climbing the tree he was in.

Three years ago in British Columbia, Mrs. Taylor fell prey to the same attraction which draws her husband. "I saw Robert shoot a bear and we tracked it together. Afterwards, I wanted to start hunting myself."

She bought her first bow in May of that year and practiced for a year before she actually went hunting. She started pulling at 25 pounds and gradually worked up to 45 pounds.

The excitement of the hunt provides Taylor with plenty of enjoyment and he considers bear hunting to have a double excitement factor because "they can turn around and get you."

The Taylors like to hunt bear in the spring as the animals begin to awake from their hibernation. They try to hunt wild pigs in the early summer and moose and white tail deer in the fall.

Last year, Taylor said he participated in about 20-25 hunts in all. He has been bear hunting in Canada three times, the most recent hunt last May. This fall they plan a trip to Northern Quebec to hunt caribou.

While admitting he loves to hunt, he says it isn't all fun and excitement. The hunt can turn serious and even deadly, and he recounted more than one "close call" while pursuing his favorite sport.

One time during an elk hunt, Taylor explained that he accidentally got between a female bear and her cub. "It was pitch dark and this bear and I were in a stand off situation. I had to stay very, very still when what I really wanted to do was run. Finally the sow bear left."

Another time Taylor was tracking a 400-pound boar hog. He got in front of it when it started running and he shot it with an arrow. But the hog didn't go down. Instead it charged him. Finally Taylor brought the hog down. He said the other hunter who had been with him that day had already run off.

The Taylor's son, Britt, age 6, is also learning archery and has succeeded in spearing fish with his bow and arrow. Tara, 3, likes archery, but is still too young to participate.

Brooks, another son, is also a hunter and two years ago succeeded in bringing down a black bear with a gun. The bear weighed approximately 500 pounds and the hide measured 7 ft. by 7 ft., Taylor said.

Taylor also finds white tail deer hunting to be exciting. He said he always tries for an "ethical and clean kill." Since you normally get only one shot, he said, "You have to make it a good one."

Taylor explained that the "kill zone" on a bear is roughly the size of a football. Mainly, he said, hunters aim for the heart and lung area of any animal.

The Taylors both agree that they like archery for a variety of reasons, but its main drawing power is that it is a family affair. Besides hunting, it is possible to enter archery meets sponsored

Foreign stocks provide lucrative investing

NEW YORK (AP) — Investors often can make more money in foreign stocks than in American stocks. Investing abroad isn't particularly difficult. And, you can start out with only $500 or so, according to "Worldly Wise Investor" (Franklin Watts) by David Smyth.

The book, a Fortune Book Club selection, surveys the world investment scene (63 stock exchanges in 45 countries), has the names and addresses of United States and foreign-based mutual funds, and lists other foreign financial organizations.

Smyth, a financial writer for The Associated Press, points out the Tokyo stock price level rose 22-fold between 1968-87 while the U.S. stock price level rose only threefold. In the past decade, he says, the U.S. has shown up only once among the five top-performing stock markets of the world.

by archery clubs, but Taylor said he only participates in bow and arrow hunts. Within the past few weeks, a bow and arrow club has formed in Snyder and the Taylors were among the first to join.

They said they are glad that a local organization is being formed for bow hunters and they are looking forward to participating in it. Taylor said he hopes that eventually bow hunting safety courses will be taught here. Such a course would cover such topics as making a good clean kill and tracking a wounded animal.

With archery, he said, it is also possible for families to go field or stump shooting together. He said sometimes he even likes to track animals without killing them. Taylor said that bows are made in three basic styles: compound, recurve and long bow. They use a compound bow which has small wheels on each end and the farther back the bow is pulled the easier the tension becomes. For instance, the weight of the pull can be reduced from 80 pounds to 40 pounds.

With a recurve bow, Taylor said, the farther back it is pulled the greater the tension or weight becomes. A long bow is basically a straight stick, he said.

The U.S. has certain times of the year set aside for bow and arrow hunts. Also a bow and arrow can be used during rifle season.

Besides game, it is permissible to shoot carp or gar with a bow and arrow. Anything but game fish such as bass or catfish is allowed.

Taylor said it is possible to hunt a wide variety of game with a bow and arrow such as cape buffalo, polar bears and the Alaskan brown bear. An expert hunter can even fell an elephant with one shot, he said.

Taylor's personal list of game with his bow and arrow includes turkeys, hogs, elk, bear and fish. To date, he has not succeeded in killing a moose.

Taylor said that when he first started using a bow, he didn't know anyone else who did. Today, he said, archery is the fastest growing sport in America.

FERTILIZING WOODY ORNAMENTALS

Aug. 15 until late fall or first freeze. Late summer fertilizing can stimulate an excessive amount of new growth, making plants more susceptible to winter injury.

Most fertilizers are purchased according to their analysis which is the percentage of the three major plant nutrients — nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. The analysis is shown on the bag or container and consists of three numbers, for example, 12-4-8. The first number indicates the percentage of nitrogen (N), the second gives the percentage of phosphorus as phosphoric acid (P2O5) and the third is the percentage of potassium as potash (K2O). A 50-pound bag of a 12-4-8 fertilizer contains six pounds of N, 2 pounds of P2O5, and four pounds of K2O.

Tree growth is limited by a nitrogen deficiency more often than by a lack of the other two major elements. For this reason, it is recommended that a fertilizer with a 2-1-1 or 3-1-1 ratio be used for trees. Fertilizers with a 2-1-1 or similar ratio, which usually are available, include 10-8-6 and 12-6-6. If the desired ratio is unavailable, a 3-1-1 ratio fertilizer can be approximated by mixing 12 ounces of ammonium nitrate (33-0-0) to each pound of a 12-12-12 fertilizer. The same type fertilizer can be used on shrubs and vines; however, fertilizer recommended for lawn use is adequate for these plants.

To figure the amount of nitrogen-containing fertilizer needed for woody plants, stake off a square or rectangular area that includes the entire branch spread of the trees and shrubs in an area. If roots are restricted by pavement, curb or a building, subtract the restricted area from the total area computed.

The micronutrient most commonly deficient in Texas soils is iron. This deficiency usually is noted in alkaline soil regions. The iron becomes insoluble and the plant cannot extract sufficient amounts from the soil for good growth. Iron deficiency symptoms include pale green to yellow leaves with darker green venation. It is very common on plant species not adapted to alkaline soils including some of the red oaks, maples and hollies. Iron deficiency can be corrected partially with foliar applications of chelated iron provided label recommendations are followed.

General tree vigor is determined by comparing the length of twig growth during the past three to four years.

I recommend basing fertilizer amounts on a soil test. Instructions for taking a soil sample and getting it tested can be obtained from the County Extension Office. Without such tests, general lawn fertilizer recommendations of four to six pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet per year are satisfactory for tree and shrub care. In turf areas, do not apply this amount at one time but rather make several applications to prevent fertilizer burn to the turf.

Do not apply fertilizers from

LEAVING OUT FOOD GROUPS MAY CUT NUTRIENTS

Leaving out entire food categories to try to avoid cancer and heart disease may cause many Americans to consume inadequate nutrients.

Diet modification is not a solution for every person trying to lower the risk of chronic and degenerative illnesses.

A recent report by Dr. Alfred E. Harper of the University of Wisconsin showed that the underlying causes of many illnesses are not nutritional.

Harper's report indicated that it is impossible to predict how reducing dietary fat and cholesterol, or increasing calcium or fiber intake, would affect every individual.

People have come to hope that by altering their diet, or by supplementing food with vitamins and minerals, they can avoid cancer, heart disease and osteoporosis, even though not one of these illnesses is directly attributable to nutrition.

Those thinking along this line typically speak out against consumption of fat, sugar and salt. However, high-fat, high caloric foods are rich in nutrients needed by children and adults.

Some nutrition experts encourage the reduction of saturated fat and cholesterol to keep serum cholesterol low, Harper said in the report. Serum cholesterol reduces the incidence of heart disease, Harper's research showed.

Reducing dietary cholesterol does not always increase the level of serum cholesterol, making it evident that not everyone can benefit from these dietary reductions, according to the report.

While many health professionals recommend that Americans consume more fiber, all we know is that fiber, like cholesterol, does not affect everyone the same way.

Although physicians should provide dietary guidance for some patients, it is inappropriate for public health officials to assume that everyone is equally susceptible to chronic and degenerative diseases, thus creating fear about eating certain foods.

Leaving out specific foods from diets may give some people confidence that they are doing what they can to stay healthy.

Problems exist, however, when public officials suggest that by eliminating categories of food, the risks are covered.

In reality, the foods left out may provide necessary nutrients, and are certainly enjoyed by many people.

Microwave brownies make a quick treat

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

The chocolate lovers in our Test Kitchen weren't satisfied with their microwave brownie recipe until they came up with a version that tastes just as good as conventional brownies — but bakes in one-third the time.

Food in the corners of square baking dishes cooks quickly because it gets a double dose of microwave energy. If the corners of the brownies seem to be cooking too fast, shield with small pieces of foil. BUT don't use foil unless the manufacturer's directions for your oven recommend it.

TRIPLE-LAYER MICROWAVE BROWNIES
1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
¾ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup packed brown sugar

¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup margarine or butter
½ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 slightly beaten egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts
Chocolate Frosting

In a microwave-safe mixing bowl cook chocolate and 3 tablespoons margarine, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) 1½ to 3 minutes or until melted.

In a mixing bowl stir together oats, ½ cup flour, brown sugar and soda. In a 1-cup measure cook ¼ cup margarine, uncovered, on high 45 to 60 seconds or until melted. Stir into oat mixture. Pat oat mixture into an ungreased 8- by 8- by 2-inch baking dish. Cook, uncovered, on 50 percent power (medium) 3 to 4 minutes or until surface appears dry, giving dish a quarter-turn after 2 minutes. Cool on a wire rack for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, stir together ½ cup flour and baking powder. Stir sugar and water into chocolate mixture. Add egg and vanilla; stir gently until combined. Add flour mixture; stir until combined. Stir in nuts. Spread evenly over oat layer. Cook, uncovered, on medium 5 to 7 minutes or until done, shielding corners if necessary and giving the dish a quarter-turn every 3 minutes. Scratch the slightly wet surface near the center with a wooden toothpick. The brownies should be cooked underneath. Cool on wire rack. Frost with Chocolate Frosting. Cut into bars. Store in covered container. Makes 24.

Chocolate Frosting: In a small microwave-safe mixing bowl combine 1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate and 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 1½ to 2½ minutes or until melted. Stir in 1 cup sifted powdered sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Stir in enough hot water (about 1½ tablespoons) to make spreadable.

'Junk' food good in moderation

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Your hand slides into a bag of potato chips, but a twinge of guilt makes you hesitate.

Potato chips are junk food, right?

Not necessarily, says a professor at the University of Rochester Medical School.

"If you ask people what are junk foods, potato chips are probably one of the first things they will name," says Dr. Gilbert Forbes, who specializes in nutrition and body composition.

"But if you break down the composition of potato chips, you find that they have the same amount of protein as rice and wheat, more iron than milk, less sodium than cow's milk, and as much niacin as milk. They're low in thiamine and riboflavin, but they have a bit of Vitamin C. All in all, there's more nutritional value than in apples."

So, we can lick the grease off our fingers, dig into the chips and cast aside that old apple-a-day adage?

Well, not quite, says Forbes. "The real point is that some of the foods that get labeled as 'junk' are perfectly wholesome — in moderation."

"There are two pitfalls in allowing our children to fall into the 'fast food' habit as a steady diet," he says. "One is that the hamburger-shake-and-fries diet has no variety — no green vegetables, no fruit — and it's the variety of nutrients that is essential to good health."

many experts, since it robs the opponents of bidding room and makes it hard for them to get to the best contract. After East's three spades, South was not strong enough to bid four hearts immediately, but was happy to do so after North continued with four clubs.

West led the spade king and then switched to a trump. Declarer played low from dummy and won East's queen with his ace. Already counting his overtricks, he played to dummy's heart king and back to his diamond king. He cashed his heart jack and then the diamond ace. East ruffed. Now the defenders took a spade and eventually got a club trick for down one. Of course it was true after the trump shift that 12 tricks would be easy if both hearts and diamonds divided nicely. But it was also true that South had bid only four hearts, not six. After winning the heart ace he should immediately play A-K of diamonds. Although East can ruff, he cannot prevent declarer from getting to dummy enough times to set up the diamonds by ruffing. Nor can East do better by refusing to ruff the second high diamond. Now declarer can simply play to dummy's heart king and lead the jack of diamonds, throwing a spade. Then the defenders would make only a trump trick, a spade and the diamond queen.

Which cooking oil to use?

Q. How does Canola oil compare in calories and fat with other cooking oils?

Canola oil, a new product made from rapeseed, has about 100 calories per tablespoon, the same as other oils. But it has the lowest level of saturated fats of any cooking oil: 6 percent compared to 13 percent in corn oil and 15 percent in soybean oil. It's high in monounsaturated fats that may help lower the levels of cholesterol in the blood.

Q. What is light olive oil? Sorry, light in this case refers only to flavor, not calories. This oil contains the same 100 calories per tablespoon as other olive oils. There's no reason to buy it unless you don't like the flavor of olive oil.

Q. One of my Oriental stir-fry recipes calls for chili oil. What is it and where can I buy it?

Chili oil is a cooking oil flavored with chili peppers that's often used in Oriental recipes. It packs a real wallop; add just a teaspoon to regular cooking oil for stir-frys or frying chicken or fish. You can buy it in Oriental food shops or specialty food shops. Or, you can make your own.

Red Chili Oil: In a small saucepan heat 1/2 cup sesame or cooking oil until warm (200 degrees). Remove from heat. Stir in 1-3rd cup crushed red pepper. Cover and let stand several hours or overnight. Strain, pressing out oil with back of a spoon. Store, covered, up to 1 month in the refrigerator. Makes about 1-3rd cup.

Q. I recently read about a chef who uses garlic oil in many of his recipes. I'd like to try it.

To make garlic oil: Halve 7 cloves garlic; thread onto bamboo skewers or toothpicks. Place in a clean 1-pint jar. Add 1 pint olive oil. Cover. Let stand in a cool dark place for 10 to 14 days before using. Makes 1 pint.

Use it in marinades, tossed with pasta, or for stir-frying. Also rub the oil onto fish or chicken before broiling or use it in place of plain oil to fry chicken.

Q. A friend gave me a bottle of walnut oil and we love it in salad dressings. Can I use it for frying? Walnut oil and other nut oils should not be used for frying; they smoke at lower temperatures than other vegetable oils so foods burn easily. Enjoy them instead in salad dressings or tossed with cooked vegetables.

Treatments to help hiatal hernia

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My doctor says I have a hiatal hernia. He gives me antacids that are no help. What other treatments are available?

DEAR READER: Hiatal hernia is a weakness of the ring of tissue where the esophagus joins the stomach. Ordinarily, this ring prevents backwash of irritating stomach acid into the esophagus.

In patients with hiatal hernia, gastric acid enters the esophagus, causing heartburn, indigestion and gas. This backwash is called reflux; it is a common condition in older patients.

Antacids, by neutralizing stomach acid, often help symptoms. Other therapy includes changing eating patterns (remain upright for at least 30 minutes after eating and eat smaller, more frequent meals).

Also, medicine — such as Tagamet and Zantac — suppresses the production of acid, thereby relieving indigestion. In extreme cases, doctors may have to consider surgery to repair the hernia. However, non-surgical treatment is usually satisfactory and operations for hiatal hernia are rarely performed.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hiatal Hernia." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 6-year-old has had strep throat twice in six months. She gets swollen neck glands with it. Our doctor did a mono test and CBC. Her white count was high. Are these typical with strep?

DEAR READER: This is the season for strep throats, which can occur regularly in schoolchildren during the winter.

Being an infection, strep is often associated with an elevated white-blood-cell count, the body's normal response to any infection. Strep throat (with tonsillitis and swollen glands) often mimics mononucleosis; therefore, your doctor was correct in ordering the blood tests to rule out mono.

The CBC (complete blood count) indicates the number of white blood cells and which types are increased. Strep infection usually causes an abundance of neutrophils (bacteria fighters), whereas mono produces an increase in lymphocytes (virus fighters).

DEAR DR. GOTT: About three months ago my husband fell 25 feet onto a concrete floor. At the time, he felt fine. Now he has trouble picking up his legs when he gets tired. If he sits for a while his legs go numb. He says he has some pain at the base of his neck and occasionally in his lower back. He says it will go away but I'm worried. What should he do?

DEAR READER: After a fall of 25 feet, your husband could have suffered damage to his spine that could affect the spinal nerves, causing weakness and numbness of the legs. In my opinion, he should see a neurosurgeon.

Such a specialist can order and supervise the tests necessary to determine what damage resulted from the fall and what can be done about it. I encourage your husband to seek medical help and not simply wait in hopes that his symptoms will disappear.

Statistics show that malpractice claims against internists (diagnosticians and general medical doctors) are on the rise. The most common basis for these legal actions is failure to diagnose heart attacks and cancer.

This is a change in the malpractice struggle because the major liability-risk has customarily affected surgeons and obstetricians. Internists, although far from being immune to malpractice suits, have not been prime targets. Surgical mishaps and birth injuries have traditionally provided the turf upon which malpractice battles are waged. Internal medicine specialists — the supposed cognitive, thinking practitioners — have tended to take on the role of trying to save patients money by using diagnostic skills, rather than relying excessively on the laboratory.

As an internist, I am inclined to order lab tests and X-ray examinations only when I believe that the information to be gained outweighs the risks and expense of the tests.

For example, I don't hospitalize every patient with chest pain simply because that person's discomfort may be due to a heart attack. I try to think things through and arrive at an educated conclusion before subjecting the patient to unnecessary investigation that may make matters worse, from the standpoint of inconvenience, danger and expense.

Nor do I X-ray every patient with backache. I'm more likely to talk at length with the person, examine him or her and, perhaps, recommend some simple initial treatment, such as rest, heat and pain medication. If the backache persists — or if I'm suspicious that something serious may be going on — I'll order X-rays and further tests.

I believe this is an appropriate way to practice medicine: medical judgment, with testing as a back-up. I do run the risk of missing an early heart attack or of temporarily dismissing a spinal cancer; however, many patients can be saved the trauma and cost of over-diagnosis.

Based on the statistics, I think I'll have to alter my approach. I may have to begin practicing "defensive medicine" by approaching each patient with an eye to protecting my own flank, rather than carrying out my duties with the patient's best interests in mind.

Here is a 40-year-old man who experienced an episode of chest pain after having pushed a heavy container at work. He's a non-smoker and physically fit. His left chest muscle is tender to the touch. The rest of the examination is normal and the pain has improved since yesterday. Ordinarily, I would conclude that he has a strained pectoralis muscle; I'd take him off work for a couple of days and prescribe a mild pain medicine.

The experts would label me reckless for doing this. Under the present threat of malpractice, they'd claim I was nuts not to admit the patient for a three-day hospital stay for observation, cardiograms, blood analysis and a stress test.

What should I do? On the one hand, the guy will probably be cured for a few dollars and a day or two of rest; in the other situation, he will be subjected to a medical extravaganza that costs thousands and will take him out of circulation and away from his home and family for the better part of a week. Yet in order to avoid unnecessary liability — MY liability — I would be smart to play it safe and hospitalize him.

In a similar vein, do I refer a patient with an enlarged lymph gland for biopsy or do I monitor the swelling for a week? Do I get a chest X-ray on a smoker with a four-day cough or do I give him cough syrup, encourage him to kick his habit and see what happens?

These are real-life decisions that internists make every day. Increasingly, it seems, we are being reminded that our judgment takes a back seat to the flagrant caution so prevalent today. If my career is at stake, I would be foolish not to disregard issues of patient comfort and fiscal restraint in order to protect myself.

However, as someone who is concerned about the hazards and mushrooming costs of too much high-technology medical-care, I believe that this approach is not necessarily appropriate either for my patients or for the public. I suspect that when doctors practice for their own benefit, rather than for their patients, the wrong goal is being emphasized.

Still, the realities of modern medical practice are, quite frankly, corrupting. And, unhappily, the situation is unlikely to improve. Medical judgment and frugality: RIP.

Would-be jumper dies of overdose

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who perched on a freeway overpass for nearly three hours, threatening to jump, was rescued by police, but died later of an apparent drug overdose, authorities say.

Officers said Michael McKnight, 28, threatened to jump from the overpass nearly 100 feet to the lanes of southbound U.S. 59 near downtown Houston.

He was tackled and wrestled to the ground at the end of the lengthy standoff.

The man was taken to Ben Taub Hospital where he began suffering seizures and convulsions, police said. He died of an apparent drug overdose, they reported.

An autopsy was to be held today.

He was first spotted by a passing Houston police detective, who radioed the police dispatcher that a man was sitting on the guardrail of the northbound U.S. 59 exit ramp to northbound Interstate 45.

Detective H.L. Mayer said he saw McKnight sitting there with a glass in his hand.

"I tried to talk with him. He told me he was upset about making bad grades in computer school," Mayer said.

"He waved me over. But he had this wild look in his face so I waited for backup," Mayer said.

Police had to close northbound lanes of the ramp and two southbound lanes of U.S. 59 because the man was sitting above the lanes.

The standoff caused a huge traffic jam for almost three hours.

Police negotiated with the man in an attempt to get him to surrender, but were unable to do so.

McKnight's mother, Minnie Bush, said her son had been upset about recently losing his job at Houston Lighting & Power Co.

"Yesterday I came home and found a note that was suicidal. He said he loved us and that he knew we had done everything we could for him," she said.

Bakker wants to buy hotel

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Television evangelist Jim Bakker has toured at least two Florida hotels and apparently is looking to buy one.

He told the owner of the once majestic 101-year-old Ormond Hotel that he's in the market.

Bakker also toured the Lakeside Inn in Mount Dora, about 20 miles northwest of Orlando, with a real estate broker.

Bakker, a former Assemblies of God minister, headed the PTL television ministry until he was stripped of his role over a sexual tryst with a church secretary and questions about the ministry's finances.

Smog plan would change how residents do things

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Residents of Southern California would have to change how they paint their houses, light their barbecues and spray their hair under a plan devised to clean up the nation's worst air.

The changes are outlined in a comprehensive blueprint intended to enable the metropolitan area to comply with federal clean air standards by the year 2007.

The Air Quality Management Plan, expected to be approved today, is likely to touch nearly every aspect of Southern California life for the next 18 years, said A. Norton Younglove, a Riverside County supervisor and chairman of the South Coast Regional Air Quality Management District's governing board.

Sweetwater cattle auction market reported

The market was steady to strong on a large run of cattle for the March 15 sale. All packer cattle was steady to strong. Bred cows and cow calf pairs were steady, offering not as good as last week. Light weight stocker and feeders were strong and in good demand. Some of the bigger, fleshier feeders were showing some weakness.

- Good to choice, L/W stocker steers, $1.10 to $1.50 per pound.
- Good to choice, M/W stocker steers, $1 to $1.50 per pound.
- Good to choice, feeder steers, $.78 to $.90 per pound.
- Short and plainer kind, 6 to 8 lower per pound.
- Good to choice, L/W stocker heifers, $.95 to $1.10 per pound.
- Good to choice, M/W stocker heifers, $.85 to $1 per pound.
- Good to choice, feeder heifers, $.72 to $.84 per pound.
- Short and plainer kind, 3 to 5 lower per pound.
- Good cow and calf pairs, $7 to $8.40 per pair.
- Older and plainer kind, $5.50 to $7 per pair.
- Good bred cows, $5.75 to $7.25 per head.
- Older, plainer light bred cows, $4.50 to $6 per head.
- Better kind packer cows, $.50 to $.57 per pound.
- Lower yielding packer cows, $.43 to $.50 per pound.
- Few old huley cows, $.38 to $.43 per pound.
- Better kind packer bulls, $.60 to $.66 per pound.
- Lower yielding packer bulls, $.54 to $.60 per pound.

"We're doing literally pioneering work," said Younglove. "We're moving ahead of Congress, for example, on what they might do to amend the Clean Air Act."

The regional agency devised the plan with the Southern California Association of Governments, and the governing boards of both agencies were to consider it at a meeting today.

"We've included as many things as possible," said Bill Kelly, a spokesman for the air quality management district.

New measures would restrict air pollutants in industries, including electric power generating utilities, oil and gas refineries, dry cleaners, furniture makers and auto body shops.

District officials maintain that their regulatory approach is fair, but the rules have aroused strident opposition among industry executives and conservatives such as Los Angeles County Supervisor Michael Antonovich.

"This proposal will destroy thousands of jobs, increase taxes, raise consumer prices and exile businesses from our communities," said Antonovich, a dissenting member of the air management district's 12-member governing board.

Invoking a specter of Big Brother government, Antonovich said, "If this measure passes we will have a new motto: 'Use a barbecue — go to jail.'"

Once approved, the plan must be accepted by the state Air Resources Board and the federal Environmental Protection Agency. The plan's first provisions, however, could go into effect within a year.

In big and small ways, rules set out in the plan attempt to reduce the gaseous chemical stew permeating the air in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and much of San Bernardino counties — California's most populous region.

For example, one of the 160 proposed rules would require metropolitan residents to forsake household aerosol sprays — including hair spray and deodorants — within the next five years for manual-pump sprays.

Another set of rules would reduce the reactive chemicals in paints, coatings and solvents, making it more difficult to paint homes and varnish furniture.

Conventional lighter fluid would be outlawed in a shift to electric charcoal starters for barbecues.

Radial tires would be required on cars and light trucks.

What would possess someone to think nothing of dropping seven bucks at least twice a week on hamburgers for the family but to refuse to replace that old ironing board cover which didn't cost $5 when it was new?

When a week's groceries cost $65-plus for the average 2.3 people in a West Texas family, why quibble if the wife goes through those $2.50 packages of pantyhose like Grant through Richmond? Let's be honest, hand soap costs about the same.

At what point do magazine subscriptions become more dear than car insurance premiums, especially since they both seem to expire with the same regularity?

And why does buying paper towels and napkins seem like a necessity while Kleenex seems like such a luxury?

Money. What a concept. The way we spend it is so weird. And the fact that spending has that strange "leveling" effect. What ever comes in seems to go right back out. Almost.

There must be some private counter in the back of everyone's brain, subconsciously taking note of all dollars handled until the income level for that month is matched almost perfectly by the outgo.

SDN Opinion Page

Columns-Cartoons-Look Back-Letters-Quotables

We say "almost," because lately the "go" seems to be leaving 1.7 percent faster than the "come" is arriving.

Which may explain inflation, another concept we seem to have trouble both dealing with and understanding.

Talk about your financial heebie jeebies. To hear someone bemoan their financial status and you'd swear they had enough money to burn a wet mule.

To seek some comfort from being around the blessed, only to be put off with the remark, "Hey, you better go find someone who has money to spend."

Which brings up this question. Has anyone got money to spend? Not on just life's essentials—magazine subscriptions, hamburgers "out" and insurance premiums—but for foo-foo stuff.

Like fat boxes of Kleenex and unlimited supplies of ironing board covers.

This is not to be confused with bonafide luxury items like fishing boats, microwave ovens and leather aviator jackets from American Express.

These can be purchased on the time credit plan and are immediately available to anyone with a paycheck and an address permanent enough for the mail solicitations to reach them.

Credit will always be there, at least until it catches up with you.

We're talking about walking around cash. The kind you carry in your pocket and don't feel guilty about spending.

To be "liquid," a "let me get this" kind of guy on a regular basis. We asked the question, has anyone got money to spend? We knew a person who did once. It turned out, however, she was recently divorced and it only lasted as long as her settlement money.

Which brings our story back to the rest of us. Ask anyone what article of clothing they are least likely to buy. The answer, unless they tend to the weird side, is socks and underwear.

And this is because only you—unless, again, you tend to the weird side—know when these pieces of attire come up for replacement.

Life's necessities and life's luxuries. Which one is what will say a lot about you.

And while you're thinking about it, consider this. Could we argue also that most of us are walking around with the price in our head but minus the foggiest notion of the value?

Country Life

"Gladys, see the new needle-point pattern I've got? I designed it myself. I'm making this into a pillow for Sally's new baby. If it's a girl, I'll make the bow on the kitten's neck pink. If it's a boy, I'm making it blue."

"Oh, that's so CUTE, Mildred. I'm busy these days, crocheting afghans for Christmas presents. Can't get started too early, right, Mary?"

"I know what you mean. I've been painting crockery for the craft sale they're having at the flea market. See the little mushrooms?"

"Oh, that's so CUTE. Deanie, what are you doing these days?"

"Huh?"

"Keeping yourself busy?"

"Oh, yeah. But... (mumble, mumble, mumble)."

"What did you say?"

"I...er...I don't do crafts."

(collectively) "WHAT?"

"I...I write novels."

"Oh, how nice. My sister-in-law's cousin writes novels. Maybe you heard of her last one. It's called, 'Passion's Heaving, Molten Embrace.'"

"Uh...no. I don't follow romances."

"My sister-in-law says her cousin writes 12 books a year! She must be RICH. How many do you write?"

"Um...one."

(silence.)

"Mildred, let me show you this new pattern from Vogue. It is SO simple you could sew it in your sleep. I made a dozen of these yesterday for my little Tammy."

"Oh, that's so CUTE. I've been so busy making Harold's shirts. Deanie, maybe you'd like to borrow this pattern for your little girl?"

"Who, me?"

"Wouldn't she look CUTE in it?"

"Er... (mumble, mumble, mumble)."

"What did you say?"

"I said, I don't sew."

(collectively) "WHAT? What do you DO all day with the kids in school?"

"I write novels."

"You know, my aunt's husband's brother writes novels. Maybe you've heard of them...the 'Timmy's Little Truck' stories?"

"No, afraid not. I write suspense."

"Oh, I just LOVE murder mysteries! Don't you just LOVE Angela Lansbury?"

"Well, the stories I write aren't really murder mysteries—"

"Hey...I think I read about that in the 'Snyder Daily News.' Didn't you go look at dead bodies or something?"

"I toured the forensic institute in Dallas. It was a really fascinating—"

(collectively) "EW! UGH! DISGUSTING!" (silence.)

"Gladys, you must try this recipe for Honey Almond Fudge Marshmallow Creme Coconut Chocolate Dream Cookies. They're so easy. Deanie, would you like to borrow the recipe? It's perfect for bake sales."

(blush.) "I...um...I don't bake."

(collectively) "WHAT?"

(speaking rapidly) "My husband doesn't care for sweets, and I care too much, and the kids are just as happy with Oreos and Twinkies so, shoot, why bother, right?"

(silence.)

"Well, dear, where may we buy copies of your books?"

"Well...they aren't published yet. I mean, I sold my first one, 'Darkroom,' but it won't be published until next winter."

"Uh-huh."

"I worked real hard on it! I even rode patrol with an inner-city Dallas cop for three nights. It was so much fun—"

"I can't believe your husband would let you do a thing like that."

"Well, he is my husband, not my daddy. He doesn't have to ask my permission to do things, so I figure I don't have to ask his. Anyway, he supports my work."

(exchanging glances, whispering) "Women's libber."

"Um...er...I think I'll be going now. Thanks for the Dream Cookies." (step, step, step, slam.)

(silence.) "What kind of books did she say she writes?"

"I don't know. Something about photography."

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

March 12
Cogdell Memorial Hospital board members have been apprised that the hospital-owned clinic, leased to local physicians for their office practice, has been added to the local tax rolls by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

As a result, the hospital faces a $19,820 tax bill, it was reported Sunday.

Cogdell Administrator Tom Hochwalt commented during the meeting he would regret having to pay the assessment because it amounts to 5.5 percent of this year's total tax subsidy from the county.

A second candidate for mayor was reported Sunday, Alfred Kohl, 60, a former city fire chief and city department head who retired in 1984.

At his retirement, Kohl had 30 years service with the city.

This coming May 6, he will face incumbent Troy Williamson, who seeks his second two-year term as mayor. Williamson, 51, owner of Williamson Auto Supply, has been on the council since 1983, serving three years as a councilman.

MONDAY

March 13
County commissioners Monday accepted a letter of resignation from longtime Scurry County Treasurer Billy Wayne Thompson. He has held the post the past 20 years.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin said one letter of application to succeed Thompson has been received, submitted by Thompson's chief deputy, Rita Staton.

Scurry County commissioners Monday voted to ask the state highway department to pave the Dump Ground Rd. near the Texas Department of Corrections Daniel Unit construction site.

At Monday's regular weekly meeting, the commissioners voted to form a delegation from the county to meet with highway department officials in Austin and make the proposal.

Two projects announced by local churches during February, the largest involving a multipurpose center planned by the congregation of First Baptist Church, helped boost the Snyder building year's total for new construction beyond the 1988 total, it was reported Monday.

The two combined to boost the year's building permit total to $845,610 as compared to $677,600 one year ago. February marked the first month of five counted for the city's fiscal year when current permit totals surpassed last year's.

Chamber-sponsored programs related to the arts, to include music, dance, and theatre, might be expanded from once yearly to four times a year under a new program proposed to chamber board members Monday.

Regarding what type of performers might be secured, chairman Rick Hester noted his committee would be looking at a greater variety of acts.

To insure the financial viability of such a program, plans were discussed also to sell "patron" tickets to all four events and to secure corporate "underwriters" to insure against possible losses.

TUESDAY

March 14
Snyder ISD has been informed by state officials that district students will be required to make-up two school days lost here Feb. 6-7, it was reported Tuesday.

The district will now use the two "snow days" built into its annual school calendar. This will see students in class on two Saturdays this spring, April 15 and May 20.

THURSDAY

March 16
Sales made in Snyder during January increased 21.5 percent over the same period last year, helping to keep the year-to-date figure at a plus 10.9 percent, it was reported Thursday.

The totals reflect sales for a three-month period with Snyder now counting some $203,313 for the year as compared to $183,242 last year.

For the month of January, the sales tax income, generated by 1 percent of the sale of taxable items, equaled $46,438 this year compared to $38,208 last.

The Snyder High School one-act "Blood Wedding" and the Sweetwater High School production of "John Turner Davis" were chosen to advance Thursday from zone to the District 2-4A competition.

Snyder also garnered both best actor and actress honors with Corey McDaniel and Amber Adams chosen. In addition, four Snyder cast members were named to the all-star cast and two were chosen for the honorable mention all-star list.

FRIDAY

March 17
College officials here have learned that a third correctional officer training class can be offered locally in time for the opening of TDC's Daniel Unit at the end of June, it was reported Friday.

Graduates of the 120-hour program will be eligible for employment with TDC and would graduate from the program at approximately the same time as the opening of the prison.

Applications for the third class will be accepted beginning March 27, the first Monday after spring break at Western Texas College.

Scurry County's unemployment rate for January is figured at 8.8 percent by the Texas Employment Commission, it was reported Friday.

This estimates 8,237 individuals employed here with another 798 "actively seeking employment" through the TEC. These two figures are combined to equal the county work force now estimated at 9,035 persons.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Snyder High School journalists won recognition for excellence in newspaper and yearbook judging at the UIL Press Conference in Austin. Individual writing award was given to David Rivera. Others on the staff were yearbook editors Kathy Norris and Kathy Stout; newspaper editor Wendy Hodge and Tonya Nebliitt; staffers Cindy Shaw, Sabrina Sullivan, Lawrence McCown, Ray Canales, and Melissa Garcia.

Winning individual awards in District 2-AAAA One-Act play competition were Kathy Norris, Dana Parham, Shane Sullivan, and Kelly Farguhar, All-Star Cast; David Etheredge, Best Actor; and Mike Everett, honorable mention.

In UIL competition held at WTC, SHS students garnered winnings as follows: David Etheredge, first in persuasive speaking; Dana Parham, first in poetry interpretation; Kathy Norris, second in prose interpretation; Wendy Hodge, second in news writing and third in headline writing; Guy Staton, second in science; Brad Vincent, alternate in persuasive speaking; and Phillip Greer, alternate in science.

Barbara Scrivner was named Woman of the Year by the Scurry Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association.

Juanita Hanson was honored with a retirement reception following 30-plus years of service with Scurry County extension agents and 4-H clubs.

10 YEARS AGO

Western Texas College Coach Nolan Richardson and his Westerners were awarded the fourth place trophy following the NJCAA National Basketball Tournament.

20 YEARS AGO

Snyder was named one of 11 All-America Cities, cited for refusing to give up when the end of oil drilling sent 16% of the population on their way taking local dollars and leaving truck loads of junk, jerrybuilt houses, and derelict autos.

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,

I want to take this opportunity to thank the Snyder Daily News and Bill McClellan for the outstanding coverage afforded our Lady Duster basketball program.

I was in Tyler preparing for the nationals, therefore, I missed the reception staged by the people of Snyder for our team upon their return.

The Dusters were extremely impressed and excited to say the least. I personally want to thank all of those involved with this endeavor.

These young ladies work very hard and make many sacrifices to represent Western Texas College and the City of Snyder. I believe the school and community can be extremely proud of the Dusters. They are a Class Act in more ways than just basketball.

Thanks again to all those in our city for your support.
Coach Kelly Chadwick

To the editor,

The Association for Retarded Citizens of Scurry County runs a continuous sale open on Tuesdays and Thursdays. All items for the sale are donated by the people of Snyder. All monies from the sale are used for the benefit of the mentally retarded in Scurry County.

I am the parent of one of the mentally retarded and my child, along with approximately 30 others in Snyder, receives benefits from this sale.

Our sale is run strictly by volunteers. For the past several years, Ida Mae King ran the sale on sale days. Due to health problems, she can no longer do this.

Johnnie Pyburn has volunteered her time for this now. A big thank you is due these people. To be ready to open on sale days, the items have to be sorted and placed. This takes more volunteers on Monday and

March 20, 1989

Some very important changes in your basic lifestyle may transpire in the year ahead. Several of them might be unsolicited on your part, yet, collectively, they should all turn out rather beneficial.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you might not be too cooperative, especially to those for whom you care the most. Oddly enough, you may feel they are the ones at fault, not you. Pisces, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Concentrate on the task at hand today, especially if you're working with unfamiliar tools or materials. If you do things in a hasty manner, without first reading labels or instructions, problems could result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Long shots might be more appealing to you today than the sure things. If you're hoping to reap big rewards the easy way, you may just be whistling Dixie.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your boiling point might be a bit lower than usual today and things that wouldn't normally faze you may stir you to a frenzy. Make an extra effort to keep your temper in check.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Instead of searching for nuances or hidden meanings, take companions' behavior at face value today. Don't read more into what transpires than they intended.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Financial conditions could be a bit tricky for you today, so move carefully in this area. Before you make any commitments, it's better for you sleep on them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You must be able to distinguish today between acceptable assertiveness or aggressive behavior. Coming on too strong could prove self-defeating.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually you're pretty good about forgiving and forgetting, but today you might not diplomatically handle a situation with someone with whom you've crossed swords in the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to make mountains out of molehills today, especially in your involvements with friends. There's a chance you might magnify minor infractions out of proportion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The way you'll want to do things today could be diametrically opposed to your mate's intentions. It may be up to you to make concessions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others might find fault with your views and opinions today, because of your manner of presentation. To be effective, be persuasive, not abrasive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Business and pleasure aren't apt to blend too compatibly today. It may be wise not to talk shop or try to promote a deal in a social setting.

Two advantageous relationships may be formed in the year ahead. Each will have far-reaching effects. Knowledge will be acquired through one contact and a new group of friends through the other.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Generally speaking, your one-to-one relationships should be rewarding for you today. However, you might have to contend with one individual who could mar your record. Major changes are ahead for Pisces in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your workload might be a trifle heavier today than usual, but it can be lightened substantially if you use your brains as well as your back. Think.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It might be wise to take a back seat socially today if you cross paths with a forceful individual who'll want the center stage alone. A low profile will attract more attention.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) All should be heard today regarding a matter that concerns the entire family. It could lead to problems later if one member of the clan didn't get two-cents worth in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If your positions or ideas are opposed by others today, don't respond in an angry fashion. Use your wit and tact to sway people to your way of thinking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In your important business dealings today, don't leave anything up to chance. Instead insist upon a complete disclosure of all relevant facts and figures.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) People with whom you'll have critical dealings today will be more eager to cooperate with you if you take time to point out how it will benefit them. Don't assume they understand.

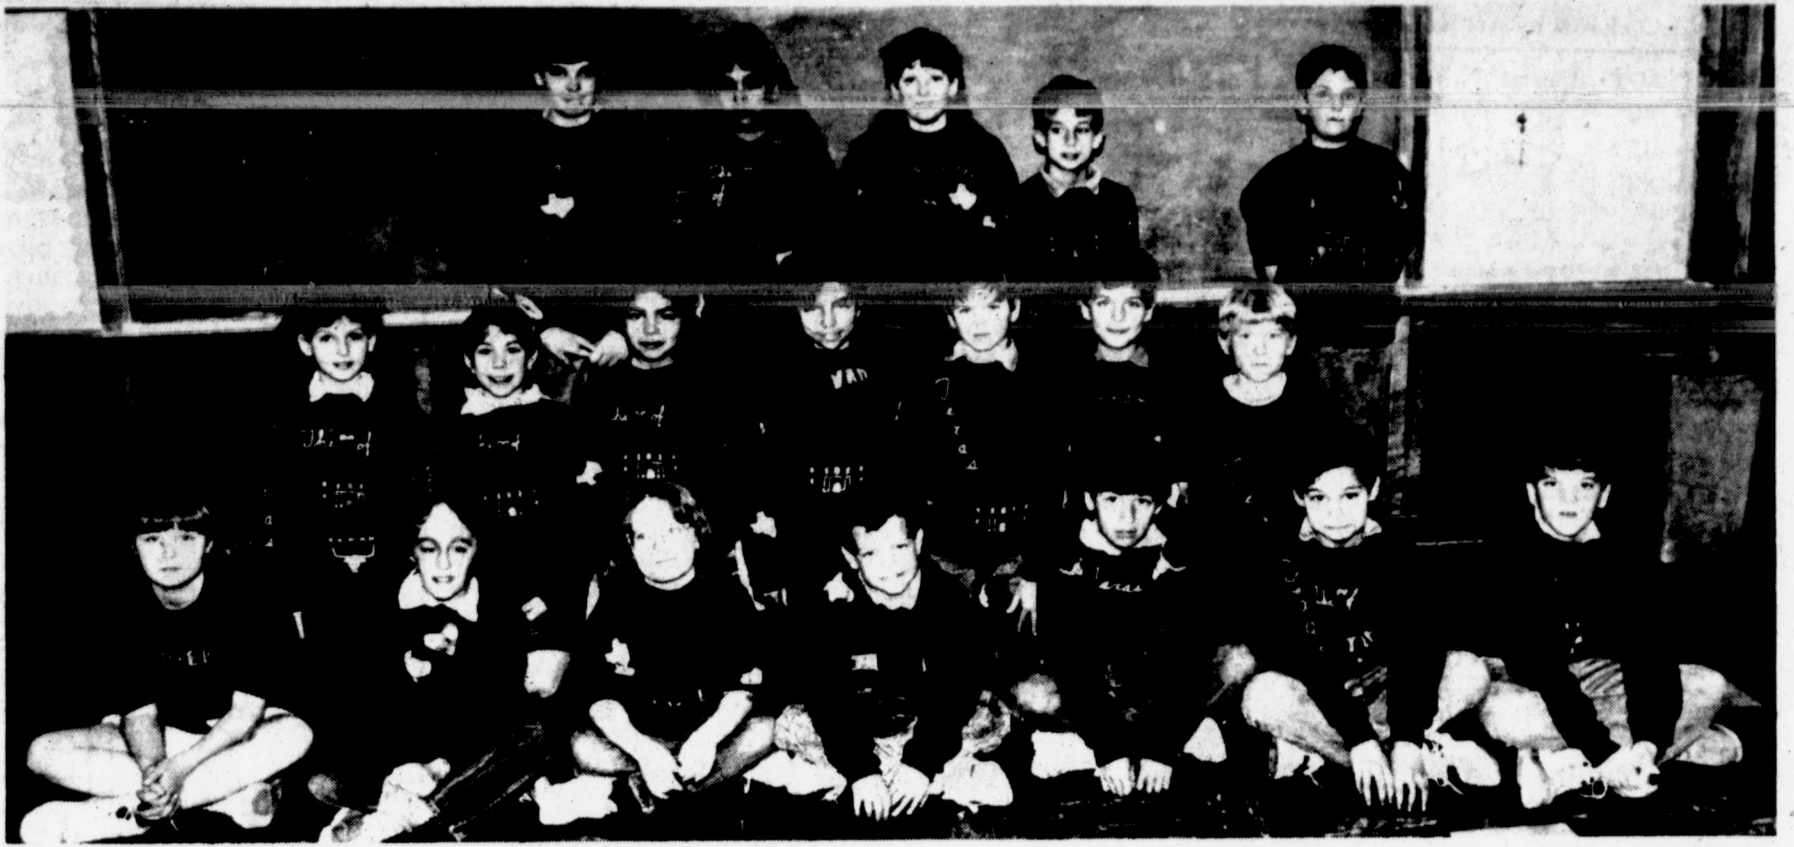

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your chances for success will be greatly enhanced today if your objectives are clearly defined and if you do not disclose your intentions prematurely to associates who aren't directly involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions look favorable today for important affairs you manage personally. Don't take gambles on developments that shift the control to someone other than yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be flexible and prepared to alter your tactics in a career matter today in case someone tries to put roadblocks in your path. If you're not locked into a specific procedure, you should do well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't put limitations on your thinking today or attempt to do things in a manner that your past experiences have shown to be unworkable. It's time to experiment with new methods.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your financial position can be strengthened at this time if you focus on ways to overcome unnecessary, small expenses. Collectively, trivial improvements can save you big bucks.

Business leaders hear Bush's message

HOUSTON (AP) — In his first hometown appearance since his Jan. 20 inauguration, President Bush told a luncheon gathering of his proposals to reform the troubled savings and loan industry.

"I've come home to Texas to tell you we're hard at work in Washington, and we're making progress," Bush told a crowd of about 2,000 at a Forum Club of Houston luncheon appearance Thursday in the George R. Brown Convention Center, where he claimed his presidential victory four months ago.

"And we're working hard on a serious problem all of Texas is aware of — the threat to our financial system caused by insolvent savings and loans," Bush said, calling the continuing thrift problems "ticking time bombs that we need to defuse without delay."

Bush called for quick congressional approval of legislation to rescue the savings and loan industry, stressing that the solution "must ensure the least possible disruption to local markets," such as hard-hit Texas.

"We must clean up the savings and loan system so that the questionable practices and the outright illegalities that caused the current crisis will never happen again," he said. "And let me say clearly, we must see to it that those S&L officials guilty of criminal actions are pursued and punished for the losses they've caused."

Federal regulators Thursday took over 16 additional Texas thrifts, mostly in East Texas, bringing to 50 the number of state savings and loans institutions brought under federal conservatorship this year.

The 16 thrifts, with total assets of $2.04 billion and deposits of $2.56 billion, were among 47 taken over nationally as part of the Bush administration's plan to rescue the struggling industry.

In all, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. has assumed control of 165 institutions in 25 states.

Bush drew enthusiastic applause Thursday with his promises to cut the federal deficit, boost the nation's business climate and clean up the state's ailing thrift system.

Bush also said he is optimistic legislation to ease regulations in the natural gas pipeline industry will be approved by Congress, a key concern for many Texas energy companies.

He described a bill deregulating the pipeline industry as having "the best chance of happening in the last 20 years" of being approved, and promised: "This administration will send no conflicting signals on this one... It will be a priority."

Bush was with fellow Houstonian Robert Mosbacher Sr., his secretary of commerce, praising his business experience as a key to improving the economy of Texas and the nation.

He listed numerous initiatives from his new administration, including his support of a six-month training wage and a minimum wage cap at $4.25, a figure lower than that proposed by Congress.

Touring Egyptian exhibit shelved

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — This city seems to have mastered the art of being snubbed.

For the second time in less than a year, the city has lost a bid to host a traveling Egyptian art exhibit.

Last summer, San Antonio lost out to Dallas in its bid to host the Ramses II exhibit and now the city has been told that "The Glory of Egypt" exhibit, which had been set to open in April 1990, has been postponed indefinitely.

In a letter to San Antonio Museum Association President E. Laurence Chalmers, National Gallery of Art Director J. Carter Brown said the entire five-city tour had been shelved.

Soviets embrace idea of family farm

MOSCOW (AP) — In a bold move aimed at increasing Soviet food supplies, Communist Party leaders have embraced the concept of the family farm to allow citizens to lease land for life and pass it on to their heirs.

The policy-setting Central Committee also approved measures to improve the quality of food eaten by the average Soviet, who consumes only about half as much meat and fruit as the typical American but much more sugar and potatoes.

The committee ended a two-day session Thursday by adopting a long-awaited agricultural reform package that it says will eliminate most food shortages by 1996.

"We are not promising something that we cannot achieve, but we assure that we will be able to change the food situation for the better," Politburo member Yegor K. Ligachev told a news conference.

Giant collective and state farms, onto which peasants were herded by the millions during Josef Stalin's bloody collectivization campaign of 60 years ago, will remain the backbone of the Soviet farm system.

But the reform is based on Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's proposal to give farmers long-term leases on the state-owned land. Leases may range from five years to 50 years, and may be inherited, said Vsevolod S. Murakhovsky, head of an agricultural superministry formed in a previous reform effort.

In an admission of failure, the Central Committee decided Thursday to abolish the agency.

Gorbachev has pushed the leasing idea hard since last year, saying it is a critical element in solving what he views as the Soviet Union's most urgent problem — supplying people with enough good quality food.

In a dismal accounting of the Soviet farm system, he said

Wednesday that the food shortage "creates social tension and generates not merely criticism but actual discontent."

But those who take the risk of leasing land from their collective or state farm often are regarded with suspicion and jealousy by their neighbors and local officials, and sometimes forced out of business.

Ligachev, who once was considered the No. 2 Kremlin leader and now oversees the party's agricultural policy, said leasing will be accompanied by reliance on self-financing and making village life more democratic.

Distrust of especially prosperous farmers remains deeply embedded in the Soviet countryside, the legacy of the collectivization campaign when such farmers were branded "kulaks" and shot, starved or sent into exile.

Western experts say it may be hard to convince many Soviet collective and state farmers to take the risk of striking out on their own because of their neighbors' distrust and fears that authorities could suddenly abandon the reforms.

To set targets, he said, would be to invite Moscow to force the reforms rather than to let them take hold naturally.

To The People Of Snyder from Olney Savings

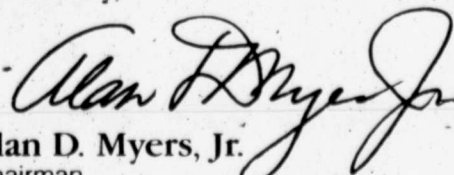

You're probably fed up with bad economic news about Texas and our financial institutions, so how about a little good news for a change.

Under the Southwest Plan, several savings institutions have been combined to form single institutions with assets in the billions of dollars. Olney Savings is one of those vital organizations with assets of over 4.5 billion dollars. Olney is owned and operated by Texans, successful Texans, with a desire to see Texas and its people succeed.

It was important to fix those problems created by a puny economy, and now that it's done, it's time for everybody to get back to business. This is why we are writing this letter — because we appreciate your business and pledge to provide the products and services you need to make your lives simpler and more secure.

We are paying extremely competitive rates on your deposits, and we're making loans. Try doing business with Olney Savings. We'll make it worth your while.

Sincerely,

Paramedics went back to sleep after being called

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — A hospital executive says a Dallas-Forth Worth Medical Center ambulance crew got three calls asking for emergency service for a heart attack victim and went back to sleep after each call.

Hospital vice president Pat Gouddy Thursday night told the Grand Prairie Ambulance Advisory Board that Clarence Cowden, 77, was dead when he arrived at the hospital about an hour after his wife first called emergency services.

Gouddy said the information was obtained during an investigation of the Feb. 8 incident. Both paramedics, who were not identified, were later fired, Gouddy said.

Board members appeared to be stunned as they listened to the report at an emotional meeting attended by Cowden's two children.

"This is kind of a bomb that was dropped on us tonight," John Jenkins, chairman of the advisory board said. "We need time to digest all this."

Gouddy said a 911 dispatcher received a call from Cowden's wife, Thelma Cowden, at 3:14 a.m. The dispatcher called the ambulance crew at a substation 1.5 miles from Cowden's home.

The driver received the call at 3:15 a.m. in one of two bedrooms at the station, Gouddy said. The other crew member did not have a telephone in his room, he said.

The dispatcher made two more calls when the crew did not announce its departure on the radio. Both times a crew member answered the telephone, but the ambulance did not move, Gouddy said.

At 3:30 a.m., Gouddy said, an ambulance from another station was dispatched. It arrived at the Cowden home at 3:35 a.m., 21 minutes after the first call, he said.

"We have determined that human error was at fault," Gouddy said.

The driver did not recall taking the calls or hearing the telephone ring, Gouddy said.

"We assume he (the ambulance driver) took the calls and fell back asleep," Gouddy said.

Members of a Fire Department crew routinely dispatched to the Cowden home told dispatcher about the delay while they worked to revive Cowden.

Hospital emergency services director Randal Martin said the ambulance that picked Cowden up took a two-mile detour to the hospital in order to avoid ice patches on the street, he added.

Officials said Cowden was dead on arrival at the hospital about an hour after the first call, but an investigation has not established whether an early arrival of the ambulance would have saved him.

The ambulance drivers were suspended immediately after their shift ended at 7:00 a.m. and were later fired, Gouddy said.

Mrs. Cowden said her husband had a history of kidney problems, but not of heart ailments.

"I was up with my husband and he started having trouble breathing," she said.

"Suddenly, he just fell over," she said. "I tried to work with him and there wasn't a sign of life. I called my son, he lives just a few blocks away, and he said to call 911."

The son, Marvin Cowden, said he arrived just before the firefighters and did not see any obvious signs of life in his father.

Cowden said the family was not seeking to punish anyone, but "Something has got to be done to make sure these people are on the ball."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

Even After It's Over, 'Other Woman' Has a Role to Play

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Heartsick in Illinois," whose husband used their bed at home to have an affair. She urged readers contemplating an affair to have the decency to do it somewhere other than their own bed. And you advised her to do everything in her power to forget.

I, too, am married to a man who had an affair, and during the past two years I've come a long way with the help of a therapist. I have learned much and would like to pass along some additional advice for women who are having — or have had — affairs with married men.

Even among thieves there is a code of ethics, so if just one "other woman" heeds a few of these suggestions, it will go a long way toward helping the wife "to forget." We human beings, just like lower forms of animal life, have our territorial rights. The more of these territories violated by an intruder (another woman, in this case), the harder it is for the wife to forget.

ADVICE TO OTHER WOMEN (Once the wife knows about the affair)

1. Don't write to the wife asking for compassion.
2. If you do write, don't send it to the wife's place of employment, as this may be her one haven of escape.
3. If you haven't already violated the wife's home, don't send mail there, either. This goes for Christmas cards, too.
4. Don't continue to attend his softball games. But if you choose to ignore this advice, at least don't sit next to his wife.
5. Don't join his church, of which his family had been active members for many years. (We now no longer attend.)
6. Don't move into his neighborhood.
7. If you decide to leave the husband's workplace, don't take a job where his wife works. Then, if you leave the wife's company and return to your former employer, if you've requested an assignment in a different department than the husband's, be big enough to stand by that request if management asks you to work with him again.

8. Don't join the fitness center where the wife has worked out for several years.

9. Don't talk with his children, pretending that they don't know about you.

10. Don't stand behind the wife in the grocery store checkout line; busy yourself in the produce department until she has left the store.

11. Don't kid yourself that no one at work or among your mutual friends noticed what was going on between you.

12. Don't glibly tell the wife that you have forgiven yourself, forgetting that forgiveness does not include responsibility for your offenses, or thinking that it means all is forgiven and forgotten.

Thank God, I don't have to forget about the violation of my bed, but I'm still trying to forget about the above listed violations — all of which happened to me.

So, Abby, continue to advise the wives to get therapy. It helps. And, please, advise the "other women" to accept the end of the affair — when it's over — and to show some sensitivity to someone who has been deeply hurt. She's already been violated enough.

MUCH TO FORGET IN ALLENTOWN

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE GREAT DANE: When he (or she) says, "I think we should both start dating others" — it's the beginning of the end.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I asked a friend whether he had noticed (especially on TV) how many people use the term "you know" as a filler for a thought in a sentence or instead of finishing a sentence. He said he had not noticed, and now he wishes I had not brought it to his attention because it is driving him buggy!

Seriously, I think it is a bad national habit, and should be brought to the attention of the public, you know? And where better than through Dear Abby, you know?

A NEBRASKA FAN

DEAR FAN: You know (or did you?) that I dealt with this subject about four years ago. The evidence:

DEAR ABBY: A million thanks for pointing out the irritating speech habit that so many of our young people exhibit today. I refer to the use of "you know" three or four times in one sentence. It is simply maddening to hear "you know, you know, you know" from so many celebrities (especially athletes) while they're being interviewed on television and radio.

I started to fall into that habit when I was in college. One of my professors helped me to overcome it when every time I said "you know," he interrupted me with, "No, I DON'T know until you tell me."

Please print this, Abby. If everyone who is guilty of the "you know" habit would ask a friend to interrupt him with, "No, I DON'T know," what a blessing it would be.

NO MORE YOU-KNOWS

DEAR NO MORE: I could fill an entire column with complaints about sloppy speech habits — and I think I will! Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I dearly love the English language, but it appears that either our English teachers aren't teaching, or their students aren't learning. I am appalled at the number of teen-agers who use the verb "goes" instead of "says." Example in point: "Butch and I were discussing this problem, and Butch goes, 'But you promised you'd do it.' Then I go, 'Well, I changed my mind.' So Butch goes, 'That's not fair; a promise is a promise.' Then my mom goes, 'Will you kids stop fighting!' and I go, 'We aren't fighting!'"

Abby, please point out that "goes" is a verb meaning forward motion in movement, not speech. We are producing a nation of imbecilic-sounding youths holding bachelor degrees. And they can't spell, either!

A. IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: Basically, this letter is about people who basically overuse a particular word, or groups of words. Basically, the worst offenders are people who say "you know" four or five times in one sentence — basically speaking, you know.

You know how overworked those basic words can seem after, basically, a short period of time. You know, I find such repetitions basically nauseating, really.

Based on my aversion, you know, I'm considering taking drastic action to, basically, draw attention to this basic speech fault by taping the offenders' mouths shut, you know?

I'm basically a fan of yours, you know, so would you see if there are many others out there who, you know, have basically the same reaction?

GAIL H. SHOREWOOD,
WISCONSIN

DEAR GAIL: You know, basically, I can understand your irritation because I DO know such sloppy speech habits are formed by people with, basically, limited vocabularies.

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." Safety concerns may halt use of acoustical canopy DALLAS (AP) — Safety concerns about a $2.1 million acoustical canopy for the new $81.5 million Morton H. Myerson Symphony Center may result in the canopy not being operational for up to two years, the project's construction manager says.

The canopy, which weighs 42 tons, will be suspended over the orchestra area and about 200 audience seats and is intended to be an integral part of the hall's sound quality.

A consultant's report said if the canopy were operated as designed it "would not be safe, and there is a high probability that the complex canopy system would fail to perform as intended."

The canopy, made of steel and wood, is intended to be raised and lowered and tilted from side to side with different performances to improve acoustics by focusing sound directly at the audience. It has not been installed in the hall, which is scheduled to be completed in September.

A letter dated Feb. 21 from the hall's construction manager, J.W. Bateson Co., to the Dallas Public Works Commission said that because of concerns about safety during movement, the canopy may remain stationary for as long as two years.

"Considering all information available to us, we do not consider the hydraulic rigging system to be in the city's or the symphony's long-term best interest," Bruce Lady, a senior vice president for Bateson, said in the letter.

The Dallas Morning News reported today that as late as last month, Bateson, a subcontractor hired to install the canopy, and the New York acoustics company that designed it.
