

A DALLAS RELATIVE WROTE to this column on the Fourth of July, informing that the city was badly in need of water, restricting the use of it for sprinkling.

"We also have three months quarantine on all dogs," declared the relative. "All have to be confined to close quarters or tied up. A postman was badly bitten by a dog a few days ago."

And when 8:30 a.m. rolled around July 4th the relative said: "Already, the ambulances are burning up the Boulevard. So far I haven't been bothered by firecrackers."

And so goes the hazards the fellow living in the city must face, rather than to live in a small town where peace and quiet reign during national holidays.

Here in Stanton July Fourth found the stillness of all lines of activity lulled to the quiet of a cat's walk. No sound of sirens to clear the path for the onrush of the ambulance to pick up the wounded from explosion of firecrackers or the transporting of a victim of automobile collision to hospital.

Neither has our town of Stanton been threatened with a maddog invasion as has our relative's city, and all owners be made to keep their dogs penned up for the duration of a three months' period.

While Dallas is restricting its citizens to use water only for sprinkling purposes, Stanton citizens are free of restricting the use of any amount of water they may use. The pocketbook controls the amount the consumer uses.

To top off an otherwise perfect July Fourth enjoyed in Stanton, was the delightful and invigorating shower of rain which visited the town about 4 p.m. in the evening, leaving behind about one inch and a half of moisture, and lowering the temperature from 90 degrees to 70 degrees cool.

The shower extended its scope of territory to the Courtney community, five miles northwest of Stanton. There it dumped an estimated amount of four inches on the community, the largest rain to fall at one time in that sector in many years.

Sid Cross farming at Courtney 4 1/2 miles received 4 1/2 inches, accompanied by hail which damaged his cotton 50 per cent.

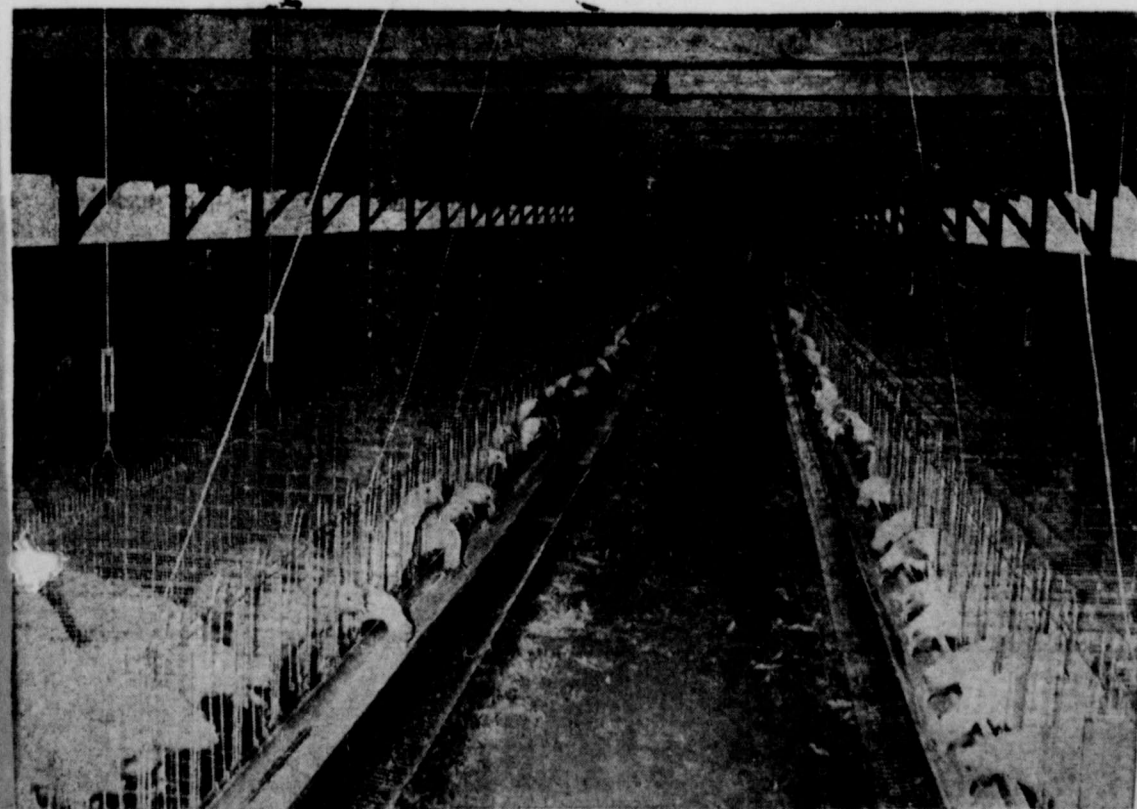

Anyway, it was the Fourth of July, 1956 in Stanton, and free of anything to mar the occasion.

THE CITIZENS OF STANTON, especially those affected, are up in arms over the promiscuous distribution of empty beer cans on their property or bordering on their property. One local resident reported that when he arose in the morning his front yard looked like a dumping ground for empty beer cans. During the night someone had dumped his accumulation of cans on his property. Other property owners said the number of cans found on their premises ranged from one or two rolled up to the steps on the front porch, to half a dozen scattered over the lawn. Removing the beer cans one morning, some of the citizens reported they would find a new batch of empty cans on the place the next morning.

Residents said from the looks of the pile of cans dumped on their property, suspected that the intruder had unloaded his supply of empty beer cans he had allowed to accumulate.

In other offenses committed there are laws to take care of the victim who disregards them. Whether there is a law that Farmers can secure the gasoline tax claim form and the 15-page booklet from their county agent to claim a refund of federal tax paid on gasoline ordered for farming purposes, according to J. F. Wilson, Administrative Officer of the Midland office.

Bob Schell Back For 23rd Reunion

Back in the year 1912 there landed in Stanton a young man, 25 years old, direct from Cincinnati, Ohio. It matters neither here nor there, whether he had ever heard of Horace Greeley's advice, "go west young man and grow up with the country," this young man came west anyway.

Robert Schell of Denver, Colo. classed as one of the old time residents of Martin County, called at The Reporter office Tuesday morning, to shake the hand of an old friend.

He was the young man, who at the age of 25 years of age, and as "green as a gourd," his own

Old Timer Visits Reporter Office

It was Tuesday, and marked on the calendar as the heyday for the old timers of Martin County, both at home, and to those who had 20 years and more ago, lived in Stanton and now reside in other states. The visitors were greeted by local old timers dressed in old western style clothes. The Reporter office was visited Tuesday morning by an old timer of Martin County, dressed in cowboy apparel, leather chaps and all. He was John Peters, a descendant of the Peters Colony, who came to Martin County in the early 80's.

Peters was accompanied by A. Knapp of Big Spring, who was born in Martin County in August 1884. Knapp's father was a member of the original Peter Colony. At that time Stanton was named Marientfeld.

Mr. Knapp has been in the wholesale meat business in Big Spring for 50 years. He was here to attend the Old Settlers Reunion. And although in his 71st year, he says he is enjoying good health.

More About The Bob Deavenport Feature Story

In the last issue of The Stanton Reporter a feature story about Bob Deavenport appeared on the front page.

From the information we had at the time we wrote the story we thought we covered the ground pretty well and did mention all of the names of local people that had been supplied to us who had aided and assisted Bob in getting his Boy Scouts off to camp and back home over a 10-year period.

But we missed the boat. And thanks to Claude Nowlin, who telephoned the office and set us straight. This year three of our neighbors from the Alsop Chevrolet Company drove trucks down loaded with the Boy Scouts equipment to their camp in the Davis Mountains.

Those three men were L. D. Davis, H. L. Curry and Ellis Britton. Sorry fellows that your names were unintentionally omitted from the story about Bob United We Stand, Divided We're Stuck . . .

Max Triplett, manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Wink consumed column one on the front page of the Wink Bulletin last week, to inform the citizens that, "The freedoms that are assured us by law are very peculiar. They allow us to be either saint or sinner, a success or a bum, to be serious or silly, and even give our freedom away."

Triplett advanced the idea that all of us in small towns must cooperate and act together to fight for those things which are beneficial in the rebuilding of our town and community.

Continuing Triplett said: "If there is not the true pioneering spirit in our moral spirit, our spiritual and business lives, no amount of legislation can replace the drive which comes from within rather than imposed upon us."

As much as to say, if we in the small towns, will lay aside petty jealousy, stick together, plan together, decide unanimously on issues that are far-reaching into the future of the advancement of our town and community, then we have won an almost 100 per cent battle in establishing security for the business enterprises of our town and built a foundation upon which will rest safe and secure the people of the whole community.

Triplett cites an example displayed by the citizens of a small Texas town. Despite the visit of a drouth to the community and cutting deep inroads into the financial interest of the small business, this citizenship banded themselves together to whip the condition that prevailed. The example of the true cooperative spirit and the result which followed, Triplett said:

"Take the case of Bangs, Texas. In 1951, it was hard hit by the drouth. Business was dwindling, people leaving, and future prospects were dim. They got together. Set up a small business, and started solving their own problems. By their own creative efforts, 50 people are on the payroll a $300,000 business has been built in three years and the town is on a solid financial basis. No law forced them to do it. No aid was proffered. They did for themselves what no government could, preserved self respect, and illustrated the true meaning of Democratic free enterprise."

County Agricultural agents in Hale and Washington counties are credited with developing a hay marketing program between alfalfa growers in Hale County and dairy farmers in Washington County.

Extension foods and nutrition specialists say that men over 50 generally need more foods rich in vitamin C than do women of about the same age. Both groups probably need more protein and iron and less fat than most get in their daily diet.

Philosopher Favors Scattering Around Privileges Equally

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his Johnson Grass farm on Mustang Draw will get nowhere with his idea this week, but does he ever?)

Dear editor:
I never have worried about the privileges other people have so long as mine are holding up, but when a privilege comes along that doesn't cost anything and other people are entitled to, I'm in favor of scattering it around.

What I'm leading up to is the privilege Congressmen and other Washington officials have of being misquoted.

You take a bigshot Washington official, he can rear back and make a statement to the newspaper reporters, and when it comes out in print and sounds a whole lot different and worse in the light of sober after-thought, the bigshot can correct himself by saying he was misquoted.

Some people criticize them for this, saying they're trying to crawlfish out, but I don't hold to that at all. What I'd like to see is a more universal use of this idea.

Take a man who's stood an in-law's visit about as long as he can and makes a remark to his wife along this line, and peace and harmony are destroyed. The next day, especially if it had the desired result and the in-law took off for home, he could write him saying he was misquoted, that his statement had been taken out of context, as they say in Washington.

Or say I get a letter from the bank saying my note is due. If I could get round the situation by saying I'd been misquoted on the due date, when I was quoted as saying July 1, I meant to say I'd pay it back October 1, and the bank would correct the error, I'd feel like I was getting treatment equal to a Congressman and his boners.

The man who has never put his foot in his mouth hasn't shown up around here yet, and this misquoting angle is the handiest answer I've ever seen to the problem.

Any time you don't agree with anything I write in The Stanton Reporter blame yourself for misquoting me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BIBLE COMMENT

'Members One Of Another' Is Christian Ideal

The disciples, a comparatively small fellowship living in a hostile world, possessed all things in common. It was a matter altogether of voluntary action. There was no power forcing those who had possessions to sell them and put them into the common resources.

Their common faith and their common sufferings had drawn them together, and made possible such an experience. Their society was vastly different from ours, for they had no greed, no selfishness, no self-seeking. All were "members one of another," and each had his part in giving and receiving.

Such an ideal condition did not last long in the early church, true, for there began murmuring concerning the unjust distribution of common funds and the preference that was given for some over others.

It being the purpose of the early Christian church to do right, the apostles sought immediately to adjust this matter, but they themselves felt that their ministry was the ministry of the word of God. Therefore, they proposed to the disciples that responsible men be picked who could attend effectually and wisely to the economic adjustments within the church.

We are disposed to regard this as the original institution of deacons, and those who were chosen were ordained for their particular tasks by the laying on of the apostles' hands.

This spirit—of organizing the common resources of a group for the welfare of all—ought to be always prevalent in the church,

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Keep The Change"

If you've seen "Mac" Johnson this week, chances are he's told you his waitress story. For those who haven't heard:

"Mac" recently stopped at an out-of-town diner. He ordered the chef's special—and his waitress (brand new on the job) made every possible mistake. She confused the order, spilled the soup, dropped the rolls, brought him a wrong dessert.

Despite it all, "Mac" left a substantial tip. But she smiled and handed the money back. "Keep it, Mister—you've sure earned it more than I have," she said.

From where I sit, that girl deserves credit for admitting her shortcomings—something not everyone is big enough to do. For instance, I'm convinced lots of folks know they're wrong when they deny me the right to a glass of beer with my supper... just because they happen to prefer some other beverage. They wouldn't like me ordering them to accept my choice.

Now-GMC gives you a bonus of up to 3 gallons in every tankful!

Talk about low-cost GMC ownership! With its new high-ratio cruising axle, a Blue Chip GMC pickup now gives you up to 17.8% better gas mileage. That's 3 gallons' worth of bonus miles in every filling!

And you get far better road speeds, too, from an easy-stroking, unstrained engine. In short, from a mere $10.50 axle option, GMC now gives you the advantages of a $125 overdrive.*

Add this new gas-stretching ability to the super-efficiency of a GMC 180 hp V8 engine—to the moneysaving advantages of Hydra-Matic Drive*—and an important fact is clear:

The operation and maintenance savings of Blue Chip features can bring the overall cost of a half-ton GMC down to the level of—or below—the cheapest stripped-model truck on the market.

Of course, you'd always have preferred a Blue Chip GMC to any other truck. But now—with cost so strongly in its favor—there's no need to step down. Come in and tell us what colors you want on your GMC.

*Optional at moderate extra cost

You're 'way ahead of them all for action when you drive this glamorous go-getter...

And you're way ahead in value, too—for, believe it or not, you can own this big and brawny beauty for less than you'd have to pay for 43 models of the three small cars!

Here's the perfect way to break the small-car habit. Drive it—price it—today!

Work Will Begin On Soil, Water Needs For Nation

Work will begin immediately on a national inventory of soil and water conservation needs.

The inventory, according to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, is intended to equip the Department for more efficient planning and carrying out of its work involving soil and water.

Each county in the United States will be inventoried. Plans call for completing the initial work in three years, with periodic revisions thereafter to keep the information and figures up to date.

Benson said, "With the inventory, we can make reasonable estimates of the magnitude and urgency of the various conservation measures needed to maintain and improve the country's productive capacity for all the people."

The Secretary has directed the Soil Conservation to carry out the study with the help of the Agricultural Conservation Program Service, Agricultural Research Service, Commodity Stabilization Service, Federal Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration and Forest Service.

Representatives of these agencies will make up a national Soil and Water Conservation Needs Committee which will develop procedures and guide the program. Comparable committees in the states and territories will be named to carry out the work at that level.

In addition, cooperation of state and local agencies, organizations and groups concerned with soil, water, forest, range and wildlife conservation will be actively solicited. These include the land-grant colleges, soil conservation districts, state forestry and conservation departments, water agencies and similar groups.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

NO WILL? STATE LAWS WILL NAME YOUR HEIRS

What will happen if you should die without executing a legal and proper will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, wife, mother, father, children, your wife's relatives? The best way you can say who will have it is to provide a will which will protect your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes.

When a deceased has no will, or dies "intestate" as the law calls it, the property that the law is distributed according to a detailed formula fixed by law. In some cases this may be the way you yourself would divide it—but in many cases it is not.

The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated, and all of the possibilities cannot be covered by a general statement.

There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homesteaded property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parent who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community estate between them.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

MARTIN-HOWARD SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT Present Supervisors—

J. T. Flowers, Ollie Robertson, Edgar Phillips, Laurence Davis,

Three-fourths of the dry land in this area has never had enough moisture to plant on as yet. The planting season on cash crops is just about gone and a great many farmers are wondering what to plant that will grow fast on very little moisture and still furnish cover over the winter. Most will be planting grain sorghum or cane which will furnish a good cover if rains come in July or early August.

However probably the fastest growing crop that would furnish the cover quicker than anything else would be common or German Millet. This can be planted in rows or broadcast and will germinate and produce cover under very limited moisture conditions. Millet grows fast enough that it will produce adequate cover before frost if it is planted by the last of September. The planting rate for millet is 3-6 pounds per acre in rows and 8-15 pounds per acre drilled or broadcast.

The basic soil conservation objective is the use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre of agricultural land in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement. Soil conservation service technicians have been busy the past few weeks making evaluations of sprinkler systems to determine efficiency of applied water and to determine amount of water being applied. Anyone interested in getting an evaluation of their system may do so by contacting the SCS office in Stanton.

Plant residue increases the water holding capacity of the soil and reduces soil losses.

A Man Texans Know ... and Respect

you'll get TWO LETTERS and FIVE NUMERALS in your telephone number on C-DAY

all telephone numbers will change in Stanton on August 5

August 5 will be C-Day (Change Day) for all Stanton telephone numbers. On that date, Stanton will join the nation-wide telephone numbering system.

Beginning that day—Sunday, August 5—all telephone numbers here will have two letters and five numerals. In general, there will be no change in the last four numerals of telephone numbers. Only the first two letters of the new central office name and a number will be added—SK yline 6 (SK 6). For example, number 4-5111 will become SK yline 6-5111, and you'll dial SK-6-5-1-1-1

However— for technical reasons— some numbers will have to be changed entirely.

New telephone directories, containing all the new numbers, will be distributed throughout the city. Be sure not to use your new directory until August 5.

Starting August 5, you will dial a new way. But the change is simple, and it paves the way for telephone progress.

Just as easy... only different

Starting August 5, you'll dial the first two letters of the central office name, then the five numerals. For example, to call SK yline 6-5111, dial SK-6-5-1-1-1.

When you give a telephone number to the operator, or to a friend, the easy way to say it is to break it up like this: "SK yline-six . . . five-one . . . one-one."

This is the best way to say it—to understand it—to remember it.

HERE'S THE NEW LOOK IN TELEPHONE NUMBERS

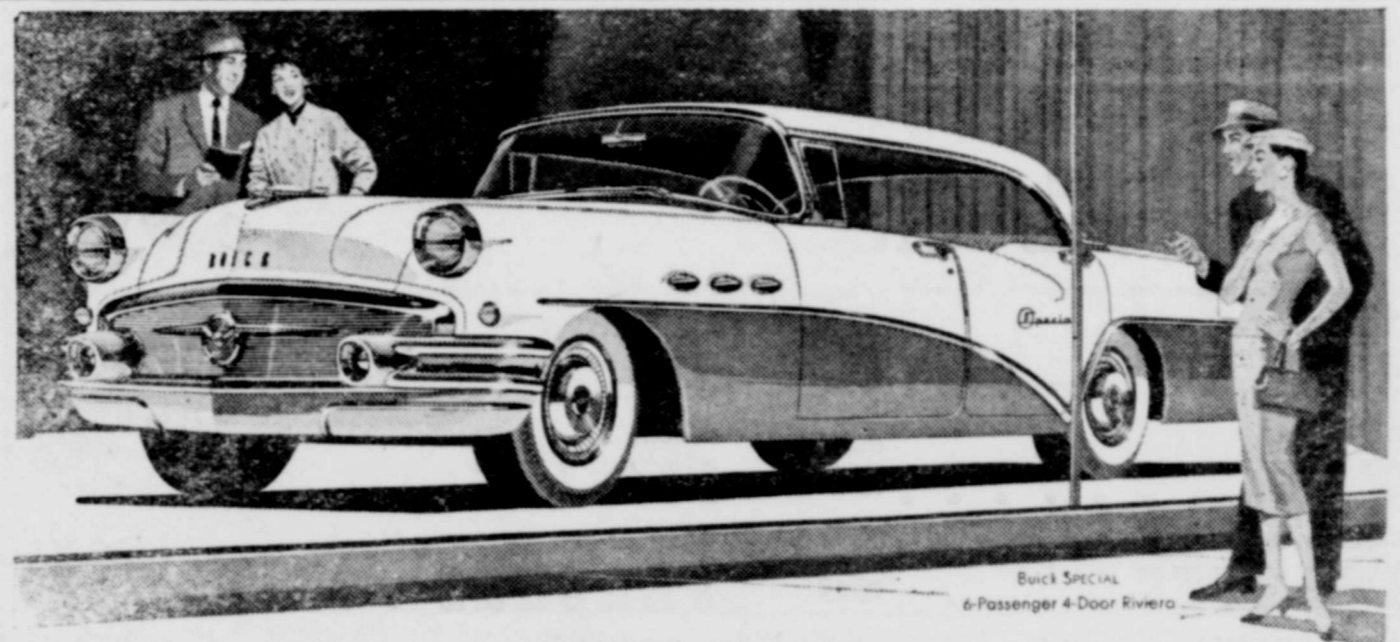

New system means telephone progress

The new numbering system will bring even better service for you and all other telephone users in Stanton. It is part of a nation-wide program for a uniform numbering plan designed to increase the speed of long distance service.

would fit the case of one who dumps empty beer cans on other folks property, we couldn't say, but at least their presence on the lawns of Stanton property owners, creates a disfiguration to the beauty of the property and a certain amount of humiliation to the owner who has to remove them.
Anything could happen to the victim if caught in the act of throwing empty beer cans on Stanton city property—law or no law.

WELL, IT HAPPENED AS WE have mentioned so many times in the past. That at this season of year when showers fall, that whatever the amount of rain fell, the farmer was due to feel the effects of serious damage to his crops. The four inch rain visiting the Courtney community last week, also wrecked considerably damage to the growing crop of cotton. A hail storm accompanied the rain and it together with the heavy sand storm pushed by a 40-mile gale, destroyed many acres of cotton. The section visited struck the heart of the irrigation belt of the county. The farmers said the prospects of fine crop was the best they had ever had. No attempt will be made to plant over the crop. The farmer will stake a win or lose proposition by leaving the damaged crops stand and hope that many of the plants will emerge from the "jolt" making a pretty fair crop.
Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Driver, Leslie, Sandra and Jake, of Los Angeles, Calif. have been visiting her mother, Mrs. G. L. Thompson and other relatives. Also recent visitors in Mrs. Thompson's home were Mr. and Mrs. Sherlie Thompson and Kenny of Amarillo.
Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, George Peters, and Mrs. Jimmy Marshall of Odessa visited on Thursday in Sonora with their daughter, Mrs. Erlene Mills, and also with another daughter, Mrs. Clara Odum of Ozona. Mrs. Peters stayed for a visit of several days but the others returned home.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Towery have returned from Baxter Springs, Kan. where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gibson.

Bob Schell

quotation, stopped in Stanton. To demonstrate how green he was, Schell in his own words said he got his first job hoeing cotton for a farmer. He was told by the farmer he wanted the cotton chopped clean. The farmer had watermelons growing in his cotton patch. Needless to mention what Schell did to the melon vines.
Bob Schell was in the dry goods business where the Chapman store is now from 1932 to 1941. Was a leader in all civic matters and in all things that were for the benefit of the town and community.
In 1941 Schell and his family moved to Denver, Colo. His five children with them in Stanton, have all married and have families of their own. There were four girls and one boy.
Last year Schell missed the Old Settlers Reunion for the first time in many years.
Out-of-town guests who attended the Green-Allred wedding Friday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Green were Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer and Robert and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Long, all of Big Spring, and W. H. Manness Jr. of Oxnard, Calif.

SMELLS AS SWEET—Billy Chapman does an unsteady bend to take a man-size whiff of a rose blossom in his back yard at McLean, Va. Only 15 months old, Billy goes from plant to plant, making his own floral inspection.
