

...example of the great value Red Cross is to a community in distress following the ravages suffered by a flood is best reflected in an editorial appearing in a recent issue of The Lampasas Dispatch.

In its support of the Red Cross drive for funds during this month of March the Dispatch stated that the Red Cross spent over one-quarter million dollars in rehabilitating the city of Lampasas following the flood disaster.

"All of this was gifts," the Dispatch editorial said. "Not one penny of it was loaned."

"This money had a far-reaching effect. It helped many people rebuild a home that otherwise could not have been rebuilt. It also helped the merchants of the town. The money spent here saved many merchants."

The quick response of the Red Cross moving in on the disaster area and contributing its aid to suffering. The Dispatch editor stated:

"The Red Cross moved right in and started help quickly. This included emergency food and clothing as well as the almost one-quarter million dollars spent to rebuild homes and money for emergency needs. The Red Cross needs our help now to meet future emergency needs. I feel we are obligated to go over the top in the current drive for funds."

C. C. Program Projects To Be Announced

Allen Singleton has received material from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, co-sponsors of the recent Community Clinic held in Stanton, outlining projects recommended by citizens and incorporated into the report.

Singleton stated that a board of directors meeting would be held to determine what projects would be accepted as the program highlights for the chamber of commerce here throughout the remainder of the current year and for early 1959.

At the clinic held in Stanton in February citizens were requested to submit recommendations for community improvements. Many suggestions were offered and the parent chamber in Abilene took them all under advisement, and from the entire lot, agreed to sift out the better proposals. Their selections were returned to Singleton and after the board meeting the main projects and overall work program will be published in the columns of The Stanton Reporter.

Government Hospital Debt Set At $67,000

County Judge Jim McCoy advised The Stanton Reporter today that a meeting held in his office Friday afternoon determined the exact amount Martin County Memorial Hospital owed the government under the Hill-Burton Act.

The indebtedness to Uncle Sam adds up to $67,000.

McCoy stated that all four county commissioners, Dr. W. F. Osenfort, T. H. Seltzer, both of Dallas and representing the government, and Guy Daniels and H. M. Bohn of Austin, representing the state, met for the session at 2 p. m. last Friday.

Dr. Leland Nelson, Stanton doctor, also attended the meeting.

Judge McCoy stated that the meeting was called to find out how the indebtedness could be determined and paid off in event the county elected to either sell or lease the hospital.

Amarillo Oil Gets Discovery In Devonian

By JAMES C. WATSON Twelve miles southwest of Stanton in Northeast Midland County, Amarillo Oil Company is assured a Devonian discovery at its No. 1 Fasken.

The prospector took a two-hour drillstem test at 11,340-424 feet. Gas surfaced in seven minutes and distillate started spraying out in 15 minutes.

After the tool had been open one hour, gas gauged 194,000 cubic feet daily. At the end of two hours, gas volume had increased to 193,000 cubic feet daily.

There was no gauge or estimate on the amount of distillate produced. Recovery was 415 feet of heavily gas and distillate-cut drilling mud. There were no signs of formation water.

Flowing pressure was between 155 and 260 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure in 60 minutes was 4,885 pounds. The project is coring deeper.

The well is two miles northeast to the closest Devonian production on the north side of the multipay Azalea field. It is 5 1/2 miles south of Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company No. 1 McAlister, another Devonian discovery, which recently was completed in the Germania area.

Amarillo No. 1 Fasken logged shows of possible commercial gas and distillate production from the Strawn between 10,285 and 10,388 feet.

BIBLE COMMENT

God Intends That We Be Better Than We Are

What God intends us to be is undoubtedly something better than we are. Regardless of whatever we have attained, the law of the Christian life is to grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

But if we could think of man as starting from scratch, or with an unformed life, what does God require?

First of all, honesty and uprightness; righteousness is the very foundation of the godly life.

"Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." For Jew or Christian; in fact for those of any religion, in any time or place, the essential of the good life is the same.

But the Christian life, what God intends us to be, is not all found in personal goodness. The Christian life is a life of relationships.

Man does not live alone. He has privileges and duties in relation to his fellowman as well as to God, and the nature of his life toward God, in its reality and integrity, is, in fact, determined largely by what man is toward his fellowman.

"If a man say, I love God; and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

This is plain and very specific, and also very applicable to our present-day world of racial, religious, and sectional prejudices, jealousies and hatreds.

What a long way we have to travel before we attain to that state in which God intends us to exist!

Philosopher Willing To Test New Theory On Ending The Recession By Spending More Money

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw won't get anywhere with his idea this week, but he's been farming for years and hasn't gotten anywhere with that either.

Dear editor:

Generally I'm so busy worrying over whether my own finances are in good or bad shape I don't have time to find out whether the rest of the country is prosperous or depressed. I learned long ago a man could be over-drawn at the bank even at the very peak of the biggest prosperity boom in the history of the nation, but when everybody keeps hammering away at the idea that a recession has indeed turned up, at least in lots of places over the country, I'm not one to argue about it. Recessions don't scare me, I've had em for years.

However what interests me is the solutions being offered to cure the thing, all the way from raising the price of postage stamps and lowering the price of farm products to cutting the income tax rate, although the best one I've read so far came from a top expert in Washington.

According to him, "What the economy needs at this time is primarily more spending by individuals and business."

That's more to my taste. This old idea that you whip hard times by pulling in your belt never did appeal to me, it's like arguing you ought to walk until you can pay cash for a car, it's an attack on the down-payment system, it's an attack against the credit system, and without borrowed money most people would never drive a car and most nations would never launch a satellite. This may not make sense to some people, but you've got to remember some people don't make sense to me.

But back to the idea that the way to whip the recession is for you and me to spend more for you and me to spend more. I was discussing this with a neighbor and he said it won't work, the reason we're in the shape we're in now, if we are in such a shape, which I'm not sure of, is because people have been spending more than they make.

I'm not saying he's right or wrong I'm as capable of a politician's viewpoint as the next man, but the world never makes any progress without experimenting, and I'd like for you to get in touch with Washington and inform the experts I'm willing to give this new idea a trial. I'm not afraid of the pioneer instinct.

If Washington will send me the money, I'll roll up my sleeves and test this theory out. I'll do my part, I'll guarantee to spend every nickel they send me, but I want it understood that an economic experiment of this magnitude takes time and Washington needn't be expecting to get compete results in a few short weeks. You don't wipe out a recession a thousand miles from my farm with one spending spree, you've got to chip away at it steadily, month after month. If Washington will start the checks, I'll prop up my mail box out here and get ready to go into action. I won't guarantee it'll work, but here's one job I won't loaf on.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Specialist Says Egg Production To Be Increased

F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist from Texas A&M says that egg producers should realize more profitable output in the months ahead.

On October 1, 1957, the number of potential layers was five percent smaller than a year earlier, he adds. During the first half of 1958, this number will probably continue below a year earlier, but in the last quarter, the size of the laying flock will be increased by the addition of pullets.

It appears that there will be a slight increase in the demand for chicks for egg production in the United States, says the specialist. Flock-replacement chicks produced in December, 1957, were 12 percent larger than in December, 1956. But Texas hatcheries produced only 838,000 egg-type chicks compared to 1,067,000 for the same month in 1956. However, egg-type chick production in Texas will probably pick up during the next three months.

It seems reasonable to expect that the total number of chicks raised in the United States in 1958 will be from four to six percent larger than in 1957, but there will be three or four percent fewer layers on farms. However, increased production per bird will partly offset the decline in layers, and though egg output in the first six or eight months will be slightly below a year earlier, by late 1958, total production will be about equal or slightly above late 1957 levels.

With continued large consumer incomes and about a five percent reduction in per capita egg supplies, prices to farmers in 1958 are likely to increase, says Beanblossom. The rise will be the most pronounced in the first eight months. Little change is likely the last three or four months.

Remember, the Texas Egg Law became effective August 22, 1957, reminds Beanblossom. All licenses should have been obtained before October 20, 1957, and the enforcement began February 17.

Hints Offered On Controlling Rose Leaf Spots

Black spot and powdery mildew are the most common leaf diseases of roses in Texas, says Extension Plant Pathologist Harlan Smith. He advises the use of control measures, dusting or spraying, as soon as the first new shoots began to develop.

Black spot, he says, is the disease which causes the large roundish, black spots with irregular or frayed margins on the soft twigs and leaves. It will soon be making its appearance. One of the best preventative treatments, he says, is the use of a sulfur-copper dust mixture, 90 parts of sulfur and 10 parts of copper, applied weekly except during hot, dry weather. Applications made during such weather may cause burning.

During wet weather, the rose plants should be thoroughly dusted or sprayed. If the disease becomes established, Smith recommends a weekly spraying with captan, maneb or zineb. Both sides of the leaves should be coated with the spray material. Spraying, he adds, will give better results than dusting.

Powdery mildew causes a white powdery coating on the leaves, buds and young stems of the rose plant. The sulfur-copper mixture is recommended for early control and as a preventative treatment because it is cheaper than other chemicals. However, Smith warns, if powdery mildew becomes established, then weekly sprayings with karathane or mildex are suggested.

If both diseases become established, a combination of chemicals may be used. In general, Smith points out that the yellow and white varieties are more susceptible to these diseases. Radiance and Red Radiance varieties are resistant to both.

THE HIGHEST, HARDEST
HIGHWAY OVER THE ANDES!

To prove the durability of Chevrolet's radical new Turbo-Thrust V8,* the tremendous flexibility of the new Turboglide transmission,* the incredible smoothness of Full Coil suspension, we tackled the most challenging transcontinental road in the world — the 1,000-mile General San Martin Highway. To make the test harder, officials of the Automobile Club of Argentina sealed the hood shut at Buenos Aires — no chance to add oil or water or adjust carburetors for high altitude.

So the run began — across the blazing Argentine pampas, thrusting boldly into the stone ramparts of the forbidding Andes. Up and up the road climbed, almost 2½ miles in the sky! Drivers gasped for oxygen at 12,572 feet — but the Turbo-Thrust V8 never slackened its jet-smooth torrent of power, the Full Coil springs smothered every bump, the Turboglide transmission made play of fantastic grades up to 30 percent. Then a spine-chilling plunge to the Pacific at Chile's great port of Valparaiso, a quick turn-around and back again. Time for the round trip: 41 hours 14 minutes — and the engine was never turned off! WEST TEXAS PRESS COMMENTS

That there is considerable oil play going on in Garza County, is best indicated by the number of families that have moved into Post and are living in trailers.

Jim Cornish, publisher of the Post Dispatch, with his wife, spotted most of one Sunday afternoon recently making a survey of the number of trailers. He found 83 families living in the "houses on wheels," many of them living in trailer parks, and many located in backyards, side yards, or vacant lots.

With a salary of $11,000 a year, R. T. Smith, superintendent of the Shallowater schools, has been made superintendent of the Post schools. Smith's salary is an increase of $2,000 a year over the salary paid R. K. Green, the present superintendent. Smith was employed on the basis of a two years contract.

Expressing his views of the Lions Club meeting in Matador to vote on a queen to represent the club at a district meeting to be held at Dalhart, Doug Meador captioned his news story in his Matador Tribune with this paragraph:

"Munching their vitamin pills, re-seating their dentures and brushing their bald or balding pates, Tuesday the membership of the Matador Lions Club blinked its collective eyes at the beauty of 20 Matador High School girls who paraded on the auditorium stage. The purpose of the procedure was to elect a girl to be Lions queen at the annual district meeting (this year in Dalhart)."

A request made to the City Council at McCamey to pass an ordinance to reject all persons from soliciting within the city limits was turned over to the chamber of commerce to call a meeting of all the business men who would be effected to see if they desired to have the council pass an ordinance which could levy a fee for their representatives soliciting in the city, according to the McCamey News.

Some 400 men and women jamming a grocery store, most of them believing they had won a stole in the "Cross Out" game had publisher Jim Glascock on his head. His newspaper had made an error in the ad of the grocery store. The figure "88" was printed upside down and was in reality "98."

Admitting the error Glascock said: "Safeway Manager Ray Hancock, had a hectic day trying to explain the typographical error which was strictly the fault of the Avalanche printing department and not Safeway."

A news story published in the Alpine Avalanche last week reported the Texas State Park Board will ask the State Legislature at its next session for $210,040 for added improvement to the Fort Davis Mountain Park. An expenditure of $105,000 will go to build 14 cabins to supplement the overnight accommodations at Indian Lodge. Cabin furnishings will cost $9,000.

The Park Board will also ask the Legislature for an appropriation of $75,040 for Balmorhea

State furnishings. The entire park is to be fenced and a chain-link fence erected around the pool.

The Stamford American reports the State Park Board will ask the State Legislature at its next session, for an appropriation of $48,000 to be invested in improvements for Lake Stamford. The improvements will comprise installing boat docks, camping shelters, a combination concessions buildings, and living quarters for a park manager, etc., according to the Stamford American.

Easter-minded in deed, was Emaline Harris, writing in her column, "Here and There" appearing in the Graham Leader, the dates on which Easter will fall in the years to come up to 1964. Starting with this Easter coming on April 6, Emaline has the Easter dates to come going this way: March 29, 1959; April 17, 1960; April 2, 1961; April 22, 1962; April 14, 1963, and in 1964, Easter will be ushered in on Sunday, March 29.

The City of Seminole has ordered a public hearing March 24, of property owners against whom paving assessments will be levied. An effort is being made to pave 25 blocks of city streets. The city will pay approximately $9,000 for its share of the improvement, and property owners will be charged at the rate of $3.20 to $3.93 per front foot and $1.08 to $3.20 per lineal foot for side street paving. An unofficial estimate of the total cost of the project figures around $20,000 - $25,000, announces the Seminole Sentinel.

Last week the new $4,500,000 auditorium of the Seminole high school was dedicated in the presence of an estimated crowd of 2,000 people. Its seating capacity is 1,535 persons. Dedication of the building came during Public School Week, reports the Seminole Sentinel.

The 16th District of Parent-Teachers Association will meet at Colorado City, March 27-28. One hundred and fifty delegates from the 11-county district are expected to attend. The meeting is scheduled to open with registration at First Baptist Church from 12:30 to 1:30 March

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Carl had been a taxi driver for almost 30 years and knew all the tricks of his trade. Other drivers admitted ruefully that he knew also many tricks that were not commonly known by other members of his trade.

For example, Carl, who was a slender man with gray hair, had been meeting the 8:10 at the Chicago and Northwestern train station for several years. And passengers who wanted a taxi for a long, expensive trip always got in his cab, it seemed. By moving a little faster on his feet than other cabbies, Carl would circulate first among people getting off the train and he would quickly ask their destinations.

When somebody told him that they wanted to take a short ride he would suggest that they get in the cab of another driver. When he found a customer who wanted to take a long trip he directed them to his cab. It worked for years, until other drivers caught on and let the air out of his tires a few times.

"You got to be fast in this business," Carl claims. Carl has been driving so long he now does it without thinking too much about what he's doing. "There are a lot of crazy drivers on the streets these days," he'll say, as he zooms around a corner, the tires of his cab screeching wildly. "They should keep all those crazy kids out of cars," he observes, as he rolls to a dangerous intersection and blasts past the "Stop" sign just a fraction of a second in front of another motorist coming in the other direction.

"Sure, I've had a few wrecks," he admits. "But they've never been my fault. Usually it's some dumb kid or stupid woman who don't know what's going on. They should never have been on the streets anyway."

Carl doesn't think too much of police, either. "Cabbie haters, that's what they are," he'll snarl. "And them professors what always are trying to make driving safer. Nuts. They should be like me and spend 30 years behind the wheel of a h a c k. Then they'd know what needs to be done to save lives. Driver training is for the birds. You can't teach a kid to drive a car like you teach him Latin."

"Let them professors and engineers start telling us what to do and things will really get confused. Like spending all them billions for new roads. They ought to reduce taxes with that money."

"Why I had one of them engineers in my hack the other night, and, honest, I think them guys must be nuts. Said we ought to take down all the stop signs in our town. Take down all of them, he said. Said they wasn't reflective so you could see them at night and because of that reason they didn't meet the specifications of the Bureau of Public Roads. Washington lover! That's what he was! "Them professors and engineers ought to ride with me," he'll say as he weaves in and out of fast-moving traffic at a reckless pace. "I'd show them a thing or two, I would."

Federal Land Bank Cuts Interest Rate

At the recent stockholders meeting of The Federal Land Bank of Houston held in Houston, Sterling C. Evans, President of the bank, announced a reduction of 1/4 of 1% in the interest rate charged on new loans.

In addition to lowering the interest rate on new loans to 5% the bank voluntarily reduced the interest charges to Land Bank borrowers whose loans carry an interest rate in excess of 5%. This action of reducing the interest rate on loans already made is virtually unprecedented outside the Land Bank System. It is the second time the Houston bank has been able to reduce the interest on loans in force.

Of special interest to borrowers who already have Land Bank loans was Mr. Evans' further announcement that the bank will now close additional loans. This is a new practice and enables a borrower with a 4% Land Bank loan of $1,000 or more to get an additional loan at 5% on the new money and leave his old 4% loan undisturbed.

The Federal Land Bank makes its loans through national farm loan associations. It has over 200 million dollars of loans in force and obtains funds to make loans through the sale of bonds to the investing public. This reduction in interest rates will mean substantial savings each year to thousands of farm and ranch owners in Texas.

This was said by Editor J. W. The farmer brought to King's office three turnips that weighed a little more than five pounds each.

The only "fly in the ointment" to make the new improvement most effective are the parked cars in front of the post office. To relieve this situation the Coleman postmaster has gone to the city council to pass an ordinance prohibiting parked cars in front of the office.
The Coleman Democrat-Voice reported: "At this time there is a 15-minute parking limit in front of the post office."

New Chemical For Killing Brush Ready

A new chemical is available that has proved its worth for controlling brush. It is fenuron, says G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist.

Fenuron is made up similar to fertilizer pellets, says Hoffman. It can be used early in the growing season to control post oak, blackjack oak and winged elm growing on sandy soils.

Fenuron is applied in the pellet form and is dissolved by rain. It is taken up by the roots and kills the brush plants, he says.

The pellets are easy to apply and there is very little danger of their drifting onto susceptible crops, such as cotton and truck crops. Another advantage of the new chemical is that it can be applied before the trees leaf out. It takes rainfall to make it work. Too, it kills only post oak, blackjack oak, and winged elm growing on sandy soils.

But it also has its disadvantages, Hoffman points out. For example, it does not kill brush growing on clay soils and it does not kill all kinds of brush, such as greenbrier, haws, yapon, gums, hickory and other hardwoods. Too, fenuron kills pine trees, therefore it can't be used as a chemical for timber stand improvement.

Other disadvantages are that it cannot be applied closer than 150 feet to shade trees and it sterilizes the soil at high rates of application.

Fenuron pellets should be applied from February 1 through May 15 at a rate of 16 pounds per acre, advises Hoffman. This is the time when these trees first begin to grow and before the spring rains. Care should be

by C. W. Fisher, Manager

BEYOND THE CALL—

This sounds like a perfectly normal statement for a telephone man to make but strangely enough this is not a complete statement. The full line is "Beyond The Call Of Duty." I am referring to two words that were added to the telephone company's bill during World War II. We still use these two words in all our advertising telling about our service and they influence your bill each month. These two words are "Plus Tax." We in the telephone industry feel they have been in the service long enough and like many of us should be "Honorably Discharged." We are the only utility still collecting a federal tax for our service and in these days when Congress is talking of possible tax cuts, maybe a good place to start would be to eliminate the 10% tax on telephone service.

NEED PRIVACY?

Have you ever wished you could have a little more privacy on some of your telephone calls? Well, there's an easy way to solve your problem. Put an extension phone in your bedroom or kitchen.
You'll have privacy on your calls and you'll find extension phones are convenient, too. No more running from one end of the house to the other to answer the phone, only to find the caller has hung up. You'll be surprised at the number of steps conveniently located phones can save you in a day.
And an added touch for the housewife with good tastes is a phone in color. We now have phones in nine bright colors plus black to blend or contrast with any colors in your home.
Extension phones are low cost, too. Here in Stanton an extension costs you only $1.00 a month plus a small, one-time installation charge. Just call the business office and pick your extension telephone in color today.

ONE-THIRD OFF!

No, we're not having a sale "for a limited time only."
It's an everyday offer to save you one-third of the cost when you call Long Distance station-to-station.
Long Distance charges for station-to-station calls are about one-third lower than for person-to-person service.
Here's a sample: A person-to-person call from Stanton to St. Louis, Mo., costs $1.95. It's only $1.30 when you call station-to-station. You save 55 cents. It's like getting one call FREE for every two you pay for. So, why not plan now to make all your Long Distance calls station-to-station?
Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Martin County has had the experience of the worth of Red Cross assistance on two different occasions. One disaster of major importance was when a cyclone several years ago struck the Lenorah community demolishing homes and doing excessive damage to the town's business enterprises. Seventeen persons of Lenorah were seriously injured and crowded the local hospital to more than capacity for medical attention. Quickly following the storm representatives of the American Red Cross were on the ground lending assistance to the hospitalized and at the scene of the disaster taking an inventory of the damage wrought. The Red Cross built new homes to take the place of the ones destroyed.

The second call for Red Cross assistance came with the overflow of the Mexican lake in south Stanton, following a heavy rain. Many homes in that area were flooded and clothing and other household effects were seriously damaged. The Red Cross was on the scene the next morning.

The season for tornadoes and floods is here. Neither of these demons of disaster have a locality on their schedule that is immune from visits.

Make your contribution to the Martin County Red Cross chapter as liberal as possible. No matter how small the amount you give it will be appreciated.

A GROUP OF REPRESENTATIVE Martin County citizens, any one of whom at home is recognized as a man of his word, went fishing, recently, down on the Rio Grande river. They returned with 520 pounds of fish, according to the individual statements of the group and the poundage revealed on their scales. One of the "cats" caught tipped the beam of their scales at 26 pounds, this, according to the group's statement and their scales.

We have known groups to go fishing and rather than return home and face their friends with no fish and the statement worn threadbare, "we had all the fish we could eat," purchased a batch from fishermen who were more successful with their catch.

It would be dealing a "death blow" to the fishing industry if a law were passed prohibiting fishermen from telling anything

C. C. . . .

Bryan praised the banquet committee and extended thanks and appreciation to the senior class of Stanton High School, their mothers, band director Jack Gray, who directed musical entertainment for the evening, the Stanton Garden Club members for the flower arrangements. He then presented Connie Mack Hook with a plaque as a token of appreciation for his service to the chamber of commerce during the past months as president.

In accepting the plaque, Hood said: "Maybe we didn't start a big fire in the county last year but we sure learned where to buy the matches."

The incoming officers were presented by Hood, and F. O. Rhodes, Stanton automobile dealer, and the new president of the chamber delivered a clever, highly original talk in accepting the responsibilities of office.

O. B. Bryan presented Neal Estes, general manager of The Stanton Reporter. The local Cap Rock chieftain had high praise for the county newspaper and pointed to the job of service being rendered the citizenship by the publication. Bryan said: "I feel like we have the best weekly newspaper in West Texas."

Estes expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the merchants, readers, and members of the newspaper staff who had made it possible for the paper to win the general excellence award for weekly newspapers published in towns with populations under 4,000 and given by the West Texas Press Association. He signaled to Editor J. E. (Jim) Kelly for his fine work and many years of service to the people through newspaper work and called him "Dean of West Texas editors."

Stripling was described by the general manager of the paper as an international figure, a great American, a man with a message from the neighboring city of Midland.

The speaker pointed out the danger of Soviet Union infiltration in America, and identified many of the operational methods of the Russians to gain a foothold in our free land and try for the total destruction of the American way of life.

Stripling enumerated the many dangers unless every citizen in the U. S. presented a solid front against the Red encroachments. He cautioned his listeners to be ever on the alert, always ready to serve, to be willing to strike back, and to use every worthy organization, such as the chamber of commerce, to keep America free, safe and strong.

The Midland man called for calm and sober thought, warned of the threatening menace of the Soviets in trying to stir up strikes in our nation. He predicted there would be no depression, and advised the audience to be patient, saying: "We are not going to have a major depression — we can't afford it — for ourselves or for the free world."

He predicted the oil industry would find a solution for improvement of the market, and said the nine day allowable would soon be forgotten. As an antidote against the Red menace he said: "We must rededicate ourselves to the task of keeping eternally vigilant and by working side by side we can guard our freedom forever."

FARM REVIEW and FORECAST

In the past weeks Martin County has been the scene of freakish weather. There were bright, warm sunshine, spring-like in nature, enough so, it invited the housewife to tie a scarf around her head and leave her winter cooped-up habit for the outdoors to take hoes and fork in hand and work in the flower garden plot, and even go so far as to clear last year's garden spot, preparatory to planting vegetables.

The life of the pleasant weather was cut short by the arrival of an icy blast coming in from the northeast to bogging temperature down from a high of 50 and 60 degrees to a low of 25 degrees. Flurries of snow, fogs, drizzles, and light rain showers moved in on the area, a life-preserver for the soil, but a "chill-to-the-bone" element to torture human life.

The wettest snow of the season to fall in the county was Wednesday of last week. The ground was covered in a blanket of white, but its stay was only of a short duration, leaving behind a well moisture bearing earth.

This moisture added to the amount that has fallen in the area in past months could well shatter the record of the prolonged drouth, if not entirely, it has at least put a spirit of optimism in the framework of the farmers and livestock men that forebodes the prospect of a bumper crop harvest this fall.

The East and Central Texas farmers have been delayed the ninth week from getting their land ready for spring planting. The occasion for this delay was due to heavy moisture.

The last-living cowboy to go "up the cattle trail" from the Marfa and Fort Davis area is Thomas T. Granger, living at Fort Davis. At the age of 14, he was one of five cowboys who was in the drive of a herd of 3,000 head of cattle "up the trail." The drive started from a ranch 30 miles south of Marfa. It was in the month of March, 1890, ending at Amarillo in the month of June.

Granger, now 81, came to Fort Davis in 1884 with his parents from Bandera County. Through a lad at the time of the "drive up the trail," Granger drew the same salary as the older cowboys driving the herd, $40 a month and chow, he furnishing his own saddle and bedding.

From information issued out of the office of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, the game wardens were kept busy during the month of February making arrests for hunting on private property without the permission of owners. There were 119 arrests for trespassing violations. The offenses included night hunting, 65 arrests; 27 arrests for hunting from automobiles; and the same number arrests for hunting without a license. Fishing violations for the month numbered 471 and the fines and court costs amounted to $15,274.59.

Martin County is within a stone's throw of two bonded livestock marketing or auction barns offering the selling service and bonded protection of the Packers and Stockyards Act. These sale barns are located in Big Spring and Midland.

Scattered throughout the state, 110 yards are now operating under this law, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service at Fort Worth. Congress designed this law to protect the farmers and ranchers selling livestock at markets operating on a commission basis.

We had a Martin County farmer, who hasn't been able to get in his field only sporadically, to prepare his soil for planting cotton, inform us if the wet spell continues at the pace it has up to the present time, he fears he'll become web-footed. He said about the time he gets his tractor oiled-up and warmed-up, and his field dries enough to get into it without bogging down, here comes more rain or snow.

"I don't want the folks to get the idea I'm a crepe hanger or I'm complaining about too much wet weather, but you know soggy fields can keep us farmers from planting our cotton crop at the proper time or make us resort to a late planting that will endanger the harvest of this year's crop to be delayed to late fall rains and early frost," declared the farmer.

The Martin County cotton growers had a taste of what late fall weather will do to their cotton crop. They lost heavily last year by inclement weather prevailing during the harvest season.

As the season for cotton planting is near at hand—April—it wouldn't be amiss to inform the cotton planter the very importance of selecting chemically treated cotton seed. The matter of planting diseased cotton seed is blamed for the yield loss of two and two and one-half percent of the potential cotton crop each year in Texas.

A leaflet entitled, "Cottonseed Treatment for Texas," has been released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, advising that these losses can be greatly reduced by proper seed treatment with an approved chemical.

The results of cottonseed treatment tests with acid-diluted and reginned cottonseed, and recommendations as to the materials to be used as well as the rate for effective treatment are given in the leaflet.

The Texas Council of Churches meeting recently in Dallas awarded Joe M. Evans, 78, retired West Texas rancher from El Paso, the third annual Fair Award for distinguished church-manship. The award was presented to Evans for his lay evangelical work which started in 1890. The fitting ceremony was held at the council's fifth annual session held at Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas.

For the past 67 years Evans has participated in the annual camp meetings in the Fort Davis Mountains, and has conducted meetings in many cities in southern and western states.

Evans is a member of the First Baptist Church of El Paso.

Grade Analysis Suggested For All Fertilizers

The real cost of any fertilizer is measured in terms of the per unit cost of plant nutrients applied to the soil. So, before farmers buy a fertilizer, they should look at the grade analysis and see if the same quantity of plant nutrients can be obtained cheaper in a higher analysis fertilizer, advises an extension soil chemist.

The grade analysis can give a farmer this information because it tells how much nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium each bag of mixed fertilizer contains.

For example, a hundred pound bag of 5-10-5 contains five pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphoric oxide and five pounds of potash. An hundred pound bag of 10-20-10 contains 10 pounds of nitrogen, 20 of phosphorous and 10 of potash.

These two grades of fertilizer contain the same ratio of nutrients, but the latter contains twice as much in each 100 pound sack. So, even though the 10-20-10 costs more per ton, it is normally cheaper in the long run because of the quantity of plant nutrients which is obtained.

The cost per unit of plant nutrients is not the only high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper than low analysis fertilizers. When one sack of 10-20-10 can substitute for two sacks of 5-10-5, transportation costs are reduced. Not only would transportation costs be lower, but application costs would be less since less fertilizer is needed to supply the same quantity of plant nutrients.

So, low analysis fertilizers cost less per ton, but high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper in the long run because the cost per unit of plant nutrients is lower.

How To Invite A Depression

A man lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs. He was hard of hearing so he had no radio. He had trouble with his eyes so he read no newspapers. But he sold good hot dogs. He put up signs on the highways telling how good they were.

He stood by the side of the road and cried: "Buy a hot dog, Mister." And people bought. He increased his meat and bun orders. He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade. He got his son home from college to help him. But then something happened . . .

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio? There's a depression on. The European situation is terrible. The Domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college,

He reads the papers and he listens to the radio and he ought to know"

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, Tock down his advertising signs,

And no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight. "You're right son," the father said to the boy,

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

Tech Agronomy Head Analyzes High Plains Cotton Picture

"High Plains cotton and maize farmers who are behind in their spring work because of bad weather may be better off in the end," Dr. A. W. Young, Texas Tech agronomy department head, reports.

He points to moisture supplies that are far above normal, making desirable soil conditions that might not be improved by the usual tillage.

"This is the first time in several years that soil bacteria have had moisture enough to work on the organic matter during the winter months," Young says.

"Also, the freezing and thawing of the moist soil has improved its workability," he continues. "Of course, there are some soils on which this factor works to a better advantage than others."

Asked whether it would be any advantage to list the ground prior to planting this year, he says, that in his opinion, it will be a disadvantage unless the farmer plans to water the ground.

Listing exposes more land surface to the winds and, consequently, more water can be lost to evaporation, he adds.

"The amount of moisture in each piece of land is the final word on whether or not to water," Young says. "How the land lies and whether any moisture has been lost to winter crops, influences the storage level."

He explains that there is no need to water if the soil already has enough moisture to decompose residues and release plant foods and the water-holding capacity of the soil already is near its maximum. These factors were taken care of with October and subsequent rains, he says.

Watering prior to planting is the big question now, Young declares. Since sandy soils cannot store as large an amount of water as the heavier soils, his opinion is that to try to get more water in the sandy cotton land in the High Plains may be a question of economic waste. His advice to the cotton and maize farmer in the sandy area is to work the land with chisel and bring some of the leached clay to the top if it begins to blow after a rain—also, to plow just deep enough to remix the sand and keep it from moving.

"Some work may be necessary to level the ground for a proper seed bed," Dr. Young believes, "but extra work will only tend to tractor-pack the soil and dry it out."

In the heavier loams, more work will be necessary for the proper preparation of the seed bed. He suggests that the dis-type implements will probably work to better advantage in these soils.

"In case of having to replant, as many did last spring, the flat planting leaves an area of soil moisture still undisturbed," Dr. Young points out. "This enables the farmer to 'bust the ridges' in replanting and still have moisture to get the seed up."

Every farm is a different problem, he believes, but to the economically hard-pressed farmer, land preparation that is both cheaper and better is certainly a step in the right direction.

Hale Center, Tex., Man Reports—

"A $5.60 Investment Netted Me $54.85 In Cotton."

Jack Shelley, Hale Center, Tex., says: "I put down Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia on my irrigated cotton and got an average of 847 pounds of lint per acre. This compared to a yield of 633 pounds on a check plot. My increase netted me $54.85 an acre. I got more well matured, five-lock cotton bolls, too."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that the 82% nitrogen in top quality Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia helps them to get more profit per acre, through higher yields and lower production costs.

They have found that, by using Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia, they get more cotton that grades out higher at the gin; yields of sorghum grain and ensilage are increased; more marketable vegetables are harvested, and profits on wheat are increased through better forage, and higher yields of grain.
