

Snooter Knows
By JAMES E. KELLY

ALMIGHTY GOD, Father of Jesus Christ, author of everlasting life, we sing in our hearts Thy praise because Thou hast given us the hope of an Easter morning. We believe that Thou has brought life and immortality to light, and that whosoever believeth in Thy Son and follows His way of life shall never die. But for this faith we would despair — we would lose all that makes life glorious—we would turn towards before the prospect of life without fruitage and death without hope. Deepen, O Christ, our convictions of immortality. May the empty tomb of the long ago be a present reality to those who call upon Thy name. Cleanse us from sins of every sort, especially those secret faults which we condone as harmless but which shroud personality and bedim the vision of God. Give us a peaceful walk through this world, and when at last the shadows bend toward the east and the sun of life declines, may it go down in halos of hope and may its descending gleams give promise of a brighter day tomorrow.—Amen.

BIBLE COMMENT

'Members One Of Another' Is Christian Ideal

The disciples, a comparatively small fellowship living in a hostile world, possessed all things in common. It was a matter altogether of voluntary action. There was no power forcing those who had possessions to sell them and put them into the common resources.

Their common faith and their common sufferings had drawn them together, and made possible such an experience. Their society was vastly different from ours, for they had no greed, no selfishness, no self-seeking. All were "members one of another," and each had his part in giving and receiving.

Such an ideal condition did not last long in the early church, true, for there began murmurings concerning unjust distribution of common funds and the goal preference that was given for some over others.

It being the purpose of the early Christian church to do right, the apostles sought immediately to adjust this matter, but they themselves felt that their ministry was the ministry of the word of God. Therefore, they proposed to the disciples that responsible men be picked who could attend effectually and wisely to the economic adjustments within the church.

We are disposed to regard this as the original institution of deacons, and those who were chosen were ordained for their particular tasks by the laying on of the apostles' hands.

This spirit—of organizing the common resources of a group for the welfare of all—ought to be always prevalent in the church, and should represent the goal of our society and our nation.

Philosopher Willing To Have Taxes Cut Strictly In Interest Of Ending The Recession

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw if off on the subject of economics this week, with what success you'll have to decide for yourself.

Dear editor:

For the past few weeks I've been reading everything I could get my hands on about the cause and cure of recessions, and so far all I've been able to figure out is that a recession is like a virus—medical science isn't sure what causes it or what cures it, but it has no trouble discovering when you've got one.

However, there's been an argument going on over one of the proposed cures of the recession that interests me.

According to one expert, the way to cure the recession is to cut income taxes 20 per cent starting next week. This way, he says, everybody who gets paid by the week and has his income tax withheld from each pay check, which is the installment method of paying taxes, would have a little more money to spend, and any close student of human nature knows he'll spend it, which will increase the demand for goods, stir the factories up, and get things rolling again.

Another expert though argues that if you cut income taxes 20 per cent now, just intending to keep em cut for the duration of the recession, you'll hit a stump when you try to restore em later on when things are booming again. He says it'd be dangerous to tamper with the tax rate.

Frankly, I can't follow this line of reasoning, and think it demonstrates a gross lack of confidence in the government. I have never seen a government, from the local level to the state to Washington, that couldn't manage to raise taxes when it really put its mind to the job. People have been running for office on a platform of more economy and getting elected since elections were invented, and the cost of government has been going up steadily from the same date.

Understand, I'm not saying government ought to cost less, or more, I'm just saying that anybody who thinks any government can't figure out how to restore a tax, is just not familiar with modern governmental leaders, regardless of which party he runs under.

If cutting taxes for a few months will end whatever recession we've got, I say go ahead and try it and don't be worrying about Congress' ability to restore it later on. I've got confidence in Congress. I figure it'll restore my tax the minute it figures I can pay it, and frequently it jumps the gun and

Former Judge, Wife Visit County Friends

By J. E. KELLY

Judge and Mrs. Robert W. Hamilton of El Paso, paid a pop call to a few friends in Stanton one evening last week. They were returning from a visit in Austin to two of their daughters who are students in the Texas University.

R. W. HAMILTON

Judge Hamilton is Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals in El Paso. He is a candidate for the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court at Austin to succeed the present incumbent who is not seeking re-election.

The people of Stanton and Martin County have something in common in Judge Hamilton's race for the office to which he now aspires.

It was in the year 1928 Robert W. Hamilton, a young lawyer fresh out of the law school of Texas University, and his wife, Lois, settled in Stanton. He hung out his first shingle for the practice of law. He built his modern brick home, giving ample proof he and his esteemed wife had decided to make Stanton their permanent home.

That Martin County had placed confidence in the ability of this young lawyer to handle the legal affairs of the county, the county commissioners court promptly appointed Hamilton county attorney.

During his residence in Stanton he served as district attorney under the administration of Judge Charles L. Klapproth, district judge of this district then comprising the counties of Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Midland and Ector.

Following several years residence in Stanton, the Hamiltons moved to Midland where Hamilton became associated with ex-Judge Charles L. Klapproth in the practice of law. He was elected district judge and during the time he was appointed by Gov. Beauford Jester, to the office of Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals in El Paso to fill the unexpired term caused by the death of the incumbent.

Judge and Mrs. Hamilton are the parents of three children, one son and two daughters, all three of whom were born in Stanton. Robt. W. Hamilton, Jr., the son, is a graduate from the Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, and served his enlistment time with the Air Force in Alaska. He is now a student at A&M College, College Station, Texas. Married and the parent of two little daughters.

Emily and Ann Hamilton are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hamilton, and they are attending the State University in Valley View.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. White, Mrs. Wesley Williams of Badgett, visited Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. White, parents of B. F. White.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

WHAT HAPPENS—IF?

In this unpredictable life of ours, it is the law's business to take a long look into the future and say what would "happen if."

For in your contracts, leases, wills, insurance policies, escrows, and the like, you had better say what would "happen if" some of your best laid plans go awry. Such events the law calls "contingencies."

Who gets the "earnest money" you put down, if you cannot go through with buying that house? What if you want to pay up that loan and save interest? What happens if a partnership goes sour, or a partner gets sick or dies? What happens if the people you name in your will should die before you do, or, if you all perish in a common catastrophe like a car smashup?

The law is wise but it cannot do your thinking for you. It settles such questions—but not always to your liking. If you don't make a will, the law says who shall get your property. If you leave certain things out of a contract, the law assumes that you meant to put some certain things in. But how much better it would be in the first place to put them in the way you want them, by asking "what if?"

Take your will now: Your first desire, of course, is to take care of your wife and children—those nearest to you. But it won't hurt anything to put "contingent beneficiaries" in your will in case something happens to thwart your first intentions.

Review your will every year or so to see if it meets the new things that have come up, or arrange with your lawyer to write in "contingent beneficiaries"—those who will receive your property if your first beneficiaries should die before you do.

You may long ago have had your son provided for in your will, but what about those lovely grandchildren he and his wife have presented to you since you wrote the will? What would happen to them if things go wrong and your son should die before you?

Or take your widowed sister and her children now. Suppose you and your immediate family should be wiped out: Would you want your property to go equally to her and to your well-heeled bachelor brother? Or would you prefer to leave your brother some token of your affection, and then really take care of your sister?

You may be impatient with the law's long memory. Such things never happen, you think, but the court records are full of plans which failed. And so the law has ways in which you can provide for "what happens if." One way is the device of contingent beneficiaries in your will and insurance policies.

HS Delegates Home From Meet

Four elected delegates from the Stanton High School student council and their sponsor, Jimmy Bickley, returned to Stanton March 22 from the 22nd annual conference of the Texas Association of Student Councils held at Abilene High School.

Delegates attending were Carl Ray Reynolds, Merle Miller, Glen Reid and Carolyn Manning.

Theme of the conference was "Do Not Say Go; Go Thyself."

Registration was from 1 to 9 p. m. March 20. A keynote speech with a plea for individualism and the courage to stand for convictions brought a standing ovation from some 1,500 teenagers and their sponsors at the opening session Thursday night.

Platform guests and the audience that jammed the Abilene High auditorium stood and applauded for a full minute after Jimmy Wright of Tyler, president of TASC, hurled challenges at the group he called "the future leaders of America in all fields."

Emphasizing the theme of the convention Wright urged the student leaders to work toward becoming "the uncommon man." "Our civilization is the sum total of ideas, ideals and personality of the individual" Wright said. Wright closed with the challenge "You only have one life to spend. Spend it carefully."

A. E. Wells, superintendent of schools, extended a welcome to conventioners. The Abilene High A Cappella Choir provided preliminary entertainment ranging from hillbilly to Spanish to patriotic music. An informal get-acquainted party followed.

Rev. Gary Demarest of Jacksonville, Florida was the featured speaker at the second general session Friday. His subject was "It's Up to You."

Discussion groups on school government problems took up Friday afternoon, with a barbecue and political rally in Rose Field House at Hardin-Simmons University.

Speaker at the Saturday general session was Melvin Munn, Dallas, who entertained the audience with his inspirational and oft-requested rendition of "The Sermon on the Mount."

The schools that were elected for officer schools for the next year are president, Levelland High School; vice president, Tivy High School (Kerrville);

Message From G. W. Alsup

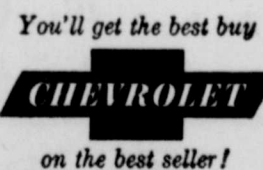

The Chevrolet Company that has carried my name for many years officially becomes Brantley Chevrolet Company with this announcement. It is with a feeling of gratitude and deep appreciation to those loyal citizens of Martin County who have so generously supported the Chevrolet Company under my ownership that I say thanks a million!

I unhesitatingly recommend the new owners, the Brantley brothers to my friends, and it is with a feeling of genuine pleasure that I join others in the county in welcoming them to our community.

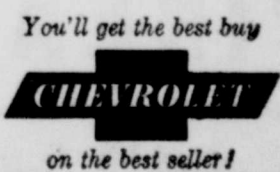

Message From Brantley Bros.

We are indeed happy to be in Stanton and Martin County. In making the decision to cast our lot with the fine folks in this area, we considered many things. In the operation of the Chevrolet Company it will be our aim to do as good a job as G. W. Alsup and to continue to merit the support and goodwill of all the people of Martin County.

FARM AND RANCH REVIEW

Though this is a column to be devoted pretty much to news from the farms and ranches, there are just about as many members of these two enterprises who are as "fishing minded" as those in any line of endeavor, hence some space devoted to angling would not be out of place here.

Fortunately, Martin County rural areas are within an hour to two hours drive from Stanton in Howard County. Fish are biting and a number of good catches have been reported.

A few miles to the east of Lake Thomas is the Colorado City Lake. Recent reports from that location are to the effect fisherman are landing them at an individual weight of 40 pounds and 22 pounds, and in a group of four fish that weighed 54 pounds.

At the Colorado City Lake two new business places have appeared, one a cafe scheduled to open in the near future.

Lakeside Lodge has opened and is featuring a cafe, seven cabins, a 300-foot pier and all necessary equipment.

From reports recounted here we see no reason in the world the ranchmen and farmers in this area can't enjoy a profitable day or weekend fishing in either one of these fine lakes.

The weather is calming itself down to where it looks like the country will dry-out and farmers will be able to do some plowing and planting crops. The more activities that will take place on the farms paves the way for more farm accidents to happen.

Farmers will take to the fields with a rush once conditions become favorable.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council passes on this word of warning:

"Don't try to cram more hours into a day by over-taxing your physical capacity.

"Many fatal farm accidents are caused by fatigue which dulls the reflexes and leads to the taking of chances that could mean serious trouble. Don't throw safety aside for haste. The life you save may be yours."

The ranching interests of Texas are having their worries over the bracero labor question. A week ago the Mexican officials halted processing bracero specials at Piedras Negras. Officials of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Assn., have sent telegrams to Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Rep. W. R. Poag in Washington urging that a hearing on the bracero ranch problem be called to be held at Eagle Pass as soon as possible.

Reports coming in from most all the farming belts of Texas bear the information farmers are halted from entering their fields to prepare them for planting of their crops. The season for planting the cotton crop in West Texas is at hand — the month of April. Some cotton growers crowd the season when the weather is favorable by planting the crop in the latter days of March.

The farmers are pleading for a farm clear weather. A survey of the farming situation over the state by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, director of the TAES, says:

"Delay from here on during the crop year makes the risk greater throughout the state due to normally dry summers and the possibility of late crops being caught by frost before harvest. However, with favorable weather the moisture supply should insure fast seed germination and growth of plants."

The farmers of Martin County are hoping to escape going through any such ordeal they did to plant and harvest their crop last year.

There is a group of Martin County farmers tilling the soil north of Stanton who are personally acquainted with the destruction a hail storm can do to a crop of young growing cotton. A hail storm visited the area last fall destroying several hundred acres of cotton and growing vegetation in its path. It came at a time in the growing season that made it impossible for these farmers to plant over the crop, so they had to go through the harvest year without realizing a penny of remuneration on their 1957 cotton crop.

This group of farmers, with all the rest of the dirt farmers, will be pleased to hear of an attempt being made by the cotton growers of Pecos and Fort Stockton to remove hail stones from the rain clouds. Cotton associations are to be formed to finance a cloud-seeding operation with a Houston weather bureau corporation to the amount of $35,000 from farmers who don't want the hail, and $15,000 from ranchers, who certainly would like the rain.

A news story coming out of Pecos is to the effect that ground-control would call for generators to send up silver iodide. Air control would include airplanes spraying the clouds with a warm brine solution to induce rain. If the solution shot into the air could cause the clouds to dispose of their cargo of rain, hail could be reduced or even sometimes eliminated.

Here's hoping the Pecos-Fort Stockton farmers' plan of operation succeeds.

HOW MANY OF THESE MUSTS WILL YOUR NEXT WAGON HAVE?

- 1. STYLING THAT WILL STAY IN STYLE
Ford Station Wagon styling is Thunderbird-inspired. So you know it's going to be in style for a long time to come. And Ford offers you six different body styles to choose from.
- 2. ALL-NEW V-8 ENGINE
Ford V-8 power is all-Thunderbird, too... with new Precat. Fuel Injection that pays off in still better gas mileage. And it can be yours in all Fords (including the lowest priced wagon of the low-price three).
- 3. MOST MODERN "SIX"
The Ford Mileage Maker Six is the most modern and most economical Six in its field. It's the 1958 version of the engine that scored most miles per gallon in last year's Mobilgas Economy Run.
- 4. SINGLE-CONTROL LIFTGATE
Loading and unloading is a cinch with Ford's single-control latch. Just a flick of the wrist and both lift-gate and tailgate open. You can close both gates with one hand, too.
- 5. GENUINE FOAM-RUBBER CUSHIONS IN FRONT SEATS OF ALL MODELS
Only Ford wagons offer you the added luxury of genuine foam-rubber front seat cushioning in every model. And all Ford wagon seats are scientifically contoured over non-sag springs for greater riding comfort.
- 6. LOWEST PRICE POSSIBLE
Because Ford sells nearly half again as many station wagons as its nearest competitor, Ford can sell these fine wagons at half the fine-car price.
- 7. TRADITIONALLY MOST WANTED AT RESALE TIME
Ford Station Wagons, dollar for dollar, have traditionally commanded top prices on the used car lots. Another reason why your investment in a Ford wagon holds up better.
