Philosopher Admits Economic Situation Is Confused, But Claims It Always Has Been

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw grass farm is no hardy to explain than how some men got to be Congressmen, how some teachers ever got into teaching, how some men got married, how some women stay married, how some editors . . . this has gone far enough — at any rate, according to this article, the present economic situation is confused.

I have been thinking this over and I've decided it's right. The present economic situation is confused.

You take the car manufacturers: I understand they have about 800,000 new cars on hand and they're not moving fast enough, so a campaign to buy now was launched. Even President Eisenhower urged people to buy now. And what happens? The United States sees its foreign aid money wind up in the hands of a spendthrift son of the Dominican Republic's dictator, who comes to this country and buys a foreign-made car for an imported actress. This is called getting nowhere fast.

But speaking of the surplus of cars and other products now bothering manufacturers, you mean to say the business tycoons haven't got more judgment than us dumb farmers? You mean to say they pile up surpluses the same as you and me? Everybody knows a farmer hasn't got any more sense than to keep on producing regardless of how big the surplus is, but I always figured big business was different.

This is the reason you can say the economic situation is confused. Everybody has come to expect the farmer to keep plowing and planting, filling up warehouses and depressing the market and writing letters to Congress, but I always figured big business was smarter.

However, this is a democratic country, and what's fair for one ought to be fair for another, and I'm proposing that Congress set up a Car Relief program with a Car Bank, etc. for the automobile industry. You let the industry keep on turning out cars and filling up warehouses and it won't be long til the price drops to nothing and car manufacturers and car dealers will be forced to give up and find a job in the country. This would be bad for the land.

The family-size car manufacturer and the family-size car dealer are necessary to the economy of this country, and if Congress is on its toes it'll work out this Car Bank idea immediately and keep things on an even keel.

I would like to say though that I'm not worried just because the economic situation is confused. It's always been that way with me.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

MARTIN-HOWARD SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Bass grow fast only during summer and early fall—a 5 or 6 month season of abundant food. The major food is newly hatched fingerling bluegills in a bass-and-bluegill pond. A pondowner, therefore, must fertilize his fishpond all summer long to grow the most pounds and the biggest bass.

Fertile water grows green microscopic algae which feeds a heavy poundage of worms. The worms grow more bluegills. The bluegills would grow in summer too if they did not spawn. They do spawn, however, and the tens of thousands of little bluegills eat so much food that their parents cannot grow during the June-October period. Bluegills grow larger at another season of the year—February to June.

Some pondowners stop their fertilization program to keep the bluegills from spawning so much. This is a bad mistake. Bass cannot grow unless they are well fed. A heavier poundage of bass will help prevent an overpopulation of bluegills—by eating more during the following fall, winter and spring. This important "thinning" of the bluegill population begins in October, following their spawning season. It ends in early summer when the bluegills spawn again. Failure to maintain pond fertility throughout the spring, summer, and fall results in low production of bass.

The best ponds—the best fishing—require good summer fertility. Next year's bass crop depends on it.

PLYMOUTH SAVES YOU MONEY ON GAS... MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN VICTORY PROVES IT!

New "Fuel-Saver" Choke that helped clinch title is standard equipment on all Plymouth V-8s

Pound for pound, Plymouth uses less gasoline than either of the "other two" cars in the low-price "3"! This was proved beyond doubt when a 1958 Plymouth V-8 was officially declared winner of the low-price car competition in the 1958 Mobilgas Economy Run. Plymouth's competitors also entered cars with 6-cylinder engines (supposedly more economical) but Plymouth beat every car in its class—V-8s and 6s alike!

This title-winning Plymouth is exactly the same Belvedere V-8 with TorqueFlite Automatic Transmission that you can buy right off your Plymouth dealer's floor.

These tests prove that every Plymouth has built-in economy features not found in the "other two". For in-

FARM & RANCH REVIEW

Considerable amount of cash is to roll into the pockets of Mitchell County cotton farmers in 1958. If all the applications are accepted the total will reach near $946,811.48. This will be an increase of $143,878 over 1957 year. The total cotton acreage in Mitchell County is 27,910, representing $932,237.58.

At a meeting last week in Austin of the Old Cotton Belt Assn., representatives of most of the cotton organizations in the state were present and agreed on a plan to ward off cotton allotments in 1959. The meeting agreed on a 4-point program:

1. The No. 1 objective would be to give the producer a fair income protection.
2. The acreage reserve phase of the soil bank should be abolished.
3. Cotton industry can not live with less than 17 1/2 million acres available for planting. Growers should be given two choices—expanded acreage and lower support, or lower acreage and higher support level.

4. One price should be made competitive at both domestic and foreign markets.

Report issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce on Texas' 1957 cotton crop disclosed the number bales of cotton ginned were 3,600,000. The number ginned in the United States totalled 10,600,000.

Texas' 1957 crop equaled one-third of all the cotton ginned in the United States.

The Martin County farmers got in a week of work in their fields before the two rains of Sunday and Monday of last week halted them.

So far this year the farmers in this county have been doing a sort of a hop-and-skip type of farming. The weather clears and they get in a week of working in their fields and then a rain shower falls and keeps them out a week.

The Federal Insurance Corporation will celebrate its 20th anniversary this year by providing one-third of a million farmer policy holders one-third of a billion dollars worth of all-risk protection against crop disaster.

A. B. Wooten, extension economist, says over its 20-year history FCIC has paid nearly a half billion dollars of indemnities to insured farmers who suffered unavoidable crop losses. These insurance checks have enabled many farmers to survive crop disasters which otherwise would have put them out of business.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson says: "Every year though national production is high crop catastrophes take a heavy toll in some farm areas. Where crop disaster strikes, farmers and the business community feel the need for emergency assistance. Crop insurance was designed and developed to provide the opportunity to meet this need on a business basis."

Ford Styleside pickup—lowest-priced pickup with cab-wide box.

'58 FORD

Proved by Scientific Impact-O-Graph ride tests

You (and your family) are in for a pleasant surprise when you drive a new Ford pickup. A new suspension system, with rubber-cushioned springs plus long two-stage rear springs, gives you a ride that's more car than truck—empty or loaded. Yet, Fords are priced with the lowest. Running costs are low, too—because of economical short-stroke design in Ford's V-8 and Six. Ford resale value is traditionally high. And an independent study by insurance experts proves Ford trucks last longer.

Impact-O-Graph picture of a competitive ride. The Impact-O-Graph (a scientific instrument used to measure bumps) records what you feel—jar and bounce. Same Road, Same Speed—but some difference! Ford's new suspension gives the smoothest ride of any pickup—a ride mighty close to that of a car!

Jesus' Prayers Gave Simon Peter Added Strength

There are some men so settled in their ways that they seldom change under any circumstances. Their attitudes and reactions are so predictable that we could easily foretell their course of action in many situations.

They are very necessary in our society but also they are usually very dull, unimaginative people who are not interesting to talk to. Not much ever happens to these people.

And then there is the other type, the unpredictable person. He usually is a man of superior intelligence and ability with many interests and a vast store of energy.

Such a man was the apostle Simon Peter. Extremely impulsive, very intense, he was always ready to risk everything on the outcome of a great adventure. When his plans seemed to fall, Peter was also very gloomy and disappointed.

Although his name was Simon, Jesus called him Peter "The Rock." This nickname was a symbol of the thing Peter became as he grew older and more active in the new church.

Peter did not realize some of the weakness inherent in his impulsive personality. But Jesus did. He saw through the tendencies to boast and Peter's burning desire to be first.

So Jesus prayed for Peter and these prayers became the source of Peter's strength and his salvation.

Peter bragged that he would not deny Jesus. He vowed he would not, even though everyone else might do so. But it was a penitent Peter who humbled himself by weeping later when he broke his vow, not once but three times.

We must always remember that the Christ who prayed for Peter prayed for all of us. He, too, can be our salvation and strength.

Cotton Congress Called In June For Harlingen

Some of the world's outstanding cotton men will speak before the American Cotton Congress which meets in Harlingen, Texas, June 5-7.

"We feel that we have one of the finest cotton programs ever arranged for the Congress," Burris C. Jackson, Congress chairman, said. He is from Hillsboro, Texas.

"Theme for the Congress will be Cotton International. It is a fact that Americans can grow cotton better than anybody else in the world. But present U. S. policies are keeping us from selling the cotton. Experts will discuss steps that could be taken to help us sell the cotton, he added.

Top speakers include Lamar
Fleming, Jr., of Houston, Board
Chairman of Anderson, Clayton & Co., leading cotton firm;
Thomas C. Mann, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs; and Marvin L. McLlalin, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Another feature of the program will be a trip across the Mexican border to visit a Mexican agricultural experiment station, gins, oil mills and cotton producing areas. After the tour Mexican cotton men will entertain the Congress in Matamoras.

There is no formal membership in the Congress. Anyone interested in cotton, its problems and solutions to these problems, is welcome to attend. Reservations may be made through Harry Nunn, reservations chairman, Madison Hotel, Harlingen, Texas.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Vern Sanford
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

At least one segment of Texas economy—highway construction—is booming. One reason: the Texas Highway Department isn't letting grass grow under its feet in getting federal emergency projects under way.

Low bids tabulated at the Department's May letting totaled $19,187,933. State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer, in opening the May letting, said that about $25,000,000 in road projects would be up for bids next month.

This figure, if reached, would set a new record.

A big chunk of this upsurge comes from Texas' $36,000,000 share of the Federal Emergency Fund, authorized by Congress this year to get extra money into the economy fast and provide needed roads. All of this work must be put under contract by December.

Texas Highway officials hope to beat the deadline by several months. Greer announced that $8,000,000 of the May lettings represented the first of the extra federal projects. He noted with quiet pride "the speed with which the projects were made ready." Bids were taken just four weeks after the federal bill was signed. Department officials expect all the $36,000,000 to be under contract by the end of the summer—bringing record or near-record lettings for the next few months.

A short time back monthly highway lettings of $9,000,000 to $12,000,000 were about average. Time was, too, when the emphasis was mainly on the need for fine, new roads to accommodate the growing stream of fine, new cars. Today, there's also emphasis on the number of people who'll be put to work, the money they'll spend on groceries, cars, clothes.

HIGH TENSION—With millions involved, the highway lettings are scenes of high tension. Sunburned, sport shirted contractors, plus materials men and insurers flock to the Department's hearing room where the sealed bids are opened and read, item by item.

Department personnel have an electronic computer to add the item bids and determine the low bidder. Results are announced later in the day. But contractors or their representatives take down the bids on the spot and make rapid calculations.

It isn't had to spot the man who's just realized he missed a million-dollar job by bidding a few hundred dollars high. Typical muttered comment: "He can't do it for the money!"

BUMPY ROAD—Though the mammoth highway building program is moving forward, top speed, there are problems along the road.

Chief bone of contention, now in the courts, is whether cost of relocating utilities to make way for new construction should be borne by the cities and utility companies or the state.

A law passed by the last Legislature authorizes the state, with 90 per cent federal aid, to pay for utility re-location on the federal projects.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled that part of the law invalid in "donating public moneys to corporations and individuals... for private and individual purposes." Wilson filed a test case in an Austin district court.

City officials, through the Texas League of Municipalities, take the opposite view. They contend that in other states cities get this money for utility moving and that Texas, through federal taxes, contribute to the cost. Besides, they add, it'll cost the cities some $20,000,000.

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS—The Texas Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools has a flock of new names topping its roster of officials.

W. W. Heath of Austin was named chairman of the Board. He succeeds Dr. Raleigh Ross, also of Austin. Howard Tellepsen of Houston is the new vice chairman.

Raymond W. Vowell was appointed executive director of the hospital system. This post has been vacant nearly a year.

It was announced, also, that Dr. C. J. Rullman, now commissioner of mental health for Tennessee, will become director of Texas mental hospitals in June.

Heath, appointed to the Board by Gov. Price Daniel last fall, is prominent in business circles as an attorney, banker and rancher. He also is a former county judge, secretary of state and assistant attorney general.

SHORT SPOTS

A slight downward trend in joblessness was noted in the Texas Employment Commission's latest report. Number of persons receiving unemployment compensation checks dropped from 90,949 to 90,913.

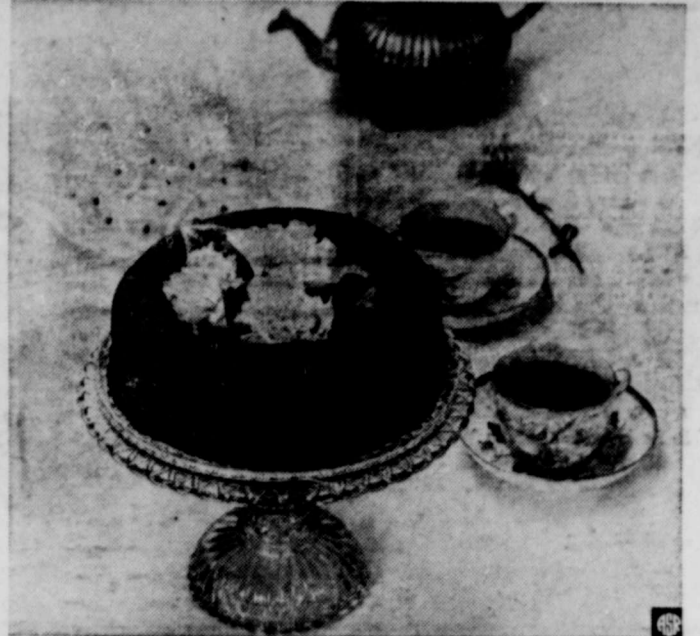

A former TEC attorney, Lee G. Williams, has filed suit in an Austin district court for reinstatement to the job from which he was fired last month. Williams contends that his position in Texas Merit System corresponds to federal civil service status and he cannot be fired for the reasons given. A majority of the 3-man Commission said they had "no confidence" in Williams.

Twenty-two bus companies operating in Texas have asked the Railroad Commission for permission to hike intrastate (within the state only) fares by 10 per cent. They're being squeezed by increased operating costs, say the companies.

Fred Erisman of Longview has been named chairman of the new Texas Council on Administration of Justice. Council's purpose is to work with other groups in curbing crime and delinquency.

Mace Stewart of Galveston, former assistant attorney general, was elected new president of the liberal-dominated Young Democrats Club at its Austin meeting. Young Democrats officially criticized recent legislative action designed "to illegally cir-

Applesauce Cake For Dieters

Dieters can't consider themselves martyrs these days. Not that, when they're enjoying a slice of the spicily fragrant Applesauce Cake, pictured here. This is a low-calorie version of an old-fashioned favorite. But only calories have been sacrificed. It's still rich-tasting, moist, tender, and delicately spiced.

When you taste this cake, you'll find it hard to believe that there's not one bit of sugar in it. Sweetening is accomplished instead by the use of the non-caloric sweetener, Sucaryl. And the happy result is that calories have been slashed nearly in half.

Applesauce Cake tastes best when it's still warm from the oven. Reheat in the oven, if necessary, or drop slices in the toaster when you're serving the cake as an accompaniment to coffee or tea. Heating or toasting gives the cake a fresh-from-the-oven tenderness and fragrance, and greatly enhances its flavor.

Low-Calorie Applesauce Cake

1/2 cup butter or margarine	3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution or 24 tablets, crushed	1 teaspoon baking soda
2 eggs	2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons vanilla	1 teaspoon ground cloves
2 1/2 cups sifted flour	1/2 teaspoon salt
	1 1/2 cups unsweetened applesauce

Cream butter in large mixer bowl on high speed until well softened. Add Sucaryl, eggs and vanilla. Continue beating until thoroughly blended. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with applesauce. Pour batter into an oiled ring mold (1 1/4 quart). Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before removing from mold.

Makes 25 1/2-inch slices. Each serving contains 84 CALORIES. 1.5 grams protein; 4 grams fat; 10 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 161 CALORIES.

You spend a lot of time in your car—driving to work, shopping, taking trips. How your car rates on the road is important to you. So all we ask before you invest in a new car is this: Come in and take a "road rate" drive in a Swept-Wing 58

Dodge. Really compare it thoroughly on every count. We honestly believe it rides better, handles easier, responds quicker than any other car you've ever driven. But we'll leave the verdict entirely up to you. You be the judge.

YOU BE THE JUDGE! THINGS TO NOTICE IN THE SWEPT-WING 58:

- The feel behind the wheel—You feel different because you sit differently. Low and snug and secure, completely in control, almost a part of the car.
- The ease of push-button driving—Once you try Dodge Push-Button TorqueFlite you'll never be happy with outmoded lever types. Ladies love it.
- The view around you—The glass area is tremendous. The visibility is outstanding in every direction—front, sides, rear.
- A ride that's a glide—There's no sway on curves, no dip at stops. Torision-Aire is standard equipment, too.
- This power steering is different—No power steering is like Dodge power steering. It works full time, yet leaves you the feel of the road.
- Horsepower and stopping power—You get up to 320 hp. You get new design Total-Contact Brakes.

Need some weights for your throw line or trot lines? If you'd like to have some extra weights, fer free—even an anchor or two, maybe — then here's a tip.

Next time you see a new home going up, bricks being laid, or concrete being poured—drop in for a visit. Ask the boys to let you have the left-over "mud."

Then, here's what you do with it. Get some old syrup buckets, paint buckets, or what have you—anything from gallon size on down, that will hold concrete. Next, find some old metal clothes hangers and cut them in strips of varying lengths — depending on your needs. Bend the wire in the middle to make a loop. Take the two loose ends and twist the wires around each other a few times, about two or three inches below the loop. Then fan out the loose ends at right angles to the loop. This should give you a piece of wire shaped like a "T" with a loop in the top end.

Now, stick the cross-bar part of the inverted "T" into an empty can and pour in the cement. Adjust the "loop" to a sufficient height above the concrete so that there will be ample room in "the eye" for whatever size rope you plan to use.

Let the "mud" sit overnight. In the morning you'll have a homemade weight—or anchor, depending on its size—made of solid concrete, and at the cost of but a little time.

Using smaller cans you can make whatever size weight you'd like for your throw line, or trot line. Larger cans make excellent weights for anchoring the boat while fishing, or beaching.

If the can is so large that a coat hanger may be too light to withstand the weight of the concrete, use an abandoned piece of heavy, galvanized clothes line, or a small chain.

Eventually the can will rust away. But you'll still have your anchor of poured concrete just as long as your wire "loop" remains intact. So, select as strong a wire for that purpose as you can find — and one that is as rust-resistant as possible.

If you want to get fancy with your home-made anchors here's something else you can do. Punch two holes in the side of the bucket, directly across from each other and some two inches from the bottom. Through these holes insert a piece of iron rod, such as is used to reinforce concrete. Let this rod extend out from the sides of the can about three or four inches.

Next, punch two more holes on opposite sides of each other, but at right angles to the first rod and an inch or so above it. Then place the second rod through the can. This gives you two iron rods at right angles to each other and only a short distance apart.

Now when you pour in the concrete you will have an anchor with four prongs extending outward. So, when you drop anchor and the boat begins to move with the wind or the current—and the anchor tips over—the prongs "dig in" and hold the boat in position.

DEAD MINNOW BAIT — Do you throw away your dead minnows? Most fishermen just toss out dead minnows that fail to survive in the old minnow bucket. However, we've encountered a few old-timers of late who report some mighty good catches of catfish, with dead minnows as their bait.

Their method is to use a leader, 24 inches or so long, with a lead shot where line and leader join. They use shot of just enough weight to enable them to cast a good distance into deep water and pull the line to the bottom fairly fast.

The procedure is to cast to

Leo Turner and Bernard Houston, farmer of Martin and Glasscock Counties pointed out that the two main advantages that would be gained by the location of a classing office in Stanton would be:

(A.) Since there is but 3-5% of the total number of bales classed at Abilene which is irrigated and/or long staple cotton, and since almost all of this comes from Midland, Martin and Glasscock Counties: A local area classing office would be more familiar with the type of cotton grown in the area and with local weather conditions.

(B.) The Abilene Office does not have a humidifying system. In tests conducted at the Lubbock Classing Office, the farmer gained an average of about $3.75 per bale increase in price received for his cotton graded under a humidifying system as compared to cotton graded without the humidifying system.
