

FORTUNATELY, AS FAR AS the water supply for livestock and domestic uses is concerned, Stanton, hasn't been worried one iota over prospects of losing it. All the seven years the drought held the section in its grasp, never a minute were the citizens alarmed they would turn on the faucet and find no water due to the underground water reservoir being empty.

A WEEK LATE MENTIONING the fact. But "Save the Horse Week" was observed last week. Where there were 26,500,000 horses in 1915, the number has decreased until today there are only 3,550,000 of the animals.

Next to a dog a horse is man's best friend. Hitched to a buggy you could fall asleep and the horse would take you home safely. Now look how the present day method of transportation will treat you. You fall asleep at the wheel and it's doubtful there'll be enough of your remains left to identify you.

THERE'S NOTHING SO UNUSUAL about women bulging at the hips, but in this case it is. Five women who clean up at a distillery in Philadelphia, were hauled into court charged with getting off with 14 gallons of the spirits. The hidden stash for the liquor were bottles tied to girdles and other under gear.

Since the kickoff breakfast to launch the drive for funds to be invested in the Boy Scout movement was held Tuesday morning and the solicitors for funds are at their job seeking contributions, it will not be amiss to publish some facts about the origin of Boy Scouts.

The fundamentals of the Boy Scout program are found in all sorts of activities reaching back into history, but it was not until 1907 the first definite experiment took place leading to the establishment of Boy Scouts.

It was in the summer of that year that Lord Robert Baden-Powell invited a group of boys to camp with him on Brownsea Island, off the coast of England, near Portsmouth.

Official City Financial Report In This Issue

The official financial report to the people from the city administration appears in this issue of the newspaper.

The present city council adopted a policy many months ago to follow the law to the letter and have published a financial report of city affairs every three months. That report has been well prepared and properly submitted since that time and is always informative.

In comparing similar reports to the public published in other papers we find the one here in Stanton is far superior from a standpoint of understanding and content of information.

Postal Department Designates Holiday Overseas Mailing Dates

It's time to begin thinking of mailing Christmas packages and cards overseas.

November 1 through November 20 is the period designated for mailing holiday gifts, letters and cards to those relatives and friends abroad. Mailed in that interval, the sender can be assured the packages and mail will reach the recipient before December 25.

These dates specifically relate to mail going by surface routes. Cards, letters and other items to be dispatched by air mail can be sent anytime from December 1 through December 10 and reach their destination in time.

Those persons who plan to send Christmas gifts in addition to Christmas cards would be wise to check the post office regarding size and weight limitations and the best method of packing gifts for over-seas delivery.

It is also advisable to enclose in each package a slip on which should be listed the contents and the name of the persons to whom the package is being sent.

There are certain articles which may not be sent by mail. Included are lighter fluid and matches. In certain military zones, cigarettes, tobacco products and coffee are prohibited. The post office can advise anyone whether a proposed gift may be safely dispatched and if it is acceptable.

Make certain, the post office urges, that addresses are carefully written—preferably typed—so as to be readily readable.

Above all, the post office urges, make certain you send the Christmas mail destined for overseas early so that it will reach its destination in proper time.

To the music of "Stairway to the Stars" the majorettes climbed the stairs in single file each twirling a lighted baton. As each majorette reached the top of the stairs her lighted baton became a magic wand as she touched the large star, turning on the lights of one point until the entire star shown in brilliant color.

The band then formed a lighted heart while playing "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." The star re-appeared in the center of the heart and Carolyn Manning was escorted to the front of the star by Drum Major Bobby Wren and Band President Danny Smith. ## Portrait of West Texan—Midlander, Successful Rancher, Recalls Early-Day Trail Drives

OLD TIMER, MONUMENT—E. B. (Ebb) Dickenson, 80, stands by a stone plaque on his fine new ranch home, built to honor "my loyal co-workers." As a boy, Dickenson watched large cattle herds of the Stanton-Midland area sweep by his father's farm near Lubbock, and one night, at the age of 14, he "started south down the lonesome trail to see where those herds were coming from."

By HOWARD CATES Reporter-Telegram Staff

Tears coursed down the cheeks of the 14-year-old boy, as he watched the little bay pony canter down the trail.

E. B. (Ebb) Dickenson was hurting in two places that day in 1895—in the stomach and in the heart.

The $7.50 he received in boot between his pony and an old nag saved the hunger pain. And although Dickenson today could buy thousands of horses, if he had, the sorrow he experienced over loss of the little bay still hasn't abated.

He had lassoed the pony from a wild mustang herd on the North Plains near Lubbock, and had broke and gentled the animal.

Dickenson owns a 32½-ac.

tion ranch in Martin and Midland Counties, with the headquarters almost in the center of Martin County. He also is a director of The First National Bank.

Dickenson is among the last of his breed, a rancher who started from scratch, moved to the top financially through hard work and good management. Dickenson wasn't helped by oil.

West Texas Press Comments

The State Board of Water Engineers last week granted the Greenbelt Municipal Industrial Water Authority a permit to construct a dam on Salt Fork near the town of Memphis in Hall County. Seven towns, Memphis, Quanah, Childress, Hedley, Paducah and Clarendon compose the water district. The dam and reservoir will be a seven or nine million dollar project. The Memphis Democrat reports the Authority is allowed to take 30,000 acre feet of water per year from Salt Fork, 18,000 acre feet for municipal use and 12,000 acre feet for industrial. It is said water from Salt Fork is superior to most of the water being used by the towns involved.

The weather continuing favorable over the cotton growing area of Gaines County last week has thrown a boost in the value of the crop to the county and the number bales of cotton to be added. Reading the Seminole Sentinel the estimate on the value of the crop to the county at $6,625,000 made in September that figure has been boosted to $7,375,000 value at present time to the county and 6,000 bales have been added. The bale yield for Gaines County has been elevated from a total of 53,000 bales to 59,000.

It's the time of the year for the syster to be roving the cotton and ply his trade. The cotton harvest is in full bloom and money is starting to float. The Rising Star Record is reporting the appearance in that section of "roof fixers." Their scheme has a strong economy ring to it. They guarantee the victim the spread of their mixture on the roof will cement all cracks in the roof and make it completely weather resistant and at less than half the cost legitimate roofers charge.

Eden is without a hospital or a doctor. The only doctor who operated a clinic closed the hospital and moved to Post. Now The Eden Echo is reporting the town has good possibility land- ing a Methodist Church Hospital and Retirement Home for the San Angelo District. The church's commission for hospitals and retirement homes is to visit Eden soon and confer with civic leaders.

A prosperity item of valuable importance was that published in last week's Colorado City Record. So far in this year 1958 the building permits issued totaled $543,500. Permits totalling $67,000 were issued during the last month, and most of that amount was invested in residential construction.

The Slaton Slatonite, owned and operated by Francis E. Perry and Richard B. Perry, since in May, 1953, has been sold to Joel R. Combs of Pampa, Woodie Rosser, Jr. of Houston and Charles Collins of McLean. The new owners assumed immediate control. Two of the trio of partners, Combs and Rosser, have moved their families to Slaton, and Combs will edit the paper, and Rosser will be the business manager.

BIBLE COMMENT

Paul Preached Of Freedom And Brotherhood

Freedom and brotherhood are terms that need a lot of careful definition in the difficult times in which we are living. And there is no better guide to an accurate and workable definition of this term than the writings of the Apostle Paul.

Paul puts a great deal of emphasis on freedom. He had been a legalist, and the meaning of his conversion to Christianity had been the discovery of a new freedom. Religion became a matter of the heart to him. It concerned faith more than formal observance that lacked the spiritual reality.

When he lists the fruits of the spirit: Love, joy, peace, suffering, gentleness, and goodness his comment is final. He says, "Against such there is no law." That is the essence of Paul's philosophy of freedom. It is always associated with goodness.

"The law is our schoolmaster," he declares, "to bring us to Christ." He adds, "Christ is the end of the law for everyone that believeth."

What Paul says concerning liberty in relation to Jewish law is true of liberty in relation to all laws. Their relationship to liberty makes all laws either a curse or a blessing.

The freedom to do right is a very real freedom and all laws that suppress that freedom are bad.

Freedom and brotherhood were associated with each other in Paul's religion. The life that was lived in the path of freedom was fulfilling the law.

"As the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." That phrase expresses the feeling of brotherhood without any limitations.

Some persons claim that Paul's practicing of brotherhood was limited to the community of Christians. It is true that Paul did regard Christians as owning a special obligation to one another.

But the word "neighbor" meant the same thing to him that it meant to Jesus when He told the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Philosopher Worried Over Contaminating The Moon With Radiation, Germs, Johnson Grass

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw claims to be worried this week, but we doubt it.

Dear editor:

In all this excitement over trying to get a rocket to the moon, most people seem to be concentrating on the sheer fact of getting one there, while some of us deeper thinkers have been concentrating on other aspects of the matter. There's no point in rushing into space or a farming year without first doing some heavy thinking.

I read the other day where a scientist is deeply concerned about man's contaminating the moon with radiation and possibly disease germs, and he wants the explorers to go easy on this. Maybe he's circle the moon, but don't land.

I don't know anything about germs, except they're the biggest friend a doctor has in explaining some forms of virus sickness he can't explain otherwise, but germs aren't the only thing we ought to be worrying about when it comes to contaminating the moon or any of the other planets.

Take Johnson grass. The last thing man wants to do, if he's planning on colonizing the moon, is get Johnson grass started up there, not to mention all sorts of weeds, mosquitoes, ants, chiggers, wasps, motters, scooters, etc.

Also, some scientists are worried about the effect the impact of a rocket may have on the moon if one hits it, and one is liable to if they keep shooting in that direction. It's sort of like a woman who talks all the time. Sooner or later she's bound to say something accurate.

But it's not the shock of a rocket hitting the moon that concerns me. As I see it, if we reach it, sooner or later we'll land some people there, and then later on somebody will want to bring in a car, and if we get as many as two up there, they're bound sooner or later to hit head-on. If the moon can't stand sudden impacts, it's doomed.

In fact, come to think of it, if we want to avoid contaminating the moon completely, we'd better not land any people there at all.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

FARM AND RANCH REVIEW

When the barnyard hen forsok her nest in the manger and under the corn crib for Mrs. Biddy, who had designs on the ultra modern way of producing an egg, the interest in how, when, or where the egg has come into being, was lost to us.

In these modern times the hen has been picked up, a modern home built for her, and the importance stressed in laying an egg, it must be 100 per cent fresh, and if the best comes to the best, her egg of today must dry up before decaying with old age.

Be that as it may, The popularity of the egg for its food value, dates back to the early caveman who learned to eat the egg of the wild jungle fowl. And since that time the egg has been one of the most popular foods of mankind.

Positively speaking, we can't afford to risk our reputation by predicting how long the weather will remain clear with the sun casting its warm rays down on the cotton fields of Martin County. We accept the weather as it is at this writing and endeavor to weave the story around it with the hope the weather will continue its present department on through to the end of the cotton harvest.

For two weeks or more prior the weather had been performing its activities with all the shades drawn. Dark and gloomy weather. Light rain showers, hotched-scotched across the area in sufficient frequency and quantity to keep the cotton pickers out of the fields.

But the past week brought clear warm weather and the cotton harvest has been in full swing.

If you haven't been a visitor to the cotton fields that run up to the back door of Stanton, you're missing a treat. In the first place you'll wonder how it is possible the cotton stalks are standing so erect loaded with so many fully developed bolls clinging to them. Some of the stalks will be found carrying a load of bolls the open snow white lint resting on the ground and from that position bolls range upward to the top perch on the stalk. We want to remind here the stalks stand three and four feet tall.

Starting early in the cotton growing season estimate of Martin County's crop yield was placed at 50,000 bales, then as the season grew more favorable, 60,000 bales was estimated, and the last report from the Texas Employment Commission, the county's bale crop will reach the total of 65,000 bales.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Stewart, Jr. have moved to Midland to make their home.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Jack Buchanan, Ollie Robertson, Eernard Houston, Larry Shaw

Although the Texas State Soil Conservation District law has only been in effect since 1939, 173 Soil Conservation Districts have been organized taking in 97 per cent of the State. There are more than 187,000 landowners or operators who have detailed conservation plans for their land and are otherwise cooperating with their local Soil Conservation District. These district cooperators operate more than 96,000,000 acres of land. All this has been accomplished on a strictly voluntary basis without any form of compulsion. Some ask how and why?

Soil conservation work in Texas is carried out in a similar manner to the way we educate our young people. Texas law authorizes local people by petition and election to organize independent districts which are subdivisions of the State. Each Soil Conservation District is governed by a five man board of supervisors elected by local landowners. These elected supervisors are responsible for working with all local interests in the development of the district's plan of work. The district supervisors by agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture obtain the technical services of the U. S. D. A. Soil Conservation Service to assist landowners in planning the most practical use of each acre of his land as well as the needed measures to maintain and improve the soils productive capacity. A conservation plan includes such measures as management of rangeland to maintain a cover of desirable grasses, the use of cover and soil improving crops on cropland as well as engineering measures such as terraces and flood detention structures.

The district supervisors also by agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture and the individual federal agencies have the assistance of the Extension Service in promoting its program, the ASC in assisting in the financing of conservation practices, the State Game Commission, the State and National Forest Services and state and federal agencies.

The Texas State Soil Conservation Board composed of five elected landowners performs the State level administrative functions to make the district program effective. The Board coordinates the work of the districts to effect a unified state program. The State Board and its employees assist local supervisors with any problem they may have.

A great factor in the success of a Soil Conservation District is the support it gets from local organizations and firms such as chambers of commerce, service clubs, women's organizations and churches. During Soil Stewardship week alone there were 2,225 sermons given by ministers of local churches. Over one-quarter of a million people heard these sermons. Sermons were also carried on 21 TV stations, and 161 radio stations. Soil Stewardship week is fast becoming a tradition.

A Soil Conservation District is not an agency but is a local subdivision of State government. What it does and how, rests entirely with the elected supervisors, except as they are limited by Texas law.

How well the district supervisors are able to mobilize the efforts of state and federal agencies as well as individuals and local organizations and bring their resources and abilities to bear on the locally planned Soil Conservation District program determines the effectiveness of the district.

The necessity for such organization and effort is justified in

New Arrivals

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunlap of Big Spring at 12:30 a. m., Friday, October 17 in a Big Spring hospital. He weighed 7 pounds 1 ounce and has been named William Russell.

Mrs. Dunlap is the former Carol Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Russell.

Terms of the extent to which soil and water resources contribute to the welfare of people. They supply the necessities as well as the comforts and conveniences of life. Soil and water supply us with food, clothing and shelter and more than half the raw materials upon which industry operates. The total supply of productive land cannot be increased and its ability to produce can easily be decreased or destroyed. Man's ability to multiply his numbers and increase his needs through higher living standards are recognized by all. It is commonly agreed that the maintenance and improvement of the ability of each acre of land to produce is a necessity for the welfare of all mankind.

Soil Conservation Districts seek to do through cooperation, education, individual initiative and local determination what other countries seek to do by compulsion. Time will prove the wisdom of this course.

A University of Texas professor, joined by the manager of the Conservation Assn., stated the drouth would likely strike about the year 1970. MARTIN COUNTY IS INCLUDED IN the eighteen counties that comprise the Buffalo Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The Council is no different than many organizations in the respect it requires funds to defray the expense of carrying on its operations. The Council's budget is now in the process of being raised. Funds for the organization are incorporated in Community Chest and United Fund drives now under way. There are eight cities in as many counties of the eighteen which comprise the Buffalo Trail Council that are in the midst of their Community Chest drives. A certain prorate of the funds raised in the campaign is tagged to apply to the Council's budget. Eighty per cent of this budget is raised through the Community Chest drives. Twenty per cent of the budget fund is secured through campaigns conducted by the Council in non-chest areas.

Martin County is included in the number of non-chest communities.

HOW MUCH DOES THE BOLL WEEVIL COST THE COTTON FARMER?

ON THE AVERAGE, THE BOLL WEEVIL DESTROYS $352,000,000 WORTH OF COTTON IN ONE SEASON.

uary 1953 were 1,695, and in the same month of 1958 leaders had grown to the number of 3,739.

After a brief boyhood on a farm near what now is Lubbock, Dickenson stole away in the night aboard his pony at the age of 14 to make his way as a cowboy. "That following a plow wasn't for me," he recalls. He had a lone silver dollar in his pocket.

He headed for Midland, the cowboy capital of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico. Dickenson paid 50 cents for a stall for himself and his little pony, and the other half of his $1 went for food. That's why he had to sell the bay — no money.

After his horse trade, Dickenson rode into Odessa, and found work on the huge C Ranch in Andrews County. The next year, he went up the trail to Amarillo with the late Clarence Scharbauer, Sr., with a herd of 3,500 cattle.

Commanded Respect

Although Scharbauer was 18 then, he commanded the respect of his cowhands by being the first to rise in the mornings and the last to quit the saddle in the evenings.

"A fine, honest man" is the way Dickenson describes Scharbauer.

Dickenson bought four sections of land in 1902 in Martin County, but continued to work as a cowboy for area spreads several years.

He soon began buying and leasing adjoining land, and finally built up to his present strength.

It was early to rise and late to bed for Dickenson for almost 60 years, until five years ago when he moved into Midland.

The spread, known as the V Ranch, now is operated jointly by Dickenson and his nephew, J. C. Sale.

Dickenson is a man who doesn't forget his friends, including those who have worked for him. The best of living facilities and welfare benefits are provided for his former employees.

He is a modest man, but his friends tell of his kind heart and generous nature always.

A new 12-room house was built last Summer near the ranch headquarters. It is furnished with modern and expensive furniture. Dickenson used a well-known interior decorator to furnish the place.

And on a wall of the house is a plaque dedicating it to his "loyal co-workers."

Dickenson is nationally known for his Hereford bulls, the bulwark of his fortune. He estimates he has sold almost 9,000 bulls since 1910.

Carl is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Wright of Stanton and is completing his fourth year of 4-H work. His major activities have included projects built around community service. He is probably best known for his abilities as a public speaker. For the past two years he has been a county and district winner and hopes to add a state title to his collection before he is through.

He is active in church and school affairs and has been a leader in the community improvement work which has resulted in their winning two cash awards on the district basis. He is a community recreation leader and takes an active part in planning youth activities. He says, "4-H participation has helped me to be a more useful and happier citizen." Other 4-H demonstrations have included home improvement, safety, bee keeping and health.

His county agent, Bob Johnson, describes him as an outstanding example of what 4-H training can contribute to leadership and citizenship development in its members. Carl gives his 4-H training much credit for developing his speaking talents and for giving him opportunities to meet, know and work with many individuals and groups.

"I am a Boy Scout," the boy replied, "and Boy Scouts do not accept tips for services performed."

This surprised the publisher. He at once wanted to know more about Boy Scouts. The boy escorted Mr. Boyce to the London headquarters where the American publisher was given full information.

Returning to the United States Mr. Boyce, consulted with a group of friends who were interested in boys, and the group incorporated the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C. on February 5, 1910.

On January 2, 1911, a small room at 200 Fifth Ave., New York was rented as the first office. It was opened by James E. West, a young lawyer in Washington, D. C. as the executive. From this beginning the movement spread until it is said there is scarcely a community in the United States today which does not have its Boy Scout troop.

Educators, public school officials, leaders in all walks of life have through the years paid tribute to the effectiveness of the Boy Scout program as an agency for the building of good character and training for citizenship.

Adventures in ADVERTISING

THE FANTASTIC STORY of MUSA-SHIYA THE SHIRTMAKER

(Also Sometimes Drygoods Selling)

If the shipping department of a factory had not made an error, the world would never have known of Musa-shiya the Shirtmaker and the most astounding advertising campaign in history would never have been launched.

Following World War I an English textile factory was getting back on a peacetime basis. In error it sent a full five year backorder of shirting material to Musa-shiya, a Japanese shirtmaker who operated a small shop in Honolulu. Business was poor and Musa-shiya was near bankruptcy, when the customs office informed him that certain bales of cloth and a fat bill for duties awaited his pleasure at the port of Honolulu.

When the little shirtmaker realized what had descended upon him, he asked for time and went into the silence for purpose of mental refreshment. Remembering a friend in a big mercantile establishment, he hid himself there and sought counsel. How in the name of the horned prophet of evil was he ever to get rid of all that English shirting? And in the meantime where was he to put it? His little box of a shop wouldn't hold one bale.

"You'll have to advertise," advised his friend. "Leave it to me. I'll have our advertising agents help you out."

This merely compounded the little Japanese shirtmaker's troubles. Advertising to him was an uncharted sea. The advertising agent called on Musa-shiya and suggested $300 as a modest starter. "Too-o-o much. Maybe I think thirty dollar plenty," said the shirtmaker. He was told that wouldn't even get him in print. The agent explained the costs of various advertisements and finally Musa-shiya agreed to try the plan and what was destined to be the most astounding and far reaching campaign in the history of advertising was launched.

Two column by five inch ads then started appearing regularly in the Saturday Honolulu Star-Bulletin. The ads were written just the way Musa-shiya talked — in colorful pidgen English which is used throughout the Orient. Here is an example of one of Musa-shiya's ads:

"Well here come storek again — but Musa-shiya, the shirtmaker, is able prepare. Wonderful accumulation of baby things in dry goods selling corner of Musa shop. Everything for the baby — especially diaper. Exclusive of storek, which find most easily, many persons not finding little shop of Musa-shiya the shirtmaker in King Street, Makai side, between fish market and river."

Tourists started sending copies of Musa-shiya's ads to their friends in many countries. Soon Musa-shiya was receiving orders from all over the world as well as doing a thriving business in Hawaii.

And that is the story of how a well planned, small advertising campaign made an unknown Japanese shirtmaker not only wealthy but world famous.

Your local newspaper doesn't promise to duplicate this story for its advertisers, but it does take your sales message into the homes of your customers where full and careful consideration is given your suggestions. Who knows, perhaps you too can be a Musa-shiya.

FARM & RANCH REVIEW

Jim Shoulders of Henryetta, Okla., is in line to be named for the second year all around cow-boy champion. He has just finished winning $6,280 at Madison Square Garden, New York. This year Shoulders winnings have amounted to $29,337. He has been the featured cowboy artist at the Midland rodeo exhibition on several occasions.

About the time we start to write something for this column about the cloudy murky weather prevailing and the cotton pickers are strolling aimlessly on the streets of Stanton, we have to change our route and say something about the country being in the arms of clear warm weather. No group is more anxious to see the idle pickers of Stanton streets and in the cotton patches than the cotton growers. It's them who suffer when the weather halts the cotton harvest.

Not a word of regret is "herd" coming from the ranchers. It can't rain too much for them. They would appreciate seeing their range lands supporting an abundant growth of grass and weeds and stop the heavy expense they have to meet buying feed for their livestock.

Perhaps for the first time since the bracero labor started to move into the Martin County cotton fields six weeks ago, Friday of last week was the first day the streets of Stanton were free of a roving Mexican National. The day was bright and clear as a newly minted silver dollar. Wind blew just at the right velocity and at a temperature to lend its assistance in drying the fields of their moisture.

The wheels of the gins were kept rolling at capacity day and night to convert the onrush of lint from the fields into bales of cotton.

An ideal day it was for continuing the cotton harvest.

Bill Holcomb of Seminole, won the grand championship steer at the Dallas Fair and sold it for $3,070. The Angus steer weighed 1,000 pounds.

"Sure," admitted the Texan, "with all that ice, Alaska is bigger than Texas. But if Alaska had one of our summers, it'd melt to half our size."

The past several years the Martin County farm land owners have benefited greatly from oil. The oil lease money has mounted into several thousands of dollars.

Texas cash farm income for a recent year ran about 1.9 billion dollars. That's gross income—the amount of money the state's farmers and ranchmen received for the products they raised on the land.

Not included in that 1.9 billion dollars is still another income figure which annually means a great deal to Texas farmers and ranchers.

This unaccounted "crop"—definitely a product of the earth—is petroleum, and that same year it put nearly $480,000,000 in the pockets of Texas land owners.

Thousands of land owners whose land has never produced oil have received substantial payments from the companies which thought the possibilities of finding oil was good, but later dropped the lease. Petroleum—even the possibility of having it under their land—has been a good "crop" for Texas farmers and ranchmen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blocker, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Rhodes, Mrs. O. L. Snodgrass, Jr. and Nancy attended the Oil Show Sunday in Odessa. Mrs. Snodgrass and Nancy visited in Andrews.

A LOOK AT LENORAH

By MRS. LYNDELL ASHLEY

Have you ever dressed for cool October weather and then sweltered in hot August temperature? That's what happened to us last Saturday at the Baylor-Tech game. It was a mighty exciting game though, especially for those of us who were Baylor fans. The others in the group, Mrs. Bob Thrallkill, Pat and Fran, and Jimmy Barber were rooting for Tech, so they weren't too happy with the outcome.

Mrs. Grover Springer tells me they had a long distance call from their son, Marlin, last Wednesday night, who is stationed at Fort Carson, Colorado. I'm sure it must seem awfully quiet around the Mon McKaakle home these days. Two of their sons have recently entered the Air Force at Lacklin Air Base in San Antonio. Billy is to be stationed at Wichita Falls, while Charles is being sent to Chantute, Ill. for jet mechanics training.

Another local boy in service is Pvt. Jack Hildreth, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hildreth. Jack has been stationed at Fort Carson, Colo., and is home on leave for a few days before going to his new base at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

Dan Pinkston of Midland spent the weekend with his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Mims of Lenorah. The Mims visited in Midland Sunday afternoon with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Pinkston.

Mrs. Melvin Robertson and children of Sweetwater are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Ashley.

The Bill Williams family of Abernathy spent last weekend with the Harlan Barbers. Speaking of the Barbers, have you noticed the beautiful pyracantha bush in their front yard? It's covered with brilliant orange berries and makes a lovely picture against the white house. The fall flowers and shrubs are in bloom all around the country now. I've noticed especially the ones around the Lenorah Post Office and the Cap Rock Co-op building in Stanton. This is one of the things that makes autumn the nicest season of the year.

The sixth grade students at Grady had a change of scenery Monday. Their regular teacher, Bill Lookadoo, has gone to Fort Worth to move his family here. So Stanton will have some more new residents. Substituting for Mr. Lookadoo was Paul West, pastor of Lenorah Baptist Church.

Mrs. Jim Franklin and children visited over the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heath of Abernathy. The Grady Gardenhires were also among those who went visiting last weekend. They visited in Odessa.

I have a telephone now, so if you have any news to report or if you'd like to disagree with something I've already written, just call GL 9-2250.

Yellowhammers -

Stanton was forced to punt after four plays, and Corky Taylor juggled the leather back to the Buffs' 40. Bradley Britton got 25 yards on two tries and Donald Goodrum climaxed the march with a five yard smash to score the second Yellowhammer touchdown. Try for point failed.

Buzzy Brewer, flashy Stanton back was forced from the game in the first period with a twisted ankle after being tackled by Todd Baugh. This undoubtedly hurt Stanton's chances for victory. However, Thad Koonce, Kenneth Yates, and Dwayne Thompson turned in some good runs in the first half. The Buffs started drives in the first and second periods that carried to midfield before being stopped.

On the second play of the third quarter, Rotan's Baugh broke loose and went 75 yards for a touchdown but the play was nullified because a Rotan player committed an infraction. Corky Taylor got the final Rotan counter when he intercepted a pass and raced 33-yards to the Buff goal. Bradley Britton had made it 20-0 for the Yellowhammers only three plays before the final touchdown was registered.

Coach Herlin Dauphin said Wednesday his boys would be out to find their way back to the win column when they clash here Friday night with Roby.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Waits and daughters have been Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hopper and Gary of Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Shipp visited Saturday night in Midland with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stroup.
