By JAMES E. KELLY

THE POWER OF A GRAND JURY is one of the finest things the American people have left as a heritage of the founding fathers who wanted this country and every village in it to be protected against maladministration, vice, and corruption in the ranks of officialdom. Up in McKinney, Texas, that's in Collin County, down in the Sam Rayburn country, a police chief has resigned after four counts of felony theft were returned against him by a Collin County grand jury. When the elected officials of the town were slow about acting on information given them by responsible citizens, the grand jury was summoned in special session, and acted hurriedly to return indictments. One count charges the top officer in the north Texas city with confiscating guns and not returning them to owners. Another count the grand jury charged the chief with, was for "setting the amount of fines and taking a so-called cash bond which was treated as a fine." This procedure usurped the power of a corporation court and a judge as provided in the city charter of the north Texas town. The jury said delays occurred in turning the money over to the city secretary. The grand jury said: "We found one case where $100 was paid to the chief of police and no record could be found of the collection." (Continued on page 5)

Stanton Area Farmer Grows Fine Apples

Martin County is known for its high grade cotton and for its premium quality cattle, and poultry, to say nothing of its champion capons and prize winning hogs, but it can also claim other honors. Clyde White has consistently grown a wide variety of fruits and produce on his farm north of Stanton. This year, White has a tree full of large, colorful apples, and the taste is different from the juices of the Winesaps, Delicious, and other well known varieties. White brought a half dozen of his apples to The Stanton Reporter one day recently and they were placed in the custody of one of the city's best known pie makers who converted the tasty samples into a rich pie. Thanks Mr. White, the staff enjoyed your gift.

Police Chief Calls For Safe Driving In City School Zones

Stanton Police Chief L. C. Waits made his usual pre-school opening visit to The Stanton Reporter this week to plead for cooperation from county car operators in operating vehicles through the school zones. "Schools open in Stanton on August 31, and the 15 mile-per-hour speed limits in school areas will be enforced," Waits said. "It is not my idea to have to threaten the people, many of them parents, who drive cars in and out of the school areas to keep the laws of safety enforced, but rather to seek their support and total cooperation in the effort to protect their children and other children from becoming the victim of a tragic traffic mishap," the chief said. Chief Waits stated that particular emphasis would be placed on patrol duty on Highway 80 which runs adjacent to the junior high school, and on the Lamesa Road, which carries traffic north and south past school property. Every motorist in Stanton and in all of Martin County should resolve now to make an effort to curb fast driving and proceed through the school areas in a safe and sane manner at all times. Our children deserve this consideration and protection.

County Philosopher Defends Scientists Who Can't Find Their Nose Cones; He Lost A Tractor

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his Martin County grass farm on Mustang Draw comes to the defense of scientists this week, although we doubt if they need defending.

Dear editor:

There is one phase of the outer space program that has begun to interest me, but not for any scientific reason.

Every once in a while the space scientists shoot a capsule or nose cone into orbit and then try to bring it down and catch it, so they can check its instruments and gather a lot of scientific information about which I don't know any more than you do.

But the point is, when they get one up and then signal it down, sometimes they can't find it. It just floats down by parachute somewhere over the Pacific ocean and despite the fact they comb the area with airplanes and ships, they can't find it, and this causes some people to criticize them. "What's the matter with those scientists, can't they do better than that?" some people will say.

As a man who frequently can't find something he's looking for, I want to come of the defense of the scientists.

In fact, I lose things all the times around this Mustang Draw grass farm. And I don't understand it, either. Say I'm using my hammer to fix a fence and decide to stop and do something else and agree to come back to the fence later. I carefully lay the hammer down, make a mental note of exactly where it is, couldn't anybody forget that, then go about my business and a week or so later when I need a hammer, I wrack my brain a while, remember the fence, go back and look but it's not there. I think it's the same fence, but to make sure I walk em all, up one side and down the other, but I might as well be searching the Pacific ocean for a nose cone.

The same thing is true with my saw, axe, hoe, pliers, wrenches, why, one time I even lost my tractor. It's a fact, I left it at the end of a row, got interested in keeping up with a Presidential campaign, weeds grew up around it, and later on when I needed it, it was days before I could find it.

As far as I'm concerned, if those scientists find one nose cone out of ten, they're doing better than most of us, except for those rare people who know where every tool they own is and never have time to explore outer space or even just sit down and do nothing.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

FARM & RANCH REVIEW

As the nearing of the time for school opening, decision-making on future careers faces another group of young Americans.

Will it be law, medicine, engineering, research, business, farming—or what?

Students are being reminded of the fact they should not overlook agriculture, the nation's basic industry.

Dr. Roger B. Corbett, president of New Mexico State University, cautioned that unless the nation is careful, it may wake up ten years or so from now and find itself incapable of providing food for a sharply expanding population.

Former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Nutz, said: "Never was the need so great for training in the basic sciences underlying agriculture and in the business phases of farm production and marketing."

An Associated Press farm writer said an important point that searchers for future careers should keep in mind is there are opportunities for the agriculturally trained off the farm as well as on.

The Agriculture Department estimates there are more than 500 distinct occupations in eight major fields of agriculture. Besides farming and ranching, these fields include research, agricultural industry, agricultural business, agricultural education, communications, conservation and that of providing services to agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told a youth group recently "there are and will continue to be many farm associated jobs for which properly trained farm youths are admirably qualified."

This important news to ranchmen and farmers who have an insurance claim to settle for a Mexican bracero had better take a close look at any checks they endorse, said one West Texan.

A bracero working for a San Angelo ranchman was injured and required lengthy hospitalization. There was some disagreement the injury was suffered in line of duty, and the insurance was not keen on paying.

The ranchman went ahead and paid nurses' fees out of his own pocket, expecting to be reimbursed by the insurance company. At length the ranchman got a check paying him for the nurses' fees. He was about to endorse the check and bank it when he noticed the fine print on the back of the check. In endorsing it he would have released the company from all further claims. The doctor and hospital had still not been paid.

So the ranchman stuck the check back in his pocket and served notice on the company he would turn the matter over to an attorney. Before long, settlement was made.

E. M. MacKenna, editor of The Echo, a monthly newspaper published in the interest of the inmates of Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville, made a three-day jaunt in company with official photographer and printing department supervisor of all units of the T. D. C. gathering material and pictures for the rodeo publicity. The editor's conclusion was "this year — 1959—promises to be one of the most bountiful in the history of Texas Penitentiary farming."

He found that "everywhere

under the beaming sun, the cotton is thick, corn high, maize ripples rhythmically, ribbon cane spreads gracefully and the truck gardens are loaded. Livestock from the great herds of cattle on the Ferguson to the equally great herds of swine on Clements, and poultry — chickens and turkeys, are in abundance on every unit."

Trapping summer rainfall in your fields may mean more money in your pocket, says Jack Barton, extension soil and conservation specialist. The "traps," better known as terraces, contour farming or mulches, can help one get more through better yields.

Mulches keep soil surfaces open so that water can penetrate the soil much faster. They slow runoff water speed and help the soil absorb the moisture.

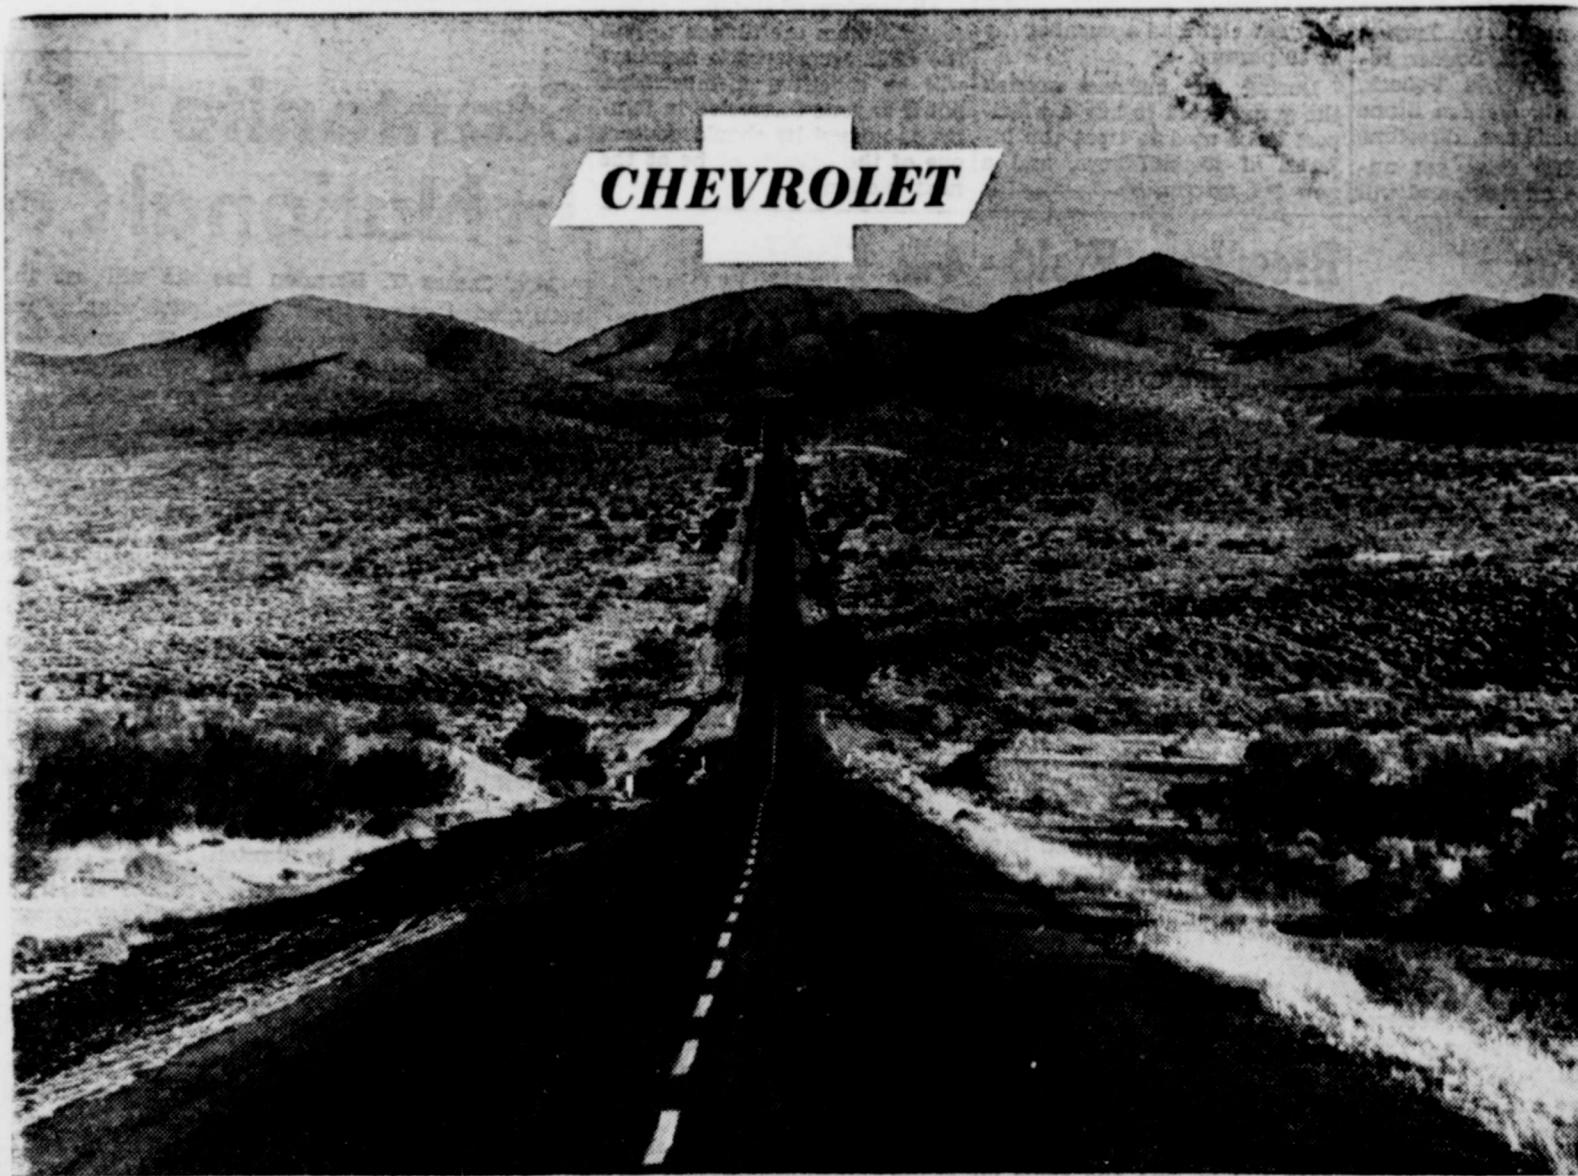

Robert Turner has returned home to Stanton after spending the summer in Cisco.

ONE OF 7 BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Proof that Chevy delivers the most miles from a gallon comes from an indisputable source: this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. For a pair of Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class — got top mileage, in fact, of any full-sized car. Over the Run's long, rugged course, over mountain and desert in the long, long haul from Los Angeles to Kansas City, the winning Chevrolet averaged a whopping 22.38 miles per gallon. That's the kind of economy engineering that keeps you saving while you drive!

BEST STYLE—It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCI-ENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES—In competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR, Chevy outtopped both of the "other two." Naturally—Chevy brakes with bonded linings are far larger, built to lengthen brake life by up to 68%.

BEST TRADE-IN—Look at the record—the used car prices in any N.A.D.A.† Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST ENGINE—Chevrolet engines have long won expert praise and, just recently, Chevrolet received the NASCAR Outstanding Achievement award for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines."

BEST ROOM—Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.; make this abundantly clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for instance, is as much as 5.9 inches wider than in comparable cars.

BEST RIDE—MOTOR TREND magazine names Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." But this is one Chevy feature you really should discover for yourself, at your Chevrolet dealer's. Stop by soon!

FELIX MCKNIGHT'S DALLAS TIMES HERALD reports the formation of a sheriff's posse in Dallas County. The well known Texas lawman, Bill Decker, long time and popular sheriff of the big, sprawling metropolitan area, is picking up a leaf from the book of many West Texas sheriffs. Decker is going to have a posse! The idea is to have the sheriff's office represented in parades and other outstanding occasions in Dallas County. The story in the Dallas newspaper announcing Decker's posse idea was concluded with these words: "Imagine friend, if you were a lawbreaker, wouldn't that posse kinda be a foreboding of things to come... think it over friend."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights By Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Texas will have a virtual "government on wheels" for the last part of this month as 31 state agencies pick up their filing cabinets and move into the new State Office Building.

This is the second new headquarters building to be completed this year. First to be occupied was the new Texas Employment Commission building, completed only a few weeks ago.

Transferring into the new State Office Building undoubtedly will be the biggest move of state agencies since horse-drawn dray wagons moved the government into the present Capitol Building in 1888.

First to move will be a host of commissions, boards and divisions which have been in rented quarters scattered over Austin.

Later, probably October or November, another big move will take the Supreme Court, Court of Criminal Appeals, Attorney General's Department and Supreme Court Library out of the Capitol into the new State Courts Building . . . third state building to be completed this year.

It has been the dream for some time of the Supreme Court's elderly Chief Justice John E. Hickman to stay on the job until the day he could preside in the new Courts Building.

Built of granite similar to that in the Capitol, but with modern styling, the new buildings are to the north of the Capitol. Combined cost of the two buildings is some $7,000,000.

With all the happiness over the prospect of splendid new quarters, there are some regrets. Many employees are worrying about where they'll park their cars once all the scattered agencies move into one building.

Supreme Court jurists feel a touch of sadness at leaving behind the historic walnut bench, inscribed with the Latin phrase, "As God was to our Forefathers, so may He be unto us." It has been in use practically since the memory of man. Replacement is a handsome marble piece which the judges compare to a soda fountain.

PROGRESS AND PROPERTY
—A tingle of excitement, fear and hope runs through landowners and business people when they learn that a new super-highway is to come through their area.

Some residents fret over the prospect of losing the old home place. Others dream of wild profits. Businessmen worry whether the motorists will be able to get to their place.

As more and more expressways pierce the countryside, the State Highway Department is making every effort to explain the procedures for acquiring highway right of way.

Samples from recent official Department statements:

1. Although its first responsibility is to the public—the taxpayers and millions of highway users—the Highway Department "tries to create a minimum of private injury or inconvenience."

2. When private lands are needed for public roads, the law guarantees "adequate compensation" to the owner. Independent professional appraisers are hired, and an "approved value" figure determined.

3. Once the "approved value" is settled on, the Department negotiator can't "horse trade" with the landowner. This might reward the greedy and tough-minded at the expense of the timid or public spirited person.

4. When part of a piece of property is taken and the rest left isolated or of little value, the state will make payment for the loss of value.

5. Owners will be given ample time to move buildings to another site or find new buildings.

6. If an owner with a GI mortgage has to sell, the Veterans Administration will restore his GI loan privileges for getting a new piece of property.

7. An owner who sells property for more than he paid for it will not have to pay income tax on the profit, providing he uses the money to buy similar property within a year.

8. Controlled access highways cannot have an entrance and exit for every piece of property along the way. Real estate developers are urged by the Department to contact the local planning engineer before making any commitments based on access to the through lanes of a controlled access road.

SLOW UP FOR HOLIDAY — With Texas' 1959 traffic deaths running six per cent higher than last year, Gov. Price Daniel issued an urgent safety plea to Labor Day motorists.

He called on law enforcement agencies, civic organizations, safety councils and "most important of all, drivers, to help in this most important of all Texas efforts, the saving of human lives."

Department of Public Safety reported traffic deaths for the first half of 1959 at 1,097, compared to 1,032 for the same period in '58.

SHORT SNOTS — Texas range and pasture land is in the best condition since 1941, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Good winter feed prospects for cattle are predicted. . . . Texas construction activity for the first half of 1959 totaled $1,123,332,000, an increase of 11 per cent over last year. . . . A 1959 pecan crop of 27,000,000 pounds is forecast for Texas by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This would be slightly better than the 26,000,000-pound crop in 1958.

Governor Daniel has appointed Otha F. Dent of Littlefield to a new six-year term on the Board of Water Engineers. Dent is a former Lamb County judge. . . . J. T. Ellis, Jr., former administrative assistant to Governor Daniel, has been appointed the top non-medical administrator for the State Department of Health. Ellis is a one-time state representative from Weslaco.

U.S. OIL.

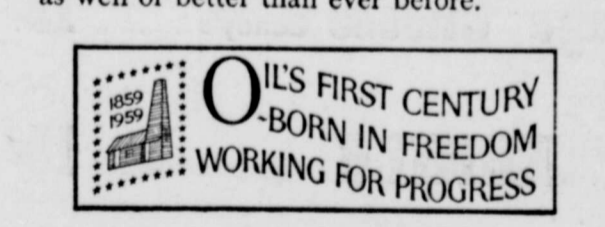

Indispensable in our way of life...
vital to our national defense

In the 100 years since the drilling of the first oil well in the United States, the usefulness of petroleum has been often demonstrated in many ways . . . It is an economical and efficient source of energy and a raw resource convertible through petrochemistry into innumerable useful materials. . . . It is indispensable in our way of life, and vital to the national defense.

The United States has found, produced, refined, and used more oil than any other nation. This has made petroleum products a feature of the abundant American life. Americans use more petroleum products than any other people on the globe.

The past is prologue to the future. During its second century, oil can serve you and your grandchildren, and the nation, as well or better than ever before.

It is comforting to know that today's reserves are ample for today's needs. And if incentives to undergo the heavy risks involved are continued, there is no doubt that more oil will be discovered and produced to replace the oil we use . . .

The Humble Company, incorporated in 1917, has participated in the development of new and better ways to find and produce oil, and in the research that has improved petroleum products and discovered countless new uses for oil and natural gas. Humble is a major producer of U. S. oil, with production extending all across the southern tier of states from Florida to California. Marketing operations are carried on in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. Humble's Baytown refinery, near Houston, is one of the great refineries of the world. (Humble Pipe Line Company, a major transporter of crude oil and finished products, operates more than 9000 miles of pipe lines in Texas.)

TEXAN IN TURKEY--

Undesirable Elements Missing From Strict Country Customs

(Editor's Note: This article was written by Shorty Shelburne, son of City Judge George B. Shelburne. The former Midland Reporter-Telegram staff member is now on military assignment in Turkey. Shelburne has also contributed articles to The Stanton Reporter.)

IZMIR, TURKEY — I have come to the conclusion that much of the strangeness which confronts a Texan in Turkey stems from the fact there is a stunning absence of many of the undesirable elements which we are accustomed to seeing and reading about in America.

Seldom do you see a drunk on the streets, and dishonesty, except for a very small percentage of the people, is just not practiced. Stealing is something which draws a heavy penalty if the offender is caught and convicted. Prostitution and fornication, corruptions which once were common-place among the Gentiles in this area, according to the Bible, are condemned strongly here today.

The Turkish people for the most part still cling to the custom that the family is the basic unit of society and that decisions as to marriage, social practices, and future professions for the children must be made by the head of the house, the father. This system does much to curtail such things as juvenile delinquency and adult law violations. It has become somewhat less strenuous than it was in past history, but primarily in the realm of allowing the children a little more freedom in choosing their future careers.

Air Force Interpreter

I have been rather closely associated with a very intelligent and promising young Turkish man who is an interpreter in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Air Force headquarters here. He is, by our standards, a fine young fellow with a high potential for a great professional career. Even he, however, with all of these desirable qualities, can not just walk out and choose a girl and marry her. He must have the consent of his own parents and definitely, he must have the consent of her folks. The fact that he is willing to respect and abide by these customs which he has inherited points up how strong the family unit remains even though many other things are changing rapidly away from the old Turkish ways.

The value of such respect for parental authority is seen, not only in the lives of young people, but also in adult life in general. A majority of the adults are moderate in their habits. Few of them indulge to excess in anything like drinking, smoking, or even eating. There are some exceptions, of course, but they are in a minority.

More than 90 per cent of the Turkish people are Moslems who actually practice and live their religion. It is estimated by authorities here that less than one Turk per 1,000,000 population denies and does not practice religion of some kind. These facts show again the strength which lies in the inherited custom of letting the family rule and in maintaining respect for that method of ruling on matters of marriage, conduct and education.

As a Texan in Turkey, and one who has been in a number of other countries, it is easy to recognize the values in these Turkish customs. There are disadvantages to them, too, but when one sees the values which have accrued to this nation in the form of very low rates of juvenile delinquency, crime, and excessive indulgence in general, he must admit that—even though it is strange—it has its good points.

BIBLE COMMENT

Church And Home Worship Blend

Today, there is great resurgence of emphasis on religion in the home. And this is a good thing. But we must never forget the vital role of the church. The two, home and church, ought to go together in the life of every family that would be in any real sense Christian.

Family religion, fine as it can be made, is not enough in itself. A family religion, divorced from the church and lacking the full expression of Christian fellowship, could not be in any real sense completely Christian. The family needs the church as much as the church needs the family.

The first Christians, those of the early church, had all things in common. They experienced communal living as do groups of Christians in monasteries or religious orders.

Such communal endeavor has been practiced at many times and in many places during the centuries since the church began.

This does not mean that communal living, as these first Christians practiced it, is either advisable or feasible under the complex conditions of modern society in which the vast majority of us play a part.

But it does mean that even in the most complex social conditions, true Christians will wish to live unselfishly, using themselves and their possessions for the doing of the will of God, and for the blessing of their fellow men.

Let us thank God for the men and women who have lived in that Christian way. And let us realize that, complex as society may be, there can be no lasting peace, prosperity and happiness for all until all men live to love and help one another.
