

NO DOUBT, BY THIS WEEK-END, hunters will have their guns oiled and cleaned and other hunting paraphernalia packed and on their way to the deer territory to be present at the opening of the deer season, Monday, November 16.

It is said deer are fat and bucks plentiful.

The wild turkey crop is reported the largest in years. Every hunter should have it instilled in his mind the safety problem while hunting. Don't point gun at anything unless it be the target you intend to shoot.

Better unload gun before attempting to crawl through a wire fence. This precaution is taken to guard against hammer of gun hanging on a strand of wire and discharging it, saving you suffering a serious injury or losing your life.

Before you shoot be certain the object you see moving in the bushes is a deer. It could be another hunter.

FRIDAY THIRTEENTH SHOULD be a lucky day for those who participate in the Martin County Capon Show. It is the first day of two-day run of the show.

Fast history of all Martin County Capon shows have been considered most successful. The show to be staged this Friday and Saturday, November 13-14, promises to retain that record.

Buffaloes Close Season Friday Against Coahoma

It has been said that about everything in District 6-A play is over but the shouting and the shouting is only being done around Roscoe.

Roscoe took solid possession of the conference title here last Friday night when they bounced the Stanton Buffaloes 16-8. They previously defeated Rotan by 20-18.

The Buffs and Yellowhammers were the big obstacles in the path of the Plowboys.

The Bisons can still count this season a very successful one for the overall record shows but two defeats. Stanton fell to Rotan first then before the Plowboys. Friday night, the Bisons will be out to clip Coahoma, a traditional rival on the home field. A big homecoming crowd is expected to be on hand for the finale.

The Buffaloes can clinch third place and possibly gain a tie for second by beating the Coahoma Bulldogs.

Coahoma comes to Stanton fresh from its first win of the year, 12-6 over Roby. The Bulldogs have pulled into a tie with the Buffaloes for third place. If Stanton wins and Roby up-sets Rotan, the Buffs and Yellowhammers will share second behind Roscoe.

Table with 5 columns: District 6-A, Dist, WLT, WLT, Pl Opp. Rows include Roscoe, Rotan, Stanton, Coahoma, Roby.

Last Week's Results Roscoe 16, Stanton 8; Coahoma 12, Roby 6.

This Friday's Games Coahoma at Stanton, Roby at Rotan.

Philosopher Fears Wave Of Honesty May Dry Up 90 Per Cent Of Political Speeches

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw seems slightly serious this week, but you never can tell.

Dear editor:
As I understand it, a wave of honesty is sweeping the television industry, for reasons everybody knows, and the thing may get out of hand.

For example, some people are demanding that politicians write their own speeches, and while it would be interesting to see what some of them would say, it'd be interesting only once. The second time up, nobody'd listen. Ninety per cent of the speeches would be eliminated.

Going even further, some people are demanding that television comedians write their own jokes. It's hard to see how some of their jokes could get any worse, but left on their own, they probably could swing it. This might be good for honesty, but it'd be hard on entertainment.

Honesty is a fine commodity, but you've got to understand the use of it if you intend to hold your audience, your neighbors, your friends, your wife, etc.

On the other hand, if every politician was required to write his own speeches, the speeches might not be as good, but they'd be scarcer. This thing needs exploring further.

At the same time, the world needs a little more self-reliance. It always has embarrassed me a little to see some big-shot arrive from an important trip to a foreign conference and step out of his airplane and, before a vast television audience of millions, pull out a sheet of paper, put on his glasses, and read: "I'm awfully glad to be back home. Thank you very much." When a man can't trust himself to say he's glad to be back, without a script, he ain't inspiring much trust generally.

There aren't enough leaders in the world who know what they think until they've had a staff conference to tell them. The symbol of leadership, where it used to be the mighty oak, now seems to be the common hedge, rows and rows of it, neatly trimmed and watered.

I don't know the solution to this problem. Don't be looking at me. My banker yesterday asked me how I was doing this year and I cleared my throat and said I don't know yet. Maybe a scrawny hedge anybody can see through is better than no landscaping at all.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

FARM & RANCH REVIEW

The Matador Tribune published some interesting facts about the Matador Ranch in Motley County in a story published in last week's issue of the Tribune.

All West Texas cattlemen are familiar with the name Matador Ranch. Some ranchers of this area are more familiar with the ranch by having at one time or another paid the spread a personal visit.

In the Tribune's account of the Matador Ranch, it stated a change was being made in its management. Jim Cross, 30, and a bachelor, formerly associated with the Beaverhead Ranch in Montana, has been made manager of the ranch and master of the 20-room headquarters house, about a mile southwest of the Matador city limits. Cross spent the past six weeks on the ranch familiarizing himself with the 115,000-acre spread.

In 1876, Henry N. Campbell purchased the land and selected the site for the headquarters of the Matador Cattle Company. Later the Scotch interests acquired the ranch and the name was changed to the Matador Land and Cattle Company under which it operated approximately 70 years.

Records affirm that the ranch owned more than a million acres in four states about the turn of the century. On this ranch alone the Matadors branded 25,000 calves during a good year. It was from the headquarters the chuck

In 1952, Fred Koch of Wichita, Kansas, purchased the ranch headquarters and more than 100,000 acres.

The spacious headquarters house is frequently mistaken for a country club, according to The Matador Tribune. The massive house was built about 40 years ago of native limestone by the Scotch syndicate. There are 20 rooms in the headquarters house. Originally, it was heated by steam but in recent years the system has been changed to butane gas.

Jackson County in Southwest Oklahoma borders on Texas. The dividing line between the two states is Red River. The farmers of the Oklahoma County have, as West Texas farmers have, devoted their acreage to growing cotton. With improved irrigation methods, the use of commercial fertilizers, spraying for insects, and defoliation, the average yield in this fertile area, is two bales of cotton per acre, and three bales per acre is not unusual. However, because of the strict cotton allotment, only a small amount of this productive land can be used for growing cotton.

For several years farmers of that area have searched for another money crop that is not subject to acreage allotment. During the past five years more and more farmers have planted milo on their spare acres. This year the milo crop in Southwest Oklahoma is yielding more than ever before.

One Jackson County farmer reports an average yield of 5,000 pounds of combined milo per acre on his farm.

The local mills in Jackson County have paid on the average of $1.40 per hundred for combined milo. This gives the farmers about $70 per acre before expenses are deducted. Estimated overall expense for planting, cultivating, harvesting, irrigating, etc., is around $35 an acre.

This gives Jackson County farmers who irrigate an estimated profit of $35 an acre on the land not eligible for King Cotton. That is a profit of $3,500 for 100 acres.

Another boost for the consumption of cotton is the experiment carried on by the Navy for the best material to use in making winter clothing. A research made in Alaska has practically abandoned wool in favor of cotton.

The major advantage is cotton garments can be boiled clean, whereas, wool cannot. And the Navy explained that it can't take a dry cleaning plant with it to the North Pole country.

This conversation belongs in this space:
Farmer: "Let me tell you my friend, that my horse knows as much as I do."
Friend: "Well, don't tell anybody else; you might want to sell him someday."

WEST TEXAS PRESS COMMENTS

Earnest Hayley has sold his Saint Jo Tribune, after operating it 19 years, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell of Lawton, Okla. Hayley is retiring from newspaper business after more than 30 years of being associated with weekly and daily newspapers.

He will devote his time to operating a commercial printing business he owns in Wichita Falls.

The Powells are former residents of Saint Jo.

In observance of the 20 years Forrest and Ruth Weimhold have been publishers, The Levelland Daily Sun News, issued a 52-page, 10 section edition October 25. The edition was printed on the recently installed 32-page Scott Rotary press purchased from the Tyler newspapers.

Pictures of every member of the paper's staff was printed, except those of Forrest and Ruth Weimhold. The omission of their pictures was requested by Weimhold who said he "wanted to focus attention on the people and the businesses which have helped to build Levelland, and on the newspaper and the talent it has at its command."

The Seminole Sentinel carried across the top of its first page this scare-head-line: "County Bids As 'Slaughterhouse' of West Texas." It then said in a story more persons have died in Gaines County highway traffic in the first nine months of 1959 than in any other of the 24 counties in the area. Eleven were killed in Gaines County.

The nearest competitor was Reeves County with 10 dead on the highways.

Recently W. G. Swenson of Stamford was honored at a banquet for his 30 years as president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion. He served as president at the organization of the reunion and until last September, when he retired. The Reunion was organized when 52 citizens got together and put up $25 each. The Stamford American said the show started out in the black and has remained that way ever since. Gene Swenson, son of W. G. Swenson, has taken over the duties as president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion.

The Menard High School had a kink in its athletic standing ironed out last week, when the superintendent of schools called the athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic League and asked what bracket MHS would be in next season. The answer came back, an error was made when the school was placed in Class A.

The high school enrollment the past two years has been below 120 so Menard has been placed in Class B for the next two years.

The Hall County Cotton Classing Office, this the first year of its operation at Memphis, has classed so far this season, 36,082 bales. These bales came from the 12-county area in the district of the Cotton Classing Office.

Last week the Munday Times published its first announcement of a candidate for office in the 1960 election. It was Sam Stone, a well known Knox County farmer, submitting his candidacy for the office of County Commissioner.

Stamford is preparing to dress up itself in the most colorful attire in its history for the yuletide season. The Stamford American says the decorations include illuminated plastic figures, some as much as three to four feet tall such as reindeer, Santa and sleds, wreaths, streamers with elaborate tinsel, colored light bulbs, plus various other pieces the value roughly estimated at $12,000.

The Stamford American carried the announcement that Gov. Edmond G. Brown of California is a graduate of Stamford High School. At the recent homecoming held at Stamford, Bernard Bule, received a letter from the California Governor, expressing regret "I could not attend the Stamford High School homecoming."

Bule and Gov. Brown attended Stamford school together in 1924 and 1925.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Henson and children visited Sunday in Midland with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Folk.

Ann Estes of Lamesa spent the weekend with her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Thomason. Also visiting with Mrs. Thomason and Ann Estes was Maurina Patterson of Midland.

Bible Comment

Conversion Often A Matter Of Conscience

Conversion, as the word implies, means a turning about.

And no turning about was ever more complete than that in which Saint Paul turned from his persecuting zeal of threats against the disciples of the Lord, to become a Christian disciple himself.

Sudden conversions, strange as they may seem have been by no means rare. In many instances they are not as sudden as they seem to be.

The experience of sudden conversion, though, may be very real and may offer a clear evidence of its determining cause. Often it has come through crucial or enlightening experience, which has changed one's views and attitude. It is as if one has always lived in a valley. Then one day, climbing a mountain peak, one sees a world that was never dreamed of.

There can be peaks, too, on which the atmosphere of the soul can be completely changed. Complete conversions, either sudden or through some long process, are not as unexplainable as they sometimes seem to be.

Underlying such conversions is usually a conscientious attitude. In these cases, conversion means a change of association and allegiance rather than a change from a life of sin to a life of righteousness.

Paul said he lived in all good conscience all his life. Others called his Christian way heresy, but he called it still worshipping the God of his fathers.

The Flower Garden

Flowers are most eloquent when Winter's cloak gives away to Spring's first beckoning and the landscape takes on a multi-colored hue of the season's loveliness. And now is the time to plant bulbs for next Spring's loveliness. We have had a cold spell, which will discourage the tiny green shoots from rising through the soil of Martin County too early and getting nipped by the cold. The bulb growers of many nations give complete planting instructions, and of course, when we think of bulbs, we automatically think of those produced in Holland. The Holland variety is perhaps the best known. Most bulbs are planted about three inches deep but it takes six inch planting for the hyacinth, narcissus and daffodil. Early tulips should be planted about four inches deep. All bulbs should be planted in partial shade where the drainage is good. Where heavy or unmixing soil is dominant, spade work down to eight or ten inches should be invoked. Work in peat moss, leaf mold, sand or barnyard fertilizer to break up the heaviness. In West Texas a heavy mass of red clay is sometimes found less than 18 inches from the top soil. It is also good to work in about a tablespoon of bone meal into the hole for each bulb. Cover this with sand, in which to set the bulb, pointed end up. Set it firmly in place. Fill the hole in with good sandy loam. Water it with a slow soaking. Perhaps bulbs give more beauty, with less attention, than any other flowers. And part of your reward for planting early bulbs comes from the knowledge that they bloom so early in the Spring. The Crocus is always an early bloomer. The Darwin tulips are not far behind. And think of it, when the snowdrops and tulips are gone, the iris is ready to bloom.

Rabies Epidemic Hits In Howard

Howard County has been declared an emergency area by Howard County Commissioners Court due to an epidemic of rabies. Dr. C. E. Johnson, health unit officer, has been designated to develop a program to combat the rabies danger. He was authorized to promulgate the necessary rules and regulations for control of domestic and wildlife within Howard County, outside the boundary of the city of Big Spring. It was made known that the commissioners had granted authority to the Texas Game and Fish Commission to send teams to the county to attempt eradication of wildlife which might be susceptible to rabies. One of the first steps will be to advise the public of the danger of the rabies situation, and a possible 30-day quarantine of domestic animals could follow. There have been 16 proven cases of rabies in Howard County this year, 14 of them skunks.

Tech Plans Homecoming

Costumes and settings of the "Roaring Twenties" will form the backdrop for Texas Tech's 36th annual homecoming Friday and Saturday. The theme will call attention to Tech's early years. The institution opened in 1925 with 1,043 students. The late twenties produced the first graduating class, the first athletic teams and many Tech traditions. Exes from all parts of the state and many surrounding states will return for reunions and a homecoming queen coronation Friday night, and a parade, Tech-Houston football game and homecoming dances Saturday. The Ex-Students Assn. Council will hold its annual meeting Friday afternoon. Assn. officers for 1959-60 will be elected and activities for that period planned. Greeting visitors will be the largest student body in Texas Tech history — 8,866 students who make the institution the second largest state-supported college or university in Texas.

The Republic of Texas wanted annexation in 1837 but was rejected by Congress.

Sam Houston withdrew the offer and dreamed of a new republic stretching westward from Texas to the Pacific including the northern tier of Mexican states, plus present day New Mexico, Arizona, and California.

Attorney General Will Wilson, a great admirer of Houston, points out how skillfully Houston incited the jealousy of the United States.

"Sam Houston stoked the fire under the pot of jealousy by ignoring the United States and dickered with France and England, both known to want Texas independent."

"Houston's vision of a large competitive nation between the U. S. and Mexico caused Washington to run a fever."

Annexation followed, resulting in the 1848 War with Mexico in which the Western one third of the present United States was acquired. During this war, Gen. Stephen W. Kearny led U. S. troops overland from Dodge City, Kansas, to capture Santa Fe and remain in possession.

Senator Benton in Congress immediately put the Santa Fe territory into a boiling caldron of debate over slavery by demanding that possession of Santa Fe not be delivered to Texas because Texas was a slave state.

A full dress rehearsal of the coming tragedy of civil war began.

Texas sent Spruce M. Baird as county judge to take possession of Santa Fe, but Colonel John M. Washington kicked him out. Texas also sent Robert S. Neighbors as county judge of El Paso. Since there were no federal troops in El Paso Judge Neighbors successfully established a beachhead and took possession for Texas.

Governor Bell of Texas called a special session of the legislature to organize 3,000 mounted volunteers to capture Santa Fe from the federal troops. The legislature gave Bell an out by providing that the troops be used only if the United States refused to buy the disputed territory.

This brought on another bitter division and debate in our national congress, compromised by fixing the present boundary between Texas and New Mexico and paying Texas ten million dollars for surrendered territory. Texas kept El Paso because she had possession, but Texas lost most of what is now New Mexico.

Historian Will Wilson says Texas got short changed again. Texas had money in the treasury but her northern and western boundary had been pushed down more than 100,000 square miles.

"The United States bought that real estate for 15 cents an acre!"

The Herald of the 22nd learns from a gentleman who passed through Dallas the previous week, that Dr. N. H. O. Polly and a Mr. McKenzie, were murdered by Indians on Sunday, the 12th inst., while on their return from meeting, in Montague County. Dr. Polly was formerly a resident of Dallas county and had recently been elected Chief Justice of Montague County. There were several others in company at the time of the murders, all of whom escaped.

A SWIMMING MATCH—YOUNG LADY RESCUED BY A "PEEPING TOM"

At Murdockville, some young ladies had selected a shady nook and were enjoying a river bath, when 2 young fellows, strolling in the woods, heard an unusual splashing in the water, and "following their ears," were amazed, and—shall we say it?—delighted on turning a sharp bend in the river, to behold the water nymphs floating in the rippling current, fairer than naiads and more enchanting than sirens. Concealing themselves, one of the rascals wagered thirty dollars on the swimming powers of the flaxen-haired divinity against a small dark-eyed beauty—the two being the leaders of the party, and the most expert swimmers. The wager was accepted—The two had struck out for a long swim, a strong swim and a swim together, when the "flaxen-haired she" shrieked "a turtle—turtle" and terribly frightened, sank under the surface.

It was a struggle between gallantry and duty with the two young men; but the one who had accepted the challenge leapt from his hiding place into the stream, and striking out boldly, succeeded in seizing the insensible and drowning girl and dragged her to the shore. Of course the remainder of the party had fled, but soon returned, took charge of the nearly inanimate form, and restored her to consciousness.

FAYETTE — The TRUE ISSUE states that G. W. Tuttle of that county, had stolen from his safe, on the night of the 17th inst., the sum of $280. The thief passed through the chamber in which Mr. Tuttle was sleeping, up stairs into the bed-room of the clerk, stole the key from his pocket, and opened the store door and the safe. One Gustaves Kaier was brought before an examining court, but the evidence was only circumstantial, and not sufficient for his conviction. One of Mr. Tuttle's neighbors has since found, on rising one morning, the stolen money lying in his door way. By whom it was stolen, and how and why it was deposited in that locality remains a mystery.

A Calendar Of Fact and Opinion

According to Nation's Business, the older worker could be one of the most valuable assets in the competitive business world of the 60s. It cites a government survey showing that some 45 per cent of manufacturing workers over 40 produce more per man-hour than the younger men. The older worker also has some special attribute—experience, greater dependability, mature appreciation of job responsibility.

Writing in the New York Times, Paul Heffernan tells of Russian debt owed to this country and its citizens. It includes: World War I debt to the U. S. government, $563 million; Kerensky Regime debt to the U. S. government, $190 million; Lend-Lease World War II debt, $11,260,343,000; World War I public loans sold to private American investors, $75 million.

Bernard Baruch says: "The housewife is the most important person. She holds the world together."

Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, says that continuation of U. S. economic progress along with the rise in shareownership could lift the Exchange's daily average trading volume to some 4,300,000 shares by the mid-1960s. The post-war average has been around 1,700,000 shares. He adds that he is not making predictions, but that the figures cited represent possibilities to be considered as the idea of a "People's Capitalism" becomes more widespread.

The gasoline tax, state and federal, is almost five times as great as the tax on diamonds or mink coats. On a nation-wide average, it amounts to 47 per cent, and exceeds 50 per cent of the retail gasoline price in 20 states. Total estimated take in 1960: $5,438,000,000.

Estimates say that grain storage space in Kansas, top wheat production state, has trebled in a decade to 745 million bushels, according to Nation's Agriculture. Last year one elevator operation received nearly $15 million for storing surplus wheat and other grains.

Robert G. Dunlop, president of Sun Oil, speaks of the growing notion among Americans that "they can just vote themselves large shares of the good life." Efforts to do so, he goes on, have already resulted in a "vast federal bureaucracy, a swollen national debt, and a cancerous inflation that has distorted values, penalized the prudent, rewarded the imprudent and undermined morality."

There's a lot of dirt that detergents can't touch.

This year social security taxes will be withheld on more of your earnings, according to H. P. Thomas, District Manager of the Odessa social security office. Last year only the first $4200 of earnings was covered by social security and subject to the social security tax. In the 1958 amendments Congress increased the earnings base to $4800 in order to reflect the increase in the level of wages.

"If you are an employee you should make sure that your employer keeps on withholding your social security taxes until you have been paid $4800, the maximum creditable toward social security benefits," Thomas said. This is the time of year that many employees start reaching the $4200 to $4800 level and some employers might not be aware of the change. If an employer doesn't get credit for all his earnings, up to the maximum of $4800, his benefits will be correspondingly less.

The increase in earnings base means an increase in benefits. "You'll pay more and you'll get more." The top retirement bene-

Protect Our Children

In all nature there is an elementary truism: The mother always protects her young. The truism applies four-fold in human civilization.

In our complex society there are so many things for parents to do to protect their young that they are apt to let certain aspects of child protection slide. One of these is seeing that their children have the entire battery of protective inoculations against polio.

This is especially important for small children. Last year there were 1,618 cases of paralytic polio up to the middle of September. This year, in September, there were 3,407 cases in the United States. The largest percentage of victims were under five years of age. In Texas there have already been 257 cases of paralytic polio, a slight rise over last year.

The overwhelming majority of paralytic polio victims have been persons who have not completed the entire series of three shots. Immunization programs are in effect in many schools, so that large numbers of school children have been polio protected. However, that still leaves huge numbers of adults and small children unprotected. Parents have a responsibility to themselves to start and finish the series of three Salk shots. More important, we need to protect our children—the pre-schoolers.

Crushed Ice In Bags Open On Sundays

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

Reminiscences of an old-time sports writer.

Many years ago, I went to a West Texas town to cover a high school football game for a big city daily and the man on the gate refused to honor my pass because it was signed by only one school. The cost of a ticket was 75 cents and so I paid 38 cents as the non-signing team's share of the gate receipts. (That item was included in my expense account but it wasn't listed by itself!)

Then there was the time that LeRoy Menzing drove 125 miles for the annual Cisco-Ablene classic. He was sports writer for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and I was editor of an Oil Belt paper. A band was seated in front of the press box and the brass horn was squarely in front of Menzing, completely blocking his view, so I "broadcast" the game to him, telling him who carried the ball, who made the tackle and how many yards were gained or lost, on each play.

They took their football seriously in the old Oil Belt. A visiting sports writer, in a parade before the game, was pelted with clods and another sports writer was seized by the ankle by a fan who was desirous of pulling him out of the press box. Also there was the occasion that a visiting team sprang an upset and numerous individuals — I have always suspected they were fans of the losing team — threw gravel through the open windows of our special train as we were pulling out.

There is the recollection, too, of a fan, indignant at something I wrote, who sent the word that he was going to give me a whipping when he came to Eastland for his team's game. Since he did not know me, several citizens persuaded the county highway officer to put on street clothes and pose as me. Not long before, this officer had arrested three "drunks" and, when they became belligerent, he subdued all three of them with his fists. So I felt that this was going to be one fight that "House" would win. The other fellow, however, failed to show up.

The Oil Belt in those days (1921-30) was probably the "hottest" district in the State. It abounded in historic rivalries. When Ranger and Cisco met, or when Breckenridge and Ranger met, or when Eastland and Cisco met, or when Abilene and anybody met, you could look for a ding-dong battle. The four cities were in a space of 50 miles, connected by excellent roads, and the attendance often was greater than the population of the town where the game was being played.

At various times, I was editor (and therefore sports writer) in Cisco, Eastland and Ranger. One season, I would be advocating the cause of the Lobos, the next the Mavericks, and the following season the Bulldogs. A fellow had to remember at all times where he was!

As a matter of fact, though, my last three seasons, I wrote up the Ranger-Eastland game for both papers—and it was the same writeup, too. (I've always felt that I would make a good trouble-shooter for the United Nations.)

A sports writer wasn't looked upon as much of a success unless he had at least two feuds going with other sports writers. My favorite targets were Biondy Cross of San Angelo and Prexy Anderson of Abilene but occasionally I would go entirely out of my class and try to take on Jinx Tucker of Waco. Actually, we were all very fond of each other but these feuds added zest to living and also made it easier to fill up our daily "column."

Maybe most of us scribes didn't make a lot of money but we enjoyed life—and we got into the football games free.

(Except that time I had to pay for half a ticket.)

TESCO Slates Symposium In Austin Nov. 21

Science faculty members and graduate science students from 42 Texas colleges and universities will hear progress reports on efforts to harness the hydrogen bomb for peaceful purposes at a symposium on nuclear fusion in Austin, November 21-22. They will be guests of electric companies in Texas, including Texas Electric Service Company.

The science teachers will be among a group of 200 attending the symposium, which also will include industrial scientists and others. The meeting is being co-sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the University of Texas. The research foundation is a non-profit organization whose members are eleven investor-owned electric utility companies operating in Texas.

The symposium is part of the foundation's program to advance knowledge of nuclear energy through research, experimentation and education. The foundation is co-sponsoring a research program in controlled fusion being carried out by General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation in La Jolla, California, through which it is hoped to devise methods and procedures looking toward the eventual economical generation of electric power from controlled atomic fusion energy for the benefit of the people of Texas.

The symposium will feature papers by some of the world's leading scientists working in the field of fusion research. They will report on recent developments in the efforts of scientists to reproduce in the laboratory the fusion process responsible for energy generation in the sun and the stars. Chairman of the symposium will be Dr. Edward C. Creutz, an authority in the field of controlled thermonuclear (fusion) reactions, and General Atomic vice president for research.

The eleven utility companies who are sponsors of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation are: Central Power and Light Company, Community Public Service Company, Southwestern Public Service Company, El Paso Electric Company, Texas Power and Light Company, Gulf States Utilities Company, Dallas Power and Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company, Southwestern Electric Power Company, Houston Lighting and Power Company and West Texas Utilities Company.

Duck Season To Open Nov. 13

The duck season will officially open November 13, when shooting will begin at 12 o'clock noon. After the first day, shooting will be permitted from sunrise to sunset.

The mourning dove season, which opened in the North Texas zone September 1, closed on October 20. The mourning dove season in South Texas will not close until November 19, except in counties in the Rio Grande Valley, having a three-day white-wing hunt, where the season will close on November 16. During this hunt mourning doves could be killed also.

The season closed on rails and gallinules October 25. The woodcock season is from December 7 to January 15, and the snipe season is December 3 to January 1. There has been a heavy movement of both ducks and geese across Texas for several days, according to the director. Some good concentrations are reported in areas both in the Red River Valley and along the Texas Coast.

39 Traffic Accidents In Sept. In Area

Sgt. Billy P. Smith of Midland said rural accidents in Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Midland and Reagan counties during the month included 28 with property damage only, nine with personal injuries and two fatal accidents.

Smith said property damage totalled $27,800, and 15 persons were injured in the nine accidents in that category.

This is a decrease of 14 accidents and three deaths from September of last year.

During this September 368 arrests were made including those for driving while intoxicated, 8; speeding, 208; improper passing, 9; wrong side of road, 15; defective equipment, 73; all other violations, 55.
