Yucaipa, Cal.
Oct. 16, 1961

Dear Neal:

Just a note to say hello, and a check for The Reporter next year. The paper, I must say, causes a little homesickness everytime we read it.

We miss Stanton and all the wonderful friends we left behind. We have had a new addition to our family — our three-month old adopted boy, Gregory, since we left Stanton.

Say hello to all our friends and we may be seeing you around Christmas time.

Sincerely,
Doug, Rosemary and Greg Agee.

Mr. Neal Estes
The Stanton Reporter
Stanton, Texas

Dear Editor:

It is indeed a pleasure for me to invite your publication to enter the Texas Medical Association's Anson Jones Award competition. This award, which is given in recognition of excellence in reporting of health information to the public, is appropriately named in honor of Dr. Anson Jones, the last President of the Republic of Texas, a journalist, physician, and statesman.

The award was established in 1956 in order to show the appreciation of the doctors of Texas for the outstanding work which was being done in reporting health and medical information to the public. The award has continued to grow in both interest and size. It is now divided into four categories and equal opportunity to compete is offered both large and small daily newspapers, weekly newspapers, and magazines and trade journals.

The enclosed brochure gives complete information on the award and prizes, which total more than $500.00. Should you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me.

Your entry for the 1962 award competition must be made to the county medical society in your area. The society will then forward it on to us for state-wide judging. All entries must reach the Texas Medical Association headquarters by no later than December 10, 1961. Winners will be announced by January 31, 1962.

The medical doctors of Texas feel that the communication of accurate, dependable health information to the public is vital to maintaining the high quality of medical care which has been attained in our state. We appreciate the work your publication is doing in this challenging field.

We will be looking forward to seeing your entry in the 1962 Anson Jones Award competition.

Sincerely yours,
Harvey Renger, M. D.
President.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

Aware of the fact that more money soon may be available for trunk-highway construction, 15 delegations of civic leaders descended on Austin.

In defense of the Legislature, he said it wasn't "free spending." Spending was necessary for essential programs like education, highways, welfare, hospitals and the like, Ramsey explained.

Rep. Jesse M. Osborn of Muleshoe has some tax cutting in mind. In a letter to Governor Daniel he proposed that the State ad valorem tax be abolished, and the sales tax revenue be used to make up the gap.

So far, sales tax revenues have only begun to trickle in to the State Treasury. So the state's main checking account is still $96,650,569 in the red. If good business conditions continue and income is up, it will be more than a year before the deficit is erased.

CATTLE RULES — New rules invoked by the Texas Animal Health Commission are designed to protect areas where brucellosis control programs are under way.

Under the new brucellosis control law, 78 counties, mainly in West and South Texas, have set up programs for testing herds. Purpose is to see if they have brucellosis, and to dispose of cows having the disease.

So the commission has notified truckers, livestock auctions and commission merchants that movements of cows into the certified control areas is restricted. They must have been tested and shown free of brucellosis before they can be moved from an uncertified county into a certified county.

Then the new owner must keep them quarantined. He must have them retested in 30 to 60 days before he can put them with his herd.

Restrictions do not apply to steers, spayed heifers, calves under eight months of age, and calves under 30 months which have been officially vaccinated against brucellosis.

BUSINESS COMING BACK — A steady growth in Texas retail trade in 1961 is reported by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

MORE TAXES? — James W. McGrew, research director of the Texas Research League, told the group's annual meeting that additional state spending of about $50,000,000 a year is in sight for the two years starting September 1, 1963.

New sales tax will provide part of the added money, McGrew predicted. Other taxes will just about produce the extra money. But it will require some economizing to make ends meet in the 1963 session of the Legislature, in spite of the huge new tax.

Growth of Texas is the reason for the added spending. Growth means more children, more schools, more patients in mental hospitals, more college students, more cars and more highways to hold them.

More people mean more governmental spending to serve them. Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey, main speaker at the League's luncheon, said Texans should be commended for their willingness to accept the added tax burdens needed to finance education and other essential services.

Ramsey provided some startling figures. While he was lieutenant governor, presiding over the Texas Senate, state spending increased nearly two and a half times, from

FARM REVIEW and FORECAST

Drylot feeding of calves weighing from 250 to 400 pounds requires a much better understanding of feeding principles than does the feeding of heavier ones. It takes a better ration to achieve the desired results in the lighter animals because they do not have their mother's milk to balance their diet.

In the first place, their stomachs will not hold as much as those of heavier calves so the small amount of feed they do consume must contain enough nutrients to satisfy their needs, explains U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman. Due to their small size, they have a small storage capacity for even those nutrients which they can hold in reserve in their bodies.

As an example of this storage capacity, consider vitamin A. If cattle have an adequate supply of this vitamin, they store the excess in their body fat and livers. As long as they have access to green grazing they get their vitamin A. When no green grazing is available, they use their stored supply to satisfy their needs. Here is where a calf's needs are taken care of by milk. When this calf is weaned and placed on drylot, he must be supplied these nutrients in his ration. In 250-400 pound calves vitamin A deficiency can develop within 45 to 60 days unless the ration takes care of his needs.

Either leafy green alfalfa hay, alfalfa leaf meal or pellets are good sources of vitamin A, says Thompson. Calves nearly always do better on rations which contain alfalfa than on those which do not, he continues. Also, commercial synthetic vitamin A preparations are now available for mixing in rations. These may be used if good alfalfa is unavailable or expensive.

Calves do not have the ability to utilize large quantities of roughage. Their digestive system requires feeds high in food values. Shelled corn, sorghum grain, oats, barley and high protein feeds like cottonseed meal are full of some of the nutrients required by calves. A small amount of roughage is essential, but their diet should consist mainly of these high protein feeds. A 300 pound calf on drylot, when on full feed, will need about six pounds of concentrates and three pounds of roughage daily, says Thompson.

Many home gardeners in Texas are becoming more interested in extending their activities to include greenhouse gardening. In response to many requests for information on construction of small greenhouses, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has released a publication which presents the fundamentals of greenhouse construction and gardening and the possible variations on construction, materials and operations.

Today, prefabricated greenhouses are readily and economically available. When all factors are considered, they are cheaper and easier to erect and more satisfactory than those constructed with locally available materials and labor. The main consideration facing the home gardener about to build a greenhouse is the choice of location, size and type of structure to build.

Once the greenhouse is constructed, the owner must then prepare the inside. Benches must be constructed, work areas prepared and heating, lighting and watering systems installed. Information on all of these problems is contained in the extension publication.

In addition to construction information, the publication contains a guide for growing plants in the greenhouse. There is also a section on insect and disease control.

Anyone desiring a copy of this publication may obtain one from their local county agent. Ask for a copy of MP518, "Greenhouses for Texas Gardeners."

Every farm feeding and feed processing installation has its own problems, says W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Feed handling systems, he adds, must usually be engineered for a specific operation.

Whether old facilities are used in the installation or a completely new system put in, certain basic decisions must be made. These are based on present needs and should also aimed at reducing traffic casualties have been dramatically effective in many areas through team effort of both professions. Publicity has time after time led directly to the early apprehension of badly wanted fugitives and to the success of investigations of wide public interest. More than one-third of nearly 150 fugitives located under the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" program were arrested as a direct result of items appearing in news media. The rapid dispersal by the news services of life saving instructions from enforcement authorities to endangered communities has many times averted loss of life and property.

As a nerve center of human activity, law enforcement is examined and newly judged with each edition of the newspaper, radio or television newscast. Prompt and factual news accounts of accomplishments, whether outstanding or routine, which demonstrate determination of purpose and sound professional competence properly emphasize the futility of lawlessness and underscore law enforcement's dedication to duty. News photographs of the officer at work—giving sympathetic help to a trusting child, firmly controlling the threat of mob action, capably executing an arrest, disregarding personal safety for the life of another human—are eye-witness testimony of service touching all points of the emotional compass.

It is one of the virtues of our democratic society that the relationship between law enforcement and the news media is not forever smooth. On occasion, alert and aggressive newsmen develop sound evidence of abuse of authority in law enforcement, gross dereliction of duty, or outright corruption. Society and law enforcement benefit when the press skillfully exposes these cancerous pockets and dutifully unmask those responsible. The large majority, however, of well-meaning, honest officers dedicated to fair and effective administration of justice need and receive the encouragement and support of the press.

The key to meaningful cooperation between law enforcement and the news media is intelligent understanding of the role and procedures of both professions. Not only should the enforcement executive recognize and appreciate the right of the public to be informed of police activities, but he should consider it his duty to assure that legitimate newsmen receive full and wholehearted assistance from every level of his department. His day-to-day dealings with the press should stimulate justified confidence in the ability of his agency and trust in his sincerity.

John Edgar Hoover, Director.

Eggs A Top Food Buy

Eggs are a high protein, low calorie food, but not many homemakers think of them as such. Marshall Miller, extension poultry marketing specialist, reports that recent research at Texas A&M College indicates only about three out of each 100 housewives think of the nutritional qualities of eggs when making egg purchases.

Housewives should realize how nutritional eggs really are, says Miller. Egg protein comes so near to perfection that scientists use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods. Two eggs in a person's daily diet will supply 17 percent of the recommended daily protein requirements. Protein is essential for healthy body tissue, strong muscles and bones, and good fingernail growth. On the other hand, two eggs contain only 154 calories.

Eggs are also rich in minerals. Two eggs will furnish over six percent of a person's daily calcium requirements and over 13 percent of the required phosphorus. Calcium and phosphorus promote a healthy nervous system, and they are also essential to the development of strong, straight bones and firm teeth. Iron is another mineral essential to the human body, and two eggs will supply 21 percent of the daily allowance.

Vitamin A, necessary for healthy eyes and the prevention of infectious diseases, is also supplied in generous quantities by eggs, says Miller. Two eggs will supply 22 percent of a person's daily Vitamin A requirements.

Miller says housewives should also remember that eggs are one of our most competitive food items. One dozen large, Grade A eggs weighs 1½ pounds, and at 60 cents per dozen this provides a high protein food at just 40 cents per pound. The food yield from a pound of eggs is unusual in that they are about 90 percent edible.

Eggs are also highly digestible and attractive to serve. Try some, suggests Miller.

Sands Batters New Home 11

The Sands Mustangs ran over New Home, 21-0, in a District 4-B football game Friday night at New Home.

The Ponies, who now have a 3-5-1 won-lost-tied record for the season, did all their scoring in the first half.

Coach Joe Youngblood used his reserves most of the fourth period and the youngsters did very well, especially on defense. New Home drove inside Sands' five late in the game but the Pony reserves held for downs.

A 20-yard pass from Larry Hall to Ika Wasson produced Sands' first score in the opening period. Wasson caught the ball on the ten and sailed on over.

Eugene Coleman kicked the PAT to give the Mustangs a 7-0 advantage.

In the second quarter, Max Harding teamed up with Billy Rasberry on a 60-yard pass play to provide Sands with its second tally, Harding scoring the TD.

Before the half ran out, Dan Shortes ran six yards off tackle for Sands' third score and Wasson sprinted across for the two extra points.

On offense, Rasberry and Coleman stood out for Sands while Hall and Lonnie Taylor sparked the team on defense.

Winter is almost here and soon the Spring rains will begin to fall. You should start making your plans now to control water erosion. Farms that are terraced and farmed on the contour pay rich dividends in crop production and soil and water conservation. Russell Lord said, "Consequences of contour farming reach far beyond the individual farmer's pocketbook; so do consequences of careless and ruinous cultivation."

"At least three billion tons of solid soil materials are washed out of the fields and pastures of the United States each year by water erosion alone. It has been figured that to move such a bulk of American soil on rails would take a train of freight cars 475,000 miles long—long enough to girdle the planet 18 times at the Equator."—To Hold This Soil.

Great Plains Conservation Program contracts have been approved on William J. Sprawls and for William G. Wade. Both of these producers have ranches in the North part of Martin County. The GPCP is assisting them in making improvement in their range land. Many other benefits can be obtained from the program. The Soil Conservation Service technicians will assist you in developing your plan and explain the cost-share program to all interested farmers and ranchers.

You've seen the ads: you save more than money with U. S. Savings Bonds. Those ads have sold an impressive number of bonds in Texas, bonds that have helped, and are helping, your government defend freedom at a precarious moment in history, when freedom is in desperate need of defending.

When you buy these bonds you serve well the cause of liberty. You enable your country to build up her own defenses without doing damage to her economy. You insure the future for this and succeeding generations.

The space occupied by the ads that sold those bonds was donated to your government—and that means to you—by the newspapers of Texas.

We thought you'd like to know.

"The public-spirited newspapers of Texas have made an important contribution to the well-being of this country," says Ed Gossett, Co-Chairman of the Texas State Savings Bond Committee.

"We are happy to salute the generous newspapers of this State. They have done their part, and more, in giving the public an understanding of the importance of Savings Bonds—to individual buyers, and to the cause of freedom. And they have certainly made this Committee's job easier."
