"One Man's Family" used to be on radio. Now it's in Washington.

"In our opinion, regimentation has gone too far already. How long are we as citizens—God-fearing citizens, if you please—going to stand idly by while our individual rights, privileges and obligations crumble away from under our feet? The end result is tyranny, dictatorship and stifling of all those elements on which our country was founded and which have made it great." That quote was from the Clermont, Florida Press.

Now that the rules on expense account deductions have been tightened, maybe we can get back to entertaining each other just for the fun of it.

Mrs. W. E. (Bill) Neill, daughter of Mrs. Flora Morris, this city, has been installed for a second term as president of the El Paso County P-T-A Council. This is indeed a compliment for the former Mary George Morris, whose husband is now a superintendent in Tornillo, Texas. Mrs. Neill has not missed a state or important area meeting of that organization in years.

Earl David Dickenson is among 658 seniors who have applied for bachelor's degrees to be awarded at North Texas State University May 31. Dickenson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olton D. Dickenson, route 1, is a candidate for the bachelor of business administration degree in production management.

Mr. and Mrs. George Whitaker and their daughter will move soon to Big Spring, Texas. He has accepted a place as the engineer for one of the radio stations over there. George was recently in the second-hand furniture business in Stanton and also managed his dad's theatre in the city. We wish the Whitakers the best of good fortune in their move to Howard County.

Mrs. Doris Stephenson, our very affable district clerk, was in the office on business Tuesday afternoon. We inquired of her about the condition of her dad, Ector Thornton, who recently suffered an accident at his place of business in Stanton. She advised us that Mr. Thornton was doing just fine and we, along with his other friends, are happy to hear that report. Ector Thornton is a man we have always held profound respect for. We liked his direct action in acknowledging an introduction to us nine years ago when we arrived in Stanton. Men like Ector Thornton are few and far between. He is a great guy.

We want to salute a fellow newsman, V. L. Debolt of the Odessa American, who said this week: "This newspaper plans to continue to report to the public all the activities of all individuals involved in government operations." He continued: "The people's right to know is a sacred thing that must never be impaired or intimidated." So it is, and the local newspaper has made arrangements for complete coverage of all public meetings, council sessions, school board meetings, commissioner's court meetings, and other official or semi-official gatherings to be staffed. We intend to publish the regular meeting dates of these groups — to have a reporter present to record the texts of the meetings — and if special sessions are held, we will insist on being notified in advance of such assemblies. It is not our intention to meddle, but to print the news. The People Have A Right To Know. Star chamber sessions, side meetings — "gathering early" confabs to discuss official business unofficially have long since been frowned on by the public and they are actually illegal. In any event, the news will leak out, and when it does things will just look worse for any group trying to transact business outside official channels.

It is with a great deal of pride and appreciation that we announce the following new and old subscribers this week: Charlie Cravens, Stanton; Mrs. J. J. Jaggars, Stanton; Jake D. Hodges, Stanton; James H. Jones, Tarzan; Denver Springer, Lenorah; R. E. Lee, Lovington, New

Fly Dropper Finally Finds Target

100,000 sterile flies beat the big rain to the designated target about eight miles northeast of Stanton Tuesday morning.

The pilot who was supposed to drop the flies on the Doc Bryant place a few days ago arrived the first time last Thursday and returned with a load of sterile flies Tuesday.

County Agent Bob Johnson said the pilot hit the target right on the head on his two trips to Martin County and that he was convinced the sterile flies had been dropped. A mixup on the drop point had been experienced early, and it was assumed by persons alerted to be present for the drop that the pilot had flown to Stamford from San Antonio instead of Stanton.

The main thing is that the sterile flies have landed. If they do what they are supposed to do, the possibilities of any screwworm epidemic in the county, will be eliminated or at least minimized.

Johnson advised the press that the flies would be deposited over the infected zone twice weekly for one month, then once weekly for two additional months.

Chamber Chatter

By MAURINE VARNADORE
Congratulations to the Graduating Class of Stanton High School. You have completed a portion of your education and now you are on the threshold of higher education, which has become more and more important with the advance in science and business. Here is a thought you might like to remember: In bad weather, when there are heavy fogs and storms at sea, the navigator is obliged to take his bearings frequently to know where he is. If he doesn't do this, he cannot intelligently direct his course, and is liable to wreck his ship by running into hidden rocks.

Every man is the navigator of a life ship, and if he doesn't early form the habit of taking his bearings, to find out where he is and whether he is going, he may, in middle life, find his ship stranded on the rock of failure. If you would save yourself from shipwreck, take your bearings frequently.

To each and every one of you "Good Luck and God Bless you." (Continued on page 5)

Mrs. Turner stated, "One of the chief purposes of the contest is to display costumes from that period and earlier." Each contestant will be required to dress in "Gay 90's style."

EXTENDED RAINY PROLOGUE—Trailed by a drenched canine, Bobby Holland pedals through a Stanton street filled curb-to-curb with water from last week's big rain. Another cloudburst dropped on the city this week and a slow penetrating one and eighth-inch incher fell Tuesday. More than four inches of moisture has fallen in Stanton since the above photo was made.

Welcome Rain Continued To Fall In Stanton Wednesday

Down in East Texas the natives call extended rains like we have experienced in Stanton since Saturday "meet-moss" rains.

The expression originated with colored farmers and farm workers in the area. They meant the moisture had met — that's where the sub-soil meets the top soil, or that is what they used to tell you that.

This kind of rain, the type falling in Martin County for the past four days, has also been referred to in northeast Texas — up on the blackland in the Commerce-Greenville Bonham section, as "tractor-sticking" weather. Silt off the pavement in Hunt County during a rain like the one visiting Stanton Tuesday night, get in the black mud, and you'd more than likely spend the night right where your car bogged down axle deep.

For the rainfall statistics now: Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, one inch and eight tenths; total of three inches in that section since Saturday.

Tarzanites caught one and three-fourths inches and that sent their total of three full inches since the rain started on Saturday.

Joe Stewart reported an inch and one-half at this place five miles west of Stanton. This brought the area total out there around Stewart's store to two and three-fourths inches.

Darrell Quaid, living 13 miles out in the Courtney community picked up an inch and one-half and that made the section total three inches since Saturday.

Gordon Stone, living about eight miles southeast of Stanton gained one and one-half inches and that brought the total up to three inches.

W. J. Allred, living 18 miles north-east in the Valley View community reported the "jackpot" rain of Tuesday night when he said they had three inches on the gauge out there and that added to a previously recorded one inch, falling since Saturday, boosted their total rainfall to four inches.

Woody Caffey, residing 10 miles northeast in the Lakeview community reported 1.8 inches Tuesday night and that was about the only rain falling in that community. They had only a trace Saturday and Sunday.

On Wednesday, as this story was being written, the clouds appeared to be water-filled and more moisture was expected to fall in the county Wednesday afternoon and possibly through Thursday.

A lightly blowing wind swept a cool, soft spray across downtown Stanton Wednesday morning. Visibility was cut to a quarter mile and the people were walking in the damp weather glad that the future cash register ringing rain had dropped in and proud too, that local water users would practically get a free ride on next months water bills. The meters just weren't turning in Stanton — not even at service stations, where cars are generally washed in dry weather.

Bill Marquardt Named TESCO Vice President

W. G. (Bill) Marquardt, a former resident of Midland, Thursday was elected a vice president of Texas Electric Service Company at a meeting of the board of directors.

Also, after the meeting, Beeman Fisher, president and general manager of the company, announced the retirement, effective June 1, of J. B. Thomas, chairman of the board. Thomas, for whom Lake J. B. Thomas is named and who has been with the company and its predecessors 30 years, will open an office here as an independent management and engineering consultant.

Marquardt, manager of division and district operations, served as western division manager of the company at Midland from 1955 to 1962, when he moved to Fort Worth. While in Midland, Marquardt was president of the Rotary Club and a director of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. A graduate of the University of Texas, he has been with Texas Electric 22 years.

Thomas, a leader in the development of adequate water resources for Texas, was named outstanding citizen of Fort Worth in 1961 by the Exchange Club. He not only was responsible for the building, without federal aid, of the 204,000-acre-foot capacity Lake Thomas, but helped develop surface water supplies at Lake Arlington, Lake Colorado City, Lake Graham and Leon Reservoir.

Other action by the TESCO board included the naming of Paul Leonard, general manager of Leonard Department Store in Fort Worth, as a director.

Three Men Hurt In Area Collision

Three men were injured slightly Friday night four miles east of Midland on U. S. Highway 80 when a car driven by Delbert J. Davidson, 26, of Lamesa, collided with a trailer pulled by a pickup driven by Robert Lee Mullins, 42, of Stanton.

The pickup and trailer, on which a small racing car was being hauled, plunged into the median and overturned.

Mullins and his companion, Gene Butler, also of Stanton, and Davidson were treated at Midland Memorial Hospital for abrasions and bruised, then released.

Texas Highway Patrolman Kenneth

Garner, Iowa, leader: "In last year's appropriation for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Congress allocated some $840 million for the National Institutes of Health. This was $60 million more than had been requested in the administration's budget and $781 million more than the NIH had received ten years earlier — in the 1953 fiscal year. No one wishes to deny adequate funds for research leading to the causes and cure of afflictions—cancer, heart disease, arthritis, and many others that beset mankind. But, this sort of thing is ridiculous—the only inevitable result will be wasteful and extravagant spending."

Blanchard reported Davidson's car did not overturn.

The Exchange Desk

Neil V. Laminack, successful coach of the Seminole Indians, was employed by the board as Mustang basketball coach."

MORTON TRIBUNE: "Maps outlining the city streets which could figure in the paving plans for Morton were submitted before City council at their Monday night meeting and approved. A total of 74 blocks were designated as prime prospects for paving and an additional 91 block were listed as possibilities to be included in the paving project."

THE MITCHELL COUNTY NEWS: "The Loraine area was visited again last Monday by another good rain amounting to 1.15 here in town. ## Patience Crucial For Investors

Some persons can play baseball better than others. They make the major leagues.

Players of the stock market are much the same way. Some are better equipped, both financially and mentally, to play the crucial game. Of the virtues these persons possess, patience is the most important.

Patience is doubly important for the small investor, the man who flushes with increase in value of his investment and stays awake at night when the averages begin to go downward.

Stock prices are determined by supply and demand. There is no guarantee that a stock will go up or even remain at the value at which it was purchased. An awareness of this will help the small investor decide if he is ready to invest. Every investor needs a cash reserve to guard against unexpected emergencies which might force him to sell below his cost to acquire immediate capital.

Downward fluctuations in prices of stock are often caused by small investors getting out of the market. When money is plentiful the small investor channels some of it into securities and prices tend to rise. As soon as money becomes harder to come by, or when he needs cash, the small investor will take his money out of securities, tending to drive the prices down. Anxious stockholders eager to dispose of their holdings push stock prices down even more.

Supposing that the beginning investor has approximately the correct mental attitude and sufficient backing, he will need something else—a good friend. And no matter whether the investor is of speculative turn or just wants a good, long-term investment, a reputable broker is one of the best friends he can have. The broker will give the investor benefit of his judgment and experience, along with pertinent information about a company or industry.

Another hazard of the stock market game can be avoided by going through a reputable broker. The investor will not likely fall victim to the con man, the hot tip artist promoting phony or worthless stock. More persons have lost their fortunes than won new ones by dealing with this fast-talking huckster who usually uses high-pressure salesmanship via the telephone. This curvaller does not fool the professional investor, the amateur who has a reputable broker for a backstop.

There are numerous ways to invest, just as there are many ways to speculate. The two are at opposite ends of the investment spectrum. The investor will not be overloaded with speculative stocks and probably has an excellent long-term investment, but he will not have spectacular gains or losses in his investment.

On the other hand, the speculator is shooting stock market craps hoping that his knowledge of the market, the persons who buy and sell stock, the present and future economic picture and the ability to select the right stock will make his investment rise meteorically in value.

The investor should determine how he stands in relation to the stock market before he dips his hand into it. Does he need a professional to help backstop his judgment? Is he looking for a reasonable amount of security without expecting tremendous returns? Is he willing and able to take more chances? This the investor must decide first.

Bible Comment—

Character Is Great Theme In Bible

What the Bible has to say about character is not to be found in one place: it permeates the Great Book, from Genesis to Revelation.

After its supreme theme—the message concerning the character of God, and the glorious Gospel of His grace—it is the Bible's greatest theme of man's relationship to God and his fellow man.

Nor are these greatest themes of the Bible in any sense separate or unrelated. Jesus said to His disciples: "Be ye perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." It is in being godly, like God, that man attains his highest and best.

This close linking of man and his God is the distinctive quality of Judaism and Christianity. Most other religions have been characterized by fear, not in the sense of awe and reverence in the presence of a Perfect Being, but in abject, appeasing fear and humiliation.

When that ancient Hebrew writer declared that God had made man in His own image, it might equally have been said that man was conceived of God in his human image; but either way it was a profound conception.

With such conception of God as the supreme perfection of all that man saw in the promptings of his own soul, man's aspiration toward that Perfect Being became, at least in the truly saintly, the one great goal of life and character.

The power of that self-discipline, as the fundamental element in character, became expressed in a spiritual daring the likes of which has seldom been equaled elsewhere in religious experience.

Philosopher Aghast At Suggestion He Run For Office And Throws Cold Water On Idea

Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw discusses politics this week, his letter indicates.

Dear editor: I don't know what he has against me, but a neighbor stopped me the other day, well he didn't actually stop me, I was already stopped, sitting in the shade under a tree near the road, and he stopped his pickup and got out and sat down and since it was in the middle of the morning he was a little ill at ease and acted sort of like he was violating the law, as his theory is you're not supposed to stop working till it gets too dark to see.

"Say," he said, "I've been reading your letters in The Stanton Reporter and I think you ought to run for office."

"Run for office?" I gaped. I don't like the word run anyway. Walk is all right, if you take it slow and rest often.

"Yeah, run for office. They could use some of your ideas in Washington."

"Washington? I thought you were talking about a local office. You're worse off than I thought. Ought to rest oftener."

But since I discovered he was actually serious, I set him straight at once. I've got problems enough right here on this Martin County grass farm without tackling more any place else, and if I'm going to run up against problems that are too big for me, I'd rather lose to them at home where I can be comfortable.

I don't mean to say somebody shouldn't be in Washington, whether he's equipped to handle the problems there or not. For example, you set up a rule that no Congressman can vote on farm legislation until he has successfully farmed, and you'd have very few votes and no legislation. In fact, you'd have trouble finding a Secretary of Agriculture. Somebody has to be there but it's not me.

Also, I wouldn't make a good candidate because I'd have trouble classifying myself. All candidates have to be tagged with a political philosophy. Some candidates, you know, say they're to the right, some say they're to the left, and some say they are in the middle of the road.

Me, I don't even know where the road is.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

You are less likely than you once were to hear someone say "Cooked cabbage always gives me indigestion!" That's because nowadays the vegetable is usually cooked briefly and in this state it is mild in flavor.

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it.

A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be.

Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

And for all the pepper we packed into that 6-cylinder engine (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models), we were careful to keep it simple, easy to service—and a real stickler on economy.

Feel in a traveling mood? Well—happy coincidence—this is the time of year your Chevrolet dealer feels in his most generous trading mood. Looks like it's high time you two got together.

Farm fire losses in the nation during 1962 reached an all-time high of $157 million, according to estimates of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This is 7 percent above the $163 million for 1961 and a million dollars higher than the previous record set in 1959.

The estimate, made by USDA's Economic Research Service, was based on the farm fire-loss experience of a sample of 226 farmer's mutual fire insurance companies in 27 states and on the valuation of farm buildings as furnished by crop reporters.

The volume of insurance carried by these companies amounted to approximately $11 billion at the end of 1962, and their fire and lightning losses totaled about $16.9 million last year.

Farm fires continued to strike about two out of 100 farms each year. The "burning rate" (percent of value destroyed) for farm and rural property is about six times that for urban property.

Buildings and their contents accounted for about 85 percent of fire losses paid by the sample companies.

Personal property, chiefly machinery and equipment, livestock and unstored produce, accounted for the other 15 percent of losses paid.

BEEF HASH BURGUNDY

4 cups finely diced left-over beef
1 cup Burgundy wine
1 can mushrooms, diced, or 1/2 cup diced sauteed fresh mushroom stems

1 cup diced fresh tomatoes
2 cups left-over beef gravy
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1 tablespoon diced onion

Mix all ingredients. Simmer at medium heat until the liquid is reduced by one half. You will find you have more liquid than you start with because of the tomato, but it will soon disappear.

Milk and all dairy products head the list, naturally. June is Dairy Month, when milk production is at its seasonal peak.

In the meat line, look for plenty of beef, pork and broiler-fryers. All are on USDA's June list. And prices are unusually attractive, as meat production exceeds normal needs.

Eggs also will be plentiful in June. Use them in salad, in baking, as gems of breakfast nutrition, or in egg-nogs in combination with the abundance of milk.

Think of vegetable to complete your menus. Early-summer gardens are doing their best to provide a bit of everything for your June needs and pleasures.

HARLEQUIN SALAD

1 1/2 cups water
2 pkgs. unflavored gelatin
1 can (11-oz) condensed Cheddar cheese soup

1/2 cup salad dressing
1 tsp. salt
2 apples, diced, about 2 cups
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper

In saucepan sprigle gelatin on water to soften. Place over low heat and stir until dissolved.

In large bowl, blend soup and salad dressing until smooth; stir in milk, salt and gelatin. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients.

Pour into 5-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and garnish with sliced apples.

APPLE MUFFINS

1 can (11 oz.) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1/2 cup milk
1 10-oz. pkg. brown and serve sausage links

2 apples, cut into 1/4-inch thick rings, unpeeled
4 English muffins, split and toasted

In saucepan, stir soup until smooth; gradually add milk. Heat, stirring now and then. In skillet, cook sausage as directed on package; remove and drain. Brown apples in sausage drippings. Top each muffin half with apples; pour sauce over. Serve with sausage. Makes four servings.

June Foods To Be Plentiful

June scores high on all yardsticks of enjoyable livability. It's the beginning of the vacation season.

High on the list of June joys is abundance of good food. Take the U. S. Department of Agriculture's June list of plentiful foods, for example.

Something I read the other day struck my fancy, so I thought I would pass it on to you. It is called: One of These Days I Must Go Shopping.

"One of these days I must go shopping: I am completely out of self respect. I want to exchange some self-righteousness that I picked up the other day for some humility which they say is less expensive and wears longer. I want to look at some tolerance which is being used for wraps this season.

"Someone showed me some pretty samples of peace; we are a little low on that and we can never have too much on hand. And by the way, I must match some patience that my neighbor wears; it is so becoming on her, and I think it might look right well on me.

"I might try on that little garment of long suffering that they are displaying: I never thought that I would want to wear it but I feel myself coming around to it.

"Also, I must not forget to have my sense of appreciation mended, and look around for some plain everyday inexpensive goodness; it is surprising how quickly one's stock of goodness is depleted. Yes, one of these days I must go shopping and it likely should be today."

All the above are on display in the windows of everyday life, and can be had without money. Neither does our joy of possession reward us in dollars and cents.

Bye, now.

Lawn Mowers Can Be Dangerous

A common sound these days is the one made by operating power lawn mowers. They are a necessary tool for keeping the lawn mowed and in good shape, but warns the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, they can become a lethal weapon when improperly used.

The rotary type mower can become a real accident hazard not only to the operator but to persons who may be nearby when used to mow lawns or weeds where rocks, bones, pieces of wire, nails or other debris are present.

The Council reports that about this time of the year the number of accidents involving lawn mowers begins to increase and that chances are good some one in your neighborhood has been a victim.

The cutting blade can be broken by striking a hard object and hurled through the air. Wire can be cut in short pieces and hurled at bullet speed. Be sure, warns the Council, that the area being mowed is free of such objects and that the mower is constructed so as to prevent objects being hurled toward the operator.

The Council suggests safety measures which, if followed, could prevent many accidents involving lawn mowers and other power tools.

Children should never be allowed to operate a mower nor should a person who is barefooted or wearing open-toed shoes. The engine should be cool before refueling and if an electric mower is used be sure the extension cord is in perfect condition.

The folks who make lawn and trimming equipment are concerned about the user's safety and have made recommendations to insure a long and useful life for the machine and operator. They put this information in an operator's manual. The Council strongly recommends that all power tool operators become familiar with their manual.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

Many Texas drivers who carry insurance will need to notify their agents to increase their public liability insurance after August 24.

By the narrowest of margins — a single vote — the House adopted a bill by Rep. Bob Fairchild of Center to raise the bodily injury insurance or security requirements under the driver financial responsibility law from $5,000 for one person and $10,000 for two or more to double those amounts.

Estimates are that it will cost the average driver about $5 a year for the extra coverage. This will enable him to keep his driver's license and car license should be involved in a collision in which someone is hurt.

It was a hard fought issue in the House. But Fairchild won, 66-67, by the vote of Speaker Bryon Tunnell breaking the tie.

In the Senate, passage was by voice vote, with 12 Senators recording themselves as voting no.

Argument for the bill is that it would bring requirements up to a more modern figure. Court judgments in personal injury cases, resulting from auto collisions, often exceed $5,000.

Argument against it, voiced by Rep. Eligio de la Garza of McAllen, was that 35 per cent of the drivers cannot afford to carry liability insurance at present rates. So there will be even more uninsured motorists on the highways after the Fairchild law takes effect.

WIND UP — Regular session of the 58th Legislature ends Friday. That's three days earlier than the constitutional requirement.

Hundreds of the 1,500 proposed new laws submitted by the 181 legislators were left to die in committees and on the crowded calendars of both houses.

Other hundreds will become law when Gov. John Connally signs them. Rush of business at the session's end is pouring them into his office by the score.

All legislative proposals are important to someone. In a few cases, it is a single person.

One proposal would allow a newspaper editor to practice law. It was killed on the floor.

Another would permit the practice of architecture, by a qualified person who failed to apply for a license before the deadline arrived. It died in committee.

But the major issues of the session appear to be fairly well settled.

COURTS — An exception is judicial redistricting.

Rep. Henry Stollenwerk, a Republican from Dallas, vainly tried to move some rural district courts to the cities. This is to follow the people who have moved into the population centers.

Stollenwerk presented statistics showing that some courts are handling only 150 cases a year, while others in major cities have towering caseloads even after disposing of five times that many cases a year. Bill was killed in committee.

Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas persuaded the House to pass a bill under which a judicial redistricting board, made up of the Lieutenant Governor, House Speaker and Attorney General, would reapportion district courts if the Legislature did not. Bill died in the Senate.

HOUSE MINORITY LEADERS — In the waning days of the session, House Republicans ceremoniously announced their 8-member delegation leader, Rep. Horace B. Houston of Dallas.

Houston has some sort of seniority since he previously served a term when he ran as a Democrat.

Speaker Bryon Tunnell quipped, "From now on, when you folks have complaints about your bills, you can take your troubles to the House minority leader."

Houston then cast his first vote as G.O.P. leader in favor of extending the Veterans Land Program, while his followers vast votes against it.

MORE JUNIOR COLLEGES—State Board of Education named a committee to study Snyder's request for a junior college. Appointees were Penrose B. Metcalf of San Angelo, Herbert O. Willborn of Amarillo, and Paul Mathews of Greenville. Committee will meet on May 31, in San Angelo.

Recently, the board authorized a junior college election for Travis County voters. Claim is that even though the University of Texas is in Travis County, entrance requirements are too stiff for many local youngsters to enroll.

POLICEMEN'S PENSIONS — On its way to becoming law is S. B. 444 by Sen. William Moore of Bryan. It would make policemen in 150 towns of less than 250,000 population eligible for social security benefits, if their councils agreed.

Rep. Ben Barnes of De Leon, House sponsor, said, "This is the first policemen's bill that policemen's associations and the Texas Municipal League have agreed on."

A state-wide bill by Rep. Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio, to increase longevity pay for policemen and firemen in all towns, was killed.

BILLS SIGNED — In recent days Governor Connally has signed into laws bills that make San Angelo and Pan American colleges state-supported, senior colleges; authorize commissioners court to appropriate monies for historical markers and monuments; provide for annexation by municipalities; authorize a 70-mile speed limit; and allow weekly newspapers to miss two issues a year and still retain their legality.

Also, change the name of A&M College to Texas A&M University; authorize counties to issue bonds to establish homes for the needy; and provide for emergency succession to state offices in the event of an attack or a disaster.

ROAD RACE — Texas and Oklahoma are running a friendly race to close the gap between Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City.

Texas highway builders are aiming for an early June, 1964, completion date on the Red River Valley Expressway between Wichita Falls and the Red River.

Stifling Sniffles In Simple Steps

Spring is definitely something to sneeze at. The changing season with the day to day uncertainty of the weather start another round of the common cold.

If you catch a cold, don't give it away. These simple precautions will help prevent spreading infectious cold germs to others.

Use your own towels, dishes, utensils and glassware. Eating utensils used by a person with a cold should be scalded.

Wash your hands frequently with soap and water. Don't transfer cold germs to articles you touch.

Always cover germ-laden coughs and sneezes with a tissue. Keep a space-saver box of tissues, plus a paper bag, handy at all times. Dispose of used tissues in the paper bag.

Stay away from people, especially crowds, as much as possible. Bed rest and a well-balanced diet, are the best ways to combat a cold. If a cold persists, especially when accompanied by fever, consult your doctor.

Oklahoma has set the same target for completion of a Southwestern Turnpike project between Oklahoma City and the terminal point of the Texas expressway.

TEXAS LEADS — This state has led all others in road-building progress since 1956.

Highway engineers from other states and 19 Latin American countries who want to know how it has been done heard State Highway Department Engineer D. C. Greer speak on the subject in Washington, D. C.

A pay-as-you-go plan has been one secret of success. Greer says, in building a highway network of 65,000 miles. Some other states run into road delays because of bond elections and sales.

Geer said his department's motto is "Total road service to all the people."

"The highway administrator must not be guilty of favoritism for one region over another," he stated.

BACK IN THE GAME — Former sports writer Wilbur Evans, one-time information director of the Southwest Conference, is going back into athletics after six months of quarter-backing for Governor Connally.

Evans served as press liaison man for the governor's office. He will return to his old field on June 1 as press agent for the Dallas Cowboys.

BUS DRIVER OF THE YEAR — Winner of the Texas Education Agency's "School Bus Driver of the Year" contest will be named on June 7.

Regional winners are: Elmer J. Ashby of Henderson, James U. Skinner of Corrigan, Billy Ray Richardson of Calallen, William F. Moore of Rankin, Herbert Hines of Rule and Roy Arthur Brooks of Aliso.

L.C.R.A. APPOINTMENT—Governor Connally appointed John W. Hancock of El Campo to the Board of Directors of the lower Colorado River Authority for a six year term. He succeeds R. D. Wright of Wharton.

Hancock is the nephew of Curtis Hancock of Dallas, who was a member of Texas' first Highway Commission.

Accent on Health

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Last summer a four-year old boy died of rabies in Texas. Although, there was no history of an animal bite, circumstances pointed to the possibility that he was bitten by a puppy or dog.

There was no doubt that rabies was the cause of death. The case was diagnosed clinically and confirmed by the State Department of Health Laboratory.

Dramatically, rabies is still very much a fact in Texas, when viewed in the misery which surrounds the death of a small boy — to his family, friends and even to public health veterinarians and record keepers.

The fact is that rabies, although changing in complexities, was laboratory-diagnosed in 124 Texas counties during 1962.

The total number of cases, while down from the previous year's 638 cases, reflects an increase in the number of rabid domestic animals other than pets.

A few years ago pets accounted for the majority of cases. Today, wildlife rabies outstrips the disease among pets and domestic animals by far. Skunks continue to lead the statistical columns, but each year foxes and bats are diagnosed as rabid.

Diagnostic evidence indicates that animal rabies is present in approximately half of the counties in Texas. The widespread distribution probably means that at least wildlife rabies occurs in most of the other Texas counties as well.

In counties which do show some rabies, past experience points to the fact that an undercurrent of wildlife rabies is ever present.

What this means to the man-on-the-street is that rabies is a constant threat in most areas of Texas. With the growing sprawl of suburbia into formerly wild areas, it is only natural that pets may be readily exposed to wildlife.

Anti-rabies vaccination of all pets is the surest protection against the disease.

Health And Safety Tips

From The American Medical Association

Remember: Start immediately. Check for mouth for obstructions. Loosen clothing and keep the victim warm, but don't delay artificial respiration to do this. After the victim revives, be ready to resume respiration if breathing halts again. Don't give up unless you're positive the victim is dead.

If you're called on to help in a rescue, keep calm and move rapidly to try to get the victim breathing again as soon as possible.

Boating enthusiasts all over the nation are busy with scraper and paint brush this week getting ready for the traditional opening of America's small boat season on Memorial Day, May 30.

In the South many boating fans are on the water most of the winter, but in most of the nation Memorial Day is the starting gun.

Boating accidents are becoming more prevalent each season, as more comparative amateurs acquire boats and take to the lakes and streams. Pamphlets on boating safety are available in many sporting goods stores and at boat and motor dealers. If you have a boat, and even if you think you know how to handle it, play it safe; get a safety booklet and study it.

High Court Bars Officials From Sit-In Interference

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that a state or city may not interfere, in any fashion, with peaceful racial integration sit-in demonstrations in public places of business.

But the multiple rulings did not clearly spell out the legal position of the individual shopkeeper who may wish to restrict his clientele without the support of segregation laws.

The tribunal not only struck down laws and ordinances against peaceful sit-in demonstrations, but barred action or statements by officials that might influence shopkeepers to turn away negro customers.

It was a decision with more far-reaching impact on racial relations in daily life than any since the school desegregation decrees of nearly a decade ago.

This new historic ruling was laid down in seven cases, mostly centered on arrest during the 1960 campaign to integrate lunch counters and other businesses in the South. Involved were cases from Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Maryland.

These appeals involved 444 individuals but about 3,000 other demonstrators adjudged guilty in similar cases long have been looking to the Supreme Court for word that might free them of these convictions.

The nine justices were unanimous in laying down the principle that public officials cannot interfere with sit-in so long as they are peaceful. However, the court did not draw a clear line of when a shopkeeper may on his own refuse to serve negroes or call police to have them evicted from his property.

But a dissenting justice said a shopkeeper's right to bar certain customers on his own "has certainly become a greatly diluted right, if not a nullity."

Justice William O. Douglas leaped the other way in his comment on a Louisiana case, under which the law was applied to acts by public officials.

He wrote: "There is no constitutional way, as I see it, in which a state can license and supervise a business serving the public and endowed with the authority to manage that business on the basis of apartheid which is foreign to our Constitution."

Apartheid is the harsh racial segregation doctrine practiced in South Africa.

Social Security Head Raps Some Incorrect Books

Most writers of privately published books and pamphlets about social security make sure that their materials are technically accurate and up-to-date. But, said Erven Fisher, Social Security District Manager, a few private publications now in circulation contain information which could mislead a person who relied upon it.

As an example, Mr. Fisher cited a book which is being widely publicized throughout the country, in magazine and newspaper advertisements, on the radio, and through the mail, as containing exclusive information and tips on "How to get twice as much social security." Actually, the book does not tell the reader anything basic about the social security law that he would not find in the free booklets available at his social security office.

However, the book does contain advice that if followed, Mr. Fisher said, might place a person in a worse, rather than a better financial position. And following some of the advice might result in extensive investigation by the Social Security Administration and thus delay, rather than speed up the payment of a claim for social security benefits. A review revealed 184 errors of fact in just 122 pages of the text of this book, Mr. Fisher said.

"Responsible publishers of books about social security," Mr. Fisher pointed out, "do not try to promote sales with advertising materials indicating that the information they offer is not available elsewhere. Nor do they state or imply that a person may lose money by not buying the book offered for sale."

Mr. Fisher advises anyone who has a question as to the accuracy of a privately published book about social security to ask his social security office about it. He emphasized that there are many reliable privately published books about social security and that the publisher of these books perform a service to the public in helping the Social Security Administration to inform people about their rights and responsibilities under the social security law.

Texas cotton producers received $809 million for their 1962 crop. The total income for both lint and seed, as well as total production, fell below the 1961 totals by five and one percent, respectively, but the crop was still the second largest since 1949 when the all-time high of 6 million bales was established.

Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, added that the lower income was due primarily to a lower average price for both lint and seed, one cent per pound less for lint and $3 per ton on seed.

Final ginning figures released by the Bureau of Census, he said, placed the Texas crop at 4,726,000 bales, the harvested acreage at 6,300,000 and the per acre yield at 348 pounds compared with 350 in 1961. Almost half of the state's total production, he noted, came from the High Plains area.

Nationally, ginnings were listed as 14,867,000 bales from 15,569,000 acres and the per acre yield as 457 pounds, up 19 pounds from the 1961 average. Top per acre yields were posted by California and Arizona, over 1,100 pounds each and new records. The national income from cotton and cottonseed was placed at $2,653 million, only slightly less than the total for the 1961 crop.

Trans-Pecos growers produced just over 37,000 bales of American-Egyptian cotton from 33,000 acres.

Elliott said that Texas producers are continuing to use the latest research findings for top yields and efficient production. Each year sees a higher percentage of the state crop harvested by machines and more chemicals utilized in the fight against grass and weeds, he said. Also, more extensive use of fertilizers, adapted varieties for machine harvesting and improved cultural and harvesting practices are being used to help hold production costs down, Elliott said.

The first of a new series of poultry feeding leaflets has been released through the joint efforts of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Feeding Broilers," L-592, will be followed by "Feeding Flock Replacements," "Feeding Laying Hens," "Feeding Chicken Breeders," "Feeding Turkey Breeders," and "Feeding Growing Turkeys." The leaflets explain feeding practices suitable under Texas conditions.

Author by J. R. Couch, C. R. Creger and J. H. Quisenberry of the Poultry Science Department at Texas A&M, "Feeding Broilers" points out the rapid development of the Texas poultry industry during the last 14 years. This growth is attributed to cooperation between breeders, nutritionists, and veterinarians.

The leaflet recommends a 23 percent protein ration for starting broilers and for birds being finished for the market about 21 percent. It explains that energy usually supplied to broilers with corn or sorghum grain. Test shave shown that best results are usually obtained when 42 to 44 calories of productive energy is supplied for each percent of protein in the ration. Corn and dehydrated alfalfa leaf meal are also important in broiler feeding because of the desirable yellow pigment they impart to the skin of the birds.

Broiler diets should be supplemented with calcium, phosphorus, manganese, and zinc. The rations listed in the leaflet supply adequate amounts of these minerals. Vitamins, antibiotics and arsenics contained in a premix should be added to the formulations for broilers also. A good coccidiostat will aid the birds in efficient production but should be deleted before market time.

For more details on the feeding of broilers in Texas ask your county agent for a copy of L-592, "Feeding Broilers" or write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Dual grading, the new controversial system for grading beef carcasses, has now been in effect since July 1, 1962.

The system made available on a trial basis to the packing industry provides separate grades for two of the main factors that determine the value of a beef carcass, says Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist, Texas A&M College. These factors are the quality or palatability of the meat and the amount of trimmed retail cuts obtained from the carcass.

A look at how the new system is being accepted reveals that about one-half of the commercially produced beef from July 1, 1962 to February 20, 1963 was federally graded and 3 percent of this amount was graded under the dual specifications, says Uvacek. This was about 1 percent of the 10 billion pounds of beef produced in the U. S. during the period, he adds.

The specialist notes that the lower quality grading carcasses tended to have higher yield grades. He found that 86 percent of the choice carcasses had yield grades of 2 or 3 while 95 percent of the goods and 96 percent of the standards fell in this yield grade.

About 96 percent of all the beef dual graded was classified into the U. S. Choice or Good grades near nearly twice as much fell into the first grade as into the second. Since dual grading has been used very little so far, an accurate picture of the system can't be shown but we can get an idea of how it operates, Uvacek points out. The most important aspect of the system is the effect it will have on prices and this is yet to be measured, he adds.

A beautiful, well-kept lawn adds to the material value of a home and is a basic requirement of an attractive yard. The beauty of a lawn depends largely on the care it receives during the growing season, points out A. C. Novosad, extension pasture specialist.

He lists fertilization, watering, mowing and weed control as important considerations in a good lawn care program. Fertilization, he says, is one of the most neglected. The best indicator for fertilizer use is a soil test. However, if soil test information is not available and the lawn has not already received a spring application of plant food, Novosad recommends an immediate treatment with a complete fertilizer, a 1-1-1 or 2-1-1 ratio. Enough should be applied to supply two pounds of nitrogen per each 1,000 square feet of lawn area.

In addition, nitrogen should be applied every 30 to 40 days during the summer at a rate of one pound of nitrogen per 1000 square feet of lawn. Such applications will keep the lawn grasses green and vigorous during the growing season. In the fall, 30 days before the first expected killing frost, the lawn should get an application of a complete fertilizer such as was applied in the spring.

The lawn should be watered only when the grass needs it. A slight wilting is an indication the grass needs water. Frequent light waterings are not recommended. Wet the soil to a depth of six inches or deeper. This will encourage deep root systems and enables the plants to utilize the plant food applied. It is best to water in the mornings.

Proper mowing gives a healthier and thicker turf. Mow regularly and don't clip more than one inch at a time. Keep the mower sharp and in proper adjustment and mow Bermuda grass at a height of one to one and a half inches; St. Augustine and bluegrass at one and a half to two inches for an attractive lawn, says the specialist.

A thick, vigorous turf is the best defense against weeds but if they are a problem chemicals can be used for control. Ask the local county agent for details.

IF WALLACE KEEPS LAW

Kennedy Promises To Keep Hands Off Alabama Deal

The second monumental supreme court decision this week could have had some bearing on President Kennedy's promise to keep his hands off the Alabama situation.

The court's decision practically sounded the death knell for the Kennedy administration in the south. The decision stopped just short of telling a shopkeeper when to open and when to close his place of business, and in the estimation of the American people, that's no business of the nine liberal-minded men on the high court.

President Kennedy met with Governor George C. Wallace of Alabama last week in Alabama, when the chief executive flew from Mobile Shoals to Huntsville, Alabama, with Wallace. They were together for 35 minutes in the helicopter ride between the two cities.

Wallace advised President Kennedy that local and state civilian authorities will maintain law and order in Birmingham. This was backed by Kennedy's assurance to the governor that federal troops sent to Alabama for prospective riot duty will not be used unless there is a fresh outbreak that gets out of hand.

TT Music Camp Opens June 10

Final preparations are underway for the annual Texas Tech summer music camp for West Texas high school, junior high and elementary school students, to be held in June and July.

A great many students have already pre-registered, according to Keith McCarty, assistant professor in the Tech music department. Registration is open to students who will be members of their local high school musical organizations next September.

Enrollment in the high school division is open until June 11, at a fee of $21. An additional $39.50 will be charged for students who will room and board in the Tech dormitories. The high school camp will be held June 10 to June 21.

The junior high and elementary division will be enrolling students until June 25. The junior high cost is the same as high school, but the elementary spring camp is in session only one-half day, so the cost is reduced to $11. The junior high and elementary sessions are from June 24 to July 3.

The camps are designed for two weeks of learning, working and playing music, McCarty said. Classes are held for six hours each day, with recreation, programs and trips scheduled each evening.

The staff for the camps is composed of Tech faculty and area school music teachers, including conductors Paul Ellsworth, Gene Kenney, Dean Killion, Orland Butler, J. W. King, W. O. Latson and Fred Smith. Additional information may be obtained from McCarty, Music Department, Texas Tech, Lubbock 9, Texas.

Still Time To Plan Pastures For Summer

It is not too late in most areas of Texas to provide for temporary summer pasture. Of course, points out A. C. Novosad, extension pasture specialist, moisture conditions are a primary consideration and until very recently soil moisture deficiencies were widespread. Recent rains, however, have been received in many areas and have made planting possible.

He says four groups of plants, Sudan grass, including Common, Sweet, Tift, Greenleaf and Piper; Sudan-Johnsongrass types such as sorghum almon and perennial sweet sorghum; Sudan-sorghum hybrids which include a large number of commercially available hybrids and Pearl millet, including Gahi-1, Starr, Texas No. 7 and Common, are the most satisfactory for temporary summer grazing.

Sudan-sorghum hybrids have generally ranked first in yield tests followed by the Sudan-Johnsongrass types and Sudan varieties. The Sudan hybrids and types generally have a larger stalk than the varieties, however, this characteristic does not seem to create a palatability problem, says Novosad.

Pearl millet will produce more forage than Sudan varieties on acid soils in East Texas, on severely eroded soils in Central Texas and on soils where Sudan and other sorghums "yellow-out."

Pastures should be mowed if forage growth gets ahead of grazing, says Novosad. This keeps the plants producing new growth of high quality forage if moisture and fertility are available. The excess forage should be utilized as hay or silage, he says.

Top dressing with nitrogen is especially important after each year cutting or grazing if moisture is available and more forage is needed. If weeds are a problem, and a chemical such as 2,4-D is used for control, be sure the weeds are young, succulent and growing fast and that the chemical is used with care to prevent injury to susceptible crops.

Novosad suggests that plans be started for fall grazing crops and that the county agent be contacted for local recommendations and other information.

Stewardship Week Is In Progress

"Today, with our population rapidly increasing, we must recognize the indispensability of soil, water and plants as the major sources of food and fiber for our people and raw products for industrial processing and handling," so said Governor John Connally in proclaiming the week of May 19-26 as Soil Stewardship Week in Texas.

"As these resources and conserved and developed, we are making possible the continued strength of Texas and assuring our people of a continuing high standard of living. Most important of all, the soil and water will be continued in its lasting service to men of future generations as a God-given trust," he continued.

George Holekamp, chairman of the Soil Stewardship Committee, Association of Texas Soil Conservation District, Kerrville, and Lynn Pittard, soil and water conservation specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reported interest in this year's observance at a high pitch. They added that churches throughout Texas are planning special services during the observance and invite all citizens to attend and participate in them.

Many of the state's soil conservation districts are also planning tours, special meetings and recognition for achievements in their districts. The theme for the 1963 observance is—"Eyes of the Future."

Soil Stewardship Week is sponsored nationally by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

May Marks Marketing Anniversary

May marks the 50th anniversary of organized marketing service to farmers, industry and consumers and the U. S. Department of Agriculture is planning a number of special events to highlight the occasion.

The department's first marketing agency, the Office of Markets, preceded the present Agricultural Marketing Service but was not the first market service performed by them. For example, the collection of statistics was done before the 1913 origin of the agency.

Events planned for the celebration include a month long exhibit in the Patio of the Department's Administration Building in Washington, D. C. Field offices of the Agricultural Marketing Service will sponsor other events during the rest of the year at many locations across the nation.

Private marketing agencies are also expected to participate in the commemoration. The AMS will issue in May an anniversary edition of its monthly magazine, Agricultural Marketing, and special folders and brochures will also be issued to mark the event.

These information materials will trace of development of this country's marketing system during the past 50 years. It will outline the contributions to that development made by the department's grading and market news services, marketing research, food distribution and regulatory services. It will also point out further improvements in marketing that can be expected in the years ahead.

AND THE RAINS CAME.

SURE enough — the rains have been with us in force during the past few days. More rainfall has been recorded in the city limits of Stanton than anywhere else in Martin County, but all sections have received some vital moisture. Sunday night the BLOCKER OIL gauge and THE STANTON REPORTER gauge measured the same—one inch and six-tenths. The amount of moisture, added to the .50 hundredths falling Saturday totaled 2.10 inches. We had another good rain a few days back. This part of the column is being written Monday. Maybe more rainfall is in sight before the paper goes to press.

WE recently had a nice letter from GLEN D. BUNN, Public Relations Director for ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL in Fort Worth. He also sent along a copy of the ST. JOSEPH NEWSARTERY, a publication edited and supervised by GLEN. The booklet was printed on a high gloss, glazed book paper and very attractively put together. BUNN is the former administrator of the local hospital.

MR. E. L. MORAN of Caddo, Oklahoma, was in the office to renew her subscription Monday morning. She was accompanied to Stanton by her sister, MRS. VOWELL of Colorado City. MRS. MORAN has been a long-time subscriber and we always like to meet and talk with our many out-of-state subscribers. We are very proud of this reader family beyond the borders of Texas and we enjoy the interesting letters and cards we receive from them from time to time.

A FEW days ago, back in April, we received a communication from DR. F. P. WELCH. He mailed in a sort of weather forecast on moisture. We filed the letter at the time, because we wanted to wait and see what a good prophet he was. The DOC hit the gauge right on the nose in May. He said, in his letter, we were going to have a lot of rain, and some showers continuing over into June, and we are headed in that direction. The next time we want to get a long range weather forecast, we intend to speak with DR. WELCH.

IT is always nice to grant a favor for a hometown boy or girl who has either hit the jackpot or helped some other guy or gal do some. "HOSS" BLOCKER ain't the only one by that name who gets breaks in the news. The BLOCKERS of West Texas and New Mexico also make good news frequently. We can mention here the fact that SPENCER BLOCKER, son of MR. and MRS. H. S. BLOCKER, is now serving as president of the Midland Jaycees. We might add that New Mexico State Representative GEORGE BLOCKER of Jal, New Mexico, and brother of HORACE, is doing alright too. We also know about the golf prowess of CHRIS BLOCKER and of CORKY BLOCKER. But this paragraph is designed for a very good friend of ours, the former LILA BLOCKER, now the wife of EDDY AKRIDGE. LILA dropped by the office to bring us one of her husband's latest records. EDDY AKRIDGE is pretty good himself from listening to his record. He is a recording artist and a four-time world champion bare back rider. He won his bareback laurels in 1953, 1954, 1955 and in 1961. He has recorded a tune called "You Are Still the Shadow." Then he topped that tune with another that he wrote and recorded. It is called "I Can't Stop." It bears the Star Delta label and is on sale at the local drug store. LILA is the daughter of HORACE and MRS. BLOCKER. EDDY and LILA left for Las Vegas Thursday and he participated in a rodeo out there on Saturday night. Good luck is our wish for the AKRIDGE family.

WITHOUT being disloyal to our own and without taking anything away from the abilities and talents of the Baptist preachers in Martin County, we have a comment to make to those very fortunate folks who belong to the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH in Midland. That particular congregation is gathering on Sundays to hear the remarks of a very masterful man. DR. L. L. MORRIS is another GEORGE W. TRUETT. We don't belong to the Baptist Church, but we do listen to DR. MORRIS on occasions. We find his tv sermons convincing. Perhaps if we would attend our own church, THE FIRST METHODIST of Stanton, more regularly, we would find some inspiring messages there too. A very good pastor, and man, REV. ELLIS TODD, preaches there. But back to DR. TRUETT. He was possibly the finest voice of protestant christianity that the world ever heard, and that includes the famed and current pulpit preacher, BILLY GRAHAM. Our late mother had a good collection of DR. TRUETT'S recorded sermons. My mother was a Methodist and my late dad was chairman of the board of stewards of the Methodist Church in our old hometown for many years. But the sermons of DR. TRUETT, on record, were always food for thought.

State Library Will Sponsor Reading Plan

A vacation reading club program for Texas children will be sponsored by the Texas State Library. This is a part of its state-wide library extension program under the Library Services Act.

The program dates are June 1 to August 31, 1963.

Children who join this summer reading club and read 12 books of their choice and reading level will receive a certificate from the Texas State Library. It is suggested that two books be in the nonfiction category, such as biography, travel, or career guidance.

Mrs. L. M. Estes spent the week last week with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Estes, where she was recovering from a broken arm.

May 17, 1963
Neal Estes
Stanton Reporter
Stanton, Texas
Dear Editor:

A titanic battle between freedom and world communism is now being waged in the high schools, colleges, and universities in America.

At stake are the minds and loyalties of our youth. The outcome may well determine the future of our country.

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, has reported, "In 1969 the Communist Party U. S. A. launched a major campaign with youth as its target. . . . Campuses throughout the nation become prime targets for communist infiltration and recruitment efforts." As a former counter-spy for the FBI, I can testify from first-hand knowledge that the communists place extreme importance on their activities on college campuses.

For years free men and free nations have suffered grievous losses to the forces of oppression and dictatorship. Should the history of the past 30 years be repeated, victory would be inconceivable.

Recently, however, I have observed a bright ray of hope. It is the national conservative youth organization, Young Americans for Freedom.

YAF was formed only two and one half years ago in Sharon, Connecticut. Today YAF can proudly — and significantly — boast 20,000 members in 300 chapters in every state of the Union. I am proud to serve on their National Advisory Board with such outstanding conservatives as Senators Barry Goldwater, John Tower, Strom Thurmond, and many others.

I do hope that you will join with me in giving these young people the financial support they so desperately need. I know that there are many demands on you to support worthwhile causes, but because of the essential work YAF is doing in our country's schools, I feel very deeply that this may well be the most important contribution you can make this year.

Sincerely yours,

Your newspaper was one of 224 Texas papers that donated 2,239 ads to the Savings Bonds Program in 1962. For your support we are truly grateful.

The contribution that you and other Texas newspapers have made to the Savings Bonds Program has had a significant part in building Bond ownership to its present record level of almost 46 billion dollars in Series E and H Bonds. You have had an important part in helping your fellow citizens save for worthwhile goals through Savings Bonds. Hundreds of homes, college educations and care-free retirements have been paid for with Savings Bonds.

The job is not yet done. Foreign "isms" continue to threaten our way of life and you can help defend our precious freedoms. During May and June the Treasury is conducting its Freedom Bond Drive. We urge you to give your full support to this effort.

Enclosed is a copy of the current issue of "Dear Editor" mat service. You will note it contains a variety of items that will be of interest to your readers. In a few days you will receive your free mats and proofs which have been selected from this issue to fill your standing order. ## This Is National Salvation Army Week!

The Salvation Army Service Unit for Stanton and Martin County met Wednesday morning for a fund raising kick-off breakfast at the Belvue Restaurant with 28 local citizens present.

J. W. Graham is campaign chairman for the unit. The goal for the drive is $1,000.00. The committee is made up of local citizens and will handle welfare work for the Salvation Army.

Any persons wishing to contribute may call the Chamber of Commerce or the First National Bank.

Here's what Astronaut John Glenn says about the Salvation Army.

An Open Letter from ASTRONAUT JOHN GLENN

While we at the Manned Spacecraft Center, together with numerous other government agencies and private industries, are seeking to learn more about the universe that surrounds our planet, The Salvation Army is continuing its dedicated service to mankind on our own Mother Earth. Although our scientific minds of today have invented electronic marvels to replace human efforts in many fields of endeavor, we can never invent a machine with a heart capable of sympathetic understanding for the depressed, underprivileged, disaster stricken and lost souls of today. Mechanical equipment can never replace the helping hands of The Salvation Army.

Just as the heat shield on the capsule protects astronauts on their hazardous re-entry from outer space, so the red shield of The Salvation Army offers hope and sustenance to many who need aid in their journey through life. Behind the red shield of The Salvation Army stands long hours and the giving of themselves to those in need. These hard workers of The Salvation Army rightfully find happiness in giving, for, as the Bible indicates, it is in giving that we receive. Or, as a poet once said:

"There is a destiny that makes us brothers,
None goes his way alone.
All that we send into the lives of others,
Comes back into our own."

To help others always gives the most long-lasting satisfaction, so in many ways we can envy these workers their unique opportunities.

More than ever, during National Salvation Army Week thankful hearts will pause to honor the members of this great Army for the work they have done and will continue to do.

I personally send my best regards to the officers and soldiers of The Salvation Army.

NEW CHART RELEASED

Study Of Fruiting Habit Of Cotton Plant Cited As Valuable Aid To Cotton Farmer

A new, easy-to-understand chart showing the fruiting habits of the typical cotton plant has been released in this area. The chart is a simplified form of a continuing study by leading cotton research men, on fruiting of the typical cotton plant, under average weather conditions, if unhampered by insects. The chart is divided into seven weeks of cotton blooming and demonstrates that the greatest volume of mature cotton results from the early blooms. More than half of the total bolls and 64 per cent of mature cotton results from the first two week's bloom. And 88 per cent of the total mature cotton is picked from the blooms of the first three weeks. For example, in the first week only 8 per cent of the blooms occur, but they develop into 21 per cent of the mature cotton. By contrast, the fifth week has 9 per cent of the total blooms, which results in less than 3 per cent of the total cotton.

This fruiting pattern clearly demonstrates the importance of keeping insect infestations to a minimum, particularly during the early season. It is essential that early squares be protected, and cotton experts agree that a systematic planned program be used.

Parts Holder

Fixing up reels or repairing busted hunting gear? Have your wife snag a few egg cartons as they head for the trash. Cartons make the finest compartmented parts holder at a price you can't beat. Another tip: If you have many extremely small parts, eliminate the chance of them going astray by securing them to a piece of transparent sticky tape, stuck upside down on a section of the carton.
