MELVIN BELLI, discharged defense counsel for JACK RUBY in his trial for the slaying of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, said Saturday in Boston that stories going the rounds that RUBY was "the silencer" of the accused assassin of PRESIDENT KENNEDY are "utterly false." How do you know MR. BELLI?

A nice letter from the W. P. PINKSTONS of Andrews, Rt. 1, arrived this week with a subscription renewal. They wrote: "We do enjoy our old hometown paper. We like to keep up with our old friends."

We are happy to send congratulations to MR. and MRS. L. C. STOVALL, residents here for the past 32 years on the celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary on August 19. All of the STOVALL children and their families were here for the golden anniversary party. We used to live near the STOVALLS on Broadway and have known and admired them for years.

DORIS and BOB COSTEY will leave Wednesday for Beaumont where they will visit with their son, ROBBIE, and other friends. Their son will receive his degree from LAMAR COLLEGE, and his parents will be in the audience at the college when he is presented with his diploma. They will return to Stanton on Monday.

These cool mornings in August seem to put more zip into the daily routine. We always think about getting the hot cake and sausage griddle out and ready to go when the weather turns cooler. Our honeysuckle still presents us with a fragrant bloom now and then and there's nothing like having a copy of THE DALLAS NEWS, steaming hot coffee, griddle cakes, sausage and some pure maple syrup with plenty of butter on the table. With the sweet scent of the honeysuckle riding the wind into the house through the kitchen door — well — that's living!

The present 10 per cent excise tax on new passenger cars places an "unfair burden" upon automobile buyers. The automobile has a place of necessity in today's living, and it takes one of the largest single shares of the consumer's income. This discriminatory singling out of the automobile for an additional cost burden not imposed on other necessity products has a heavy and unfair impact on the car owner's purse. Repeal of the car buying tax would benefit the car buying population. How about doing away with the heavy excise taxes now? Instead of spending $950 million, MR. JOHNSON, to teach a natural born burrhead in Mississippi how to get a federal haircut — why not help the Texans who are responsible for putting in and keeping you, a country school teacher in public office so we can pay our income taxes and free us from having to charge the people an excise tax?

Cancer Society Schedules First Meeting Aug. 31

The Martin County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, will meet for its first scheduled meeting at 7:30 p.m., August 31. The meeting is to be held in the Cap Rock Electric auditorium, and the public is cordially invited to attend said Mrs. Lucia Pickett.

Dollar Day To Be Observed September 8

Stanton merchants will observe Dollar Day on September 8.

The first Monday in the first month of the fall season comes on Labor Day, September 7, hence, and of the stores are planning to close on that date.

Labor Day was one of the holidays voted for by the chamber members back in January when ballots were passed out to them.

Dollar Day is an established value day in Stanton and the merchants will bring their messages to the people through the columns of the Ole Reliable next week, advertising the bargains they will have available for the first big money saving day in September.

Comanche Man Dies In Fire In Ackerly

A Comanche man, Richard Benton Layman, about 60, died before dawn Sunday in a fire which swept Gray's grocery store in Ackerly.

Dawson County Sheriff J. P. Bobo said Layman's body, not burned, was found in a rear room of the store. Sheriff Bobo theorized the man suffocated.

The sheriff said Layman's car was found about half block away.

An autopsy was set to determine the exact cause of man's death.

4-H Clubbers, Leaders Attend Rankin Meet

Eleven 4-H Club members and their leaders attended the District Six 4-H electric workshop in Rankin on Monday. The theme of the workshop was "Safety With Electricity."

Vickie Glynn and Cindy Avery presented the district winning electric demonstration for the girls' section of the workshop.

The boys wired electrical layouts and learned about circuit hook-ups.

4-Hers attending included: Vickie Glynn, Cindy Avery, Patricia Haislip, Pam Roper, Gail Mabee, Janie Roper, Jerry Hardin, Bob Wilson, Bill Wilson, Stanley Louder, Guy Mabee, and Don Roper.

The group was accompanied by Mrs. Buddy Roper and county agents Mrs. Mildred Eiland and Bob Johnson.

Co-op Members To Attend Meeting Aug. 29

Five hundred members and guests are expected to attend the annual membership meeting of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative in Stanton on Saturday, August 29.

Registration will begin at 1:30 p.m., with the business session slated at 2:00 p.m., in the Stanton High School Auditorium.

This is the 25th such meeting for the electric cooperative that now serves 5,700 meters. Cap Rock operates 2,440 miles of rural electric lines in a 13 county area.

Those attending the meeting will hear reports on the financial condition and operations of the cooperative from the directors and Manager O. B. Bryan. Matters affecting the Cooperative will be discussed, and three directors will be elected to serve three year terms. Directors whose terms of office expire this year are Mrs. Lee Castle, Paul Adams and D. W. McDonald.

The Texas Plainsmen will give a program of country and western music before and during the meeting. Children will be entertained at a free movie while the business meeting is in progress.

Two outstanding students will be awarded scholarships to Howard County Junior College. Five hundred dollars cash and other prizes will be given to members of the Cooperative attending the meeting.

Garden City Masons Slate Area Workshop

Officers and members of two Masonic Lodges in this area have been invited to attend a workshop which will be held at 7:30 p.m. September 9, in Garden City Lodge 971, Midland and Garden City Lodges are invited.

The workshop is being held to enable Masons to study common problems of Masonic Lodges and their operations. It will be conducted by M. George Lane, an Odessa merchant and the chairman of the Masonic Workshop Area covering 11 nearby counties.

The workshop is part of a statewide semi-annual program held for the quarter-million members of nearly 1,000 Texas Masonic Lodges. It has been authorized by John R. Collard, Jr. of Spearman, Grand Master of Masons in Texas. He urged all officers and members of the invited lodges to attend and said other Masons are also welcome.

There is less interest in this Democratic meeting than ever in history. It is a cut-and-dried affair. It has been known for months that President Johnson would have no opposition and the only thing up in the air to be decided is who will be the vice-presidential choice. That too, is up to Lyndon Johnson. It is customary for the top man on the ticket to tap the second man.

The Democratic National Convention opened on time in Atlantic City, N. J. this week and that's about the only event that was not postponed, put off, or plowed under during the four-day hassle. It was the late Will Rogers who said: "I am not a member of any organized party. I am a Democrat."

The Democrats prepared for the second session of their convention Tuesday night with unity just as elusive as it has been for several days. One thing, though, is for sure, the main convention scene is still in Washington. D. C. President Johnson will not journey to Atlantic City until he gets ready to accept the nomination and make his vice-presidential choice. In Washington he has almost completely controlled the boardwalk show down in Jersey.

Warring Mississippians bolted the convention Tuesday night and outside the meeting hall a crushing crowd of negroes surged up against entrances trying to get in. Some of them made it. Some of the delegates from the so-called Freedom Party even took over the empty seats of the 66 delegates from the regular Mississippi delegation. One commentator said Mississippi didn't walk—they were kicked out by Johnson and his crowd including Humphrey, his apparent wood and water boy.

a beautiful young lady with an overly anxious mother. Everytime Hubert comes in from a date it's the same nagging question: "What, he hasn't asked you yet?" And every time the answer has to be the same: "No, President Johnson hasn't even hinted whom he wants as a vice-presidential running mate." By the hour is late and the coy Lyndon must soon declare his intentions.

The problem of Mississippi and Alabama was put off one time after another as time ticked away. The Johnson lieutenants simply swept the south under the rug and went blandly on about the convention proceedings such as adopting a long and lengthy platform, the reading of which caused the hall to almost totally empty Tuesday night.

Dear Friends:

Thank you for continuing my Reporter even though my subscription had expired. I appreciate that very much.

The highlight of each week is Friday — when I get the Stanton Reporter. I'm always so anxious to have news of my former pupils (my children), my friends, and to learn of the civic, commercial, social, educational, and religious facets of the town.

May I congratulate you (again) on building the best paper in this land — of course I'm biased—but your awards seem to back up my opinion. It was nice to know that you are to serve on the board of directors for the press association.

Congratulations too on picking such competent members to serve on your staff — such as Eugenia, the Hightower boys, and Jeanene.

Best wishes to you and your staff.

Sincerely,
Mrs. L. H. Batton.

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Batton's letter refers to Eugenia, the Hightower boys and Jeanene. All of them where students of hers at the time she was teaching in Stanton. She refers to Eugenia Martin who married Don Hightower and they are now living in Midland. Eugenia was the society editor when we arrived in Stanton. Later Jeanene, now Mrs. Jimmy Wheeler, worked on the staff for about a year. Both women were talented, able and it was a pleasure to work with them and the Hightower boys. Don Hightower is now on the staff of the Midland Reporter-Telegram in the mechanical department. Lynch Hightower is in college and of course the third son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Prentiss Hightower, Lendon, die about two years ago.)

Dear Neal:

Again, congratulations on your election as a director of the West Texas Press Association.

And we are mighty proud of you and your associates at The Stanton Reporter for all the honors won in the Better Newspaper Contest.

Surely was nice, as usual, seeing and visiting with you and Mac at the convention here. Hope to see you again soon.

Kindest personal regards and all best wishes.

Bell To Ring Signaling 9 Month Session

Martin County schools have completed plans for the opening of the 1964-65 school year.

School is to open in county schools on Monday, August 31, with part of the schools holding pre-registration starting Thursday, August 27.

Classes are due to begin on time Monday at the Stanton schools, Grady, and Flower Grove.

Superintendent Beryl D. Clinton advised the paper at noon Wednesday that the Stanton faculty had been filled for the new term with the exception of one instructor. He stated that vacancy would be in the filled column by Monday morning.

Faculties in all other county schools reported ready for the 1964-65 school term.

The Stanton Reporter has previously published a complete list of all school faculty members, including those of Grady and Flower Grove, as well as Stanton.

The Stanton football team has started working out and will encounter their first foe on the home field on September 4.

The Stanton band has been organized and is fastly approaching the ready signal for their first performance at half-time on the football field.

The attractive cheerleaders have been practicing routines for the past few days and they are in tip-top shape for the coming season.

All-in-all it looks like a good year in Martin County scholastically.

The official publication and voice of education in the county — The Stanton Reporter, sends greetings and best wishes to the school executives, the teachers, and the students for a very wonderful school season.

Vaughn Petroleum Of Dallas Completes 2 New Producers

By JAMES C. WATSON
Vaughn Petroleum, Inc., of Dallas and Midland has completed two new producers in the McDowell (multipay San Andres) field in Northwest Glasscock County, 15 miles southeast of Stanton.

No. 5 L. S. McDowell was potential for a daily pumping production of 89 barrels of 27-gravity oil from perforations at 2,347-50 feet, after stimulating with 1,000 gallons of acid.

It is 1/2 mile southwest extension to the proven area and 1,400 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 31, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey.

No. 3 McDowell, originally completed as the discovery from the middle San Andres — one of the three producing zones in the region — and which has depleted that pay, has been recompleted as a 1/4-mile west extension to the upper San Andres reservoir in the field.

From perforations opposite that zone at 2,338-40 feet, after a 500-gallon acidization, it pumped 85 barrels of 27-gravity oil in 24 hours.

Congress And The Court

In recent years, Congress has been observed to rely more and more on the President to initiate important legislative programs, and confine its own action to haggling over details and price tags. The worm, if you will excuse the expression, sure turned after the June 15 Supreme Court decision on the apportionment of state legislatures.

In that decision, the Supreme Court suddenly moved a power to Washington which had resided in the state capitals since the United States became a nation—the power to decide the forms of state government. It is decreed that only population could be the standard for determining legislative districts in both houses of a legislature.

Congressmen who are not recorded as ever before having given a favorable thought to state's rights reacted as if they had been attacked personally, as, indeed they had. For those state legislatures when they are reapportioned to upgrade the voices of the cities and downgrade the voices of small towns and rural areas, will sit down and carve out Congressional Districts.

It is no wonder that the Congress, then, is willing to drop the Administration's "must" bills and turn its hands to undoing the mischief of the court decision. Around 80 bills have been filed in the House for the purpose, and wide-spread support has been indicated in the Senate. Party lines mean nothing in this matter, neither do liberal or conservative leanings.

For many Congressmen have a tenderly personal interest now in seeing that right is done, and that the federal courts shall not be dictating how states shall run their own internal affairs.

In this instance, there's no conflict between these Congressmen's personal desires and the best interest of the nation.

Lady Bird Finds Herself Shut Out Of Own House

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson Saturday found herself locked out of her own house.

Before her husband's news conference, Mrs. Johnson came outside to chat with reporters.

After a few minutes, she said: "Hasn't my husband put in an appearance yet? I'll go see what he is doing."

She turned to go back into the ranch house but the door was locked.

"The first thing I tell them when I come home is to unlock all the doors," Mrs. Johnson said. "Have you ever heard of having to tell people the same thing twice?"

She walked through the crowd of newsmen to a side door which was open.

Selma, Ala., Times-Journal: "In suits for personal injuries against corporations, juries are prone to find for the plaintiff in most cases, and to award thousands of dollars for even minor mishaps. There are even compilations of the average amounts juries can be expected to award in the various states and these serve as a guide in deciding how much to sue for... It's easy to be generous with 'other people's money', and it's a surprise to learn — after such awards — that is was really our own."

Covington, La., Farmer: "Your tranquilizer pills may cause you not to worry about the future of this nation, your businesses, your families and your schools, and they may even make the chains lighter—I don't really know. But the guys who don't take 'em will be cracking the whip."

Bible Comment—

Resurrection Was Start Of Jesus' Mission

If one thinks of the earthly life of Jesus as lived in its Palestine homeland, the Resurrection was its triumphant climax.

It was not only the victory over death, it was also the victory over those who sought to destroy him.

But for the world at large, into which Jesus had come, it was not a climax, but a beginning.

It was now that He told His disciples to go forth and preach the gospel. In obedience to that great commission, 20 centuries have seen the growth of Christianity.

But even greater than the outward power of churches and organizations is the mystic fellowship of all believers, who have taken to themselves the Christian name and who have sought to live according to the teaching and example of the Master.

The evil that Jesus fought and that crucified Him is still abroad in the world, seeking to destroy His teaching, setting up other standards of selfishness, violence, worldly power, and caring nothing for justice, mercy and right.

So great is this evil, so apparently overwhelming and successful, that it is easy to underestimate the power of good, the forces of righteousness and the strength of Christian progress toward what may still be a far off goal.

But the power and impulse of Christianity are not in the past. Jesus still lives and leads in every devout soul whose daily life, no matter how lowly or great its place and environment, is attuned to love.

He lives and leads in every service for one's fellowmen, in the schools and colleges and in the missionaries.

We sing in our prayer "Jesus Still Leads On" and that prayer has its answer before it is spoken, for the surest, truest, most hopeful thing in the world that Jesus is still leading on.

Philosopher Starts Out On Candidates Finances And Winds Up In Unconstitutional Shape

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw surely must have a flaw in his thinking this week, but we'll let you figure it out.)

Dear editor: I have been reading the financial statements of the two candidates for President and the way it looks to me, the wives and children are worth more than the men, and I would like to ask you if you think this is a sound trend?

It's a fact, that total worth of Mrs. Johnson and children and Mrs. Goldwater and children is a lot more than the net worth of the two men, according to the financial statements the newspapers have been publishing.

It's not that either man is hard up for cash, but this idea that the women and children have a lot more in their name is a trend which I do not look upon with favor, although understand I am not asking the Supreme Court to rule on it. You get the Supreme Court trying to re-district the division of money between a man and his wife and the lid is off. In fact, the Court if it keeps going is likely to come up one of these days with a ruling whose effect clearly implies the Court itself is unconstitutional, if it hasn't done it already. For example, the Court is now claiming that Congressional districts and Representative districts throughout the land have to be fairly even in population, or the members are unconstitutionally elected.

Carrying this one step further, you reckon it's possible the Court will rule that each United States Senator has to represent the same number of people and that two Senators from a state with 250,000 people aren't entitled to the same vote as two Senators from a state with 10,000,000? Why It's unethical, immoral and illegal to spend taxpayers money with firms or relative's firms owned by public officials at every level.

Zinnias Drench Gardens With Color And Sparkle

One of the most popular flowers for a colorful garden is the zinnia. To get your gardening program into full swing next spring, start planning now and consider this annual as a "must" for color.

Zinnias are easily grown from seed and bloom in only six to eight weeks. They continue to produce showy blooms during the entire summer.

Since zinnias can be sown outdoors with great success, they can be planted in the ground where they are to grow as soon as the soil becomes warm in the spring. A warm sunny location is best.

Seeds should be planted about one-fourth inch deep and about four inches apart.

Keep the soil moist but not wet, and do not let it dry out until the seedlings emerge.

Then keep the soil rather dry and thin out the seedlings, leaving them eight to 18 inches apart depending upon the type plant being grown.

As soon as the first flower buds produced, pinch it off so that the plant will develop lateral shoots and produce a bushy plant with numerous flowers.

Since zinnias require large quantities of water, soak the soil well, watering below the foliage to keep the leave dry and to avoid mildew.

There are many kinds and types of zinnias in a wide range of colors and varieties. While the horticultural forms are myriad, the average gardener will have a general knowledge of what is available from the following groups.

Cupid zinnias are the dwarfest and most compact type, seldom growing more than 12 inches tall.

However, Mexican zinnias grow slightly taller, reaching from 12 to 15 inches. Flowers range from double to semi-double to single and are small, usually never more than 1 1/2 inches in diameter. "Old Mexico" and "Persian Carpet" are all American winners in this class.

Liliput zinnias are compact, freely branching plants that grow 15 to 18 inches high and are very useful for bedding and low flower borders. They have small double flowers about two inches across.

Pumila types are sometimes called Cut- and Come-Again zinnias. They produce long stems on plants that grow about two feet tall, the flowers being two and one-half to three inches in diameter. Some widely grown varieties are Peppermint Stick which has striped petals and Salmon Rose which has deep salmon pink flowers.

Another type is the Cactus-flowered zinnia which grows three to four feet high in Texas gardens. It produces shaggy flowers reaching four to five inches in diameter with the quilled tubular petals curled upward.

Tetra Giant Double zinnias produce very large flowers six to seven inches in diameter. They reach a height of about two feet and are excellent bedding plants.

The most common and widely grown zinnias are perhaps the Giant Double type. They produce giant double flowers on plants about three feet tall. Some of the most favored varieties are Scarlet Flame, Golden Dawn, Canary Bird (yellow), Enchantress (pink) and Purity (white).

Taller type provide a good background in the garden. Those of medium height provide good color in sunny spots in flower borders while shorter kinds are effective as large-scale ground covers or for edgings.

All the various types of zinnias, small, medium or large, are excellent for use as cut-flowers and will last for at least five or six days with proper care. However, the flowers should be well opened before they are cut.

Zinnias are dependable and will produce quantities of flowers all season long.

Score Another For Bighorns

Wildlife personnel in West Texas reported finding another baby desert bighorn sheep in the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area sheep pasture. So far this year three young have been found increasing the total population to 23 head.

In 1957-59 a handful of wild desert bighorn sheep were trapped in Arizona and released in a 427-acre enclosure on the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area in southeast Brewster County. Since then a bighorn herd has steadily increased and now totals six adult rams, eight adult ewes, six yearlings and three lambs.

Releasing some of these sheep from the fenced pasture in 1967 or 1968 on surrounding Black Management Area terrain will be the next experimental step toward establishing a Texas desert bighorn herd.

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 3, 1964. SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 6 proposing an amendment to Section 5 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas so as to remove the authorization to transfer not exceeding one per cent annually of the total value of the permanent school fund to the available school fund.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. Section 5 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas is amended to read as follows: "Section 5. The principal of all bonds and other funds, and the principal arising from the sale of the lands hereinbefore set apart to said school fund, shall be the permanent school fund, and all the interest derivable therefrom and the taxes herein authorized and levied shall be the available school fund. The available school fund shall be applied annually to the support of the public free schools. And no law shall ever be enacted appropriating any part of the permanent or available school fund to any other purpose whatever; nor shall the same, or any part thereof ever be appropriated to or used for the support of any sectarian school; and the available school fund herein provided shall be distributed to the several counties according to their scholastic population and applied in such manner as may be provided by law." Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1964, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"FOR the Constitutional Amendment to remove the authorization to transfer not exceeding one per cent annually of the total value of the permanent school fund to the available school fund." "AGAINST the Constitutional Amendment to remove the authorization to transfer not exceeding one per cent annually of the total value of the permanent school fund to the available school fund." Section 3. The Governor of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for the election and this amendment shall be published in the manner and for the length of time as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Congress decided not to provide funds this year for the program announced by the Department of Agriculture to make the micronaire on cotton a determining factor in the amount of the support loan for cotton. Congress was dissatisfied with the way the matter was handled by the department and decided to withhold action on the program this year.

Under the proposed micronaire system for the cotton loan, there would be a discount on low micronaire cotton and a premium on high micronaire cotton. The greatest area of production of low micronaire cotton is in Texas, especially West Texas.

Mahon said that it was generally agreed that the micronaire was an important factor in evaluating cotton and that West Texas cotton farmers should keep in mind that the time is approaching when the micronaire will be taken into account in fixing the amount of the support loan. When this happens, in order to avoid losses, West Texas cotton growers will be confronted with the difficult problem of producing cotton which will not be subject to discount.

Methodist Laymen To Go To Retreat

Hundreds of Methodist laymen will attend the retreat to be held in Amarillo this weekend.

Laymen from the Northwest Texas Methodist area are due to convene.

The three-day retreat begins with registration Friday afternoon and ends with a luncheon Sunday.

Speakers for the event include Dr. Harry Denman of Nashville, Tennessee, general secretary of the Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church; the Rev. Arnold Prater, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Marshall, Missouri; and Dr. J. E. Shewbert, superintendent of the Plainview District.

Rev. Claud LeMond of the First Methodist Church, Stanton, reported to the press, that as far as he knew no laymen from Stanton planned to attend the meeting.

bled a little before nominating their presidential ticket.

The fact is that the 1964 convention, under the complete control of Lyndon Johnson is a one-man show—nothing more. He will take the nomination and he will belt everyone else out of the ring when it comes to naming his vice presidential running mate. He has already cast the Bobby Kennedy clan over the side of the political ship and more than ten aspirants to the veep's place are now bobbing up and down in the ocean.

A tidy script bearing the production brand of LBJ has been written, and the only item of suspense on the agenda at this writing is Lyndon's choice for a running mate.

It would be in character for the President, his associates agree, to wait until the last moment to reveal his preference for the No. 2 spot, if that is possible. They recall with glee he concealed the fact that he would come in with a budget figure under a $100 billion — and a lot less than Kennedy's budget.

Whether the Johnson penchant for surprises includes a running mate other than Hubert Horatio Humphrey, the surviving choice of rank and file, is anybody's guess. It would probably break the eager Humphrey's heart if the of government as we have practiced it. The Court announced . . . that states unconstitutionally adopted the federal system of representation by people and area. . . . But, our form of democracy has worked pretty well under this system, one of our checks and balances. The urban areas don't lose representation. . . . The Supreme Court sits in a lofty position and pronounces lofty decisions. In meaning well in its decisions for the people, has it really lost touch with them?"

Civil Rights Act Will Cause Farm Extension Integration

Realignment and reorganization of the county agricultural and home demonstration agent system in Texas and the South is due to take place this year.

The passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 assures there will be some changes made soon.

Texas Agriculture Extension Service Director John E. Hutchison at College Station says, "State officials are awaiting receipt of final U. S. Department of Agriculture regulations before taking action." Complete integration this fall of all activities of Texas A&M Agriculture Extension Service appear certain.

Recently, the Wall Street Journal reported: "Racial time bomb ticks in the far-flung network of all federal farm offices."

The article pinpointed the Extension Service in the South as being the key part of a yet-to-be released civil rights report.

Other recent developments are: Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman met with state executives of federal agencies the week of August 3-7 in Washington on civil rights.

Texas officials known to have attended were Hutchison and Lester J. Cappleman, state director of the USDA's Farmers Home Administration. It is also known that other federal agency officials in other branches attended the Washington meeting. This means that the state offices, programming federal patronage in the entire field of not only agriculture but other government services will be integrated.

A spokesman close to the administration said this week that it would be unreal to think that all federal jobs in Texas would continue to be held by white persons. He predicted integrated postal, Urban Renewal, and other stepped up programs for integration of colored people into various jobs.

Secretary Freeman told the federal-state agriculture workers, "The time to put this legislation (civil rights) in effect is now, not tomorrow or next week, or soon, but today."

He referred to the action of the Civil Rights Act dealing with agriculture agencies. He told the employees that they would be answerable directly to him (Freeman) on the matter.

The act prohibits discrimination where federal funds are used.

The department has prepared regulations to govern their field units.

The county agent system is involved because a sizable portion of its money in every state comes from the federal government.

In Texas, funds come from three sources, state, federal and local (county commissioners.)

The situation on the county agent system in Texas now is this: Some 60 counties, mostly in North, East and Southeast Texas, maintain "separate but equal" agricultural extension programs and offices. There are about 100 agents.

The 60 counties also have white extension agents.

And, the same is pretty well the picture in other Southern and Southwestern states.

Negro county agents and home demonstration agents are supervised by negro extension workers at Prairie View A&M System, part of the Texas A&M System.

White extension agents are supervised by the extension staff at Texas A&M University at College Station.

There are 12 white extension districts in Texas and two negro districts, the northern and southern.

This year, the title of the negro agent was changed from negro county agent of negro home demonstration agent to associate agricultural agent and associate home demonstration agent.

In the case of white district agent offices and personnel, all district people are located in cities or towns about midway of the district. Negro district agents and specialists are all located at Prairie View.

One of the largest youth organizations in America, 4-H, is supervised by the county extension agents. In Texas, the 4-H Club membership totals about 86,000 white boys and girls and 24,000 negro youth.

Hutchison said last week: "We have never restricted 4-H membership. . . the membership is decided by the club."

The director said, however, some integration already has taken place in Texas — in West and South Texas counties where school integration has been accomplished.

Stanton voted full for crash integration to start this year, therefore, it can be assumed that the board's decision will also include integration in all facilities.

FARM REVIEW AND FORECAST

Soil testing should be now in preparation for fall planting, reports Dr. Charles D. Welch, soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Early soil sampling is encouraged to avoid the fall rush that crowds the state's three testing laboratories. Samples now being received are mostly from pastures, small grain plots, lawns and flower beds, says Welch.

A total of 19,047 samples were received at the laboratories from January 1 through June 30 this year, compared with 13,171 samples for the same period last year. The soil testing laboratory at Texas A&M University received 9,349 of these sample compared with 7,248 last year, Welch points out.

As expected, a significant increase in tons of fertilizer applied has accompanied this increase in the number of samples tested, explains the chemist.

Established legume pastures are among the crops that will need fertilization this fall, the chemist points out. An increasing number of acres are being seeded to vetch, Crimson and White clover, and since fertility and lime needs of these crops vary, soil samples should be taken, he says. Liming is of special importance to East Texas and Coast Prairie farmers, reports the chemist. He says that three-fourths of the East Texas soils and one-half of the eastern Coast Prairie soils need lime, and it should be applied soon for fall plantings.

For more information about soil testing and for instructions on the method of taking and submitting soil samples, contact your county agricultural agent, suggests Welch.

Sun-scorched pastures are providing scant grazing and increasing the need for emergency livestock feeding, reports Uel D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, Texas A&M University.

If pastures are depleted, the obvious first step is to reduce livestock numbers. Calves should be weaned and sold as early as possible, says Thompson, and replacements should also be marketed if necessary. Low producers should naturally be headed down the market trail.

After reducing the herd, confine it to a trap or drylot and begin feeding, advises Thompson. Thus, stock conserve energy through not having to travel for feed and water.

Since total feed intake has to be supplied under these conditions probably the cheapest method is to limit this intake with salt and supply energy by feeding sorghum grains, says the husbandman.

Roughage is high in cost and low in energy, yet some is necessary for ruminant digestion. It may be fed by limiting the amounts daily, explains Thompson. Rice hulls may be fed as a roughage but must be ground to prevent intestinal irritations to stock.

Thompson suggests the following self-feed mixture for emergency feeding: 34 percent ground sorghum grain, 33 percent protein supplement (41 percent), 31 percent salt and 2 percent trace mineralized salt. Cattle will consume daily about five pounds of the mixture depending upon the quantity and quality of roughage.

This year's peach crop of an estimated 3 million bushels is reported to be the best in years, quality-wise.

Pick a peach, but please don't pinch or poke, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension Service consumer marketing specialist. Ripeness is your clue. Peaches must look good to be good.

Quality peaches are firm, mature, well-formed and free from decay and injury. Peaches have yellow skins and flesh, so look for creamy-to-gold color under the red blush. Red blush alone is not a sign of ripeness, for the amount of blush varies according to peach variety. Avoid hard peaches with green background color, for they're immature, lack flavor and will never ripen properly.

Keep full-ripe peaches in the refrigerator, the specialist suggests. Consumers will recall that a pound of peaches — or three medium size peaches — yield about 2 cups sliced peaches. For an eight- or nine-inch pie, 2 pounds of fresh peaches are required.

Homemakers who plan to can or freeze peaches will note that 2½-pounds of peaches will yield about 2 pints canned or frozen, depending on the quality and size, whether the peaches are halved or sliced, and how closely they are packed.

Hutchison To Address THDA Meeting

Director John E. Hutchison of the Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University will be featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Houston, September 16 and 17.

Other program highlights will be an election of officers and special workshops in civil defense, citizenship, 4 - H, health and safety, family life, publicity and recreation.

General theme for the meeting in the Rice Hotel will be "The American Woman—Her Changing Image."

Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director for home economics with the Extension Service, will introduce Director Hutchison.

More than 800 home demonstration members of the state are expected to participate in the meeting.

Officers to be elected for two-year terms are a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. They will be installed during a banquet at 7 p.m. September 17.

Home demonstration club members also are to discuss and adopt a new program of work for the coming year. Other addresses are slated by Mrs. Jean Adams of the Houston Post and Bonnie Cox, extension organization specialist. Musical selections will be presented by the Texas Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. L. M. Parker of Liberty Hill.

Mrs. George Hackney of Greenville is current president of the 32,000-member homemakers' organization.

State Demos Reveal Plans For September Convention

Gov. John Connally will keynote the state Democratic convention in Dallas September 15, paving the way for a state platform and party organization patterned to his administration.

Plans for the September convention, traditionally considered the "governor's convention," were announced by state Democratic headquarters Saturday.

They include a pre-convention dinner honoring the governor at the Trade Mart on September 14, in competition with a dinner honoring U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough at the Baker Hotel.

Contests over delegations from three big counties, including Dallas, were decided at the previous state Democratic convention in Houston in June. Decisions made at that time will apply to seating in the Dallas meeting. Hearings by the credentials committee are expected to be routine.

The September convention officially certifies party nominees for state office, draws a state platform and sets up new party machinery for the next two years.

It will attract 5,668 delegates and the Memorial Auditorium will accommodate 1,800 additional guests.

Mrs. Troy V. Post, state committeewoman from Dallas, and Mrs. William F. Neale, Jr., will serve as co-chairmen for a coffee honoring Mrs. Connally the afternoon before the convention.

District caucuses will be scheduled between the coffee and trade mart dinner.

State headquarters announced 2,000 tickets at $12.50 per plate will be available for the dinner and sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Profits from the dinner will be used to defray convention expenses.

Speakers Not Announced
Speakers and entertainment at the dinner are to be announced later. Party officials have been considering having an out-of-state speaker, perhaps Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia.

Convention headquarters will be at the Adolphus Hotel.

Convention arrangements are being handled by a committee of Dallas citizens headed by Cliff W. Cassidy, Jr.

Harlingen, Texas, Star: "We hope we can make it clear. The great problem of our time centers around private property and the inroads being made against it by government. Ever since the socialist movement began, economic theorists have toyed with the idea that the world would be a better place if people didn't own property privately. Es-entially, this is all that Karl Marx was interested in promoting when he launched the communist movement. . . In a free society, both welfare and protection, as services, can thrive wherein everyone in society can be systematically looted in order to provide services some may not want, is to descend into socialism."
