By NEAL ESTES
We have always tried to make some New Year's resolutions. It certainly does not hurt to try. It is good to take stock in our lives and to attempt to improve our goals. Good resolves help clarify our thinking and goals are inspiring. Goals help us to do better, and contribute to our keeping on. Whatever resolves or goals we have, let us stress the important ones in our minds and hearts, loving people while they are alive, continuing to learn, and regaining a and maintaining health. Surely, the New Year is a fine time to make at least one New Year's resolution and if it is your lot to break it later, then you will feel better for having tried to improve yourself and your relationship with other people.

Estes Owned Newspaper Breaks Record

The 30th Industrial Progress Edition of the Longview Morning Journal, a newspaper owned by Commander Carl Estes, brother of the editor of The Stanton Reporter, has achieved another high journalistic honor by breaking the paper's own 500-page record for any daily newspaper ever published in Texas and the South, with a 538-page special issue.

Major wire services, larger newspapers, radio stations and tv stations saluted the accomplishment this week when the massive six-pound issue was placed in circulation. Each copy actually weighed six pounds. Several Stanton individuals interested in community development received complimentary copies of the giant edition.

The publication is a recognized blueprint of what a community needs in the way of cooperation to accomplish any worthwhile goal.

On the front page of the massive publication appears a personal letter to Commander Estes from President Lyndon Johnson.

President Johnson, a friend of more than 35 years of the East Texas publisher said: "You have brought honor and distinction to American journalism and your fine record of achievement stands as an inspiring example to your staff as well as to all the members of our nation's press."

The following police activity report for the month of December, 1964, was submitted to the newspaper for publication by Chief Bob Smith and is self explanatory.

Library Lines MRS. RALPH CAFFEY, Librarian

The library has just received two copies of the book "Parade of Progress, Miracle Area, U.S.A." It is a report of towns in the south and high plains of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico. Information about 54 towns in this area are given. These are the cities whose advertisers and sponsors are proud of their progress and growth, so the books says. Stanton is included in the book, but there wasn't much pride in our town, because very little is given about it. The book is quite interesting to scan through and see what our neighbors are doing.

The library has available a large folder containing facts and material on cancer. Also we have a film strip and recording on "To Smoke or Not Smoke," with a booklet entitled "The Consumer's Union

Braceros Board Bus For Last Trip Home

Martin County said goodbye to the last of the braceros last week and thus ended a era.

Since 1951 when an agreement between the United States and Mexico was made for Mexican workers to help gather the crops in this county hundreds of bus loads of braceros had pulled into Stanton for seasonal work. The thousands of the brown skinned brothers coming into Martin County caused the cash registers in local retail stores to hum a merry tune. As many as 4,000 workers were based in the county in one of the recent peak harvest years.

So it was a sad sight to witness the last load of workers reluctantly leave for Mexico and their home. One migrant worker was obviously disturbed and all complimented the treatment they had received in this country and several expressed serious concern over their future in their native country. One said he was sure to lose his home because it would be possible for him to earn only $1.50 per day in Mexico as compared to the 70 cents an hour he was earning here.

Pablo Pedraza, a bracero from Linares, Nuevo Leon, told the true story of the plight of the Mexican worker

Habits Are Personal

Habits are personal, but everyone has them. There are many good habits, as well as some bad ones. Two kinds of habits come to mind, because in a way all habits may be classed as either good or bad.

A person's habits may be good ones—in which case the person and the family are happier, the community a better place in which to live, and the nation is stronger.

Or, a person's habits may be bad ones. If so, such habits lead to personal and family difficulties and unhappiness, and often to community discord and public reaction.

Habits are the individual's own personal creation. They are formed by patterns of personal choice, and become habits by persistent repetition of action—perhaps because we think that's the way we like our lives to be. But is it, really?

Our own personal brand of habits do one of two things to us: They contribute to our personal and family happiness and progress and thus to community betterment and public welfare, or our bad habits lead to difficulties and unhappiness and lack of progress.

Habits make us strange creatures. We have the right of choice, and by choices in various matters and situations that face us we form habits. Our habits then become our keepers, and we no longer have any choice as to the results of these habits.

By their very nature, good habits bring good things into our lives and the lives of those around us, while our bad habits become a part of the problems which beset us and make our lives miserable and unproductive and a failure.

How are our habits? It may not be our habit to go to church regularly, but it would be a mighty good habit to have. The way to develop a good habit is the same way we develop a bad one—start it now, and repeat it often and persistently.

Each of us makes his own habits. As for the results, they simply move right in and live with us.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

BOOM!

A Kentucky judge, skeptical of the testimony of a scientific expert, recalled a story he had once heard from a lecturer:

"Take the bumblebee. Apply to him the recognized aerodynamic tests. From the size, shape and weight of his body, in relation to total wing area, he cannot possibly fly. But the bumblebee does not know this, and he goes ahead and flies anyway."

The story sheds light on a new legal troublermaker, the sonic boom. Experts, applying the recognized aerodynamic tests, predicted that the boom could not possibly cause extensive damage. But windows not knowing this, went ahead and broke anyway. As super-sonic flights multiplied, so did complaints about cracked plaster and shattered brick-a-brac. Rightly or wrongly, the boom was blamed for making a dog neurotic and a man arthritic, for rupturing a swimming pool and splitting a toilet bowl.

All this commotion raised some novel points of law that are still not settled. For example: When is it negligent for a pilot to break the sound barrier? Can you collect insurance for sonic boom damage if your policy protects you against "explosions"?

Luckily for most claimants, the United States Air Force stands ready to pay for damage it causes—without quibbling about such technicalities. Air Force bases have set up regular procedures for handling claims.

However, the Air Force has no desire—indeed, no right—to pay for damage it does not cause. This is no easy road to government money. Every claim is meticulously investigated by a team of specialists before it is paid.

No doubt the problem will get worse when civilian airlines switch to supersonic jets. As an Air Force claims official put it to a group of insurance men:

"You ain't seen nothin' yet." But for the present, the problem has been kept within reasonable bounds. Pilots are carefully schooled in holding sonic booms to a minimum. And citizens are coming to realize that the booms are caused not by hot-rodgers in the sky but by vital defense training. The message is getting across that the boom is a boon in disguise, that this man-made thunder is not the irksome sound of mischief but the reassuring sound of security.

Mexico Warns U. S. Farmers On Use Of 'Bracero' Labor

Mexico Saturday bluntly warned American farmers that "braceros" must not be contracted for work in the United States without prior consent of this country's government.

The statement was issued by the Foreign Relations Ministry in the wake of termination of the 1951 treaty between the two countries under which hundreds of thousands of Mexican farmhands worked in the United States annually.

Both countries were reported to have ordered emergency measures along border points to prevent the "bootlegging" of Mexican workers in a possible revival of the "wetback" migration that ended after the two countries reached full agreement on regularizing "bracero" employment.

The declaration also warned that any employer who uses or has used "wetback" labor (persons who are in the United States illegally) will be barred from hiring Mexican workers legally with approval of the Mexican government.

The statement left the door open for negotiations with U. S. farm organizations which already have approached the

Blessedness Of Work Is Told

Work is more than just a task, more than drudgery. Saint Paul says, "Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

The spirit in which one's work is performed is important. One make take great satisfaction in performing his part in the fabrication of finished, marvelous products.

Also, there is great compensation in the fact that even monotonous routine has been offset by shorter hours of labor, which leave the worker more time for family and real business of living.

Nevertheless, the old debate remains as to whether work is a cure or a blessing. The original conception of Genesis suggests that it is something of a curse: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." But in the Old Testament that conception received another interpretation. To extract from the soil abundance and prosperity became a national and social idea. A glory was attached to work, and to achievement of craftsmanship.

The blessedness of work, too, became more emphasized and vindicated in all that Jesus said: "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." Work was what Jesus called his "Father's business." It was Christian work, and as such Paul commended it as precept and example.

And St. Paul had a message as a tent-maker as well as in the roll of an Apostle and Christian leader.

Martin County Philosopher Has Novel Idea for Bringing The Profit Motive To Agriculture

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw may have his tongue in his cheek this week, but we couldn't tell till he shaves.)

Dear editor:

Since I never did believe in throwing something away till it was worn out—except maybe a few tax laws I could mention—I was looking over my last year's New Year's resolutions and found they are in such good shape, most of them not even used at all, that I just adopted them for this year and settled down to reading a part of a newspaper which some New Year's celebrant had tried to make a pointed hat out of and lost out of his car on a road near this Martin County grass farm.

Up near the peak of the hat I found an article that said Russia is now going to experiment in an effort to get its agricultural production stepped up.

What it's going to do is employ the profit motive, in the hope the Russian farmers will have an incentive to work harder and produce more.

Say, this sounds like a good idea and what I'd like to know is why don't we try it in this country?

Oh, I know we use it in most lines, like meat markets, grocery stores, medical practice, law practice, construction, manufacturing, banking, television, radio, newspapers, public office, but I don't know why nobody has ever thought of trying the profit system in farming and ranching.

Surely we're not going to sit back and let Russia forge ahead of us in agriculture. When Russia got the jump on the world by putting the first satellite in orbit, what did we do? We tripled our funds for space exploration and caught up.

Clearly, the thing for Washington to do now is to triple the payments to us farmers and let us get our profits up to the general level. The profit motive is fine in farming and ranching, but it's no substitute for profit itself. The motive is fine for planting, but nothing beats a profit at harvesting.

By the way, I don't know how I came out with this Martin County grass farm in 1964. I had most of my records written down on the inside of the door to my barn, but it fell off face down during a rain storm and I can't make heads or tails of them.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

S. he had bought a home in his native land and some cows. He predicted these would be gone in a few weeks because without work in this country he could not make enough to keep his home and cattle.

"The farmer is faced with a real problem without the bracero," Bernard Houston said as the last busload pulled out for Mexico.

He continued: "The secretary of labor is raising the price of labor and the secretary of agriculture is lowering the price of cotton."

In Martin County the average man on the street felt like the United States had just junked the best foreign program in history.

$168 Million New Telephone Construction for Texas in 1965

Continuing improvements in telephone system will make your service even more dependable and valuable

Telephone service in Texas ranks with the world's best. It always has. Even so, in 1965 Southwestern Bell will spend another $168 million to make it better still. This construction program is the biggest in history. It is necessary to provide for the growing telephone needs of Texas.

But it's more than that.

It also is an intensified effort to make even better the service you already have, whether you live in a big city, a small town, or on a farm or ranch.

Our objective is to make your telephone service more useful, dependable, convenient and valuable than ever before.

Texasans will also benefit economically from this telephone construction program. Because hundreds of individual projects reach into virtually every community served by Southwestern Bell, the economic impact will be significant and widespread.

New jobs will be created. We expect to add 500 new telephone jobs in Texas in 1965 — bringing to 25,000 the number of people on our payroll in Texas.

But more important will be the economic boost for the hundreds of Texas firms which sell supplies, services and materials to the telephone company.

Here are some of the things we'll do in 1965 to make your telephone service better

NEW STORMPROOFING

In 1965, we'll put more than 500 additional miles of telephone cable underground, because that's the safest place for it. Safe from wind, rain, hot weather, cold weather, stormy weather. This will add to the dependability of your long distance service.

DDD IMPROVEMENTS

For those customers who have Direct Distance Dialing, service will be faster and easier than ever before. Complex new testing and trouble-reporting equipment is being built into the system to help maintain the quality of transmission and quickly trace and remedy problems that might affect your service.

NEW BUILDINGS, WORK CENTERS

Southwestern Bell will erect 15 new buildings in Texas in 1965. The largest will be the new $13 million South Texas headquarters building in Houston. Other new telephone buildings will be erected in Amarillo, Midland, Dallas (two buildings), San Antonio, Beaumont, Rosenberg, Cleveland, Waco, Pasadena, and a three-building complex in northwest Houston.

Additions are planned for telephone buildings at Fort Worth, Dallas, Amarillo, Forney, Monahans and Houston.

Also, 16 new installation, repair and construction centers will be built across the state.

NEW MICROWAVE MAGIC

The magic of microwave will provide thousands of new voice ways for long distance calling in Texas this year. For example, new systems will link Sweetwater and San Angelo, Fort Worth and Waco, Houston and Beaumont. Via a network of such microwave antenna towers and transmitting stations, your phone calls are relayed from point to point with the speed of light.

We are looking ahead to another year of telephone progress in Texas in 1965:

- Your telephone service will be a better buy, dollar for dollar.
- Texasans everywhere will benefit from the surge of new dollars, created by our expansion program, into the state's economy.

Dan Saunders Now A Young Veteran

Sheriff Dan Saunders, right, confers with newly elected Dist. Atty. Wayne Burns of Big Spring.

By ERNEST WHITE
When first elected back in 1952, Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders was the youngest sheriff in Texas. But experience of 12 years has made him a 39-year-old veteran as he prepares to begin his fourth term—observing that patience and being a father confessor of the community are prime tenets of the job. A graduate of Stanton High School, the tall, handsome Saunders served in the Army Air Corps during World War II. Following his discharge, he returned to West Texas to work as a bookkeeper for Texas Electric Service Co. in Midland and The First National Bank in Stanton.

In 1949 he decided that if he ever was going to realize his ambition to be a lawman, he had better get started. Saunders joined the Texas Highway Patrol.

After three years he returned to Martin County to try his hand at politics by running for sheriff. His three bids for re-election have gone unchallenged.

On Aug. 14, 1961, a used car salesman from Seminole held up The First National Bank in Stanton. The would-be Jesse James was spotted moments later by Saunders who gave chase.

The cornered bandit shot himself to death as Saunders closed in to bring an end to his short life of crime.

But Saunders agrees the bank robbery was not the most challenging thing that has happened—"but it was the only bank robbery."

Another case involved a man who was killed in a Big Spring motel and his body dumped in a Martin County field. The remains were not found until 10 months later by a farmer while he was plowing.

Saunders traveled to Oklahoma, California and Colorado before finally tracking down the killer.

The Mabee Ranch house was hit by thieves who took more than $25,000 of possessions from the house. It took about 30 days, but Saunders and fellow officers caught the thieves.

Dan says the biggest job of his office, however, is counseling. "I try to treat everyone who walks in the door as if I were the one on the other side of the counter."

"Here in a small town you have to give everyone personal service. They expect it."

Saunders devotes many hours to his office.

Many Martin County residents will tell you Dan Saunders is the best sheriff in West Texas.

But the quiet, young sheriff says that his greatest consolation is knowing his help may have kept some youngster out of prison.

Christmas will be around a little longer this year for Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Vest, Jr. of Box 157, Stanton. They are packing for a fiesta trip to Mexico City the middle of January. Mr. Vest of Stanton Supply Corp., the local Massey-Ferguson dealer, paid his way to Mexico by his sales performance during the past year.

As part of one of the most of the major early cultures. There they will see a pageant on the Indian culture performed exclusively for them for the first time on the ruins of a once-great civilization by the famed Teatro Classico de Mexico. The tractor demonstrations will be held on the grounds of Mexico's National Agricultural College at Chapingo, some 40 miles from Mexico City.

The new Massey-Ferguson complicated industrial a r charers ever carried out, they will be airlifted into Mexico in company with 300 other dealers from more than 40 take-offs points in Canada and the United States. Each group will stay in Mexico four days and then return to their hometowns in aircraft that a few hours before delivered another 300 to attend the product demonstration.

More than 5,000 leading Massey-Ferguson dealers and sales personnel from all over North America will visit Mexico City during January and February to view a complete new line of agricultural tractors the company will introduce early in 1965.

They will visit Teotihuacan, near Mexico City, the site of tractors have been tested under field conditions throughout the world to ensure that they meet the needs of any farmer in any climate on any terrain. The new tractors are expected to extend Massey-Ferguson's worldwide tractor leadership and to increase the company's percentage of the North American market. Today, more than 1,900,000 Massey-Ferguson tractors are in use throughout the world—more than 200,000 in excess of MF's nearest competitor.

The new tractor line is another product of Massey-Ferguson's integrated worldwide research and development program, as was the new line of combines launched in 1963-64. The new tractors are a further demonstration of Massey-Ferguson's commitment to new product development which will always anticipate farmer's needs.

Reapportionment Deadline Aug. 2

A three-judge federal court has set a deadline of Aug. 2, 1965, for the Texas Legislature to reapportion on a population basis.

The court also threw out statutes fixing the present boundaries of legislative districts.

It set the new deadline despite objections of Atty. Gen.

Wagoner Carr, who pleaded for a Jan. 15, 1966, time limit. Gov. John Connally said the legislature will comply with the ruling.

"I will recommend to the next session of the Texas Legislature that it redistrict immediately," Connally said. "I have every hope and confidence that it will do so."

Before giving their decision, the judges met behind closed doors for more than an hour with lawyers of the five Democrats who filed the suit in 1963 and for state officials named as defendants. The order is expected to take power from rural lawmakers and give it to urban legislators.

Growers Vote To Keep Cotton, Tobacco Quotas

As they have done regularly in the past, growers of two types of cotton and flue-cured tobacco have voted to continue federal marketing quotas on these crops.

In grower referenda held Tuesday by the Agriculture Department, producers of upland and cotton—the major type—cast 289 (278 votes for and 11,257 against controls on the 1965 crop. This was a favorable margin of 96.3 per cent.

California was the only state in which the vote was less than the two-thirds necessary nationally to put the quotas into effect. The California percentage was 61.2 per cent. But the control program would apply in California as well as in all other upland producing states.

Growers of extra long staple cotton, a specialty type, cast 755 votes for quotas on next year's crop and 185 against for a favorable margin of 80.3 per cent.

In Texas the upland cotton totals were 26,124 for and 3,047 against.

Growers of flue-cured tobacco, the major cigarette type, cast 342,454 for and 12,567 against marketing quotas on the 1965, 1966 and 1967 crops, a favorable margin of 96.5 per cent.

Never have growers of upland cotton rejected the controls, in effect in most years since 1939. The control programs are designed to hold down production at a time when surpluses exist.

The upland cotton program for 1965 will allot 16.2 million acres among eligible farms for planting the crop. A farm marketing quota will be the amount grown in its acreage allotment. Cotton grown on excess acres would be subject to a heavy penalty tax. The 1965 program for extra of agricultural tractors, Massey-Ferguson will reveal new models of hay balers, plows, harrows, cultivators and other tractor-powered implements, as well as new industrial and construction equipment.

CORVAIR—The only rear engine American car made. Corvair Corsa Sport Coupe

You should read what the automotive magazines say about the '65 Corvair. They're wild about its ride. They think there's nothing else this side of the Atlantic that can touch its styling. They say if you haven't driven a new Corvair Corsa with a 180-hp Six Turbo-Chargaard! you just don't know what you're missing.
