A note and renewal check arrived this week from the CLINT BARRETT'S of Llano, Texas. POP has been in the VA Hospital but reports improvement. We trust his health continues to improve. The BARRETT'S have many good, loyal friends in Martin County.

LUCI JOHNSON, spirited, independent teenage daughter of the President, took her boy friend down to the ranch the past Sunday to ask her parent's permission to marry PAT NUGENT. Press reports said LADY BIRD offered her consent but PAPA GRANDE wouldn't go along. So a love-dream must go begging around the Perdenales. Perhaps LBJ wisely figured any prospective son-in-law of his ought to have a war record. NUGENT hasn't been in the armed forces and is not in now. It wouldn't look too well to set up an orange blossom wedding trail on the White House while men are dying on the jungle trails in Viet Nam.

The SMU Mustang vanquished vaunted Texas by 31-14 in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Saturday. The 10 s s was the third in a row for the Longhorns. By coincidence, the ACKERLY MUSTANGS downed the LOOP LONGHORNS 42-18 in a Friday game reeled off in Ackery. Seems as if the Longhorns all over the state—big and little—had a disastrous week end.

It is almost convention time again for the TEXAS FARM BUREAU. On November 14-17, at Hotel Adolphus, in Dallas, the Bureau will get their annual session started. In addition to regular convention activities, a highlight of the convention will be a pageant and recognition program on Tuesday night. Martin County is expected to be well represented in Dallas at convention time.

Students at Stanton High School are ready to welcome the exes back home on Friday of this week. They are all set to see that former students enjoy their visit home and the football game and the naming of the queen will be special features. A well planned program has been worked out under the personal direction of JANIE BOYD, who has given freely of her time. The staff of the local paper wishes to acknowledge the cooperation of JANIE, wife of COACH BRYAN BOYD, in getting the news about Homecoming in this issue of the paper. Our society editor, NANCY POWELL, and JANIE BOYD are sorority sisters and they worked as a team on the publicity.

JOHN LINDSEY, Republican, was elected New York's mayor in Tuesday's balloting. The youthful LINDSEY won in a three-man race in the capitol city of the Empire State, defeating LBJ-backed BEAME. It was the first time a Republican had been elected mayor in New York since LA GUARDIA. Republicans also elected mayors in Akron, Ohio, Philadelphia, and in Louisville, Kentucky.

Be sure and be in the stands when Stanton plays Tahoka here Friday. It is a district game and with the Buffs playing before a Homecoming audience, the locals are expected to leave the field winners.

VOICE: If you don't think people read this paper just make an error somewhere in some story and you'll find out fast. I have often wonder-

SHS Students Plan Homecoming Queen Will Be Announced On Friday

Homecoming activities are well under way this week at SHS. Preparations for what is probably the biggest homecoming Stanton has been host to are being made. The Stanton Buffaloes meet Tahoka on the home field Friday night.

The student body participated in special dress days sponsored by the Student Council. Monday was kid day; Tuesday, Mardi Gras day; Wednesday, dress up day; Thursday, wearing 20's day, and Friday, school colors day.

Thursday night immediately after the eighth grade football game here, there will be a bonfire and short pep rally in the lot by the Stanton High School auditorium.

Another pep rally will be held at 3:19 p.m. Friday afternoon in the High School gym. The public and exes are urged to attend.

School classes and organizations will have the first S. H. S. homecoming parade downtown at 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon. Each class will present its chosen candidate for homecoming queen on a float. Ten to 12 floats are expected to carry out the theme of welcoming the exes and supporting the football team. A first place prize of $10.00, a second place prize of $5, and a third place prize of $3.50, will be awarded to the winning floats just before the football game. Three ex-students of Stanton High School will act as judges.

The junior class will serve a chili supper in the high school cafeteria from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. The admission is 50 cents for students, and 75 cents for adults. The candidates for homecoming queen will be presented to the exes for consideration during this time. Candidates chosen by the individual classes are: Susan Brandt, senior, daughter of Mrs. Fiji Brandt. Her escort is Smitty Smith, a 1964 graduate of Stanton High. Brenda Dyson, junior, is the niece of Dallas Thompson. Her escort is Dwayne Thompson, a 1960 graduate of Stanton High. Kathy Biggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Biggs, is the sophomore candidate. Her escort is Donnie Thompson, a 1964 graduate of Stanton High. Laura Costlow, the freshman nominee, is the daughter of D. M. Costlow. Her escort is Darr Huckaby, a 1964 graduate of Stanton High. All ex-graduates of Stanton and Courtney, are urged to come to the cafeteria door during the chili supper to cast votes for homecoming queen and coming home queen. The coming home queen will be an ex-student of Courtney or Stanton.

Dear Neal:
Though I have never had the pleasure of meeting you personally, I feel that I know you fairly well through reading your editorials, and most of all, The Launching Pad. It has been many years since I have lived in the fair city of Stanton, but I still have ties there that will always make me feel that I am still a citizen. I grew up there on a farm, went through school there, played all sports and felt there was no place like "The City of Stanton." I read your editorial each week with interest and as I mentioned before "The Launching Pad" which is of great interest to me. I liked the time you mentioned that you never, never, want to leave the impression that contents of your column pleased everyone, but that it is fair. I endorse the contents therein very much, and I will say that your words of wisdom comes nearer to being the truth than most any of the other writers I have read after.

I have been a member of this school faculty since September 1941 as an assistant coach, head coach, assistant High School Principal, and am now in my 15th year as principal here where I am. I have only the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades (Latin (Continued on page 4)

Martin Voters Favor Six Amendments

Martin County voters approved six of ten amendments to the Texas Constitution in the special election held Tuesday.

The affirmative trend in the county appeared to be much better than posted over the state. Only three absentee ballots were cast here.

The amendments favored by local voters included: Number one, Number two, Number three, Number five, Number six, and Number eight. Amendments losing in Martin County included: Number four, (sometimes called the governor's amendment.) Number seven, Number nine, and Number ten. Amendment four called for the election of a governor to a four-year term. Another of the defeated amendments here would have permitted members of the Legislature to gain four-year terms.

The voter turnout in the county was light, but it was about usual for such elections in an off political year.

Skip-Row Changes Announced By U.S. Dept. Of Agriculture

Controversial changes in skip-row planting regulations for the 1966 cotton crop have been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The changes immediately brought sharp criticism from U. S. Rep. George Mahon.

Where less than four consecutive rows are left blank in skip-row planting patterns next year, a portion of the skipped rows will be charged against a grower's cotton acreage allotment.

Blank rows in two-in-one-out and two-in-two-out patterns at present aren't counted in determining a grower's compliance with his allotted acreage.

These perhaps are the two most popular skip-row planting patterns on the South Plains. What amounts to acreage penalties will be levied against growers who use these patterns next year.

New Rules Reported
The USDA announced that a two-in-one-out pattern next year will be considered 66 2/3rds per cent cotton, up for 66 2/3rds per cent this year, an increase of 30 per cent.

Crops planted two-in-two-out next year will be considered 65 per cent cotton, compared with only 50 per cent in 1965. This also is an increase of 30 per cent.

Four-in-two-out patterns next year will be considered 76 2/3rds per cent cotton. This is up from 66 2/3rds per cent this year, a gain of 15 per cent.

There is no change in the two-in-four-out pattern and four-in-four-out plantings, which now are considered 33 1/3rd and 50 per cent cotton, respectively.

Growers who skip four rows can count the blanks as diverted acres under the new cotton program and draw diverted acreage payments from the federal government on idle rows.

Reason For Changes
The USDA, which seems dead set on curbing cotton production by dastice proportions, issued the skip-row regulations to help hold down yield increases on smaller plantings under mandatory acreage cutbacks next year.

When their allowable acreages are cut, farmers have a tendency to apply more intensive farming practices on their reduced plantings, boosting output per planted acre.

A grower with a 100-acre allotment this year could spread his cotton over 200 acres in a two-in-two-out planting pattern.

He'll start out with less acreage in the first place next year because new cotton legislation requires that he cut his 1966 planting by at least 12 1/2 per cent in order to qualify for price support loans and subsidy payments.

So he'd have a maximum of only 87 1/2 acres that he could plant to cotton next year if he wanted to comply with the new federal farm program.

Spread On 66 Acres Less
And the new skip-row regulations now will mean that he could spread that "maximum" acreage over only about 134 acres if he planted the same two-in-two-out pattern.

Rep. Mahon charged that the USDA "has ignored the expressed wishes of Congress" in announcing the changes in skip-row planting regulations.

He pointed out that both the House and Senate reports on the agricultural appropriations bill, as well as the joint conference report in the measure, strongly recommended no change in skip-row regulations.

"An appropriation bill is not a vehicle for legislation," he pointed out. "And the committee under House rules could not include legislation in an appropriation bill—hence the statements in the report."

There was strong support for a provision in the omnibus farm bill to prohibit a change in skip-row regulations, but it still wasn't stout enough to get the measure included in the final version of farm legislation, Mahon said.

Mahon Raps Change
The new regulations are essentially the same as proposals of USDA issued last April. These proposals brought a storm of controversy, and they were temporarily withdrawn until the administration farm bill cleared Congress.

Law Enforcement Workshop For Officers Set Nov. 4

A unique law enforcement workshop designed to acquaint West Texas officers with the latest methods of scientific investigation and at the same time afford area merchants the opportunity of learning how to protect themselves against criminals is slated for November 4 at the Midland-Odessa Air Terminal.

The program is sponsored by the Major Crimes Committee of the Texas Police Association. Joel Tisdale, Chief of the Identification and Criminal Records Division, Texas Department of Public Safety is chairman, and Ernie Kuhnel of the Austin Police Department, is vice-chairman.

Cooperating in the West Texas program, which is part of a series of such workshops over the state, are Chief Harold Wallace, Sheriff Ed Darrell and Major Leo Gossett, Region Commander of the DPS, all of Midland, and Jess Carriger, Chief of Odessa, and Ector County Sheriff A. M.

"Slim" Gabrel of Odessa. The entire morning session beginning at 9 p.m. will be devoted to informing merchants of methods to be used to protect themselves and their establishments from criminal elements. Included in the session will be demonstrations of robbery identifications, obtaining fingerprints from objects at the crime scene and making identifications of criminals using an "Ident-a-kit" (a special kit to help produce a likeness of a criminal).

Merchants attending the workshop will get practical experience in protecting the crime scene until an officer arrives, in identifying various weapons, and in remembering descriptive details of a criminal's appearance and characteristics.

Following the demonstrations and practical experience session, a period will be devoted to enable merchants to bring up other questions for discussion.

Wink Wildcats Defeat Stanton Buffs, 36-20

Stanton lost a second District 5-A football game Friday night to the Wink Wildcats. The visitors left town with the long end of a 36-20 score.

Wink scored their first touchdown in the opening quarter and racked up a second counter in the second quarter to make the half-time tally 14-0, a lead the Bisons never threatened. Ronnie Tidwell punched over the Stanton goal line on a five-yard dive for Wink's first td.

The touchdown resulted from a blocked Buff punt.

Wink tallied a second time when Lamon Batchelor went over from a yard out.

Curtis Northcutt scored the third Wink touchdown on a short pass from Glenn Howard. Northcutt then made another counter on a 47 yard scamper. Tidwell wound up the Wink scoring with another marked through the line, with the exception of a field goal in the final frame. (Continued on page 4)

GM Profit Soars To U.S. Record

A spate of soaring earnings reports by the nation's corporations was climaxed when General Motors Corp. announced profits of $1,538,661,299 for the first nine months. It topped anything previously reported by a manufacturing concern and underscored the amazing demand by Americans for automobiles, GM's biggest product.

The huge earnings followed by one day a report by Ford Motor Co. that it made more money in the first nine months of 1965 than in any year since Ford stock was sold to the public.

Ford Monday reported income of $540,200,000 for the first nine months of the year, and set records for sales of cars, trucks and tractors.

Though its profits have lagged far behind its record years, the steel industry also showed indications Tuesday that it was participating in

Veterans Administration

(Editor's Note: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their government provides for them through Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA Office.)

Q—If a veteran is eligible for the new GI insurance, does he have to take the full $10,000 coverage?

A—No. A veteran may take as little as $1,000 worth of coverage and on up, usually in $500 steps, until the maximum of $10,000 is reached. An eligible veteran with no GI insurance at all may take as much as $10,000; others merely enough to bring their total GI insurance holding to $10,000.

Q—I was treated in a VA hospital for a period of 21 days for a service-connected disability. Am I eligible for temporary total rating for the period of hospital treatment?

A—No. The regulations providing this type total rating require continuous treatment in excess of 21 days. Thus, treatment must be continuous for a period of 22 days or more.

Q—When the VA is deducting from severance pay at the rate of 100 per cent disability per month is the money that is authorized for two dependents also being deducted from the severance pay?

A—Yes, if the disability rated by the VA is the same disability for which you were paid severance pay.

Not Known
It was a long time before the secret of making ice cream was known to the public since the products was developed by commercial ice-cream makers since the product was deigned the recipe a secret.

The product probably originated in France and introduced as "water ices" containing milk or cream. French and English cookbooks published between 1769 and 1776 refer to the product as "butter ices" or "cream ices." The term "ice cream" was first used in New York in 1777 when a confectioner advertised it.

We Defeat God's Plan For Mankind When We Allow Dishonesty, Corruption To Live

Perhaps the one great, comprehensive, all-inclusive definition of Jesus' mission and redemptive purpose is in the declaration, "I am come that they might have it more abundantly."

In that declaration, Jesus specially contracted the purpose of God, in His own mission with the purpose of others to steal and destroy.

The long course of history is one of rapine and bloodshed, but our own age has revealed evil fully as appalling. The great tragedies and evils of life are apparent.

What is not so apparent is that they have their roots of crime, even in the hearts and lives of men who are not legally criminal.

FARM REVIEW AND FORECAST

Funds spent on the screw-worm eradication program by the federal government no longer will have to be fully matched with non-federal money, thanks to action taken by Congress during the closing days of the session.

The cost of treating screw-worm outbreaks that occur in areas of the United States where the insects have already been eradicated must continue to be matched by state and private sources. However, the expense of maintaining a barrier zone along the U. S. - Mexico border to guard against reinfestation by fertile flies will be borne by the federal government.

Congress voted $2.8 million for maintenance of the barrier. It also appropriated $320,000 for an intensive survey of screwworm problems in Mexico and $1 million to cover eradication activities in Arizona and California — the only states where screwworms have not been eradicated. Of the latter amount, $600,000 will have to be matched by the two states.

Since inception of the eradication campaign in February 1962, half of the costs have been paid by the federal government, the other half by the livestock industry and state government in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The livestock industry, through the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, has raised nearly $4 million on a voluntary basis.

Now is the time for ranchmen to take a look at their native grass and determine if there is enough forage to carry the present livestock numbers throughout the winter.

According to G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist at Texas A-M University, it requires about 2,000 pounds of grass growing in the pasture to furnish sufficient forage for each animal unit per month. A 1,000 pound cow should have about 3 percent of her body weight per day of dry forage to provide necessary maintenance and reproduction.

Hoffman adds that about one half of the month's grass supply is needed for the well being of the grass plant. Some of the grass deteriorates during winter months which necessitates the feeding of additional roughage to finish out the winter. It is a good practice to feed protein concentrates and other items necessary for the animal's well being, but is usually too expensive to feed roughage.

At this time of the year, the degree of use on grass should be about 35 percent. By the time winter is over the degree of use will be about 55-60 percent. The 55-

60 percent use follows the advice of using half and leaving half for the well being of the grass plant.

The rancher who does not have enough forage to carry his livestock through the winter without buying forage has several alternatives to choose from. He can reduce livestock numbers, lease grass acreage, buy roughages, or allow the cows to lose excessive weight with the good possibility of a reduced calf crop the next year.

Ranchers are advised to develop a livestock - grazing program that will meet the requirements of the animal and forage plant. Most ranchmen should be able to develop a ranch plan without requiring too much individual assistance, according to Hoffman. He adds, however, that it requires several years after a change in grazing system is made before range improvement can be seen. Range improvement is slow even in wet years. The rancher must develop a plan to compensate for the good and bad years.

Check tax angles before deciding on whether to buy or rent, advises Mrs. Wanda Meyer, extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University. Decisions on buying or renting a building or other property, such as machinery and equipment, often depend on federal income tax consequences.

Here's a rundown of tax angles that may help you make such a decision:

If you buy a building, you acquire a capital asset and can recover the cost through depreciation deductions. If you finance it by mortgage, the interest paid is deductible. Cost of taxes, insurance, repairs and maintenance can also be deducted.

If you rent a building, the rent paid is deductible along with expenses for repairs, maintenance and taxes you may have to pay under the terms of the lease. The amount claimed as rent, however, must be actual rent — not a gift or distribution of dividends disguised as rent. If you make improvements, you can deduct depreciation for them as well as rent.

If you lease with an option to buy, you have an advantage over "straight" renting, but you may run into a tax problem. You can deduct rent — which would exceed depreciation deductions — and retain the right to buy at the same time.

This advantage can be lost if the lease is considered an installment sales contract rather than a rental contract. Solution is to keep the option price high enough, or rental payments low enough, so that for tax purposes the rent won't be treated as payment on the purchase price.

FBI Director Hoover Asset To This Nation

Editor's Note: Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover, is an asset to these United States in these days of political social and moral crisis. Here is another splendid article from Director Hoover. This message was sent to all law enforcement officials this week.)

"One concept which is wholly inconsistent with democratic processes is the totalitarian idea that the end justifies the means. In a free society sustained by respect for procedural as well as substantive rights, the 'end,' however noble, can never excuse unlawful 'means.'"

"A current move in this country advocating unlawful means has been labeled civil disobedience. This doctrine is based on the startling theory that if one does not agree with a law and believes it to be morally unjust, he may disregard it to achieve a particular objective.

"I think society, by and large, is unaware of the long-term implications of this creed, primarily because those who seek immediate and temporary solutions have obscured the future by a smoke-screen of slogans and high-sounding cliches. No matter what the goal, the fact remains that a peaceful, healthy, orderly society cannot exist, now or ever, if each individual in a democracy determines which law he is going to obey and which he is not.

"The basic question is respect for law and due process and whether dispassionate justice is to be rendered.

"To my mind, there are two frightening aspects to civil disobedience. One, sowing contempt for law and order and promoting pride in lawbreaking among the Nation's youth can only result in an acceleration of our serious crime problem. In some quarters, it already appears that the social stigma formerly attached to lawbreakers is being replaced by sympathy for their actions and an irrational hostility to law enforcement.

"Secondly, where is the line to be drawn against the snowball effect of civil disobedience? Willfully disobeying misdemeanor statutes today and committing felonies tomorrow is a logical regression from a government of law to an anarchic society.

"There is no question but that the right of dissent and the right to petition for redress of grievances are absolutely essential to the security of a free people. But the very life of liberty requires that these rights be asserted in a lawful manner. Civil disobedience and the unwillingness of many to resolve their differences by established legal means will surely lead to the destruction of the institutions which protect their freedoms.

"It is folly to hold that a utopia of individual rights will rise from the destruction of respect for law."

8,000 Jobs Open Now In Virgin Islands

The U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security and affiliated public employment offices on the U. S. mainland and in Puerto Rico are recruiting and training workers for employment in construction, hotel, and service fields in the Virgin Islands. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who announced the employment opportunity, said that training will be provided in such occupations as construction work, auto mechanic and clerk-typist. The Secretary of Labor said that action to attract more American workers to the Virgin Islands include a survey to determine wages, working conditions, housing, and transportation necessary to attract Puerto Rican and American workers.

Wirtz Names Employment Task Force

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz named a 14-member Task Force to review United States Employment Service programs. The group held its initial meeting at the Department of Labor.

Dr. George Shultz, Dean of the Graduate School of Business of the University of Chicago, has been named as chairman of the Task Force.

"The role of the United States Employment Service in many of our major manpower programs has expanded rapidly in the more than three decades since the passage of the Wagner - Peysner Act," Wirtz said in making the announcement. "The time has come to review the operations of the Employment Service and to consider what is needed to improve its operations as the front-line agency for translating manpower, education and training, and war-on-poverty policy into operational reality. With its present network of almost 2,000 local employment offices, offices, operated as a Federal-State partnership, the Employment Service reaches into the heart of every city and into rural areas as well. The Employment Service is involved in the administration of all or part of more than 20 different laws."

The new Task Force will submit its findings and recommendations to the Department of Labor on or before January 15, 1966. It will operate under a broad mandate, and other interested agencies will be asked to assist the Task Force in its review.

Skip-Row - - -

(Continued from page 1) Mahon noted that he has "steadfastly protested a ny change in skip-row practices" and declared that the new regulations "was wholly unwarranted, especially in view of the drastic changes and readjustments which must be made by farmers as a result of the new farm law.

"We already had enough farm problems," the congressman asserted, "without this additional blow.

"Fortunately," the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee added, "cotton farmers who skip as many as four rows will not be adversely affected by the new ruling.

"But in instances where less than four rows are skipped, the adverse effects generally will be felt throughout most of the Cotton Belt, even though in some areas skip-row is a recent practice and not a long-time cultural practice as in West Texas."

Practice Hikes Yields
Skip-row patterns, which increase yields per planted acre, are a widely used soil and water conservation practice on the South Plains, particularly on dryland farms and on others with limited irrigation water.

In 1964, for example, approximately 83,500 acres of cotton allotments in Hockley County were planted two-in-one-out, a practice that was used on 750 of the county's total of 1,733 farms.

And an additional 3,000 acres of cotton allotments there last year were planted in other skip-row patterns. It has been estimated that discontinuing skip-row planting practices would cut Hockley County's cotton production by about 3,000 bales.

About 80 per cent of the cotton farmers in Lynn County have been using skip-row

1957 Graduates Plan Reunion

The 1957 graduating class of Stanton High School, is planning a reunion to be held after the football game Friday night. There will be a reserved section at the game for graduates of this class.

The reunion will be held at the Cap Rock Willie Wirehand room. All graduates and their families are urged to attend.

Mrs. Harry Haislip, Mrs. Edmond Tom, and Mrs. Arthur Wilson were in Midland Wednesday for the opening performance of the La Seale Opera Company production of La Boheme.

Donald A. Johnson, PCG executive vice president, said the issuance of the new regulations is "an example of why we've been concerned about vesting so much discretionary authority in the hands of the USDA."

He said the USDA, in issuing the regulations, "openly flaunted its administrative power in direct opposition to the wishes of the law-making branch of our government, which had clearly and unmistakably urged no changes in skip-row rules."

Johnson, saying the new cotton legislation grants the secretary of agriculture far more power than any prior cotton programs, noted that many cotton leaders "have been apprehensive all along about giving the USDA such great discretion under this new law.

"Some say the secretary won't use this power to make rulings under the new cotton program that are detrimental to the growers. But his administrative edict on skip-row planting doesn't give us much consolation that this will necessarily be the case."

A lot of cotton people just don't like the idea of staking their whole cotton future on the whimsical decisions of a handful of government bureaucrats.

The Texas Employment Commission has made a survey of the cotton crop open in this area. They found that 75 per cent of the crop open and 1,369 bales ginned in Howard County through Friday. The TEC observers said they see no reason to reduce the estimate of from 40,000 to 45,000 bales in Howard.

Error On Farm Bureau Meeting

In our paper last week the article written on the Farm Bureau meeting was already written when it came to our office. An error was made in it by the writer stating that two policies were adopted by Farm Bureau group at the annual meeting.

One was correct. The one to be corrected should read like this. We support the research and promotion program of Cotton Producers Institute. We oppose any legislation that would permit compulsory check-off for this organization.

We would like to announce that Oliver Boyce is one of the elected directors of Martin County Farm Bureau. He replaces Bernard Houston, who was elected but could not serve.

HOMECOMING

We wish to take this opportunity of extending a cordial invitation to all ex-students of Stanton High School to drop in the "Downtown Student Headquarters" while home this week for the Homecoming Activities.

Some big doings have been going on all week in the student body and on the campus. Our students have expressed the spirit and enthusiasm vital to the perservation of our scholastic system. Everybody is in a relaxed mood and having a good time.

When the crowd congregates in our drug store before or after the big football game with Tahoka, we want you to be present. We want to renew old friendships and say hello to you individually.

Ike Enjoys Life At Age 75

At 75, Dwight D. Eisenhower is having a time of his life. His days are a satisfying blend of work and hobbies—writing books and speeches, conferences on national problems, painting, church activities, reading, travel, bridge, political meetings, putting around his farm visiting school, watching his grandchildren growing up.

He is a man in perpetual motion. He looks radiantly healthy. His complexion is ruddy. He walks with a quick, firm step; his aides have to look sharp to stay ahead of him when he is on a trip. The electric blue eyes—so expressive that they usually signal his mood—are bright as ever. He recently took off some weight and now stands a lean 166 pounds, five more than he weighed as a cadet at West Point 50 years ago.

His 75th birthday came October 14. He planned to spend it with his four grandchildren and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, and his "Mamie."

Last September 24, he lectured and answered questions at a meeting of the National War College in Washington. An officer said, "This is a memorable occasion." Eisenhower smiled quietly and said, "It is for me, too. Ten years ago today, I had my heart attack."

He still follows the low-fat diet his doctors prescribed at the time, but he says he is no "extremist" about it. He hasn't smoked since March 21, 1949.

After the 1955 illness, Eisenhower underwent an operation for ileitis. Then, on Nov. 25, 1957, he suffered a minor stroke.

Apart from politics, Eisenhower has been occupied, with little respite in the last five years, writing his memoirs. The first book, "Crusade in Europe," dealt with World War II. Next came "Mandate for Change," about his first term in the White House. Recently, he finished "Waging Peace," the account of his second term.

He is chairman of the People-to-People program, which he originated while he was president, and of the English Speaking Union.

From time to time, a representative of the Central Intelligence Agency comes up from Washington to give him a briefing.

From time to time also, President Johnson telephones to consult with Eisenhower. He sometimes starts a painting, leaves it to begin another and another, and then goes back to the first one.

At 75, he finds life good.

Duty Of A Doctor

Imagine what would happen if a doctor, awakened by urgent knocking at the front door of his home at midnight, refused to give medical aid to an auto accident victim who later bled to death on his doorstep.

In such a very unlikely event the cries of indignation would ring out mightily. The doctor's indifference would outrage both the ethics of medicine and the morals of religion.

Yet, the doctor would not be acting unlawfully. For a doctor has no legal duty to "take all comers." Unless he has some special, pre-existing relationship with an individual patient, he has the right to turn him down. For various reasons, part historical, part practical, our law does not ordinarily require a doctor (or anyone else, either) to lend a helping hand to the stranger in distress.

But once a doctor does take over, his legal position changes. From then on, he owes the patient an affirmative duty to be diligent.

Consider this case: A physician applied a cast to the fractured arm of an elderly woman patient, who immediately complained that the cast was too tight. Despite continuing complaints, the physician did not split the cast. He then left the country for a two-week vacation trip without arranging

Texas Farm Bureau Sets Date For Policy Meeting

Policies to guide the Texas Farm Bureau next year will be decided upon at the organization's 32nd annual meeting in Dallas Nov. 14-17 at the Adolphus Hotel. Delegates will also adopt recommendations for policies of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Some 2,000 persons, including over 800 voting delegates representing 201 organized county Farm Bureaus, are expected to attend, according to C. H. DeVaney, Waco, president of the 92,552-member organization. Registration will begin Sunday, Nov. 14, at 2 p.m. in the Adolphus. The convention will be adjourned at the close of the business session Nov. 17.

Guest speakers on the morning of Nov. 16 include U. S. Senator John Tower, Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr, and George Popu, Indianapolis, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau, second largest state Farm Bureau in the nation. President DeVaney will deliver his annual address Monday morning, Nov. 16, and Edwin Sanderson, Paris, secretary-treasurer, also will make his report to the members that morning.

A pageant and Recognition program Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, at the Dallas Memorial Auditorium Theater replaces the traditional banquet. Another highlight of the convention, also in the Auditorium Theater, will be the Farm Bureau Queen Contest Monday evening in which 13 district finalists will com-

'Grasshoppers Plaguing Area!'

When that caption heads a news story in your local newspaper let it be a tip to you to get out the old minnow seine or fish-landing net and round you up a batch of "hoppers."

It means the fish will go for hoppers. In other words, the time to use insects as bait is when the insects are plentiful. This is true whether it's fly season, bug season, or any kind of insect season—including that period immediately following a rain when worms are driven out of the holes.

Fish are aware of these conditions. Therefore, they are less suspect of live bait or similarly-looking artificials.

All of which means—fish with artificial or live crickets when crickets are jumping about. Ditto for hoppers, hellgramites, horseflies—even field mice, bugs of all types, etc.

Fish aren't dumb. Not by any long shot! You can outsmart them by paying close attention to nature.

Expert fishermen pay close attention to the barometer, to wind velocity, bad and good weather conditions. They fish in keeping with seasons. They fish at night when the weather is hot. They fish during the daylight hours when the weather is cool. They check the temperature of the water to determine how deep to fish.

Yep, to the expert fisherman, angling is a science. They approach it scientifically. Even psychologically. In fact, sometimes superstitiously.

But they catch fish when you and I don't. So let's not argue with them. In fact, maybe we should adopt some of their traits. Then perhaps we too can become successful fishermen.

Outdoor Tips

Sponged Steelhead
Steelheaders on the west coast say a red sponge, cut and formed in the shape of a salmon egg cluster works almost as well as the real thing.

Down Bird

Down Deer
Similarly when approaching a down deer, the thing to watch is his tail. If there is any life in him, it will show in a tail switch.

No-Break Flashlight
If your flashlight gets rough treatment in a tackle or work box, protect it this way: Slit a kid's hollow rubber ball and slip it over the head.

Big Green Tree
Deer slipping out or in thick cover will usually use the biggest thickest tree to come by. Station yourself accordingly opening day.

Abilene Office Classes 2,340 Bales Cotton

The Abilene classing office of the Consumer and Marketing Service last week handled samples from 2,340 bales ginned in Howard, Martin, Midland and Glasscock counties.

The office processed 17,698 bales, but carried over 11,000 samples. (This is due to large-scale defoliation from Abilene south to San Angelo, putting many gins on a 24-hour basis). Total for the season is 59,518 bales.

Samples from this area showed 35 per cent white (a drop of 20 percentage points for the week), 61 per cent light spotted, 5 per cent spotted.

Junior Girl Scout Meeting

The Junior Girl Scouts met Nov. 1, at 3:30 p.m. in the basement of the Methodist Church. Officers were elected, and they are: Deborah Turner, reporter; Judy Henley, scribe; Judy Costlow, treasurer. Patrol leaders are: Deborah Turner, and Alice Baker. Assistant leaders are: Judy Costlow, and Debra Cook. The names chosen for patrols are: "The Cardinals," and "The Robins."

Those present were: Judy

Costlow, Alice Baker, Roselyn Louder, Kathy Decker, Judy Henley, Debra Cook, Deborah Turner, and Vicki Graves, and the leaders: Mrs. Lee Graves, and Mrs. Alton Turner.

For another physician to care for the patient. As a result, she suffered partial paralysis of her arm.

For the physician's negligence and abandonment of the patient, a court later held him liable for damages.

On the other hand, even after a doctor takes a case, his duty to be attentive has reasonable, commonsense limits.

For instance: A woman's finger became so badly infected that it had to be amputated. Suing her doctor, she complained that for more than a week he had been unavailable to his patients.

But in court, it turned out that the doctor had taken time off only because his own father had died. It also turned out that he had given the woman the name of a competent substitute, whom she had simply refused to see.

The court decided that, in these circumstances, the doctor had properly fulfilled whatever duty he owed. As one judge commented: "After all, doctors are human."

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

WHEN a guy gets sick and has to spend time immobilized he has time to pull out old papers and try and figure out why he placed those particular things there in the first place. It is a nice experience. From my buried files, I learned that GEN. DOUGLAS McARTHUR received the greatest ovation in a ticker-tape parade ever accorded an American hero. Seven and one-half million persons turned out in New York City to salute the soldier of the long gray line. They were there on that day fifteen years ago to pay tribute to the patriot who had campaigned in Samar, St. Mihael Bataan, Corregidor, Inchon, and a thousand campfires on a hundred battlefields. This was our country at its best! This was the U. S. before the word mark was heard or talked about outside the military. This was our heritage and our nation before a strange thinking Supreme Court and a thing called glibly and loosely—"The Great Society" made an entry on the American scene. With pains in our national economy—with pains plaguing those advocates of the poverty program — with pains in the Chief's belly and back—what can you expect Americans?

A college classmate of mine dropped by the desk the other day. And when I say college classmate, I can claim them from so many institutions of higher learning that I just remain standing when I hear a college song medley. This old boy started swapping bygone experiences and it appears his record for being, as we call it, "snake-bit", bannered ours. Just to indicate how much tough luck has dogged his ambitions we jotted down a few he passed along. The old college pal of mine bought an Edsel, purchased two tickets to a play on Broadway in New York that flashed out and sold some stock in the panic scare of awhile back that could have made him rich. He also bet on NIXON, GOLDWATER, SONNY LISTON, the METS, the MINNESOTA TWINS, TEXAS UNIVERSITY, and bought some stock in a fall-out shelter company. How about that?

WE all remember very vividly the fallout shelter panic of recent vintage. A lot of city dwellers buried such shelters in their back yards. Some cost as high as $5,000. Today we still have the Berlin Wall, Castro in Cuba, and the fallout shelters. The shelters are being used in some cases as playrooms, guest rooms, caves, dens, gadget shops, wine cellars, and storage place. Your writer never built a bomb shelter, but if we had joined the parade of the panic people we would be using our underground hideout as a place to "get away from it all and listen to the grass roots grow."

IT is little wonder that the meat loaf is over-cooked, the steak dry and tough, the chili sold, and the over-perked coffee tasteless at noontime these days in some Martin County households. The girls are being educated on how to "give their husbands thunder and win" by a return of that old tear-jerker, "Divorce Court." The televising of that mess of misery, mistakes, and male-mauling, is enough to make a man want to get his pineapple kit and head back behind the bamboo curtain. Daily life is too full of problems, worries, tragedies and heartaches, to have a diet of that blasted junk served up at mealtime. If we must have that type of slush slammed down our throats why not scheduled the program at sun-up so the breadwinners, the bacon-buying husbands can be there to defend their rights against the California lawyers?

SMART businessmen, executives, and administrators always include good public relations in their pattern of success. It is important to maintain good relations with those individuals and institutions in the community who are constantly contributing something to the betterment of the area they serve. To fight with long established firms with recognized awards for public service is not intelligent producer. That is basically true when the only reason for non-cooperation revolves around personal likes or dislikes.

LEMER LONG as assumed active management of the Magnolia Service Station on Front Street in Stanton. He would welcome a visit from his friends. LONG also advised the press this week that he had secured the services of RICHARD DOGGETT who will assist at the LONG MOTOR & EQUIPMENT firm in Stanton. We are happy to welcome RICHARD to the business circle. We also extend greetings to HERBERT SHIPP who is back home from Andrews and is now associated with FRANKLIN'S GARAGE in Stanton. The SHIPPS moved back home a few days ago.

OUR old friend, DR. JIM SHY, is seeking medical treatment up in Missouri. DOC SHY has been plagued with back trouble for sometime. One of his associates, DR. There's "no rest for the weary."

Cotton farmers, still dazed from passage of a cotton program sharply different from any seen before, were hit Monday of this week by the imposition of micronaire premiums and discounts on government loan cotton.

Then, as if these weren't enough, here comes the Secretary of Agriculture with the third blow. On Wednesday he announced arbitrary changes in skip-row planting regulations that will seriously hamper many producer operations.

Micronaire, or fiber fineness, is a fiber quality factor useful in determining spinning potential. Mill men and the trade have used "mike" readings to adjust cotton prices for some time. And this being the case, Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., said: "Cotton farmers here and elsewhere generally find little or no basis for criticizing micronaire premiums and discounts on cotton that goes into the loan."

"Even so," Johnson said, "High Plains farmers do have a legitimate gripe. The premiums and discounts were injected into the program just as the High Plains is beginning harvest operations while most of the cotton from other areas is already sold or in the loan."

The following schedule will apply to cotton entering the loan after October 31 unless the cotton was classed prior to November 1 without a micronaire reading:

2.6 mike and below	300 point discount
2.7 to 2.9	165 point discount
3.0 to 3.2	60 point discount
3.3 to 3.5	no discount or premium
3.6 to 4.8	14 point premium
4.9 to 5.1	no premium or discount
5.2 to 5.4	15 point discount
5.5 and above	50 point discount

The effect of these premiums and discounts will vary from farm to farm. But looking at the 1964 High Plains crop gives some idea of the over all effect.

That year was a good year for micronaire on the Plains and the total loss to farmers would have come to about $400,000 in round figures, or about 1.5% of the gross lint value of the crop.

Plains cotton that miked 2.6 and below—"wasties"—came to about 40,000 bales. Under the new schedule of premiums and discounts this cotton would have carried a 300 point discount ($15 per bale) instead of the 400 points ($20 per bale) actually lost last year for a net gain of $200,000.

Cotton in the 2.7 to 2.9 range came to 104,000 bales and the 165 point discount ($8.25 per bale) would have cost farmers $858,000.

Cotton which miked 3.0 to 3.2 was approximately 180,000 bales. This would have carried a 60 point discount ($3.00 per bale) for a loss of $540,000.

In the 3.3 to 3.5 range the High Plains produced 308,000 bales which would have carried neither premium nor discount.

By far the biggest percentage of cotton fell in the 2.6 to 4.8 mike range and would have qualified for a premium of 14 points (70 cents a bale). There were about 1,154,000 bales in this class which would have netted producers a gain of $807,800.

Again in an event bracket, 4.9 to 5.1, were about 35,000 bales.

Less than one-half of one percent of our cotton miked into the discount range above 5.2.

These are only loan values, without taking into account any premiums over the loan which may be paid by the trade. Some observers even felt that the added marketability of the cotton this year, which again promises to be a good year for micronaire, will more than offset any losses.

Of far greater import to the High Plains were the changes made in skip-row planting regulations. These in effect levy acreage penalties on farmers who use skip-row patterns leaving less than four blank rows between rows of cotton.

Measurements of cotton acreage planted to the various skip-row patterns for 1966 and a comparison with this year's measuring method is shown in the table below:

Planting Pattern	Charged As Cotton Charged As Cotton
	This Year	In 1966
2 rows cotton, 1 blank	66 2/3 percent	86 2/3 percent
2 rows cotton, 2 blank	50 percent	65 percent
4 rows cotton, 2 blank	66 2/3 percent	76 2/3 percent
4 rows cotton, 4 blank	50 percent	50 percent
2 rows cotton, 4 blank	33 1/3 percent	33 1/3 percent

It will be noted that the patterns which involve skipping four rows were not changed from present methods. But the most widely used planting systems on the Plains have been two in-one out and two in-two out.

For producers whose moisture conditions require that they plant in one of these patterns the change simply means from 18 to 23 percent reduction in the land on which they can plant their allotments.

As an example, a farmer with a 100 acre cotton allotment this year could plant two in-one out and scatter his cotton over 150 acres of land. Next year if he utilized the same system he could only cover 115.5 acres with the same allotment—a 23 percent cut.

With a two in-two out pattern, he could have planted a 100 acre allotment on 200 acres this year. In 1966, using the same pattern, he will have to stop at 153.8 acres—18.1 percent less.

J. D. Smith, President of Plains Cotton Growers has pointed out that the simplest way to figure out how much land a given allotment may cover is to multiply by a factor. Two in-one out patterns will require multiplying the farmers acreage allotment by 1.15. Two in-two out would call for multiplying the allotment by 1.30.

Different conditions on individual farms and different areas of the High Plains make it impossible to calculate the economic effect to the area in dollars and cents.

Farmers without sufficient irrigation water or who farm dryland may decide to plant skip-row in spite of the acreage penalty. This will reduce total production through what amounts to an acreage cut.

Producers who have sufficient water may abandon skip-row planting and both quantity and quality of production may be hurt to some extent.

Either way, farm income and the area economy will suffer. And Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., representing High Plains cotton producers has vigorously protested the move.

Civil Rights Talk Slated For Midland

The Honorable John H. Roussetot, former Congressman from California and presently Western District Governor of The John Birch Society, will speak on civil rights at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 10, at Midland Community Theatre. The title of his speech is "Civil Rights Communists Betrayal of a Good Cause."

It is Roussetot's contention that communists plan to use civil rights legislation now under consideration in Congress to advance their own ends. He has stated, "The Communists have a long, clear record of using civil rights to bring about civil disorder, to pit American against American," Roussetot will document this statement.

In a speech delivered Oct. 3, 1963, in Pasadena, California, at the Thirty-second annual Youth Banquet of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce, Roussetot said, "The civil rights of all citizens must be protected: however, the protection of those rights under the United States Constitution, is a basic responsibility of local and state governments. The Administration has moved heaven and earth to make it virtually impossible for local and state governments to exercise this responsibility."

"I would never condone denying a citizen the use of public facilities, but privately owned property and facilities are another matter. Certainly, a person has the right to determine how his property is to be used and by whom, provided what he does with it is not contrary to established law."

Since January 1, 1963, Roussetot has supervised activities of The John Birch Society in Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada, and Arizona.

Kindergarten Students Honored

Fay Smithson's Kindergarten students were honored with a Halloween party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Smithson, 507 N. St. Benedict Thursday morning at 10 a.m.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. George Hamilton and Mrs. T. B. Stewart. Mrs. Prentiss Bristow made pictures of the group for the Kindergarten statement:

"Over a period of many months along with a number of other members, farmers and farm organization, I had steadily protested any change in skip-row practices. The proposed change is wholly unwarranted, especially in view of the drastic changes and readjustments which must be made by farmers as a result of the new farm law. We already had enough farm problems without this additional blow."

Seems he agrees with us there's "no rest for the weary."

Most people complain or say that they cannot find time to do the reading they should or want to. Sometimes we are guilty of wasting much of the time we do have for reading.

If you are losing the battle of the printed page, here are some tips to help you hold your own:

First, screen your reading matter before you sit down to read. Decide what is urgent, what can be deferred and what can be tossed in the waste basket. Second, learn to pinpoint information which is useful and skim over what isn't. Third, set apart times which can be read in odd moments. And finally, avoid the trap of "habit reading."

Check the material you customarily read each month to see if you aren't wasting time on items of no value to you. And remember that, unless you have a photographic memory, you can't use your mind for a filing cabinet. Make a practice of really filing useful information in folders where they will be accessible when you need them.

After all, an expert is only a man who knows where to look things up.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt, Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry, University of Wisconsin

"One Man's Meat"

Within limits, all animal life has the same nutritional requirements as to protein, energy, minerals, and vitamins. But "within" those limits there may be wide differences.

The mineral copper is a case in point. What is meant for one class of animals may actually be poison for another.

Hogs do not merely tolerate but seem to require amounts of copper that would kill another kind of animal. Nutritionists consider 10 parts copper per million parts of feed for every million parts of feed for swine. This does not differ greatly from the copper requirement of cattle and sheep.

But in different countries of Europe, hogs have been fed some 250 parts copper per million parts of feed, and it resulted in increased rate and economy of gains. These increases compared with the results of feeding effective antibiotics.

It is always reassuring to have results checked in our own country under our own conditions. And what are the results? At the Iowa Experiment Station where several hundred pigs were used in these tests, the addition of 125 or 250 parts copper to 1 million parts of feed (0.05 and 0.10%) caused significant improvement in gains and feed utilization by 2 to 3-week-old pigs, fed for varying lengths of time.

Question: Do modern hog and poultry rations require more salt than the older rations?

Answer: Yes, partly because soybean meal or other plant proteins that contain no salt balance the rations. Meat scraps, fish meal, tankage, and skimmilk that were fed with older rations actually provided some salt of their own.
