By NEAL ESTES

We have had a steady week-end diet of the JOHNSON daughters for sometime now. LYNDA BIRD, eyes flashing and voice snapping, denied a report from Houston that she would marry in the White House before Christmas. GEORGE HARRISON, the service-dodging Hollywood "soldier" was reported to be the intended groom. Now if LUCI will just jilt PAT and call off that scheduled August wedding, the girls can start all over again. Apparently GEORGE AND PAT are both going to be needed in Viet Nam before the struggle is over and the presidential daughters are needed around Washington to add color to the scene there on the Potomac.

Federal housing officials reportedly will approve this week a $225 million plan to provide cheap bus service for poverty-stricken residents of Watts. No doubt, the residents will need a convenient way to get to and from riots. And apparently the IWW's are going to ride instead of walking in the next march. I suppose they plan to sing and shout "police brutality" from the bus windows.

MRS. GEORGE WALLACE won the nomination for the governorship in Alabama over strong opposition. Her victory was comparable to the time MA FERGUSON was chosen Texas' chief executive after her husband was disqualified. Or in more recent times, her Democratic nomination could be likened to the victory of W. LEE O'DANIEL who paced a field of 11 candidates once and won without a run-off. Regardless of anyone's feelings about the election in Alabama, there is one thing many used to frown on. This business of the federal government sending individuals into a sovereign state at election time stinks. They claim in Washington they sent the snoopers to Alabama to watch. It's as GOV. WALLACE said: "Whose gonna watch them?" The scraggy Alabama governor also pointed out the facts that elections had been "stolen in Chicago but never in his home state." The cloud that covered that close race for the presidency in 1960 really was a bell-ringer. There are people today not yet satisfied about that one. In the future let us hope the feds keep out of our state elections.

The commentators on NBC Wednesday morning were pitiful. In order to avoid the election in Alabama they put on a dry program about Calcutta in India. Those diehards can't come to realize that American sentiment and thinking is swinging back to southern-type views every day. So much crash, throat-packing, socialistic legislation has been hurried into law by the administration that some people have just recently found out how totally unworkable most of it is. People are tired of crash programs, money spending programs, increased taxes, higher living costs, big bond issues, and federal boondoggling in waste of public money in general.

Lions Listen To Water Man Here Tuesday

Stanton Lions met in regular session at Belvue Restaurant Tuesday noon. Lion Bob Cain presided.

Guests present were O. B. Larimer and Jack Posey of Midland; Max Fitzhugh of Big Spring; Bill Clements of Franklin, Texas; J. C. Sale and Mayor Stanley Wheeler.

Lion Cliff Hazlewood introduced O. H. Ivy, general manager of the Colorado River Water District, and Pascal Odom, engineer for the same organization. Ivy directed an informal discussion of the West Texas water problem and delivered a report on the progress being accomplished by his organization.

The speaker said that present water district has 225 miles of pipe line carrying 11.5 billion gallons of water during the month of April to Odessa, Big Spring, and Snyder.

Still another line carries 11 million gallons daily to the oil field south of Big Spring, which is used for secondary recovery of oil in Coke County. In addition 350 million gallons per month, from October through March, are injected in the Martin County wells.

This latter action is an effort to prolong the life of our underground water supply. The injected water is chlorinated at time of injection and is ready for human consumption when taken from well.

Mrs. Keaton Will Attend WPCA School

Mary Belle Keaton will represent the Western Production Credit Association at a Secretary Receptionist School in Houston on May 9-10. The school is sponsored by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston and will be conducted by faculty members of the University of Houston. Subjects to be covered during the two-day school are office procedures, working with people, public relations, and communications.

The school is designed to help each association do a better job of serving its members.

Some 60 secretaries, stenographers, and other office personnel will attend from other production credit associations.

The Western Production Credit Association provides member farmers and ranchers with dependable credit and special credit counseling service in Martin, Howard, Midland, Upton, Reagan, Glasscock, Crane, Andrews, Loving, Ward, Winkler and Ector Counties.

Connally Oil Co. Inc. of Abilene No. 6-B Jim Tom, five miles southeast of Stanton has been completed from the 3,200-foot zone in the multipay Gordon Street (Wolfcamp) field of Martin County.

On the 24-hour potential it pumped 83 barrels of 41-gravity oil with gas-oil ratio of 250-1 from perforations between 8,488 and 8,890 feet, which had been injected with 10,000 gallons of acid.

The new well, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 32, block 35, T-1-S, T&P survey, drilled to 9,877 feet on a 9,900-foot contract. It set 4 1/2 - inch casing at the total depth.

Pan American Petroleum Co., No. 1 Elma L. Slaughter, re-entry wildcat 11 miles north of Leonrah, which is scheduled to clean out to 11,000 feet to try for production in the Strawn, had drilled out cement plugs to 4,051 feet and was continuing to go deeper.

Located 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 77, Block B. Bauer & Cocker survey, the venture is a workover of a former 12,075-foot wildcat failure originally drilled by Shell Oil Co. in May, 1952. There is no nearby production.

Mahon To Appear Before House Interior Committee

On May 10th Representative George Mahon will appear before the House Committee on Interior to press for inclusion of the High Plains of Texas in a proposed study of the possibility of supplementing the water resources of the southwestern United States with water from the Pacific Northwest. The committee will be conducting hearings on legislation dealing with this subject.

Congressman Mahon explained that a bill is pending in Congress which provides for a study of the feasibility of transporting surplus water from the Columbia River in the Pacific Northwest to the Colorado River, which supplies water to several states, including Arizona and California. "A study of this type is necessary," Mahon said, "because the river's water flow is not adequate to meet fully the present needs of this southwestern area, and there is alarm as to how long-range needs can be met. This has triggered the strong demand in the Arizona-California area for the study. "As the bill is now written, our area would not be included in this study, but there has been a well supported move from people in the High Plains of Texas to include our area, and I am working toward this objective. For many years I have been concerned, as have others in West Texas, with the need for expanding our water resources. Economic growth in the High Plains, as well as in many other areas of our nation, depends in large part upon the securing of an assured water supply. We must seek to explore every avenue of approach to this vital problem, and we, therefore, should be included in this study. For this reason, I am appearing before the Interior Committee to urge our inclusion."

Mahon pointed out that there is sharp opposition to the inclusion of the High Plains. For various reasons the seven states most directly associated with the Colorado River oppose a broadening of the study. Many officials from the Pacific Northwest oppose the study for any of the southwestern area, the Congressman said. "They say that if industry in the Southwest needs water, then industry should move to the Northwest, where the water is. Officials also want to be assured that the transportation of such surplus waters will not ultimately create a water shortage for them." He also pointed out that some Interior Department officials are skeptical about the participation (Continued on page 5)

Positive Thinking Helps Make 'Good Life'

What is the conception of the good life, the best life of all, as we see it forth and exemplified in the teachings and example of Jesus?

Though there are profound and striking exceptions, there have been many followers of Jesus who inspired by Him, have lived lives of conspicuous devotion and service. In our time there have been men like Father Damien of Molokai, and Sir Wilfred Grenfell of Labrador; women like Jane Adams of Chicago.

And their name, in spite of all the shortcomings of professed Christians, has been legion: for many unknown to fame have not been unknown to God for their sincerity and goodness.

But in general the emphasis in historic Christianity and the church has been negative, rather than positive. It has been upon sin, rather than upon the great, positive expressions and acts of righteousness and truth.

Philosopher Claims Cities Have Outsmarted Farmers On Best Way To Get Federal Aid

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw seems impressed by the way cities are seeking Federal aid.)

Dear editor: Now that cities have stopped denouncing farmers for getting Federal subsidies, which occurred about the same time the cities started getting some themselves, I was pleased to read an item I ran across in a newspaper last night.

According to it, an official in a big city has come out with a proposal, I could kick myself for not thinking up years ago. His idea is that, since the Federal government wants to help the cities out financially, and apparently every city in the nation needs help, or will take it, which is nearly the same thing, once they get used to it, the best way to handle the distribution most efficiently is to "provide a lump sum to every city based on population," and then — and here's the kicker — "let these amounts be without strings for the cities to use in any manner they deem best in their local wisdom."

Why didn't us farmers think that up? It's one thing to get a check from the government, but invariably there's a bunch of rules and regulations tied to it. You've got to plant this much, or you can't plant that much, or you've got to keep the weeds off the un-used part, etc.

How would Washington know better than I what ought to be done out here on this Martin County grass farm? Always insisting on some kind of bureaucratic interference. Then coming around to make sure you've complied.

Depend on the cities to outsmart us.

Of course, it should have been done a long time ago, the sensible way is to just turn the money over, whether it's a city or a farm, and let everybody work out his own problems without any outside advice.

The next time us farmers need a new farm program, if we're smart we'll get somebody in town to help us write it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Keeping kitchen utensils, walls and woodwork bright and new looking is a breeze when you cook the flameless electric way. There's no fuel grime to scour or scrub because electric heat is pure radiant energy . . . as clean as sunshine itself. There are no by-products of combustion from electric heat. And the flameless electric oven requires no oxygen to operate, so there's no flow of air into and out of it, carrying cooking vapors into your kitchen. Spending less time at the tiresome chore of kitchen clean-up is one of the many reasons why you'll just love flameless electric cooking.

an invitation for support from Herbert Jones

HERBERT JONES

Residents of Precinct Two, Martin County, join thousands of other Texans in casting ballots for their respective political choices Saturday, May 7.

As a candidate for a place on the commissioner's court, I have attempted to see, visit briefly with, and talk with as many precinct residents as possible. I realize that there are some I have not been able to contact. This final appeal in the paper for support and consideration at the polls will be more than appreciated. I promise only one thing—I'll do the best I can as a member of the court. I entered the race after talking only with my wife about my desire to serve in public office. I have no obligations to fulfill for any group or individual. I have paid for the small expense incurred in the campaign out of my own funds.

For those of you living in precinct two I would like to say that I am the son of the late Jack Jones and my mother resides in Stanton. I am married and the father of three boys, all of school age. I have always loved Martin County and I will continue to work for the advancement of this community, win or lose. But I trust that my friends, the old ones, and the new ones, will put their confidence of faith and trust in me on election day. I will pay back their support in service and devotion to duty incumbent of any member of our county court. Your help will be humbly appreciated on Saturday, May 7. Thank you all again for the many words of encouragement expressed in person to me during this campaign.

Howard County Junior College Scholarships

A scholarship program to help worthy students attend Howard County Junior College was initiated by Cap Rock Electric Cooperative in 1957. Since that time, 18 students from 10 different communities have benefitted from the program.

One boy and one girl receive scholarships each year. Each scholarship pays for tuition, fees and books for two semesters. Recipients may be first or second year students at the college, and they may major in any course of study they choose.

Any students who need financial assistance to attend college and whose home is served by the lines of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative may apply for a scholarship. Application forms are available at the Cooperative office in Stanton and at the office of the principal in most area high schools.

August 10 is the final date for applying for the scholarships to be given for the 1966-67 school year. The Scholarship Committee of Howard County Junior College selects the winners.

Roosevelt, Churchill Had Unpublicized Heart Attacks

president appears a very sick man. I give him only a few months to live." Roosevelt died two months later.

In a diary entry dated Feb. 7 at Yalta, Moran wrote: "The day before we left England I received a letter from Dr. Roger Lee of Boston, who had been president of the American College of Physicians and also of the American Medical Association.

"He wrote: 'Roosevelt had heart failure eight months ago. There are, of course, degrees of congestive failure, but Roosevelt had enlargement of his liver and was puffy. He was irascible and became very irritable if he had to concentrate. He was, too, sleeping badly.'"

Dr. Lee died last October. Of Churchill's heart attack, Moran says it occurred while he was trying to open a sticky bedroom window in the White House on a hot night. He says Churchill reported he became short of breath and left a pain over his heart which went down his arm.

Moran said that after examining Churchill he had no doubt he had suffered "coronary insufficiency."

He did not tell anyone, he says, because he felt the news would be "disastrous" to the war effort. He told Churchill only that he had been overdoing things and should take it easy.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Helping Hand

Has a bus driver barked at you lately? Has a trolley conductor been rude? Complain to the company or write to your newspaper - but don't sue. Bad manners that merely ruffle your feelings are not enough grounds for a lawsuit.

But when bad manners also menace your safety, then the law is concerned indeed. Suppose you need a helping hand getting into or out of a public conveyance. You are entitled to have that helping hand, not just as a matter of courtesy but also as a matter of law.

Consider this case: A young mother, carrying a suitcase, a bundle, and a baby, started to descend the steps of a train. Although two railroad employees saw her struggling, they made no move to help. She fell, suffered injuries, and - later - collected damages from the railroad.

"Where personal assistance is seen to be needed," said the court, "duty demands it be rendered."

Not only the condition of the passenger but also the condition of the stopping place may create a duty of assistance. Thus, a taxicab passenger won a court cast partly because the driver let her off - unaided - at a place where the pavement was broken up. Furthermore, help that is given must be given with care. When a trolley passenger missed a department car, the conductor reached down and seized his arm. For 100 feet he dragged the reluctant man along. When the conductor finally let go, the man hit the ground with a thud. A court held the company liable.

On the other hand, you cannot expect help if your need is not evident. A woman with an arthritic knee, who stumbled while entering a bus, failed to win damages from the company. The court noted that her handicap was not obvious to the bus driver - and that she neglected to ask him for aid.

In short, while the traveling public is entitled to a decent regard for its safety, there are limits. One woman, complaining that a trolley conductor didn't help her alight, based her claim on the undeniable fact that she was fat.

But the court turned her down with this comment: "The mere fact that a woman weighs over 200 pounds cannot make it the duty of the conductor to drop all other duties and help her get off."

Mahon - - -

(Continued from page 1) of Texas in the study, claiming that the water would have to be brought over the Rocky Mountains and that the expense would be prohibitive.

"The fact remains," Mahon said, "in spite of these protestations, that the underground water table in the Phoenix - Tucson area is receding and that area is confronted with a growing water problem, which must be solved. The water table is also receding in the High Plains of Texas, and many believe, as I do, that over the long pull we must find a way to bring surface water from outside the area to meet our expanding needs. Not only does the Southwest need water for its emerging industry, but it also must have water for agricultural purposes. It may be that transporting water from the Columbia to the Colorado and from there to Texas is not the answer, but I feel we should at least have the opportunity to determine the feasibility of the idea."

Representative Mahon also enumerated other ideas which present possible solutions to the problem. He explained that a number of years ago he tried unsuccessfully to have a study made of the possibility of bringing water from the Missouri River basin to the Texas plains. "I still believe that an even better source would be the Mississippi River, which is about 600 mile from the High Plains.

"Last year I secured an appropriation of $200,000 for the purpose of studying a proposal to staltstep water up the Colorado River of Texas to the West Texas area. This plan is dependent upon linking together the various river basins of Texas near the Gulf and utilizing the surplus water to meet needs in the downstream and upstream areas." Mahon said that this year $155,000 has been requested to continue this study and to broaden it to include the possibility of bringing water to the Rio Grande from East Texas by way of the coastal canal, thereby freeing water on the upper Rio Grande for use in West Texas.

In connection with our water requirements, the Congressman emphasized that the desalinization of water from the Gulf of Mexico should not be ruled out. "In my opinion it is most likely that within the foreseeable future a way will be found to desalt water at a cost that will make it feasible to use the process in meeting commercial water needs."

In addition, he pointed out that the proposal of the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA), which visualizes bringing huge quantities of water from Canada and Alaska to certain parts of the United States and Mexico, may offer opportunities for water import to the High Plains. It appears, however, that this potential is many years ahead.

"We are far from a solution as yet," Mahon stated, "but there are many possibilities, and I believe that if we continue to explore fully the various avenues open to us, we will eventually find a way to fulfill our needs and to ensure the growth and progress of our area. I shall continue to support and to press for serious consideration of all possible solutions to this vital and important problem."

Mrs. Wallace Wins Easily In Alabama

Mrs. George C. (Lurline) Wallace, 39 - year - old pretty wife of Alabama's governor, won the Democratic nomination to succeed her husband in office by a landslide vote in Tuesday's election.

The election results were unprecedented in the home state of Lady Bird Johnson. Mrs. Wallace smashed integrationist factions and overcame her closest opponent, Atty. General Richmond Flowers, who openly courted and won most of the state's new negro voters. Former Congressman Carl Elliott was a distant third in the race.

Mrs. Wallace, mother of four, will be the third woman in the nation if she wins in November over a Republican opponent and this she is expected to do. But both Mrs. Wallace and Gov. Wallace made it clear that the government would still be headed by him. They promised to continue Wallace's bitter fight against segregation and some of the federalized policies fostered on Alabama.

The election was watched nationally and the resounding victory registered by Lurline Wallace indicates that the boasted impact of the new negro voters would have on elections simply did not materialize.

This has been a very fine year for the Stanton FFA chapter, with above average success.

Congressman Mahon Reports To District Constituents

The number one concern in Washington today continues to be the war in Viet Nam. There has been a tone of cautious optimism over the war as a result of the strengthening of our forces and the partial blunting of the Communist effort. However, recent evidences of continued instability in the government of South Viet Nam are very disturbing. It is difficult to help a country which will not unite in an effort to help itself.

As I see it we have no alternative in the war but to fight through to a successful conclusion. I believe it will be necessary to provide large numbers of additional American troops and increase the intensity of the attack on North Viet Nam. Not only are our prestige and the credibility of our commitment on the line in Viet Nam, but our long-range security, as well.

Speedy action by Congress at this session in providing huge additional sums for the war demonstrates the support of Congress for a firm policy in the war effort.

Officials here share the concern and frustration of the American people over the war, and they are seeking earnestly to find the right road to follow. Decisions as to future actions in the war depend on a number of factors, and it is not possible to predict at this time what the future developments will be. There is common agreement that our efforts must be made to succeed.

Spending incident to the war is adding inflationary pressures and generating a lot of talk about a tax increase. The general atmosphere in Congress is definitely against a tax increase at this time, but a threat of runaway inflation would have to be met. A reduction in government spending would help — and I am working toward that end — but it is difficult to get agreement on where to cut and how much. Many people in and out of government are interested in spending for programs which they approve such as farm supports, assistance to urban populations, or public works, than they are in cutbacks. This is one reason why economy is easier to talk about than to achieve.

Inflationary trends during the next few months will determine what action Congress may take later in the session toward a tax increase. Hopefully such an increase will not be needed.

The 50-member Committee on Appropriations, which I head, has spent the last three months weighing and studying the President's request that we appropriate at this session of Congress the sum of about 138 billion dollars. Of this sum, $122 billion would be for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and the remainder for the current fiscal year.

The first major money bill of the session provided the additional sum of $13 billion for the war in Viet Nam. I estimate that total appropriation for the Department of Defense at this session will approach $72 billion. The House has passed three appropriation bills so far in this session. Action on the remaining 12 is planned by June 30. As the new bills are considered I am urging more restraint in fiscal matters and slow down in government spending wherever this is reasonably possible.

The various committees of Congress have been in the process of studying the hundreds of bills which have been introduced since Congress convened in January. It is too early to predict accurately just what this session of Congress may actually accomplish. Perhaps there has been more widespread interest in the so-called G. I. Bill of Rights, which was enacted early in this session (than in any other measure that has been approved thus far).

Reports coming to my office from farmers and businessmen indicate considerable uncertainty as to the long-range future of agriculture. The stepup in requirements for feed and food grains will help the situation somewhat. No major farm legislation is in prospect for this session.

Harrisville, W. V., Gazette: "Just a short time ago, there still were some eight million of the 18 million eligible for Medicare who had not signed up signed up for it. . . I don't know what the outcome will be . . . but I do know the pressure sure is on to get 'em all. . . We don't want any 'independent' people left in this country? . . ."

Angus Sales Up 18 Percent In Six Months; Prices Average $59 Per Head Higher

The demand for registered Angus beef cattle has been booming in recent months, according to a recent announcement from Glen Bratcher, secretary of the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri. In the first six months of the national organization's 1966 fiscal year transfers of ownership were up 18.5% over the same period of 1965. For the first half of the 1966 year cattlemen transferred the ownership of 184,369 head of purebred Angus, an increase of 28,858 over the 155,511 head sold in the same months of the 1965 fiscal year.

Prices paid for registered Angus in recent months are higher, too, Bratcher said. In the past six months 40,365 head were sold in 490 auction sales for an average price of $470, up $59 per head over the same period a year ago. The average for 38,233 sold from October through March, 1965 was $411. This is an increase in gross income of $3,281,540 for cattlemen selling Angus in those auction sales.

The average for 13,440 bulls sold in the past six months was $570. This compares with an average of $478 paid last year for 14,786 bulls. The average price paid for cows and heifers was $421, up from an average of $369 paid for the first six months of 1965.

These increased prices are reflected in registration totals, Bratcher declared. In March, 1966 Angus registrations were up 8% over March of 1965, the first monthly increase since last fall. "For the first six months of the current fiscal year registrations are only 3,175 head behind the total for the same period of 1965," Bratcher concluded, "and recent demand for quality breeding stock points to an expected record number of calf registrations in the next six months."

57 WT Towns Entered In 'Sparkle' Competition

With 57 West Texas cities and towns participating in Operation Sparkle and allied All-West Texas Cities contest, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is trying to interest other cities in joining the two-year program of community improvement.

Operation Sparkle is aimed at improving cities to attract visitors and influence them to stop and visit. It is designed to make the communities "sparkle" by 1968 when the state is expecting its greatest number of tourists in history due to the HemisFair in San Antonio, the Olympics in Mexico City and a number of national and international conventions being scheduled for Texas that year.

The cities entered in the contest will be from four population categories: over 50,000, from 15,000 to 50,000, from 5,000 to 15,000 and under 5,000. Awards will be made to winners in each category.

Senators Say War In Viet Nam Overriding Concern Of Voter

Senators whose jobs are at stake in next November's elections report the war in South Viet Nam is now the dominant, overriding concern of the American voter.

They find other worries at home, too — about inflation, farm prices, crime, local problems.

But in a series of interviews, Senate campaigners of both parties almost invariably rated Viet Nam as the No. 1 question in the public mind.

Inflation

"In think that this democratic administration will be able to control inflation," said Democrat Metcalf, "so this won't be a big issue."

But farm state senators, Metcalf among them, reported growing discontent at home about agriculture's share in a prospering economy.

"Unless we can demonstrate that there is going to be an increase in farm prices and demand for farm products, the farmers are going to continue to be very much concerned," the Montana senator said.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said farmers are angry at the administration — especially at Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

"One man told me he had thought up a new farm organization," Mundt said. "FFF — Fire Freeman Fast."

"I heard many complaints that farmers were being unfairly blamed for the high cost of living," he said.

But like his campaigning colleagues, Mundt found that home front concern is focused on Viet Nam. "Overriding all of this," he said, "every conversation I held eventually turned Viet Nam."

And Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said war worry could hurt members of Congress in November regardless of their party.

"From today's perspective," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, "it is obvious the war and the increased cost of living will be major concerns."

Outdoors In Texas

By VERN SANFORD
Wise outdoorsmen read the weather reports regularly.

They know that sudden weather changes have a great influence on our outdoor creatures. And they put these to their advantage.

Some of my most memorable fishing has occurred just before a front hits. Usually, fishing also is good just afterwards, when conditions are settling back to normal and the barometer starts its rise again.

Getting in on the fast action often calls for timing things just right. There is a flurry of activity before the front hits. But once it arrives you may as well stop fishing.

However the situation will change within a day or two after the front has passed through.

A striking example of this came during Texas eliminations for the World Series of Fishing, held on Granite Shoals Lake (now Lake LBJ) in 1963.

On Friday and Saturday the contestants had fairly good fishing, but on Saturday night a cold front moved in and fishing was all but dead on Sunday.

Many outdoorsmen realize this about fishing. What they fail to understand is that it often works equally well with wildlife.

I remember the opening of deer season a few years back. It was a warm, still day. But, despite the high temperatures, deer were up and about all day, even toward mid-afternoon, when the temperature was pushing the high 80's, many deer were feeding out in the open.

Next day a severe norther hit. Deer kill was nowhere as good as it was opening day. But a few days later, when things started warming up again, the deer came out en masse as they had just before the front hit.

Our wild creatures, both fish and fowl, have some sort of built-in weather predicting device. They know when nasty weather is coming and they get ready for it. If it looks like a severe front that will drop the temperature or perhaps bring heavy rain, they'll start feeding to store up for the lean days ahead.

Once on a fishing trip on the Llano River, I noticed hundreds of wasp nests scattered along the rocky overhang on a bluff. Black and red insects were swarming everywhere. Next morning, when I walked down to the river, I noticed the wasps were inactive. They were bunched on the nests. Not a single one was flying about.

At the time I wondered if maybe this meant the weather was to change.

Sure enough, late that evening a front moved in, bringing severe thundershowers. These wasps knew the change was coming. And they were ready for it.

A few years back, on a warm October morning, I went squirrel hunting. On the way out I heard on my car radio that a front was moving in. It was not a bad front, but it was enough to drop the temperature somewhat and bring light rain.

By the time I reached the woods, there was a lead-gray overcast from horizon to horizon and a light mist was falling. But instead of driving the squirrels into hiding, it has just the opposite effect. They were everywhere in the treetops. I've never had better squirrel hunting, any time, anywhere.

My deer hunting friends who make regular annual trips into Colorado tell me that one of the best times to hunt mule deer is just before a cold front moves in, triggering snowfall. Cold weather prompts the annual migration into the lower country. Hence, the deer are on the move and consequently more vulnerable to hunters.

Then there was the time on the famous YO Ranch near Kerrville when a sudden front had dropped temperatures and brought rain. It wasn't a severe storm. Just enough to plummet the temperature into the lower 40's and really start the deer moving.

As we drove through the pasture that day we counted numerous bucks. Yet on the previous day we'd driven the same route and spotted very few.

A severe front might prompt active feeding before it hits. But poor hunting results after it arrives. Then animal activity picks up again as the temperature starts to warm.

A moderate front might keep wildlife more active for a longer time in the day. Normally, deer are up early in the day, bed down during mid-day, then come out again in late evening. A moderate front may keep the deer moving all day, even after it has arrived.

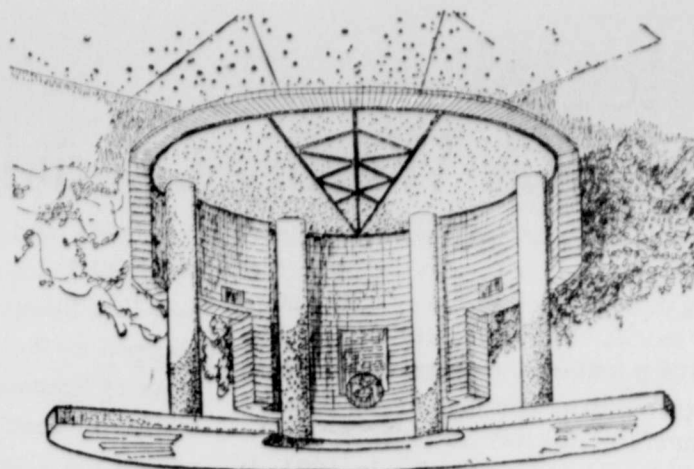

A mild front may only serve to keep the animals up for perhaps an hour longer in the morning, then bring them out again an hour early in the afternoon.

But despite what it may do, weather can be the outdoorsman's best friend or worst enemy, depending on what he does with it. By observing weather changes and watching what changes they bring in the outdoors scheme you can use such future changes to your advantage.

Rain is bemoaned by most fishermen. But not by those dedicated to the sport. They know that it may bring some discomfort, but often the very best fishing is to be had during a rain storm.

Skilled outdoorsmen learned long ago that they must cater to the whims of fish and wildlife . . . not vice-versa.

Dr. Donald F. Huelke made a four-year study of all fatal accidents in a Michigan county, in which 180 people were killed. He reports that "more than half the drivers who were at fault had been drinking."

TEXAS OIL PIONEER—L. T. Barret, who drilled the first oil well in Texas 100 years ago, will be honored by this brick and concrete memorial structure to be erected on Stephen F. The memorial was designed by Wilbur Kent, Lufkin, architect for the college.

Farm & Ranch Review

No chemical has yet been devised which satisfactorily control cotton root rot on ornamental plants, Dr. C. Wendell Horne, extension plant pathologist at Texas A&M University, says.

He said county agricultural agents have received many calls from homeowners wanting information on a marketed material which is supposed to cure or control root rot and root knot nematode - infested plants. The product is widely advertised on radio and in newspapers.

"As of this date, no chemical has been devised which will satisfactorily control cotton root rot around living plants," the pathologist said. "Qualified research workers have tested fungicide materials, as well as cultural control techniques, for many years."

On the other hand, he added, it might be that chemicals sold for root rot do have some beneficial effect on plants. Some have minor elements which may be short in certain soil type areas. The materials, along with thorough watering, will no doubt relieve drought stress and possible nutrient deficiencies.

"In the absence of research-proven chemicals, it's suggested that growers use plants which are tolerant or resistant to attacks of root for fungus if they live in an area where this disease is a problem," Horne emphasized.

It's almost summertime again. That means insecticide, too.

With the demise of the flyswatter, everyone from the housewife and home gardener to the farmer, uses pesticide chemicals to control insects.

Jack Price, extension leader, agricultural chemical section, Texas A&M University, says pesticides have provided a great boost to agriculture, but can be harmful if not properly used.

Misuse of pesticides not only results in poor insect control — it can also create and unnecessary hazard to humans and to crops, he cautions.

Price offers these common sense rules for safe use of pesticide chemicals:

— Buy the right chemical for the right job.

— Transport the chemical in the bed of the truck or the trunk of the car — not in the driver's compartment.

— Read the label, understand and follow the directions.

— Use clean equipment, properly designed for the job.

— Mix pesticide solutions in a well ventilated area, preferably outside and avoid inhaling pesticide sprays or dust.

— Apply when there is little or no wind to minimize drifting of the spray or dust.

— Don't use pesticides near wells, cisterns or other water sources.

— Store pesticides in close, well-labeled containers, where children and pets cannot reach them. Do not store near food, feed or seed.

— Dispose of unused chemicals and empty container properly.

— Keep a record of the chemical used, the time required to do the job, weather conditions, rate of application and when and where used.

Pesticide safety is an individual responsibility. But if you misuse chemicals you may harm others as well as yourself.

It's Time To Store Winter Clothing

Now that spring is here, it's time to store winter clothes. Special attention should be given to your wool and mohair garments, says Miss Fannie Brown Eaton, extension clothing specialist at Texas A&M University.

Store only clean garments. Spots and stains will be harder to remove — or they may not come out at all — a year later. Moth larvae are attracted more to soiled clothing. Send the soiled garments to a good dry cleaner and call his attention to any spots and stains.

Besides dry cleaning, brushing and sunning garments will also help rid clothing of moths including their eggs and larvae. Brush thoroughly, especially in seams, folds and pockets, for added protection, store your clothing with "moth balls," — paradichlorobenzene crystals, or naphthalene flakes or crystals. Directions on the container suggest the amount to use.

It is a good idea to remove plastic buttons, buckles and other plastic ornaments before storing, says the specialist. Avoid using plastic hangers, which may cause a stain or melt into the fabric. If space is available, store hangable garments in garment bags on rust-proof hangers.

Put sweaters and other knitted garments in bags or boxes. Tightly-wrapped paper packages, air-tight boxes or chests, or garment bags are the best storage places. Cedar chests are old favorites for winter clothing storage, but all garments must be moth-free before they are put into a cedar chest. Cedar oil vapor does kill small moth larvae but not older, larger ones.

As a cedar chest gets older, however, there is less cedar oil vapor. Therefore, a cedar chest that is several years old may give no more protection than any other airtight container.

Robert P. Gerholz, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said, "The federal government moves in with federal subsidies and 'red tape programs' that turn communities into bureaucratic provinces whenever business leaders fail to give leadership to community planning."

For more information on which pesticide to use and how to use it safely, contact your county extension agent, suggests Price.

Cabell Offers Resolution To Restrict Court Decisions

A resolution by Rep. Earle Cabell of Dallas to restrict decisions of the Supreme Court was referred Thursday to the House Judiciary Committee.

Cabell's resolution seeks an amendment to the constitution which would require a two-thirds vote of the court to nullify any act of Congress or of state legislatures.

The Dallas Congressman said such an amendment would rectify situations where narrow votes of the court strike down legislation.

"Why should an act of the Congress, after due process of legislative study and debate, and agreed to by 535 members, subject to overturn by five members of the court and in many cases in actual minority of the court?" Cabell said.

"Why should the unanimous vote of a 12-man court be required to resolve a case involving only one man or one issue, and then permit an issue involving an entire state, or even the well-being of the entire nation, to be resolved by five or less members of the Supreme Court?"

Cabell said he believed his proposal would stop contentions that actions of the Supreme Court were "capricious or taken without due consideration of the case at hand."

Portland, Me., Press Herald: "... there ought to be some way to punish union defiers in the courts."

 stood for. The bureau man said it stood for "Boy Am I Kufused." The voter from Illinois advised the man that "you don't spell confused with a K." The clerk replied:
 "Boy you don't know how confused we are in Washington
 these days."

ENGINEERS, manufacturers and distributors still are unable to get the static off the radio bands during a rainy spell, storm, or when the elements appear to be charged with heavy electrical blasts. The wet, rany, deep-dark type of weather we had in our county Saturday illustrates our point. All stations in this area we attempt to tune in on were practically inaudible due to the cracking and popping. In cases like that we always turn to our stereo for good music. You can load the rack with several selections and spend up to three hours listening to records of your own choosing and all static free. A good book or magazine, soft music, hot coffee and a bowl of home-made stew sure sets the background for a few leisure hours at home in stormy weather. Of course, we suppose the above ideas and comforts on a rainy day dates us, but the pattern can vary to fit those of all ages. Some undoubtedly prefer a copy of Playboy, a record screamed out by NANCY SINATRA declaring she is "gonna walk over some bird with her boots on,"
 and a bowl of redhot chili.

SUNDAY is Mother's Day. I would like to nominate MRS. ROSE FITZGERALD KENNEDY for one of the all-time devoted mothers. She is a great and courageous lady. We salute MRS. KENNEDY not only because she is the mother of the late President JFK, but because she is the mother of a daughter, ROSEMARY, who was born 18 months after JFK and is a retarded person. For the past 24 years the now 46-year-old KEN- NEDY daughter has been in St. Colleta's, a school for the retarded in Wisconsin. ROSE KENNEDY never considered her daughter a burden, but showered her with love, devotion and attention. Better still, ROSE KEN- NEDY has been doing something about retardation.
 She has helped thousands by working publicly for better facilities to help the retarded. This wonderful lady deserves the love and affection of us all. God Bless you,
ROSE KENNEDY.

A FEW days ago in Howard County a killer mowed down two men. This week a jury of 12 individuals turned him over to Texas as an insane person.
 An expert testified that "he knew in essence, what he did was wrong, but he could not keep himself from doing what he did." Then this further testimony from the expert: "Actually what he did was not to him, taking the life of another human being... it appeared to him to be removal of a situation which had been irritating to him at one time and, to his way of looking at it, apt to be irritating another time." It was decided that the man was insane and he can never be tried for the murders
 he committed under the darkness of night. The jury said he must go down to Rusk, Texas and that same expert said it's a "wild guess" but that recovery from the illness he suffers would take at least five years. Well, what do you think of the decision men and women, boys and girls of Texas?

BACK to the expert testimony mentioned above
 —if everybody got mad, got a gun, committed murder and then hid behind the fact or defense that he was "just removing a situation that irritated him" then how low or high up do you think some people would go? This kind of "justice" is something to ponder.

WHEN one of the fellows you see nearly every day removes himself from the scene is cause for concern. O. C. TURNER is such a person. We knew he was going to undergo surgery but many of his friends did not. He is home from the local hospital and on the mend we are glad to report. It will be a few days before O. C. is back in business harness. In the meantime, we wish for him the best of health in the future.

WE enjoyed our small part in handling publicity for the annual Spring Festival sponsored by the MARTIN COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. It is always a joy and pleasure to work with the chamber in the promotion of any magnificent program. We wish to congratulate those in charge of the day's arrangements. They all turned in a fine job. And, we might add, local merchants enjoyed a very good DOLLAR DAY.

 persons are invited to attend.

The Martin County Home Demonstration Council met in regular session at 2 p.m. on Barnes presiding. Seventeen members, representing six clubs, were present, and the county agent, Mrs. Mildred Elland.

A report was given from the committee. Mrs. Carlile reported on the health commit-

 Mrs. Person give a county-

 October 18.

It was voted to change the regular council day in September from the 20th to the 27th, due to the state meeting being in session at that time.

Beryl Clinton gave a very informative talk on the Governor's Conference on libraries, which he had attended in Austin. He stated that there are 54 counties in Texas that have no libraries, and that Texas is nine million volumes short.

Mrs. Carlile gave a report on the district meeting, which was attended by 13 members from Martin County.

The Lakeview Home Demonstration Club met April 21, in the home of Mrs. Jewell Tubb, with Mrs. Claudene Madison presiding.

Mrs. Bob Johnson gave the program on cake decorating, with each member given an opportunity to participate.
 Roll call was answered by 11 members and two guests, with their favorite recreation. Council report was given by Mrs.
 Walter Harlow. The club voted to give $2.00 per member to finance a delegate to go to Corpus Christi September 21-22, to be held at the Driscoll Hotel.

A furniture workshop will be held beginning May 3, to continue through May, at the old Jim Webb Grocery building. All interested persons are invited to participate.

The birth defects program will be given with the 4-H Club demonstration. Mrs.
 Lewis Carlile gave the qualifications for THDA chairman.

The next meeting will be
 May 5, in the home of Mrs.
 Alfred Franks.

The Lakeview Home Demonstration Club collected $30.35
 at the "42" party and cake
 walk, which was held March 18, at the Cap Rock Electric, with the proceeds going to the Cancer Fund.

Martin County has received up to ten inches. G. TUN- NUELL tells us that his place north of town had received about that much rain. In Stanton the gauges measured from six to seven inches inclusive. It was a very rainy April and rain ceased to fall in the early days of May because the arrival of colder weather cut the moisture out. We have received reports from many areas and all through the Basin heavy rains were reported.

A Worthy Candidate

On May 7, Texans will make an important decision that is certain to have far-reaching effects on the economy of the state and on the well-being of every citizen. The election of a Railroad Commissioner in Texas is a major decision, one that should be evaluated carefully; for this Commission, established by the State Constitution in 1891, is Texas' regulatory and enforcement agency for the petroleum and transportation industries.

In its deliberations, the three-man Railroad Commission needs men who recognize their serious responsibilities, men of ability, knowledge, and experience. We believe the people of Texas are fortunate in having men like Ben Ramsey, Byron Tunnell and Jim Landgon as Railroad Commissioners. We approve of Governor Connally's choice in naming former Speaker of the House Bryon Tunnell to the Commission. Since his appointment in January, 1965, Commissioner Tunnell has worked to the benefit of every Texan. In seeking his first elective term on the Commission, this newspaper heartily recommend Bryon Tunnell, the best qualified man for the job.

Library Lines

MRS. R. H. CAFFEY
 Librarian

Library Hours: Monday 1-8 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 1 - 5 p.m.;
 Saturday 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Will you walk with us down Library Lane? There we find about 4,000 volumes with which to become acquainted.

Look! Ahead of us, wandering along, are Hugh Roy Cullen, he can tell us an interesting story of American opportunity here in Texas. There is Jeff Milton, a good man with a gun. Here are three people hidden behind interesting titles such as "The Seven Store Mountain," "This Deception" (the story of a woman agent) and "Bugles and a Tiger."

Around the corner in the Juvenile's section, there are such as "The Hermit of Crab Island," "Peter Pan," "Dangerous Spring," and "The Cat
 Who Went to Heaven."

In the Yard of Youth, we can gaze on such interesting blossoming books as, "Rebel in Right Field," "Breakaway
 Back," "Accent on April," "Big Doe's Girl," and a hundred others. Thrills can be plucked from the collections such as "Famous American Athletes," and "Basketball's Greatest Stars."

As we turn to the Children's Corner, we see books that entertain and inform our young ones. There's "The 500 Hats of Batholomew Cubbins," "Buzzy Bear in the Garden," and "Bedtime for Frances," to mention only a few.

In the Memory Garden, a number of books recently planted, such as "Science Year," by Mr. and Mrs. R. S.
 Lewis and Mrs. Ophelia Bran-dit and families, in memory of Elizabeth Nix, and "Teamwork," "Dream of Glory," and
 "A Girl Can Dream," by Margaret Moffett, in memory of Mike Anderson and Mrs. B. T.
 Hill.

The Ladies Bible Class of the Belvue Church of Christ, was

 Wednesday morning, with the teacher, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, continuing the lesson of the "Israelites Forty Years Wilderness Wandering," which embraces their exodus from Egyptian bondage, to crossing the Jordan into Canaan, the Promised Land. Scripture references in Wednesday's study, were in the books of Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Next week's Bible study will begin, "The Conquest of Canaan," references in Joshua.
 Mrs. H. P. Morrison reported that plans for the Vacation Bible School, to be held on May 23 - 27, were almost com-

 of the pledge service. Mrs.
 A. J. Stallings gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Burns gave some thoughts of explaina-tion on the pledge, concerning what it covers, where it is used, etc. Mrs. Bill Morrow read the scripture, Psalms 67: 1-5. The group sang "God politicians figure that everybody should get $3,000 a year

 whether they work or not,
 whether they are sick or healthy, educated or illiterate, we sometimes wonder just what the heck is the use of beating ourselves to a pulp trying to make a living."
