One of the great statesmen of this generation addressed the GOP Convention in Miami Tuesday night. Former New York chief executive THOMAS E. DEWEY, handsome, distinguished, and articulate, offered this nation through television another glimpse of the man who could have kept America on a level course had he been able to defeat FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT for the office of President of the United States. This nation started on a tour of rubbish and decay under the man who played King for four consecutive terms in office. FDR changed the complexion of the country. And he did not change it for the better. As I sat there watching GOV. DEWEY speak with truth and dignity, I thought how differently the traditions and heritage of this country could have been had he been elected. One thing is for sure, as he mentioned, law and order would have prevailed in our cities and in our public streets.

Just as I predicted a few issues back the "Four Horsemen of Television Propaganda on NBC" led off broadcasting activities before the GOP convention opened formally by ridiculing the entire Republican Party. There was an old "fear theme" first introduced by the late Franklin Roosevelt. In other words they advertised their Democratic leanings and they are still on the air pitching for no change in this pie-in-the-sky climate as practiced under Lyndon Johnson as the heir to the establishment.

It was perfectly obvious to the viewer how hard JOHN CHANCELLOR, SANDER VANOCUR, CHET HUNTLEY, and ED NEWMAN worked to try and find something they could use as a tool to pry open that note of discord the commentators hoped would be found and expanded.

NIXON arrived in Florida late Tuesday and by nightfall his workers had aided him in picking up eight votes in Pennsylvania and ten in Mississippi — an indication, with the Mississippians that the Southern flavor of DICK NIXON'S campaigning might be paying delegate dividends. In this column three weeks ago, I predicted the nomination of NIXON on the third ballot. Chances have improved so much for NIXON that he could be favored with the nomination on the first ballot. However, if it is decided by his advisers that if DICK gets the nomination he will want to pick RONALD REAGAN to run with him then the balloting could go to the third ballot so REAGAN could get some exposure as a good contender on ballots one and two.

In this issue a complete list of faculty members for Stanton High School appears and also a school calendar. This information should be clipped and kept throughout the school year. Subscribers will find this issue valuable as far as all future schools events and dates are concerned.

GUY BOWN, my protoge, is the paper's "Man In Miami" this week at the GOP National Convention. As far as I know, he is the only accredited correspondent covering proceedings for a weekly paper in Texas.

House Acts On Major Farm Bill

(By air mail Congress - man George Mahon rushed this special news release directly to The Stanton Reporter from Washington, D. C.)

The House of Representatives last week approved a one-year extension of the present farm program. The major controversy on the bill came on an amendment to limit government payments to producers.

A report from Representative George Mahon advises that he spoke against and voted against the limitation of payments, but supported final passage of the bill in order to give the Senate - House Conference a chance to work out an acceptable bill.

The Senate, on July 20, had passed a four-year bill without limitations. Mahon said that by sending the House bill to conference with the Senate, he felt most hopeful that a one-year extension without limitations would be worked out in conference and later submitted to the House and Senate for final approval. He advised that if the farm law extension carried with it a limitation on payments, he was convinced that the bill would be blocked by the House and not enacted into law.

The farm program expires at the end of next year and it is generally felt that a one-year extension would assist farmers with their long-range planning and at the same time give the next Congress more time to work its will on improved farm legislation.

Mahon stated that he felt reasonably confident that a one-year extension without payment limitations would be approved before Congress adjourns this year.

Amendments To State Constitution In Review

In the proposed Amendment No. 1, the investment authority is broadened still further and the terminology relating to the Board of Regents is removed, thereby leaving no doubt that the Board of Trustees of the Employees Retirement System has full jurisdiction.

ARGUMENTS

For: 1. In the modern concept of employment, pensions are an absolutely indispensable complement of wages. As they are earned and contractual by nature, not free gifts, it is important that public employees have confidence in the perpetuity of the retirement system. By establishing the Employees Retirement System of Texas as a constitutional agency, as proposed by this amendment, public employees will have greater assurance that the administering agency will be a permanent one.

2. Adequate safeguards for funds available for investment are included in the proposed amendment. However, under its terms, it is still possible for the Board of Trustees of the Employees Retirement System to place funds where greater returns in investment can be realized.

Against:

1. The proposed Amendment No. 2 does not make an appropriation but rather allows the legislature greater discretion in meeting the needs of all four classes of welfare recipients in the state by raising the ceiling on the use of state funds for this purpose from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000. Texas consistently has been in the lowest percentiles of the nation with respect to welfare, ranking 50th in administrative cost per recipient for old age assistance, 44th in percent receiving old age assistance, 46th in assistance in aid to dependent children, and 45th in assistance in aid to permanently and totally disabled. Because aid for dependent children allotments are based on a family of four, the higher ceiling provided by the proposed amendment would make it possible for the legislature to have greater discretion in giving budgetary consideration to larger families. Further, the proposed amendment would permit consideration to be given to last year's 4 percent rise in the cost of living in budgeting for all four classes of recipients.

ARGUMENTS

For: 1. The large overall expenditure of state funds which

Stanton Industrial Team Completes Six Week School Here Wednesday

Six weeks of schooling climaxed Wednesday evening, with a meeting of Stanton's Industrial Team with a make believe garment manufacturer.

Bob Mills, of the Industrial Division of Pioneer Natural Gas, and James Heath, of the Texas Industrial Commission, played the role of officers of The Overland Apparel Corporation, a firm which would employ 200 local women.

From the beginning, when the prospects were greeted at the offices of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, to the end, four hours later, there was no hint or evidence that the interview was not for real. All ten phases of the team concept were put through a succession of rapid fire questioning. At times it seemed that the team would be stumped for answers to demands made upon them by the prospect.

At such points, each side had to give a little in order that a mutual agreement might be reached.

Two prospective sites had been marked off by Bob Deavenport of the team's sites and zoning phase. The prospects and team members made a visit to the sites. Bob explained why these particular sites had been picked in regard to location, soil condition, drainage, availability, and etc. Another question and answer period followed and evaluation was made to sum up the evening's work.

Oscar Castillo and Bob Browder of Texas Electric's Area Development Division, who were responsible for the school, were high in their praise of the work which Stanton's Industrial Team had done. And for the help that these four gentlemen had given Stanton in the training of the team, Paigle Eiland, president of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, presented each of them with an "Old Sorehead Award."

In summation of the venture which the Industrial Team has embarked upon: Stanton has a great future in West Texas, Agriculture will continue to be the backbone of our economy, helped by ranching and oil production. But, these industries will be backed by others, some related and some different. Our citizenship is on the horizon of a great economy. Planning, Enthusiasm, and Perseverance will lead us to these goals.

Those present at the meeting were guests: Bob Mills, James Heath, Oscar Castillo, and Bob Browder, Hostesses Mrs. Bill Terry, and Mrs. Paigle Eiland. Team members: Bill Terry, team captain; Sam Houston, Stanley Wheeler, John Rouchie, Bob Deavenport, Cecil Bridges, O. L. Snodgrass, Woodford Sale, Ed Hall, Ellis Britton, Russell McMeans, George Costlow, Gerald Hanson, James Eiland, McKinley Rhodes, and H. M. McReynolds. Those team members unable to attend were Chuck Elmore, Jimmy Stallings, Juil Reid, Jimmy Wheeler, Stanton White, J. M. Yater, J. R. Dillard, Jimmy Conner, Roy Crim, Bob Haislip, David Workman, B. F. White and Billy Reagor.

Question-And-Answer

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q — I just air-conditioned my house on my doctor's recommendation. Can I deduct this as a medical expense next year?

A — A part of the cost of the air-conditioning may be considered a medical expense if your doctor recommended it for the treatment of a specific condition or illness. You should obtain a statement from your doctor to this effect and keep it with your tax records.

Q — If the air-conditioning has been recommended by your doctor, then you should calculate what its installation has added to the value of your house. The cost of the air-conditioning in excess of this increase may then be added on your other medical expenses.

Q — I was interviewed by a company that offered me a job. Must I include as income expenses in making the trip, in the money they gave me as reimbursement for my travel expenses to and from the interview?

A — No, generally, this does not have to be declared as income unless the money received exceeded your actual expenditure. The excess should be reported as income when you file your 1968 return.

Q — We gave away a lot of furniture, books and clothing when we moved this spring. Is there any deduction we can take on those items?

A — If you give such items to a charitable organization, then you are allowed to deduct their fair market value at the time of the gift. Obtain a statement from the organization describing the items so you will have a record of the donation for tax purposes.

Q — I just bought a truck for my dry cleaning business. Do I have to pay the highway use tax?

A — Whether a truck is taxable depends on its type and weight. Details are contained in Publication No. 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Tractor and Buses." Sent a post card to your district office for a free copy.

Q — My daughter has a partial scholarship for college. Will she have to count this as income for tax purposes and will it affect our dependency exemption for her?

A — Income from scholarships is generally not taxable, and does not have to be included by parents in determining a student's total support. So unless your daughter's scholarship has some special feature it should not affect the tax situation of either of you.

Q — I had to pay a penalty on my mortgage when I sold my house because it was paid off early. Is there any deduction for that?

A — The penalty for paying off a mortgage before the due date is considered an interest charge and should be included with your other interest payments. It is not a selling cost on your old house.

Q — I just paid the balance on my 1967 taxes and now you've sent me another bill for the same amount. What should I do?

A — Return the bill to the service center indicating when and where you made the payment. This will stop the issuance of and further bill on your account while an effort is made to locate your payment. Within 30 days you should be notified by the service center that your payment either has been credited to your account or that we are unable to locate it. If the payment cannot be located you will be advised what to do next.

Q — I support my mother. Can I claim two exemptions for her since she just turned 65?

A — No, you are only entitled to one exemption for your mother when she qualifies as your dependent. Her age does not give you an extra exemption. The extra exemption for age may be taken only on a taxpayer's own return when he or his wife is 65 or over.

Philosopher Comes To The Defense, More Or Less, Of The Post Office Department

(Eitdo's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw comes out this week in favor of the post office department. We think).

Dear editor:

I was working on an idea for having Rural Free Delivery of my mail seven days a week instead of six out here on this Martin County grass farm and on all the other farms and ranches of the nation, when I read in a newspaper which temporarily fell out of my neighbor's mail box while he was plowing and which I have returned in just as good shape as when I found it and just before he got to turn - row on this side — you don't hurt a newspaper by reading it — that there is some agitation for reducing city delivery of mail to four days a week as an economy measure and I figured I'd better hold up on my 7-day country plan for a more favorable time.

At any rate, the article went on to say that a committee of private business executives had made a study of the whole post office operation and had concluded the reason it was losing money is that it's not run on modern business principles, and the answer is to turn it over to a corporation under the supervision of the government.

"Like it's run now," the chairman of the committee said, "if the post office business was up for sale, nobody would buy it."

Now wait a minute. If the judicial system of this country was up for sale, would you want to buy it as an investment? The highway department? Congress? In fact, if the entire Federal government was up for sale, who'd want to buy it? You want to buy a business that's a hundred and thirty billion dollars in debt and getting in deeper all the time?

Or getting closer to home, would you want to buy the state government? Or the... well, that's getting about as close to home as I ought to. We've all got to live around here.

The trouble is that some people just don't understand government. Take the post office department for example. It's like farming. It's a public service operation. It's not supposed to make a profit.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT
Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, Bobby Howard.

The summertime beauty of our state's lush vegetation in yards, fields, pastures, and woodland holds potential dangers to the public and livestock. In Texas there are approximately 80 species and varieties of plants that are known to cause death, illness, or extreme discomfort to humans and livestock. Throughout the U. S. and Canada, there are over 700 species of plants that have an adverse effect on humans and livestock.

Chewing, swallowing, or otherwise contacting the toxic parts of certain plants, trees, and shrubs, take a heavy toll of human and livestock. The health service reports that about 12,000 children are poisoned or injured by these sources of poison. Untold numbers of livestock die each year from eating poisonous vegetation.

Poisoning of livestock is more commonly the result of management, range conditions, or kinds of animals, rather than the presence of the plants concerned.

Poor range condition from overgrazing or other conditions resulting in a lack of palatable forage is commonly the cause of poisoning.

Parents should be concerned because many of the plants are quite common in flower and vegetable gardens, and in ornamental landscaping, as well as in wild places. Leaves, bulbs, roots, seeds, stems, or berries may contain a poison, depending on the species of plant.

The beautiful oleander bush, for example, grown all over the country, contains a deadly heart stimulant similar to the drug digitalis. The toxin is so strong that a single leaf can kill a child. People have died merely from eating steaks speared on oleander twigs and roasted on a fire.

The popular Christmas flower poinsettia is full of an acid, so lethal that a child who consumes one leaf may die. Mistletoe berry can also be deadly. Peach tree leaves contain hydrocyanic acid, one of the most dangerous poisons known. Potato and tomato plants, close kin to the deadly night shades, have foliage that contain alkaloid poisons, which can cause severe digestive upsets and nervous disorders if eaten.

Jimson weed, sometimes called thorn apple and stink-weed grows almost everywhere and causes more poisoning than any other plant. It grows from 2 to 5 feet tall, has large leaves and white funnel shaped flowers resembling morning glories. All parts are poisonous, especially seed and leaves.

Castor bean seeds are especially dangerous, because they are so deadly and so readily available. They are sold in garden stores for about 25 cents a package, and are popular because they produce large, lush plants in one season. Yet each seed contains enough ricin, a powerful blood poison, to kill a child. Miscel bean, or mountain laurel, is also dangerous. It has a poison bean with a hard coat. If it is swallowed whole, there may be no ill effects, but if chewed it can be lethal.

Other common plants in Texas that have poisonous parts, include elephant ear, larkspur, azaleas, lantana, yew, oaks, water hemlock, poison hemlock, poison oak, and poison sumac.

More detailed information on these and other plants can be secured from health and plant authorities. Local S. C. S. personnel can assist groups

Bible Comment—

'Character' Is Great Theme In Bible

What the Bible has to say about character is not to be found in one place; it permeates the great Book, from Genesis to Revelation.

After its supreme theme—the message concerning the character of God, and the glorious Gospel of His Grace—it is the Bible's greatest theme of man's relationship to God and to his fellowman.

Nor are these greatest themes of the Bible in any sense separate or unrelated. Jesus said to His disciples: 'Be ye perfect, even as our Father in heaven is perfect.' It is in being godly, like God, that man attains his highest and best.

This close inking of man and his God is a distinctive quality of Judaism and Christianity. Most other religions have been characterized by fear, not in the sense or awe and veneration in the presence of a Perfect Being, but in abject, appealing fear and humiliation.

When that ancient Hebrew writer declared that God had made man in His own image, it might equally have been said that man was conceiving of God as his human image; but either way it was a profound conception.

With such a conception of God as the supreme perfection of all that man saw in the promptings of his own soul, man's aspiration toward that Perfect Being became, at least in this truly saintly, the one great goal of life and character.

The power of that self-discipline, as the fundamental element in character, became expressed in a spiritual daring like the like of which has seldom been equaled elsewhere in religious experience.

De Gaulle And The United States

By GUY STORY BROWN

When General Charles De Gaulle was ushered back into power as President of France ten years ago as the Fourth Republic crumbled he was determined to rebuild French strength and independence. He has brilliantly succeeded in this goal. The French has always had remarkable recuperative talents, but the general's will power and clear vision of what he intended have enabled him to achieve impressive results.

Domestically, France of 1958 needed political stability above all, and during this Gaullist decade stability has been notable.

In 1958 France had a total currency reserve of less than half a billion dollars, and a Gross National Product of $49 billion. Now it has the second largest gold stockpile in the western world, plus large private holdings and its GNP passed $100 billion two years ago.

On the eve of his return the general was saying: "The only thing that can be done is to give this country back its independence. I would quit NATO if I were running France. NATO is against our independence and our interest. I don't believe the Russians will attack at this time."

"Also now the Russians have long range weapons. If one of these nuclear explosions were to fall on France, Washington would not go to war immediately. It would only fight immediately if a bomb fell on the United States. Thus France is not defended by NATO and NATO prevents France from serving her own interest. France must take back her independence. NATO is no longer an alliance. It is a subordination. We cannot accept a supervisor like the United States to be responsible for us."

There has always been consistency to Gaullist strategy although its masked tactics often seem confusing because the General advanced step by step. Nevertheless, his objective, "independence" did not mean neutrality.

De Gaulle insisted: "There is a difference if a country is neutral because it gives up control of its own self and its own future interests by pledging in advance not to fight. France might indeed stay out of war, remain neutral in a particular war, but it cannot renounce the idea of war. Neutrality is contrary to the idea of independence."

Applying his military genius to political realities, the General sized up geographical French possibilities and finding that France, by its size, structure, and position between two giant empires and the "dustheap" of little nations, decided that it was admirably situated for maneuver.

Militarily, an advocate of movement, De Gaulle carried this technique into statecraft, and concluded that halocaust no longer threatened and that Soviet missiles altered the implication of alliance, he reverted to a streamlined version of classical French policy.

Historically, this policy is simply to keep Germany weak and divided and to exclude Britain from Europe. De Gaulle, who has a marvelous sense of history, had already congratulated Stalin for pushing Poland westward, thus guaranteeing that the Poles and the Germans could not get together. De Gaulle is neither ardent nor impatient for German reunification.

Using Germany's resultant weakness and France's comparative strength, De Gaulle is trying to work toward a Europe in which Paris, with the only nuclear force between Russia and Britain, would speak the leading voice. To escape the risk of being devoured by super power "hegemony" De Gaulle appears to see France ascendant in a Western Europe which in time would lead the entire continent between Russia and the English speaking world.

The primordial fact underlying Gen. De Gaulle's foreign policy is his insistence that the United States is much too powerful, and regardless of its intentions cannot help trying to dominate the affairs of other nations, especially France. Because the general's overriding concern is to insure French independence, he finds himself opposing the U. S. in various way. He believes that otherwise both France and Europe risk succumbing to American hegemony.

Consequently, one finds the French outside the NATO organization (which is U. S. controlled) opposing the U. S. on Vietnam, gold, the Middle East and other issues. For De Gaulle, the United States is a friend but too large a friend and perhaps not always wise leadership. Yet he does not appear to consider this anti-Americanism. There may be anti-American symptoms in France as in other countries but De Gaulle feels these stem from isolated and often anti-Gaullist quarters. His own policy derives only from the conviction that to bolster French independence everything must be done to right the world power balance, not tipped too heavily in the United States' favor.

De Gaulle analysis argues this is not the first time in history one nation has been so formidably strong in relation to others. However, the consequent imbalance makes it inevitable that France and other nations seek to do what they can to restore some kind of equilibrium. One aspect of the problem is economic. Although the general does not pretend to be an expert technician on these matters, he seems to feel that massive American investments in France have a direct bearing on fiscal policy, that the U. S. A. has employed all its advantages, including large gold stocks and the export of dollars, to further American interests. This has had direct repercussions on the monetary system of the gold exchange standard.

The Gaullist theory is that Washington doesn't want to change its gold policy and continues to try and conserve its gold while importing exporting aboard dollars it doesn't want to keep at home for fear of encouraging inflation. These dollars have been used to buy up European enterprises and, by being exported, to protect America from inflation — all of which is "inconvenient" for Europe.

Industry Contributes To Education

Texas' petroleum industry continued to be a chief source of revenue for the state's public education program during 1967.

The industry, according to a new publication of Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, in 1967 paid for 29 per cent of the state's cost of public education, and 57 per cent of the state cost of teacher retirement.

The publication — "68 Informative Facts," states that the oil and gas industry last year paid $262 million in state taxes, and $18 million increase over 1966.

The annual compilation of industry statistics, released Saturday, further states that:

Texas production taxes on oil raised $140.6 million, up $9.6 million over 1966, while production taxes on gas totaled $78.3 million, up $4.3 million over 1966 figures.

The Texas petroleum industry taxes account for 21.8 per cent of all state taxes.

The state's petroleum industry pays 30 per cent of the state franchise tax; 37 per cent of state property taxes.

The Texas Permanent School Fund in 1967 received $35.4 million from the petroleum industry for lease rentals, bonuses, royalty payments: total since 1963 — $655 million.

The University of Texas Permanent Fund received $16.8 million in petroleum lease rentals, bonuses and royalty in 1967; total since 1924 — $491 million.

The Association's leaflet also points out that Texas became the nation's leading petroleum producer in 1928. It adds that the state has produced 30.9 billion barrels of oil, or 36.1 per cent of the U. S. total, and Texas has derived $69.6 billion from crude oil sales.

Other items of interest in "68 Facts" include the following:

Oil is produced in 199 Texas counties — Texas has 5,000 oil producing firms — Texas has 207,466 producing oil wells in 8,708 fields. — To prevent pollution, each day Texas oil men put over 5 million barrels of oil field salt water back into the ground — Texas oil men drilled 9,470 wells in 1967 — 28 per cent of the U.

S. drilling. The "68 Facts" leaflet is distributed free through Texas Mid-Continent's oil Information Committee program.

Opinion polls on the presidential race "are tending to distort an already difficult political climate," Sen. George Smather D-Fla., holds.

He urged political parties and news media to reduce "this seemingly blind reliance on the polling numbers game." Smathers noted the different findings of two major polls on the presidential choices and the assertions that they were made in successive weeks.

"I am reluctant to believe that voter's opinions are swinging that rapidly," he said. Until polling techniques are standardized, Smathers added, "it is doubtful whether the 200 polling firms across the country are helping the American voter in any significant way."

Use Tax Law To Be Checked Director Says

Owners of trucks and buses in Northern Texas were advised today by District Director of Internal Revenue Ellis Campbell, Jr., that a thorough check will be made to insure compliance with provisions of the Federal Highway Use Tax Law.

Mr. Campbell said that lists of owners of taxable motor vehicles are being compared with Federal Highway Use Tax returns filed, to assure that all taxable vehicles were reported and to determine whether they were reported in the correct tax categories.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that highway use tax revenue collected by the Federal government is returned to the states to help pay the costs of the Interstate Highway System now under construction.

The estimated value of lint cotton and cottonseed produced in Texas was down more than $37 million from that of the previous season, the "Summary Report" said.

"The decrease in the value of production affects the entire economy of the state," the report explains, but hardest hit were segments of the industry other than the grower, primarily the gins, oil mills, compresses, and warehouses.

And the cause of the decrease — that unpredictable Texas Weather coupled with an increase in diverted acreage.

The report forecasts a brighter picture in 68-69:

"All indicators point to an increase in the planted acreage in Texas for the 1968-69 season, along with improved weather conditions, for increased production. New and improved varieties are being planted for improved cotton quality rather than for yield alone."

Single copies of the report are available free of charge from Cotton Economic Research, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas 78712.

Baptist Paper Raps Report On Colleges

The Baptist Standard, a statewide Baptist publication, has criticized what it termed secrecy surrounding a recent report on the future of Texas' nine Baptist colleges.

The newspaper said in an editorial that a decision to withhold the report from general release is contrary to "our Baptist democracy."

The report was presented to the Christian Education Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas last week. It recommended closing Howard Payne and Wayland colleges and downsizing East Texas Baptist College to a junior college. "Why should not every

SOME FOLKS THINK OUR AUTOMATIC BANK DRAFT PAYMENT PLAN IS GREAT...

Others couldn't care less

Folks who use our Automatic Bank Draft Plan to pay their electric bills seem to like the idea. ♦ They like the convenience of having us draw a draft on their checking account for the amount of the bill. ♦ Then they don't have to bother writing a check, hunting for a stamp and remembering to mail it. ♦ And they don't have any trouble keeping their records straight because we immediately send them the portion of the bill they would normally keep, and it's marked "paid." ♦ Of course, many of our customers aren't interested in the Automatic Bank Draft Plan. They still want to get their bills at home and come in to pay us or send a check in the envelope we enclose each month. ♦ We started the Bank Draft Plan because some of our customers asked for it, and we want all our customers to know it is available. ♦ If you'd like to know more about the Bank Draft Plan, we'll be glad to tell you all about it. Then you'll know whether it makes sense for you. ♦ PS. Naturally, this plan cannot go into effect on anyone's account until it is requested, and necessary authorization forms are signed.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

The steel industry's two largest giants accepted terms of union demands, granted the biggest price increase in one package in less than 24 hours and price of steel to the consumer rose five per cent before a cat could lick a plate. The consumer, you know, happens to be the American taxpayer who must now pay more for the household articles, automobiles, and all things made of some steel. This is the "Great Society." This is LYNDON JOHNSON at his very best. He has; allowed the labor unions of this country to force it into inflation and it is well on the way to bankruptcy with no end in sight. I think a continuation of the JOHNSON policies, certainly by HUMPHREY or anybody else, would cause the country to pawn the flag to stay in business. If you happen to be one of those worrying about JOHNSON'S place in history, pause and think of this statement. LBJ is history. He will never be forgotten. Like the depression of 1931 he will always be remembered as the man who broke the nation. The last President JOHN KENNEDY did more for the country when he made the labor unions and the steel companies roll back their prices in 1962 and by doing so saved the little men and women of this nation billions of dollars than LYNDON JOHNSON has done with all of his wild-eyed specialist legislation put together.

The cost of living, paced by higher mortgage interest and other home ownership charges, jumped one-half of one per cent in June to a level 4.2 per cent above that of a year ago, the government announced this week. The June rise equalled that of February, 1965 and was larger than any other since September of 1962. This price increase is another page from the book of JOHNSONISM.

COUNTY JUDGE BARBARA CULVER of Midland County says a decrease in spending and no raise in taxes is the menu for Midland in 1969. The tentative budget for the county was made earlier in July by the Midland County Commissioners after a series of budget hearings. It is refreshing to get this news of economy on the home front. Some of our best lessons in government are being assigned and studied on the local level. That is the specific basis for returning more rights to the states. The suction cups of the "Great Society" must be eliminated.

THE U. S. Congress has been accused of having precipitated a "crisis of confidence" in U. S.-Latin American relations by making large cuts in foreign aid. A spokesman for the Organization of American States says the U. S. is going back on a commitment. What commitment? What politician in Washington made any such commitment. One reason we are in Vietnam today is because of some dumb past commitment. When did any one individual in this nation have the right or power to commit ten thousand boys to death on a foreign field of battle to further some pet political proposition? There is another commitment recently revealed. It seems some "bird"—(guess who) has made a commitment to toss the U.S.A. in on the side of Israel in case of a prolonged war with the Arabs? Where was this promise made? Why? So, to our foreign brothers let us say: "the taxpayers made you no promises—go to work and make your own living and stop expecting handouts from America."

Radio stations in this area continue to hire cheap labor and they get what they pay for. The public gets a dose of dialogue so disastrous to the speaking of plain vanilla Americana it hurts. Back in the day when radio was in its heyday, one of the claims made for it was that it would improve the diction of all Americans and, at the same time, do away with accents differing with the several sections of the country. It is too bad it did neither—especially the former. A canned commercial which has been running for sometime on radio is built around non-existent "bumpa stikas." It further is spiced with more Brooklynese, practically unintelligible to average listeners. This is just one example among many. However, it does point up the fact that radio hasn't, after all, improved our national speech and diction because, after all, it hasn't demanded better speech and diction from the people it employs. Some of the blame may rest on radio's often had younger brother, television. It too, continues to contribute to sloppy language and ways of voicing it. All of this may not be of major import and it can be said that the nation doubtless will survive these derelictions. But it must be terribly discouraging to those parents who strive to teach their young to speak their native language properly, only to have the effort nullified constantly by professionals who can't.

The festering cancer of the nation's ghettos and the collateral problems created by them cannot be solved unless there is an abrupt change in attitude by government toward small and independent business. Tax incentives for small businessmen instead of continuing tax increases is the answer, in part, to the problem. A lot of persons in the big cities could return to the crossroads towns of America, and find employment if the government would stop making some small firms help sort the mail, and allow them to employ school boys in business. What is happening to those success stories we used to read about some tycoon who started his business career in a print shop or delivered papers in his youth? My late parents, God rest their sainted souls, used to keep good soap and clean water ready on the big back porch at our home in Commerce when I came in from a newspaper route so I could get the ink from my hands before supper. The American habits of yesterdays must be returned to this country before it is destroyed by those who have consistently capitulated to Socialism. I hope to God this is the last year of the JOHNSON-HUMPHREY type of government in America. LYNDON JOHNSON has openly proclaimed the late FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT as his idol. FDR is remembered as the man who shot the cows

Amendments - -

(Continued from page 1) this amendment would authorize would increase each recipient's income only a few dollars a month but would require $15,000,000 in new funds at a time when the state is already hard pressed to meet existing financial obligations. Instead of encouraging dependency on public welfare, the state should begin to draw a line in combating growing socialism and the welfare state.

The proposed amendment No. 3 to Section 11a, Article VII, broadens the base of the authority of the Board of Regents of The University of Texas System in investing the Permanent University Fund.

ARGUMENTS

For:

1. The erosion in the value of the dollar, which has been under way for many years, and which seems to be accelerating, requires that changes be made in the basic format of the Permanent University Fund. Only by investing a greater portion of the fund in corporate stocks can the value of the fund and the income produced thereby be maintained, or increased. On August 31, 1967, the value of the U. S. Government bonds owned by the fund had declined 18.7 percent from their cost. The corporate stocks owned had increased 32.9 percent, and were producing incomes at a rate of 28 percent in excess of the rate produced by the U. S. Government bonds. The elimination of the 50 percent restriction on the ownership of corporate securities is necessary to safeguard the Permanent University Fund and its income in terms of the continually diminishing purchasing power of the dollar.

2. Included in Boston Fund's 1967 study of college and university endowment funds were 17 funds, each with assets in excess of $100,000,000. Only two of these funds had less than 50 percent of their money in corporate stocks. The range of corporate stock holdings was from 39 percent to 76 percent, and the average was 59.5 percent. This compares with 30.6 percent for the Permanent University Fund. Clearly, the current restrictions on the operation of the Permanent University Fund are not in keeping with investment policies widely accepted and practiced by the more successful college and university endowment funds. The elimination of the 50 percent restriction on the ownership of corporate securities is a necessary step to the modernization of the operation of the Permanent University Fund.

Against:

1. Fluctuations in the stock market affect the day-to-day value of the Permanent University Fund. The maintenance of present investment policies can reduce the impact of these fluctuations on the fund. For that reason, the 50 percent restriction on the amount of the fund allotted for investand plowed up the crops and put the country on a Santa Clause course of bunk and ballyhoo that has continued but for eight years under EISENHOWER. These self-made socialists must be driven out of Washington and if the people don't do it next November they can get ready for the possibility of having the flag depicting the hammer and sickle of Redism flying over the White House.

It took 100,000 laborers 20 years to construct the famous pyramid of Cheops.

ment in common stocks should be retained. The present restriction guarantees that at least half the endowment for The University of Texas System and Texas A&M University System is not subject to the possibility of capital loss, if such securities are held to maturity.

2. During the last few years, the stocks of many rapid-growth corporations have fluctuated because of unsettled conditions. This situation gives added support to maintaining present investment policies regarding investment of the Permanent University Fund. Unsound investment of a major portion of the Permanent University Fund could result in insufficient funds to meet bonded indebtedness for the extensive building programs undertaken by institutions participating in the fund. (Other 11 amendments will be discussed in future issues.)
