Bufs Scrimmage In Colorado City Tonight

By NEAL ESTES
The irresponsible tongue of HUBERT HUMPHREY has done it again. HHH and his loud mouth embarrassed the JOHNSON administration on more than one occasion. This time the Veep has damaged his own campaign. GOV. JOHN McKEITHEN of Louisiana has left the HUMPHREY camp. HHH had said: "Former President EISENHOWER'S greatest act in office was to name Chief Justice EARL WARREN to the Supreme Court." GOV. McKEITHEN left after that statement supposedly made in Chicago at the recent Democratic party convention. In leaving the pelican state, the governor said: "I consider the appointment of EARL WARREN by MR. EISENHOWER to be one of the worst made by any president in our nation's history as I believe that the Supreme Court, under MR. WARREN has done more to weaken the Constitution of the United States and dilute the true meaning of democracy, specifically with reference to law and order, than any other single factor in this land."

Midland Murder Suspect Remains In County Jail

Michael Lee Moody, 24, charged with murder in the death of two-year old Lori Margaret Gunn, Midland, remains in the Midland County jail pending call for an examining trial or subject to grand jury trial, authorities announced Tuesday when the scheduled examination trial was called off by his attorneys. The trial tentatively was set for 3 p.m. Tuesday afternoon in the court of Justice of the Peace Robert H. (Bob) Pine. Judge Pine postponed the examining trial indefinitely when lawyers for the rookie policeman appeared before Pine and asked that the trial be halted. Judge Pine stated that Moody's lawyers did not seek bond either. Moody was taken into custody shortly after Detective Vince Conklin found the child's body bound and gagged in a sitting room closet in the home where Moody lived with his mother and stepfather. Moody was arrested late Saturday after the child's body was found. A sweeping search had been launched earlier for the child, reported missing from her home by Mrs. Gunn on Friday evening. The death certificate for the child was filed in the county clerk's office in Midland County. Time of death of Lori Margaret was listed as between 7:15 p.m. and 12 p.m. on Friday, August 30. Midland Dist. Attorney James A. Mashburn, who worked tirelessly on the case, said Tuesday he will seek the death penalty. "There is no alternative in a crime of this nature," he said. Funeral mass for the little girl was said in St. Ann's Catholic Church Monday. Lori Margaret was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gunn of Midland. She is also survived by three brothers, Kelly, Russell, and Anthony.

Dateline - Republicans At Miami Beach

By GUY STORY BROWN
Our beloved GOP planned the gaudiest, most colorful, dramatic, stimulating, exciting, spectacular show in politics for their convention in Miami Beach, Florida—a city not totally unaccustomed to such happenings. There was drinking and dancing, changeover and hand-outs, cheering and jeering, laughing and crying, success and failure, fighting and uniting. Crammed within a relatively small area on Miami Beach, 26,000 delegates, alternates, staff members, flunkies, etc. and 6,000 - 7,000 members of the press set themselves to the task of nominating a president. It least that's how it was billed. Before the actual balloting, all was relatively quiet at Miami Beach, the first evening of oratory having sharply reminded the Republicans of the uses and virtues of silence. A prominent PR operator of great talents and shrewdness passed along the word to chairman Ray Bliss: "Three hours of prime time and this is the best you can come up with?" Some of the speakers were wonderfully attractive men, with interesting and informative things to say; but, somehow, it came off as rather a bore. Desperate for something to ballyhoo, promoters and reporters seized on a passage in New York Mayor Lindsay's introduction to the keynote, and whispered that the mayor would be saying some challenging things about the Negro.

problem. His remarks about the Negroes came and went without causing a ripple in the sociological community. If the keynoter's introduction as given by Mayor Lindsay was unimpressive, the keynote address by Washington Gov. Daniel J. Evans, was even less so. Keynote speakers have traditionally had the opportunity to gain fame and success, or failure, to be forgotten with their message, which sets the tone of the convention and the parties call to victory. Unfortunately, Gov. Evans had the misfortune to speak after that grand old man of politics, John Wayne, a hard act to follow, politically or otherwise. Mr. Wayne had spoken earlier in the day concerning his feelings and theories about the State of the Union and had, quite nonchalantly upstaged the governor, and set the tone of the convention himself. His remarks were later analyzed as either an attempt to offer himself and his daughter as potential running-mates, or a sly press release concerning his daughter's impending membership in the U. S. Green Berets. At any rate, it gave Republicans something to talk about. The theme of the Republican convention, was that Republicans, in Lincoln's phase, "Must think anew and act anew," but did they really do it?

Lincoln's point was that the dogmas of the past are inadequate to the stormy pre-engaging things about the Negro. (Continued on page 8)

Inspection Period Began In Texas On September 2

The 1969 vehicle inspection period began September 2 in Texas according to Colonel Wilson E. (Pat) Speir, acting director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"More than six million vehicles are expected to receive the compulsory inspection prior to the April 15, 1969 deadline," Speir said. Inspections may be performed at any of the almost 5,500 vehicle inspection stations in Texas, each of which displays the official vehicle inspection station sign. Texas law requires inspection of the brakes, lighting equipment, horns and warning devices, mirrors, windshield wipers, front seat belts in vehicles where seat belt anchorage were part of the manufacturer's original equipment on the vehicle, steering (including power steering) and wheels and rims (not to include removal of the wheel

Vet Finds Case Fatal Virus In Seminole Area

The Texas Veterinary Medical Association, citing findings by a veterinarian in West Texas, reports that equine (horse) encephalomyelitis has been discovered. The cases were reported in West Texas near Seminole, by Dr. A. J. Mabry, a large animal practitioner in that area.

The disease, sometimes called sleeping sickness and Blind Stagers, is a virus perpetuated by small birds that carry a from the vehicle) on all motor vehicles registered in the state. Special inspection provisions apply to trailers, semi-trailers or mobile homes having a loaded gross weight in excess of 4,000 pounds.

The minimum fee is $1.75. This does not include the cost of repairs or adjustments necessary to enable the vehicle to pass inspection. Speir said the new vehicle inspection sticker will be a two and one-half inch square replica of a DPS patrolman's badge with red background. Motorists are urged to have the 1969 inspection performed as soon as possible to insure that their vehicles are mechanically safe for fall and winter driving.

Philosopher Says It's Too Bad Both Conventions Ran A Little Short On Barbwire

Dear editor:

Last week during the Democratic National Convention a friend asked me to come over to his house and watch the show in color — my set is black and white when it's functioning and mostly snow the rest of the time, which is confusing because half the time the fun is watching the delegates read newspapers or walk around since most of the speeches are the same anyway — and the first thing I noticed when I settled down in front of the set was that the speaker on the platform was wearing a blue shirt.

"Blue shirt?" Is asked. "How come?" I figured it was only natural to wear a white shirt at funerals (weddings and political conventions).

"Oh, this is color television," it was explained. "White shirts don't show up to good in color."

I got to looking closer and sure enough practically all the men had on blue shirts. What I'm wondering now is, as more and more people get color T.V., will they paint the White House blue, and what'll they do in the winter time about photographing a snow scene?

Another thing that impressed me about the Chicago convention, the same as the one in Miami Beach, was the fact they ran out of barbwire.

They had enough to go around the convention hall on the outside, but if they'd had more they could have run it down each side of the aisles, say about seven strands high, to fence the delegates in. It's the only way I see they'll ever keep the aisles clear. I don't know where the convention people, both Democratic and Republican, get their sergeants-at-arms, but I've never seen one yet that could clear the aisles, makes no difference how many times an hour the chairman orders them to.

If I'd known they had a shortage of wire I could have sent them some of mine. It's rusty and spliced in several places, but they'd been well-kept to it, although I wouldn't have taken the job of stringing it. I'm not sure anybody can build a fence strong enough to turn a delegate.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bible Comment—

St. Paul Describes Riches We Have

"Poor, yet making many rich"; that is how Saint Paul describes the condition and privileges of early Christian believers, many of whom were evidently quite poor in worldly goods. "As having nothing," he adds, "and yet possessing all things."

It was not a chance remark or a sentimental idea on the apostle's part, but an expression of his settled philosophy concerning the Christians' possessions. And also, in the First Epistle to the Corinthians, he reasoned more directly concerning the Christian's wealth.

The Christian belongs to Christ. Christ is God's. All things belong to God. Therefore he writes to the Corinthians, "All things are yours."

The cynic may protest that this sort of wealth will not pay the rent. There is a point in the criticism, but it might also be pointed out that Paul was no visionary dreamer regarding the practical affairs of life.

He worked at his trade as tentmaker to support himself, and he insisted that everybody else should work. He would have no loafers in the Christian community.

Further, if he admonished Christians to "bear one another's burdens," he qualified this with the declaration that "every man shall bear his own burden." There never has been, even to our time, a clearer statement of social and individual responsibility.

His words forcefully bring to the attention that there is a reality of inner wealth and richness of life for which no amount worldly, material wealth or possession can compensate.

One who has missed the Christian's spiritual possessions has missed the greatest treasure that God has to offer.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

Everybody knows that the new surtax law raised the amount of income tax that you will pay (7 1/2 per cent this year) by 10 per cent. What a lot of folks don't know is that the rules for paying estimated taxes have also been tightened up. Most of us work for wages and our employers withhold income tax and social security tax from our wages and pay it to Uncle, and we don't have to worry about filing an estimated tax return.

However, those folks who are self-employed or who have income outside of their pay check, do have a problem. This type of taxpayers have been required to file an estimated tax return in the past, but there were lots of good excuses that wiped out a tax penalty if you did not file and you met the exception. Congress decided to wipe out and tighten up these exceptions.

If you are self-employed or if you have substantial income on which you have not paid any tax, you better review the amount of estimated tax that you are due to pay on September 15, or find out whether you have to file and pay because your good excuse is gone.

Webb AFB Cited For OJT Program

The on-the-job training (OJT) program at Webb AFB was singled out for excellent achievement during fiscal year 1968 earlier this week when Col. Robert Bennett, deputy chief of staff for personnel, Air Training Command, visited the base to present Webb with the ATC's runner-up OJT trophy.

Accepting the trophy for the base was Col. William C. McGlothlin, Jr., wing commander.

Colonel Bennett made the presentation before a gathering of approximately 100 OJT supervisors, monitors and trainers in the Non-Commissioned Officers Open Mess Monday.

Webb, who placed first in the OJT competition last year, scored a 95 this year. It placed a narrow second to Mather AFB, Calif., who registered a 98.

Two other bases tied Webb for second place, however. Webb was awarded the trophy for having the highest percentage of upgradings.

Any score above 85 is considered excellent.

The base OJT award was also given out during the presentations. Named the base winner this year was the supply squadron. Maj. Wayne A. Thurn, commander of the supply squadron, accepted the award for the squadron.

"The disease causes extreme anemia and death, if not detected early. The most effective safeguard against anaplasmosis is immunization with a recently released vaccine. Veterinarians are also able to use medication and blood transfusions for severely affected animals, according to T. V. M. A."

Trimming The Patronage Tree

Congress does not have to probe too deeply to find ways to make some hefty cuts in federal deficit spending, according to "Washington Report," official publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The Chamber says a building a few blocks away houses the Subversive Activities Control Board, and Congress could start right there.

SACB was established in 1950. Its job was to expose "Communist-action" or "Communist-front" organizations and force them to register so that everybody would be aware of their affiliations. There is no question that it did a credible job for a while—until its wings were clipped by a Supreme Court decision.

The Court ruled that requiring Communists to register would violate their Constitutional rights not to incriminate themselves.

So, the Board found itself with little to do, and in the past two years has done nothing. It hasn't held a single meeting — let alone a hearing — to justify its existence in that period. Yet, it continues as a federal agency, and at an exorbitant cost to the taxpayers.

In view of the Board's extended period of inertia, it could come as a surprise that SACB has asked for an increase in its appropriations to $425,000 in 1969. Some of the money would go for five more staff members.

Some spending-conscious legislators have tried to kill the Board outright. Failing that, they did get through an amendment that would have compelled it to disband after Dec. 21, 1968, unless it could find something to do.

But, miraculously, it got some work. Attorney General Ramsey Clark sent it seven petitions asking the Board to enter orders finding that the seven persons named were, or were not, members of the Communist party. To reduce the Board's burden, he sent along information as to the offices the Justice Department believes the seven hold in the party.

His motives are unclear. But it couldn't possibly be that the Board has to be retained to allay any fears that its termination would indicate the country is going soft on a subversive element.

"Washington Report" then comments: "If the country is going soft, it's in the head—to permit the continuation of wasteful agencies and add needlessly to the federal deficit. The present Congress still has time to squash this plum from the patronage tree."

Arch Of Greenery

An arch of greenery, interspersed with pink gladiolus, seven-branched candelabra and white basket of pink gladiolus provided a background for the ceremony.

The week of September 9 on the High Plains could appropriately be called "Agricultural Research Week" this year, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

"Field Days" featuring tours of agronomic research projects, many of which receive PCG grants-in-aid, will be held at each of the area's two major agricultural research centers during that week, Johnson noted.

The 59th annual field day at the South Plains Research and Extension Center just north of Lubbock, will begin at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, September 10.

The 12th annual field day of the High Plains Research Foundation, Halfway, is set for Thursday, September 12. Research projects and displays will be on exhibit from 1 p.m. to 4:45. The evening portion of the program begins at 5 p.m. and will include an address by an outstanding agricultural speaker.

"Of all our activities, PCG's support for agricultural research at these two facilities has provided some of the most profitable returns," Johnson stated, "but our members could get substantially greater benefits from production research if it weren't for the serious lag between the development of new and improved farming techniques and the field application of those techniques by farmers.

"So we are urging our members to avail themselves of these two excellent opportunities to see and study the latest advance in farm technology."

At SPREC on September 10, tours will show field plots on cotton varieties and diseases, weed control, soil fertility, irrigation flexibility and sorghum midge control. Other attractions include a large machinery exhibit, the new $400,000 ginning laboratory, greenhouse, and other laboratory displays.

Field stops at the HPRF on September 12, will cover studies on rates and rates of planting of Soybeans, the use of herbicides, control of volunteer castorbeans and an automated sprinkler irrigation system. There will also be displays of five HPRF Commodity Committees a 20-saw laboratory gin, wild life conservation, and a display by Water, Inc., on plans for water importation to West Texas.

Major research grants from PCG at SPREC this year went to studies of control of cotton diseases, cotton breeding and genetics, a soil moisture survey, and an evaluation of cotton strains and varieties for the High Plains, with emphasis on fiber quality.

At HPRF, PCG is supporting weed control studies in cotton, a comparison of water usage and cotton yields on bench leveled and contoured sloping land, a study of planting design and climatic influence on cotton fiber development.

A. L. (Skinny) Higgins, President, has announced that the annual meeting of Plains Ginner's Association will be held on September 14, at the Lubbock Country Club. Activities will begin at 9 a.m.

On the program will be Higgins, of Plainview; Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Lubbock; Tony Price, Executive Officer of the statewide Texas Cotton Ginner's Association, Dallas; Roy Davis, Lubbock Manager of Plains Cooperative Oil Mill, and President of the National Cotton Council, and Roy Baker, Engineer-in-charge of USDA's new $50,000 ginning laboratory at the South Plains Research and Extension Center.

Also on the program, will be a representative of the Texas Employment Commission, who will discuss TEC efforts to alleviate the expected shortage of gin labor this fall.

Featured luncheon speaker, will be the well known dentist-humorist, Dr. Charles Jarvis, of San Marcos, Texas.

Kenneth R. (Ronny) Graves, graduated of Stanton High School, has volunteered into the U. S. Army, and is stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, for basic training. Ronny is a 1968 graduate of Stanton High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Graves of Trazan. Trade at home and save!

Johnson Says Peach Yield Down In Texas

Mushroom root rot on peach trees is causing serious decline in the yield of peaches over the state, says Jerral D. Johnson, extension plant pathologist at Texas A&M University.

Mushroom root rot is caused by a fungus organism which lives in the soil and causes a lingering death of peach trees. Soon after attack by the organism, young trees are killed or reduced in vigor. When bark is peeled from the trunk of the tree near the soil line, a white growth of the fungus is visible on the surface of the wood.

The disease is most prevalent in areas recently cleared of timber, stated the pathologist.

To reduce damage by this disease, it is suggested that growers not use recently cleared timberland for orchard sites. Also, where possible, homeowners and commercial growers should not replant peaches on the same soil, said Johnson.

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, to the individual landowner depends upon the landowner himself.

This time of the year, farmers and rancher in Martin-Howard Soil and Water Conservation District, are hearing the booming sounds of shotguns. These sounds mean dollars to a few and headaches to others. Which category as a farmer or rancher do you fall into?

If hunters mean headaches to you — the landowner — there are ways to turn those headaches into easily earned dollars. Hunting in Texas is a big business that more Texas landowners could cash in on. A recent survey indicates that one out of every eight Texans hunt or fish. The hunters and fishermen spend on an average approximately 175 million dollars a year for the privilege of hunting or fishing on private property. All this boils down to 60 dollars per hunter or fishermen per year. Just how much of this money goes ing through the winter. A practice such as this provides food and cover for quail during the winter and prevents the loss of valuable top soil by wind erosion.

Many farmers and ranchers in Martin County with large numbers of quail and dove, have not used the free advertisement and listing service provided by the local Chamber of Commerce to bring hunters to Martin County. This service could mean extra money to the landowner with little or no expense.

Public Hearing Notice

The City of Stanton, Box 868, Stanton, Texas, has applied to the Texas Water Quality Board for a permit to discharge an average of 200,000 gallons per day of conventionally treated domestic sewage (Imhoff tank with six lagoons) from its sewage treatment plant located one-half mile east of State Highway 137, and one-half mile south of the City limits, in Martin County, Texas. The waste will be used for irrigation purposes on farm land adjacent to the sewage treatment plant, and there will be no runoff. A public hearing on this application will be held in the Auditorium of the Texas Water Development Board, 301 West 2nd Street, Austin, Texas at 9:00 a.m. on October 3, 1968 to determine the conditions if any, under which the permit may be granted. Additional data will be developed at the hearing, but further technical information concerning any specific aspect of the discharge, if available, can be obtained by writing the Texas Water Quality Board, 1108 Lavaca Street, Austin, Texas 78701.

Coops Stress Need To Industrialize Rural Areas

Efforts to develop the business and industrial, as well as the agricultural, potential of rural Texas received new stimulus in Dallas last week during the 28th Annual Meeting of Texas Electric Cooperatives, Inc. The 700-plus delegates assembled there August 21-23 vented their concern over the loss of rural youth to urban areas and the need to make rural areas more appealing economically to all Texans.

On hand to counsel with delegates and outline professional assistance available, were experts in economic and community development, including James Heath of the Texas Industrial Commission, James Bradley of the industrial economics research division of Texas A&M University, Dr. James H. McCrocklin, undersecretary of health, education, and welfare, and Edward Kiley, director of community development for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

Preceding the experts, these five state leaders of Texas youth and young adult organizations expressed their views on opportunities in rural areas today. Cary Reeves of Eustace, 4-H Clubs; Thel Daniel of Spearman, Future Homemakers; Bill Sarpalus of Boys Ranch, Future Farmers; Mrs. Joe Baker of Marlon, Young Homemakers; and Wayne Nelson of Corsicana, Young Farmers.

The experts agreed that extension of electric service into rural areas during the last 30 years, had enabled many to stay in rural areas and had attracted others — to operate agricultural, business, and industrial enterprise, or just to live. But, the experts also agreed, the rural leadership represented in their Dallas audience is needed now to develop additional opportunities to assure a prosperous future for rural Texas. And each expert described the professional and organizational assistance available from his development agency or firm.

In other sessions, delegates heard officials report on activities of the association. George Henry of Wellington, TEC vice-president, reported and presided in lieu of the president, M. D. Head of Deatur, who was absent due to illness. Other officials reporting were Joe Lytle of Greenville, secretary-treasurer, and J. R. Cobb of Austin, general manager. W. G. Newton of Lubbock, Texas director of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, reported on national affairs.

Voting delegates later re-elected Newton to the national office. They also elected four men to serve two-year terms on the TEC board of directors. They are James E. Fields of Bluegrove, O. B. Bryan of Stanton, W. W. Cardwell of Bandera, and Norman Winter of Merkel. Winter was also elected secretary-treasurer, succeeding Mr. Lytle, who was elevated to the presidency. New vice-president is H. M. Keith of Bartlett. These six, with James N. Myers of Hondo, comprise the board of directors for the next year.

In other sessions, Clyde Whiteside of Seymour, was elected chairman of the Attorneys' Section of TEC, and Mrs. James N. Myers was selected to chair Ladies' Activities for the next year.

Three TEC employees were cited for 10 years of service to TEC: Mr. Cobb, the general manager; James E. Egan of Austin, his executive assistant, and Joe Anthony, distributor and transportation supervisor at the TEC pole treating plant in Jasper.

In addition to the youth organization leaders, other young people participating in the general sessions programs were Murray Edwards of Clyde, and Rebecca Ann Letz of Old Glory, members of the 1968 rural electric Government-in-Action Youth Tour to Washington; and Miss Sandra Cole, home service advisor, and Paul Alexander, 11, rural population per square mile, and was tabulated at almost 34 per cent. Interest Rates Higher On Texas School Bonds

The U. S. Office of Education reports that Texans are more willing to vote local school bond issues than citizens in most of the other states but Texas school bonds don't attract as low an interest rate as the average across the nation.

Nationwide, 67 per cent of all bond elections for public school purposes were approved during the year ending June 30, 1967. Texas alone approved 72 per cent of its school bond issues, held more elections than any other state and approved more money than any state.

In dollars and cents, Texas voters approved $296 million in school building bonds for that year, or 87 per cent of the $341 million total proposed. Nationally, only 69 per cent of the total bond dollars requested were authorized by the voters.

Bond sales to finance the building and remodeling of public elementary and secondary school is the United States rose to a record $3.3 billion during the 1966-67 year. This was an increase of $371 million over the previous year.

Incidentally, the U. S. O. E. reports school borrowing was more explosive in 1966-67.

Annual net interest cost for all bonds sold average 4.97 per cent, compared to a higher 1.13 per cent on Texas bonds. Texas ranked thirteenth in interest rate. The national average the previous year was 3.7 per cent.

The $296 million in school bonds voted locally in Texas was more than any other state for 1966-67, the USOE reports.

New York state led in bonds actually sold during the same period, with more than $338 million. Texas ranked sixth, behind California, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Illinois with bond sales of more than $171 million.

Speir Says Crime Rate Up In Texas

Colonel Wilson E. (Pat) Speir, acting director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today the Texas crime rate for the first six months of 1968 is running about 15 per cent over the rate recorded for the same period in 1967.

Speir said information provided by sheriffs and chiefs of police and compiled by the DPS indicates an increase in each of the seven major crime categories. For example, murder and homicides were up nearly 9 per cent, rape, up nearly 14 per cent; robbery, up about 14 per cent; burglary, up nearly 22 per cent; aggravated assault, up nearly 6 per cent; theft, up about 12 per cent, and auto theft, up nearly 24 per cent.

"In the January through June period, major crimes occurred in Texas on the average of one every 1 1/2 minutes," Speir noted. "This generally figures out to be a murder every 7 1/2 hours, a rape every 4 1/2 hours, a robbery every 1 1/2 hours, a burglary, every 5 1/2 minutes, an aggravated assault every 26 minutes, a theft every 2 1/2 minutes, and an auto theft every 18 1/4 minutes," he added.

The overall crime rate increased about 15 per cent in the state's urban areas, and almost 11 per cent in rural areas. It was up about 17 per cent in cities over 100,000 population; up about 7 per cent in cities between 50,000 and 100,000, up almost 9 per cent in cities between 25,000 and 50,000, up almost 15 per cent in cities between 10,000 and 25,000, up 25 per cent in cities between 5,000 and 10,000, but up only about 1 per cent in cities between 2,500 and 5,000 population.

The largest rural increase came in counties with over 50 rural population per square mile, and was tabulated at almost 34 per cent. The overall crime rate decreased by almost 20 per cent in counties with from 20 to 35 rural popula-

Ford Adds Cobra To Fairlane Line

Ford adds Cobra to its hot-selling Fairlane line, to make it even hotter for 1969.

"Paced by the new performance-oriented Cobra models and the top-of-the-line Torino, Fairlane sales for 1969 ought to be nothing short of tremendous," said John Naughton, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"Sales of the 1968 Fairlane were up more than 90 per cent over 1967. With the new Cobra, new engines, and our improved performance, comfort and convenience features, the sales surge of this intermediate line isn't about to stop," he said.

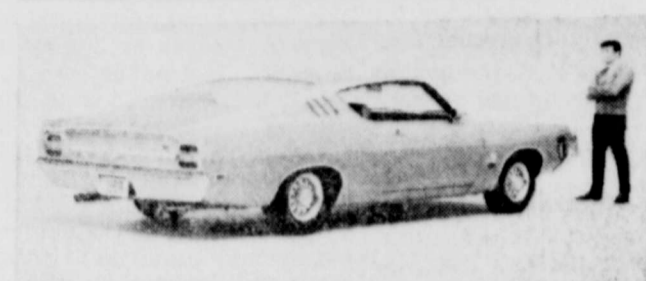

Economy, high performance and luxury all are available in the 16-model lineup for 1969. This lineup embraces the Fairlane, Fairlane 500, Cobra, Torino, and Torino GT series.

The new Cobra models, in hardtop and fastback Sports-Roof design, have youthful lines, excellent handling characteristics and a hot-performing 335-horsepower, 428-cubic-inch-displacement V-8 as the standard engine.

Ford's new Cobra Ram-Air version of the 428 is optional on all models except station wagons.

Standard performance items on the Cobra two-door hardtop and Sports-Roof models include the hot 428-c.i.d. four-barrel V-8, four-speed fully synchronized manual transmission, competition suspension, staggered rear shock absorbers, F-70 x 14 wide-oval belted tires and six-inch wide rim wheel with hubcaps.

The hood features exposed locking pins and (with the optional Cobra Jet Ram-Air engine), a functional hood scoop.

Cobra is Ford's hot new performance-oriented addition to the Fairlane line for 1969. Whether roaring through a turn at Ford's Dearborn test track (above) or taking a quarter-mile straightaway, Cobra is made for competition handling and power. Available in fastback Sports-Roof (above and below) and hardtop design, Cobra models are equipped with a standard 428-cubic-inch V-8. The 428 Cobra Jet Ram-Air engine also is available.

Greased Skids To Bankruptcy

What is the answer to rising welfare costs? That is a question that may soon be foremost in the minds of voters, as well as officials at every level of government. In spite of statistics of that indicate prosperity, the relief rolls continue to grow.

Two states, California and New York are approaching a crisis — 2.4 million people in these two states live on relief. This amounts to 25 per cent of all the welfare recipients in the nation. These two states are expected to spend $4.5 billion on welfare during the next fiscal year. Welfare roles in New York rose 40 per cent in 1966 and 1967. California's welfare tally has doubled in the last five years. Medicaid has become a major part of the welfare picture — $946 million of California's $2.3 billion welfare budget for next year is allocated to medical aid for the needy.

A New York official in commenting on what has become a national problem says, "Welfare is now almost beyond the power of any city to handle. It is getting to be big for a state." All of which bring up the question of how much longer candidates for public office can ask for voter support on the strength of bigger spending programs.

PARTISAN FIGHT AHEAD

Humphrey, Nixon Rhetoric Masters

The Humphrey vs Nixon campaign ahead shapes up as a hard partisan fight between two old warriors who are masters of their parties, rhetoric, and in many ways are locked into it.

For this reason the prospect in the next two months is for generation of much heat but not much new light on the two key issues facing the nation in 1968 - Vietnam and the urban crisis.

With Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie committed to support of President Johnson's policies, the Democratic ticket's room for maneuver and innovation is severely limited.

And with the administration so vulnerable at home and abroad, former vice president Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew can and will go on the attack, and strategists that does not require great new ideas for success.

The nature of Humphrey's convention victory, in which he had to stand solidly with the Johnson policy on Vietnam to keep his southern supporters in line, ties him more closely to the past and to the present in Southeast Asia than his strategists had wanted.

Now that he has the nomination he is a bit freer to make distinctions on the war. His selection of Muskie as his running mate gives him a partner who has been somewhat more dovish and pliable, and who in Humphrey's own words, may be able to "bridge the gap" between Democratic hawks and doves.

It can be expected that Nixon will reach into the Republican rhetoric that was used and last under Democrats, and that the last Republican President (Eisenhower), ended a war in Korea that the Democrats could not or would not.

What Humphrey needs to get him out of his dilemma is either a military or a diplomatic breakthrough in Vietnam, and neither is the prospect. Hanoi is likely to hold on for the results of the November election to see what they bring.

The statement could be a Humphrey effort to blur Vietnam as an issue between himself and Nixon, indicating they occupy the same ground.

On the domestic side the prospect that each candidate will fall into traditional party rhetoric is even greater. Humphrey is certain to invoke the old Democratic "party of the people" line, and Nixon will stress the Republican theme of the rights of the individual in an over-centralized, bureaucratic nation.

Here again Humphrey's rhetoric must be accommodated to the mood of dissatisfaction among middle-class Americans about the violence growing out of the urban crisis. The Democratic stress on attacking root causes of poverty and discrimination must be tempered with a counter-stress on "law and order," a standard phrase in GOP rhetoric.

And at home as in Vietnam, Humphrey is at the mercy of events.

Also, if there is any man who can bring out the older Democratic voters against him, it is Richard Nixon. He may be a "now Nixon," but many of the older Democrats who remember him from 1960, and earlier, have a monumental dislike for him.

With Humphrey the traditional Democrats, and Nixon the traditional Republican, doing battle, the growing independent vote may make the difference. And here all the partisan rhetoric may not have as much impact as the state of the nation, at home and abroad, on election day.

Bearrice Dyer Enrolled In Seattle Course

ASTORIA, ORE. — Bearrice Dyer, 17, sister of Amanda Barber, Stanton, is receiving on-the-job training at Tally Electronics Corp., Seattle, Wash., after completing a course in electronics assembly, at Tongue Point Job Corps center here.

The off-center training provides practice of the skills learned in the Job Corps, for a two-to-four-week period under actual employment conditions, prior to graduation from the center.

Corpswomen engaged in the extension training program draw no compensation from their "employers" but receive their regular Job Corps pay and allowances, and the center provides housing arrangements. At the conclusion of the training period they return to Tongue Point with an evaluation of their performance and may either be given additional schooling or graduated.

Most of the graduates return to their home areas to seek employment.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

Thirty-four seats in the U. S. Senate and all seats of U. S. House members are up for grabs along with the presidential election to be held seven weeks hence in November. Undoubtedly, many changes are due to come when the people visit the polls. For the first time in years the country seems to realize this nation cannot continue to survive on a menu of JOHNSONISM. The disciple of FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT has brought the country war as his idol did and the economic condition of the U.S.A. could be no worse. The last of the gutter-political machines was crushed in Chicago last week when the hot light of television cameras exposed just how sorry and low-down men can become when influenced and dominated by a master rat on two feet. It is my prediction that not another convention of any party will ever be held in the Stockyards of Chicago. The American people, sitting in the millions of living rooms across the country, captured everything but the small. And the image of MAYOR DALEY, last of the bosses, his jaw jutted out in BENITO MUSSOLINI style, his fist pounding the table, his stubby hands smacked together in triumphant applause as the conclusion of one little dirty trick after another, his arrogant attitude, the cynical smiles on the faces of his henchmen, all spelled the end of political Democratic bossism in the country. The people have had it. The press "told it like it was."

For the past ten days it has been fanless weather. The cooling fall-like weather has prevailed and no help has been needed from artificial weathermakers. The early mornings, late evenings and nights have found residents wearing light wraps and reaching for cover at night. And another front is on the way in from the Rockies according to the forecast. A new cool front might also bring scattered thundershowers to the area. The temperature on Sunday morning in Stanton indicated 57 degrees. That's hard to beat. It looks like an early fall season.

It makes all the difference in the world in Stanton when school is in session. Residential streets are deserted, traffic almost nil, and of course, the voices of the small ones are far removed. But, safety rules and regulations should be observed while driving about town. Just about the time one feels like breezing right on through a very quiet intersection another driver, thinking the lack of traffic allows him to take a chance, pops into view and right there in the middle of the intersection popping steel can be heard. So join your correspondent in trying to be careful.

A young Democrat, now holding an important office in Midland County, has attracted wide attention and a number of top citizens in several counties in this area are watching his steadily growing career with interest. I speak of JIM MASHBURN, District Attorney of Midland County. MASHBURN, the son of a prominent Midland couple, MR. and MRS. JACK MASHBURN, is destined to go far in politics or in his chosen profession, the practice of law. He will head the prosecution in the approaching trial of the Midland policeman charged in the death of a small Midland baby girl. He has already figured prominently in cases requiring the attention of his office. Keep your eyes on JIM MASHBURN. As a member of a family of lawyers and judges, I think I can recognize a man with the ability to go far in any direction he desires in law enforcement or with legislative and judicial assignments.

(Continued from page 1) sent. . . . We must rise with the occasion. . . . We must disenfranchise ourselves and then we shall save our country."

It is not easy to think, let alone act, to save a country from Miami Beach, with airplanes going past the opulent hotels advertising "topless girls" at the Tomboy Club and dog racing at the Biscayne, but the Republican tried to disenfranchise themselves, anyway.

They did "think anew" in a limited way. They have clearly decided that public battles between their candidates on television is not very helpful to the Republican cause. That much they learned from Dewey vs. Stassen in 1948, Nixon vs. Kennedy in 1960, and Goldwater vs. Scranton, Lodge, et al in 1964.

No one put ideology above party unity, not even Goldwater. In fact, Goldwater, Nixon, Reagan, and Rockefeller accepted the objectives of the '68 party platform with only token resistance here and there, an astonishing development after 1964 and the off-year elections in 1966.

Everything was "new" in Miami Beach, except the favorite candidate and nominee, Richard Nixon, who is the most familiar of them all. He has run a brilliant political campaign, and has, more or less, led his party toward a united front that might very well have enough steam to roll into the winners circle next November.

Several shining stars emerged from this Miami Beach convention, among them Barry Goldwater, the parties standard bearer in 1964, who renovation and said, "We are not here to accuse, we are not here to divide. . . . we are not here to bemoan the past. . . ." and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, who delighted delegates and impressed delegates left and right with his grasp of American's issues and problems.

After a terrific defeat in 1964, it would seem that the Republicans had bounced back and were "not here to accuse and divide," but rather were on a more unified track to thinking anew. Where this will lead them, or Americans, no one knows, but all the pros and cons aside, the Republicans proved on thing in the words of honorary keynote, Wayne, "the Republican party cares. . . ."

'Midnight Cowboy' Cast, Crew End Filming In Stanton Area

Approximately 25 cast and crew members of the "Midnight Cowboy" company departed Midland - Odessa Regional Air Terminal Friday afternoon on their return journey to New York City.

School Menu

Stanton Independent High School

Menu for Sept. 18 thru Sept. 22:

Monday: Meat potato burgers, green beans, apple and ad, butter, milk, peanut butter cookies.

Tuesday: Roast and gravy, potatoes in jackets, beet salad, rolls, butter, milk, and brownies.

Wednesday: Pinto beans, corn dogs, seasoned spinach, tomato relish, corn bread, butter, milk, and fruit cobbler.

Thursday: Frito pie, tossed green salad, pineapple and sweet potatoes (baked), fruit cocktail, cake, and milk.

Friday: Hamburgers, pork and beans, lettuce and tomatoes, onions, orange juice, banana pudding, and milk.

The company has been on location in the Midland - Stanton - Big Spring area since early August shooting a number of sequences in the film, "Midnight Cowboy," which is scheduled for release in 1969 by United Artists. It is understood that the group finished their work in the area, and would not be back.

Stars in the film include Jon Voight in the title role; Jennifer Salt, who plays his high school sweetheart, Ruth White, veteran New York character actress who is cast as Voight's grandmother; Brenda Vaccaro, cast as Voight's New York girl friend. The film also stars Dustin Hoffman, of "The Graduate" fame. However, Hoffman's scenes were completed some time ago and he did not come to Texas for the filming in this area. Much of the movie had been filmed prior to the time the company moved into this area at locations in New York City and Florida.

Scenes filmed in this area included those in Big Spring, at Moss Creek Lake near there, and several locations in and around Stanton, and in the vacant Tower Theater in North Main Street, Midland.

Directing the new movie was John Schlesinger, British-born director who is best known for his work in "Far From the Madding Crowd," "Darling," and "Billy Liar." "Midnight Cowboy" is his first directional assignment in this country. Co-producer of the picture with Schlesinger is Jerome Hellman, who has produced "The World of Henry Orient" and "A Fine Madness."

County Clerk Says New Texas Residents Must Sign To Vote

County Clerk Doris Stephenson, has issued a reminder that new residents of Texas who wish to vote in the presidential election this year, must apply for a ballot at the county clerks' office by noon Saturday, Sept. 21.

The reminder is for voters who will have lived in Texas more than 60 days but less than a year on next November 5, general election day. This is the first time that residents of less than a year will be able to vote in a Texas presidential election. A law passed in 1967 allows a new resident to vote if he will have lived in Texas for at least 60 days on election day, possesses all qualifications required for voting in Texas elections except the normal residence requirements, and was either a qualified voter in another state immediately prior to his removal to Texas or would have been eligible to vote in the presidential election in the state of his former residence if he had remained there and complied with the state's legal requirements for voting.

If the voter was registered in the state of his former residence and has a voter registration certificate or other document to prove his registration, he should have the document with him when he applies at the clerk's office. Otherwise, it will be necessary for the clerk to contact the appropriate election official in the state of the voter's former residence to verify whether he would have been eligible to vote in that state if he had not changed his residence.

New residents whose applications are accepted will be notified of that fact and will return to the clerk's office between October 21 and November 1 to cast their ballots. They will not be permitted to vote in anything except President and Vice President. Persons voting under this law are not required to register with the county tax assessor-collector.

Voters who will have lived in Texas more than a year on election day must be registered with the tax assessor-collector in order to vote. Persons who became residents of Texas on or before October 1, 1967, had to register by last January 31, the regular registration deadline, but those who became residents after October 1, 1967, may register at any time up to 31 days before the election. The deadline to register for the general election will be next October 5.

If a registered voter will have lived in the state more than a year and in the county more than six months on election day, he will vote a full ballot in the ordinary manner on election day at the polling place for the voting precinct in which he lives. If he will have lived in the county less than six months, he will be able to vote on state-wide office and issues, including President and Vice President, but not on local offices and issues, by applying to the county clerk for a ballot during the period from October 16 through November 1.

Grassroots Opinion

RONCEVERTE, W. VA., NEWS: "California's Governor Ronald Reagan is sometimes a controversial figure. However, on the matter of the crime explosion, he said a mouthful the other day at a fund-raising dinner in Indianapolis. 'In our humanitarian society, we have rightfully safeguarded the rights of the accused, but we have carried this to an excessive concern for the guilty,' Reagan said. 'Permissiveness from cradle to crime is our philosophy. What were once considered privileges are now recognized as rights, and first and foremost is the right to adjust any personal grievance by the nearest means at hand, be a rock, club or fire-bomb'."

BELTON, TEXAS, JOURNAL: "My advice to young men deciding on a career is to avoid the businesses and the professions and to go into poverty. That's where the big money is."

EKALAKA, MONT., EAGLE: "Anyone who thinks total restriction of firearms will eliminate political assassinations or armed robberies is only fooling himself. The man who assassinated President Kennedy was a dedicated communist, the man who is charged with killing Senator Kennedy is an alien and the man who shot Martin Luther King is an escaped convict. There are federal and state laws that prohibit any of these three from owning a gun."

MT. ZION, ILL., REGION NEWS: "Land of the free and home of the brave! Land where every babe starts life with his $1650 share or more of Federal debt! Land where every boy has a chance to grow up to be President, or at least to be drafted! Land where every person is absolutely free to choose his own job and work where he wishes, provided the union will let him do it! Land where, if a fellow makes a dollar he can keep it, or spend it—except for the 20 or 30 cents or more the government will take. Hold on, let's start over. It is easy enough to be sarcastic. This country of ours falls short of being perfect, yet where is one we might like better? . . . We have been reckless with our heritage, but we have not yet damaged it beyond recovery."
