If you are a movie goer perhaps you have seen the film "Exodus." Well, another mass exodus is on in Washington. I say Amen! The little birds have started winging their way out of the federal roosting places, Come January, the big birds will all fly out. Swan songs are being sung so loudly in Washington that the majority of them are old sock by now. The coattail tap-dancers who have been using the JOHNSON-HUMPHREY stage for the past five years are resigning in droves. Final advice is being passed out by some. This bird NICHOLAS DeB KATZENBACH (I won't guarantee that spelling of that tongue twister) has been yelling that "for politicians to blame the Supreme Court for increased violence in the streets is nonsense." He challenges statements of WALLACE and NIXON. KATZY goes on to moan: "True the court has handed down landmark decisions to protect the rights of individuals." KATZY completely over - looked the fact that the victims of these wild criminals now coddled by the court once enjoyed life, walked the streets in safety, and now rest in the dreamless slumber of death. Death caused by the violent minority members of society whose every whim has been granted by the handful of judges on the Supreme Court. One thing is for sure, when the birds all flock out of our national capitol and HUBERT HUMPHREY is sent back to the family drug store in his home state, either WALLACE or NIXON will find ways to get those nine black-robed birds off the Supreme Court and replaced by men of talent and good judgment.

I can't resist mentioning here a statement I have made many times to friends. If the pills possibly to be dispensed by HUMPHREY in the family drug store happen to be like those political pills passed out under the present administration, some purchaser is bound to wind up with a double-trouble excedrin headache.

If one has been a consistent reader of the local newspaper he or she, will know pretty well what to expect when going to the polls on November 5 to vote. Fourteen amendments to the Texas Constitution will be included on the ballot. Various political party candidates will be listed and it's all pretty simple and easy to understand. The newspaper would like to have printed the ballots so we could pass along a sample reprint to voters. The ballots were composed elsewhere and naturally the forms the ballots were printed from are unavailable. But, as pointed out above, if one has been a regular subscriber to this newspaper, the amendments should not be hard to vote on, because they have been discussed in recent issues of the paper one by one.

Illustrated By Himself

The reasons for not electing Vice-President Hubert Humphrey to the presidency are best illustrated, not by his opponents, but by his own campaign.

Humphrey's approach to the basic political problem of getting elected is the same old approach that we have seen again and again since the New Deal: Spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect.

At this juncture, of course, the tax-and-tax aspect is downplayed and all the emphasis is on the spending side. But we taxpayers, after painful experience, have learned the complete chapter and verse. There is little doubt in the minds of most Americans that a large share of the troubles this country has today stems directly from the abuse of the liberal discovery that Treasury funds can be used to buy votes. Big government, not big business or big labor, is seen as the chief danger within that triumvirate.

Even the slowest yokel must eventually learn to see through the shell game and realize that he is being swindled. The old pitch that promises free federal goodies—paid for, the politicians imply, by the fat cats or the citizens of some faraway state or future generations—has bought millions of votes over the past three decades.

It has also bought us a huge national debt, runaway inflation that shrinks our dollars, a monstrous and growing federal bureaucracy and a government that shows a growing ambition to regulate every possible aspect of human life.

The American people have learned who pays for all those "free" programs. Yet Humphrey goes on with his medicine show, promising a guaranteed annual wage, big boosts in Social Security, a "Marshall plan for the cities," billions for this and that billions for that.

If the recent past has taught us any lesson, it has taught us that national problems are not eliminated by blindly scattering money over them. Yet Humphrey's more-or-less campaign blares on, indicating either that he has overlooked this expensively demonstrated point or that he thinks the voters have been too stupid to recognize it.

Humphrey promises us four more years of government by a philosophy that has failed. —The Dallas News

Philosopher Says Worldwide Control Of Weather Is Fine Up To A Certain Point

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw apparently has discovered winter's coming on.)

Dear editor:

I was in town the other day to pick up another ten-cent bolt for a quarter and as I was finishing the transaction the store owner asked, "Well, how's the weather out your way? Need a rain?"

"Yeah," I whispered, looking around to see who else was in the store, "I could use a little rain."

"What're you whispering about?" he asked "You either need a rain or you don't. The whole store could hear him, and I got my bolt and cleared out.

What he doesn't understand is that among farmers the weather is a delicate subject and it's considered highly unneighborly, not to say rude, to hope for a rain out loud when some people around you haven't got their crops out yet. Speak not of rain in the house of those who still have hay on the ground.

It's not that anybody thinks hoping has any effect, but it's as risky as denouncing Baptists or Methodists or Catholics when you're in a cafe and don't know what denomination the people at the next table belong to.

After I got home I opened up the newspaper I had hauled off and bought when I was in town, if the price of newspapers was as inflated as tractor bolts and warfae they'll cost a dollar instead of a dime, and immediately ran into an article on weather control.

According to it, scientists are working on eventual worldwide control of the elements. Some day, it claimed, man will be able to decide when it'll rain, the sun will shine, where we need snow and how much; will be able to eliminate tornadoes and hurricanes, and will never have a ball game called off on account of rain.

In fact, it said, until some day in the dead of winter when everybody has thrown his blankets away, has his windows open and is running around in his shirtsleeves . . . the electricity goes off.

Personally I intend to keep a supply of firewood on hand, if I can get somebody to saw it for me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Texas Screwworm Worrying Sooners

Texas screwworm cases in cattle are keeping Oklahoma ranchers on the alert, especially on the latest report of a case in Motley County, Texas, 50 miles from Hollis.

Other cases have been reported in Shackelford and Jones Counties in Texas, also near the Oklahoma border.

"We are approaching the worst part of the fall outbreak of screwworms," said Charles Nichols, extension livestock specialist at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

Nichols said the buildup in Texas last year was four times as great in October as it was in September. "The same thing could happen again this year and could be costly to Oklahoma cowmen," he added.

Texans termed the screwworm problem as an epidemic with 1,558 new cases reported in September, nearly double the number in August. So far this year, 3,691 cases have been reported in Texas, compared with only 835 in all of 1967.

Sterile fly treatment from the U. S. Department of Agriculture screwworm eradication laboratory at Mission, Texas, is being used to fight the epidemic. An early, severe cold front could help check the outbreak.

Nichols advised cattlemen to put off until cold weather any animal surgery. He also suggested frequent checks for wounds that would permit screwworm entry. Any Oklahoma cattlemen suspecting screwworms in their herds should contact the OSU county extension director in their respective counties.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

The growing group of rural residents who earn their living in the nearby city or town are an important part of the economy in most rural communities. A good part of these farm dwellers farm on a part-time basis—some commercial, but many purely for personal family use. The good tax folks point out that an expense for hog feed to produce meat for personal use is no more a deductible farm expenditure than an expense for bacon at the supermarket. Any farmer can deduct his expenses for produce if the produce is sold, but the suit the store owner takes from stock for his personal use it not a business expense—neither is the food you grow and eat on the farm.

B' Spring Radio Partnership Split Okayed

The Federal Communication Commission said it has authorized the joint owners of two Texas radio stations to dissolve their partnership and each to assume sole operation of one station.

Robert E. Bradbury, Jr. assumed control of KHEM and KFNE-FM, Big Spring, for assumption of debts of KPET and KPET - FM, Lamesa, in the amount of $27,792. Additional consideration is a $24,466 note payable to Thomas E. Conner. Conner in turn takes over the Lamesa station and will assume the $89,992 debt of KHEM and KFNE-FM, Big Spring.

Bible Comment—

Paul's Field Of Service Widened As He Traveled

When Paul saw the light on his way to Damascus, we are told he was not "disobedient unto the Heavenly vision."

It does not matter how God call comes to us, whether in Heavenly visions or through normal human impulses. The important thing is that no matter how it comes, it is by obedience only that we find a way to contribute our greatest service.

Paul the persecutor could have only partly realized at the time of his conversion that the mission of which God called him was one of great magnitude.

His conversion meant that he was breaking away from the old associations. His future, to say the least, was uncertain. He was accepting the risks and dangers of a new way of life.

But there was no uncertainty in Paul himself. He threw himself into the business of being a Christian with the same intensity with which he formerly persecuted his new brethren.

Nor was there any incompleteness in Paul's conversion. It was from the pagan city of Antioch, the place where the disciples were first called "Christians," that Paul began his journeys as a missionary.

His first journey was small in comparison to his later travels. His companion on that first journey was Barnabas, the same man who endorsed Paul when the disciples at Jerusalem were inclined to fear and distrust him.

Accompanying them was a young man named John whose surname was Mark. Later this companion was the cause of a sharp controversy between Paul and Barnabas. Paul refused to take him on the next trip.

But in defense of John Mark, it may be said that Paul, for whom no danger was too great or terrifying, may have been too exacting a leader.

The world owes a great debt to this John Mark because later he wrote the Gospel of Mark. It is the simplest and most direct of the Gospels and gives us a valuable portrayal of the Master's life and work.

Only in the 1960 elections were both major presidential candidates in their 40s.

Commerce Chief Is WTCC Speaker

U. S. Secretary of Commerce C. R. Smith, former chairman of American Airlines, was the first speaker at the 16th annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Conference.

The conference was held in Fort Worth's new Tarrant County Coliseum beginning at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 16. Early arrivals attended a reception on the preceding evening at 6:00 p.m. at the Western Hills Motor Hotel.

Smith, a native of Minerva, is a former University of Texas student. He has been identified with the aviation industry since 1928 and was a founder of American Airlines. He served as president of the organization from 1934 until his election as chairman of the board in 1964.

During World War II Smith became the principal organizer of the Air Transport Command for the Army Air Force. His service decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Merit. In 1961 Smith won the Billy Mitchell Award as "the United States citizen making the outstanding individual contribution to aviation progress."

Since March 6, 1968, Smith has served on the President's Cabinet as Secretary of Commerce.

Other speakers on the day's program include Harold Plimpton, Jr., president, Industrial Products, U. S. Corro Products Co. of Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. He will address the luncheon meeting.

Panelists on the subject of "Food and Fiber—West Texas" were Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of the School of Agricultural Sciences, Texas Tech;

U. S. Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares are "indestructible"—any that are lost, stolen, or destroyed will be replaced by the Treasury.

Dr. John Bradford, dean of the School of Engineering, Texas Tech, and Dr. L. S. Pope, associate Dean of Agriculture, Texas A&M University.

R. W. Engle, manager of marketing services, Alis Chalmers, Milwaukee, made a presentation on marketing during the morning session.

The conference on industrial development is one of the outstanding events staged by the WTCC annually. Representatives of chambers of commerce, utilities companies, railroads, industrial development foundations, and others interested in all phases of expansions and new industries attended the sessions.

Maxie Davie, Fort Worth, chairman of the industrial committee for WTCC, said, "Industries related to food and fibers offer one of the greatest opportunities for expansion and new industries in West Texas. The people we have on this year's program are truly experts in this field and many good ideas for cities of all sizes should come from this conference."

Fisher Hits Policy On Integration

Rep. O. Clark Fisher of San Angelo, Wednesday criticized as "nonsense" last week's House vote to, in effect, uphold the Office of Education's handling of school integration.

Fisher, who voted with most Texas members of the House and most Southerners against the education agency policy, told constituents in his weekly newsletter, "The ironic thing about this race-mixing policy is that it does not necessarily relate to integration in classrooms at all."

"In Odessa, for example, there is total integration in the schools," Fisher said. "Any student of any race is free to enroll in that child's neighborhood without any discrimination whatever. Yet a federal agent has decided there is not a proper mix of races in some of the neighborhoods, and is threatening to withhold money which rightfully belongs to the school district unless a better mixing plan (which would require busing) is laid out."

The conservative West Texas congressman said the Office of Education takes as its authority for the policy a provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

"There is, however, serious doubt that the government agency can legally withhold funds based upon the race mixture theory," Fisher said, "particularly where there is a full compliance with the Supreme Court mandate on school integration."

He added, "A dozen schools (districts) in Texas are now facing the withholding (of funds) threat unless they comply with arbitrary demands."

Red's Corner

By RED GIBSON

My recent retirement as second - string columnist of this journal left me in a position not unlike that of the rooster that found itself on perfectly flat desert. The rooster spent all night running around trying to find a high place to get up on and crow the next dawn.

While there are a number of you who think this column serves less purpose than most roosters, and while it may be that the offerings found here have the intellectual breadth of a good rooster's crowing, I'm nevertheless back for an indefinite run.

I understand from Editor Neal Estes ("understand" is a word that means "I guess," since the editor has never been known to write letters that the clamor for return of this column has not been so great as to take him away from his regular work. However, my mother likes it, and that's enough reason in this case.

As a matter of fact, I sometimes think that most of us would be somewhat better off if more little boys paid attention to their mommas. Perhaps that could be rephrased: I sometimes think that we would be better off if more mommas paid attention to their little boys.

We're all in this together, you know, and if we don't do some straightening out shortly, we'll be in a bigger mess than we are now in. That sounds like a politician, doesn't it? Sorry. What I mean is that most families would be happier if there were a little more supervision, a better idea of what junior is doing and wants to do.

While I don't intend to go into the merits of Dr. Benjamin Spock's political fo-farahing, I'm as willing to blame him as anyone else for current problems with children. And it is small consolation to realize that people have been lamenting the sad state of their juveniles for the last 2,000 years. Dr. Spock, who offers much wonderful advice to placate mothers and ease babies through their numerous infantile crisis, has been influential in getting people to let their children do whatever they dang please.

That's not any way to train a dog or a child, and a lot of people are realizing it now. What they have done is turn loose a bunch of kids who think that they can have their way in whatever endeavor they undertake. They want to run the place, particularly the nation's universities, and they haven't yet shown anyone that they are capable of understanding such an institution, much less running one.

Let's admit, of course, that some administrators have even less understanding of students than students have of their schools.

It is quite possibly an injustice to all concerned to dip into such a subject as the one we are discussing and not come up with something more profound, or at least not to make a better attempt to shed some light on the situation.

I do believe that the majority of our youths are decent people, and I work closely enough with them to make that statement freely. I feel, of course, that we have a loud minority that has given the whole group a black eye.

As many of you know, my second job (besides columnizing for The Stanton Reporter) is to supervise publication of the student newspaper at North Texas State University. My job is not to censor, in the normal sense, but to see that students do their homework, that they look into all angles of a story before writing it.

One recent day our only long-haired editorial writer turned in his first editorial, which said that the president of the school had better get off his duff and give the students what they wanted or they would take the place away from him. I went on through the editorial and turned it back with the comment that our newspaper would depend on logic in its editorial arguments and would leave appeals to emotion for someone else to use. I said further that the newspaper would not threaten the president or anyone else.

Exit long - hair. He later said to others that he didn't want to work for a fascist organization anyway. I am not enough of a Christian to find kindness in my heart for that lad.

Well, I know you are sorry to see me come back if I'm going to be so bitter in my old age. Don't fret. I'm going to a meeting with a bunch of young students today, and I know I'll return refreshed.

Editor Estes wanted me to come back for one big reason, and that was to review the television season. That's the big reason I have taken a cou-

Sheep Shearing Without Clippers — A young man with just a few minutes' instruction, quickly took fleece from a sheep in a recent demonstration at USDA's Beltsville, Maryland, research center. This innovation was made possible by biologist Dr. Ethel H. Dolnick and colleagues in USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Questions & Answers

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers for tax purposes.)

A — No, there is no need to obtain a new number. However, please notify the Social Security Administration of a change in your name so they can correct their records.

Q — Isn't the person who helps you prepare a tax return responsible for its accuracy? Some of the things I put down on the suggestion of a tax expert were disallowed and I got billed for additional tax.

A — A number of tax refunds were delayed last year because the taxpayer's name and social security number listed on the tax return did not match the name and number in Social Security Administration files.

A — The taxpayer is legally responsible for all the information on his return even when someone else helped him prepare it. Your experience shows the value of using reputable and qualified advisors when tax help is needed. It also demonstrates the need to check every item carefully before the return is filed.

Q — Do you have to pay social security tax for household help when you pay $50 a quarter but divide it between two people?

Q — Do you need a new social security number if you get married?

A — Yes, call your local IRS office about the letter. When you do, have the letter handy for reference purposes. If the letter was sent from the service center, the requested information should be sent there unless other instructions are given.

Winners will be placed through 12 places, and all 12 steers will be judged in the On Hook competition. Carcasses will be sold based on the chilled carcass weight, grade, and cutability.

The minimum for Senior steer calves, calved between September 1 and December 31, 1967, is 900 pounds. Junior steer calves calved after January 1, 1968, must top the scales at 800 pounds or more.

Howard County's fifth screwworm case was confirmed this week and was reported in a herd of 300 cattle on the John Otis Chalk ranch in the southeast corner of the county.

There have been 437 verified screwworm cases reported by the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program in Mission from Sept. 1-14, compared to only 26 during the same period in 1967.

There were 36 cases reported in Arizona, 14 in New Mexico, and eight in California. In Texas, the fall build-up got off to an early start with heavy outbreaks in the Trans-Pecos and Big Bend areas. Fifty counties recorded cases during the period, however, with cases showing a spreading trend.

Officials of the program said ranchers can help reduce the outbreaks this fall by using preventive practices. Surgical operations which can be postponed until cold weather should be treated with products recommended against screwworms on the label. Spraying herds also will help reduce cases.

Louders Visit Relatives In North Texas

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Louder have returned to Stanton after visiting with relatives and friends in North Texas.

The Louders are natives of Rockwall County, but have resided in Martin County for many years.

Their first stop on their trip was in Royce City, where they visited Mrs. Louder's sister's family. They attended the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Butler.

From Royce City they journeyed to Dallas for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Jordan.

'Below-Belt Statement' Draws Graham's Fire

Evangelist Billy Graham disagreed sharply Sunday with what he called a "below-the-belt statement" by George Ball concerning the character of Republican Presidential candidate Richard Nixon.

Graham, who reiterated he doesn't intend to get involved in politics, said, "Certainly it is within the American system to debate political issues and attack each other's position, but M. Ball reflected upon Mr. Nixon's moral character and personal integrity."

The evangelist said, "I reacted strongly when he said on a national television program Mr. Nixon didn't have the character to be president."

Ball, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, told a news conference Friday Nixon is cynical and callous, adding, "It's important that people not forget that he was called 'Tricky Dick.'"

Graham said in the nearly 20 years he has known Nixon, "I have not seen one thing in my personal relationship with him that would give any indication he is tricky."

Graham said in a statement released at his Montreat home, "I can testify that he (Nixon) is a man of high moral principles."

Graham said he wanted to reaffirm that "I do not intend to publicly endorse any political candidate as some clergymen are doing, but I maintain the right to help put the record straight when a friend is smeared."

SOWERS OF THE SEED

A minister had begun to address his congregation when his words were interrupted by the blast of a bomb. When all was silent, he said, "Had we listened to the 'still small voice' of the Lord, we should not have this to listen to."

It is rare to find a soul quiet enough to hear the sound of a whisper. So the voice of the Lord "thundereth" — Psalm 29:3. What are the storms but the seedlings of the Lord? Sin always brings a storm, and no one is safe in his sinning. The winds are ready to whip him, the thunders to torment him and the sea to swallow him. Ask Jonah. But the Lord is in the storm, and they are used to deliver, not to destroy.

They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Marshall in Josephine.

"The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars." Paul was like a cedar, strong and stubborn. As he was on his way to destroy the Christians, the voice of the Lord broke him. "Lord," he asked, "what wilt Thou have me do?" Blessed brokenness!

"The voice of the Lord shaketh the wilderness." A celebrated ballerina was asked, "Has your career brought you happiness?" "I receive many honors," she replied, "yet I find a wilderness in my heart."

Is your heart like a wilderness—dry and disappointing? Heed the voice of the Lord, and He will take away your emptiness and give you His fullness. The Saviour satisfies.

SECURITY LIGHTS

NITE LIFE

Here's a bright idea... stretch a few more hours into your busy days. You can do this and much more when you have outdoor lights controlled by an electric photo cell. It automatically turns itself on at dusk; off at dawn. Your yard, barn and out buildings can all be well lighted so you can still get things done... even after the sun sets.

Well-placed outdoor lighting is an important safety feature, too. Because you can see, even on the darkest night, there is less chance of injury by a slip or fall. It means greater security, too. A well lighted area discourages unwanted prowlers, both the two- and four-legged varieties. Animals, birds and equipment are thus protected... automatically... from dusk to dawn.

The cost? Only a few pennies a day. Ask us for complete information. We'll be glad to help you select the best locations for each light so you can get greater benefit from low-cost rural electric power.

Texas Highway Patrol Will Use Breath Tests

The Texas Highway Patrol will start using scientific breath tests to step up enforcement of drunken driving laws.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, said today 90 new Breathalyzer will be located in 80 of the most populous counties.

Speir said drivers suspected of drunkenness can be tested only if they volunteer. He said the ease of administering the breath test compared to blood testing, should increase the number of motorists who give consent.

Widespread acceptance of breath testing could pave the way for passage of an implied consent law which requires motorists to agree to take a chemical test for intoxication as a condition of receiving a driver's license.

Speir said the Breathalyzer device shows the degree of intoxication by measuring the amount of alcohol on a person's breath.

The devices were purchased at a cost of about $1,000 each. 12 chemists were hired and 450 patrolmen were given 40 hours of training in operating the instruments, Speir said.

The federal and state governments are sharing the $250,000 costs of the program, he said.

Speir said, the drinking driver is a factor in up to 50 per cent of the traffic deaths in Texas. The Breathalyzer could make substantial reductions in this toll, he predicted, by removing many such drivers from the road.

Speir said studies indicate that a driver with 10 per cent of alcohol in his blood is six or seven times more likely to be in an accident as a non-drinking driver.

This amount of alcohol in the bloodstream is a commonly used legal definition of driving while intoxicated.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Probably the first fish a youngster catches is the so-called perch or bream, or if you want to be more formal, the sunfish.

Some anglers never graduate from this stage, and continuing to catch these diminutive battlers right on through life... an understandable admirable thing to do. Catching perch, anyway you take it, is just plain, wholesome fun.

Trouble is, most anglers approach the sport with the wrong idea. They use heavy tackle that soon aborts any notions the perch may have about putting up a protest.

Secret is to catch them on light tackle, the lighter the better, something like an ultra-light spinning outfit with two-pound-test line or maybe a fly rod.

Once for ounce, the perch is the fightiest fish that swims. It even puts the fabled black bass to shame. Show me a perch and a bass the identical size and it will be no contest in a tugging match. The sunfish will win every time.

Only regrettable thing is that the sunfish doesn't grow very large. Get one a half pound or larger and you've got a BIG one. But even one the size of your hand can put a healthy bend in an ultra-light spinning rod or a fly rod.

In some places, like Caddo Lake and Lake O' the Pines in Northeast Texas, Dam B. Lake in Southeast Texas, and Marble Falls Lake in Central Texas, catching sunfish is popular sport.

On Lake O' the Pines, one of the favorite baits is the gray cricket. Most anglers fish along the trees standing in the lake. They lower the cricket down deep where the sunfish hang out.

There are many members of the sunfish family in Texas. True identification of your catch is compounded because of hybrids and inter-breeding between the species. Some of them are truly colorful characters, spotted and touched with bright colors.

One of the most popular members of the family in Texas is the so-called goggle-eyed perch. This actually is the warmouth. It is sort of an olive green all over with a large mouth, looking offhand something like a black bass.

Another favorite is the bluegill. Since the overall coloration will vary, the best identifying marks, universally, are the several black spots visible at the rear part of the top fin when the fin is spread open.

Other important Texas species are the yellow-breasted sunfish and the long-eared sunfish. These can really be confused. Actually the yellow-breast has longer ears than the long-eared and the long-eared has a more vivid yellow breast than the yellow-breasted.

The common sunfish also is quite common and can best be identified by a bright red spot on the gill cover and light blue stripes on its cheeks.

Another important one is the green sunfish, which as its name implies is generally green all over.

Actually, identification is something most fishermen could care less about. They just like to catch and eat the ubiquitous perch, its nationality be hanged.

No elaborate tackle is needed to catch perch. An ordinary cane pole will suffice. But it is more fun on sporting tackle like an ultra-light spinning outfit or fly-rod.

Most perch are taken on bait. But this is because fishermen never have learned the greater pleasure they can get from catching 'em on artificial baits. Tiny spinner baits and wet flies will take almost as many in number, and usually the average size taken on artificials will run larger than those on comparable natural baits.

It is wise to remember, however, that the wet flies should be small, about No. 10 in size. Also good at times are small popping bugs.

The list of baits that will tempt perch is almost endless. Favorite, of course, is the earthworm. Also good are small grasshoppers, crickets, tiny bits of frozen shrimp, and grubs.

Believe it or not, the perch belongs to the same family as the black bass. Actually, the black bass isn't a true bass at all. It's a member of the sunfish family. For this reason you'll find sunfish in about the same place you'll find bass. Surprisingly true... perch rate high on the bass' everyday diet.

Look for perch around submerged stumps and rocks, along moss beds and around weeds, generally in water from about a foot to ten feet deep. Work your bait slowly to catch them.

As for preparing them for eating, just scale, dress and cut off the heads. Fry richly brown in a deep skillet of grease where the many bones become brittle and you can eat fins, bones and all.

Fried perch makes a delicious meal!

Screwworm Epidemic Expected To Reach Peak Soon

The current epidemic of costly screwworm cases in Texas is expected to reach its peak during the next two or three weeks, and all livestock owners are urged to be on the alert for cases during this critical period.

This warning comes from Dr. Marion E. Meadows, veterinarian in charge of field operations at the Mission Screwworm Eradication Program Laboratory near here.

Livestock pest cases have zoomed alarmingly this fall, and have spread to new areas of the state. All producers are urged to practice preventive measures in order to help stamp out the fall screwworm epidemic, worst since the fall of 1963, when the eradication program was in its infancy.

Three new counties had their first cases of the year confirmed on Wednesday. These include Jack County, separated from the Oklahoma border only by Clay County, which up to now has reported no cases; and Brown and Runnels Counties, which are separated by Coleman County, where several previous cases have been reported. Officials expressed concern over the new infestations, and have alerted livestock producers of southern Oklahoma to be on the alert for possible outbreaks.

So far this week, 650 new screwworm cases have been in Texas, topping last week's record of 646 cases for a one-week period. Heavy case outbreaks are being concentrated along the Rio Grande River in Val Verde, Maverick, Kinney, and Edwards counties; and in the Edwards - Plateau and Hill Country counties of Sutton and Schleicher; and in South Texas counties of Uvalde, Medina, Zapata, Zavala, Wilson, Webb, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg, and Jim Wells. Outbreaks appear to be tapering off in the Trans - Pecos and Big Bend areas, with the exception of Terrell and Pecos counties.

Continuing rains in much of the state this week will provide ideal conditions for fly increases, unless a sustained cold front arrives to de-activate the flies, reminds Dr. Meadows.

Horned Owls Eat Armadillos

Jasper Henry who travels with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Exhibit, says he doesn't know if horned owls eat armadillos, but he says he knows of at least one armadillo who thinks they do. Henry said he carried the armadillo to what he thought was an empty cage and put him in the door. "As soon as I got him through the door, he started acting skittish," Henry said. "He tried to back out and I gave him a shove. He started out again, and I caught him between my legs and shoved him in again. He ran around in the cage, trying to get out any way he could."

Finally, Henry decided to investigate a little closer. Poking his head through the door, he saw the exhibit's great horned owl perched at the top of the cage.

"That owl must have looked awful fierce and hungry to our armadillo," said Henry.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Slow Motion Divorce

Not long ago a man filed suit for divorce on the ground that his wife had committed adultery — 20 years earlier. But his case was dismissed because of too much procrastination. The court, noting the difficulties of finding out what really happened that long ago, commented:

"A husband cannot wait to make his charges until the years dim the proofs to the contrary."

Like most lawsuits, a divorce suit too long delayed may be barred automatically by a state's statute of limitations. But even if there is no automatic bar, courts are usually skeptical of divorce suits in which the complaining spouse has postponed action for an excessive period of time.

One reason, mentioned above, is the problem of evidence — of degrading facts out of a distant past. Another reason is the feeling that a grievance, if acted upon so slowly, could not have been too serious in the first place.

Thus a woman failed to convince the court that two blows by her husband, inflicted 40 years before, had ruined her marriage.

"There must be some limit to judicial credulity, said the judge. We think it has been reached here."

Nevertheless, there may well be a legitimate reason for delay. For example, a man who put off a divorce suit for a number of years, after learning of his wife's infidelity, gave an excuse that satisfied the court; he wanted to spare his young children from scandal as long as he could.

In another case a husband was held justified in waiting gallantly, before suing for divorce, while his wife recovered from a severe illness.

Perhaps the best reason for delay is that the wronged spouse continues to have hope that the marriage may yet be preserved.

Thus, a court found no fault with a man who waited seven years — in recurring hope of a reconciliation — before finally seeking a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty. The court felt it would be unfair to blame him for wanting what the law itself encourages: the saving of the marriage.

Non-Residents Need Hunting Licenses

Residents of other states hunting in Texas must have a non-resident hunting license, says J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Two non-resident hunting license with deer tags attached is required of all non-residents hunting any game animal or game bird during the open season. This license is valid for a full year beginning September 1 and cost $25.

The five - day non - resident hunting license, costing $5, permits a non-resident to hunt migratory game birds only for five consecutive days. Migratory game birds includes doves, both mourning and whitewing, and waterfowl, but does not include quail and turkey.

The act which requires hunting licenses also provides that no hunting license will be considered valid unless issued on a proper form provided by the department. Written hand receipts are not acceptable and the issuing agent as well as the recipient are both in violation of the act.

"It is the license agent's responsibility to issue the correct type of license to an applicant and it is the applicant who bears the responsibility to verify his residency," Phillips said.

County Agents Column

Information supplied by some 35,000 Texas farmers and ranchers will become the basis for the official crop production estimates for each county and state. County Agent Reagor said a representative number of farmers and ranchers in Martin County, will be among the 35,000 in Texas receiving the questionnaire from State Statistician Cary Palmer of the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin. The questionnaire will be mailed during the last half of October. Accurate estimates are of great importance to producers in planning their production and marketing, farm program participation and also for providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture, emphasized Reagor. The program of estimates for each county is provided by the Texas Legislature. Since Texas covers such a wide area and with great diversification of production, state totals alone do not provide adequate information on our most basic industry, Agriculture, the county agent explained. This is a joint project, he said, between the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Statistical Reporting Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Because of the importance of the program, the county agent urges every producer in the county who receives a questionnaire from the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service to fill it out completely for his farm or ranch and return it to the Austin office of the Reporting Service.

Big Spring Park Contract Awarded

A construction contract for $10,376.39 has been awarded to Holcomb Supply Company of Tarzan, for the construction of 12 picnic units with shade shelters at Big Spring State Recreation Park. The 32-acre park is located two miles southwest of Big Spring in Howard County. The new facilities will supplement 11 picnic sites, a children's play area and a pavilion already in the park. A scenic drive to the top of a mountain in the park provides a panoramic view of the surrounding country. The "big spring" nearby was once the only watering hole in a 60-mile radius. It provided a watering place for herds of buffalo, antelope, and wild horses. It was also used extensively as a campsite for early Indians. The construction project is due to be completed in November, 1968.

Choosing A President

AN EDITORIAL

In the highly complicated action of national political campaigns and the confusion that often seems to defy clear thinking and decision-making, how does a newspaper or a private citizen make a choice for president of the United States of America?

As in a jury trial where evidence is exhibited and testimony is presented, so do major party candidates make hundreds of appearances in all regions of the country and deliver addresses to many groups of people — appealing for support on the basis of their platforms and beliefs — and views of what the nation needs and the people want.

When a jury has seen the evidence and heard the testimony, then it must evaluate and weigh the material and consider the character, credibility and trustworthiness of the witnesses. So it is with the American electorate — we must examine the ability and capacity of the candidates, their experience and purpose, and judge their fitness and temperament to serve as president of our nation.

Decision time is at hand, for the election will be held three weeks from Tuesday. We are convinced that the time has come for a change in administrations in Washington. The people, who in essence are the government in this Republic, are ready and will vote for a change.

The News and Journal believe that Richard M. Nixon is the man best qualified to be president. We endorse and will editorially support the Nixon-Agnew team, believing it offers the needed strength and vision of leadership and will have the cooperation and respect needed to effect desirable change.

Out of all the oratory, claims and charges, reactionary complaining and harping about conditions that one hears and reads in most of the campaigning, there emerges a sound note of encouragement and hope in the confident, and well-reasoned campaign of Richard Nixon. It isn't that he is closing his eyes to all that is wrong, for he readily identifies the main things that are wrong and firmly pledges to see that they are corrected.

More hope, more optimism about America and the freedom and right of citizens and states is expressed by Nixon than by all the other candidates combined. Here is a man who still believes in old-fashioned American courage and faith. We are convinced that he will lead us out of doubt and growing fear to once again hold up our heads and warm our hearts with pride in our freedom and confidence in our future.

What are the big troubles of America today, and what does Mr. Nixon propose to do about them?

The war in Vietnam is a grave matter in which we are deeply involved, with no hope in sight for settlement. Mr. Nixon calls for an end to this war "on an honorable basis" and offers new leadership, and a fresh approach to peace through negotiation "from strength, never from weakness." Making this his first objective, he also pledges to pursue a new foreign policy that will restore world respect of the United States, sharply reduce our foreign aid, and encourage other nations to provide their own defense.

Inflation is a growing threat that eats up the economic gains and erodes the income and savings of American citizens, while big spending on countless federal give-away schemes and benefit programs of unproved value plunge the nation deeper into debt, weaken the dollar, and threaten economic collapse. Mr. Nixon advocates that rather than having more millions on welfare rolls we should "have more millions on payrolls by encouraging business and industry in the American tradition of free enterprise and individual opportunity and that taxes should be reduced, with the recently passed 10 per cent federal income surtax being repealed "just as soon as possible" rather than extended as those tied to the present administration are saying.

Crime and violence are a growing problem that threatens the peace and safety of every family in the country. Mr. Nixon calls for a common respect for law and order, says the rate of convictions for crime should be doubled, charges that "some of our courts have gone too far in their decisions in weakening the police force against the criminal," says we must respect and equalize the rights of minorities "while giving proper respect to the rights of the majority" and to the states, and calls for public recognition that "the first civil right of all Americans is to be free from domestic violence."

Run-away government deficit spending threatens the personal income and family support of people throughout the nation, yet some candidates advocate still bigger government spending. Says Mr. Nixon: "I say the real take-home pay of the average working man is lower now than it was three years ago, thanks to a run-away cost of living. . . . We must cut government spending, reduce taxes, and let people spend more of their own money in their own way."

Most Texans of voting age will recall that it was the Eisenhower-Nixon team that kept its promise to return the tidelands to Texas, and did so over the three-week filibuster opposition led by Hubert Humphrey who delivered a long and bitter anti-Texas tirade. Since 1953, when the tidelands were returned to Texas, the income from rentals, bonuses, and royalties from these tidelands has added $153,628,554.62 to the Texas permanent school fund.

We make no attempt here to present all the arguments, cite all the reasons, or discuss all the issues involved in our decision. We simply believe that Mr. Nixon has the best interests of people and nation at heart, and that he is best qualified by capacity, experience, and even-tempered judgment to lead our nation. He is cheerful and confident in attitude, plans and programs, and he urges Americans in all walks of life not to despair of their future but to take action now so they can again look forward in hope and optimism to a better life for all.

This is the kind of confidence in ourselves and faith in our country that is so vitally necessary to keep America free and strong, and we are proud to endorse the Nixon-Agnew team and urge our fellow-citizens to support it at the polls on November 5.

Stanton High School News

By PUG DEAVENPORT

Homecoming has come and gone, leaving behind pleasant memories for every student in SHS. The work spent on floats, pep rally decorations, and the bonfire will be remembered by all that gave their time to make Homecoming a success. Activities swung into a high fever Thursday afternoon, when classes were dismissed an hour early to allow students to gather wood for the bonfire. Later that night, following a fine performance by the Buffalo Junior Varsity, the bonfire was lit, the band played, cheerleaders led yells, and all those present got into the right frame of mind for the big game against Post. Friday was "Color Day" and "Whisper Day" at Stanton High. A Mystery Person was selected by student council president, David Adkins, to be "it" during the day. Students spent the day whispering "Beat Post" to their classmates in hopes of being the thirtieth person to speak to the mystery person. At the 2:30 pep rally, Jack Madison was revealed as the mystery person. The winner of the Whisper Day contest and receiving a check for $2.50 was Mrs. Douglas, general science teacher at SHS.

Then, to make a good homecoming great, the Mighty Mites of Stanton High rolled over the Post Antelopes to win the first homecoming game in many years. When the air cleared, following the game, the scoreboard showed a Buffalo victory by a 30-0 margin, with Stanton racking up some nice statistics. In the contest, the Bisons collected 15 first downs to the opponents 7. In total offense the Mighty Mites compiled an impressive 489 yards. 204 came from aerials. The Buff defense looked pretty sharp, too, while they allowed the Antelopes to advance only 20 yards on the ground, and 98 in the air. Stanton completed 6 of 11 passes Post connected on 7 out of a possible 30. The Buffs fastened on to an early lead, as they scored twice in the opening period. David Jones reeled in a short punt on the Post 40, and galloped into pay-dirt for the first TD. Carl Dean's run for the EP tied.

The next score was set up by Steve Stallings' interception of a Post aerial and concurrent 15 yard run. Four plays later, hard-running Gary Kitchens belloved over from the three to make the second Bison touchdown. David Jones' scamper made the extra point good, and Stanton led 14-0 at the end of the first quarter. It looked like Stanton would get back on the scoreboard again early in the second stanza, when Jones connected to Stallings on a long pass. Steve brought the ball in and headed for the goal line with a Post pursuer at his heels. Steve forced his way down to the two, but was hit hard and fumbled the ball into the end-zone. Post recovered it for the touchback. With a little over three minutes remaining in the half, Gary Kitchens, sophomore halfback, carried the pigskin around the left end for a 58 yard gain to the Post 8. A few plays later, Johnny McMeans, scored on a 16 yard run. Jack Madison's extra point kick was good, giving SHS a comfortable 21-0 lead at half.

Stanton and Post exchanged the ball early in the third period. Post's Newby blocked one of Benny Avery's punts to get the ball on the Buff 25. Jack Madison got into the recovery act on the very next play when he fell on a Post bobble at the 18. Benny Avery pulled in a Jones' pass in the third quarter for a 30 yard TD effort. Madison's EP kick failed, but the Buffs lead 27-0. In the final quarter Madison attempted three field goals, connecting only on the first one, a 27-yarder. These three points, added to those the boys had already accumulated, brought the grand total of the homecoming game up to 30-0. Three Bison running backs figured highly in the rushing statistics. Gary Kitchen led with 84 yards in 14 carries, followed closely by David Jones with 79, and Carl Dean with 72. Both boys carried 11 times. The victory leads the Mighty Mites into district play with a 4-1 record.

The Exes supper was held at the high school cafeteria from 6:00 until 7:30. At this time the Stanton and Courtney Exes chose homecoming and coming home queens. The results from the elections were announced during the special half-time activities. During crowning ceremonies, the SHS band, under the direction of Linda Holder formed a heart, as coming-home queen nominees, Betty (Deck) Mims, and Mary Kathryn (Barfield) Bristow, along with the 1967 queen, Betty (Blissard) Fryar, were escorted onto the field by the cheerleaders. Mrs. Bristow was announced as the exes choice, and was presented a bouquet of red roses by head cheerleader Vicki Morrison. Miss Doris Howard, junior nominee and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Howard, was crowned 1968 homecoming queen. She was escorted by Randy Huckaby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Huckaby, and a '67 grad of SHS. Runner-ups were: Nancy Hurch, Vicki Glynn, and Theresa Louder. Nancy, a senior, was escorted by Steve Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hall. Steve is a 1968 graduate of SHS. The sophomore candidate, Vicki Glynn, was escorted by Mike Hall, class of 1966, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hall. Theresa Louder, freshman nominee, was escorted by her brother, Johnny, a 1968 graduate.

The homecoming queen and court left the field as the band played the theme from "Gone With the Wind."

In the second half, Padilla was the first to score on his 35 yard run. Garza's run for the EP brought the score up to 28-0. The final TD was earned by Roy Kelly on a 3 yard run through the line. Bill Pardue pulled in an Adam's aerial to bring up the final 36-0 score. This Thursday, the JV's will meet the undefeated Big Spring sophomores, on the home field at 8:00. The Buffalo "B" team met the Big Spring team for their very first game, and fell to the Steers 20-6. Big Spring's smallest margin this year. The Steers have accumulated an impressive list of victories, including a 58-8 win over Class AAA Colorado City's Junior Varsity. Donald Janson, from Texas A&M University, presented an interesting program to the high school students Monday afternoon. The program, entitled "This Atomic World," explained many of the mysteries centered around the atom and its power. Assisting Mr. Janson on the stage were: Doris White, David Greenhaw, Curtis Doyle, Chris Blow, Leslie Butler, and Johnny McMeans. Annuals will be on sale until November 1. Those interested in purchasing a 1968-69 year-book should contact Daria Dowden, Kay Hankins, Patricia Haislip, Gayle Haggard, Scotty Fisher, John Anstasio, Peggy Anastasio, Mary Powell, Mary Ramos, and Sandra Chandler. The proofs for the senior pictures arrived this week, and the senior packets should be in soon. Representatives from the SHS Future Famers of America chapter, participated in the plant identification contest at Waco's Heart of Texas Fair, October 5, and brought back top honors. The team members, Jim Louder, Stanley Louder, and Jim Epley, ranked first, second, and third, in individual points, respectively. Jim Louder scored 390, with Stanley and Jim Epley close with 386 and 366. The total team score was 1,134. Also attending the event were alternates, Dennis Jones, and Thomas Hoggard, and the groups sponsor, Nolan Parker. The second in this year's Southern Assembly series, was presented Tuesday during activity period. Student council president introduced the speaker, No Yong Park, who spoke to the high school and junior high school students on patriotism and the responsibilities of adulthood. Mr. Park, holder of a degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Harvard University, was born in Manchuria of Korean parentage. He is the author of many books, and has been honored by Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, for an outstanding achievement in bringing about appreciation of our American way of life. The district title will be the aim of the Fightin' Mighty Mites this week as they meet their first conference opponent, McCamey. The game will kick-off at 7:30 on the home field. The Buffs will carry a 4-1 record into the game. The solitary loss was to Coahoma; the victories were over Tahoka, Seagraves, Rotan, and Post. McCamey has established a 3-1-1 record. The Badgers topped Iraan, Fort Stockton, and Alpine, while they tied Rankin and fell to Pecos. Plan on attending the JV game, too. It's Thursday, October 17, at 8:00. Back your home-town team! Beat McCamey!

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

The largest circulated daily newspaper between Dallas and Shreveport has endorsed RICHARD NIXON for the presidency. In a page one Sunday editorial MRS. CARL ESTES, publisher, put together one of the best set of sound reasons I ever read in behalf of NIXON. She refused to attack either of the other candidates and only offered her reasons for backing the GOP candidate. MRS. ESTES succeeded her late husband as publisher sixteen months ago. She stepped into the executive spot like a veteran. Her publications in East Texas have continued to win fine honors under her guidance and direction. Among recently bestowed personal honors included being named the outstanding citizen of Longview for 1967. I am very proud of my intelligent sister.

HUMPHREY has reportedly purchased one hour prime time on CBS for a debate Sunday evening. It should be interesting to watch a man debate himself. Of course, HUBERT has been on the side of so many issues, pro and con, yes and no, negative and affirmative, that he is capable of asking questions and answering. It has been considered alright according to the psychologists for a person to talk to himself — until he starts answering himself. If that happens, someone should call the wagon. I realized the other evening when I viewed HUBERT shouting and tearing his hair that he was acting strange but I just didn't realize how hurt or sick that he was. LYNDON has given him no big help. JOHN CONNALLY and other party big-wigs have been inactive. CONNALLY couldn't get in too deep. He is the guy who branded the ADA the sorriest organization in history. PRICE DANIEL, a former governor, couldn't help much. He was helping lead the fight for Texas tidelands when HUBERT was filibustering in the U. S. Senate against the bill. HUBERT has also fought the depletion allowance and fought everything else Texans stood for in the past. Anybody caught sporting a HUMPHREY button or using a car sticker (I haven't seen any yet) is suspect. He is either obligated to HUMPHREY personally, expects some sort of federal appointment, or is just plain out-of-tune with thinking Texans.

Two very lovely ladies from Midland campaigned in Stanton a while last Friday for GEORGE WALLACE. Of course, GEORGE don't pick his supporters and certainly has nothing to do with their looks but evidently the governor attracts the women. But again, he has attracted a lot of sturdy mountain men in Tennessee, some cool miners in Pennsylvania, a lot of cowboys in Texas, and some hillbillies in Arkansas. GEORGE is a happy sort of fellow and I think he has handled the hecklers better than any of the candidates. His ticket picked up a lot of weight too, when he persuaded that great American, CURTIS LEMAY to run with him.

I appreciated a communication from ELLMORE JOHNSON, formerly minister of the Stanton Church of Christ here, now living in California. ELLMORE sent along some clippings concerning the presidential race out there on the coast. They were real interesting. The people of California are definitely calling for a change in Washington. Polls out here seem to favor NIXON first, WALLACE second, and HUMPHREY last.

J. E. PICKLE, well known Howard County citizen and father of JOE PICKLE, managing editor of the Big Spring Herald, and Congressman JAKE PICKLE of Austin, suffered a severe stroke last week. His condition is improved and his friends are pulling for his recovery.

Three nice invitations arrived in the mail for me this week to attend out-of-town functions but at this writing pressing business activities on the horizon will probably keep me at home. OSCAR (COTTON) FANNIN has announced a meeting of the Plains Cotton Growers Association at KaKo Palace in Lubbock from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. today, and wants me to attend. My old college fraternity, Kappa Sigma, will present JACK G. TAYLOR as the 1968 Tau Chapter Man of the Year in Austin Saturday just before the Texas-Arkansas game. The third invitation comes from Texas Electric Service Company. The Quarter Century Club will assemble in Odessa for their annual session. This affair will be held on Wednesday night of next week. CECIL BRIDGES and MISS SAMMYE LAWS of the local TESCO office are both members of this outstanding club.

RED GIBSON mailed in a column from his home in Denton and it appears in this issue of the paper. RED, son of JUDGE and MRS. MARTIN GIBSON, says he is going to write his "Red's Corner" regularly and we are glad to have his bit back in the paper. Personally, I enjoy his column and the one in the paper this week is real interesting. But, RED is wrong in thinking I just wanted him back to review the current TV programs. I decided to review them myself and I agree with what RED wrote last year when he said that television had shown little improvement.

From reports in your paper and other sources all indications are that Stanton — Martin County — is having a good year. I am thankful to see the Stanton Buffaloes winning games this year.

We plan to be in Stanton the latter part of this year, so hope to see you then. Sincerely, Ellmore Johnson.

Parcel post rates are based on the weight of the package. Reason, or one of the reasons for the higher rates, is to offset higher costs resulting from pay increases approved last year for postal employees.

Postal rates on all mailable material has climbed several times under the Johnson-Humphrey administration.

St. Joseph's Altar Society met in the home of Mrs. George Glynn, on Oct. 14.

Plans were made to attend the Diocesan Convention at Abilene, Oct. 29 and 30.

Baptist Church Activities

The Intermediate Girl's Auxiliary of the First Baptist Church, met at the home of Mrs. Phillip Stovall, October 9, for their regular meeting and program.

Refreshments were served by Zanna Angel, to Rosalyn Louder, Debra Doyle and Betty Anderson.

Mrs. Ralph Newman and Ralph, Jr., are attending the State Fair in Dallas, this week-end, and visiting with her mother, Mrs. Maurine Harrison, and brother, Don Harrison and family, in Ft. Worth. Mrs. Nell Allen accompanied her to Ft. Worth, where she will visit relatives also.

They expect to prove that there is sufficient food on the ocean floor to feed the world. The aquanauts were trained for long periods of time prior to their trip, which will take up to 14 1/2 days. The Sealab is provided with mixtures of helium and oxygen for breathing purposes.

Twenty-two members were present, and Don Williams of Fort Worth, was a guest.

St. Joseph Catholic Cemetery Is Improved

By JOHN ROUCHE

For more than one hundred years, the plot of ground in the northeast corner of the City of Stanton known as St. Joseph Cemetery, has received bodies of departed souls from the Martin County area. In the beginning, a final resting place seemed to be the prime purpose for the existence of the cemetery, as no records were kept of some of the interments made there. In recent years, much effort has been made to up-date the records of the past history of this hallowed ground and instigate a renewal program that would modernize and beautify the cemetery for now and time to come.

In pursuit of this modernization program, members of St. Joseph Parish laid off a new section in the cemetery, installed an automatic sprinkler system, seeded the ground with Bermuda grass, and developed the area into a beautiful spot. Its natural splendor bespeaks of the peace and tranquility that only God can give to the departed souls whose bodies will sometime be laid to rest within its confines.

Realizing that man's last place on earth should be an appealing spot, the group erected a curved entrance into the cemetery which reflects a welcome atmosphere to the visitor. Within the cemetery, in the center of the entrance wings, stands a memorial to Mr. Edmund Tom, which his many friends had erected to his memory. The memorial is a granite book on which is inscribed The Lord's Prayer. A tablet of granite at the foot of the book is inscribed with the names of donors to the memorial fund. In reading the prayer, one seems to grasp the fullness of God's will for each of us that we love one another as we love ourselves that God may love all of us in return for the love we show our fellow man.

Texas Takes First Place In Junior ROTC Expansion

Texas leads the nation in the expansion of the Junior Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program for the academic year with 99 high schools now participating.

"Thirteen new units in the Fourth Army area bring to 123 the number of high schools offering the program in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and New Mexico," according to Colonel Elton W. Duren, ROTC division chief at Fourth U. S. Army, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

"This means that more than 20,000 high school students in the area have an opportunity to learn American traditions of duty and responsibility. Although they incur no military obligation, such participation does not exempt them from their lawful military obligation," he said.

Bob Latimer, Mrs. Fiji Brandt, Mrs. B. F. Smith, Mrs. Edmund Morrow, Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. Homer Schwalbe, Mrs. Dewey Williams, Mrs. Eddy Butler, Mrs. O. B. Bryan, Mrs. Beth Barbee, Mrs. Tom Ed Angel, Mrs. Evelyn Woodard, Mrs. Richard Payne, Mrs. Billy Reager, Mrs. Bill Terry, and Mrs. John Wood.

Colonel Duren added that graduates of the program may enter the service as privates E-2. If drifted they are promoted to E-2, however, they still are required to take basic combat training.

There are now 532 high schools throughout the U. S. offering Junior ROTC training.

With a nation-wide ceiling of 650 units by academic year 1970-71, only 118 high schools remain to enter the program.

Additional information on the Army Junior ROTC program may be obtained from the Commanding General, Fourth U. S. Army, ATTN: A-KARAF-R, Fort Sam Houston, Texas 78234.
