By NEAL ESTES

This is National FFA Week and the occasion is being properly marked in Martin County. The FFA membership in the county is exceptional. NOLAN PARKER, SHS vocational ag teacher has done a marvelous job with his charges in FFA at the local school. He is recognized as one of the best instructor-leaders in this part of Texas. I want to extend personal greetings and congratulations to PARKER for the brilliant young members of the Stanton Chapter of FFA for all the honor and good publicity they have brought to our community through the winning ways and displays of good judgment in area competition. The boys have one of the finest records in the Lone Star state.

I heartily endorse the action of the Stanton municipal councilmen for making arrangements to employ an animal warden. I pledge JIMMY GASTON, the first warden, the total support of this newspaper in his endeavors to keep the city clear of all sorts of straying dogs. I love dogs and other pets as well as the next man but a howling, barking, biting dog is no fun. Certainly, a canine of such characteristics has no business running loose in the town and living out of garbage cans. Dogs need to be kept up, properly fed, treated like a member of the family. Don't allow your dog to worry your neighbor. A barking dog has as much business in a quiet residential neighborhood as a temperance worker has at a distillers convention. I trust the attitude of all real dog loving persons in Stanton will be to help GASTON in his job of keeping the stray dogs under control.

I am happy to report to the many friends of the COSTEY-HENSON family that MRS. BOB COSTEY is doing just fine and reported on the road to recovery. MRS. COSTEY is the wife of the co-owner of STANTON FOOD MARKET, and a sister of DWAYNE HENSON, LEMAN HENSON, and MRS. MASON COGGIN, all of this city.

A lot of talk is going around over the country about the "generation gap." Yep, there is a generation gap and it needs to be put back up—the gap that is. The best gaps are perhaps gone forever. I refer to old-fashioned barns or wide back porches with a razor strop hanging by the screen door. My late father had little trouble in closing the generation gap with that razor strop or some long limber switches.

It has been said that New York is a great city to draw welfare checks in but not to work in. One writer says it has come to the point where one can't actually live—really live, in New York. That is, if you call living enjoying your home, sending your children to school, getting the garbage picked up, visiting with your next door neighbors, having a picnic in the park, or getting out alone without being nagged. ## Local Couple Injured In Two-Car Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Latimer were painfully injured in a two-car accident near Rotan Sunday morning about 10:30 a.m.

The Latimers were enroute to attend the afternoon funeral of Darrel Brantley, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Brantley of La Porte. Young Brantley lost his life in a truck accident near Opelousas, Louisiana the past Thursday. An account of his untimely death appears elsewhere in this issue of the newspaper.

Friends here were notified of the accident in which the Latimers were injured by Mrs. P. M. Bristow and several of them and relatives rushed to Sweetwater where the local people were taken for emergency treatment following the accident. Mrs. Bristow was said to be going to Dallas and was traveling the same highway behind the Latimers. She recognized their automobile and stopped first in Rotan to check hospitals then and went on to Sweetwater where she found the Latimers undergoing emergency aid. Mrs. Bristow continued her trip to Dallas when Mr. and Mrs. Phil Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Glasscock, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Turner, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reid arrived at the hospital. Mrs. Glasscock and Mrs. Berry are sisters of Mrs. Latimer.

After examination in Sweetwater, Mrs. Latimer was hospitalized in Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital in Big Spring. Latimer was released and returned to his home here Sunday evening.

"Buddies, we need you and you need the help and support of the veteran's association," said T. J. Walker. We need more members to help us in our legislative program, to enable our organization to carry more weight in Congress. "We are responsible for the Pension Act, and there are other things that we can do in a small way to help some Buddy or Sister who are less fortunate than we.

Local Chapter Participating In Annual Event

Vocational agriculture students in Stanton High School, have joined Future Farmers of America members throughout the nation in activities to focus attention on the importance of agriculture during National FFA Week.

Funeral Held For Former Stanton Man

Funeral services were conducted in Bayshore Baptist Church in La Porte at 2:30 p.m. the past Saturday for Derrill Wayne Brantley, 21, and graveside rites were held Sunday afternoon at Woodson in Nolan County.

Brantley lost his life following an accident near Opelousas, Louisiana. The accident occurred on Wednesday, February 12, at about 5:30 p.m. and the young man expired in an Opelousas hospital at 9:20 p.m. of injuries received in the crash.

Derrill Brantley lived in Opelousas at the time of his death. He was employed as a truck driver.

The deceased was born in Odesa on June 23, 1947. He is survived by his wife, Sue, a daughter, Carla, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Brantley, a brother, Rodney, and sister, Sharon and two half brothers, Lonnie Brantley of Kermit, and Jimmie Brantley of Carizo Springs.

The Carlos Brantleys resided in Stanton up until a few years ago. They were prominent in all circles of community life here.

"FFA... an opportunity for youth" is this year's FFA Week theme. The message that these young agriculturists are trying to impart to the nation is simple. They seek to inform the public of the importance they place upon the vast opportunities of American agriculture. FFA members find excitement in their role as young partners in developing a more prosperous agriculture that will better serve a growing America in an increasingly complex world.

"Before an FFA member can conquer the battle of starvation halfway around the globe or even increase profitability of farming or ranching, he must first conquer himself," said Nolan Parker, vocational agriculture teacher and FFA advisor. "There is an urgent calling for FFA members to grasp the opportunities available in agriculture."

"It is fortunate," he added, "that the FFA provides a place to build, create, and enjoy the business of life. FFA provides an atmosphere for members to learn, to do, to earn, and to serve."

Locally, members of the Stanton FFA Chapter plans civic club programs, radio appearances, and newspaper stories covering local chapters, and other activities.

Red's Corner

By RED GIBSON

Now, I'm not one to criticize our nation's lawmakers. I'm sure they are worth the $30,000 a year we have been paying them, although there's some question as to whether they are worth the $12,500 raise they recently voted themselves.

The point at hand, however, concerns not pay raises but a decision to end the draft.

So far, everyone in Washington but Gen. Hershey has come out in favor of ending it as soon as Vietnam settles down and the world cools off a bit. That means everyone gets to pay lip service to the idea and doesn't have to vote for ending the draft now, since they know that it's kind of hard to get people to volunteer to run around the Vietnamese countryside and get shot at.

I have always been fond of the draft people. Well, to tell the truth a short period of disillusionment set in one fateful day when my number came up. My father was then and is now a member of the draft board, and the call seemed a rather harsh way to treat a child, if you asked me. But nobody did. You could see the board marching through the ranks. Somebody over there had a list of birthdays and was ticking us off like clockwork. The Koonce twins, Earl and Gearl, have November birthdays, and James Tunnell has one in December. Bam: They all three went in April of 1956. Mine is in January. Bam: I went in May.

James McCoy, born on Feb. 5, would have gone with me, no doubt, but he jumped the gun and volunteered for the draft considerably earlier. That suave move got him a year in Alaska. Get him to tell you about Alaska winters sometimes.

Well, anyway, there is a move under way to eliminate the draft, and it will probably bear fruit someday. Personally, I'm agin it. The main reason for opposition is that people who are drafted are not really taken to defend the country; they are taken so that they will have something to talk about when they get old.

Since a fellow can hardly gripe about the service if he went in voluntarily, the draft provides a convenient excuse for any of us to complain.

It is also good for the bar business, since people are always running into old Army buddies in taverns. (You understand that this knowledge comes to me second hand. I don't patronize taverns. Can't stand those juke boxes.)

Elimination of the draft would also throw a lot of protesters out of work, since some of them spend most of their time picketing draft board offices, messing up files, and generally making pests of themselves. I suspect that the government would come up with a retaining program that would utilize their skills and teach them to picket other places. Still, there would be a period of unemployment, which might not sit well with the voters. It's a rough business, this picketing.

To be honest, the draft is one of the few things that sustained me in the past few years. The thought that the nation's collection of beatniks, hippies, yuppies, and other unwashed members of the longhair set will encounter sergeants who are less friendly than their dotting parents has often made me smile inwardly.

If they want to return to hippie-town after their Army stint, that's their business; I just want to see them straightened up to face reality for a brief period.

Sure, that's the reaction of an old fogey: I went, let them go before they complain. OK, but that's the way I feel. No bitterness, just irritation that some people curse the draft and try to get around it.

They don't know what they're missing. What will they ever have to complain about on those long winter nights?

Our business aims to replace income in those circumstances where income ceases — the event of early death, in the event of disabling illness, and in the event of retirement.

Philosopher Starts To Take Advice About Planning But Hurriedly Changes His Mind

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw, this week contemplates better planning for his farm this year, but then backs off.)

Dear editor:

"The trouble with you," an agricultural expert told me the other day, "if you don't plan your farming operations far enough in advance" and I was thinking about this, wondering if a man sleeps better not knowing what he's going to do the next morning than he does knowing he's got to get up and start digging post holes, when I picked up a newspaper I'd been saving for emergencies and before I could even sit down my eye caught a headline: New York City Draws Up Master Plan For Next 10 Years.

Now there's planning, I said, ten years in advance, maybe that's what I need after all for this Martin County grass farm, and sat down and read the article.

According to it, New York has prepared a 300,000-word plan to be printed in six volumes outlining what it needs to do to keep from choking to death on metropolitan civilization.

I won't go into detail, some of the ideas sounded all right, like elimination of all crime, all poverty, all traffic congestions, all slums, all transportation problems, all pollution, etc., but the clincher was how the city's going to swing it, as the report estimated it will cost 50 billion dollars over the next 10 years.

"Most of the 50 billion dollars," the report added as an after-thought, "must come from the Federal government." New York, you must remember, like a lot of other cities and this Martin County grass farm, is mostly financially busted.

I got to thinking about this and decided, by George, that agricultural expert is right, I'd better get to planning myself before New York plans Washington out of most of its money.

Furthermore, you know if New York wants 50 billion from Washington, it won't be long before Los Angeles and Philadelphia and Chicago and Detroit and all the other 22 major cities in the U. S. put in their claims, saying, look, we're just as civilized and busted as New York, and for the 22, at 50 billion apiece, that'd come to 1100 billion, or in round numbers, $1,100,000,000,000, which I think is pronounced 1 trillion 110 billion.

This of course leaves out the natural bandwagon claims from Stanton, Midland, and Big Spring, and all the other thousands of smaller cities and towns in the United States, which certainly would want in on the proceeds from planning.

The competition is too stiff. I've dropped my own planning. I tell you, there's something to be said for waking up in the morning not knowing what you're going to do.

Yours faithfully,

Bible Comment—

Faith With Us All Should Be Positive

The one thing worth knowing for a man born blind, who recovered his sight through the ministry of Jesus, was that he KNEW he could see.

The man's neighbors, the doubters, the enemies of Jesus — all were skeptical, or tried to explain the miracle away.

But the blind man now seeing, set them straight about that. He said flatly, "I am he." The appeal to the fact, or facts, is always the most incontrovertible evidence. To know one thing is far more important than not to know a great many things.

The ringing testimony of this former blind man seems symbolic of a sound and wholesome religious attitude that would give an anchorage of faith for many who have floundered in doubt.

Observation of the religiously insecure leads to the impression that they make more of their doubts than of any possible certainty they might have.

More than one eminent man has lived and died a skeptic, through speaking of the religion of other men in a way that would seem to suggest a yearning that never found satisfaction.

These people have everything necessary for the foundation of faith, if they would stand upon the simple things that they know. But they so often make a "religion" of their doubts, and there is something tragic in a life that lacks affirmation.

Each of us must find in our life something to affirm, something of which we can say "This I Know."

Six Young Texans Claim State 4-H Honors for Variety of Skills

Elocutionary and photography experts, a dog named Princess and her mistress, a baker of tasty oatmeal bread and a collector of insects in pecan trees... those are the reasons six young Texas 4-Hers won top state awards. The awards included trips to the recent National 4-H Congress in Chicago, a transistor radio and $50 bonds.

She said about her oatmeal concoction which won the prize this year, "My oatmeal bread, of course, has oatmeal, but also molasses and eggs." Her congress trip was sponsored by Standard Brands Incorporated.

Picking the area pecan trees for bugs is no laughing matter for people in the vicinity of Miss Malmstead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Malmstead. She won her award in entomology, and for it she collected and mounted more than 120 insects, indicating 25 different orders.

Until she entered a biology course in high school, she said, "I had a typical girl's fear of bugs. A bug! Ugh! Get it away from me!" Later, however, she appeared on television and contributed to a research study on the casebearer, plague of the provincial pecan tree. She was the congress guest of Hercules Incorporated, 4-H Entomology sponsor.

Phyllis Zushike, 19, of San Angelo in Tom Green County, was the Lone Star State award winner in photography. Her congress trip was provided by Eastman Kodak Company.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zuehke, she is a freshman at Angelo State College. Miss Zuehke uses photography both as a hobby and as a scientific adventure.

She sums up her experience with photography as "a means of expression. A good picture relates not only an event, but also the accompanying mood and impressions," she said. "A photograph can depict beauty, emotions, drama and excitement."

The winners were selected for their honors by the Texas A & M University Cooperative Extension Service.

Christie Kovar, 17, and Donald Kruppa, 18, both of Victoria, captured a victory for Victoria County by raising their voices and speaking out. They were named state award winners in the 4-H Public Speaking program. Each received a $50 U.S. savings bond given by Union 76 Division, Union Oil Company of California.

A dog named Princess and a 15-year-old miss from Brazoria County named Sheri Kunze combined to win the top state award in the 4-H Dog Care and Training program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Kunze, 402 E. Dumble st., Alvin, Sheri was given a transistor radio for her efforts by the Ralston Purina Company.

A city girl, Miss Kunze has been raising her pet Collie for two years and has taught her a variety of tricks that have won several blue ribbons.

One of the most important things she has learned, besides how to select a dog, feed, groom and care for it, is "that if you have a problem, no matter what kind, if you work hard and long enough you can solve that problem." Her problem was getting Princess to like people.

Although she is still a high school student, she hopes someday to go on to college to become a teacher herself, not of dogs necessarily but of students.

The baker of the delicious oatmeal bread is Cheryl Laws, 16, of Austin in Travis County. She, Brenda Malmstead, 17, of New Braunfels, Comal County, entomology expert, and Phyllis Zuehke, 19, San Angelo, photographer, won trip awards to the recent 4-H Congress.

Their adventures to the Windy City were filled with tours of museums and Chicago's Christmas-sparkled streets, concerts and panel discussions.

Governor's Safety Program Endorsed By Safety Group

Governor Preston Smith's traffic safety program featuring use of chemical tests to determine the degree of driver intoxication and licensing of police officers has been endorsed by the Texas Safety Association.

In an action taken by the Association's Board of Directors, support was given to a proposal requiring persons arrested for drunken driving to take a breath test.

"A simple test of a person's breath can quickly determine whether or not a person is too intoxicated to safely drive," Robert F. Miller, Dallas, Texas, Texas Safety Association's vice president for traffic safety, said.

"Chemical analyses of a person's breath can tell how much alcohol is in his blood and the National Highway Safety Standards say that persons with 10 percent alcohol in their blood are too intoxicated to drive. A healthy 200-pound man would have to drink six ounces of 100-proof whiskey in an hour to reach this degree of intoxication," Miller added.

Pointing to the fact that 68 percent of Texans killed in one-car accidents were drunk when they died, the Texas Safety Association official urged that adoption of a breath test law as "the only scientific method of successfully combating the program of the drunken driver."

"A breath test law can remove the guesswork. Some illnesses make a person appear to be intoxicated and without the use of a scientific breath test such an unfortunate person could be falsely accused of drunken driving. A breath test law can also help determine the difference between a person who has just had one or two drinks and one who is intoxicated," Miller concluded.

The certification of all Texas police officers and the establishment of minimum moral, educational, and training requirements was also urged by the TSA official as a method of increasing the efficiency and fairness of traffic law enforcement throughout the state.

Noting that violation of a traffic law is the average Texan's only contact with law enforcement agencies, Miller said that skillful and reasonable handling of traffic violations is necessary if respect for law and order is to be restored to universal acceptance. "Firm and fair enforcement of the traffic laws is an indispensable part of the state's traffic safety program and

Elizabeth Ward To Marry Clayton Crosby

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ward of Stanton, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their granddaughter, Elizabeth Irene Ward, to Clayton Joseph Crosby.

Miss Ward is the daughter of Elvin Ward of Stanton, and Mrs. H. E. Hector of Monahan.

Crosby is from Grand Isle, Louisiana, and is presently employed in Martin County.

A late February wedding is planned.

Mrs. Claude Nowlin has returned from Pasadena, Texas, after visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Clements. She returned with Mr. Nowlin, after attending the funeral of Darrell Brantley at LaPorte, Texas.

Visitors in the S. J. Foreman home Sunday, Feb. 16, were the children from Midland. There were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Foreman, Phillip, Jill, Jason, and Nathan, also Mr. and Mrs. Dan Foreman, Jay, Nica, and Jennifer. The occasion for the celebrations was S. J.'s birthday.

South Plains To Test New Weevil Killers

Eradication plans for the first large-scale trial run against the cotton boll weevil on the South Plains are underway.

Such plans are developing in connection with the 5-year-old High Plains Diapause control program. While no miracles are expected at the beginning, the eradication could be the biggest step yet toward ridding farmers of the cotton pest.

Two new weevil control techniques, sex traps and a systemic insecticide, will be used to kill weevils as they emerge from hibernation. Both the new methods were successfully tested during the Diapause program of last year.

The area to be covered lies north of U. S. Highway 82 in Dickens, Motley, Briscoe, and Hall counties. Involved will be from 40,000 to 50,000 acres of cotton in a strip about 60 miles long and 40 miles wide.

The diapause program the home Sunday, Feb. 16, were the children from Midland. There were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Foreman, Phillip, Jill, Jason, and Nathan, also Mr. and Mrs. Dan Foreman, Jay, Nica, and Jennifer. The occasion for the celebrations was S. J.'s birthday.

past five years has reduced the hibernating weevil population in this area about 5 to 10 per cent of the numbers in comparable areas outside the control zone. And survey records have pinpointed the "hot spots" of weevil hibernation, which will permit strategic placement of sex traps and systemic-treated "trap planting" in the eradication trial.

Taking part in the program on a dollar for dollar basis, will be cotton producers in the 23-county high plains area represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., USDA's plant pest control and entomology research divisions of the agricultural research service, Cotton Producers Institute, and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Sex traps, or pheromone traps, baited with live weevils will be placed along the periphery of known hibernation sites throughout the test area. Some of the traps will be "set" before cotton in commercial plantings is available to emerging weevils, probably in the latter part of April. They will be maintained through May and June and possibly the early part of July in the hope of catching every weevil as he leaves his winter home. More traps will be put out in the interior of the test zone later in the season to evaluate the effectiveness of the project.

Backing up the sex traps will be small trap plantings of cotton treated with a systemic insecticide called "Temik." These, too, will be strategically located near areas where records show weevils have traditionally hibernated.

"In theory if the sex traps don't get weevils as they emerge Temik will," said Ed Dean, field service director for PCG and coordinator of the program since 1956.

Dean said that even with complete success in this trial run, however, there are several hurdles to cross before such an eradication system could be widely used to eliminate the aerial sprayings used in the Diapause control program.

"First, the use of live weevils in sex traps is both expensive and cumbersome," Dean said. "Second, Temik is not yet licensed for widespread use, and its current price would make it prohibitive even if it were."

Final eradication in all likelihood must await the day when scientists have successfully synthesized the sex attractant secreted by live weevils and possibly a more economical systemic insecticide. "Nevertheless, researchers feel they are on the verge of both these discoveries, and this test will give us a run-

Committee Formed To Represent Rural Interests In School Program

A statewide committee to represent rural landowners and those who enjoy living in the country during the expected struggle over school district consolidation in the current session of the Texas Legislature was announced here Wednesday.

The group, known as "The Little Red School House Committee," is composed of a cross-section of farmers, ranchers, and rural landowners from throughout the state. Charles Schreiner II, a prominent rancher from Mountain Home, is chairman of the committee.

"We believe that forced consolidation of small school districts, as proposed in the report of the Governor's Committee on Public School Education, will go a long way toward destroying rural life as it is now enjoyed in Texas," ing start at eradication when the stumbling blocks are removed," Dean said. The primary objective of the Diapause program continues to be the prevention of westward weevil migration and the firm establishment of weevil populations in cotton areas on the high plains and on into other western states.

Dean said that even with complete success in this trial run, however, there are several hurdles to cross before such an eradication system could be widely used to eliminate the aerial sprayings used in the Diapause control program.

Schreiner declared in a news conference at noon Wednesday.

Schriener pointed out that the Governor's Committee recommends the forced consolidation of Texas' 1,218 school districts into a total of 353.

"This would virtually wipe out 865 community centers, since most rural schools are primary symbols of community identification," Schreiner said.

He refuted the claim that bigger school districts would automatically provide better education for students. "Mere bigness is not an absolute guarantee of excellence," he said.

"The Little Red School House Committee has been formed to awaken rural landowners and residents of small communities to the unseen dangers of forced consolidation and to acquaint legislators in Austin with the feelings of the rural people of Texas," Schreiner said.

Equal quantities of poultry are higher in protein than other meats, because of their low fat content, says foods specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Ben Barnes Picked To Address CD Group

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, and state director of defense and disaster relief, announced today that Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes will keynote the Ninth Annual Conference for Texas Civil Defense Directors.

The conference will be held Monday and Tuesday, February 24 and 25, at Austin's Villa Capri Motor Hotel. Governor Barnes is scheduled to speak at 9:30 a.m. on the 24th.

Colonel Speir said some 400 to 450 civic leaders, county judges, mayors, and civil defense directors are expected to attend the two-day meeting.

The conference schedule for February 24, includes a report on defense and disaster relief in Texas by Colonel Speir, a discussion on local civil defense promotion by Jake Cangiuse, director of Brazos County Civil Defense, and a special report by Major General Lyle A. Welch, adjutant general of the State of Nebraska, and president of the National Association of State Civil Defense Directors.

James L. Lewis, director of the National Disaster Division, U. S. Office of Emergency Preparedness, will report Monday on federal agency coordination in time of disaster.

The agenda for Tuesday, February 25, will include a review of people's reaction in times of emergency by Colonel Edwin T. Cooke, of the Department of Neuropsychiatry, U. S. Army Medical Field Service School at Fort Sam Houston. Other featured speakers Tuesday, include Bill Parker, regional director of the office of Civil Defense, Department of the Army, and Big Spring Police Chief E. J. Banks.

Other local and state civil defense officials will participate in panel discussions on both days of the conference.

Farm & Ranch Review

Pest Control Conferences Combined — The first Texas Conference on Insect, Plant Disease, Weed and Brush Control, will be held at Texas A&M University, Feb. 24-26. Meetings are scheduled for the Memorial Student Center. John Thomas, extension entomologist, says the conference will combine several annual short courses into a single wide based conference on agricultural chemicals and pest control. More than 500 persons are expected to attend the conference, he said.

Coastal Acreage Increases in Texas — Coastal bermudagrass is a very popular permanent pasture grass with farmers and ranchers of the state, and more acres are being prepared for planting now, says Dr. J. Neal Pratt, extension agronomist. It's high production of good quality grazing and hay, when properly fertilized and managed, are responsible for its popularity, says Pratt. It must be established from sprigs and planting during the dormant season has proved desirable. Local county agents, says the agronomist, can supply details on growing the grass.

Mahon Predicts Sentinel Finish

The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee says emphatically "I know" work will resume on the controversial Sentinel antiballistic missile system.

Democrat George D. Mahon of Texas, whose committee holds the purse-strings for the $5.5-billion system, made the prediction in an interview, although he said he had no direct assurance from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

But, he added, "I know the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and I know Secretary Laird, and I know what their thoughts are on this matter."

The Nixon administration last week halted the work on the system pending a high-level Pentagon review. The action followed mounting criticism in Congress and from residents of areas where Sentinel sites are planned.

Mahon said the Nixon administration not only will ask for the money to go ahead with the Sentinel, but will get it.

He dismissed congressional critics—who included notably Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky — as representing a minority. And he said that despite opposition in areas where sites are planned, he believes the American people support antimissile work.

"The American people won't stand still to see the Soviet Union perfect an antimissile defense while the United States makes no more in this area," he said.

Congress authorized funds for the Sentinel last year. When the project was first unveiled in 1967 by then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, it was portrayed as an effort to guard against a potential low-scale atomic attack by Red China in the 1970's.

The National Association of Manufacturers stated that one of the major problems facing the new Administration is the curbing of inflation, while at the same time, meeting the social, economic, and fiscal commitments which have been voted into law in previous sessions of Congress. To be successful the Administration must have the views of the grass roots, so that the members of the 91st Congress can work intelligently toward what is best for the country, rather than the pet plans of a militant few. Now is the time for citizens' voices to be heard calling for more efficiency in government and demanding that programs either get the desired results or be eliminated.

You can replace worn kitchen counters by covering them with vinyl plastic yardage.

Turkey Producers Cautioned — Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin has cautioned the nation's turkey producers against the dangers of overproducing in 1969. If grower intentions are carried out, the 1969 crop could be the third largest on record. He urges growers to hold the line on production.

Advance Payments — Producers signing up Feb. 3 through March 21 to participate in the 1969 feed grain and wheat programs (as well as certain small cotton farms) can request advance payments of up to 50 percent for voluntary extra diversion, announced Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin on Feb. 5. County ASCS office can supply details on the programs involved and also on the advance payments.

Texas Beef Cow Numbers Up From 1959-1964

Total Texas beef cow numbers experienced a growth of 25 percent during the period between 1959 and 1964, according to Dr. Edward Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M University. The total growth of the Texas beef cow population in these five years was 962,058 head.

On hundred and sixty-two Texas counties experienced an increase in beef cow numbers of at least 24 percent during the period. The Panhandle and Caprock areas of Texas showed a large increase.

The Trans-Pecos area of the state also was an area of intense growth, but since their total numbers are not too large, even a small increase showed up as a substantial percentage change, pointed out the specialist.

Northeast Texas was another area of tremendous expansion, while the Gulf Coast area recorded the smallest growth rate.

Prices of cattle and calves during the five - year period were dropping. Cattle prices in Texas during 1969 averaged $21.60/cwt., but by 1964 had fallen to $14.90/cwt. Calf prices in 1959 average $25.80/cwt., but only $18.60/cwt. in 1964.

New information should be available sometime in the spring, as the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service initiated a new annual survey, which will provide Texas with this type of data each year on a county basis, said Uvacek.

SEMINOLE SENTINEL: "Voters in the Seminole Consolidated School District, will go to the poll this Saturday to decide the fate of two bond issues proposed by the district's board of trustees."
 "At stake will be a bond issue of $265,000 to finance school facility improvements, and an issue of $55,000 to provide funds for paving the parking lot at Wigwam Stadium."
 "For the purpose of this election, the district has been declared a precinct of the whole, and only one poll will be in operation."

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Jack Buchanan, Bob Cox, Bernard Houston, Larry Shaw, Bobby Howard.

The number two small game bird in Texas, is the bobwhite quail, which supplies many hours of recreation and many pounds of meat for Texas outdoorsmen, reports Jake Hodges, district conversationist, assisting the Martin-Howard Soil and Water Conservation District.

Texas has more than a million hunters, and the survey conducted by the Bureau of Census in 1960, showed that 321,000 quail hunters bagged 9.8 million birds.

Food, water, and cover, are the keys to bobwhite survival. Knowledge of quail needs does not in itself insure bobwhite continued welfare. This knowledge to be helpful in wildlife management must be applied to land use practices throughout the quails range. Bobwhite habitat varies in character, with the differences in soils and climate. Always whatever the make-up, quail habitat comes down to this: a piece of ground capable of providing at least one covey with all its life needs season after season. This includes protection from enemies, while feeding, resting, loafing, roosting, traveling, nesting. A number of woody plants and weeds provide quail food. Stockmen should note that grasses provide little food for bobwhite. This is because few grass seeds are large enough to provide worth while food. All farm

Texas Youths Travel to Chicago on 4-H Awards

An insatiable interest in reciprocating engines and a prize-winning sheep project and outstanding junior leadership took two 17-year-old boys on a trip to the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago.

The boys are Brian Menking, of Alice, and James McQueen Jr., of Donna. The expense-paid trips to Chicago were based on judging of their 4-H work by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Menking became curious about the operation of engines when he was about 10 years old. He began with the study of single cylinder engines and progressed through the assembly and repair of multi-cylinder engines. During the past year he began working with diesel engines, calculating their efficiency in performing specific tasks. He opened an engine repair shop and said that business has increased so much that he may

County Agents Column

Rooting cuttings and growing plants is a simple, inexpensive method for getting plants needed to improve the appearance and value of a home.

Immediate effects can be obtained by purchasing plants of a desirable size from a nursery; however, points out County Agent Reagor, circumstances often prevent the making of extensive plantings.

It is possible for anyone to start enough plants from cuttings to completely landscape the average home grounds, advises the county agent.

In general, cuttings are made from wood that is mature (hardwood) or wood that is actively growing (softwood). The most commonly used method involves hardwood cuttings. Some plants easily propagated by this method are Sphaeralcea, Abelia, Althea, Deutzia, Weigela, Honeysuckle, Multiflora Rose, Hydrangea, Ligustrum, and willows.

Hardwood cutting are usually made during the period from November through February. Select mature, one-

Watson Bill Would Exempt Rural Systems

The hundreds of small rural water companies set up on a non-profit base to provide water for rural homes all over Texas, would be exempt from taxation under a pair of proposals by Senator Murray Watson, Jr. of Mart.

SPR 6 is a proposal to let the voters of Texas decide whether they want to amend the constitution to give the non-profit water supply companies an exemption from taxes on the lines and water systems. SB 54 would carry the constitutional provision into effect if it is voted.

Under a program of the Farmers Home Administration, hundreds of loans have been made for construction of water systems in rural areas. The loans are being repaid out of water sales.
 Organizers used the voluntary water company system, rather than creating water districts which would have been exempt from property taxes, because they are governmental agencies. They found the organizing costs were simpler, and it was not necessary to have elections and issue bonds. But Watson said that in some areas county tax assessors are levying taxes on the water systems.

Fire Drills In Homes Are Very Necessary

School fire drills are taken for granted but fire is 200 times more likely to break out in your home.

First step in remedying this situation, say fire authorities, is a family council. Children should be warned that the major danger is not the flames but accompanying deadly gasses and smoke. A speedy escape is essential. There is never time to gather up favorite belongings or pets.

Since most fires break out between midnight and six a.m., bedroom doors should be closed every night to help protect sleepers. Each bedroom should have two planned escape routes. In case of fire, test the door before opening it. If it is warm to the touch, use the alternate escape route.

To prevent the inhalation of suffocating gases, you should try to cover your nose and mouth with a pillow or wet cloth. Crouch as you run because the air near the floor is cooler and cleaner.

Age For Marriage May Be Lowered

Men over 19 and women over 18 could marry without their parent's consent under a bill offered Tuesday by Rep. R. H. Cory, Victoria.

Cory's bill also would abolish the common law marriage after Dec. 31, 1969.

Cory's bill will be formally introduced after House committees are named Tuesday. The measure was drafted by a State Bar of Texas committee on family law.

The measure provides that common law marriages contracted before Dec. 31, 1969, are valid.

Children of common law marriages entered into before that date would be considered legitimate.

Strict proof of age would be required of marriage license applicants under the age of 30. There also would be a three-day waiting period between the application and issuance of a license, something Texas does not have now.

The bar said age 30 was selected as an arbitrary dividing point after it was advised that underage persons were sometimes able to get a license with falsified documents. The waiting period was recommended because the bar felt it would help prevent hasty — and possible unstable — marriages.

Cory's bill would allow young men between 18 and 19 and women between 16 and 18 to marry with parental consent and would prohibit marriage of males under 16 and females under 14. Males between 16 and 19 and females between 14 and 18 could petition a court for permission to marry. Courts could authorize such marriages if it found them to be in the best interest of the couple involved.

Texas law now allows men to marry without parental consent at 21 and women at

18. A new ground for divorce also is included. The bill says a divorce could be decreed "without regard to fault," if the marriage has become insupportable because of discord or personality conflicts "that destroy the legitimate ends of the marriage relationship and prevents any conciliation."

Another provision would prohibit the parties to a divorce from remarrying a third party within six months after the divorce. This provision was designed, the bar said, to prevent hasty remarriages by divorced people.

In 1968 Texans Drove Over 47 Billion Miles

Statistics indicate that Texans were on the move more in 1968 than ever before. The American Automobile Association reports that a total of 47,898,390,000 miles were racked up by passenger cars across the state. To equal this figure, astronauts Borman, Lovell, and Anders would have had to make 208,254 trips to the moon.

Texans weren't alone in their travels — Americans everywhere topped old records, traveling an estimated one trillion, ten billion miles: In driving figures, that's 40,400,000 trips around the world.

The estimated mileage figure for 1968 represents an increase of 4.6 percent over 1967. The final figure for 1967 was 965 billion, up 3.7 over 1966.

HEADS INSURANCE PANEL

Sen. Blanchard Named To 10 Committee Jobs

Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock, was named to 10 committees Tuesday by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. He will be chairman of the Insurance Committee and vice chairman of the Nominations Committee.

"Overall, I'm very well pleased with the lieutenant governor's committee organization and with my own assignments," Blanchard said.

The Lubbock area senator will be on the key Finance and State Affairs committees. He also will serve on other groups which will review proposed legislation having significant impact on the South Plains region.

These include the Water and Conservation; Counties, Districts and Urban Affairs; Parks and Wildlife; Interstate Cooperation; Oil and Gas, and Banks and Banking committees, in addition to the four already listed.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, who had feuded with Gov. Preston Smith in recent years, will be chairman of the important Finance Committee, on which Blanchard also will serve.

Blanchard said he was pleased to have his committee assignments reduced by three because he thus will have more time to devote to each panel. He will play a big role on the Nominations Committee, which makes recommendations on nominees submitted to the Senate by the governor.

The Lubbock senator said there was no friction between him and Barnes over Blanchard's vote Monday against amending Senate rules relating to joint Senate-House conferences to adjust differences in spending bills.

"I didn't vote against the lieutenant governor," Blanchard said. "I voted against the conference committee report, because, over the years, Texas Tech has benefited under the old rules. The joint committee sometimes has been the only place we could get things that were needed by Tech, South Plains College at Levelland, or other parts of West Texas."

The western part of the state is "in real good shape" under Barnes' committee organization, however, Blanchard added.

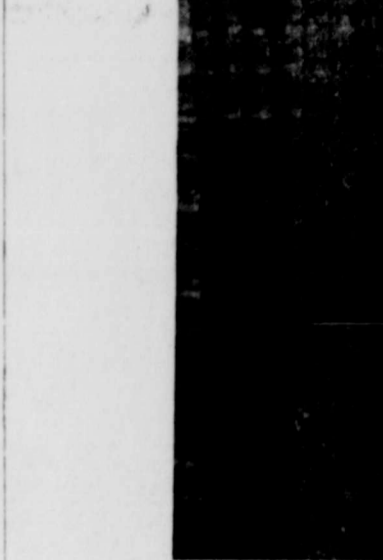

"Too, I'm happy that he gave recognition to some of the people who had felt they had been kind of left out in the past," Blanchard said.

Prices will stay about the same for beef, cereal, and bakery products, sugar, tea, and coffee, says Mrs. Clyatt, who works with Texas A&M University.

On the average, about 17.2 percent of after-tax income was spent for food in 1968, down fractionally from 1967. Americans will continue to eat more meat and other high protein foods and less carbohydrates, such as potatoes and cereals, she predicts.

Documentary Proof Needed For Deductions

Most business expenses still are allowable but in two recent cases, the U. S. Tax Court has refused to accept businessmen' diaries as adequate records of unreimbursed expenses of business entertainment. Mrs. Wanda Meyer, extension home management specialist, sums up the court's ruling: There must be do-

Negro History Courses Will Require Research

Authorities in the field agree that Negro history courses will require tedious and major research.

There is simply very little history to be found.

Demands are growing for courses in colleges and universities about the history of the black man. The outstanding documentary proof or other "sufficient evidence" to support all diary entries covering expenditures of $25 or more.

Documentary evidence was held to include receipts and other records showing the amount of the expense, time and place of entertainment, and the business purpose of the expense, she explains.

black leaders are not researchers or educators but their cries for courses that are hard to put together sound loud and clear. The fact is some publishers are turning out hurry up work just for the money there is in the task.

As for texts there is disagreement among publishers regarding whether sufficient materials are available to meet the increasing demands for Afro-American courses at all school levels.

Spokesmen for Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., and for Prentiss-Hall said they have taken a hard look at the subject and have attempted to integrate materials on the issue.

They concede, however, that neither company yet offers anything dealing specifically with Afro-American history.

Northwestern University's curriculum now includes four undergraduate courses on African culture. South Carolina University this year offered "Geography 501," a course for juniors, seniors and graduate students on economic development in Africa. South Carolina University plans to establish an Area Center for studies of Africa south of the Sahara. Indian University this year launched a year-long look at the Negro's role in American history.

Lack of the ability to teach a course on Negro history among faculty members is another handicap. A shortage of adequate books on the subject also hampers instructors.

Roy Wilkins, executive director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has said that "black students asking for black autonomy within colleges is another version of Jim Crowism."

Martin Dies To Serve As Secretary Of State

Martin Dies, Jr., 47-year-old former state senator from Lubbock, was picked by Gov.-elect Preston Smith, to serve as secretary of state during the coming administration.

Dies, who did not seek reelection in 1966 after eight years in office, was one of the most popular senators in recent Texas political history.

His appointment, subject to Senate confirmation, will become effective when he is sworn in, probably within a day or two after Smith is inaugurated January 21.

In announcing Dies appointment, Smith said "to fill the important post of secretary of state, I turned to one of the most able and dedicated men in public life during this era of government."

"I am sure Senator Dies is destined to become one of the great secretaries of state in Texas history," Smith commented.

Dies, in return, said, "I am deeply grateful to Gov. Smith for his confidence. I have known and admired him for years and am looking forward to becoming a part of his administration."

A Native of Hunt County, Dies attended public schools in Orange County. He received a B. S. degree from Stephen F. Austin State College, and an LL.B. from Southern Methodist University Law School.

He was elected to the Texas Senate in 1959, over three opponents from the Third District. During his tenure, Dies served as chairman of the committees on Nominations, Counties, Cities and Towns, and was twice a member of the Senate finance subcommittee, which wrote the appropriations bill.

Dies was instrumental in passing legislation creating a new school for the mentally retarded near Clawson. It now is considered one of the most modern in the United States and soon will have accommodations for 1,000 retardates.

He also authorized a bill which will eventually prevent a large percentage of retardation in children.

Because of his work in this field, Dies has been honored by numerous associations and organizations.

Also, during his tenure the Senate voted to request a state park be named for him because of work on improvement and upgrading the state parks system. The Parks and Wildlife Commission followed through and created the Martin Dies, Jr. State Park at Dam B in Jasper and Tivy counties.

Last year it had more visitors than any other state park in Texas.

Dies also authored bills for teacher sick leave, increased assistance to needy aged, disabled, blind and needy children and for a school teacher pay raise.

He was co-sponsor of the Toledo Bend Project, one of the largest reservoirs in the United States. This project has won national acclaim because it was built without tax funds.

His colleagues selected him as president pro tem of the Senate for the regular session in 1963, and he was "governor for a day" on May 1, 1963. Dies also holds a distinguished military record for World War II. He volunteered for the U. S. Navy as an apprentice seaman and was chosen to attend Midshipmen Officer's School at Columbia University.

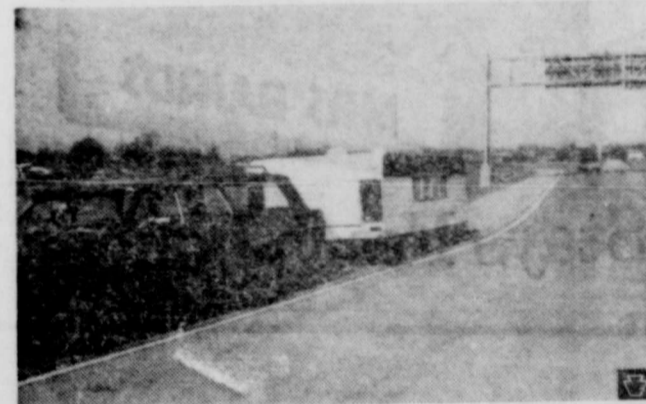

While there he was chosen commander of a battalion, and upon graduation was presented a gold sword as outstanding battalion member by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, then chief of Naval Personnel.

He is married to the former Ruth White of Lubbock, and they have three children: Martin W., 20; Dianne, 18, and David, 14.

The two older children are students at The University of Texas in Austin.

Travel Trailers Flood Highways

During vacation months, it often seems as if there are only two types of Americans — those who travel from one motel to another and those who travel with trailers. Drivers fighting traffic on the highways during the summer months might feel the stay-at-homes are a disappearing breed.

There are an estimated 2.5 million recreational vehicles on the nation's highways now, and the market value is growing at a rate of $90 million a year. At this rate, retail sales of these vehicles, which include motor homes, campers, travel trailers and boat trailers, should reach $800 million by the end of 1969. This influx of towed vehicles is a matter of concern to safety officials, particularly since many drivers are relatively inexperienced in this type of driving.

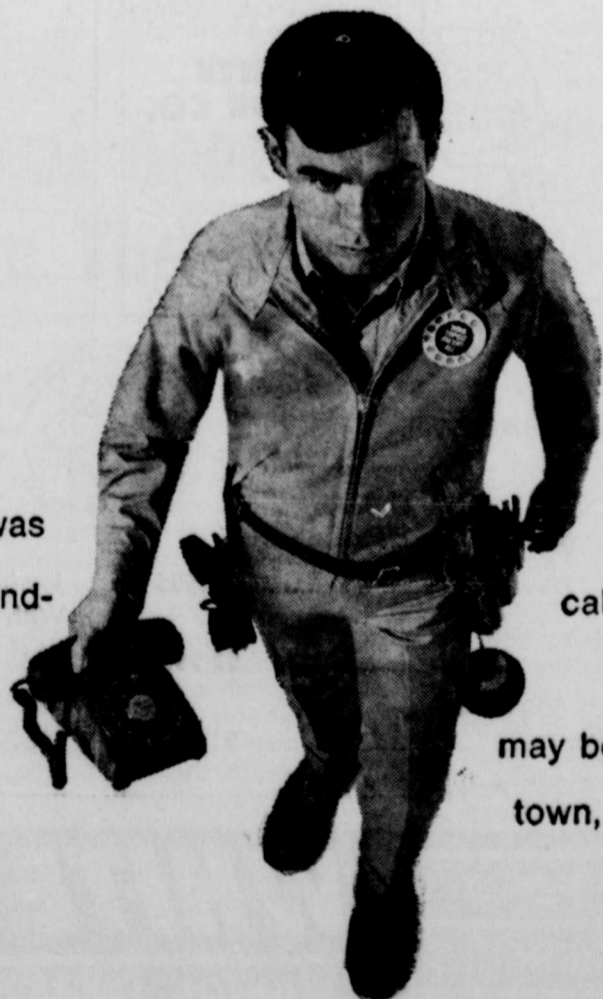

For this reason, 31 states have already enacted laws requiring some type of trailer brakes, and the Federal government is investigating similar legislation.

But even these regulations have not eliminated all the problems. The most common type of brakes now used on recreational trailers still require a great deal of judgement on the part of the driver. For instance, they require special adjustments to apply different amounts of force while braking when the trailer is empty than when it is loaded. Thus a travel trailer owner should estimate the amount of food, water, bedding and other supplies in his trailer and adjust the brakes differently for long, heavily supplied trips, than for short, lightly provisioned trips. Also available, and growing in popularity, are surge hydraulic brake systems, which are totally self-contained in the trailer and adjust themselves automatically to allow for increased weights and/or hard and soft speed stopping.

These systems work by utilizing the momentum of the trailer. As the driver applies his brakes, the forward motion of the trailer against the hitch automatically applies the brakes through a hydraulic master cylinder similar to the car's system. Officials of Atwood Vacuum Machine Company, Rockford, Illinois, also point out that because the braking system is totally self-contained, with no direct connection into the car's system, the same trailer can be towed by any number of different vehicles, with no special brake wiring needed. A patented system also makes it impossible to lock the brakes in a panic stop, thus preventing dangerous skids and jack-knifing, according to Atwood.

We built it so trouble free you've probably never met our repairman.

That's because the phone was built to guarantee you dependable service... 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. But if trouble should occur, our repairman is just a phone call away. And there's no extra charge for his services. We may be the only phone company in town, but we try not to act like it.
