Philosopher Brings Up A Problem Facing Big Cities Much Too Awful To Contemplate

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw seems to start out on one problem and wind up on another this week, but that's his problem.)

Dear editor:

According to an article in a newspaper I found yesterday in a weed patch while I was hunting for a hoe I know I put there either the past spring or one before, an expert in the business management has come out with a plan to eliminate the traffic congestion in big cities, a problem which is about to choke the cities to death.

His idea is to establish a three-day work week. One shift works three 10-hour days in a plant, the other then takes over and work three more 10-hour days, thus giving everybody a four-day weekend.

The way traffic would be cut down, he explained, is that nobody would live in the city. Everybody would have a home in the country, as much as 350 miles away, and drive in for his three days of work.

spending two nights in a rented room which means he's going to have to get up mighty early the first morning to get there on time if he's 350 miles away.

This expert doesn't say, with everybody living off to himself a few hundred miles from his job, where he's going to put the schools. This may be a major hitch because, not thinking far enough ahead, most rural areas have now torn down their one-teacher school buildings. I argued against it at the time.

I admire this man for trying, but the problem of the cities is too big for him. In fact, it's too big for everybody, and is getting further out of hand all the time.

I was checking under my house out here in this Martin County grass farm the other day and discovered that the water pipes, have after 25 years, begun to rust out and will have to be replaced.

Have you ever stopped to think what a city the size of New York is going to do when it finds out its water pipes have rusted out and the entire plumbing system will have to be replaced?

There are some problems in this life too awful to contemplate.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The Last Supper Of Jesus Accents Fellowship Among All The Faiths

The Last Supper of Jesus with His disciples stressed the communion as the symbol of fellowship in the Christian church.

This is marked to such an extent that denominations or sects, are called "communitons" even in the very separateness which denies the unity that ought to be in Christ.

For that, of course, there are historic reasons, which to a large degree are being overcome by many who in mind, soul, and heart accept as fellow Christians all who love the Lord, regardless of barriers of organization and formal creed.

The Last Supper was the celebration by Jesus and His disciples of the Passover, the most sacred rite in the Jewish religion, which was their heritage as Jews, and which Jesus said He had come not to destroy but to fulfill.

This fact ought to give the Last Supper a significance that it has never had neither for Jews nor Christians, and a meeting place in fellowship that they have never found.

Surely the supreme task of all who believe in the Christ and the fellowship of the upper room is to bring to reality the fullness in the world the spirit and the practice of brotherhood.

We know that there was one present in that room with Jesus who renounced that spirit, who betrayed his master. What we do not realize is that everyone who professes to share in the communion but who does not live in its spirit of brotherhood, is not merely an act of conformity and expression of outward faith. It really is found only in a renewal commitment of the should to the Christian way — the way of brotherhood.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Plains Cotton Growers' Inc., with almost 25,000 members in 25 counties surrounding Lubbock, has been scheduled for 2 p.m., October 10, in the KoKo Palace, Lubbock.

Keynote subject of the meeting will be Domestic and Foreign Market Development, which PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson has referred to as "the only solid foundation on which the Texas High Plains can hope to build a future in the cotton business."

Principal speaker for the affair will be Peter Pereira, Program Director of the International Institute for Cotton, headquartered in Brussels, Belgium. The IIC is primarily concerned with new product development and cotton promotion in countries outside the U. S., and is financed by a contribution of one dollar per bale of cotton exported from the seven major exporting countries, including the U. S.

Johnson said, "Mr. Pereira more than any other one man is responsible for the considerable success IIC in boosting cotton consumption in several foreign countries, and I think we can all profit from what he has to say."

Another feature of the afternoon meeting will be a report from L. D. (Don) Anderson on his recent trip to the International Cotton Advisory Committee meeting in Uganda, Africa, and on the study he made in conjunction with the trip of cotton production in seven overseas countries. He has a number of interesting and informative slides to show, plus some pertinent observations on foreign productions as it affects U. S. export markets.

On the same theme there will also be reports and recommendations from two recently formed and very active committees, the PCG Domestic and Export Marketing Development Committees. These are chaired, respectively, by Roy Forkner, ginners and farmer of the Canyon Community, and Joe B. Pate, Jr. of Lubbock. Pate operates farms in Lubbock, Hockley, and Parmer counties.

Adding to touch of glamour to the day's activities, will be an all-cotton style show staged by the women's cotton promotion groups of the High Plains area. Chairman of the Style Show Committee is Mrs. Barbara White of New Home, and narration will be by Mrs. Nathan Boardman, Crosbyton.

Mrs. Jean Anderson of Crosbyton, wife of the PCG President, will be in charge of decorations.

Following the membership meeting the PCG Board, made up of two directors from each of the 25 counties, will meet to elect 1969-70 officers.

Johnson said "We hope and expect that the meeting will be interesting, educational, and entertaining, and we cordially invite all High Plains cotton interests to attend."

According to Don Anderson of Crosbyton, President of the 25-county Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the testimony of Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin before the House Committee on Agriculture September 24, gave added emphasis to the need for continued efforts to "turn the Secretary around in some of his thinking."

Anderson said "There is evidence in the Secretary's statement that our conferences with USDA over the past several weeks have had some influence in modifying some of his original thoughts but it is obvious we have a long way to go before we get his blessing on a cotton program satisfactory to cotton producers."

The Secretary offered up what House Agriculture Committee Chairman Bob Poage (D-Texas) called two "skeleton" proposals, either of which would strike a severe blow at cotton producer income.

Both alternatives would (1) lower the acreage included in domestic allotments and reduce the level of price support payments to be made on production from domestic acreage, (2) provide for "flexible" price support loans well below world market prices and well below those now in effect, and (3) allow "open-end" production of commodities, including cotton, without penalty for overplanting of allotments.

In addition, the Secretary said the alternatives were "intended to be workable with a reasonable kind of payment limit."

This statement, according to Anderson, was a distinct disappointment to producers in view of the fact that producer groups from across the Cotton Belt, with exception, have presented reams of testimony to the effect that a limit on payments to individual producers would be disastrous to the cotton industry.

"However," Anderson continued, "perhaps we can take small solace in the fact that the Secretary did not flatly recommend a fixed payment limits as many had feared he would as recently as a month ago."

It is also significant, in Anderson's opinion and in the opinion of others who have participated in recent meetings with USDA, that the Secretary spoke in opposition to any sudden, massive land retirement that would take whole farms out of production.

"Not too long ago we had the feeling the Department might be leaning in that direction," Anderson said, "and it is gratifying to know that he agrees with our contention that massive land retirement would severely curtail business activity in rural areas as well as disrupt supply and demand factors for non-controlled crops and livestock."

The Secretary said loan levels for cotton, wheat, and grain sorghum would be set at a figure intended to encourage exports without subsidy and at the same time bring about a "desirable mix" of the different crops.

Committee Chairman Poage questioned the practicality of the Secretary's proposals, particularly with regard to cotton, and asked whether cotton could be excluded.

To which the Secretary said, "I think this would be possible, but there are many answers we would need before making a firm commitment."

Anderson said this latter statement was perhaps the most encouraging part of Secretary Hardin's testimony and com-

Deduction Loss Could Bring Gas Hike

Eliminating the percentage depletion provision for petroleum from federal income tax law could result in a gasoline price increase of 2.5 to 3 cents a gallon.

This is the key finding of a new study by the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, Inc. (PIRFIC), as reported in the public Oil Facts. The price hike would be equal to a 7.5 per cent boost in the retail price of gasoline, total repairs to amount to an estimated $30,000."

A built-in dishwasher is the newest product of one appliance manufacturer. The dishwasher has an exclusive Micro-Mesh filter which eliminated pre-rinsing and a deep cradle racking to support crystal and fine china, reports home management specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The price increase, PIRNIC notes, would have its heaviest impact on the nation's lowest income groups, which spend proportionately more than do higher income groups.

Stanton High School News

By DORIS HOWARD

It is that time again, Stanton Buffs meets the Coahoma Bulldogs for the big clash. Coahoma has long been a big football rival, and the action on the field is never dull, when the Buffs line up against the Bulldogs.

Give the Buffs all your support, and let them know ole SHS is with them win, lose, or draw.

—SHS—
 The Pep Squad is doing their "little bit" to show the members of the Buffs team, that they appreciate them. The Pep Squad members have "adopted" a football player and are secretly putting signs, candy, and tinkets, in his locker. The boys will find out who his "adopted pep squad mother" is at the homecoming pep rally.

Until then, the boys seem to be enjoying their "secret pal," and understand the Buffs rush as fast to their lockers as they do at meal time.

 The Juniors are going way out in front with the poster contest. They won last week's competition, and are looking hungrily toward another victory. They are rumored to be determined to show "those seniors."

—SHS—
 "Cheese," is the password this week as individual color pictures are being made of students. Senior pictures will be made today, and the result will be in the annual for all to see.

 Fridays are becoming mighty important around the ole SHS campus. Sure, they have always been important, but now, even more so, with the after-school parade boosting the Buffs.

Everyone is encouraged to decorate their cars with spirit signs and join in. The parade leaves the school, proceeds down Carpenter, and goes down Main Street. Even get a police escort, how about that?

—SHS—
 Student Council election is almost final, there are two run-offs to be conducted for the freshmen and sophomore class alternates.

Representing the seniors will be John Anastasio, Scotty Fisher, Randy Nichols, and La Wanda Glaspie, alternate. Juniors will have a fine bunch representing them: Cindy Avery, Gayle Haggard, Rickey Mims, and alternate, Susan Vest.

Peggy Butler, Bill Coggins, and Judy Costlow were elected representatives, and there will be a run-off election for alternate between Frankie Earnhill and Diane Payne.

A run-off election will be needed for freshmen alternate between David Chandler and Cindy Wheeler. Representatives are Marc Briggs, Dwayne McMeans, and Twila Stallings.

Grassroots Opinion

LITCHFIELD, MINN., INDEPENDENT REVIEW: "The American people want more and more government service each year and they have the idea the government can do everything from brightening up slum areas to feeding the starving people in other countries. As Americans we seem to think that Uncle Sam is some individual that has unlimited funds which come from some unknown source. Most of us seem to forget the only place Uncle Sam can get funds is right from us. We seem to forget the more we demand the more we are required to pay. Rather than complaining about the amount we pay perhaps it would be wise to take stock of what we are doing and cut down in many areas. Our governing bodies are guilty of listening too much to the demands of the 'have nots' and those that 'have' are getting a little tired of footing the bill."
