It is with deep humility but natural pride that I mention the fact here that my distinguished judicially dedicated brother, CHIEF JUDGE JOE E. ESTES, Northern District of the United States Court, Dallas, has been widely mentioned and favorably commented on for appointment to the Supreme Court of this grand nation. It is a tribute to my late parents and to JOE, and other members of our family that both United States Senators from Texas, and leading U. S. Senators from all over our country, would have voted confirmation for JOE, had President NIXON seen fit to send his nomination to the U. S. Senate. I am happy that my brother favored both the confirmation of his fellow federal jurists, JUDGE HAYNESWORTH of South Carolina, and JUDGE CARSWELL of Virginia. My brother did not seek the appointment of the place he now holds in the Texas federal judiciary. He was recommended by bar associations throughout the state, and easily and rapidly confirmed when his name was submitted to the U. S. Senate. The personal remarks made to one of the wire services by Senator RALPH YARBOROUGH of Texas, and included as a topic in his weekly newsletter to voters about my brother was indeed appreciated and gratifying. The fact that the endorsement of U. S. Senator JOHN TOWER would have been forthcoming was pleasing to my family, and to our friends throughout Texas. President NIXON, a man both JUDGE JOE and LITTLE NEAL voted for, along with our sisters MARGARET, (MRS. CARL ESTES of Longview), and MARY LOU of Dallas, is still our man. He had an administrative right to go to the Deep South for a Supreme Court Justice to take the place of the resigned ABE FORTAS. He had a right to pass Texas up because Texas passed him up in the 1968 Presidential election. The President has now indicated that he will go back up North to find a Supreme Court Justice. I can't help but wonder why enough Republican senators rejected his nomination of both HAYNESWORTH and CARSWELL to cause him to say he can't get a Southerner confirmed. There was a Southerner, or shall I say Southwesterner, who could have won confirmation hands down by that august body of 100 distinguished United States Senators. It would have been real nice to have a brother on the Supreme Court of this nation, and it is still nice to know that Democrats and Republicans of Texas in high and low places in Texas favored the nomination of JOSEPH EWING ESTES, a country boy from Commerce, Texas, for this very high place on the Supreme Court. I want to add, to keep the record straight, that the late illustrious House Speaker SAM RAYBURN of Bonham, the then U. S. Senators PRICE DANIEL and LYNDON JOHNSON, all great Democrats, joined in urging President DWIGHT EISENHOWER to appoint my brother to the present position he now holds in the federal judiciary in Texas. I don't really know whether I am as proud of my brother for being mentioned prominently as a Supreme Court nominee today as I was when we planted six acres of blackland cotton together and made four bales back there in Hunt County or not. JOE handled the money from the cotton sales and took me down to

A Vital Message For All Veterans

The American Legion Post, with the cooperation of Martin County's Veteran Service Officer, Martin Gibson, are appealing to all veterans of all the Armed Forces Service branches, who do not have their discharge papers on record at the county clerks office, to get a copy from the county where they were filed and record them or give a copy to the veteran service officer for his files.

In the past we have had applications for burial allowances, head stones, pension, widows pension, dependant childrens pension, dependant parents pension, hospitalization, educational assistance, loans, medals, awards, and numerous others, that could not be processed because the applicant did not produce a discharge record. The most important item on your seperation papers is the veterans serial number. With this number, information can be obtained from the armed forces service records. In too many cases a veteran failed to inform his family where his discharge was filed, or kept up with his original seperation papers. When this occurs, we run up against a blank wall, because the records office will not look for the record of a Tom Smith, John Jones, or Pat Brown. All of you must know that these files contain over thirty million names, and they can not put a host of clerks to looking for a name that might have been any one of several identical initials.

We know that each of you who reads this appeal, knows some veteran in your community. We would like for you to ask each one you know these three questions: (1) Is your discharge recorded in Martin County where you now live? (2) Does the veteran service officer have a copy of your discharge? (3) Won't you get a copy to him as soon as possible.

Most of you know that your local American Legion Post has been marking the graves of deceased veterans with a Legion marker. In some cases we were not able to obtain his serial number to place on this marker, because there were no records from which to obtain this information.

This appeal may not seem important to you now, but some contingency may arise in your family, and we might not be able to help your survivors because we would not know where to find your seperation papers.

If you want to do a good deed for your Buddy, follow the instructions given here, and keep after him until you know we have his record on file.

Brownie Troop 109 Tours Stanton Reporter

With the more than twenty young eager eyed Americans in the shop all machinery was feathered for the tour. It was a genuine pleasure to direct the children through the printing plant. The tour was requested by their leader, Mrs. Cox, when she called Mrs. Herbert Sorley, Jr., the new society editor and bookkeeper for the local paper, Mrs. Sorley and M. O. (Mac) McKay, 14-year-employee of the paper, were valuable in their assistance to the editor in showing the small girls through the

George Mahon Reports On Farm Legislation

Congressman George Mahon reports that the most frequent question which comes to him from West Texas farmers is: "When will Congress pass a new farm bill, and what will it be like?"

Without question, Mahon says, the new farm program will have a vital affect not only on farmers, but the entire economy.

For months Mahon has been working in close contact with farmers and farm groups, and with members of the House Committee on Agriculture, in an effort to make progress toward a new farm bill. The House and Senate Committees on Agriculture have conducted extended hearings with officials of the Department of Agriculture, and others. Some progress has been made, but details of the new program are still unpredictable.

The prospect is that the House Agriculture Committee will present a bill to the House for action in April, or no later than May.

Mahon said that he and many other members are continuing to strongly oppose payment limitations in the new bill, but he believes that the bill presented by the House Committee for action will

Philosopher Says Keeping Some Farmers On Earth Necessary To Ecological Balance

Editor's Note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw, has found out about this new term, ecology, his letter this week indicates.)

Dear editor:
I know that talking about farm problem these days in the midst of city problems, world problems and planetary pollution is about like trying to get a specialist on in-grown toenails on the same program with a panel of heart transplant specialists, but according to some articles I've been reading lately in every newspaper that turns up out here on this Martin County grass farm, somebody ought to be paying attention to it.

It's on account of the balance of nature. As all these articles have been pointing out, it is necessary to keep an ecological balance on this earth if we want to keep it tuned up and running right. Every species had a part to play in the total balance of nature.

Well now as everybody knows, farmers, who used to constitute 70 per cent of the population, have now dwindled to around 8 per cent, and the figure is still going down. This ought to concern people, but in the cry to protect nature's balance have you heard one word said about preserving farmers?

You mean to say it isn't as important to keep farmers on earth, as it is mountain lions, bald eagles, and whooping cranes?

The ecologists are right, we've got to keep nature in balance, no telling the horror otherwise, but some of them ought to get concerned about

Members of the House Committee do not favor limitations, but they feel that the House would reject any bill which did not contain payment limits. Officials of the Department of Agriculture are on record in favor of payment limitations.

Mahon says that a permanent type bill is widely favored by farmers, and that he prefers this course, but that at this time it appears that a program of three years duration is most likely.

The trend is toward a program financed at about the same general level as the present program. Many technical provisions of the bill which nonetheless affect the producers in a very direct way, are being debated in the House Committee, but there is no way to predict the final outcome of the legislation.

First, there must be action by the House Agriculture Committee, then by the House itself, then by the Senate Agriculture Committee, and the Senate itself. Thereafter differences between the House and Senate bills must be resolved in conference.

"There is a long road ahead," Mahon said, "but action within the next few weeks on the House version of the bill should shed some light on what the final version of the new farm law will be like."

Mahon states that the new farm program will continue to be top priority with him. He says that the committee which he heads, plans to present to the House in late May the annual appropriation bill for the financing of the USDA, and all farm programs.

He feels that it is highly desirable that the bill for the new program pass the House before the appropriation measure is considered.

Insight On Enduring Riches Given By St. Paul

St. Paul wrote a great deal that is deep in perception and thought. With meditation, much of the practical wisdom can be gleaned from his writing to inspire us today.

Of particular import are his passages which mention money and possessions. In perhaps his most remarkable passage on this subject, he sets forth, in Ephesians, the fact and doctrine of the Christian's wealth:

"Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are yours; whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's, and Christ is God's."

A cynic might say that such wealth won't do you much good in paying the doctor and hospital bills. That is true, and no one was more aware of it than Paul. He was a sound, practical economist in ordinary things of daily life and need.

He was a great proponent of organized relief, and gathered funds from the better-to-do Christians in successful trades for the relief of their poorer brethren, especially in the church at Jerusalem, where the poverty of Christians seems to have been a pressing problem.

No true Christian can ignore the social problems of poverty and need, or minimize the ways and means of solving it. There is no blessedness about worldly poverty.

Nevertheless, the Christian's wealth of which Paul wrote was real, even if it was not material.

And the free grace of God is the freest, richest thing of all. What Paul wrote stands as a supreme invitation and a supreme fact.

unfit condition — particularly while drinking.

"I strongly urge all new media, private employers, local governments, civic clubs, women's groups, and all other community organizations, to get behind 'Drive Friendly,' and I appeal to all law enforcement agencies and traffic courts to be as strict and firm as the law allows to convince errant drivers that 'Drive Friendly' has a real meaning.

"If 'Drive Friendly' is seen and heard enough around this state, I believe an impact can be made, and these needless tragedies will not strike the home, and citizens of Texas in such appalling proportions," the Governor concluded.

Over 400,000 "Drive Friendly" dashboard, window, and bumper stickers are already in use in Texas. They are used to state vehicles, driver education cars, and school buses.

Business firms are using them on company vehicles, billing statements, insurance policies, new car papers, and under letter signatures. All correspondence from the Governor's Office carries a small "Drive Friendly" sticker under the name of the signer. Stickers can be obtained at nominal cost by writing "Drive Friendly," Governor's Office, Austin, Texas 78711.

County Agent's Column

By BILLY REAGOR
County Agent

The boll weevil might be here to stay in the Martin County area if we don't all work together to stop him, says County Agent Billy H. Reagor.

Forty-six boll weevil wing traps were placed in Glasscock, Martin, and Midland counties during the spring of 1969, to determine if boll weevil adults were over-wintering in Martin and Midland counties, and to study early boll weevil activity in Glasscock County following a fall diapause boll weevil control program.

The trap study was conducted at the request of members of Cotton Insect Control Organizations in each county, and was a cooperative project between the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (county extension agents and cotton produced members of the County Cotton Insect Control Organizations).

Over-wintering weevils were captured on wing traps in all three counties; however, it is interesting to note that approximately the same number of weevils (40 in Midland and 41 in Glasscock) were captured on wing traps in Glasscock and Midland counties, during the trap study. Glasscock County has had a past history of four years of heavy late-fall weevil population; whereas, Midland County had only moderate late-fall population for the first time in 1968.

Traps will be used in the area again this year to study the effectiveness of the diapause program conducted in Martin County during the fall of 1969.

Since the weevil has continued to move north and west during the past decades, it is evident that if we plan to continue growing cotton in this area we must all work together to fight him.

One farmer produces the food and fiber consumed by 42 of his fellow citizens, and his efficiently continue to improve, says County Agent Billy Reagor.

Yet urban Americans, who make up approximately 94 percent of the population, are often unaware that agriculture is still a "cornerstone of life," he points out.

Many children may think milk originates in a carton, that meat and poultry begin their trip to market wrapped in plastic, and that cotton shirts grow that way, Reagor says.

The county agent explains that agriculture, the producer of these goods, is the U. S.'s largest industry, and employs more workers than any other industry.

Agriculture is the principal source of new wealth in America, Reagor says. Each dollar of wealth taken from the soil yields about $7 of income throughout the rest of the economy.

An all-out effort to increase agricultural income in Texas by $1 billion by the end of the 1976 crop year, has been announced by Dr. John S. Hutchison, director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reports County Agent Billy Reagor. The program objective is to further develop the tremendous potential for agricultural income in Martin County, and for all other counties of the state.

The slogan for the program, "36.75 in '75," is significant for it marks the centennial year of Texas A&M University, the state's land grant university. Too, the agricultural income of Texas is now approximately $2.75 billion, and the $1 billion increase would achieve the 3.75 figure.

The program is specifically planned to close the gap between average and potential yields of all economically important agricultural commodities produced in Martin

4-H Club News

Twenty-two 4-H leaders and their families participated in an ice cream social Thursday night, April 9, in the Martin County court room. A summary of the 1969 4-H activities and events, were given by the county extension agents. Plans for 1970-71 were discussed and outlined.

The 27 children attending viewed films in the county agents office, during the leader meeting.

County, and will utilize improved marketing practices. Reagor says. Too, the program is designed to increase both the gross and net income of producers.

The County Program Building Committee will set long range and annual goals based on the knowledge and experience of local farmers and ranchers, Reagor said. These will be attainable, he added, if producers will follow the coordinated application of improved practices already provided by research and extension demonstrations. The practices have been outlined in production guides prepared by extension specialists, and other resource people for each economically important agricultural enterprise in the county. Improved marketing practices will receive emphasis equal to production in the program effort, Reagor said.

The County USDA Rural Development Committee, composed of representatives of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Soil Conservation Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U. S. Forest Service and Rural Electrification Administration, have pledged their services to the County Program Building Committee, in helping Martin County reach its goal by 1976.

The county agent sees the program as a rewarding challenge to agricultural producers, and as a stimulant to the entire economy of Martin County.

Education Board Taking Applications

The State Board of Education at its meeting in June 1970, will consider an interim appointment to the State Board of Education, to fill the vacancy created by the death of William H. Evans of Lubbock. The appointment will be only for the period until a successor is elected and qualified in the 1970 general election. Mr. Evans represented Congressional District 19, as constituted in 1949.

To be eligible to be appointed to fill the vacancy, a person must be thirty years of age, a resident and qualified voter in District 19 (the district from which he is elected), and a citizen of the United States. No state employee or person engaged in organized educational activity is eligible for membership.

District 19, for membership of the Board, is composed of the following counties: Andrews, Bailey, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Haskell, Hockley, Howard, Kent, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Mitchell, Scurry, Stonewall, Terry, and Yoakum.

Information concerning people who are eligible for appointment should be sent to Ben R. Howell, Chairman, State Board of Education, Drawer AA, Capital Station, Austin, 78711, prior to the June 6, 1970, meeting of the Board.

Catfish Farmers Organize

Commercial fish farming, described as America's newest and fastest growing agricultural enterprise, is now represented in the Lone Star State by the Catfish Farmers of Texas.

The organization was formed in late March during a Texas A&M University meeting attended by about 150 catfish producers.

Don Carr of Eagle Pass, was elected president; W. B. Harris of Columbus, first vice president; Joe Surovik of Liberty, second vice president; Arthur Stehling of Fredericksburg, secretary, and Jack Gri-

Cooper, Houston; Chuck Diegel, Lubbock; Charles Ezell, San Marcos; Jim Kelley, Colorado City; Steve Kole, Winnie; Mrs. David Kothmann, Mason, Culp Krueger, El Campo, and Warren Cooper, Jacksonville.

Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said catfish farming has generated more interest than any new agricultural enterprise during the last two decades, Texas A&M, he pointed out, had added to its staff two of the nation's leading catfish researchers.

Wallace Klusmann, Extension Service wildlife specialist, said national production has nearly doubled every year for the past 4 years. Texas output, now ranking fourth in the U. S., is growing faster than that of any of the producing states.

The executive secretary of the Catfish Farmers of America, Porter Briggs of Little Rock, Ark., emphasized the importance of a strong research and extension service. He urged farmers to organize and work for increased funding for agricultural universities.

Dr. William E. Black of A&M extension service economist in marketing and policy, said the catfish farmers should strive toward orderly marketing in their new industry.

The Launching Pad

By NEAL ESTES

My friends T. W. HAYNIE and MARTIN GIBSON were visitors in my home an evening the past week to discuss the importance of informing veterans residing in Martin County concerning registrations of their discharge papers here. An interesting article prepared by HAYNIE appears on page one of this issue of the newspaper. GIBSON is currently serving as Martin County Service Officer, and is recognized throughout Texas as one of the most efficient men acting such capacity. T. W. HAYNIE is the past adjutant of the local American Legion Post.

Manager CECIL BRIDGES of the Texas Electric Service Company, was by the office Monday morning for a visit, and invited us to accompany him to Austin in June for a special TESCO sponsored symposium. If things work out right, nothing would please me more than to accompany my long time friend to the state capital. CECIL has a lot of mutual friends down in Austin, and if I say so, very truthfully, I have some close ties with the official members of Texas' political families there too. Incidentally, I am very proud of my appointment a few months ago as a Colonel on the staff of GOV. PRESTON SMITH.

The circulation list of the "OLE RELIABLE" continues to climb. So many renewals and new subscriptions have poured in during the past ten days that we are proudly publishing the names of the readers elsewhere in this issue of the newspaper.

Candidates for county, district, and state offices are invited to use the columns of the paper next week for political messages before the first primary election to be held on May 4. The messages or appeals for election will be charged for at the regular political rate. I know of no better way to seek the friendly support of the voters, than by authorizing a statement in the last issue before voting time. Incidentally, absentee voting started Monday, April 13, and will continue through April 28.

Spring flowers are in full bloom in the county. The wild flowers are a beautiful sight to behold. I love this time of the year when the landscape takes on a green carpet look, and the birds sing their vibrant songs of the season. The flowers in the rock-bound circular bed in the front yard of the home of MR. and MRS. ERNEST PRICE are always inspiring to a nature lover. Drive around the city and see some of the pretty flowers.

The student and teacher from Stanton, who will attend the symposium, will be selected by the school.

Stanton High School News

The students of SHS are presently engaged in the district meets, which mark the end of long hours of hard work. These include all the Interscholastic League contest, track and tennis.

The tennis and track teams traveled to Crane last weekend, to represent Stanton at the district meet. In junior tennis, Jackie Cowan and Jack Smith, both came home with a second place ribbon, for their individual efforts.

The track team, though coming out last, gave good efforts. Steve Stallings won second in the mile, Kenneth Simonek won fourth in the mile, and Alex Rios took third in the 880 yard dash. The "B" team track boys took fourth place, with a total of 64 points.

Steve Klein won sixth in the 320 yard run, Paul McCallister won fourth in the 660, David Chandler ended sixth in the 660, and Jackie Swanson ended first in the 330 yard dash. Bradford Hull ended fourth, followed by Curtis Howard, who got sixth in pole vault. Rick Wilson took fourth and sixth in the shot put and discus. Jackie Swanson got fourth in the high jump, and Glen Ray won second in the 70 yard high hurdle, and second again in the 330 yard low hurdles. The 440 relay team won fourth, while the 430 yard relay team took third.

These boys should be commended for a fine job, they have worked hard to complete.

Also participating in the U. I. L. contests, Saturday, April 16, at McCamey, will be the following: Chester Kokel, David Workman, and Steve Douglas — slide rule.

Don Robinson, Mark Briggs, and Steve Klein — number sense.

The beginner, cadet, and concert bands of Stanton High School, provided a marvelous entertainment at the band concert Monday night, April 13, at the high school auditorium. Under the direction of George Walker, the bands played several fine selections. The funds will be used to sponsor a trip to San Antonio.

Roping Contest Scheduled For Big Spring

Joe Moss, director of cotton policy for USDA in Washington, D. C., sounded an optimistic note in his address before a convention audience. "If cotton can hold its present position, and work out its problems, then in the next 20 years, we should see a 50 million bale market," Moss said. He predicted markets would expand due to population growth and increase in exports.

Pfluger has operated a cotton gin in the Central Texas area for 32 years, and has served as a director, and member of the executive committee in Ginners' Association affairs.

"I pledge to you, the people of Martin County, to be fair and honest in all dealings and willings to work. I have been studying the duties and responsibilities of the office of County Judge. I know that I don't recognize all of the problems that face the County, but I do know some, and I am interested and concerned in finding out about others. But as in all large problems involving groups of people, it takes the concern and support of all the people working together to eliminate them. I will make myself available to assist in the solution of any situations. It would be a honor and a privilege to serve in this capacity, and give full time in working for you, the people of Martin County.
