These Things We Note

By ED PIEL

Prejudice is being down on something you are not up on.

Last week in The Reporter a letter to the editor appeared in which the writer deplored the lack of recreation facilities in Stanton. While we agree that more recreation is needed for our youngsters . . . the writer takes a verbal pot-shot at the Martin County Country Club, which we feel is unjust and deserving of an answer.

The writer states, "I'm not satisfied that they make the country club for the ones with money." A statement like that echos a feeling that is rapidly becoming common place in America, a feeling that what's yours is mine to.

I'm quite sure that the country club was not built for those only with money . . . but on the other hand, the facilities at the club were built entirely with money raised through membership fees and monthly dues . . . plus a lot of hard work by the members. Now if the facilities of the club were opened for everyone to use, regardless of whether they are a member or not, what good would a membership do, or where would the money come from for future improvements and present upkeep. It's not much different from building your own private swimming pool in the back yard . . . one you build with your money and for your own use only . . . not as a public facility.

A few years back, I'm not sure of the exact date an election was held to build a public swimming pool in Martin County, not surprisingly the measure was defeated. This would seem to indicate that the majority of county residents do not feel the need of building a public pool. The fact that such thinking was wrong does not alter the fact that the issue was defeated.

I talked with Bob Costey, president of the country club, and he said that anyone could join the club. There are not now, or has there ever been any restrictions as to race, religion, or economic status barring anyone from becoming a member. All one has to do is pay their dues. This seems to be the sticker, paying dues, evidently many would like to join but object to the monthly dues involved. But . . . as we pointed out . . . without the dues . . . there would be no golf course or swimming pool. And since the club is not tax supported what other way can be suggested for the necessary money needed to keep the pool and golf course in shape? All of us . . . sometime . . . somewhere . . . must pay our dues . . . the dues that are part of belonging to the human race.

I too would like to see a public swimming pool built in Stanton, along with other recreational facilities, but to single out the Martin County Country Club . . . to be bitter about the facilities they have, seems to me to be a faulty line of reasoning.

And no . . . I'm not a member of the country club!

I've watched with interest the lotteries being held in New York, New Hampshire, and New Jersey, and they seem to be working out quite well. While the amount of money the states have taken in off the sale of lottery tickets is not yet as high as they originally hoped for, the states expect the revenue to increase as time goes on.

I personally think it's a pretty good way to raise money, particularly in the face of rising opposition to any tax increases. As the need for more and more money to

Philosopher Grows Impatient With The Lack Of Patience Around The Country

(Editor's note: The Martin County Philosopher on his grass farm on Mustang Draw has a complaint this week).

Dear editor: One trouble with this country today is that people are too impatient.

I was reading just last night that when the six-cent postage stamp went to 8 cents, some post offices around the country didn't have any on hand and customers were mad because they had to stick a 6-center on their letters and then add either 2 ones or one 2-center. I guess some people are too busy to be wasting their time like that, but they ought to slow down and realize that the only way the Post Office's Printing Plant in Washington had to get the new stamps out over the country was by mail, and naturally that takes quite a while.

Some people are too impatient about getting ahead, forgetting that nowadays a penny saved is only a half-penny earned. Others say that a penny saved sometimes means the sales tax kitty was shortchanged.

I know one farm woman who's mad because her husband hasn't planted this year's crop, and another who's mad because her husband hasn't planted last year's. You can always find something to get mad about if you work at it.

Or take the Presidency. Regardless of how large a vote he went in with, sooner or later any President becomes the victim of wholesale criticizing and complaining, and this frequently gets under his skin.

It shouldn't. Presidents ought to remember that most politicians and all tires wear thin after a while.

Everybody needs more patience. After all, New York wasn't polluted in one day.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A GAS outdoor grill gives food a tangy outdoor flavor without the time and bother of charcoal fire. Char-broiled flavor comes from the smoke of meat juices dripping on hot briquets. Charcoal itself provides no flavor.

Permanent ceramic briquets in the gas grill reach cooking heat in a few minutes, and there is no long wait to start cooking. The heat is regulated manually so there is no need to move a grill up or down.

Farm And Ranch Review

County Agent's Column

By BILLY REAGOR

Lawn fertilizers and pesticides are often purchased with little or no consideration given to the square footage to be treated. For the most economical purchase, and efficient use of any lawn materials, County Agent Billy Reagor suggests that the lawn be measured and the square footage determined.

This job can easily be done by multiplying the length of the lawn by the width. For example, a lawn 60 feet wide and 80 feet long will contain 4,800 square feet. If a fertilizer recommendation calls for 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet, then it would be necessary to purchase approximately 100 pounds of the fertilizer.

It is a good idea, says the county agent, to mark off the lawn in plots of approximately 1,000 square feet each when herbicides or pesticides are being used. This enables the homeowner to apply the correct amount of the material much more accurately than by estimating the area to be covered. In the case of herbicides, this can be very important since many herbicides applied in excess of the recommended amounts can cause burning of the turf, or if applied in lesser amounts than recommended, poor weed control can result.

THE STANTON REPORTER, THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1971-5

The county agent says that he has considerable information available at his office on many subjects dealing with lawns and home landscaping, and most are free for the asking.

Summer is here when the chair you've sitting on gets up when you do.

Mike Wood Receives Music Degree

Mike Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, graduated from the School of Music at North Texas State University on May 18. He received a Bachelor of Music degree, with a major in music theory and English.

Dr. Bevington Reed, Commissioner of higher education, gave the commencement address.

Keeping as perfect as humanly possible an imperfect system of grading cotton was the primary purpose of the Universal Cotton Standards Conference attended by Ray Joe Riley of Hart, chairman of the Research Committee of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and Paul Bennett, PCG secretary-treasurer.

The conference is held every three years to examine and approve "key sets" of the Universal Cotton Standards for use in this country, and abroad during the next three years. In attendance at this year's conference in Memphis, Tenn., were over 200 cotton officials and industry leaders from 10 overseas nations and the United States.

Foreign countries that are signatories and were represented at the conference include Belgium, England, France, Germany, Italy, India, Japan, The Netherlands, Poland, and Spain. In addition to these, representatives of producers, spinners, shippers, ginners, exchanges, and other segments of the U. S. cotton industry were present, and took part in the work of the conference.

Pursuant to the Universal Cotton Standards Agreement, first effected in 1923, all signatory associations examined and approved key copies of the Universal Cotton Standards to be used as the basis for trading American Upland cotton throughout the world for the next three years.

The "First Reserve Set" of standards approved at the 1968 conference have since been sealed in the National Bank of Commerce of Memphis, and the Special Committee to Safeguard Standards almost ritually escorted this First Reserve Set to U.S. DA's Memphis Cotton Division office May 18.

The 1968 set was opened that afternoon and matched to Key Sets of Standards for 1971, with opportunity for comments and suggestions from all delegates. A First Reserve Set, a Second Reserve Set, a Special Working Set for USDA, and Key Sets for Signatory Associations were selected. Each Key Set contains a "biscuit," or standard cotton sample, representing the characteristics of all U. S. cotton grades.

Opening remarks for the conference were by S. C. Rademaker, Director of USDA's Cotton Division. Addresses were heard from Dr. Clayton Yeutter, Administrator, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service, and J. Dukes Wooters, Jr., executive vice president of Cotton Incorporated.

While the conference delegates took no action on the matter, a demonstration was given of quality measuring instruments now being evaluated by the Cotton Division, and there was much discussion of instrument classing of cotton and the problems related to the standardization of cotton classification.

Bennett and Riley reported wide agreement among delegates in discussion periods that the presently used system of classing and pricing cotton by staple, grade, color, and micronaire does not adequately reflect the end-use value of the fiber.

Riley said, "We often ask spinners to tell us precisely what fiber properties they want. But they can't give us a realistic answer because of the vague relationship that exists between the 'green card class' and cotton processing performance. And mills won't be able to give precise answers to our questions until sound, scientific, repeatable measurements are developed that include all properties necessary to the accurate prediction of fiber performance in the production system."

"Hopefully," Riley concludes, "in years to come we will see the Universal Standards Conference evolve into a forum for modernizing cotton evaluation techniques rather than a gathering for the approval of standards to be used in a highly imperfect system."

MARTIN-HOWARD-MIDLAND SOIL CONSERVATION

- SOIL CONSERVATION - DISTRICT NEWS OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Parallel terraces are paying big dividends in Martin County, reports the Soil Conservation Service. Reports from area farmers have shown increases of 80-85 pounds of lint cotton per acre. This will more than offset the initial cost of the terrace system.

These increases are due to the extra water that is held on the land where it can be used. The parallel terrace system, by leveling in between the terrace ridges, spreads the water out evenly over the entire area, making it available to the growing crops. Parallel terraces are designed to fit modern farming, and they are practically free of point rows. The benefits from parallel terraces are the same for both dryland and irrigated land.

During a three inch rain, 40 acre feet of water falls on a quarter section of land. If this water is not held on the land, it is lost due to runoff. A farmer would have to irrigate for 30 days with a well producing 450 gallons per minute to replace it. The pumping cost alone would be over $700.

The Great Plains Conservation Program will provide cost-share assistance up to 70 per cent of the cost of parallel terraces. This conservation program is administered by the Soil Conservation Service. The program provides a complete conservation plan for the entire farm or ranch, and cost-share assistance to carry out the plan. Anyone interested in this program should contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Stanton for additional information.

A parallel terrace system could be completed after harvest this fall, and be ready for the spring planted crop. Our Soil and Water Conservation Program is designed to protect and maintain the food and fiber producing potential of the Nation's farmland. The fact that the American farmer is the most efficient producer of food in the world is testimony to the effectiveness of this effort and the technology developed from the research of the Department of Agriculture.

Scouts Fixing Up Space Age Park As "Civic Project"

Stanton's Space Age Park, built in August 1963, has been receiving a face lifting recently. New plant . . . plumbing fixed . . . and the grass trimmed are but a few of the many renovations being done by Dennis Ireton and other members of Scout Troop 28.

The project is being done by Ireton as one of the merit badges needed to gain the coveted Eagle Scout award. Dennis has been working on the park since April of this year, and hopes to have it completed by the end of May.

The idea of sprucing up Space Age Park as his Eagle Scout community service project was suggested by Troop 28 Scoutmaster Don Tollison. After some preliminary work Dennis appeared before the Stanton City Commissioners, and presented an outline of what he hoped to accomplish at the park facilities.

After hearing Dennis's presentation, the city commissioners voted to allocate $300 for the necessary supplies that would be needed for the project. This money was used to buy paint and to hire a plumber and electrician to repair the bathroom fixtures, and to make sure all the lighting fixtures in the park were in working order.

Dennis spends time at the park working after school and on Saturdays, along with some helpers from the Scout troop.

In order to receive the Eagle Scout Award a boy must have 21 merit badges in various fields. Dennis presently has 13 of the needed 21. Ireton has been a Scout fire five years, and attended the national jamboree that was held in Idaho last year.

Helping Dennis on the project have been Gene Louder, Dale Henson, Danny Ireton, Mike Kelly, Walt Haislip, Darrel Sisters, Marty Douglas, and Gordon Eiland, all members of Scout Troop 28.

These . . .

(Continued from page 1) provide the needed public services rises still higher, I think we can look for more states to put in a lottery. The idea has already been discussed to institute a national lottery, and that, too, would be a good way to raise more money for the government to carry on many needed programs.

I know a lot of people are against lotteries, for they are gambling, but it's not very realistic to suppose that by outlawing gambling you can somehow protect the nation's morals . . . no more than outlawing the sale of alcoholic beverages in Martin County, has stopped those that want alcohol from obtaining it. Now, I've heard all the old cliches . . . that alcohol and gambling are responsible for the destruction of many American families each year, and that if it were legalized we would see even more homes destroyed . . . but I don't buy that line of reasoning. A person if they have the urge or desire to gamble and drink is going to do so regardless of what kind of laws are set up to prevent him from doing so. We tried the great experiment of prohibition once . . . and it proved to be a colossal failure.

If there's one thing I'm sure of . . . it's that you can't legislate a persons morals.

A special eight-page tabloid six section saluting the 1971 graduate class appears in this week's Reporter. We believe this is the first time such a section has been run . . . and the first time color has been used in the paper.

Any graduating senior who wishes a souvenir copy of the section can come in to the Reporter office and pick one up . . . no charge to the seniors.
