To The Point

BY BUDDY NORVILLE

John Doe is serving out a five-year prison term at Huntsville. He was convicted of possessing marijuana. In most cases a first offense draws a probated sentence. But John Doe was an unknown, his family had no money. He was completely at the mercy of the judge. The judge had mercy. He could have given him life.

Compare this situation with the bribery conspiracy trial in Abilene. Gus Mutscher, aide Rush McGinty and Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth were found guilty of receiving bribes. The defense had asked that the jury be dismissed and that the judge assess punishment for Mutscher, McGinty and Shannon.

District Court Judge J. Neil Daniel sentenced the three men to five-year probated sentences in the state penitentiary.

Equality under the law? A nation governed by laws, not men?

John Doe might not be where he is today had he been able to retain the services of someone like A. J. "Dusty" Rhodes as his lawyer. Had he been speaker of the House, third highest political position in the state, he would not be serving a jail term. Had he been a Dallas Cowboy, he might not be in prison.

But he was John Doe, a nobody, without money. He no longer has faith in the "American Way." He put his faith in man—and man betrayed him.

People all over the state had been demanding that something be done about "that mess in Austin." The jury did all it could — it returned three guilty verdicts.

I am not qualified to judge a man's guilt or innocence. But a jury found them guilty, so I presume they were, even though they plan to appeal the conviction. It may be true that they are not dangerous criminals and not a "danger to society." But look where they work! In our state government!

Will not this action encourage others to be dishonest? To a dishonest person, who has been able to make a lot of money while in office, a conviction might mean very little.

If, in this life we cannot find equality under man's laws, we are assured by the Word of God that there will be a day of judgement when all men will be judged equally. On that day John Doe will have the best defense attorney in the universe by his side. Jesus Christ will plead his case before the Great White Throne.

God's laws cannot be bent, or amended. We'll not be able to make "deals" in God's court. When you, or if you, lose your faith in the "American Way," just remember what Jesus said in Matthew 23:20.

Lyn Herzog Named 'Bandsman' of Year

The Stanton Public Schools presented in concert the 1972 School Bands Tuesday night. George Walker, director of bands, directed the concert. The High School Auditorium was filled for the Annual Spring event.

The Junior High Cadet Band was first presented, playing several selections, including Tangotown, Hava Nigila, and Sounds of Sousa.

A color-sound film, produced at the University Interscholastic League Regional Marching Contest held in Andrews, was shown.

The High School Concert Band's performance included Comin' Round the Mountain, with nine different arrangements of instruments. A cornet trio of, Lyn Herzog, Betty Anderson, and Polly Creech, played Bright Eyes. Mr. Walker said this was by far the very best cornet trio he had ever seen in all his years of teaching.

The band closed with the tune, American Civil War Fantasy.

The band sweetheart for 1971-72 was revealed by Walt Halslip, president of the band. Polly Creech, senior, was chosen by the band as their Sweetheart.

Lyn Herzog, senior, was given the Outstanding Bandsman Award. The Outstanding Bandsman is picked each year by the members of the band.

George Walker came to Stanton six years ago. Then he only had twelve members in the band. He immediately included the seventh and eighth grades. The seventh grade of that year is this year's seniors. "We will be losing the best class of senior bandsmen I have ever had," Mr. Walker commented.

ANOTHER FIRST AT HOUSTON — Clay Holcomb exhibited his 1st place light weight Brahman Cross Steer at the Houston Livestock Show. The steer sold for $100 per pound.

Residents of the Stanton area have been asked to be on the lookout for a rabid skunk. It was last seen in the vicinity of the J. C. Mott residence.

The skunk was first seen by the Doc Bristows about 11:00 p.m. Saturday. The skunk attacked their dog, when they tried to rescue the pet, the skunk attacked them. They managed to get rid of the suspected rabid animal without being bitten. Their dog, however, had to be put to sleep.

The skunk then went south about a mile to Mott's and attacked their dogs about 5:00 a.m.

When a small animal is bitten by a rabid animal, the incubation period is from three to twelve months. No one has to be told the severity of the situation. If you see a skunk, kill it, or call someone who can.

Sammy Yates Is Co. Wagon Boss

Buck Owens, 1972 Roundup Chairman for West Texas Boys Ranch, has announced that Sammy Yates has been appointed Wagon Boss for Martin County. Owens said, "We are very fortunate to have a man like Sammy Yates working for the Ranch in Martin County. West Texas Boys Ranch is presently caring for 72 boys who need our help, that's why we are so pleased to have Mr. Yates working with us on the Annual Roundup." West Texas Boys Ranch has served over 700 boys since it was organized in 1947. Of that number one boy has been from Martin County.

West Texas Boys Ranch is supported entirely by tax-deductible donations by the public and Annual Roundup is one of the most important money-raising events undertaken by volunteers for the Ranch. All proceeds from Roundup go into general operating funds to purchase bread and butter, shoes and socks, and to meet the operating expenses of the Ranch. Through Roundup livestockmen are invited to donate livestock or cash to help maintain the Ranch as a home for the dependent and neglected boys of West Texas. The spring phase of Roundup was kicked off at a Wagon Boss meeting held in San Angelo, March 11. Arrangements to haul donated livestock will be made by local Wagon Bosses or the Roundup Chairman.

Most area Livestock Commission companies do not charge commission on livestock donated to West Texas Boys Ranch.

PLAZA SUITE Now Showing

PLAZA SUITE, the seventh of Neil Simon's series of great stage hits, is next at Midland Community Theatre. It kept New York audiences convulsed with laughter for two years and eight months, has made audiences across America rock with mirth, opened in Midland March 17, running through April 1st.

A riot of laughter from start to finish, Plaza Suite is the misadventures of three widely different couples as they face crucial, though howlingly funny, moments in their respective lives. The three one-act plays are linked together though being set in the same sumptuous suite in Manhattan's most elegant hotel.

In the first, "Visitor from Mamaroneck," a suburban housewife, no longer svelt and willowy, entices her wayward husband to suite 719 of the Plaza to rekindle the flame of their wedding night spent in that suite 24 years before.

The hilarity accelerates in the second of the three-act play, "Visitor from Hollywood," in which a celebrated movie producer decides to bring about, via the proper cocktail setting, a wily bit of seduction with a childhood sweetheart from his old hometown in New Jersey.

The third, "Visitor from Forest Hills," is a wildly funny farce, with a young bride-to-be locking herself in the bathroom, while her wedding party waits downstairs for the ceremony and the bride's parents go out of their minds.

In the cast of Plaza Suite at MCT are Mary Frances Floyd, Arch McCall, Kay Edwards, Ron Osborne, Robyn Henry and Phil Fickman, in a variety of roles.

It's by Neil Simpson, so it can't be anything but uproariously funny.

Advance Contracting Popular

MEMPHIS (Special) — Advance contracting has become a more popular way to buy and sell cotton in the past few months, and this popularity makes it incumbent on the buyer and seller alike to be aware of possible pitfalls.

These problems, and some recommendations for coping with them, were discussed at a recent industry meeting called by the National Cotton Council. The meeting came as the result of a resolution adopted at the Council's annual meeting last month, calling for recommendations which might provide adequate mutual safeguards for persons dealing in advance contracts. The grower has three options open to him in handling his crop. He may sell in the futures market; he may sell his crop forward; or he may hold it for sale in the spot market. The producer who contracts his crop in advance secures a known price, which permits him to plan his year's operations more effectively.

At the Memphis meeting, the group recognized two major problems with advance contracting: assurance that the buyer will be ready and able to take delivery on the quantity called for by the contract and make prompt payment when the seller invoices the cotton, and assurance that the seller will deliver the quality cotton expected by the buyer in the quantity called for by the contract.

It was pointed out that failure of either the buyer or the seller to perform satisfactorily would make it difficult for that party to make contracts in future years. The group also pointed out that contracts are only as good as the people who make them, and that no contract could be written which could give complete protection from an unscrupulous party to a contract.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that by early this year about 31 per cent of the 1972 crop will be contracted, and with adequate contracts available it is generally felt that selling in this way will increase.

The group meeting in Memphis pointed out there are different types of contracts, based on whatever agreements the buyer and seller may come to. There are, however, some points to consider when making contracts which might reduce the risks for both parties. The committee suggested:

— Knowing the reputation and financial standing of those involved. If there is a lack of personal knowledge, banks or persons with whom the other party has dealt can often provide information, and if a broker is involved he should have satisfactory knowledge of both parties.

— Entering into mutual performance bonds or escrow accounts if not completely satisfied about the ability or desire of the other party to perform according to the contract.

What is to be delivered, when it is to be delivered, and where it is to be delivered, as well as the selling price and whether the terms agreed to are binding on both the purchaser and the seller, are points of the contract to be studied closely, according to the committee.

Considerable emphasis was given to the fact that while discounts for poor quality cotton are not very significant in this time of short supply, buyers remember growers who fail to do a satisfactory job of preserving quality, and the word gets around in the trade, just as it does among growers when a buyer reneges on a contract. Buyers either refuse to enter into agreements with these producers in the future or discount offers they make.

UNLOCK IMAGINATIVE ADVENTURES IN THE NEW LOCK-UP ZOO.

What's more fun than a toy animal? How about a whole zoo full of toy animals. Toys from two to five are already falling under the spell of the Lock-Up Zoo from Playskool. And the most charming commercial imaginable spells it out.

"A is for animal in the Playskool Zoo." Six of them, all beautifully crafted of wood, with hinged necks or arms. They're realistic enough—but not too literal—to spark lively young imaginations.

"B is for bear. He wants to meet you." So he sits up straight in his bright red coat, friendly as you please.

"C is for cage." This zoo has two. One large 4-door setup with two removable handboard panels that act as dividers. Two doors with hook latches slide open; the other two, with sliding bolts, swing open and shut on living hinges. There's a traveling cage, too, with removable wheels, a partition that slides up and down, and doors that lower to become ramps to let the animals out. Both cages have birch plywood bases. Bars, doors and locks are durable polypropylene.

"D is for all the things kids can do when they're having fun with the Playskool Zoo." Make-believe safaris and circus acts are exciting changes from trips to the zoo.

"E is for elephant." A big blue one. "F"—you guessed it, "is for fun." "G's for giraffe." Tall and yellow as sun. "H is for hippopotamus." Bright green with spots, and big as a bus! There's a lion, too, with an orange smile. And the purple gorilla hangs monkey-style.

A fold-out board helps set the scene. So a family of four—mother, father, boy and girl—can make pretend zoo visits in their blue and yellow cars. The people are as flexible as the animals; articulated limbs let them sit, stand and move their arms.

The Lock-Up Zoo is available all together, or can be bought a little at a time as imaginations grow and make-believe play becomes more real.

Like all Playskool toys, the Lock-Up Zoo is designed with preschool educational needs in mind. Tiny eye locks that really work encourage manual dexterity. Moving around the people, cars and animals promotes larger muscle control. Setting up the zoo helps develop a sense of design. And on a more elementary level, little children learn to recognize colors, and exotic animals in scale with people sizes.

Playing alone or in groups, boys and girls for years to come will have hours of play-and-learn adventures with the wonderful new Playskool Lock-Up Zoo.

Check For Bagworms

Now is the time for homeowners to check for bagworms on trees, advises Dr. Weldon Newton, Extension entomologist. Bagworms can now be easily detected while trees are bare. The insects can completely defoliate a tree next season if they are not controlled. Full grown worms or eggs may be found in the bags during the winter. On small trees, bagworms can be hand picked. Larger trees with bagworms should be sprayed in May or June with diazanon, carbaryl or trichlorfon.

Surprise week-end visitors in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Noybe Hamilton, were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hamilton and sons, Gregory, Darrell, and Karl, and daughter, Ronda, from San Antonio, Texas.

A successful television musical production requires a quality singer-actor combination, and Oral Roberts has lined up such a combination for his upcoming Easter Special, "The Centurion," to be aired nationally March 27 - April 2.

Stated for starring roles are Harve Presnell as the Centurion and Show Regular Richard Roberts as Pilate. Making special guest-star appearances are Jane Powell as Claudia, Pilate's wife, and Peter Graves as Luke. Also featured on the show are the World Action Singers and the Ralph Carmichael orchestra.

The show has been specially adapted for television by Writer-Arranger Ralph Carmichael, with words and music by Jack Coleman. "The Centurion" presents the religious world's most significant historical event in a new light.

Noted for his leading role in several Broadway hits, Presnell with his booming voice and rugged looks is ideal in his casting as the Centurion. Some of his Broadway credits include "Carousel," "Showboat," "Camelot," "Oklahoma," and "Kiss Me Kate." He has also appeared in MGM's "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and United Artists' "Clory Guys."

FAIRFAX, MINN., STANDARD: "A government report indicates Russia is getting ahead of the U. S. in many ways, but it's no wonder. They don't have to spend half their time fighting communism."

From the Office of Martin L. Gibson Veterans Service Officer

Persons who are discharged or released from active military service are faced with a number of deadline dates for various actions which they must initiate. Following are some of these deadline dates:

Veterans just released from active duty have -

10 days - To advise Selective Service of their address. This may be done either in person or by mail.

30 days - To register with Selective Service if not registered prior to entry on active duty.

90 days - To apply to former employer for reemployment.

120 days - To retain insurance protection by converting the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to an individual policy. This conversion may be made regardless of the physical condition of the veteran.

1 year - From date of Veterans Administration disability rating to obtain Government life insurance under the Service Disabled Insurance program.

1 year - To make application for dental treatment.

1 year - To receive unemployment compensation.

8 years - To complete education under the new GI Bill. All eligible veterans must complete their training within eight (8) years from the date of their discharge or release from service, or by May 31, 1974, whichever is later.

In answer to the questions in the minds of some veterans, we would like to point out that there is NO deadline date for the following:

- To file claim for service-connected disability.

- To file claim for non-service-connected pension, for which 90 days or more wartime service is required.

- To obtain VA hospital care when needed.

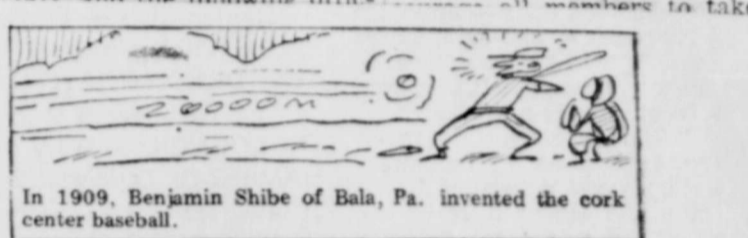

- To obtain assistance in obtaining employment. This assistance is provided through the Texas Employment Commission local offices in Texas.

- To convert GI Term Insurance to a permanent plan.

MARTIN L. GIBSON, Veteran Service Officer, Stanton, Texas.

Cotton weed control begins with Planavin®

Start the season with Planavin® herbicide and you won't have to worry about 28 weeds and grasses competing with your young cotton. Later, you can come in with a good post-emerge like MSMA or DSMA to get certain hard-to-kill weeds. But remember, an effective, economical cotton weed control program starts with Planavin, the weather-proof pre-emergence herbicide from Shell.

God did control the act of the whale that swallowed Jonah. The whale did God's Holy Plan when he swallowed Jonah and when Jonah was in the belly of the whale God did put a living soul in the whale, also God did claim that soul again and took that soul from the whale.

And the whale became as it was when first made without arms, hands, feet or soul. The whale travels from pole to pole.

Thousands of people have been light — fueled by whale oil.

Although the whale has skin and bone, it also has no and to call its own.

True, it will never go to heaven or hell or grave — that's all.

Joe Hicks Pontiac-Datsun

In this day and age when the car maker has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is. Obviously all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We, therefore, can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from. The ideal dealer to buy a car from offers a fair price on the new unit, as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year. The writers of the 1972 Review would like to point out a dealer that considers the most important part of selling a car the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about Joe Hicks Pontiac-Datsun at 504 East 3rd in Big Spring, phone 267-5535, dealers for the famous Pontiac and Datsun automobiles. See them today for a new or quality used car, and you'll see why we say "Customer Consideration" is their byword.

Column No. 7—Bait & Switch Advertising

"Nearly new nationally-advertised brand zig-zag sewing machine for $24.95."

"Complete brake job for $15.00."

"Four rooms of furniture for $199.95."

Do the above "eye catchers" sound familiar? Most consumers at one time or another have responded to such advertisements, often hurrying to get there so they can take advantage of the tremendous offer before the merchant's supply of the product is exhausted.

Many times these consumers are met with a constant belittling of the advertised product and are purposely switched to another more costly product by a smooth-talking salesman.

Other times they are told the item is sold out even though the ad says the sale is good for three days and the store has only been open for ten minutes on the first day. They just happen to have a similar item, however, at a higher price. What a disappointing experience for the consumers who alertly see through the sales gimmick, and how tragic for those consumers who do not!

"Bait and Switch" advertising is prohibited by both Federal and State law. "Bait and Switch" is a practice whereby an offer is made not in order to sell the advertised product at the advertised price, but rather to draw consumers to the store to sell them another similar product which is more profitable to the advertiser. The merchant is even unwilling at times to sell his "bait" item to the customer. It is not unusual for a merchant who engages in such tactics to actually fine his salesmen if the advertised merchandise is sold.

Remember that merchants are operating their businesses to make a profit, and they cannot afford to give away their merchandise. Certainly not all merchants engage in the "Bait and Switch" form of advertising. There are numerous specials and other sales run each day that are bona fide, and they do not fall within the "Bait and Switch" practice. However, when an ad is just too eye catching to be true, you should carefully analyze it and then scrutinize the salesman's presentation. Don't be victimized by the Whenever you discover a "Bait and Switch" salesman; be an Informed Consumer! business which engages in "Bait and Switch" advertising, be sure to notify Attorney General Crawford C. Martin, Attorney General of Texas, P. O. Box 12548, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711. By doing so you will help us protect others who are unaware of this advertising gimmick.

Valley Planting As W. Texas Gathers

AUSTIN — As harvesting of the 1971 cotton crop is ending in North West Texas planting of the 1972 crop in the Rio Grande Valley is beginning.

Noting this continuous process in Texas' most valuable crop, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reminds cotton growers that the fight to control the destructive pink bollworm should be equally unabating.

Commissioner White sets planting and plow-up dates for cotton six zones of Texas, covering over 100 counties, as authorized under the State's Pink Bollworm Control Act. He urges all cotton farmers in those zones to observe the planting dates so that the pink bollworm can be more effectively controlled.

Area Students On Dean's List

LUBBOCK — More than 1,071 students in the College of Education at Texas Tech University qualified for the dean's honor list for the fall semester, according to Dean Gordon C. Lee.

To qualify for the honor list, a student must be enrolled in 12 semester hours of courses, excluding pass-fail courses, and have at least a 3.0 grade point average. Texas Tech uses a 4.0 point grading system.

The College of Education is one of six colleges and two schools at Texas Tech University, with a total fall enrollment of more than 21,000 students. The others are the colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Engineering and Home Economics and the Graduate School and the School of Law.

Students recognized for their high academic achievement in the College of Arts and Sciences are:

Catherine Therwhanger of Stanton; Carol Ann Pribyla of Tarzan. (Note: Many students who live off campus and who are married list only their Lubbock address, so there may be others from the Stanton area on this list.)

Sen. John G. Tower designated as his re-election campaign manager Mrs. Noia Smith of Austin, first Texas woman to run a statewide campaign.

Some cotton has already been planted in the Rio Grande Valley where planting dates set by the Texas Department of Agriculture in Cameron County and parts of Hidalgo and Starr Counties are February 1 to March 31. Other planting dates elsewhere include:

February 15 to April 20 in the 13-county zone that reaches from Willacy County north through San Patricio and West through Starr, then north through Webb County;

March 5 to May 10 in the zone that reaches from Refugio north up the coast through Jackson and west through Maverick, then north through Val Verde;

March 10 to May 20 in the zone that reaches from Matagorda north up the coast through Orange County and west through Gonzales, then north through Washington;

March 10 to May 20 (same dates as above) in the eight-county zone that includes

Gladalupe, Comal, Caldwell, Hays, Bastrop, Travis, Lee and Williamson Counties;

March 20 to May 31 in the zone in East and North Texas that reaches from Newton County north along the Sabine River through Panola and west through Burnet, then north through Hood County.

Pecos, Reeves and Ward Counties have no deadline for planting cotton.

A zone in the north part of the Texas Panhandle is free of pink bollworm infestation. Other cotton-growing counties in the State are not affected by the plant and plow-up dates set under the Pink Bollworm Law.

Cotton Talks

According to Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., at least three changes in 1972 farm program regulations should be made, each of which would be of benefit to High Plains farmers and to the accomplishment of program objectives.

Following the action taken by the 52-man PCG Board of Directors, Johnson has requested that the U. S. Department of Agriculture (1) move the final date for certification of cotton and feed grain acreage from July 15 to August 1, (2) require producers of wheat and barley to designate cotton and feed grain set-aside acreage at the same time as non-producers of wheat and barley, and (3) separate minimum planting requirements for feed grain and barley allotments, thereby allowing barley allotment holders to underplant that crop without losing feed grain planting history.

Allowing an extra 15 days for certification of planted cotton and feed grain acreage is necessary, Johnson says, because County ASCS offices will be hard pressed to supply measuring service to all producers between the time crops are planted and July 15. Under some spring conditions many producers may be unable to plant feed grains until near the first of July. To a lesser extent, the same situation could exist for cotton. And should this happen over all or a significant portion of a county ASCS office managers state it will be "next to impossible" to get all acreage measured, notify farmers of measured acreage and get them "certified" by July 15.

The certification deadline in previous years has been August 1, and USDA changed to July 15 this year "so we can get payment checks out earlier." But it stands to reason that producers are going to certify acreage as soon as practical, whatever the deadline, Johnson says.

As regulations now stand farmers with wheat planted are required to designate all set-aside acreage, including cotton and feed grain set-aside, by May 1. In almost all instances this date will fall ahead of cotton planting and in many cases before grain sorghum or corn is planted. Unless changed the requirement will force producers of all three crops to make untimely land use decisions on cotton and feed grains, and these could prove expensive. There is provision for "substitution" of set-aside acreage after the initial designation if it can be shown that the need for substitution was the result of conditions beyond the producer's control.

Even so, the premature designation of set-aside acreage for cotton and feed grains will cause inconvenience and delays in farming operations and place an unnecessary work load on County ASCS personnel. USDA's reasons for wanting the early set-aside designation have not been made public, and PCG directors fail to see that the requirement will further the program's operation in any way.

The third regulation which needs revision is explained by Johnson as one which will force producers with both barley and feed grain allotments to plant more feed grains and less cotton — precisely what USDA does not want. The rule is that farmers with an allotment of both crops will have to plant to either feed grain or barley 45 per cent of both allotments.

A Crosby County farmer, for example, has a feed grain base allotment of 114 acres and an 80-acre barley base. He would like to plant the required 45 per cent of his feed grain base (51.3 acres), set aside the mandatory 25 per cent of both allotments (48.5 acres), plant the remaining 94.2 acres to cotton and give up 20 per cent of his barley base. But ASCS officials have advised that this procedure will cost him 20 per cent of his feed grain base in addition to the loss of barley allotment.

This producer, whose case is representative of many High Plains farmers, doesn't want to plant barley in 1972. Nor is he particularly interested in protecting his barley base. But he does want to maintain his full feed grain allotment.

To do this, unless minimum planting requirements for barley and feed grains are considered separately as PCG is asking, he will have to plant 87.3 acres to feed grains instead of 51.3 and will be left with 36 acres less for planting to cotton.

My uncle back home says even his youngest knows about income tax... while saluting Old Glory he heard her say "pledge my allowance to the flag."

LILY DAY — Dallas Cowboy defensive tackle Bob Lilly will serve as State Chairman of the 1972 High School Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children, an annual event to raise funds for the treatment and service program of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and adults of Texas. Lilly's friend is Keith Prestridge, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Prestridge of Arlington, Texas.

Soil Conservation Tips

Locally led conservation programs have dramatically reduced many forms of pollution and have improved the quality of our environment, according to Clyde W. Graham, head of the Soil Conservation Service for Texas.

"Many of us who have been concerned with conservation for a long time find it a little startling that our goals of conservation, purer water, and a better environment are now in the middle of a national crusade," Graham said. "Reforestation, establishing grasses and legumes, terracing, and other conservation practices installed by Texas landowners have had a big impact on pollution abatement."

The SCS has been giving technical assistance to local soil and water conservation districts with conservation programs since 1939, according to Graham. "Sediment, for example, is the largest pollutant of water," Graham said. "Sediment washes from unprotected land into streams and lakes. The soil particles can carry disease and wastes, ruin fishing, and increase the cost of purifying water."

"More than 30 years of conservation work by the landowners of this country has greatly reduced the volume of soil washing from rural lands," he continued.

Graham pointed out that a large portion of sediment pollution today comes from urban construction sites, roadbanks, parking lots, and other nonfarm uses. He said many conservation practices that are effective on farmlands can also be used to curb non-farm erosion. "Air pollution from agricultural sources is a rare, localized problem now," Graham added. "But wind-blown soil from farming once polluted the air on a grand scale."

"Clouds of dust blew from land that had been mismanaged and overused, darkening the skies over Washington, New York, and other eastern cities."

"Air pollution of this magnitude has been eliminated by conservation programs. Permanent cover, tree windbreaks, wind stripcropping, and better management in many ways are keeping the landowners' soil at home—and out of the air."

"Burning woodlands, prairies, and crop residues once sent natural plant nutrients up in clouds of smoke that blanketed the countryside in some parts of Texas for weeks at a time," Graham said. "Now, thanks to enlightened conservation methods, indiscriminate burning is no longer practiced. This source of pollution from our farmlands has been almost eliminated."

"Some people may be surprised to learn that conservation farming reduces the need for chemical pesticides and herbicides which are sometimes guilty of air and water pollution," Graham continued.

"Crop rotations are used to conserve and improve the soil and fight insects, weeds and diseases," he explained. "Certain plants kill nematodes, for example. A rotation to include these plants will help control nematodes."

"The conservation farmer strives to reduce soil loss and runoff," Graham said, "and this reduces the likelihood of fertilizers and chemicals washing into streams and lakes."

"New ways are being found to use or dispose of wastes that once went into streams. Wood chips, fruit processing plant wastes, animal by-products, and a long list of other materials are proving to be useful as soil conditioners or fertilizers," according to Graham. He said the whole concept of conservation is founded on planning for the protection and improvement of the environment — a positive approach.

A good example of the positive approach may be seen in the Texas Hill Country. Ranchers are joining with ornithologists in a program to inventory and preserve nesting sites for a songbird of limited range — the golden-cheeked warbler. SCS land-use information is helping locate stands of ash cedar, which the Golden-cheeked warbler must have to build his nest.

"This is a unique example of planning ahead to avoid detrimental activities," Graham said, "but the same positive principle can be used in planning for recreation, industry, housing developments, and the like. Such planning should begin with the land and its related resources."

Graham said that most conservation work is done in rural areas by farmers and ranchers — but that the technical help that has been proven successful in rural programs is also available for nonfarm use.

Highway Department Serves As Link To The Past

AUSTIN — Everyone knows the Texas Highway Department provides important transportation links between modern cities and towns. Not so well known is the Department's role in providing links to the past, too.

Texas Highway Department crews have been responsible for finding more than 800 archaeological sites since the Department was organized in 1917.

They combine with the more than 4,500 sites currently cataloged at the University of Texas Archaeological Research Laboratories in Austin to give archaeologists a more complete picture of the State's colorful history.

Discoveries made by Highway Department crews include the remains of an Indian burial mound now on display in the Witte Memorial Museum San Antonio, Inner Space Caverns on Interstate Highway 35 near Georgetown, and an 80 million year old fish fossil in West Texas.

Earlier, discoveries were made more or less by accident. Construction was stopped while the site was excavated. Today pinpointing these sites and locating and restoring artifacts is an important part of highway building. The Department has its own special section to find and explore archaeological sites before construction begins.

It was established in July, 1970, shortly after the Texas legislature passed the Antiquities Code of 1969. The code establishes strict rules for control of all historical and archaeological treasures in the State and make it unlawful for the Department to build or improve a highway at an archaeological site.

"We want to find all the sites, excavate them before a new highway is built and, at the same time, recover artifacts under existing highways," said Frank Weir.

Weir, who organized the Department's archaeological operations, and a small staff of trained archaeologists assisted by several Department employees have surveyed more than 400 miles of right of way and excavated nine sites since the section was formed.

Recent discoveries include an Indian campsite near a highway being constructed around Austin, Indian campsites and burial sites in West Texas, and a Civil War powder mill near Marshall.

Probably the most significant discovery has been the original architectural plans and specifications for the temporary Capitol which burned in 1899.

The plans, considered lost, were found by Weir while doing research in the archives branch of the Texas State Library.

"Through archaeology we are able to learn of achievements and failures of those who lived in this land before us," Weir said.

"Knowledge of the past is essential to understanding the present and interpreting the future," he said. "Our findings give us a deeper understanding of how we came to be what we are today and what the possibilities are for tomorrow."

Department employees across the State have provided substantial support for the program.

"They are familiar with their area and well-versed on its history," said Weir. "There hasn't been a week pass yet that someone didn't write or call with new information about a suspected archaeological site."

Artifacts recovered from archaeological sites are studied by State archaeologists and often donated to a museum near the area where they were found.

By JAN McELRATH

INEFFICIENCY AND STUPIDITY AND 'PLAIN LAZINESS IS NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR URGENCY OR DESPERATION IN ANY SITUATION.

This statement is a brief summary of the school bond issue, election, and rejection in a very simple sentence.

Let's break it down into parts and see what we have.

Inefficiency — the quality, state or fact of being inefficient. Inefficient — not producing the effect intended or desired, wasteful or time and energy.

The inefficient "concerned voters" were not completely wasteful of time and energy. Their letter, of which only a few select voters received a copy, may have accomplished a few "against" votes for the school bond election. But in the long run what were their real objectives. A building where a hallway is used as a music room and audio visual storage room; a room in a grade school building which was originally the boiler room and janitor's closet — now is a book storage room and mimeograph room, buckets necessary to keep the water from flooding the floors, jugs sitting on desks to catch the drips, a church building to be rented in order to have enough class rooms where every Friday afternoon the desks must be removed and pews installed and Monday morning the task must be reversed, the cellar at the Jr. High School building which is also the dressing room for the football team, narrow halls with doors opening into them, the special education class that meets in the old band hall in the south end of the bus barn with its leaks, broken windows, and rotten window frames, and steel "I" beams supporting the ceilings which sag as low as 12 inches from the wall. Yes, the "concerned voters'" time and energy was not completely wasteful. It was completely? Well, what does one say or feel when you think of all the children's lives involved. You feel complete disgust and desperation, BUT you say NOTHING!!!

Stupidity — the quality or state of being stupid; stupid — lacking intelligence or reason.

STUPIDITY is a major factor in this issue. Business men were threatened, if they supported the bond issue they would lose business. Different ones told how the school board and superintendent would split the bond money. Board members were accused of ignoring the majority by bringing up the same issue again. There was even talk that the school children would have to go to school 12 months if a new school was built and improvements made. If a law was to go into effect that students had to go 12 months, the whole state of Texas would be required too, not just one new school.

Laziness — the quality or state of being lazy; Lazy — disliking activity or exertion; not energetic, vigorous; encouraging inactivity or indolence.

LAZINESS on some part of the people of Stanton. They did not care enough about the school children to get out and support the bond issue. Instead, they let the "concerned voters" take action and in so doing let the bond issue fail. On the most part, the people of Stanton really want a new school. Stanton does not need to build for the present, but now, they need to build for the future. If Stanton wants a new school, good teachers, and a change to better themselves they are going to have to work for that goal.

Urgency — the quality or state of being urgent. Urgent — calling for immediate attention.

URGENCY is that new school buildings are needed. Plans under the issue were to build a new high school and gymnasium, build additional rooms onto the present high school for a Jr. High School and build additional rooms on top of the elementary school. The engineer reported on the elementary school to be safe at present but could become dangerous with a heavy rain or snow. Well, parents don't have to worry about the snow until winter of next year. But what can we say about the rain. RAIN, RAIN, go away and come back some other day. Sounds kind of childish but then that is how most people have been acting about this bond issue anyway.

Desperation — a loss of hope and surrender to misery or dread; a state of hopelessness leading to rashness.

DESPERATION was also a factor but a very small one. Leaks that dripped into the light fixtures worried some people but not enough. A few parents kept their children home at the first of school when it rained so heavily. BUT WAS THAT A SOLUTION?

Situation — the way in which something is placed in relation to its surroundings.

The SITUATION of which we were talking of was a new high school and making improvements to the other two Stanton schools. Would this affect our surroundings? THAT IS A QUESTION EACH OF US HAVE TO ASK OURSELVES!!!

Farmers Must Pay Self-Employment Tax, IRS Says

DALLAS — North Texas farmers are subject to self-employment tax for 1971 if their farm income is $400 or more, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of the Internal Revenue Service, advised today.

The self-employment tax rate is 7.5 per cent with a maximum of $585.00, and is in addition to income tax.

A self-employed farmer is one who operates his own business or farm. A farmer is also considered self-employed if he employs others to operate or work his farm even though he does not live on it himself.

A farmer must file a Federal income tax return and pay the self-employment tax due if his net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more, even if his gross income is less than otherwise required to file a return.

The self-employment tax for 1971 applies to a maximum of $7,800. But this figure is reduced by any wages from which Social Security taxes were withheld.

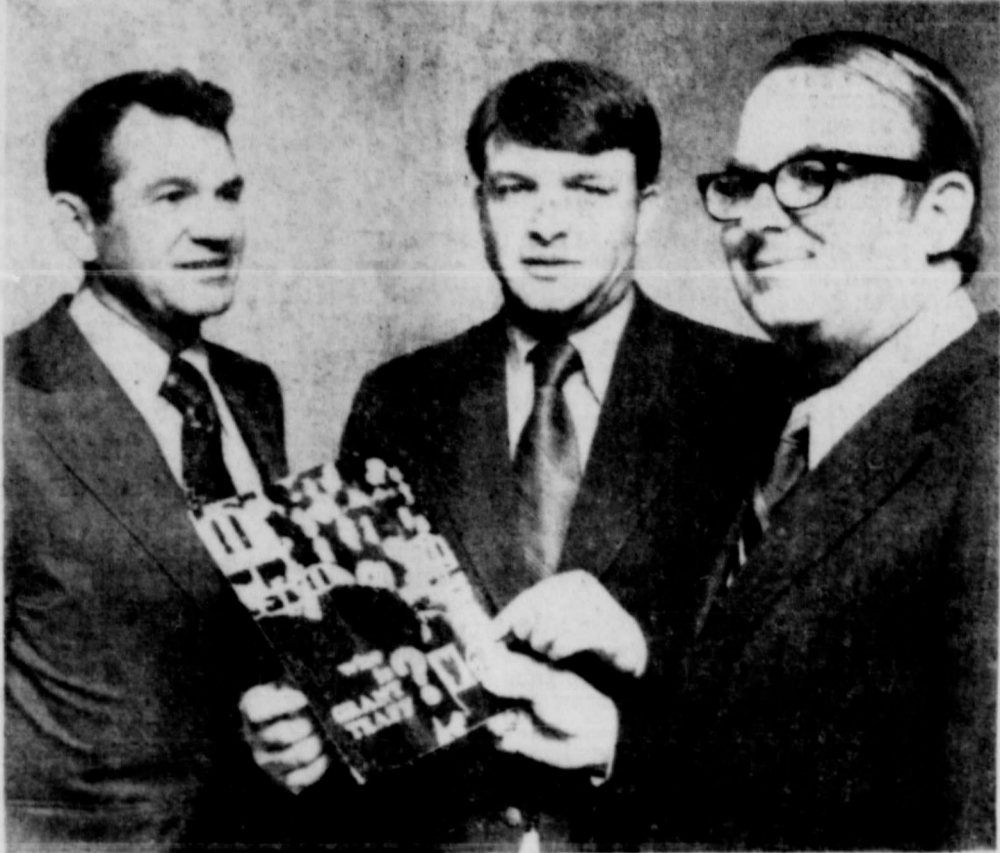

A special optional provision in the law enables farmers to acquire Social Security credits even if they have a loss after expenses are deducted.

"Farm" as used in the Federal tax law relating to Social Security and self-employment taxes, includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animals, and truck farms, and also plantations, ranches, and nurseries.

Beta Sigma Phi News

The Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi met together March 16, at Cap Rock Electric in the Willie Wirehand Auditorium for their annual "Spring Book Review." Pauline Wood introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Victor Horn, of Midland, who reviewed "Honeycomb" by Adela Rogers St. John. It is an autobiography of an author and journalist. Many famous persons, whom the author had interviewed through the years were discussed. It is an entertaining and delightful book in retrospect of seventy-five years as an uninhibited female.

Mrs. Woodford Sale of Midland and Mrs. Velma Zimmerman, Stanton, librarian, were special guests.

Members and guests were greeted at the door, and a shamrock pinned on each, by Margaret Roueche and Mary Grace Latimer. Mary Kathryn Bristow gave bottles of cologne donated by Mary Prudie Brown.

The refreshment table was decorated in honor of "St. Patrick's Day". A centerpiece, made by Mary Kathryn Bristow, carried out the theme in cleverly decorated "potato heads."

June Reid called her chapter to a short business meeting after the review. The chapter voted to reactivate "The Bunny Parade." This custom has been discontinued for several years. It is a distinct and unusual event, in which children, dressed in their Easter finery, parade through the main street of Stanton on Easter morning.

To Tell You The Truth

BOB MUNRO, Minister
Church of Christ
Tarzan, Texas

QUESTION: What is the meaning in Galatians 3:24 where Paul says, "So that the law was our custodian until Christ came, that we might be justified by faith." RSV.

ANSWER: The word "custodian" (the King James Version uses the word "schoolmaster") in Greek is "paidagogos" meaning an "attendant," "custodian," or "guide." In early Grecian times, slaves were employed by certain families to have general oversight of a boy or boys from the years of about six to sixteen. These slaves were called "pedagogues" and served in a disciplinary capacity as well as escorts. If the pedagogue was properly qualified he could assist the child or children committed to his care with their lessons, but this was not his main duty. In our sense of the word "schoolmaster," Christ is the schoolmaster and not the law. The law performs the office of the ancient pedagogue, to lead us to the teacher or instructor, Jesus Christ. It may be good to add that the law spoken of is the law of Moses given to man to prepare him for the coming of Christ. The law of Moses was imperfect in many ways, while the present law or the "law of Christ" is perfect by way of His death, burial, and resurrection.

Dallas Cowboy teammates Bob Hayes and Bob Lilly have come across with a pair of TDs for the Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety. Hayes, the fleet wide receiver around whom the entire Cowboy receiving corps is built, and Lilly, the six-time All-Pro who's been with Dallas for all of his pro career, scored with public service announcements for the "Drive Friendly" program. The recorded messages were recently released to all radio stations in Texas.
