Stanton Athletes Are Honored At Banquet

RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS AND HONORS. Dwayne McMeans and Rick Wilson sign scholarships to Howard Payne College. McMeans was named "Back of the Year" and "Outstanding All-Round Athlete of the Year." Clardy was honored for the "Lineman of the Year" award. Coach Young watches from above.

Over 250 athletes, school officials, parents and fans crowded the high school gym for the 1972-73 High School Athletic Banquet.

Delnor Poss, Vice-President of Gamco Industries and Southwest Conference Official delivered the main speech and told the athletes that they have something to be proud of as Texas Athletes. He commented on the inter-school athletics of the University Interscholastic League and how well it is administered. He urged athletes, fans, and school officials to strive to continue to uphold the traditions of sportsmanship and fair play exemplified thus far by the League.

He said that in some states where this had not been done that athletics had been reduced to a very low state of affairs. In Los Angeles for example the players who are going to compete in a game get in a bus and depart from their school. These players nor the players from the other team know where they are going to play. The two teams meet at a gymnasium known only by the bus drivers and play their game without spectators and the people find out the results the next day.

Debbie Lambert received the Outstanding-All-Round-Girl-Athlete Award and Dwayne McMeans added to his already well supplied awards collection by receiving the Outstanding-All-Round-Male-Athlete of the year award.

The Reporter did not get a full listing of these receiving awards but some of the top awards were: Dwayne McMeans got football back of the

Jess thinks

In a never ending flow of legislation from all levels of Government we are constantly seeing our freedoms taken away. You know it takes TIME for "Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness" we hear so much about. If someone takes away this time he is taking away your freedom. Everyday as the small businessman opens his mail he wonders what new and exciting things some bureaucrat up in the big city wants you to tell him about today. He will make out thousands of stimulating questions including everything from the color of your deceased mother-in-law's hair to how many farm hands and non-farm hands was on your 5th cousin's ranch on February the 32nd 13 years ago. Now, if you don't answer them all within less than ten days you and your pet horse can be held liable to fine, imprisonment, or suffocation (by red tape.) The latter would be the best if you could just get it over with quickly — but that's not the bureaucratic way.

The bureaucratic way is that you spend 32% of your time paying taxes and this money goes to some guy the government pays twice the amount you get to look over your books, ranch, or cotton field. He is already getting 32% of your money and wants you to pay more taxes so he can move into a newer building and put you in an older one than the fire department just condemned.

The Government knows he is a good accountant because he got hit in the head with an adding machine when he was a baby and both have come up with the wrong answers since. Now, when you meet one of these 36 month wonders you will know him because he will have a degree from a state institution (some of them from the one in Big Spring), there will be a cigar in the mouth for an air of superiority and a "I sure deserve a raise" look on his face. Now, if you don't like him and want to fight — you'll do it alone. He will have 1/2 million other bureaucrats with another mimeographed form into the mail with all their funny little questions. You must answer them in 10 days or else and if you still have the strength or money to pay an accountant after paying his salary you have a just and equitable chance to give your rebuttal just before the next mimeographed form slithers into your mailbox.

Forms, forms, forms, who needs them! The only people getting rich are the accountants and the printers and neither one really wants the work.

It seems like the first frost got a lot of the fruit trees in Martin County. The hail last week got some of the tomatoes but the rain Monday helped the cotton. One man said he got 1 & 1/10th inches in his rain gauges.

Sorry about those pictures of the Athletic banquet you didn't see on the front page today, but I have an old model camera that you still have to put film in.

Martin County Probation Service

The Criminal Justice Advisory Committee of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission met April 19, 1973, Thursday, at 12:00 noon in the Hi Sky Restaurant, Midland Air Terminal. Guest speakers was Inspector Tommy White, Midland Police Department, and Captain George Scarpa, Odessa Police Department. They discussed the installation of the police technical equipment purchased by their departments.

On the agenda for the meeting the Martin County Adult and Juvenile Probation Project was discussed.

Martin County has had no probation service in the past. This has resulted in the County Court and District Court not initiating a trial for many offenders. With no choice, the courts have chosen not to bring to trial individuals who might be more effectively rehabilitated on a local basis.

Both Martin County Court and the 118th Judicial District Court, realize the need for a probation service for persons convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, and juvenile cases within their jurisdiction. With the probation ser-

Bureaucratic Bumbling Threatens Oil And Gas Consumers

Bureaucratic bumbling threatens the permanent loss to the nation's gasoline and heating consumers upwards of 1,500,000 barrels of oil a year from Oklahoma alone.

This warning was given at the all-state independent business conference recently by Hal T. Gibson, Executive Manager of the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Association. The session in Oklahoma City was sponsored by the National Federation of Independent Business.

The speaker said that under the present price structure 2,000 wells, currently producing from one to three barrels per day, would have to be plugged and abandoned. Once this is done, he said, this production, although marginal, will be lost forever.

He also exploded the common belief that "cheap oil" from the Mediterranean basin is landed on the U. S. East coast, pointing out that the price of this imported oil has been pegged higher than the regulatory agencies have permitted domestic producers to charge.

TALKATIVE CHILDREN

The huge multi-billion dollar oil concerns have concentrated on foreign production, while in the United States, 73 per cent of all the new oil and gas fields were found by independent oil producers, yet the nation faces severe disruption in supply with small companies and individuals dropping out of the business due to the adverse conditions under which they must operate.

Miss Victor Gene Hughes, county Extension agent, noted that too much talk and little action may indicate a child is attempting a diversion — trying to avoid using other skills.

He may be afraid of failing at something else — even simple things like working a puzzle, painting or playing a game.

As a result, he tries to "talk himself out of it — or around it."

Mr. Gibson claimed that oil refineries are operating below full capacity due to the inability to secure crude petroleum.

Due to governmental regulations, the law of supply and demand is not permitted to operate in the oil industry, he said.

While he did not predict that domestic production could be increased to the point where it would fulfill domestic demands, he said it would be possible to narrow the gap and make the Arab oil-producing nations less difficult to deal with in the near future.

The child also may realize that talking usually gains adult approval.

However, excessive talking actually harms the child in the long run. Instead of getting into the action, trying new things or gaining assurance and confidence, he spends all his time talking.

Parents may have difficulty getting a child to try new things after he's found adult attention and approval through talking.

Therefore, they need to help the child in several areas.

—Help him relax. Show him that success isn't demanded at each attempt.

—Try to instill the philosophy that it's fun to "dabble" a bit in many things — just to find out what life is all about. He may like the activity after trying it.

—Give him encouragement and show him he needs to be a "doer" as well as a talker, the agent concluded.

factors Association, has recommended a review of some of the regulations.

Specifically, the PMA has proposed that an independent committee take an intensive look at the food, drug and cosmetic act and its regulations and the Food and Drug Administration's internal administrative practices, procedures and capabilities. President of the PMA, Mr. C. Joseph Stetler declared, "The purpose of such a study would be to thoroughly review FDA performance, consider ways to successfully administer the current act and regulations, and to recommend whatever changes might be necessary."

The proposed review of regulatory procedures and the FDA is the result of problems that were revealed by a committee of 22 medical scientists, headed by Dr. Robert Driggs of the University of Pennsylvania. The committee charged that the FDA's cumbersome and costly regulatory procedures have stifled medical research, caused the rate of introduction of new drugs in the U.S. to decline sharply in recent years and resulted in American medical science lagging behind that of other countries.

Tying Down The Safety Valve Education And Morality

Sudden, explosive increases in wholesale prices sometime ago demonstrated one of the greatest dangers of price and wage control which many have warned against from the beginning. They are merely a shield behind which the basic force of inflation — excessive governmental deficit spending — continues to build up.

Politicians feel safe in advocating bigger and better vote-getting handouts, and taxpayers tend to become less vigilant and to believe the fatuous talk about inflation having been brought under "control."

Then suddenly, under the pressure of new spending records, we have a dollar crisis, and living costs again take off for the stratosphere. Each time wage and price controls are applied, it is like tying down a safety valve on a steam boiler while continuing to stroke the furnace. The present determined efforts of the Administration to curb government spending have been called a "... key to success in stemming inflation." It is up to the taxpayers and to all citizens to recognize this fundamental truth and to judge the performance of their elected representatives in Congress, state legislatures and elsewhere accordingly.

Quote-Unquote

Mendota, Ill., Reporter & Sun-Bulletin: "Getting out this paper is no picnic. If we print jokes, people will say we are silly. If we don't, they say we are too serious. If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write our own material; if we don't we are stuck on our own stuff! If we stick too close to the job all day, we ought to be out hunting up news. If we do go out and hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office. If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius; if we do, the paper is filled with junk. If we make a change in a fellow writer's work, we are too critical, and if we don't we are asleep. Now, likely as not, someone will say we swiped this from some other paper: WE DID!"

All those herbicides you've been using weren't made for your soil: sandy soil. They're all basically designed to provide weed control in other cotton areas. ## Boll Weevil Eradication Program Is Having Far-Reaching Effect

The pilot eradication experiment covers some 3,000 cotton acres in south Mississippi, with buffer zones embracing another 20,000 acres, which extend outward in concentric circles into portions of Alabama and Louisiana.

"The impact of the project is having far-reaching effects," Slater told his audience of cotton producers and representatives of cotton industry groups and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"The momentum generated by the experiment is being felt by all of agriculture. Other commodities are looking to see how cotton producers have developed such a program."

Cotton Incorporated has put over $1 million into the eradication experiment, making it the largest single investment of producer funds for agricultural research. Other funding has come from the State of Mississippi and USDA.

Slater said many sections of the rural development act of 1972, which is administered by the Farmers Home Administration of USDA, are applicable to beltwide eradication of the boll weevil.

"We urge all cotton interest groups and governmental agencies here to begin now to explore the possibilities for federal funding offered in the act," he declared.

Morality At The Top

A continual complaint received from independent business people by the National Federation of Independent Business is over the failure of people to pay their bills. This raises a question of morality.

There are probably very few real dyed in the wool deadbeats. In fact, the late A. P. Giannini founded what has become the world's biggest bank on the premise that 98 per cent of the people are honest. The problem of defaulting debtors is undoubtedly largely due to promising to pay more than they can afford, and they get in over their heads.

But there is a king sized question as just who should set the moral tone. It is hard to have a moral people with immoral government, and that is perhaps the chief cause of today's problem.

Michigan attacked this problem of fiscal morality by voting in a new Constitution that forbids the state from spending more than it takes in.

Now California's Governor Ronald Reagan is advocating a program to reduce and limit the taxes the state can levy over a 15 year period.

He says that in 1930 government was extracting only 15 cents from every dollar earned. Today, he claims, that bite has jumped to 43 cents which he feels is leading to chaos.

Small Businesses Paperwork Very Costly - Bentsen

Government agencies churn out paperwork for small businesses at the rate of 10 billion sheets a year, according to Senator Bentsen's office. That's enough to fill 50 major league-size baseball parks.

By one estimate, it costs Government at all levels about $18 billion a year to print, shuffle and store all of this paperwork.

And it also costs small businessmen about $18 billion to fill out the different forms: Internal Revenue forms, wage and price forms, unemployment forms, health forms, accident forms, Social Security forms, quarterly this and monthly that.

And the result is that small businesses are being forced to either go out of business, or merge into very large corporations. These giant concerns can employ accountants, lawyers and communications experts to deal with government and all of its paperwork, then pass the cost along to us, the consumers.

Swine Production

Hog prices increased sharply as hog production and slaughter declined by 10 per cent in 1972. The cutback in production was the result of low prices and, consequently, poor profits in the latter part of 1970 and the first three quarters of 1971.

Prices for barrows and gilts at seven markets averaged $26.75 per 100 pounds during 1972. This was up from the $18.45 average in 1971.

There are several factors that are strongly influencing the price of hogs and pork. First, there has been a substantial increase in "effective" demand for red meat in nearly all countries. By "effective" demand we mean consumers having the capability of paying for a product they desire. Increased demand, along with the ability to buy, puts pressure on prices as people compete in the market place for products they want. Now, people outside this country want more meat and are willing to pay the price necessary to buy the meat we produce. This is evidenced by the fact that during 1972 the U.S. exported nearly 107 million pounds of pork or 47 per cent more than during 1971.

Japan imported over 46 million pounds of pork in 1972. During the first two months of 1973, Japan has been actively purchasing U.S. pork. Some meat brokers estimate that in the past two months Japan has bought

THAT CLEVELAND BEEF BOYCOTT MONTH

The Cleveland, Ohio, city council passed a resolution proclaiming the month of April "Boycott Beef Month" as a measure to "bring the meat industries to its knees."

In response, the cattle feeders sent the following telegram to Councilman Basil Russo, sponsor of the resolution:

"Noting your concern about high beef prices, the members of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association invite you or the City Council to become a business partner with us by investing in a typical pen of 200 head of cattle to be put on feed.

"First, you should be aware of the risk involved. A 650 pound feeder steer at today's price of 55 cents per pound will cost $357.50. The steer normally would stay on feed 150 days, during which time it would gain about 400 lbs. The 400 pounds of gain will be charged at actual cost, which now is running about 30 cents per pound.

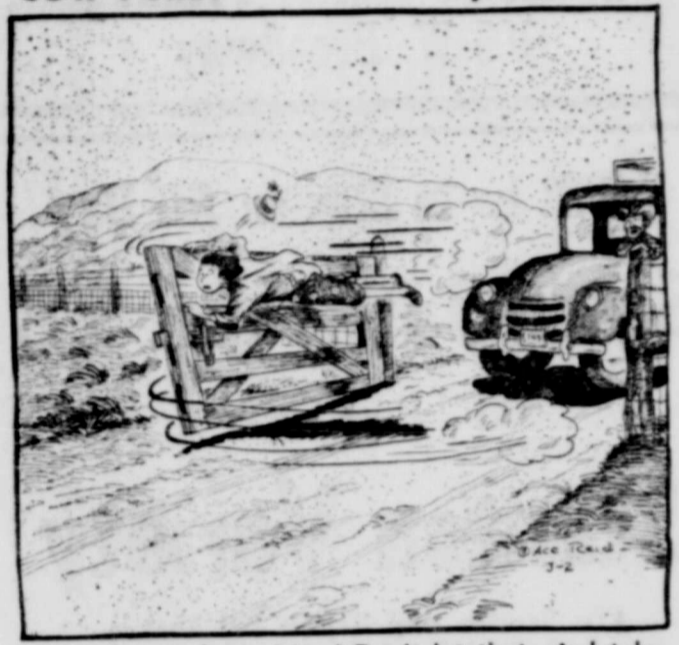

"Normal death loss is 1 per cent, although it has averaged 2 per cent during this severe winter. Interest on your investment will run 8 per cent. Thus, when the steer weighs 1,050 pounds and is ready to sell, our breakeven cost would be $498 or 47 cents per pound. The current selling price in Texas is 46 cents per pound.

"All profits or losses will be shared equally. If the cattle sell for 52 cents per pound, our profit will be $10,500. On the other hand, if they sell for 42 cents per pound, the loss will be $10,500. If interested, please call or wire."

SECURITY FORCES

The House also approved a bill which would allow cities like Midland-Odessa to establish security forces for airports designating them as peace officers.

Price Control Legislation

The current law used by the U.S. President as authority for controlling prices expires on April 30, 1973. Efforts to renew the authority was stopped because of the House Banking Committee's effort to roll all prices back to the January 10, 1973 levels.

It now appears that Congress will grant a 60 day temporary extension of the current law. What Congress finally does with regard to price roll-back legislation will depend on price trends during the next month and the message received from voting citizens back home.

If Congress refuses to act there are other ways to impose price ceilings — emergency price controls.

Another bill allows a school district to begin operating on a quarter system immediately, while postponing a complete switch to the quarter system until the 1975-76 school year.

Belvue Church of Christ

By GLENN SARGENT
Belvue Church of Christ

One of the most puzzling of all problems, especially for the Christian, is the problem of human suffering. How do you explain the reality of pain, disease, accidental injury, cancer, birth defects, etc., etc.? Why must loved ones die, even those who are yet in the prime of life and even little innocent children? Why does God allow all these things to happen?

Many answers to the problems have been offered. Some would have us believe that suffering and pain are only an illusion; the product of wrong thinking and that it really doesn't exist except in the mind. Nonsense! Try to explain a broken arm, an abraded tooth, a blinded eye, or a malignant tumor to a person who is afflicted with such and convince him that he only thinks he hurts. True, many of our troubles are imagined. Most people who enter the hospital really have nothing physically wrong with them, so say the physicians. Everybody knows one or more hypochondriacs, and we all suffer at one time or another from "emotionally induced illness." But this doesn't explain ALL suffering by any means.

Others tell us that all sin or suffering is due to man's own sin. Again, there is some truth to this. The drunkard suffers eventually for his sin, and his family has to suffer, too. The wicked and cruel usually find the way of the transgressor hard and suffer the consequences of their folly. But, all suffering is not due to sin. Jesus said it, John 9:1-3. Consider righteous Job who suffered innocently. What about Christ himself who endured the agony of Calvary, yet he was the sinless Son of God.

Then there is the agnostic who reasons thus: "If God were good, He would wish to make His creatures perfectly happy, and if God were almighty He would be able to do what He wished. But the creatures are not happy. Therefore God lacks either goodness, or power, or both." But the Bible says that "God is love", I John: 4:8. God is also omnipotent. "With God all things are possible," Matthew 19:26. One who accepts the conclusion of the agnostic assumes that he knows always what is best for him and his in any and all circumstances, which is obviously wrong then "good" things turn out to be bad after all, and when "bad" things turn out to be blessings in disguise! The view of faith that "in everything God works for good with those who love him" (Romans 8:38) is the saner, more reasonable solution.

Here we have only been able to state the problem. In future articles we hope to present some Biblical answers to it, and to make some observations which we believe will be helpful in putting suffering in its proper perspective.

If Your Teen-Ager Has Become A Jekyll-Hyde, Be On The Alert For Possible Drug Addiction

Has your once alert, friendly, studious teen-ager developed a Jekyll and Hyde personality?

Is he or she cheerful one day and depressed the next? Have you noticed an abnormal inclination to drowsiness and irritability, an inability to concentrate and a tendency to tell white lies?

If your child displays any of these characteristics, you may have cause to worry, for he may be on the road to narcotics addiction — if, indeed, he is not already "hooked."

Because of widespread parental concern about drugs, the safety research department of the Combined American Insurance Company, Dallas, consulted experts on narcotics to produce a set of symptoms to look for in detecting addiction.

"Actually, the signs of addiction are easy to spot, if one is really looking for them," observed W. Clement Stone, president of Combined American, who has been associated with juvenile narcotics work for more than a decade.

Stone is an adviser to Teen Challenge, a nationwide organization that works with juvenile narcotics addicts. It is headed by the Rev. David Wilkerson, the evangelist.

Generally speaking, Stone said, Teen Challenge has found that heroin addicts display some or all of these symptoms:

Needle marks on arms or legs, watery eyes, furtive glances, chronic drowsiness, marked restlessness, upset stomach, ulcerous sores, thrush, body odor, habitual scratching or nose-rubbing, frequent dizziness, mental and physical deterioration, spells of pre-occupation or talkativeness, depression and despondency and a persecution complex.

Government narcotics experts in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the National Institute of Mental Health described some obvious symptoms of the use of amphetamines, or speed. There is a tendency to talk loud and fast and pace the floor. Loss of appetite, irritability and instability also are the marks of the "speedfreak," along with lethargy, fatigue, muscle pains and the depression that can lead to suicide.

One high on LSD has an increased pulse and heart rate, higher blood pressure and temperature, dilated pupils and cold, sweaty, trembling hands and feet. A pallor, chills and goose pimples often develop, along with a wet mouth, irregular breathing, nausea and loss of appetite.

Smoking marijuana, or pot, produces increased heartbeat, coughing spasms, hunger and drowsiness.

One of the thousands of addicts who have sought help at Teen Challenge once told Wilkerson that he wished his parents had kept a closer watch over him.

"I'd check how long a kid stays in the bathroom," he said, "if he is there very long, he might be taking drugs. I used to do that."

"It's a good idea to look for some of the signs of narcotics. If arms or handkerchiefs have any blood on them it might mean a kid has been using the needle. Also, when he gets high his eyes get very red, especially from marijuana, and his pupils get very small.

"People can tell from looking at you if you have been smoking pot. Dark glasses help because when a fellow is high on marijuana, he can't stand the sun. When a kid gets into the habit of wearing sunglasses all the time, it's a sign he might be using drugs."

What should a parent do when he comes to the painful conclusion that his child is "hooked?"

Wilkerson recommends that you confront your youngster with the evidence, and then ask him if he needs — and wants — help.

"Above all," he counsels, "you can show him you love and want to help him. Recriminations will only drive him deeper into drugs."

MCT Plays "Crucible"

Arthur Miller's powerful and tense drama, "The Crucible" will be on stage at Midland Community Theatre from April 27 through May 12. The hysterical events which the play portrays, unfolded from the distant past when a wave of witchcraft delusion spread all over Europe and reached Salem, Mass., in 1692.

The historical accuracy of this play is found in dialogue taken from the actual court record of the trial of 72-year-old Rebecca Nurse who signed her own death warrant by denying that she was a witch.

TANE Opposes Lesser Penalty For Drug Users

Supporters of Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE) are overwhelmingly opposed to lowering the penalty for possession of marijuana, according to results of a survey sent to some 80,000 subscribers to the Christian Crusader, official TANE publication.

The 3,650 (4.6 per cent of those surveyed) replying also favored mandatory jail sentence for first offense of driving while intoxicated, favored a dram shop law which would make the seller of alcoholic beverages responsible if he sells to drunk who in turn causes damage to life or property, favored making it illegal to carry an open liquor container in a car, favored a law requiring a liquor licensee to report all crimes committed on his premises, and opposed legalizing pari-mutuel horse race gambling.

TANE is a church-supported non-profit organization, active since 1935 opposing increased drinking and drug abuse.

AUSTIN, Tex. — The complex job of rewriting the 97-year-old State Constitution began officially last week with initial work sessions of the new Constitutional Revision Commission.

Commissioners outlined plans for a series of public hearings in 18 areas.

The hearings will be held between now and next fall in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, McAllen, San Angelo, Lubbock, Longview, Wichita Falls, El Paso, Amarillo, Abilene, Midland-Odessa, Laredo, Tyler, Lufkin, Beaumont, Port Arthur-Orange and Austin.

Chairman Robert W. Calvert, former Texas Supreme Court Judge, said the hearings may "determine largely whether people accept the final product."

The 37-member Commission heard advice from a large group of experts, then divided into seven sub-committees to study specific areas of the Constitution which one of the advisors labeled an "appalling" document.

Revision Commissioners received these key bits of advice:

—Do the best job they can of streamlining the Constitution, but be prepared for the Legislature to "water down" their recommendations.

—Don't try "to solve the problems but make clear who solves the problems."

—Sweep out detailed property tax provisions... get rid of the grants and loans prohibition and provide "home rule" for counties.

The Commission will be backed up by a statewide advisory committee.

Revision drafts must be completed by November. The Legislature will convene January 1 as a constitutional convention.

The State Bar came up with a plan for prepaid legal services.

State Insurance Board held a hearing Wednesday on changes in fire and homeowners insurance rates.

VEE REVACCINATED URGED — Texas Veterinary Medical Association called for immediate revaccination of all horses for Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE).

The Association said 100 per cent immunity can be established and reservoirs of the disease eliminated. It urged revaccination of all horses vaccinated in 1971, vaccination of all newborns, those six months of age and older and those coming into the state. Length of immunity is uncertain.

School Bus Lights

AUSTIN — A reminder on the state law about motorists stopping for school buses was issued today by Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Speir said the law, which applies on city streets as well as rural highways requires motorists moving in either direction on the same roadway or street with a school bus to stop and remain stopped as long as the flashing top red lights on the bus are in operation.

with wives or husbands of others can be sued for damages, the State Supreme Court held.

The High Court turned down an appeal of a Dallas lawyer who lost his license after a jury found he asked a client for $500 more than his legal fee, allegedly to prosecute an assistant district attorney.

The Supreme Court set a hearing April 25 over whether Ausitn could sell 32 acres of park land to a school district without an approving vote of local residents.

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned convictions for sale of heroin (an 1,800 year sentence from Ector County) and possession of marijuana (25 year sentence from Tarrant County) due to judicial error.

A Lipscomb County youth ordered fined and jailed for aggravated assault on a deputy sheriff he called a "pig" won a new trial on appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals, which held the boy's contention that he was resisting what he considered unlawful arrest should have been presented to the trial jury.

The Jaycee-Ette Creed was said by Lois Jenkins. Sandra Pinkerton gave the State News Letter Report. This included the agenda for the National Convention which will be in Austin, May 10, 11 and 12. Several Jaycees and Jaycee-Ettes are planning to attend. Have fun for all of us!

Veterans News

Martin L. Gibson, Veterans Service Officer for Martin County has a message of utmost importance for all veterans of World War II. This message concerns a false report that is currently circulating across the country, urging veterans to apply to the Veterans Administration for their "special" insurance dividend.

According to the erroneous report, which is being carried in many newspapers and other publications, a law supposedly has been passed authorizing the Veterans Administration to pay a "special" dividend of 55c per month for each $1,000 of GI or Government life insurance which he had in force in World War II. The story is completely false, and is nothing more than a cruel hoax, since no such legislation has been enacted by the Congress. A Special Dividend was paid in 1949 and 1950 to veterans who carried National Life Insurance during World War II. This was only a one-time payment, although annual dividends are still being paid to those veterans who have continued to keep their old GI insurance in force.

This false story seems to surface every two or three years, and all veterans are urged to recognize this "special" dividend rumor as a hoax. The Congress, in 1970, passed a "State Claims Act" which relieves the VA from the responsibility of processing claims which might be made as a result of this false story. Thus, any veteran who applies for the "special" dividend mentioned in these reports is in reality wasting his time, his efforts, and the money spent for postage.

Any veteran who is legally entitled to an insurance dividend from the Government will receive an official individual notice of the amount of his entitlement, and no heed should be paid to the false "special" dividend rumor.

Only 58 minutes of the eight-hour day are required to purchase food. States another way; the laborer works 2.74 times as long to pay his tax bill as he does to pay his food bill. (Monthly Tax Features, March 1973.)

Tips for using electricity efficiently:

Use oven heat for all its worth.

There's many a time when you can make your oven do double duty. When you plan to use it to cook meat or a dessert, you can make more efficient use of the heat by cooking an entire meal in the oven.

Simply choose foods that cook at the same temperature. One good example would be a meatloaf, baked potatoes, frozen peas or broccoli in a covered casserole, and a fruit cobbler. There! You'll have cooked a well-balanced meal without once having used a surface unit. And our home economists can suggest others.

Here are some other efficiency tips you may find helpful. Reduce the cooking time for frozen meats by thawing them properly. For best baking results, pre-heat your oven just long enough to obtain the necessary cooking temperature. For broiling or roasting, do not pre-heat, but start with a cold oven. If there's a delay in serving the meal after it's cooked, a temperature setting of 150 degrees will keep food warm without cooking it further.

It's our job at Texas Electric to help you get the most value from your electric service. Call us when you have questions about cooking or any other use of electricity.

Education Is Cry

FORREST CITY, ARK. — Crowley Ridge Chronicle: — "The cry is education! Education! We must have more buildings, classrooms, teachers, and escalators. Everybody must be educated! Hardly anybody asks, 'educated for what?' Educated for broad-mindedness? The great issue of our time is not education versus ignorance. Some of the most educated people in the world are the most wicked.

Empty bellies are not, per se, the cause of Communism nor of wars. Germany started two wars on a full belly. The Communists and fellow-travelers in America, and throughout the world, are mostly full-bellied. Full bellies and education, as such, are not bulwarks for or against freedom or morality. The struggle for the world is not based on hunger vs. plenty, ignorance vs. education, totalitarianism vs. democracy.

The war for the world is between good and evil."
