The Stanton Reporter had an interesting conversation with Senator Bentsen's associate today. The aid asked what were the main topics of conversation and complaints around Stanton . . . and he just shouldn't have done that because I told him. Some of the items talked about were:

The shortage of L.P. gas coming up around this section. He said they were now trying to get a bill through to allow the state to keep its own L.P. gas for the farmers until they had what they needed before shipping it off for the factories up north.

The high price of hiring three Government employees at a third higher wage each to do the same work that one man does in private enterprise was another complaint for the senator. His associate said it was very hard to get people off the payroll once they had their bureau started. Most often it keeps growing and spending more money, but the Senator is on a committee to make Congress find out how much money they have to spend each year and then allocate it as far as possible. This is a lot better than spending the money and then looking to see if you can pay for it later.

Another problem I mentioned to the associate was that of the high cost of feed for producing livestock the ranchers must pay. He said some of the factors that cause these things are varied. For instance, they were catching anchovies by the hundreds of tons off the coast of Africa to grind up and send to Europe for protein feed. The currents changed and the little fish disappeared and created a shortage which was felt around the world.

Another item was the smothering of small business in Government forms to fill out. The Aid agreed with this and cited an example of a small 1 or 2 man manufacturing firm that had gone around collecting all money from friends to develop a good invention. After filling in all the government forms and getting the books set up they had spent their entire resources and went bankrupt. The good invention is still not developed and on the market. I did not hear anything but consultations about this.

I mentioned that it was interesting that almost every politician that I had heard on any occasion was for cutting taxes except that it just never got done. He said that we had a $700 per person exemption that was a little tax cut. During the time I was teaching we had 3 raises and 3 tax cuts, but the paycheck was still smaller.

WHAT YOUR KIDS THINK ABOUT THEIR SMOKING PARENTS

Children want their parents to kick the cigarette habit. Now.

A University of Louisville study of 2,000 children showed an astounding finding. Of those aged 7 to 12, some 72 percent said they would love their parents more if they stopped smoking.

That almost sounds like withholding love, a discredited parental tactic. Or a promise of extra love if the parents do what the kids want. Actually, the statement should probably read that children would really love it if their parents quit smoking. Kids are hurt—and puzzled—when their parents persist in doing something they know is bad for them. Children want their parents alive and well.

Stanton's most happy young people gathered again for the next to last ceremony before "F" Day (Freedom Day). The seniors looked almost as proud as their parents at the ceremonies. I will have to say that their red caps and gowns do a lot better justice to colored than the black attire we used to wear on graduation. The ceremonies were held Sunday evening at 8:00 P.M. at the High School Auditorium on the 27 of May. Karen Anderson played the Processional "Pomp & Circumstance" by Edgar as everyone walked in and took their places. Next Lisa Hopper the treasurer of the Senior Class gave the Invocation. Tommy Deavenport who had been a leader in many things and is leader of the Senior Class as its President gave the introduction of the Speaker. The Address was given by the Reverend Warren G. Hall of the First Baptist Church of Stanton and as usual seemed to have a very appropriate word of advice for the graduating Seniors. Marc Briggs gave the Benediction after the address by Rev. Hall and the seniors again responded to the Recessional. The audience was then dismissed and everyone got busy getting pictures of his or her favorite graduate. To see the Commencement Exercise of your favorites be sure to go to the High School Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. next Friday evening the first of June for the final exercises of the class of 1973—the greatest yet. Abilene Youths Die In Refrigerator

Two young Abilene brothers, nephews of Jack Goble of Big Spring, were found dead Thursday afternoon in an abandoned refrigerator behind a next door neighbor's garage.

Mrs. Linnie Goss called Abilene police at 12:29 p.m. reporting her two sons, Isaac Allen Goss, 3, and Kenneth Ray Goss, 6, missing. They were discovered dead at 12:40 by police officers.

Investigating officers said the brothers had been playing in the vicinity of the refrigerator and had apparently climbed into it after which the door closed on them.

Although no official ruling has been made, Peace Justice Rowland Dunwoody said all evidence seems to indicate the deaths were accidental. Funeral is pending with Bailey Funeral Home in Clyde. Goble, chief of security at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, left for Abilene yesterday afternoon to be with his sister, Mrs. Goss.

According to an investigating officer, marks inside the refrigerator indicate that the boys struggled to open the door. Authorities are checking state and city ordinances to see if regulations concerning leaving refrigerators with latches on them accessible to children were violated.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: If you know anyone who has such a refrigerator, raise h--- with them or the police until they take the latches off.)

Now The U.T.P.B. INFO-MOBILE

A traveling student admissions and information center from The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, opening this September in Odessa, will be in Stanton Monday, June 4, as part of a 2-month area-wide tour of the Permian Basin.

The UTPB "Info-Mobile," carrying information and catalogs from the new upper-level University, will be in Stanton from 12:00 noon to 8 p.m. Monday 12:00 noon until 6:00 p.m. in front of Chamber of Commerce 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. it will be at the Dairy Queen.

The center began its tour this week in Odessa and other Ector County towns, and Stanton will be its first stop outside Ector County. It will travel to Garden City Tuesday, June 5, and will be in Midland the remainder of the week.

We realize the distance prevents a large number of people from coming to the UTPB Info-Mobile. "Also, many times students who are working find it difficult to come to the campus during regular office hours. "We hope through these visits to inform the people and to offer students a chance to ask questions and to apply for admission to UTPB."

When it opens this September, UTPB will be Texas' first free-standing upper-level university, serving 2-year transfer students from the large number of junior colleges in this area and from throughout the state, as well as students coming from 4-year universities.

Students working toward a bachelor's degree must have at least 2 year's college credits behind them (54-60 semester hours) before being admitted to UTPB.

"We are urging students who plan to attend UTPB this fall to apply now," he stated, "in order that we may plan our courses to meet the demand in each study area."

"Everyone is invited to come out to our mobile center Monday, regardless of whether he or she plans to apply for admission or would like to learn more about our University."

Veterans News

From the Office of Martin L. Gibson, Veteran Service Officer, Martin County.

Veterans who are eligible for educational assistance from the Veterans Administration under the GI Bill have available to them a wide variety of training opportunities. This announcement was made today by Martin L. Gibson, Veterans Service Officer for Martin County.

When the subject of education is mentioned, many people immediately think of college training. The Service Officer has emphasized, however, that there are a number of other training opportunities for those eligible veterans who are unqualified or who have no desire to attend college.

Educational assistance is available from the Veterans Administration for veterans who honorably served on active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States for 181 days or more at any time since February 1, 1955. The entitlement consists of one and one-half months training for each month of military service, with a maximum of 36 months of actual training time. Each veteran has eight years from the date of his release from service to complete his training, or eight years from June 1, 1966, whichever is later. Veterans who were released from service prior to June 1, 1966, will no longer be eligible for VA May 31, 1974.

An eligible veteran may train in a vocational or trade school, business college or college, or on-job or apprenticeship training. Many veterans have found that on-job training is the most practical, and may be accomplished through any private business. Any businessman who wants to train a veteran on the job may contact the Office of Proprietary Schools and Veterans Education, Texas Education Agency, 201 East 11th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. A representative of the agency will assist in setting up a training program for the veteran.

A Practical Dietary Approach To Heart Trouble

Dr. Lamb placed the responsibility of developing good eating habits in the family on the homemaker. Children and fathers, especially, must learn to accept food which will not contribute to the present concepts of the causes of heart disease, she said.

The crucial problem, she said, is the coordination of caloric intake with one's activity level. And, the calories which are chosen for one's diet must be selected carefully from foods with properly balanced nutrient content. Little boys are developing the causes of heart disease as early as age two.

Children should be trained to accept foods properly prepared and not to indulge in foods prepared in some fats. They need to be trained to eat small individual quantities and to add more types of foods to their diets for variety said Dr. Lamb.

Fathers should be trained as well as children. A father should be trained so he will be preserved in the home and his children will have a father.

er. He can also be a good influence on children in their training, she said.

In addition to teaching which foods should be eaten, efforts must be made to make the foods we like nutritionally acceptable. This depends on the cooperation of agriculture, restaurants, the food industry and people.

Diet is one of the factors contributing to heart disease. Others are smoking, genetics and a lack of activity. All factors must be considered and a reasonable balanced program must be found, said the nutritionist. The place to begin is in the home with proper education, training and practice.

The seminar was directed to homemakers and included discussions on the prevalence of heart disease, risk factors, psychological aspects of eating, a question and answer period, and a mini-lesson in food preparation under the heading, "A Practical Dietary Approach."

Sink Cabinet May Be Time Bomb

The cabinet under the kitchen sink is an open invitation to disaster in many homes.

These handy arsenals of tidiness containing household cleaners, polishes, detergents and other fluids and substances often become lethal time bombs waiting to be set off by inquisitive children.

The Department of Safety and Research of the Combined American Insurance Company-Dallas has issued a special warning to mothers, grandmothers and others who have children in their homes to take an inventory of the accessible storage areas to make certain that nothing dangerous is accessible to them.

EASING OUR NATION'S ENERGY GAP

BECAUSE U.S. ENERGY NEEDS WILL ALMOST DOUBLE BY 1985 AND DOUBLE AGAIN BY THE YEAR 2000 NEW ENERGY SOURCES MUST BE DEVELOPED TO AUGMENT THE NATION'S KNOWN ENERGY RESERVES.

A NEW $9.3 MILLION COAL GASIFICATION PILOT PLANT USING A PROCESS DEVELOPED BY CONSOLIDATION COAL COMPANY HAS BEEN BUILT IN RAPID CITY S.D. TO HELP FIND WAYS OF HEADING OFF THE ENERGY GAP. THIS PLANT CONVERTS NATURE'S MOST ABUNDANT FUEL—COAL—INTO GAS. EFFICIENT CLEAN-BURNING NATURAL GAS IS AN ENERGY SOURCE WE ARE CONSUMING FASTER THAN IT IS DISCOVERED.

NOT FAR FROM MOUNT RUSHMORE THE PLANT PROVIDES A LARGE-SCALE TEST FOR CONSOLIDATION'S POLLUTION-FREE PROCESS. SPONSORED BY THE OFFICE OF COAL RESEARCH OF THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR THE PLANT IS OPERATED IN COOPERATION WITH THE AMERICAN GAS ASSOCIATION.

GAS FROM COAL—CLEAN-BURNING AND PRODUCED WITHOUT AIR OR WATER POLLUTION—WILL BE AN IMPORTANT NEW ENERGY SOURCE FOR AMERICAN HOMEOWNERS.

FHA NEWS

By Karla Gregg

On May 12, the FHA had their Mother-Daughter Banquet. It was held at the Woman's Club in Midland, Tx. It was decorated with red roses. After the meal, Mrs. L. R. Shoemaker read a poem about mothers. The rest of the banquet was held in formal meeting style.

Tricia Shoemaker, completing her second level of encounter, and Trina Shoemaker and Mollie Adkins completing their second and third levels of encounter. Peggy Hale recognized each of these achievements. Mrs. King was then presented with a gift. Cheryl Bradshaw presided over the meeting as president. Nancy Glynn supplied our music. Trina Shoemaker also presented a skit. Four girls participated. These girls were holding different colors of flowers. When her color was called she was to stick her face through the flower. Then Trina read their horoscope.

The banquet was very nice and everyone enjoyed it very much. We want to especially thank Mrs. King for being so sweet and understanding. We don't know what we would do without her.

GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

SULLIVAN, ILL., PROGRESS: "It seems to be the aim of many of today's government organizations, to see that every man (and woman too) shall become a millionaire. The possibility of having to earn the money seldom enters into the scene. The idea is that every person is entitled to much money, and that our government is supposed to provide it. The idea of working for a living seems to have little to do with the 'get rich' schemes. Yes, the day may not be too far away, when each of us will be a millionaire. But what good will all that money accomplish — for when that day comes, bread will probably be costing $1,000 a loaf!"

Christian Longing
Rev. Reinhold Schmitt

The picture of the apostles standing and looking at a vacant sky at the Ascension of Christ is a poignant one for us Christians. We all know the experience of longing for a dear friend who has left us, the lonelines and sadness which fills our heart remembering the good, old days we enjoyed and shared together.

The apostles simply did not know how to survive without their leader. The man who had been the center of their lives had left them orphans and despite the promise of sending his Spirit they stood there hoping and longing for his return.

How they would have liked to trap time, to hold on to the great moments of the past and to suspend the future which only promised difficulty, lonelines and persecution. But if Jesus had remained with them, they would have depended on him, they would not have been forced to use their best qualities and never would have discovered who they were and what they were capable of doing.

The saddest part of man's present plight is that he reaches out for the shadows of superficial values in his quest for fulfillment. And yet, his deepest longings transcend the latest styles in clothes or automobiles, his crave for erotic satisfaction and his hunt for power and wealth. No matter what he achieves or acquires the ache of longing in never completely eased. There is always a new challenge, a constant slipping-away of our newly found securities and when we think we have finally made it, we will have to face the disappointment of grasping at mirages that dot the journey of our life.

Superficial goals never match the full dimensions of man's nature and they multiply rather than relieve his longing.

At the level of faith, hope and love man knows his greatest longing and can receive his most fulfilling answer. However, it is also here where he finds his most painful disappointments. It is the paradox of Christianity that it has pointed to the situations in life where longing can be overcome and that these situations are the most dangerous to enter.

For only if we are prepared to face pain and a special kind of dying, when we are ready to lose ourselves for the sake of others will we find life and the fulfillment of our longing. This seems to be the only way it works. But unselfishness and a willingness to die to oneself are hardly popular commodities at the present moment.

Longing remains a significant clue about us. It is not something to be suppressed, or disguised. It reveals the depth of our nature. For the Christian it gives meaning to hope and opens us to the Spirit who gives us life to the full.

Ed Hall Gets Per-Capita Award

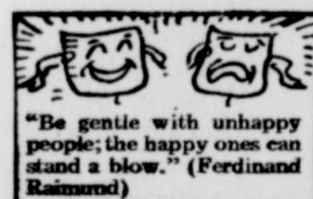

On Tuesday May 29, Tri-City Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., Inc. located in Stanton was awarded the Gold Per-Capita award. The award was presented to Ed Hall, general manager and executive vice president of the operation for outstanding accomplishment of Dr. Pepper in this area.

The Stanton plant was built in July, 1955, and has been operated and managed by Ed Hall continuously since that time. In presenting the award Gilbert Villarreal, representative of Dr. Pepper Co. congratulated the entire organization on the achievement. He emphasized that the current national ranking of Dr. Pepper as No. 4 in the nation was due to efforts on the part of franchised bottlers such as Tri-City Dr. Pepper Bottling Co., Inc.

Party Held For Senior Girls

The Senior girls of Stanton High School and their mothers were honored with a party, May 28, in the home of Mrs. Mildred Elland. Our customers suggested some changes in our bill form. And we've made them.

Our new bill form is quite different from our old one. It has been specifically designed to give you more information and to make it easier for you to communicate with us. And it's a direct result of suggestions made by our customers and efforts by us to continue giving you better service.

Many of you felt it would be helpful to know the exact number of days covered by each bill. The new bill does just that. It gives you both the date of your most recent meter reading, and the date of the previous reading.

Another thing you asked us to do is to include our office address and phone number. Now it's right there on the front.

We've also moved the space provided for comments, requests, criticisms or suggestions to the front of the portion of the bill you return to us — completely separate from the part you keep.

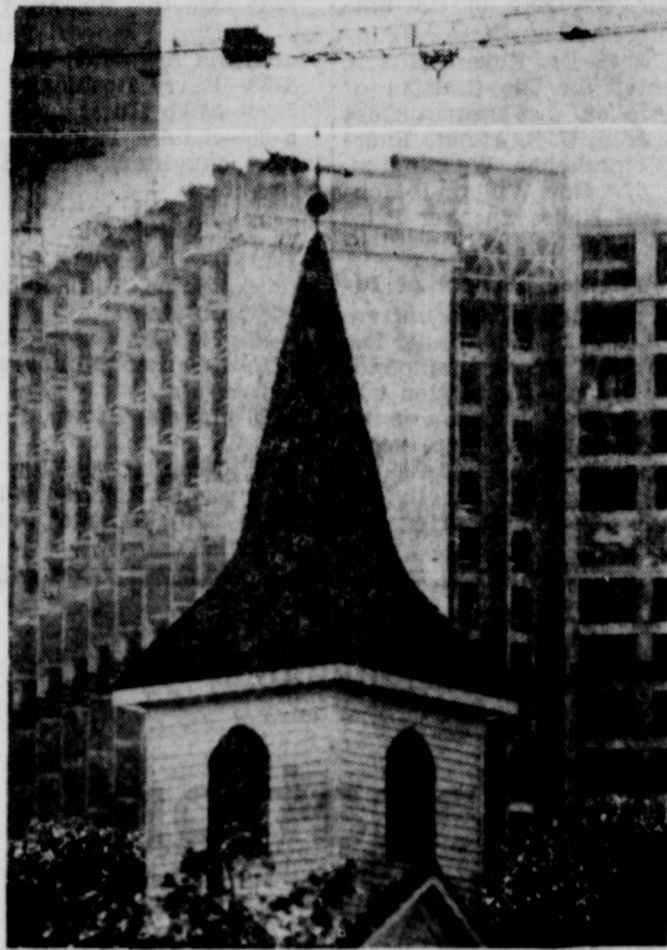

We think you'll find these and other changes in the bill very helpful, and we appreciate your help in designing a better bill form.

If you have any questions about the new bill form, just give us a call. Or jot them right on your bill when you send it back.

Women Converge On Washington

WASHINGTON—About 150 Farmers Union farm wives from nine midwestern states converged on Washington for a "Women-In-Action Fly-In" on farm problems. The women from North and South Dakota, Kansas, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Texas, Colorado, Pennsylvania and New Mexico.

Mrs. Newell Tate of Tarzan was a part of the four women delegation from Texas.

The group arrived in the nation's capitol Monday evening and spent Tuesday in a briefing session conducted by Farmers Union staff. Wednesday and Thursday were spent with the women visiting Congressmen and Senators.

Mrs. Tate visited the offices of Rep. Mollohan, W. Va. James Symington, Mo., Orval Hanes, Oia., Lloyd Meeds, Wash. She said she found them generally favorable to the proposed farm legislation. The state delegations then visited their own senators and representatives. They were received by George Mahon and an aide of Senator Benton.

The Texas delegation had breakfast with the South Dakota delegation and heard Sen. McGovern speak. According to Mrs. Tate, the trip was not all work. The group found time to go to the Kennedy Center and take a sight-seeing tour of Washington. Mrs. Tate attended "Lorell" with Carol Channing at the National Theater. She also visited Gallaudet college where her son, Kelly, is enrolled for classes next fall.

Family Farm Proves Similar To Motherhood

The family farm, like motherhood, is a durable institution. On about 95 per cent of U.S. farms, the operator and his family supply the majority of labor and are responsible for two-thirds of the nation's farm production.

Horn Fly Control On Cattle

The recent cool and wet weather conditions in Martin County have been beneficial for the development of large numbers of horn flies.

Adult horn flies suck small amounts of blood from the host animal causing irritation to the cattle. The feeding from this nuisance pest is a constant drain on the vitality of the animals. Large numbers of horn flies can reduce milk production in dairy cattle and prevent weight gains by beef cattle of as much as 1/2 pound a day.

Horn fly control can be achieved with several treatment methods. There are self-treatment backrubbers and dust bags that can provide effect horn fly control. Self-treatment devices should be installed near water, feed or mineral sources or in gateways to help assure frequent usage. A two to three-week adjustment period may be necessary before cattle begin to regularly use self-treatment devices.

There are several liquid and dust formulations of livestock insecticides available for dust bags for horn fly control.

Horn fly control can also be achieved by spraying of cattle with ground or aerial sprayers. Insecticides for use in controlling horn flies on cattle are as follows:

Clodrin (Crotoxypfos), Corral (Counmaphos), Delnav Dioxathion, Ronnel (Korlan), Ruelene (Crufomate), Neguvon (Trichlorfon), Toxaphene, malathion and Methoxychlor.

Before using these livestock insecticides read the LABEL on the container and use strictly in accordance with cautions and directions listed on the label.

For additional information on horn fly control, contact your local county Extension Agent.

Weed-Eating Insects Eyed For Future

Weed-eating insects are being studied by scientists as a possible means of control for some 70 weed species.

While these insects do not completely eliminate weeds, they do keep them within manageable limits at comparatively little cost.

Insects have already been used successfully for control of the Klamath weed and the picklypear cactus, according to Dr. Lloyd Andres of USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Albany, Calif. They have also been partially successful in suppressing the alligator-weed.

The weed-eaters pick out only certain weeds to feed on and multiply rapidly. When a specific weed is suppressed, the scientist explains, the particular insect feeding on it decreases in numbers. If the weed takes hold again, the insect population rises.

Dr. Andres says the weed-eating insects offer no overnight cure for weed problems since it sometimes takes from three to ten years for any noticeable weed suppression. However, he adds they can play an important role in biological weed control for the future.

Soil Stewardship Week

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which emphasizes Man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water, and other resources, will be observed, May 27-June 3, according to Bob Cox, Chairman, Mustang Conservation District. "Changing Challenges", the theme of this year's observance, invites you to increase your understanding, expand your perspective, and consider your responsibility to the challenges and changes of the world around you.

The Mustang Conservation District and some 3,000 companion Districts throughout the nation along with their State and National Associations are sponsoring the event for the 18th consecutive year. Among the local events scheduled for Soil Stewardship Week are special services by the churches in the Mustang District. The Mustang Conservation District will distribute upon request to churches of all faiths, attractive program blanks, bulletin inserts, posters, and booklets created particularly for this year's observance.

The materials were prepared by the National Association of Conservation Districts, in consultation with a Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee, composed of prominent religious leaders in the nation. The committee consists of the Rt. Rev. John George Weber, National Catholic Rural Life Conference; the Rev. Harold S. Huff, Board of Missions of the Methodist Church; the Rev. Henry A. McCanna, National Council of Churches; the Rev. Larry Bryson, Southern Baptist Convention; Daniel O. Parker, United Church Board for Homeland Ministries; and Mr. Osgood Magnuson, Lutheran Council in the U.S.A.

Members of the Mustang Conservation District Stewardship Committee are Floyd Dunn, pastor of the First United Methodist, Warren G. Hall, pastor of the First Baptist, Douglas Church, pastor of the Latter Day Saints, and Glen Sargent, pastor of the Belvue Church of Christ.

A Tarnished Star

The great Soviet Bear is limping rather noticeably these days, and small wonder with the poor economic performance it turned in for 1972. Serious shortfalls have been reported in all major areas of the USSR economy: industrial production, agricultural output, labor productivity, national economic growth and personal income. Associated Press correspondent Stephens Broening writes, "The prospect of near-term relief for the Soviet consumer does not appear bright." In the process, two forms of governmental anger have appeared: (1) A shakeup of high agricultural officials has cost several their jobs, and they may be facing trial; (2) A public condemnation of industry in the government newspaper, "Izvestia."

The hardships endured by the Soviet people should be a lesson to critics who find the United States so distasteful. The U.S. has never experienced Russian-type purges to cleanse the land of those who displease the government. Also, the American consumer enjoys an abundance of merchandise and a living standard the likes of which the world has never seen before. It seems that the "glorious" star of communism which was supposed to light the world, has lost a considerable portion of its glitter.

Food Prices Up All Over World

Rising food prices are a worldwide problem.

A recent report by the Foreign Agricultural Service shows that food prices rose 243% in Chile last year alone. In other countries, 1972 food prices were up 6.7% in Canada, 7.4% in the United Kingdom, 11.3% in Ireland, and 4.3% in the United States.

In Japan, where food prices are higher than those throughout most of the world, the increase was only 3.7%.

By mid-March of 1973, residents of Tokyo were paying $3.57 for a pound of sirloin steak, $1.67 a pound for broilers, $1.68 a pound for butter, $1.06 a dozen for eggs, $1.70 for a head of lettuce, and $1.10 for a pound of tomatoes.

GUIDES ON SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is proposing new guidelines for land disposal and large-scale incineration (thermal processing) of municipal solid wastes. According to an agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the new guidelines will be mandatory for all federal facilities or agencies involved in solid waste management. They are also being recommended to state, regional and local governmental agencies.

Pollution Exported

The newest, and perhaps most unusual, big U.S. export item is air pollution — or at least a major cause of such pollution. The Japanese are manufacturing it into paper for their domestic market. The former source of soot, cinders and smoke, which Georgia-Pacific Corp. says will amount to over 7,000,000 tons this year exported from its West Coast docks, is in the form of surplus wood chips made from sawmill and plywood plant waste that once poured into smoking incinerators or was piled as flammable solid waste.

MOISTURE TEST

RUSTON LOAMY FINE SAND TEST—The soil "balls" differently at different soil moisture levels. Note that 9 per cent ball cracks, indicating soil moisture is right for good stand. Balls of 6 per cent and 5 per cent moisture crumble. Soil with 4 per cent moisture will not ball.

JAPAN TRYING FOR FIRST

"In recent years the Japanese have made such tremendous economic progress," remarks A. M. Tewksbury in the Oregon Voter Digest, "that some astute observers have concluded that her economy will make her big No. 1 in the world in about 30 years. The ambitious Japanese are openly aiming for the top spot. But already the usual worm in the apple of success has put in appearance. Too much prosperity has begun to undermine the Japanese drive to the top. Prosperity reduces the drive to work, undercuts production and develops indifference toward material success. Japanese competition, which is now so formidable, may be less effective in the future."

Short On Dope

From the Office of State Representative E. L. Short Monday, by a vote of 97-38, a bill passed the House to reduce penalties for possession of Marijuana "could let some dope pushers out of prison and back on the streets," State Rep. E. L. Short said today.

"Approximately 700 persons now serving time for possession of marijuana must be re-sentenced. Many of these men were sentenced for simple possession, but were in fact pushers and in possession of substantial amounts of the weed when arrested. These men must all be re-sentenced at high cost to the state under terms of the new bill, and many will be released."

"There is no provision in this bill that a second offender would be sent to jail on the 1st, 3rd or even 4th offense and a person could continue to use marijuana and it would be no more penalty than habitual traffic offenders."

"It is further noted that a person in possession of 1 ounce or more would be purchasing his supply from a person that would have to be committing a felony. Officers at their best source of information in clearing up the drug traffic is catching the user and then him disclosing 'he pusher'."

"If a user can get by with a simple fine, I feel he would not have any reason to reveal his source of supply."

"I did not support this bill."

Tax Loopholes

Closing those famous tax "loopholes" won't do the job if Congress expects to spend $15 billion or more in excess of the presently proposed budget. Instead, it will be necessary to lay more taxes on the "little fellow" because there are more of us. It will mean lopping off the average taxpayers' deduction — as, for example, the breaks presently given for such things as dependent children and charitable contributions. This would be about as popular as a polecat at a garden party.

With constituents back home screaming for increased funds to support cities, schools, welfare and "you name it" and organized groups pushing for such things as national health insurance, with a $70 or $80 billion price tag, it is little wonder that Congress has trouble not spending money. Politically, there are rough days ahead for our elected representatives. As one Administration spokesman put it, "Congress is going to have to exercise its ultimate responsibility and realize they can't have it both ways" — spending more without more taxes.

A Time to Make Amends

Now that the Vietnam situation is patched up, it is perhaps time to reflect on these most distracting years. Probably no occurrence in this century has caused so much divisiveness among Americans.

A great deal of that divisiveness was created by the so-called "liberal establishment." It is perhaps high time that this liberal establishment make amends, leaving aside all the pros and cons of whether or not their position was valid.

But the liberal establishment cannot escape the fact that it was largely through their activities that events in Vietnam came about in the first place.

Back in the '50's, the late Senator John Bricker of Ohio had before the Congress an amendment to the United States Constitution which was named the Bricker amendment. It was strongly supported by the independent business people as well as many other citizens according to surveys by the National Federation of Independent Business.

For some reason, over which historians are still arguing, there was a boobytrap written into the Constitution. The best explanation for its existence is probably that it was due to a compromise between those who stood at that time for state rights and those who advocate Federal control.

Three Filipino Nurses Prove Themselves In Local Hospital

Three Filipino nurses have helped Martin County Hospital fill a desperate need during the past year. Medicare regulations require that a registered nurse be on duty around the clock. A year ago in Stanton, there were only two RNs in town. One worked at the hospital, the other was the school nurse.

So the hospital appealed to the international recruiting agency. Many Oriental nurses have come to West Texas in Monahan, Kermit, Midland, Stanton, Big Spring, and Colorado City — to name a few locations.

TEMPORARY PERMITS They are all (since they are registered nurses in their own countries) granted temporary nursing certificates but must take the Texas state exams the next time they are offered.

Some of the girls are having difficulty in passing state exams due to the difference in training and thereby only stay for a short period of time. In Stanton, a Miss Almeda Mendoza worked there almost a year and has now left to visit relatives in Detroit and Chicago.

Motivating Concerns Of Mass Transit There seem to be three motivating factors among expanded mass transit advocates. The first and most obvious purpose of these proposals is the desire to move people more efficiently, more predictably and more safely.

The second, is the concern or prestige in having a "modern transportation system" of which we can boast. It is often stated that there is no other way to be a "modern viable city."

The third is social reform. These advocates are would-be molders of new life-styles, claiming improved urban environments, persons concerned for what they distinguish to be "human needs." The real thrust for massive mass transit in the Dallas area is from the social reformers. Transportation changes are necessary to build their concept of a north central Texas Utopia.

The fourth involves the desire for country living with minimum travel time at great distances from the core city.

Right To Work Bill In Danger?

House Bill 1374, approved April 16 by the House Labor Committee, would sanction the discharge of employees who refuse to pay "agency shop" fees to union in lieu of monthly dues. The bill is now awaiting floor action. In effect, HB 1374 would nullify the present ban on compulsory unionism, which for more than 26 years has given Texas citizens the absolute right to decide for themselves whether or not to join and support labor unions.

Reed Larson, National Committee Executive Vice President, said, "This measure would invalidate more than a quarter of a century of sound labor relations policy based on the fundamental principle that no man should be compelled to buy from a union agent the right to earn a living."

"To repudiate this cherished belief in each person's Right to Work regardless of union membership or non-membership would be a betrayal of the citizens of the State of Texas."

"There is no moral or logical justification for telling working men and women that they must pay tribute to an organization in order to earn a living. It goes against everything the people of Texas and the vast majority of Americans believe in."
