Graduation Exercises Moved To Gym

DALE HENSON

Friday night at 8 p.m., 42 Stanton High School seniors will make their final appearance in commencement exercises which have been moved to the gymnasium after possible structural damage was discovered in the roof of the SHS auditorium last week.

Superintendent Russell McMeans told the Stanton

Reporter Thursday that small cracks in the ceiling had been noticed on the inside of the building, and that a complete study of the problem had been called for by the school board.

McMeans said architect Tommy Huckabee of Andrews was sending one of his structural engineers to give the building a "complete x-ray." McMeans said the damage could possibly have resulted from high winds, or one of the recent storms.

"We would like to apologize to those who are planning on attending graduation for the inconvenience of holding the services in the gymnasium," McMeans said. The seating capacity, however, is actually more in the gym than in the auditorium, but there is no air conditioning.

School officials announced the top 10 graduates this week, with valedictorian Dale Henson leading the list. Henson ended up with a 95.837 average to outdistance Robby Shewmake with a 94.335 and salutatorian Trica Showmaker's 93.617.

Other members of the top 10 in order of their grade averages were Jackie Jones, Mollie Hughes, Nancy Glynn, Cheryl Bradshaw, Denise Klein, Peggy Hale and Rosalind Welch.

Claude L. Woods, pastor of the Stanton Church of Christ, will deliver the message. Mark Eiland, senior class president will present the invocation, followed by the valedictorian and salutatorian's addresses. Special awards will then be presented, followed by the awarding of the diplomas by school board president Billy Mims.

Graduating this year are Leatrice Adams, Cheryl Bradshaw, Angie Aguirre, Fawn Briggs, Jimmy Anastasio, Steve Cook, Peggy

OHS Mentor Gets Buff Basketball Job

Jim Williams, 34, head basketball coach at Odessa High School, has been hired as basketball coach and junior varsity football coach at Stanton High School.

Williams graduated from high school in Plains from Central State College in Oklahoma, where he lettered in football.

His high school coaching experience began at Floresville, where he coached for two years. Williams then moved onto Beeville, Canyon and Ozona, where he stayed three years. For the past year he has been head basketball coach at OHS.

Williams and his wife Charlotte have three girls, and according to Buffalo Head Coach and Athlete director Bill Young will move to Stanton when they can find living quarters.

Young was impressed with Williams, who got the nod over some 24 other applicants. "We are real impressed with him. He is well liked and respected by his students and athletes and is a

In moves pointed at helping to ease the critical housing shortage in Stanton, the Martin County Industrial Foundation decided Friday to look into the possibility of forming a corporation to construct new homes locally and endorsed a free want ad campaign by the Stanton Reporter.

Meeting Monday at the Belvue Restaurant, the board discussed the housing crisis locally, and reviewed a new and bright economic picture for Stanton and Martin County.

Foundation president Don Tollison told those on hand that many new families will be moving to Stanton as the oil business picks up locally, and also told of a prospective new industry for Stanton which would employ 30 people.

Tollison told the group that Stanton should be thankful to have all of its housing occupied, but that the lack of housing was critical. "We have problems with school teachers finding houses, and Continental Oil Co. has expressed a desire to move 14 families here. I believe there is an interest in Stanton for upgrading the housing situation," Tollison said.

Tollison reported that the foundation has been talking with a contractor in Fort Worth about building speculative housing in Stanton, but that the builder wanted some local people to go into the project with him.

Several members of the foundation and its advisory committee expressed interest in forming a corporation to help fund a new housing project in Stanton and Paige Eiland was appointed chairman of a committee to look into the idea.

Ed Lawson, B. F. White, Finley Rhodes and Carrol Yater were also appointed to the committee, and pledged immediate action on the formation of such a corporation.

Terry Neill, publisher of the Stanton Reporter, then volunteered free "For Sale" and "For Rent" classified ads for the next two months to home owners across the county who have homes for sale or rent which are unoccupied.

Neill told the group that by renting some of the unoccupied homes locally and by getting others to sell vacant houses, some of the housing shortage could be eased in the coming weeks. Tollison and the group gave their full support to the idea.

Tollison opened the meeting by citing Stanton's new

"HBMC" Campaign Gets Underway This Week

The Stanton Reporter will begin offering free "For Sale" and "For Rent" want ads this week through the end of July for locals who have a house to rent or sell, the new service has been tabbed "Help Build Martin County."

The Reporter is offering the service in conjunction with the Martin County Industrial Foundation, in an effort to find housing for the many families who are attempting to move to Stanton and Martin County.

To place a free classified ad, just call or come by the Reporter office. Identify yourself and ask for the "Help Build Martin County" service. Persons who do not ask for the special service will be charged according to current classified rates.

WORK SET

A work day has been called for Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. by Stanton Little League Commissioner Jack Elrod.

Repair work and general maintenance will be performed on the little league field, located at the Stanton City Park. Those turning out to help should bring their own rakes, hoes, etc.

FFA, 4-Hers BBQ Slated

Outstanding 4-Hers and Future Farmers of America will be recognized at a "Youth Appreciation Day" barbecue in the Stanton City Park, June 1.

The barbecue is being sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee, and will begin at 7 p.m. The barbecue will sell for $2.50 a plate, and all area residents have been urged to attend by committee chairman Chuck Elmore.

Elmore said the barbecue is being held to honor 4-H and FFA members and outstanding workers in both programs.

Special Luncheon Set Here Friday

Homer Tucker, industrial development consultant with the Texas Industrial Commission, will be in Stanton Friday to award a special citation for industrial expansion to Stanton Supply Corporation.

The presentation will be held in conjunction with a luncheon honoring R. C. Vest, president of the corporation, and National Small Business Week, held May 19-25. The luncheon is sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation and will begin at noon in the Cap Rock Auditorium.

HOMER TUCKER

The citation was of six selected for special mention with the five Governor's Industrial Expansion Award winners for 1973. Nominations were made by local chambers of commerce and selected by the Texas Industrial Commission for their civic and economic contributions to their communities.

The luncheon will be emceed by Ed Lawson, vice-president of the First National Bank of Stanton. Jess Miles and his "Swinging Strings" will provide the entertainment, and everyone is urged to attend and honor the local industry.

Stanton Jaycees Take State Awards

Not since Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse wiped out General Armstrong Custer on the Little Big Horn River has a more impressive victory been recorded than the ones chalked up by the Stanton Jaycees at the State Jaycee Convention in El Paso last weekend.

The local Jaycees, in only their second year of organization, walked away with a host of awards, both as a chapter and as individuals.

Leading the individual awards were Herb Sorley, Roger Burch, David Pinkerton and Terry Franklin.

Sorley was named outstanding local president, while Burch was named outstanding local secretary. Pinkerton was outstanding state director, and Franklin won the State Faith In God Award.

As a club the local Jaycees claimed four first place programs in the TAPS Program. Programs winning firsts for the locals were the senior citizens Christmas party, the city-wide clean-up, the chapter newsletter and the FFA stock trailer.

Besides the first place programs, the Stanton men had two second place programs and five third place winners. They were also second in internal programming and third in external programming.

The Stanton Jaycees were also named winners of the "Roadrunner Award", which goes to the outstanding travel club in the state. They garnered third place in the State Blue Chip Program.

Sorley was installed as state vice-president for region 108 and Bob Vinson was installed as national director for area 1B.

Council Undecided On Funds

Discussion of what to do with more than $20,000 in Federal Revenue Sharing money and a land transaction with Cap Rock Electric Co-operative in Stanton highlighted a meeting of the Stanton City Council last Wednesday night.

The council discussed several avenues of spending the funds, including the purchase of an insect fogging machine, a backhoe attachment, a new street crossing, work on the city hall, and improvements on the city parks.

After several hours of discussion on the revenue sharing funds the council decided to postpone action on the matter until a later date.

James Eiland, manager of Cap Rock Electric, appeared before the council to ask that the city sell his company, subject to legal requirements, a small tract of land north of Cap Rock's main office. According to Stanton City Manager Jimmy Mathis, the 90 X 27' lot now contains one of the city's street warehouses and is footage out of the Humble Tract.

The council considered the poor condition of the present building and talked about various ways of replacing it at another location.

Councilman R. O. Rhodes then made the motion that the city sell the land to Cap with the expected oil boom looming on the horizon will probably get worse before it gets better.

Rock for $10,000 subject to meeting all bid requirements required by law.

There are houses available in Stanton, which are not on the market currently. If you have a house that could be rented or sold, why not turn it loose.

In today's world a town, especially a small one such as Stanton, must grow to keep from dying. Mere survival is not enough today, with many small communities dying each year from a lack of effort by their citizens.

Growth will bring many good things to our community and a very few bad ones.

With more people we will have more students and a chance to further our already fine school system. Local and area merchants will find new prosperity and will be able to bring in new lines not before available locally.

With these new people will also come new merchants who can supply Stanton and Martin County with services previously attainable only in Midland or Big Spring. This will keep more of Martin County's dollars in Martin County.

New houses will spring up, and the city and county will undergo a gradual facelifting which will make it more attractive to couples seeking a good place to live and raise their children.

This paper is our first graduation edition, carrying the good wishes and congratulations of our local merchants to the senior class of 1974.

In the 12 years which most of these young people have been undergoing the initial part of their education, many things have happened.

Changes in dress, morals, ways of life and recreation have been numerous. Through it all they have also changed, and we must hope that somewhere along the line they have learned something which will make the world a better place for all.

Stanton and Martin County should be proud of their young people. After living in several communities, this newsman has seen several classes of seniors come and go, and never have I seen a finer one than the 1974 class of Stanton High School. Congratulations, seniors, and good luck in the years to come.

Another successful March of Dimes drive has come and gone in Martin County, and Mrs. Kathleen Lewis, who headed the drive, has issued her thanks to all of those who helped.

Mrs. Lewis is especially grateful for the help of Brownie Troop 67, which was responsible for collecting most of the drive's funds.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — The end may be in sight for the historic Texas Constitutional Convention which began last January.

Delegates have been zipping along since they came back to work after the May 4 primary election, and only one major article — the catchall, controversial General Provisions — was left to complete on tentative passage at mid-week.

After that, of course, lawmaker-delegates must go back through the whole package on final consideration. And only those articles receiving a two-thirds majority vote can be submitted to voters.

Actually, the convention has until the end of July to complete the entire revision effort.

However, President Price Daniel Jr. has expressed hope for a much quicker windup. Daniel, of course, pushed unsuccessfully for agreement on a proposed revision before the primary election, then had to settle for a month's recess during April.

Convention leaders debated whether to submit a $1 million budget — enough to last until mandatory July adjournment — or to budget piecemeal, hopeful of getting through within a few weeks.

Daniel expressed a preference for budgeting through July, then "giving a lump of it back" on earlier adjournment.

However, Administration Committee Chairman Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon said he was concerned that appropriating through July would tempt delegates to stay that long.

Meanwhile, Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards gave delegates some practical advice on how to get new constitutions adopted. His own state has just approved one.

PRIMARIES CANVASSED — Executive Committees of both Democratic and Republican parties canvassed returns of the May 4 primary.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is officially the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, having won over Frances "Sissy" Farenthold 1,024,335 to 438,564. W.H. Posey of Houston got 31,498 votes and Steve S. Alexander of Waco 26,889. Republicans certified James H. (Jim) Granberry as their candidate for governor. Granberry defeated Odell McBrayer of Fort Worth.

Raza Unida again is running Ramsey Muniz of Corpus Christi for governor and Fred Garza for Railroad Commissioner. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will be opposed in the general election by GOP Gaylor Marshall of Dallas; Atty. Gen. John Hill by Tom Cole; Bob Bullock by James N. (Nick) Rowe of McAllen; Agriculture Commissioner John White by Zack Fisher of Memphis; Treasurer Jesse James by Robert G. Holt of Amarillo; Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong by Mary Lou Grier of Boerne; Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon by Joe P. Cain of Houston and Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace by Dale W. Steffes of Houston.

FUEL SHORTAGE CONTINUES — Once more, the statewide oil allowance (for June) has been set at a wide-open 100 per cent — for the 27th straight month — amid warnings that fuel shortages may last through summer.

Railroad Commissioner Langdon commended Texans for their conservation efforts. He noted that crude oil stocks in the state are up two million barrels over a year ago — to 93.3 million — and that U.S. supplies are up 8.1 million barrels.

Langdon credited voluntary energy-conservation efforts with the improved inventory picture, but he warned that heavy summer vacation travel may cause more lines at the pumps.

Nominations to purchase crude oil for the next month totalled 3,879,449 barrels, an increase of 18,684 barrels over May.

COURTS SPEAK — A Dallas man won a reversal and new trial of a murder conviction because the state placed in evidence an obituary of his slain wife.

The Court of Criminal Appeals also reversed the assault to murder sentence assessed a Harris County man due to introduction by the state of a marriage annulment petition purporting to show he had a violent temper.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld a state savings and loan commissioner's order backed by an Austin court allowing Equitable Savings of Fort Worth to set up a branch office in Lubbock.

The State Supreme Court set a June 12 hearing in a suit over whether Day and Zimmermann Inc., which operates Lone Star Army Ammunition plant at Texarkana, must pay $112,668 in state sales taxes. The taxes were paid under protest on materials bought by the munitions maker. Day and Zimmermann claims the purchases were non-taxable, since they were made for the U.S. government.

AG OPINIONS — An 18-year-old public school student may legally serve on a school board of trustees if otherwise qualified.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: * A tape recording of an open meeting of the Texas Board of Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies is public information.

A court-appointed counsel is entitled to compensation even if he spends only a fraction of a day on the job.

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, lacks power to revoke approval for programs offered by the Texas State Technical Institute (except for teacher training programs).

The judge of the Court of Domestic Relations of Nueces County may act as presiding judge, but he gains no authority beyond the jurisdiction given him by statutes relating to juvenile and domestic relations matters.

Marl, gravel and shell sales by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are subject to state and local sales taxes.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED — Henry L. Seale of Dallas and Kenneth A. Douglas of Austin were appointed by Governor Briscoe to the Advisory Council on Community Affairs. Briscoe reappointed Kenneth L. Barr of Fort Worth, Richard Brown of Austin, Edwin B. Daniel of Wichita Falls and Bernis W. Sadler of Port Arthur to the council.

Briscoe appointed Dr. Vivian A. Hicks of Fort Worth to the Advisory Council on Early Childhood Education. Sen. Ron Clower of Garland is chairman of the new Senate sub-committee on Mass Transit. Sen. Jim Wallace of Houston and Sen. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur are members of the panel.

Frank Hildebrand, executive director of Texas Tourist Development Agency, is national chairman of the Discover America travel organization.

SHORT SNORTS
Sen. Wallace has been selected by the Senate as its new president pro tempore.

Texas State Teachers Association voted overwhelmingly against unification with National Education

Central and East Texas cotton farmers must have all planting completed by midnight, May 31. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White announced planting dates are fixed under the bollworm control act.

Forty-five House members petitioned for an investigation of Texas Water Quality Board and Director Hugh Yantis due to granting of a permit for a toxic waste disposal site in Live Oak County. Yantis said he would cooperate with any investigation.

Cooperation Is Sought

The support of all cattle producers in Martin County as well as those throughout the state is needed if the current brucellosis eradication program is to be effective, according to Billy Reagor, Martin County Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

All breeding cattle two years of age and over should now be tested for brucellosis when ownership of the cattle changes. Testing may be done on the ranch or farm or at an auction market. A test is good for 30 days if the animal is ear tagged and the owner has a test certificate.

Reagor points out that Texas leads the nation in the number of brucellosis infected herds. It has 26 per cent of all the infected herds in the United States. Oklahoma, Louisiana and Mississippi account for 37 per cent of the infected herds.

Testing programs are moving forward in other states and the action has been effective. According to Reagor, 37 per cent of all counties in the nation are now "modified-certified" brucellosis free and 63 per cent are "certified" free of infected cattle.

OLDER TEXANS' PROBLEMS

Older Texans can take steps to protect themselves from unscrupulous "deals." Many older Texans are victimized, gyped and deprived of their rights every day. They make prime targets since they tend to have trusting natures — and this creates special problems for them, especially since many live on fixed incomes.

To protect their money, older Texans, first, should remember it is their money — and they have the right to spend it as they wish. A reliable businessman respects a person's ability to judge quality and spend money wisely.

In view of that, older people should be careful of ads or phone calls that promise a prize or free gift. Don't accept an offer unless all conditions are understood. Listen carefully to what the buyer must do.

When considering a purchase, get all conditions in writing on the sales slip. This includes delivery date, guarantee and right to exchange or return.

Don't accept verbal promises — they can't be enforced.

Resist pressure to sign a contract in a hurry — and don't sign at all if it has blanks that should be filled in. The best time to avoid trouble is before signing. Before signing a contract, read it over carefully. Then "sleep on it" and talk it over with someone you trust. A reliable businessman won't ask a buyer to sign in a hurry, because he's concerned with consumer satisfaction.

Also, deal with door-to-door salesmen carefully. Be courteous, but don't be afraid to say no. When considering a salesman's merchandise, check his credentials and examine the item to make sure it's worth the money.

And, after signing a contract with a door-to-door salesman, reconsider the action. The buyer has three days to cancel the contract if he decides he made a poor decision.

The salesman must give the buyer a postcard which cancels the contract if the merchandise costs more than $25.

CONSIDER THE SOURCE

Gas and oil are being used faster than new reserves are being discovered. Coal is plentiful but not inexhaustible. Nuclear power is not yet widely available.

But whatever the source of generating fuels may be, the power will be electricity.

Cost will be higher.

But the member-owned electric cooperative, first in service to rural Texans, will continue to offer electricity at its lowest possible price. It's a promise we've been keeping for more than 30 years.

COTTON TALKS
FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

There is an almost daily appearance of new and stronger evidence that the High Plains may reap substantial and enduring benefits from the burgeoning world-wide interest in the revolutionary open-end spinning system, according to officials of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson points out that just within the last two months: Two Southeastern textile companies have had top executives in Lubbock conferring with PCG, the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech and others about possible High Plains locations for open-end spinning mills; A Texas company has expressed strong interest in establishing a plant in this area;

Several foreign mills have purchased High Plains cotton specifically for open-end operations, and

A number of overseas companies have answered a recent PCG advertisement which offers to supply existing data and new information being developed on the performance of High Plains cottons on the new system, leaving no doubt as to their active interest in short staple, low micronaire cotton as the raw material for open-end equipment now in place or in various stages of planning.

To these facts Johnson adds: Southwest Textiles in A-bernathy is already producing yarn on open-end spindles and expects more spindles in the very near future;

Feather Fabrics, Inc., of Lubbock, is now installing the first arrivals of open-end equipment, expects a nominal amount of production by the end of May, full production in the Lubbock plant by December, and has on order the equipment for another complete mill for which a site is yet to be selected;

Another local investment entity, not yet ready for a public announcement, is known to be laying plans to build a spinning mill on the High Plains, and land. "put all these developments together," says Johnson, "and although some are still in the tentative stage it is hard to keep from getting excited."

The outbreak of activity as related to High Plains mills and to High Plains cotton in other mills stems from early studies which indicate that cotton from this area, especially low mike cotton, can be used as efficiently as higher priced cottons on the open-end system and produce yarns of equal or superior quality characteristics.

In 1972 and 1973 market discounts for low mike cotton across the belt amounted to about $10 per bale.

Cooperation Is Sought

The support of all cattle producers in Martin County as well as those throughout the state is needed if the current brucellosis eradication program is to be effective, according to Billy Reagor, Martin County Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

All breeding cattle two years of age and over should now be tested for brucellosis when ownership of the cattle changes. Testing may be done on the ranch or farm or at an auction market. A test is good for 30 days if the animal is ear tagged and the owner has a test certificate.

Reagor points out that Texas leads the nation in the number of brucellosis infected herds. It has 26 per cent of all the infected herds in the United States. Oklahoma, Louisiana and Mississippi account for 37 per cent of the infected herds.

Testing programs are moving forward in other states and the action has been effective. According to Reagor, 37 per cent of all the counties in the nation are now "modified-certified" brucellosis free and 63 per cent are "certified" free of infected cattle.

Conditioning Time Here

COLLEGE STATION - Hot summer weather is approaching, and once again many homeowners' thoughts are turning to room air conditioners.

W. S. Allen, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, describes the function of room air conditioners as well as selecting the proper unit. "A room air conditioner has four functions — it cools, dehumidifies, cleans and circulates conditioned air," points out Allen.

For maximum cooling, a fan draws in warm, moist room air which passes through a filter to remove dust and lint. When the air reaches the evaporator, it is cooled and moisture is removed by condensation. A thermostat maintains the desired temperature. Grills direct the conditioned air so it circulates efficiently without causing drafts.

Room air conditioners can also be set to ventilate and exhaust air from the room, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"The cooling capacity of a room air conditioner is expressed in British Thermal Units (BTU's). This refers to the amount of heat the unit can remove from the air. In other words, an air conditioner with a cooling capacity of 6,000 BTU's per hour is capable of removing 6,000 BTU's of heat every hour."

Allen emphasizes the importance of choosing a room air conditioner of the proper cooling capacity. "If it's too large, it won't provide proper comfort conditions. If it's too small, it won't do the job expected of it. An oversized unit will cool a room in a hurry but will cut off while the room air is still highly humid. A smaller unit could do the same cooling job while performing its dehumidifying function properly."

Room air conditioners are available in a variety of sizes, models and types. Some of the smaller units can be used on a wiring circuit that is only partially loaded, points out the engineer. However, it is usually a good practice to provide a separate circuit for a room air conditioner.
