Ken Branam, 40, a Snyder school board member here the past two years, submitted a letter to school officials Monday that he is withdrawing his candidacy for re-election to the board.

Branam, pastor of First Baptist Church the past nine years, cited personal reasons. He said Monday morning there is a possibility that he might be leaving the local congregation in the weeks ahead to accept a position with another church.

"I really won't know about that until May 21, but either way I felt I had an obligation to let the people know that there would be only three candidates for the school board."

Ballots for next Saturday's school board vote have already been printed and, because of this, Branam's name will still be listed.

With his withdrawal, three candidates will seek two at-large positions to include incumbent Luann Burleson, who was first elected along with Branam in April of 1987, Sam Robertson and Mark Zeck.

Curb overtime

BOSTON (AP) — Exxon Shipping Co. has told its captains and ship engineers to eliminate overtime for unlicensed engine room workers so it can show the Coast Guard that reductions among those workers are justified, according to company memos.

The company plans to reduce the size of engine room crews in order to cut the costs of operating the company's fleet of 19 oceangoing ships, the Boston Sunday Globe reported, based on Exxon memos it obtained.

Housing plan

DALLAS (AP) — An intense campaign to pour millions of tax dollars into a Dallas renovation project has been marked by secrecy and misinformation and secrecy, according to a published report.

And Sandra Baccus, manager of the Twelve Hills Apartments, says only 35 tenants remain in the 500-unit complex in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas. Most of the 60 two-story brick buildings are boarded up.

City officials say the $5.3 million in rental rehabilitation loans for the Oak Cliff and South Dallas complexes will transform moderately run-down apartments into decent housing for 1,200 families.

Bloom County

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cartoonist Berke Breathed says he will discontinue his Pulitzer Prize-winning comic strip "Bloom County" on Aug. 6, and begin a new, Sunday-only strip the next month.

The announcement from the Washington Post Writers Group was reported in today's edition of the Post. It quoted Breathed as saying "A good comic strip is no more eternal than a ripe melon."

"Bloom County," featuring Opus the penguin and a cast of other characters from the fictional locale, quickly became one of the nation's most popular comic strips after its introduction in December, 1980.

North's trial jury imperiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge at Oliver North's trial said today the news media's attempt to force disclosure of a sealed document concerning a 1985 missile shipment may imperil the case against the former White House aide.

The jury of nine women and three men was entering its ninth day of deliberations today.

At a hearing, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said he thinks the issues raised by 10 news organizations seeking access to the document are "very, very broad."

"If you prevail in this matter," Gesell told a lawyer for the 10 news organizations, "one possibility is I must discharge the jury."

At issue is a stipulation summarizing highly secret intelligence intercepts that tracked a CIA-assisted November 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran. The intercepts were gathered by the National Security Agency.

North's lawyers used the document in his defense, referring to it in open court. In a highly unusual move, the document was given to the jury for its deliberations, but Gesell has kept it under seal from the public. Ten news organizations, including The Associated Press, went to court April 21 in an attempt to force its release.

The Justice Department, acting on behalf of the U.S. intelligence community, says release of the information would jeopardize national security.

Timothy B. Dyk, representing the 10 news organizations, said the issues raised by the matter and pointed out that "only one document" is involved.

Gesell replied that "it's the only document I treated this way after 14 months of dealing with over a million documents."

The document shows that top U.S. officials knew at the time of the November 1985 shipment that Hawk missiles were aboard the aircraft.

On April 22, Gesell rejected the disclosure motion, saying the stipulation "is a classified document."

The news organizations appealed. An appeals court panel Friday sent the matter back to Gesell, calling for a hearing on national security issues involved, saying it cannot make a decision without having such a record.

North is charged with creating a false chronology that says no one in the U.S. government knew until January 1986 that Hawks were aboard the November 1985 shipment.

Part of North's defense was to show that CIA Director William Casey and national security adviser John Poindexter were aware at the time from the intercepts what was aboard, yet arranged the false story.

Conflicting legal opinions evoked by baby-death care

CHICAGO (AP) — The fate of a man who held hospital workers at bay as he disconnected his comatose son from a life-support machine is at the heart of a controversy over laws governing hopelessly ill children.

Rudy Linares has been released on bail after being charged with first-degree murder for removing his severely brain-damaged, 16-month-old son from a life-support system.

A tearful Linares, the father of two other children, cradled the boy in his arms Wednesday until the child died.

The boy was to be buried today in a private service at which his father was expected to attend.

Prosecutors, the hospital and the boy's doctor contend that laws prohibit anyone from disconnecting mechanical life support, even from severely brain-damaged youngsters who are not expected to ever recover.

On the other side are defense lawyers and other physicians and attorneys who argue that the same laws, along with court rulings and accepted practice, protect doctors and parents from criminal liability when they decide to end futile treatment.

"It is our fervent hope that a case like this doesn't become a precedent or a landmark, because the issues are so unclear, they are so murky at this point," said Richard Scholz, the public defender for Linares.

Linares, 23, a house painter from suburban Cicero, and his 21-year-old wife, Tamara, had requested months ago that life-support be withdrawn from their son, Samuel, who swallowed a balloon at a birthday party in August and almost suffocated. But hospital officials say the family did not seek the required court order.

Despite extensive medical efforts to revive him when the accident occurred, the boy was "definitely in a state of irreversible vegetative coma," said his physician, Dr. Gilbert Goldman. "My opinion was that recovery was not possible."

But there was no legal precedent for turning off the respirator that kept Samuel alive, said Goldman, director of pediatric intensive care at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center.

Max Brown, a hospital lawyer, said Goldman and the hospital could have left themselves open to prosecution under Illinois child-abuse laws or, worse, been charged with murdering the boy.

"He was not brain-dead," Brown said. "He was not dead according to any legally or medically accepted criteria."

Such a criterion is not required under any existing laws, said Fenella Rouse, legal director of the Society for the Right to Die in New York City.

"In a case like this for a child, withdrawing ventilator support is not the least bit controversial," she said in a telephone interview Friday.

Courts in Florida, Michigan and Georgia have supported the decisions of parents to end life-support in such cases, Ms. Rouse said, and "most importantly, nobody has ruled to the contrary."

Moreover, Linares is wrongly charged with murder for disconnecting his son from the ventilator, she said.

"There's no doubt about it — it's legal. It's just as legal for the father to do it as for the hospital to do it," she said.

Ms. Rouse noted that murder charges in a 1983 California case against two physicians who withdrew life-support from an adult man were struck down.

Dear Abby

Divorce Is No Laughing Matter For Woman Facing Life Alone

By Abigail Van Buren

Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: With dismay and anger I read the samples you published of announcements some people sent out regarding divorces. You seemed to find them cute. However, since your opinion is important to so many people, I don't think you should endorse jokes made out of a tragedy such as divorce. You have said in your column that divorce is like a death in the family. What if you had received an announcement like this one from a woman who had been unhappily married and whose husband had just died:

"At last, floozies, booze and tobacco finally caught up with Marvin last Tuesday, when he slipped peacefully to his undeserved reward. You are invited to help me start spending his insurance money at a champagne celebration next June 31, at 6 p.m., 123 Swing Drive, Anywhere, USA."

Poor taste, isn't it? So are divorce announcements. At age 69, I am going through a divorce from my 72-year-old husband. I was a good and faithful wife. I never neglected my appearance, but he is going through a delayed midlife crisis and wants a divorce, and there is no way I can prevent it. (That's what "no fault" legislation did to us older women.)

I am devastated. I wish I could find one of those capsules that causes instant and painless death because I would be too chicken to shoot myself. (I'd probably miss.)

This letter to you is my announcement — my only one. I doubt if you will publish it, but I had to tell someone, and I can't think of anyone else.

MRS. G. IN LA.

DEAR MRS. G.: If you "had to tell someone," I'm glad you thought of me. Unburdening one's self is cathartic, but you need much more help than anyone can give you in a letter.

Did you know there is a suicide prevention hotline in your city? Call "information" for that number, then speak to the person there. You will be surprised how understanding and caring that stranger on the telephone will be. Many trained volunteers who man suicide prevention hotlines giving encouragement to lonely, depressed callers were "callers" themselves one time — people who have "been there," helping people who think they can't face another long night. But somehow, with a little encouragement, they manage to hang in there. And they're glad they did. (Suicide is a permanent solution to temporary problem.) Please write again, Mrs. G.; that's what I'm here for.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to "Jerry" for two and a half years. It's my first marriage and I feel like the luckiest woman in the world to be married to such a kind and loving man.

Jerry has two children, 7 and 9, by a previous marriage. They live with their mother in a different state, but we have them for Christmas vacations and a month in the summer. They're great kids.

Now the problem: When they come for Christmas, they never have a gift for their father, not even a card. They never remember him on Father's Day or his birthday, either. I know it's not their fault; their mother should help them select a gift — even a card they signed would mean so much to Jerry.

I am not close to his ex-wife, and I am reluctant to write her a letter (or call her) to make this suggestion. She might think I'm being critical of her or putting her down, but all I want is for Jerry to be remembered on those special days. Any ideas?

ONLY A STEPMOM

DEAR STEPMOM: The next time the children visit, take them aside and tell them how much it would mean to their father to be remembered on his birthday, Christmas and Father's Day.

"Help" the children select cards or gifts, address the envelopes, affix the postage, and if you must mail these remembrances, do that too.

Marilyn Quayle said following her agenda during Pacific trip

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Marilyn Quayle is keeping an independent schedule and pursuing a separate agenda as she tours the Pacific with her husband, Vice President Dan Quayle.

In Australia, the Quayles' first stop on their 12-day trip, Mrs. Quayle frequently went her own way.

While Quayle visited a pub, she toured a children's hospital; while he met with Australian Prime Minister Bob Hawke, she went sightseeing at the national art gallery; while he dropped by a tennis clinic, she taught an elementary school class; and when he teed off for golf, she signed up for a tennis lesson.

"If you want to go out and see the country, go with Marilyn," Quayle said at the beginning of the trip. He called her schedule the "more interesting" of the two.

Since Quayle assumed office a little over three months ago, Mrs. Quayle, 39, has kept a low profile, rarely granting interviews and jealously guarding her family's privacy.

An attorney by training, Mrs. Quayle has not practiced her profession in over a decade, though she told a group of school children in Melbourne, Australia, that she wouldn't mind returning to law.

"In my original job, I was a lawyer, but since my husband became vice president, I've had a lot of duties to perform for him," she said.

"So, I'm not sure I can practice law, although I would like to."

Having apparently ruled out that career path for now, questions have arisen over how Mrs. Quayle plans to define her new role.

Barbara Bush, for instance, used the second lady's slot as a platform to promote literacy, and Nancy Reagan pushed the "Just Say No" program to fight drugs when she was first lady.

Before the Quayles left on their trip, the vice president was asked what role his wife would adopt.

Quayle made light of the question, responding, "She has a very major cause, and a very major interest. ... A very complex and consuming issue with her — and that is me."

But on this trip, Mrs. Quayle made it clear she had her own interests, interests which often kept her out of her husband's way when he dealt with substantive topics such as grain exports.

"In addition to her official duties, she will also pursue her interest in disaster relief and disaster preparedness," Mrs. Quayle's office said in a statement explaining her trip schedule.

Wilson said facing battle over creek

SILSBEE, Texas (AP) — A Texas congressman has raised the ire of Village Creek residents for his efforts to add the area to the Big Thicket National Preserve.

U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, was met by 80 protestors on Saturday when he showed up to tour the waterway.

Many of the protestors wore black arm bands and some posted signs along Wilson's route through the creek, the Beaumont Enterprise reported.

Brenda Wright of Citizens to Save Village Creek, a citizens group formed to protest the creek's addition to the preserve, said she is trying to protect the rights of those who own property in the area.

"They should leave it to the individuals," Wright said.

The most critical rule on starting solid food, according to baby feeding experts at Beech-Nut Nutrition Corp., is to start with single foods, not combinations or mixtures. Starting with a single food lets you check the baby's reaction and find out exactly which foods agree with your baby.

Owl causes controversy

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A family member has asthma. In one column, you said that inhaling cortisone for asthma can bypass some of the unpleasant side effects. Would cortisone be a possible treatment for someone with an infection of the optic nerve who is treated orally with large doses of steroids and suffers all the side effects?

DEAR READER: Inhaled cortisone is a valuable method of preventing asthma. As a general rule, inhaled steroids, of which cortisone is one, exert a local effect — in this case, directly on smaller breathing passages to release spasm — and are not absorbed in quantity into the body. This is one of their advantages because cortisone and similar drugs (prednisone) will cause serious side effects when given systemically (by pill or injection).

By inhaling the drug from a hand-held spray container, asthma patients often achieve substantial benefits without the dangerous consequences, such as diabetes, bone brittleness, cataracts and susceptibility to infection.

Since inhaled cortisone is not absorbed into the body, it is useless in treating optic neuritis, an inflamed nerve in the eye. Sometimes steroid eye drops can be used for ocular diseases, but the optic nerve is well-protected at the back of the eyeball, so oral cortisone is usually more appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I grit my teeth in my sleep, have chipped my front teeth and am afraid I will have to have them capped. This would be costly, and I want to stop the habit. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER: Gritting the teeth can be a tough habit to break because it usually occurs at night, when a person is asleep and unaware of the jaw clenching.

You could be helped by a bite plate, a device worn at night to protect your teeth. See your dentist for advice about this.

You might also want to address the stress and tension that might be causing you to grind your teeth. Perhaps psychological counseling would enable you to identify more healthful ways of dealing with the stresses in your life.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A friend in Scotland has been suffering from Coxsackie disease for two years. Actually, many people in the same town have contracted it. Can you explain the cause and cure?

DEAR READER: There are about 30 types of Coxsackie viruses and they cause a spectrum of diseases, including sores in the mouth, meningitis, paralysis, heart inflammation, rash, lung infection and intestinal upset.

Coxsackie ailments are more common in summer and autumn, are spread from human to human and are untreatable with antibiotics or other drugs.

Fortunately, most people with Coxsackie infection experience mild flu-like symptoms and recover uneventfully.

Infection with one type of Coxsackie virus does not grant immunity to future infection with that strain or any of the others. Therefore, people who are exposed to the virus may have repeated, cyclical problems, especially if the source is in a close-knit town or community.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Not since the 1970s, when the snail darter took a run at a dam on the Little Tennessee River, has the Endangered Species Act been the focus of a dispute as acrimonious as that surrounding the northern spotted owl.

The Tellico Dam was eventually completed, but only after a lengthy and bruising battle over the darter — a tiny fish — that reached the U.S. Supreme Court, Congress and the Carter White House.

At stake in the spotted owl showdown is the fate of some of the oldest forests on earth and the role of logging, so rich a part of the heritage of the Pacific Northwest, in the economic future of Washington state, Oregon and northern California.

A medium-sized, mostly nocturnal bird, the spotted owl is fiercely territorial and nests almost exclusively in the cathedral-like ancient forests of the Northwest. The trees in these stands average 500 years in age with some of the giants up to 1,000 years old.

When the first settlers arrived in the early 1800s, more than 20 million acres of old-growth forest dominated the landscape. No one is quite sure how much remains with estimates ranging from 2 million acres to 6 million acres.

have doubled for takeout, and East would have probably become declarer at two or three spades. Nine tricks would make with reasonable play on East's part, contingent upon his exhausting South of exit cards in the red suits before playing ace and a spade. But today's South deprived West of the ability to double one club for takeout when he opened one no-trump. That was unorthodox but extremely effective.

West, vulnerable with a balanced 12 high-card points, had no safe action over the no-trump opening. East, confronted with only nine points and no five-card suit, had to pass. So South became declarer. When a low heart was led, the jack held in dummy. A club was played to the queen, and the club ace brought down the king. Declarer now played the king of spades. West won the ace and tried to salvage what he could by leading a low diamond. The defenders can certainly take three diamond tricks and the ace of spades. But East won the ace of diamonds and thought it right to return his partner's first-led suit. Declarer now took 10 tricks for an excellent tournament score, since at most other tables South either played a club contract or defended against East in a three-spade contract.

Doty's cowboys do it again...

WTC earns 9th trip to CNFR

STEPHENVILLE — Western Texas College got all of its points in just two events at the Tarleton State University NIRA Rodeo here Sunday but it was enough for Coach Bob Doty to book a trip to the national finals.

For the ninth straight season, Western Texas has finished first in the NIRA Rodeo.

Region to qualify its men's team to the College National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont. Western placed fourth in last weekend's final regional rodeo of the season with 215 points. In one of the closest races of the season, Odessa won with 225 points followed by Tarleton and Howard College with 220 each. Sul Ross University scored 155 for fifth place.

Unofficially, Odessa College won the men's season standings with 2,457.5 points. Western Texas took second with 1,535. Third, fourth and fifth were Tarleton State, 1,438.5; Howard College, 1,317.5; and Sul Ross State, 1,297.5.

Western got 120 of its points from Russell Merchant and Clyde Himes in the steer wrestling event. Merchant was second in the long-go with a time of 4.2 seconds, took first in the short-go with a 6.5, and won the average in 10.7. Himes was third in the long-go with a 4.3. His broken-barrier 13.2 in the finals took him out of the average.

WTC's other points came in the bull riding where Michael Gaffney split average points with Howard's Joey Hubbard. Gaffney had scored a 79 in the long-go and won the short-go with a 75. Hubbard was second in the long-go with an 81, and his 73 in the finals left both cowboys tied with 154 in the average. They were the only two competitors to complete a ride in the finals of the event.

"I'm just real proud of these guys," said Doty. "If you look at it on paper, there's no way. It's supposed to be Sul Ross or maybe Tarleton winning second."

Doty had figured that if Gaffney bucked off in the bull riding — the final event, Western would have won second in the region by about three points. It wasn't that close, however, as the Cloudcroft, N.M. cowboy racked up big points.

Merchant finished the regular season tied for first place in the Southwest Region standings of the steer wrestling with Tarleton's Joey Almond. Both accumulated 335 points. Gaffney is the region bull riding runner-up champion for the second season in a row. By placing first and-or second, they will also qualify for the national finals.

Western got several other designated team members into Sunday's short-go at Stephenville, but they did not finish in the top four to receive points. Ray Brown reached the finals of the steer wrestling but clocked an 18.3 there while Jim Blain Kenney made it to the finals of the saddle bronc, but took a no-score.

Also, Brown and ENMU's Roger Montano took a no-time in the finals of the team roping.

One other WTC performer had a fine rodeo. Kenny Taton, who was not on the designated six-man team this week, won the saddle bronc with a 146 on two-head. Taton was second in the long-go with a 22 score and his 22 in the finals tied with Vance Eggeneyer for short-go honors.

WTC student Steve Roberts won the long-go of the bareback riding with a score of 76. He had a no-score in the finals. Roberts also made it to Sunday's round in the bronc riding, but did not score there either. Also, Kyle Ham took a no-score in the finals of the bull riding.

Neither of WTC's women team members, Krista Jeffries or Melanie Graf, advanced to the finals.

Women's regional champion TSU won the rodeo with 150 points, followed by Sul Ross University with 130 and Odessa with 80. Eastern New Mexico University was the women's runner-up for the season.

The CNFR begins June 12 in Bozeman and runs through June 17.

Tiger tracksters face tough luck at region

BROWNWOOD — Nichole Overman's dream for a berth in the state track meet came to an end with Friday's preliminaries here.

The Snyder High School senior did not qualify for the finals after she hit the third hurdle in the preliminaries.

"She had worked so hard. If a chance to run in the finals it was her," said Coach Patty Grimmett. "I'm very proud of her though, and all these (Snyder) kids. They got to go to region and that's something only a few get to do."

Liz Greathouse jumped 33-2/4 in the triple jump but finished out of the top eight and did not qualify for the finals. Charles Guynes went out at 13-6 in the pole vault Saturday morning and did not place.

In the 100 meter hurdle prelims, Overman clipped the second hurdle, lost her balance and hit the third hurdle "pretty solid," said her coach.

"I was real proud of them. They worked hard all year. Even though things didn't go their way, they deserve a lot of credit for what they did," said Grimmett.

Ira Bulldogs are set for 6-man state meet

ABILENE — Ira's trio of regional qualifiers were not able to advance at the Region II-A track meet here Saturday but they still have the Six-Man state meet to look forward to.

Jason Withers valuted 12-6 to place fourth in the pole vault and Michelle Holmes ran a 2:40.43 to take sixth in the 800 meters.

Alan Martinez competed in the high jump on Friday, but did not place in the final six.

The Bulldog athletes will be competing in the first Six-Man state meet, however, scheduled for May 6 in Comanche. They will be competing in the same events as they did in the Region II-A meet. Holmes has also qualified for the Six-Man 200 meter dash.

Ryan outduels Clemens, 2-1

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Nolan Ryan figured he had blown it with a first inning wild pitch, then he remembered where he was.

"In Houston, I would have been doomed after the first inning," said Ryan, who signed with the Texas Rangers as a free agent instead of the Astros after they offered him a $200,000 pay cut.

"But the Rangers won't die." Ryan's first inning wild pitch scoring Danny Heep staked Roger Clemens to a 1-0 lead but Rafael Palmeiro's two-run homer in the eighth inning gave Ryan and Texas a 2-1 victory on Sunday.

It was the first time baseball's two strikeout kings had competed. It boiled down to Clemens' mistake costing a little more than Ryan's.

Ryan said Palmeiro's homer off the foul pole was a mistake he didn't think Clemens would make.

"I was concerned it was going foul," Ryan said. "I was pretty pumped up. I could have gone out on the field and yelled with the fans. I thought my mistake had cost me."

Ryan, 3-1, hit 95 mph on the radar gun while Clemens, 3-1, was clocked at a high of 96 mph.

Ryan gave up three hits, struck out 11 and walk four before giving way to Jeff Russell in the ninth inning. Russell earned his fifth save.

Snyder goes into the game tied with Fort Stockton. Both are 8-3 in District 4-4A play. Fort Stockton plays in Monahans on Tuesday, then hosts the Tigers on Friday.

Three other teams, Andrews, Pecos and Big Spring, are locked up for third place with 7-4 marks. Pecos is at Andrews on Tuesday while Big Spring entertains San Angelo Lake View.

Sweetwater comes into Tuesday's contest at 1-10 in district play and 4-14 overall. Snyder has a season record of 16-7.

Houston woman returns to African missionary work despite abduction

HOUSTON (AP) — Kindra Bryan returned to her Houston home two years ago grateful to be alive after being abducted by guerrilla rebels and marched for three months through Mozambique's bush country.

But the young missionary nurse who returned as an uneasy celebrity was determined to go back to Africa despite the ongoing civil war.

"Children were dying left and right," said Ms. Bryan, 29. "People were coming out of the bush and just dying. I just kept thinking, in my heart, that I had to come back."

She returned in September to Mozambique, working where success must be measured in relieving a little suffering for a short time.

"I can't meet every need, and you sometimes just have to turn your back on some people," Ms. Bryan told the Houston Chronicle during interviews in the Manica Province of Mozambique, in southeast Africa.

"You can't treat every need in a country like this," she said. "And if you think you can, that's the wrong way to think anyway."

The rucksack she always carries, containing a change of clothes, soap and a toothbrush, is a concession to the memory of her abduction and the danger that might lurk just out of sight in the jungle shadows.

But that memory does not stand in her way.

"I don't want to be abducted again — that's for sure," she said. "But I don't really fear death very much."

Medical care is at a premium in Mozambique, where even hospitals in large cities like Beira suffer from poor hygiene practices and a shortage of qualified personnel.

The mission farm where Ms. Bryan spends her days is a kind of way station for basic medical care in the Beira Corridor — a critical trade route running from the Zimbabwe border east to the Indian Ocean.

The working farm, with orchards, animals, food crops and a mill, is surrounded by trenches and patrolled by mostly barefoot Frelimo soldiers. The men, with AK-47s slung across their shoulders, have been part of the landscape since Ms. Bryan and six other missionaries were abducted from the farm in 1987.

But, while the danger appears less imminent, the patrols have not stopped the efforts of rebels, who still raid the isolated farm for food and clothing.

The last attack was in December, and Ms. Ryan survived the ordeal while hiding under a blanket. The soldiers had retreated.

"I was so terrified," Ms. Bryan said. "I was just shaking."

Although the attack was horrifying, she said, it was not unexpected. And months later, she says she has developed the peace that comes from knowing she is where God wants her to be.

During the months after she returned to Houston, Ms. Bryan continued to correspond with a missionary couple abducted along with her who returned to work at the farm. Their continuing reports of hunger and disease made it clear to her that she was needed.

"People are more settled now, but the refugees were in terrible shape then," Ms. Bryan said, recalling the discouragement she got from friends when deciding to return.

"People warned that I might be a target or something," Ms. Bryan told the Chronicle. "I looked into a lot of different options, but I knew this was the right place for me. I just knew that this was where I would be most effective."

old surgery wing on the west side of the complex will be used for the TDC, with rooms for five inmates, one for a guard and nurse and an outpatient area, all secured with metal doors and window screens.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting included the awarding of a contract to Bill Burns Oil Co., the Mobil distributor, to supply the county with regular and unleaded gasoline and diesel fuel through the end of the year.

County Auditor Linda Franklin said Burns' offer of .0169 of a cent per gallon for freight on diesel fuel, .0144 for freight on gasoline and a profit of .0125 of a cent per gallon for gasoline and diesel fuel was the lowest offer among seven that the county received.

A one-year extension of the county's contract with Big Spring State Hospital was approved.

A low bid of $9,000, with the trade-ins of a Ford truck, an International truck and a dump trailer, was accepted from High Plains Truck Sales of Lubbock for the purchase of a 1977 Mack truck tractor to be used in Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr.'s Pct. 3.

Senior Commissioner Ted Billingsley presided in the absence of County Judge Bobby Goodwin.

Her first trip to Africa was sponsored by Tyler-based Youth With A Mission. This time she chose to make an independent journey.

The effectiveness can be measured in the faces of the mission's orphans.

City reenacts Thanksgiving on the Rio Grande

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A group of El Pasoans and Spaniards wants everyone to know the first Thanksgiving in the present-day United States took place on the Rio Grande 23 years before the Pilgrims celebrated their feast in Massachusetts.

They took a step Sunday toward revising history with a reenactment of the fiesta held April 30, 1598, by 400 settlers led by Spanish aristocrat Juan de Onate.

While Onate's party was celebrating, the Pilgrims were still in Europe, dreaming of a place where they could worship freely.

The El Paso Mission Trail Association sponsored Sunday's event, complete with armored horsemen, Franciscan monks and four musketeers. A dozen sheep, a goat and a donkey represented the 7,000 head of livestock the original settlers brought with them.

No one is asking to move Thanksgiving from the fourth Thursday in November to April 30, but organizers want people to know about the 1598 feast.

Officials give keys to 'successful aging'

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Elderly people should exercise more, improve their diet and continue to learn new things, a panel of experts on aging said at a weekend health fair in San Antonio.

Dr. A. Charles Rabinowitz, chief of staff of St. Luke's Hospital, offered tips on longevity, which he was quick to point out meant extending productive years instead of adding years to old age.

He said to avoid high-fat foods and simple carbohydrates, such as sugar; eat low-fat protein and raw fruits and vegetables; reduce salt intake; avoid stress and toxins, such as alcohol and tobacco; and exercise regularly.

"The main reason for good exercise," he said, "is to maintain the quality of life. It should become habitual, it should be something fun and it doesn't have to be more taxing than walking."

He said walking one hour daily will burn 300 calories.

Dr. John Walker, medical director of HCA Hill Country Hospital, suggested to the 80 people in attendance on Saturday that they apply an "adjective test" to their lives by imagining the adjectives survivors would use to describe them after they died.

Walker, who spent 10 years with Duke University's longitudinal Study of Aging and Human Development, said new exercise programs should be started slowly.

He suggested walking one block each day for one week. The second week, he said to walk two blocks and the third, three blocks to establish the habit.

"It takes 21 days to break a bad habit and replace it with a good habit," he said.

Marilyn Laird, facilitator of the "Sandwich Generation," a support group for caretakers of the elderly, said people in their 40s and 50s need to plan now for retirement by examining values.

She suggested husbands and wives exchange household tasks so that each would feel a sense of accomplishment and self-esteem at learning something new occasionally.

Loss of mental ability, often the greatest concern of aging, can be avoided, Rabinowitz said.

"Your brain continues to grow as long as you continue to stimulate and challenge it," he said.

"Most people have a problem with memory when they're nervous and stressed out," Walker added.

The panelists suggested playing games, such as Scrabble, chess and crossword puzzles.

Transition to statesman not easy for Gingrich

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newt Gingrich seems to be taking out his frustrations on the pavement as he sets off on a 6 a.m. walk down Washington's Mall.

The morning newspaper includes a poll showing that two-thirds of Americans aren't paying much attention to the ethics problems of House Speaker Jim Wright and just 37 percent know that he's a Democrat. Gingrich, the newly elected No. 2 leader of House Republicans, is annoyed.

"My party is simply not an aggressive, tough competitor compared to the Democrats," he says, in full stride in hiking boots and a sweatshirt as the sun begins to rise on the dogwoods and azaleas on the Capitol lawn.

"Given a comparable problem at any given moment, Republicans are slower and softer and vaguer. We are not in the habit of going out and being tough. We're in the habit of being a minority."

What should the Republicans be doing in the case of Jim Wright, who has been charged by the ethics committee with 69 violations of House rules?

"Here's a chance to say over and over again, 'It's sad, but you can understand after 35 consecutive years of being in power why the Democrats are having a hard time,'" Gingrich says, making his favorite link between power and corruption.

"Republicans have a chance to communicate what's wrong with the way the House is currently run. We're not using it. It's as though somebody filled up a theater for us, and our side decided not to perform."

Gingrich, the strident conservative whose complaint last year launched the ethics case against Wright, seems to be having some trouble making the transition from gadfly to statesman.

The Georgia lawmaker has had some early successes in his new job as GOP whip, lining up an organization that includes not only his supporters but also some old-line moderates. And he demonstrated vote-counting skills last week when he was one of the few to foresee a chance to win a key budget vote on the House floor.

But it has been difficult for him to follow the advice of senior Republicans who have told him to sit out the Jim Wright affair.

When pressed, Gingrich concedes that the Republicans have had their own ethics problems — Watergate, and more recently Deaver and Meese — which have been costly.

Aspiring actors are auditioning

DALLAS (AP) — Gregg Glass of Brownwood decided he would go a long way to take shot at following in the footsteps Robert Redford and Danny DeVito.

So he drove 175 miles to join aspiring actors from around the state who auditioned for spots in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.

Glass said he is ready to make sacrifices to become a film star — even if isn't accepted to the prestigious acting academy.

"I like macaroni and cheese," the 20-year-old said.

But winning a spot at the oldest acting school in the English-speaking world could be a shortcut to fame and film fortune.

Hugh Whitfield, director of the academy, auditioned 20 people Saturday at a Dallas hotel for the school's six-week summer classes and two-year degree programs at campuses in New York and Pasadena, Calif.

During Dallas auditions last year, only two people were accepted.

"I'm looking for a capacity to believe imaginarily — either with training or natural inclination," Whitfield said.

FFA HONORS—Michael Lathem was elected the 1989 Lone Wolf District president at the district banquet held April 17 at Western Texas College. ## Bikes used by police to fight crime

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — In true urban cowboy fashion, police officers in the West are taking to the streets on mountain bikes to combat crime.

"We've found (bikes) to be quite the urban crime fighter," said Officer Paul Grady.

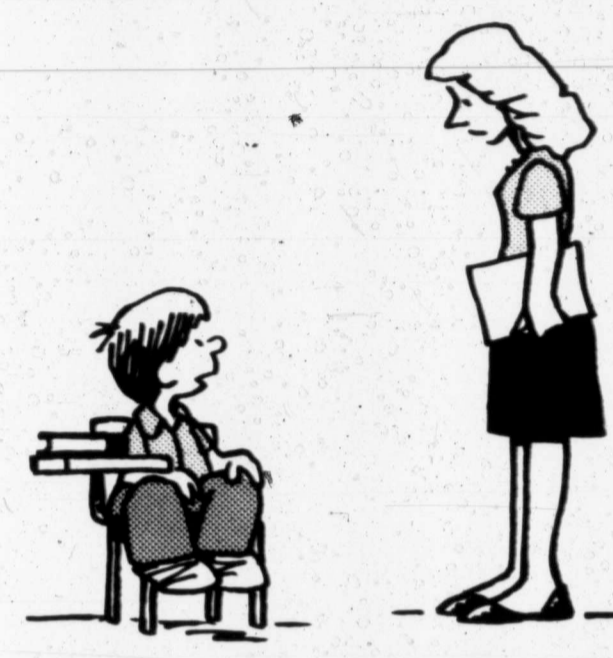

Grady and his partner, Pete Rossen, pioneered the use of bikes two years ago. As of June 1, Grady said 20 Seattle officers will be on two-wheelers rather than behind the wheel of a patrol car.

"You see (criminals) at the end of an alley, and they disappear before you can always get to them. We thought of using bikes when it seemed there just had to be a way to get at them faster," Grady said. "And on a bike, criminals don't know when or where you might appear on your beat."

Others apparently agree. Police departments in Los Angeles, San Diego, Palo Alto, Calif., Fort Worth, Texas, Olympia, Wash., and Victoria, British Columbia have started their own bike detachments.

Seattle's bikers wear a modified police uniform, bike shorts with a padded seat, a helmet, bike gloves, a nylon gunbelt and protective glasses, Grady said.

Gray Body Works has latest equipment

PAT GRAY BODY WORKS, Big Spring, uses only the Kansas Jack Magna Rack III which literally reverses the collision action.

The Kansas Jack Magna Rack III. What does this mean to you? "When your car is in a collision, it can mean a great deal," says Pat Gray, owner of Pat Gray Body Works, 700 N. Owens in Big Spring.

The Kansas Jack Magna Rack III is a revolutionary collision repairs system for unibody cars that literally reverses the collision action by pulling it out the way it went in, then squares and aligns each section of your car in relation to the rest of the car - the way it was meant to be.

"When your car is out of commission, you're just thinking about one thing - getting it fixed. You want it fixed right the first time and you want it fixed quickly. That's why we invested in the Kansas Jack," says Gray.

With its advanced gauging and analysis system the machine aligns each vehicle as a single unit. This means each section is aligned in correct relationship to the rest of the vehicle in conformance with the manufacturer's original specifications.

Unibody cars are built with more precise dimensions, explains Gray, because they're designed to be light, durable and reliable and at the same time roomy. The body parts may be asymmetrical to pack in the most features possible. "There is little margin for error in unibody repairs," according to Gray, who says the Kansas Jack can achieve repair results that are correct within one or two millimeters.

Pat Gray Body Works features an exclusive alignment machine for front-wheel and four-wheel drive vehicles. This machine applies a sensor on each of the four wheels, so they can be adjusted individually, especially important for independent suspension systems. Computerized analysis is printed out on a screen.

Customers don't have to wait until they've had a collision to utilize the alignment machine, said Gray. If your car has a non-adjustable suspension and you notice excessive or uneven tire wear or "pulling" it would be a good idea to bring it in.

Castor and camber adjusting kits are now available for installation on Ford, Chevrolet and Dodge trucks, says Gray.

Pat Gray Body Works is the only body shop in the immediate area to feature the Blowtherm Ultra spraybooth oven for factory-perfect paint jobs on vehicles following body work.

"When you start shopping around for collision repair, alignment or refinishing service you have the right to demand the best," says Gray. "With our equipment, trained technicians and our commitment to quality, we believe we offer the best."

Pat Gray Body Works offers free wrecker service on collision repair jobs. Phone (915) 263-0582 or 263-2374.

Pope calls for international effort

ANTANANARIVO, Madagascar (AP) — Noting the grave ecological problems facing this Indian Ocean island nation, Pope John Paul II has called for an international effort to combat the destruction of the environment.

"It is urgent that the international community give itself both the legal and technical means to guarantee the protection of the environment," the pontiff said Sunday on the third day of Madagascar visit.
