The feller on Deep Creek says, "In the plumbing business, a flush is better than a full house."

Spring fever has set in, and it's always a race between students and teachers on who'll make it until the end of school.

Junior high principal Charles Anderson had an unusual happening. A small, polite student came into the principal's office.

Anderson didn't know her name as principals normally don't know the polite students as well as some others.

She said, "Mr. Anderson, I think you may need to check on one of your teachers. The kids gave her an awfully hard time last period...I know she had a hard day."

As the principal walked to the class, he met the harried teacher. The student was correct, she had experienced a tough day.

Both the teacher and administrator appreciated the student's concern. It reminded them that there are students who still care.

Most JP courts are pretty routine. Often a peace justice is confronted with people who pop in and want to get married. This happened just before quitting time.

With only 15 minutes left in the workday, the JP noticed that the heads of some of the brides-to-be's face were not because of tardiness.

She was in labor, and her soon-to-be hubby wanted to be officially united before the baby's arrival. They just waited until the last minute.

The couple's problem had been compounded by the failure to file a marriage license 72 hours before the nuptials. A district judge was needed to sign a waiver.

Just minutes before 5 p.m., a district judge gave his signature and the "I dos" were hurriedly exchanged. The couple skipped the part about kissing the bride and went straight to the hospital.

Their first wedding gift was said to arrive by special delivery.

Q — Why has the value of oil production for taxation purposes been set at $16 when oil prices have been up to $22?

A — The price is set on an average rather than what the actual price is at a given time. Last year, for example, the price of around $18 was higher than the actual price effective Jan. 1 that year. Appraisal district staffers sampled the oil prices set by other oil valuation firms around the state, and they found that the figure set for Scurry County was in line with the price per barrel set by other firms.

Local

Library work

Summer volunteer workers for the Scurry County Library are now sought. Students ages 12-15 are urged to apply.

Volunteers will be asked to work three hours per week, either in the morning or afternoon. Responsibilities will include checking books in and out, arranging books on the book trucks, shelving books and meeting the public.

Application forms are available at the junior high school and at the library.

Crime watch

There will be a crime watcher meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Dunn Community Center. Charlie Reynolds, crime prevention officer for the sheriff's office, will speak.

There will be a reception honoring the retirement of Bobbie Box, the school district's testing coordinator, from 4 until 5 p.m. Thursday.

The event is sponsored by district administrators and will be held in the administration board room.

For NE staffer

Jerrald Bowen will be honored with a retirement reception Monday in the library at Northeast Elementary from 4 until 5 p.m.

The faculty at Northeast extends an invitation to his ex-students and other friends. He has taught for 35 years, 17 of those at Northeast.

Fire fund

A fund has been established at Snyder National Bank to benefit fire victims Scott and Venita Beights.

A blaze Thursday at the couple's residence, 2307 29th St., caused heavy damage. The Beights have two children.

House sale linked to contract?

DALLAS (AP) — A federal contract for a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration facility at a planned Fort Worth airport may have been influenced by an alliance between an Oklahoma contractor and a former top aide of House Speaker Jim Wright, according to a published report.

In a copyright story, The Dallas Morning News reported Saturday that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers tentatively has decided to award a design contract for DEA's $10.8 million flight facility to HTB Inc. of Oklahoma City over three other architecture and engineering firms, without putting the project out for bid.

The Morning News quoted anonymous government sources as saying HTB, led by chairman Rex M. Ball, has moved to the "top of the list" of firms eligible for the contract to design the DEA facility. Scheduled to be completed by 1992, the DEA facility will consist of a large hangar, warehouses, offices and an aircraft tie-down ramp.

"They are being negotiated with" on a price for the contract to design the aviation and maintenance facility, one source said of HTB.

"That's right. They're at the top of the list," said a second source.

A corps spokesman said the agency could not comment on which architecture and engineering firm might receive the design contract. It was not possible to learn how much that contract would be worth.

"We don't do a competitive bid process when we go out to do architectural and engineering work," said Ron Ruffennach, a Corps of Engineers spokesman in Fort Worth.

DEA officials confirmed Thursday that the drug agency decided in February — after two years of study — to move its flight facility from Addison Airport, north of Dallas, to the planned Alliance Airport in Fort Worth.

The Morning News reported last week that Ball bought a house in 1987 from John Mack, Wright's top aide at the time, for at least $13,000 more than its market value. Ball sold the Virginia home six months later for $17,000 less than he paid Mack, deeds show.

After Ball bought the house, Mack played a key role in securing federal funding.

FROM THE QUILT SALE — American State Bank president Mike Banta presented a baby quilt to Cogdell Memorial Hospital auxiliary president Teddie Hatcher to be presented in a September drawing to a newborn at the hospital. Since 1905...

And we're just getting started!

If you expect to get a hit, you have to be at bat. Snyder civic leaders have gone to the plate numerous times. Not trip is a homerun. In 1969, Snyder leaders worked to locate a State School for retarded children. Making the presentation for Snyder were Chamber President John Boren, Supt. Robert Clinton and Chamber Manager Woody Forrester. When Snyder goes to bat the next time, you can count of Snyder National Bank.

Since 1905, Snyder National Bank has played a vital role in the progress of Snyder and Scurry County. But we've just begun, and the future of our area looks bright...

When something has to be accomplished in Snyder, you can always count on SNB. For more than 84 years, our people have rolled up their sleeves and gone to work. Service is what SNB is all about. We want you to be a part of the Snyder National Bank family.

Early in the year you are likely to be luckier in situations where you can operate free from partnership entanglements. However, the reverse could be true in the second half of this cycle.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership arrangements aren't likely to work out too well for you today, because you and your counterpart may be too self-serving and singular. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're watching your waistline at this time, guard against overindulgence today. Remember, unattractive bulges are the fines we pay for exceeding the feed limit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to stay out of competitive involvements today, especially those that have a direct effect upon your work or career. Lady Luck might look the other way when you need her.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Braggarts are the type of people you usually find unappealing. Be careful today that you don't give friends reasons to think you fit into this category.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unless you truly know what you are doing, be very cautious about managing things for others today. Your bungling could exceed your good intentions.

Students impressed by governor

OAK PARK, Mich. (AP) — Gov. James Blanchard didn't know Lake Erie is the warmest of the Great Lakes. And he was off a few hundred years in his estimate of when the first European explorers found the lakes.

But the kids at Avery Elementary School didn't mind. They had other questions for Blanchard on Great Lakes Education Day.

The 19 fourth-graders were most impressed Thursday when the 46-year-old governor recounted his first experience with the 700-foot-high Sleeping Bear Dunes along Lake Michigan.

"My mother said, 'Don't run down the hill ... you'll break your neck,'" the governor said.

Senate finances revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen sold off stock worth more than $1 million after opening his blind trust and accepted gifts of blankets and jewelry from the Navajo Nation while campaigning for vice president, according to 1988 financial disclosure reports released Friday.

Texas' junior senator, Republican Phil Gramm, accepted $33,000 in speaking fees last year and $140 for writing an article for Reader's Digest, according to his financial disclosure report.

Gramm also was reimbursed for air travel for 65 separately listed trips, including one to Israel with his wife, Wendy. But most of his travel was spent criss-crossing Texas campaigning for Republican candidates and out of state for other GOP hopefuls.

Neither senator relied solely on his $89,500 Senate salary last year.

Sources of Bentsen's income ranged from the sale of cattle from his Bellfield Farm on Virginia's Shenandoah River to mineral deeds and revenue bonds.

Gramm's outside income came from seven rental houses in Bryan-College Station, honoraria and interest.

Gramm accepted gifts valued at $400 — $240 in steaks from a Dallas couple — Mr. and Mrs. Steve Spiritas, and a $160 clock from the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce.

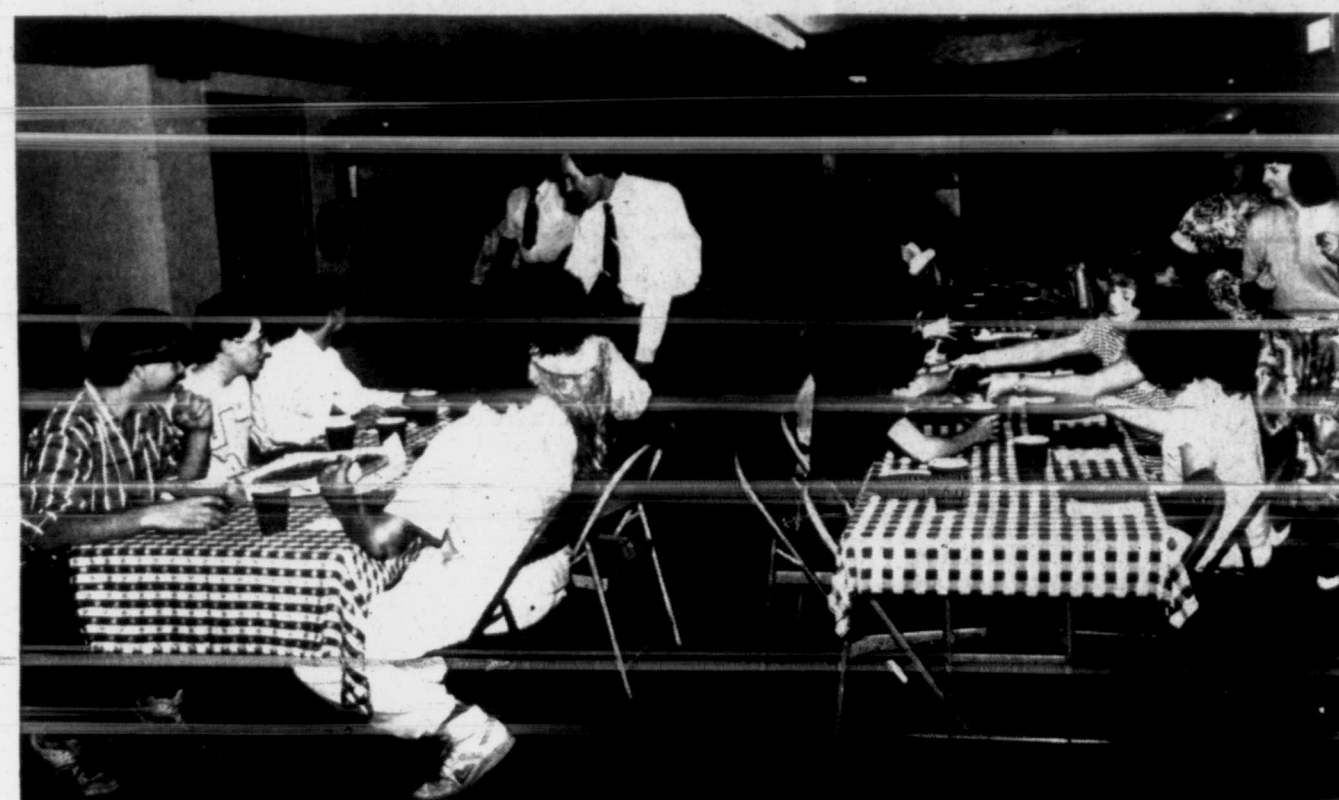

Bentsen, who was the Democratic candidate for vice president, accepted a $785 silver and turquoise bolo tie from the Navajo Nation in Shiprock, N.M., as well as two Navajo blankets worth $990. Bentsen's only other gift was a $675 Boehme "Yellow Rose" from the Texas Mental Health Association.

Unlike Bentsen, who has a long-standing policy of not accepting honoraria, Gramm took home close to the $35,800 maximum allowed under Senate rules.

Gramm's 18 speaking engagements included appearances before AT&T, the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Texas Cattle Feeders Association and the Texas Pest Control Association.

Gramm and his wife, the chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, also went to Israel on a trip paid for by the Anti-Defamation League of Dallas.

The Republican said he traveled to Tulsa and Oklahoma City on a trip reimbursed by MAPCO (Mid-Atlantic Pipe Co.), and to Los Angeles on a trip paid for by the National Rifle Association's Institute for Legislative Action.

JFK Jr. receives law degree from New York University

NEW YORK (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. got his law degree Friday from New York University.

“I'm very happy it's over,” Kennedy said as he posed for photographs with his mother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, and his sister, Caroline Kennedy Schlossberg.

Kennedy, 28, was among 713 graduates honored during a ceremony at the Felt Forum. Asked how he would celebrate, he replied with a grin, “I can't tell you that.”

His 30-year-old sister graduated from Columbia University Law School last year and was notified earlier this month that she passed the state bar examination on her first try.

In 1962, the Caribbean nation of Trinidad and Tobago became independent within the British Commonwealth.

Senate adopts workers' comp changes

AUSTIN (AP) — After more than 4½ hours of debate Friday, a divisive committee of the full Senate adopted a workers' compensation overhaul that business groups have rejected.

Meeting as a committee, the Senate approved sweeping changes to the system of compensating workers who are injured in job-related accidents by a 16-12 vote.

The committee of the Senate then voted 20-8 to send the bill to the Senate floor for formal consideration and another vote, which will occur Monday.

Senators opposed to the plan said it would cause a special legislative session, but Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he believed differences between the bill and one passed earlier by the House could be resolved.

"I don't see any reason why things can't be worked out," Hobby said.

The issue of changing the workers' comp system has proven to be one of the most controversial of the session, which ends May 29.

Business claims high jury awards to injured workers are driving up the cost of employer-paid workers' comp premiums. But labor groups and lawyers who represent injured workers say unsafe working conditions are to blame.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-rockwall, introduced the Senate proposal, saying, "The bill itself covers a broad variety of interests. No one is 100 percent happy with this bill."

Hobby, presiding officer of the Senate, in an unusual move placed his name on the bill that was forged in closed-door negotiations over the past several days.

Leading business representatives ripped the measure as a dressed-up version of current law, and complained they had been excluded from the behind the scenes negotiations.

"It's just the same old broken wagon with a few ribbons attached to it," said Jack Garey, of Austin, who owns Garey Construction.

The business groups wholeheartedly support the House bill, but said they favored a Senate subcommittee bill by Sen. Bob Glasgow, over the one approved Friday.

Five Tigers named all-district 4-4A

Snyder High School placed five players on the 1989 4-4A All-District Baseball Team, released today.

Two others were honorable mention, said Coach Albert Lewis, who was chosen as Coach of the Year along with Andrews' Joe Holsey and Fort Stockton's Fredonda Hernandez. Catcher Tracy Odom, second baseman Jason West, third baseman Randy Morris and pitchers Lee Fletcher and Kevin Dollins were named to the First Team. Honorable mention choices were short stop Bert Otto and outfielder Tommy Lane.

Odom, who finished second in the Most Valuable Player voting to Fort Stockton pitcher Aaron Ramirez, had a hot, .460 bat and drove in 16 runs during district play.

Fletcher went 3-3 with one save in the 4-4A and had an ERA of 1.65. Dollins was 4-1 with a 3.09 ERA.

Odom, Fletcher and Dollins were senior members of the Tiger ballclub, which tied Fort Stockton and Andrews for the district championship and finished the season with an 18-9 mark.

West and Morris are juniors and will return to help the Tiger cause in 1990. West hit .308 with 16 RBI while Morris led the Tigers with a .522 mark. He had 17 RBI and a home run.

Otto, another Tiger senior, hit .318 with seven RBI. He started at short stop for Snyder, but was called on several times to pitch also.

Lane, a junior, hit .318 with 15 RBI and a homer.

Fort Stockton's Ramirez fashioned a 5-1 record while helping the Panthers to a berth in the post season playoffs. The senior talent also hit .303 from the plate.

Jason Graham of Andrews shared First Team honors with Odom at catcher while Marvin Rubio of Big Spring was a co-all-district choice at second base along with West.

Big Spring's Chris Crownover was the all-district first baseman and Ricky Morris of Andrews - a cousin of Snyder's Randy Morris - was selected as the league's top short stop.

Outfielders were three-time all-loop choice David Emiliano of Andrews, Noel Porras of Monahans and Kenneth Norman of Sweetwater.

Pitchers included Fletcher, Dollins, Cruz Abila of Pecos, Jesse Armendariz and Brent Leffingwell of Andrews, Tim Gutierrez and Neil Mayfield of Big Spring and Freddy Jimenez of Monahans.

The DH was Andrews' Sidney Mihecoy, who hit .333 with 17 RBI and two home runs.

Aggies drill Horns in SWC tournament

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Texas A&M hitters - Eric Albright in particular - are regaining their confidence, and it's taking its toll on opposing pitchers at the Southwest Conference baseball tournament.

Albright drove in seven runs with a grand slam and a three-run home run as the Aggies defeated Texas 15-6 Friday in a winner's bracket game. Earlier Friday, Arkansas eliminated Houston by virtue of a 5-4 decision.

"I hit it well enough to know that it was out as soon as I hit it," Albright said of his first inning grand slam. "We're just starting to hit the ball the way we did at the start of the year."

Top-ranked Texas A&M, 54-5, advanced to Saturday night's tournament championship game for the second consecutive year. Texas and Arkansas were scheduled to square off in an elimination game earlier in the day for the right to meet the Aggies. Either team would have to defeat Texas A&M twice to take the title.

The Aggies entered Friday's game 0-7 against the Longhorns in tournament competition. It also marked the first time since 1967 the Aggies have won three games in a season against the Longhorns. A&M took two of three games during the regular season.

"We have our confidence back at the plate," said Aggies coach

Mark Johnson, whose team defeated Houston 15-3 on Thursday. "I don't think you can say that we are peaking in two games. You always like to see things start happening at this time of the year."

The Aggies scored four runs each in the first, third and sixth innings. Andy Duke, batting immediately behind Albright, drove in five runs with a pair of doubles, and John Byington added a home run.

Keith Langston, 12-0, pitched into the sixth inning for the victory.

The Yankees got a triple from Chris Mills, two singles from Colt Carthel and one single from Timmy Clark.

Athletics 9, White Sox 8

The Athletics wrapped up the first-half Little League crown by rallying from behind to defeat the White Sox on Friday.

The A's, 7-0, scored four sixth-inning runs to defeat the Sox. Lee Idom splaed a triple and a single and Reagan Key added a triple for the A's as Lionel Aviles grabbed WP honors. Jason Jack and Jason York notched one single each.

Nathan Zalman slammed a home run and a triple to aid the losing cause while Bubba Hildebrand punched three singles. Also hitting were Curt Rinehart with two singles and Jeremiah Johnson, Matt Parker and Reese Grimmer with one apiece.

Hereford outlasts Panthers; Mustangs tumble to Estacado

Hereford's highly-touted Herd got the win they expected, but it wasn't as easy as the final, 8-4 score would seem.

Hereford, 23-2-1 now, erased District 4-4A representative Fort Stockton in a single-game series to advance past the first round of the Class 4A state baseball playoffs.

The Herd fashioned a 4-0 advantage in the first inning and appeared as if they might run over the Panthers, who came into the game with a 14-9 record. But Fort Stockton rallied back, scoring two runs in the bottom of the first and two more in the fourth to tie the game at 4-4. The Panthers put runners at second and third on two occasions with just one out, but couldn't get another run.

Hereford went back in front in the sixth, 5-4, then broke the game open with three seventh-inning runs.

Aaron Ramirez, 7-3, took the loss. Jason Scott, 13-0, was the winner.

District 4-4A's other playoff representative, Andrews, also went down in defeat Friday night. The Mustangs had lost the first game of the best-of-three series with Lubbock Estacado 7-6 on Tuesday, but came back behind Jessie Armendariz's three-hitter to blank Estacado 4-0. The rubber match belonged to the Matadors, however, who overcame a 1-0 first-inning deficit to defeat AHS 5-2.

The key was a Clyde Boyd three-run triple in the fourth inning which snapped a string of 10 scoreless innings for the Mats.

Brent Leffingwell, 6-5, was the loser. Ruth, 9-1, picked up the win.

Andrews' season ends at 20-9. The Matadors, 21-7, will advance to meet either Crowley or Leander. Hereford will take on Brownwood or Everman. Both of those series were to wind up Saturday.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm losing hair very fast and would appreciate any help you can give. I'm only 31.

DEAR READER: Hair loss can be due to scalp disease, such as seborrhea or psoriasis. It can also be genetic. In particular, many young men who note — with alarm — thinning hair at their temples and on top have an inherited tendency to hair loss.

Many scalp conditions can be treated successfully by dermatologists, thereby arresting hair loss. In the past, male-pattern genetic baldness was untreatable, except by hair transplants, the results of which were inconsistent. Now there is real hope for people who are growing prematurely bald: Rogaine (minoxidil) topical solution, a prescription drug, has been proved effective in restoring hair growth, when used strictly according to the manufacturer's directions. Ask your doctor about this new product.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What are the effects of the drug called bromocriptine?

DEAR READER: Bromocriptine (Parlodel) is a drug used for several different conditions, including infertility, amenorrhea (lack of menstrual periods), prevention of lactation and some forms of Parkinson's disease.

The medicine acts by enhancing the body's production of dopamine, a nerve hormone, which controls lactation (and, secondarily, menstruation); Parlodel stimulates dopamine receptors in the brain (thereby reducing the tremor of Parkinson's disease).

The drug has many side effects, including nausea, headache, dizziness, fatigue, cramps, constipation and drowsiness. Occasional patients may experience low blood pressure, hallucinations, trouble walking and circulatory disturbances.

Parlodel is a useful drug but its administration should be carefully monitored by appropriate medical specialists.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband died at 74 from supranuclear palsy. Can you tell me at what stage of life it starts? Does heredity have anything to do with the palsy?

DEAR READER: Progressive supranuclear palsy (Steele-Richardson-Olszewski syndrome) is a rare neurological disorder of unknown cause that begins in late middle age and is marked by loss of voluntary eye movements; eye reflexes — such as pupillary constriction from bright light — are preserved. The syndrome is associated with progressive muscullar rigidity and dementia. It is not hereditary. Treatment is generally unsatisfactory.

However, sometimes anti-Parkinson-disease drugs can help maintain independence by decreasing rigidity.

As doctors experience more difficulty in squeezing out their share of the health dollar, they have developed innovative methods of increasing their incomes, without direct patient contact. Some of these methods involve investing in medical laboratories or X-ray facilities. Such investments are, by and large, acceptable, ethical and appropriate — in theory.

However, since doctor-owners would naturally wish to refer patients to their own labs, a troublesome conflict of interest arises.

This conflict was addressed by staff writer Claire Spiegel in the Feb. 17 Los Angeles Times. Because doctors profit from their referrals, the ethical questions stemming from doctor lab-ownership have sparked a vitriolic debate in California, according to Spiegel. Is a physician who stands to make money from lab tests likely to be parsimonious in ordering them? Will he be willing to lose income by sending patients to a cheaper, more sophisticated but competitive facility down the block? Will the doctor's primary loyalty be to a hospital lab or commercial establishment in which he has no financial interest?

Based on evidence gathered by the Times, the answer to these questions is "no."

Dr. Robert Benson, a radiologist at the Woodbridge Medical Center in Irvine, Calif., is burned up at fellow physicians who are now referring patients to a new doctor-owned imaging center near Woodbridge. "I used to believe that if you gave good service, had lower fees and provided TLC (tender loving care) to doctors and patients, you'd do fine. But I see now that money is thicker than blood. It's unbelievable," he said. This criticism was echoed by Dr. Arnold Reiman, editor of the New England Journal of Medicine, who believes that this practice is "wrong, unethical and not in the public interest. Basically, we're talking about a kickback or a bribe that has so far avoided existing regulations."

Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., introduced Federal legislation that would bar physicians from sending their medical patients to labs that the doctors own. This legislation is opposed by the American Medical Association; the organization has stated that it's unfair to prevent doctors from investing in projects they know best. However, Stark and other critics pointed out that "because doctors control patient referrals, they can lock up the market and drive independent providers out of business." In addition to labs and X-ray facilities, physicians are busy investing in physical therapy centers, sports medicine clinics, medical-equipment supply houses and home health care services.

Based on a recent survey, the AMA concluded that, nationally, 6 percent of doctors own and refer patients to their private out-patient facilities, compared to 12 percent in California, Arizona and Florida. In the main, these services are perceived as being over-used and more expensive than non-doctor-owned facilities. Nonetheless, supporters claim they have a right to invest in any appropriate venture they choose, providing the doctor-owners disclose their financial interests to patients.

While detractors insist that MD-owned ancillary health services jeopardize patient care and increase medical costs by undercutting honest competition, no one seems to know what to do about the lucrative epidemic that is sweeping the country. The debate rages, without a constructive solution in sight.

For my part, I think it's a tempest in a teapot.

Physician-owned labs and clinics should be — and are — governed under the same regulations that apply to similar commercial facilities. If a doctor chooses to invest in one, so what? If the facility is non-competitive because of high fees, sooner or later it will come into line or fail. Also, patients can be educated to become more sophisticated judges of medical care and expenses. Are the legislators proposing to ban doctors who own stock in drug companies from prescribing medicine made by those companies? What about doctor-owned hospitals and office buildings?

Sure, there are doctors who will take unfair advantage of the system; they should be prosecuted. However, I don't buy the argument that doctor-owned facilities are unethical, as long as the patients are informed of the financial arrangement and the facilities are properly licensed. What we may need today is a little more free-market flexibility in a profession that often seems to be losing its way in a maze of sanctions, regulations and restrictions.

'L. A. Law's' big secret out: Markowitzes are expecting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The people at NBC's "L.A. Law" kept it secret.

But Ann Kelsey couldn't resist letting it out Thursday night in the final show of the season: She's pregnant.

Kelsey is the lawyer played by Jill Eikenberry on the hit drama series. She tried everything with her husband, fellow lawyer Stuart Markowitz, played by her real-life husband, Michael Tucker, to have a baby.

They took their temperatures. They made love in the office. Nothing worked. Finally, in January, the couple adopted a baby daughter.

The pregnancy announcement, kept a secret by NBC and 20th Century Fox Television, came at the end of the Thursday show.

Kelsey and Markowitz were at the annual party given by their law firm, McKenzie, Brackman, Chaney and Kuzak. She was suffering a little nausea and wanted to go home. Since the flu had been going around the office, she told her husband to say she had the flu.

But as she started to leave, Kelsey couldn't hold it back. She announced her pregnancy.

In real life, Eikenberry and Tucker have two children.

Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin, the first man to orbit the Earth, died in 1968 in a plane crash.

The first long-distance telephone call was made in 1884, between Boston and New York.

Financial Focus

The year was 1924. America was in the midst of an economic heyday that began three years earlier and would continue unrestrained until 1929. It was an era of energy and extremes. It was the year America's first mutual funds were introduced in Boston.

Today, 64 years later, the mutual-fund industry is responsible for more than $800 billion and influences the financial future of 27 million investors.

Here's a thumbnail history of the management group that started the first mutual fund. They're still very much in the investment business with $23 billion currently under management for 1.3 million mutual-fund and annuity/life-insurance owners.

The going wasn't always easy, but the managers, dedicated to a philosophy of provided long-term conservative investment management to their shareholders, not only survived but prospered.

The first mutual fund began amid the speculative frenzy of the 1920's. Within five years the Great Depression had crippled the economy, and the new fund faced its first and most severe test. No one escaped the market collapse, but the fund with $14.5 million in net assets in 1929 saw those assets rise to $30.8 million at the height of the Depression in 1934.

During the 1930's, the fund continued its concept of management by diversification. They also saw the need to expand investments to include not only common stocks but also cash and fixed-income securities.

In 1932, they established the first in-house investment research department testifying to the need for strong fundamental research and analysis.

The mutual-fund industry played a major role in much of the security legislation of the 1930's and 1940's. During a period when most businesses preferred to disclose as little as possible about their operations, mutual funds fostered an "open-book" policy of their activities. Full disclosure later became part of the securities law that all mutual funds follow.

Favorable taxation of mutual funds was fought for by the mutual-fund industry. Today, not only are shareholders relieved of much extra and unfair taxation but mutual funds are a more viable investment because of it.

Sixty-four years is not an overly impressive period of time in the overall course of history. However, during that time a tremendous amount has happened in the nation. Legendary, larger-than-life personalities, such as Charles Lindbergh, Red Grange, Babe Ruth, Louis Armstrong, Amelia Earhart, F. Scott Fitzgerald and many more — have influenced the way we live.

Mutual funds have influenced the way we invest. Today, with more than 2,000 mutual funds and more than $800 billion in assets, the mutual-fund industry is one of the largest sources of investment dollars for America's corporations and offers the markets a major means of liquidity.

That's an impressive record for an industry whose first fund began in Boston in 1924 only 64 years ago.

Matamoros slayings...

Suspects: police tortured us for confessions

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Four suspects charged in connection with 13 cult slayings in Matamoros say they were tortured by Mexican authorities into signing incriminating confessions to the crimes.

Cesar Ceballos Blanco, an attorney representing one of the four defendants, is petitioning a state court in nearby Reynosa to throw out the confessions.

"The complaint says that the judge (in Matamoros) violated the laws ... by giving any validity to these (the four men's statements)," Ceballos told The Dallas Morning News. "They (the statements) are in doubt."

Ceballos said his client, Sergio Martinez Salinas, 23, and the three other suspects deny any knowledge of the slayings or burial of the victims. Only Elio Hernandez Rivera, 22, has admitted being part of the black-magic cult believed responsible for the deaths, he said.

Ceballos and a Matamoros physician who examined them say the men have been tortured with electric prods, beaten and had their heads placed in plastic bags until they lost consciousness.

Ceballos, who is Martinez's uncle, said Martinez had a plastic bag wrapped around his head and bound at the neck seven times, until he lost consciousness from lack of oxygen. The attorney said one of Martinez' eardrums burst during one such incident.

Dr. Paulina Vela Esquivel, a professor of medicine at the University Autonoma of Tamaulipas, in Matamoros, visited the men in jail and took photographs of them earlier this month. She said Hernandez had broken capillaries in his left eye that are consistent with oxygen deprivation.

Ms. Vela said another defendant showed fading signs of bruises on his back and upper chest and apparently had suffered some broken ribs. Others had tiny red marks resembling pimples on their back and ears that resulted from electric shocks, she said.

But a Federal Judicial Police officer in Matamoros said the men's claims are "lies."

"Of course they're going to deny they ever said that," said the officer, who declined to give her name in a telephone interview with The Morning News.

Ms. Vela said torturing prisoners is against Mexican federal law and against the law of the state of Tamaulipas. Yet, she said, prisoners are beaten "frequently here in Matamoros."

The four men — Martinez; Hernandez; Serafin Hernandez Garcia, 22; and David Serna Valdez, 23 — were arrested April 11 after Mexican authorities found the mutilated bodies of 13 men and boys buried at El Rancho Santa Elena near Matamoros. The ranch is owned by the Hernandez family, described by local authorities as involved in drug smuggling.

Although the four men were paraded before reporters on April 12, Ceballos said none asked the men if they had been tortured or if they could show evidence of torture.

Two more bodies were found buried April 16 at a second ranch nearby, but they are believed to have been killed in retaliation for a drug deal gone bad.

Mexico City officials moved in on the alleged leader of the cult May 6, but found Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo and his right-hand man, Martin Quintana Rodriguez, had been slain by his own followers. Cult members said Constanzo ordered his own execution as police exchanged gunfire with them. Authorities are investigating nine slayings in Mexico City believed linked to the cult.

In a related development, the commander of the federal police's Matamoros office, Juan Benitez Ayala, said this week that one agent, Salvador Vidal Garcia of Mexico City, has been charged with involvement in the slayings.

Benitez told The Brownsville Herald that cult members in Mexico City had identified the agent as one of the cult's priests who was involved in drug trafficking and killing people who knew of police involvement in the organization.

The four men arrested in Matamoros are being held at the state prison here. The prison warden, Crispin Castillo Silva, has turned down interview requests with the four men because the prison has no areas that provide adequate security.

In Brownsville, Texas, a fifth defendant, Serafin Hernandez, 45, the father of the younger Serafin held in Matamoros, is being held at the Cameron County Jail on drug charges. His public defender, Felix Recio, this week filed a motion for a gag order in an effort to prevent those involved from discussing the case.

Demonstrations banned in Panama until at least June 5

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The government Saturday prohibited street demonstrations in Panama until at least June 5.

The Ministry of Government and Justice issued a communique saying the prohibition was imposed in response to the visit next week by delegates from the Organization of American States, or OAS.

The move came after Panama accused the U.S. Embassy of involvement in post-election violence earlier this month that left three opposition leaders injured and one of their bodyguards dead.

The foreign ministers of Ecuador, Guatemala and Trinidad and Tobago, accompanied by OAS Secretary-General Joao Baena Soares, are due in Panama on Tuesday. They will try to promote resolution of Panama's 15-month-old crisis.

The OAS on Wednesday approved a resolution critical of Panama's de facto leader, Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, whom it held responsible for "abuses."

International observers say opposition candidates were winning the national election on May 7 when the government annulled the results. Since then, there has been no decision on how to select a replacement for acting President Manuel Solis Palma, whose term ends Sept. 1.

The government said the prohibition of marches, rallies and demonstrations is in response to the clause in the OAS resolution calling on "the authorities and all political forces in Panama to abstain from any measure or action that could aggravate the crisis."

The government communique said the prohibition will remain in effect until the three foreign ministers present their report on the Panamanian situation at OAS headquarters in Washington. The OAS gave them until June 5 to do so.

Late Friday, U.S. Embassy spokesman Terry Kneebone, responding to a government communique, said the attempt to link the U.S. government to the election-related violence was "propaganda foolishness."

Police arrested 17 Panamanians who provide security at U.S. Embassy offices, the embassy reported Friday. Fifteen were quickly released, embassy officials said.

The government said the guards were questioned as part of an investigation into violence May 10, three days after the national election.

Senate votes to overhaul system

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate passed a sweeping overhaul of the Texas criminal justice system Friday, with the bill's sponsor saying it addresses prison overcrowding that has stacked up state inmates in county jails.

"There's no doubt it's probably the most singly significant change that has ever been made in all aspects of supervision, institutionalization, sentencing alternatives," said Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington.

"For the first time, (it) creates a partnership between local communities and the state as we try to commonly address the criminal justice problem," said McFarland, whose bill won 31-0 approval.

The measure now goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments. McFarland said he believed both the House and Gov. Bill Clements eventually would OK the measure.

With the 11,000 new prison beds called for in the bill added to previously authorized construction plans, the state's prison system will top 60,000 beds by early 1993.

"It will push our prison capacity to in excess of 60,000 beds, which will make us the second-largest prison system in the entire free world," McFarland said.

McFarland also voiced the hope that the overhaul would finally enable the state to free itself from federal court control. U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice took over the state prison system after a 1970s lawsuit filed by inmate David Ruiz.

"I'm hopeful that this may, indeed, be the tool by which we finally can extricate ourselves from Ruiz ... and ultimately become the most comprehensive community-based criminal justice program in the United States," McFarland said.

Besides building 11,000 more prison beds, the bill would add 7,000 new community-based facility beds.

It would merge the functions of three criminal justice agencies — the prison-operating Texas Department of Corrections, the parole board and the probation commission — into a single Department of Criminal Justice.

The measure would pump new money into community-based programs and create local criminal justice councils to recommend programs — such as "boot camps" for youthful offenders — to district court judges.

Based on such plans, and a county's allotment of beds in the state prison system, grants-in-aid would provide additional funds to the various counties.

"I think it creates a community partnership for the first time between the state and local government in addressing both reform of the criminal justice system and in the responsibility for housing inmates and providing alternate sanctions to incarceration," McFarland said.

The bill would give a judge the discretion to permit a criminal sentenced to a county jail to serve that sentence in off-work hours or on weekends. It allows a defendant to serve a term in a work-release program if he didn't cause serious bodily injury or death.

The measure also permits issuing $200 million more in bonds for prison construction, pending voter approval.

A number of Texas counties, whose officials are angry at the backlog of state prison-bound convicts forced by overcrowding to remain in their county jails, have sued the state.

McFarland said he also had asked counties involved in that suit to suspend the legal action for two years so the programs contained in the bill could be implemented.

Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, described the bill passed Friday as "the most difficult piece of legislation to write that's come through the Senate this session."

But he said it is needed.

"The most costly thing that's facing us in the state of Texas is the criminal justice system. This bill is the vehicle by which we think we can straighten out the criminal justice system," Glasgow said.

A spokesman for the governor, press secretary Reggie Bashur, said Clements would wait to see the final version of the legislation.

However, Bashur said, Clements "strongly supports a comprehensive criminal justice reform package, one that will increase significantly state prison space. At this point, we are watching it (the bill) closely."

BEIJING (AP) — Police beat 45 students Saturday as citizens demanding democratic reform and the resignation of Premier Li Peng poured into Tiananmen Square by the thousands to defy a martial law decree.

In the most violent confrontation since pro-democracy demonstrations began nearly five weeks ago, students said about 150 armed police attacked students with electric cattle prods on a road in western Beijing.

Zhu Bin, a student at the Beijing No. 2 Languages Institute, said the students were blocking 20 military troop trucks from advancing down the road when the police appeared and began the attack.

"They attacked the girls first. We tried to protect them and they hit us too," he said. Zhu, who showed bruises on his shoulder from the attack, said 45 were hospitalized.

(ABC-TV's Nightline quoted witnesses as saying police also beat students in a confrontation at Tiananmen Square.)

"Down with martial law!" became the new rallying cry as students called for the resignation of Li. Supporters of the students arrived by bicycle, in the back of flatbed trucks and on foot.

It was the first time martial law was declared in Beijing since Communist China was founded in 1949. Beijing becomes the second city under martial law. Lhasa, capital of Tibet, has been under martial law since March after anti-Chinese riots.

Army troops moved into the capital late Friday and early today but were stopped by thousands of citizens who clogged the roads, climbed over their trucks and pleaded with them not to attack.

"We are people and you are people! Why do you have no feelings?" one demonstrator shouted at the troopers.

Military helicopters made repeated low runs over the city, a rare sight in this city of 10 million residents.

Three tanks just south of the square were being blocked by buses deliberately placed across the road today by protesters.

Protests also have been reported in at least 20 other cities, including Shanghai, China's largest city with 12 million residents.

In Shanghai Saturday, a banner in a protest that had massed about 400,000 students and workers downtown and along the waterfront read: "You've got millions of soldiers — we've got 1.1 billion people."

Washington late Friday urged China to use restraint in dealing with the demonstrators and called a government announcement of a news blackout "disturbing."

The Dutch government meanwhile canceled a visit to China by Queen Beatrix. The state visit, scheduled for May 24-30, had come under heavy fire from critics who warned her safety could not be ensured and said the trip would be seen as a token of support for China's rulers.

Martial law took effect this morning in eight districts of the capital, China Central Television said.

The zone included Tiananmen Square, the symbolic center of China, where hundreds of thousands of protesters, including about 3,000 student hunger strikers, have been encamped the past week.

"Tiananmen is supposed to be under martial law, but it's under student law," said a woman enrolled at Northern Communication College.

The regulations included strict limits on the activities of foreign reporters and photographers covering the protests, and U.S. television networks were ordered to halt transmissions from Beijing. Normal transmission wires of The Associated Press were cut for several hours this morning.

The crisis over China's most serious popular unrest in 40 years of communist rule also led to the resignation of Communist Party General Secretary Zhao Ziyang.

Divorce proceedings end amicably

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Divorce proceedings that started out nasty ended quietly for New Orleans jazz trumpeter Al Hirt and his third wife, Zide Jahncke Hirt.

State Civil District Judge Robin M. Giarrusso granted the divorce Thursday on grounds the two had lived apart for more than a year. The judge ruled the parties were "mutually at fault" for the breakup.

Mrs. Hirt, who has moved to California, sued for separation in October 1987, claiming Hirt beat and sexually attacked her. Hirt denied it, saying she hit him with a stick.

The two were married in March 1984. It was the fourth marriage for Mrs. Hirt.

One day long ago an industrious boy of 10 surveyed the 400 acres owned by the man he then worked for and promised himself that someday he would own such a spread for himself.

In 1924, this same "boy" had become a man about to turn 21 and newly arrived in Scurry County. Dewey Denson and his young bride had a baby son and 53 cents in his pocket, which he spent to buy milk for his boy.

At that point, he was broke but determined. In due time this enterprising man, who will be 89 on Oct. 2, pooled together all his resources, determination and "book learning" and began to carve a niche for himself and his family.

And in the process he kept the promise he had made as a boy to himself and as a young newlywed to his wife when he told her that he would build her a fine home one day if she would just stick with him through the lean times.

In the years which followed his arrival in Scurry County, Denson acquired land, financed the construction of many buildings during the oil boom days of the late 1940s and 1950s and invented a bug powder for chickens called Quick-Rid which he himself manufactured at his home south of Snyder near Dunn.

When Denson and his family first moved to this area, they lived for a short time in Jayton with his sister. Denson remembers gathering cotton scrappings and selling them for $40 which helped tide them over until he could get himself established.

At first, he recalled working on a ranch while living in Jayton. About this time, he also noticed that people were planting seeds and peas, prompting him to buy 2,000 peas for one cent each and to sell these for a profit in Sweetwater. Soon afterwards, a brother who lived in Dunn helped Denson rent his first farm near there.

Denson was farming when the stock market crash came during 1928 and he rode out the years of the Depression by farming as much as he could and expanding his operation to include a fresh produce wagon which he operated during the summer months for some two or three years.

During the 1930s, Denson said the county produced a lot of eggs and he "bought what he could and sold them throughout the area."

Denson also received a penny a pound for all the turkeys and chickens he gathered in the area. Later he sold them at the produce house.

During the Depression, Denson said he hired a man to work on his farm for six bits or 75 cents a day while he concentrated on Quick-Rid, the product which "put him on the market." He is proud of the fact that he could use his mind to "figure things out" and that he "could get someone else to do the work."

Denson's big break came during the 1930s when through "trial and error" he invented the bug powder for chickens. In the beginning, he experimented with different mixtures until he discovered the Quick-Rid formula. All his testing was through a lab in Fort Worth and eventually he arrived at the proper formula. Since Scurry County and the surrounding area raised a lot of eggs in the 1930s, this proved to be a wise move on his part.

Denson said he copyrighted the name Quick-Rid and paid a lawyer $25 a month to handle all problems such as copyright infringement. Someone was going to market a similar product using a similar name but he said his lawyer put a stop to that.

In the beginning, he said he and wife, Zana, put the bug powder in ½ gallon size cream cans and sold them for $2 a can. The powder was to be put on the chickens and Denson said that he and three other men began traveling throughout this area selling his new bug powder.

Denson maintained his own factory on his farm where Quick-Rid was made and he employed four women to bottle and label it while he traveled the area selling it.

Quick-Rid became very popular very fast because at that time no other bug powder for chickens was available. Denson said he eventually had trouble from people who were either determined to buy him out or to steal his formula from him.

To frustrate any such efforts, Denson made a worthless concoction which he called his "magic ingredient" and said no one could make Quick-Rid since they would not know how much of this ingredient to use.

With the invention of Quick-Rid, Denson formed the Denson Chemical Co. which manufactured Quick-Rid and other products. After the Depression, he even sold DDT which was then made in Switzerland, but was eventually banned in the U.S.

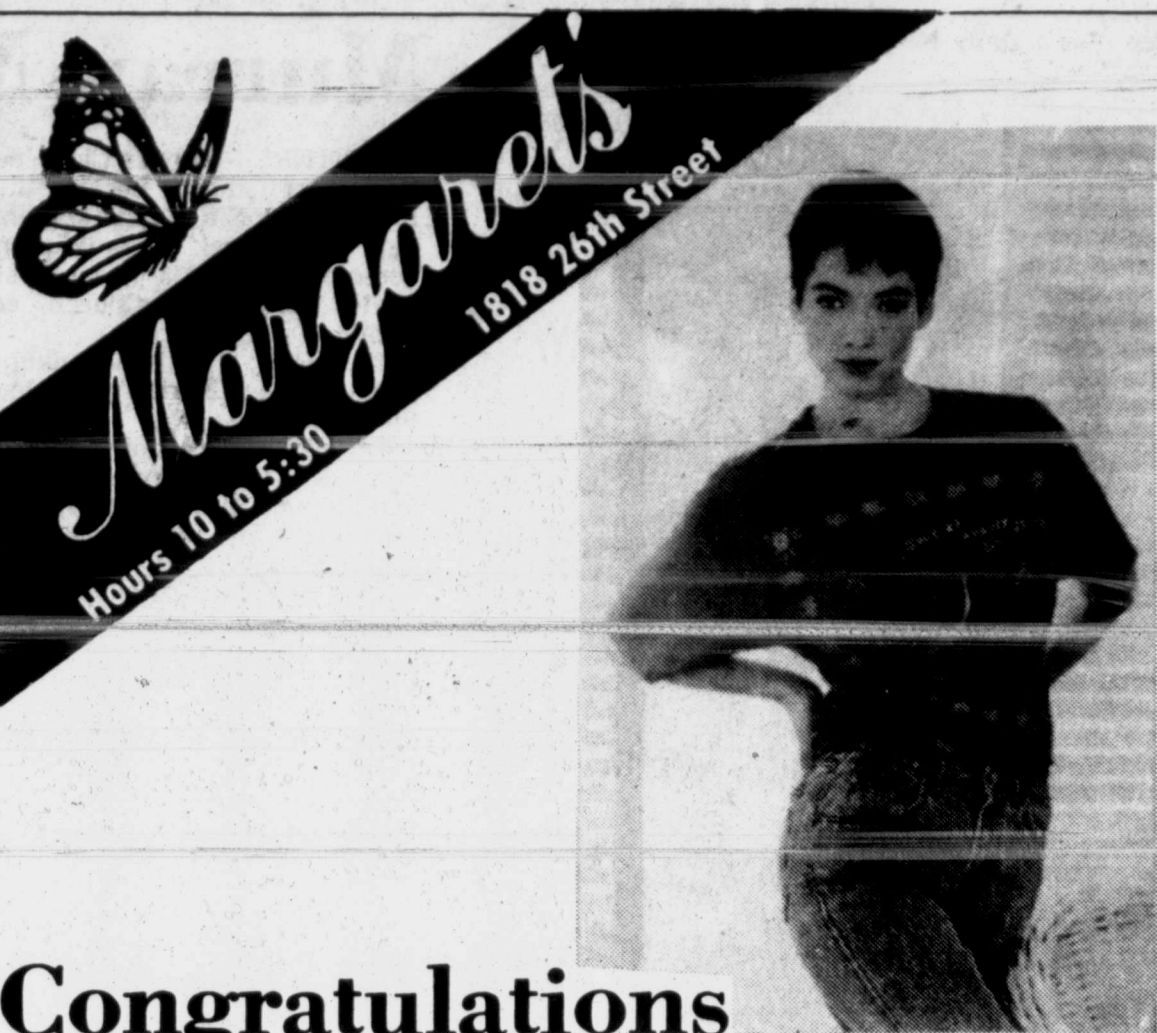

Denson said he was able to come up with the Quick-Rid formula because, even though he had not had a lot of education, he absorbed as much knowledge as he could from all the books he would read. And he studied medicine all of his life.

To this day, the octogenarian believes that "any young man can do what he sets his mind to if he will but try."

Denson continued to manufacture and sell Quick-Rid until 1975. He proudly says that Quick-Rid paid for the rock home which he promised he would build for his wife, Zana.

The rocks were gathered from throughout the area for a full year before construction began. He often found rocks he wanted to

LONG-TIME RESIDENT — Dewey Denson first came to Scurry County in 1924. All he had was a new wife and baby and 53 cents in his pocket. But within a few years he had either bought or leased some 1,800 acres in all, started his own chemical company which manufactured Quick-Rid (which he invented), built several new businesses in Snyder during its oil boom days and built a rock home in the 1940s which he still lives in today. (SDN Staff Photo)

Murray, Martin exchange nuptial vows

JUNE BRIDE — Helen Travis announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Melissa Marlene, to Freddie Don Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Howard. The ceremony is set at 2 p.m. June 10 in the Morningside Baptist Church. (Private Photo)

WINTERS — Tamela Charlene Murray of Lubbock became the bride of Stephen Wayne Martin, also of Lubbock, in a 2 p.m. ceremony March 18 in the First United Methodist Church of Winters.

The Rev. Travis Franklin, pastor of the church, officiated the double-ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. O.J. Murray of Winters and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martin of Lubbock. The groom is the grandson of Mrs. Grace Bryant and the late Frank Bryant of Ira.

The church was decorated with heart-shaped candelabra accented with peach roses, gladioli, astromeria and silver lilies. Arrangements of the same flowers decorated the altar. Pews were marked with peach bows and a bouquet of white and red roses honored the couple's grandparents.

Vocalist Nancy Evans sang "We Are One," "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist Susan Conner accompanied her and also provided wedding selections prior to the ceremony. The traditional "Wedding March" accompanied the bridal entrance.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of crystal organza and satin embroidered sposabella lace. The Basque bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline detailed with lace, pearls, bugle beads and iridescent sequins.

Long, puffed sleeves were also embellished to match the bodice. The full skirt with chapel-length train was detailed with lace inserts and a satin embroidered hem.

The bride's headpiece was a diamond-shaped lattice cap with pearls, iridescent sequins and satin embroidered flowers. The fingertip veil was accented by flowers and pearls.

The gown was designed by Mori Lee of New York and the veil was by Melvin Roseman of New York.

The bridal bouquet of cascading white roses was accented by stephanotis and touches of peach roses and silver ribbon. It was centered by a cameo pin, "something old," and a white orchid which also served as her going away corsage. The brother-in-law of the groom, and Bill Rogers of Lubbock, his cousin. Dustin Spekels of Glen Cove, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN WAYNE MARTIN

Ushers were Stacy Sanders of College Station and Jared Standler of Abilene. They also served as candlelighters.

The groom's attendants, ring bearer, ushers, and father of the bride wore silver shadow grey tuxedos with peach cummerbunds and bow ties accented with boutonnières of peach roses accented in silver.

The groom was attired in a full dress white shadow tuxedo with tails. A peach cummerbund and bow tie was accented by a boutonniere of a peach rose accented with small peach ribbon roses and English ivy.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered in peach and overlaid in white lace with silver trim. Each corner and center of the lace was caught up with a spray of peach baby's-breath and stephanotis accented with long streamers. The bridal bouquet centered the table.

A three-tiered bridal cake was decorated with peach flowers between each tier. At each corner small, heart-shaped cakes were attached with peach and white bows and long streamers. A Precious Moments bride and groom figurine topped the cake.

Peach mints made by the bride's mother were served. A crystal tray with a garland of peach roses, stephanotis and English ivy held the crystal punch bowl.

The groom's table was covered in white lace and held a doubling chocolate cake trimmed in chocolate-covered grapes. A brass coffee service set off the centerpiece of white love birds.

Following a honeymoon trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple plans to live in Dallas after college graduation exercises.

The bride majored in accounting at Texas Tech University and is presently employed with O'Neal Steel of Lubbock. Following graduation, she will be employed by Arthur Young in Dallas.

The groom majored in occupational therapy at Texas Tech and will do his intern work at Dallas Methodist Hospital. He has been employed with Charter Plains Hospital in Lubbock.

New homes aren't always better

BOUND BROOK, N.J. (AP) — Many home buyers assume a newer home will have fewer defects or problems than an older one.

Not necessarily, says Kenneth Austin, chairman of HouseMaster of America, which has inspected more than 100,000 homes nationwide. "A home's condition depends on its original construction work and the quality of maintenance it has received," Austin says.

Inferior workmanship standards and lower quality building materials in many newer homes can make a properly maintained older home preferable, he says.

As examples, he points to less substantial door and window frames used in newer houses. Hardwood floors, once a housing standard, are now largely replaced with plywood underlayment concealed by "free" carpeting.

Austin recommends a professional top-to-bottom evaluation of all components and systems in a house before buying.

Erosion Myth — The assumption that highly erodible soils are less productive than less erodible soils is incorrect according to a new USDA study.

Productivity on highly erodible soils and on erosively managed, moderately erodible soils is not significantly less than that on nonerodible and nonerosively managed moderately erodible soils.

The report is titled "Productivity and Erodibility of U.S. Cropland."

Conservation plans have been approved for 105.4 million acres, or 78% of the highly erodible cropland that will need compliance plans by the end of the year nationwide. Conservation systems have been installed on 29 million acres, 22% of the highly erodible acres.

About 1.4 million conservation plans are expected to be developed by the end of the year, up from 800,000 plans that were previously estimated to be needed. The increase is because many farmers are having plans developed on a tract basis, rather than for the whole farm unit.

This information is provided by a newsletter from the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Windstrips cannot be used as set-aside acres unless the terraces are specifically noted and marked in the conservation plan. If you have any questions or need any information, call the Soil Conservation Service at 573-1268 or go by the offices at 3423 Ave. T.

FEATURED THIS WEEK GREAT AMERICAN JOURNEYS.

In "Great American Journeys," four authors set out in the spirit of 19th century wayfarer Robert Louis Stevenson to discover the delights of travel.

Each writer chose a different mode of locomotion — foot and horse, boat, train, and automobile — and traced historic routes across the American land. Their reports and the accompanying photographs form a riveting mosaic of people and of places encountered on the way.

The delights and the joys of travel come alive in Great American Journeys. In these pages, the lure of the open road, the temptation to venture beyond the next bend, the desire to strike out for the distant horizon, all cast a potent spell.

La Leche League broadens

The La Leche League, founded as a support group for nursing mothers, is broadening its outreach to encompass all areas of parenting.

A member of the local chapter remembers her first meeting: "I was nervous about being a new mother and unsure about breastfeeding my baby. I really knew very little about nursing — I just wanted to try."

"I never took time to put together my philosophy of mothering, but I began to gain perspective on the importance of my job of raising another human being, setting my priorities and goals, and gathering the knowledge to become the mother I wanted to be. La Leche League helped me with all of this."

La Leche League International has become known as the world's foremost authority on breastfeeding and has existed for over 30 years. The league has information on meeting the needs of both the child and the family.

Nurturing is taught from prenatal care, childbirth, the psychological aspects of breastfeeding, child-care, loving discipline, family nutrition, building a child's self-esteem, dealing with sibling rivalry, on to educational opportunities.

The available information along with support to mothers makes the group valuable to mother, child and family long after breastfeeding know-how has been acquired.

La Leche League meetings are conducted by a trained and accredited volunteer leader. Publications are provided by the league and leaders provide telephone counseling.

The organization offers current research information about breastfeeding and since 1974, physicians have been able to obtain continuing medical education credits by attending LLL's Physicians' Seminars on breastfeeding.

There is more to breastfeeding a baby than nutrition. Mothers speak of the special bonding they have with their babies which continues through the child's life.

Approximately 60% of new mothers begin breastfeeding in the hospital, but may quit sooner than they would like or do not enjoy the experience. With correct information, almost any mother can successfully nurse her baby. Even mothers who work can breastfeed and enjoy the closeness of the experience.

The local chapter will hold its next meeting Tuesday in the TU Reddy Room at 2301 Ave. R at 7 p.m. For further details, call 573-7844.

The group welcomes those who are pregnant, presently nursing a baby, or anyone interested in vital information about parenting. Nursing babies are always welcome at meetings. Those in attendance are free to share ideas and concerns with other mothers.

Lasagne from a wok? We aren't kidding! It contains the same ingredients as classic lasagna: meat, lasagna noodles, sauce, cheese and herbs. Best of all, it's ready in just 20 minutes.

WOK LASAGNA

6 lasagna noodles, broken up (4 ounces)
1 cup cream-style cottage cheese
4 ounces soft-style cream cheese
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese (2 ounces)
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning
¾ pound lean ground beef
1 clove garlic, minced
One 15½-ounce jar spaghetti sauce with meat
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
In a large saucepan cook noodles in boiling water for 10 to 12 minutes or just until tender. Drain noodles and set aside. In a medium mixing bowl stir together cottage cheese, cream cheese, half the mozzarella, the ¼ cup Parmesan cheese and Italian seasoning. Set aside.

Preheat wok or large skillet over high heat. Break up meat. Stir-fry meat and garlic for 2 to 3 minutes or until meat is brown. Spoon off fat. Stir in spaghetti sauce and noodles. Spoon cottage cheese mixture over noodle mixture in wok. Sprinkle with remaining mozzarella and the 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Reduce heat. Cover and cook about 5 minutes or until heated through. Makes 4 servings.

USE GRASS CLIPPINGS IN COMPOST PILE

Mowing lawn generates grass clippings that are excellent for a compost pile.

Compost is a good source of organic matter for gardens and flower beds. Furthermore, composting is an excellent way to dispose of garden debris, leaves and similar plant materials.

Make the compost pile four to six feet wide and any length, depending on material and space available.

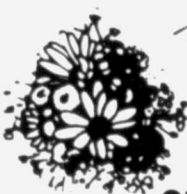

The simplest composting method is to alternate 4- to 6-inch layers of plant matter, such as leaves or grass, with two to four inches of good garden soil. Add manure to the soil layer if it's available, and sprinkle commercial fertilizer on each layer of plant matter to hasten decomposition. Use a cupful of fertilizer with a 1-1-1 ratio per 10 square feet.

The top layer of the compost pile should be soil and should form a basin to hold water. Water each layer of organic matter before adding the soil layer.

Water the pile thoroughly when completed, then add water as needed to keep the material moist but not soggy. Leaves decompose slowly if too dry.

Turn compost every three to four months to aerate the material and speed decomposition. Within six months to a year, it will be ready to use.

MRS. ANDREW WAYNE APPLE

Couple recites vows

BROWNWOOD — Melody Michelle Moore of Brownwood and Andrew Wayne Apple of Carrollton were united in matrimony at 12 noon May 20 in the First United Methodist Church of Brownwood. Joe Wilkerson, minister of the Austin Ave. Church of Christ of Brownwood, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are the late Dusty and Glenda Moore of Brownwood. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore of Snyder. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ron Apple of Carrollton.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with a large arrangement of white lilacs, mums, geraniums and liatris. Arched candelabra holding white tapers and votive candles flanked the altar and were decorated with cascading strands of English ivy. A unity candle completed the altar. Pews were marked with large, white bows.

Michael Moore of Graham, cousin of the bride, and Mary Grace Oehrlein of Brownwood lit the candles.

Dorothy McIntosh of Brownwood provided organ music for the occasion. Matt Apple of Carrollton, brother of the groom, sang "Just You and I." Ricky Kyker of Brownwood sang "Through the Eyes of Love" before the bride's entrance.

Given in marriage by Mitch Moore of Abilene, her brother, the bride wore a traditional white gown of silk organza enhanced with Alencon and Wedgewood laces. Fashioned in an A-line silhouette, the fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline embroidered in bridal pearls.

Full bishop sleeves highlighted with lace appliques were gathered to deep, lace-trimmed cuffs. A keyhole neckline of lace accented the back. The skirt was embellished with a double lace tier attached to crystal-pleated Wedgewood lace flounces on the train. A Dior bow graced the back at the waist.

A waist-length veil of illusion was dotted with pearls and fell from a forehead wreath clustered with pearls, crystals and silk flowers. A soft ruffle of illusion surrounded the back of the wreath. The veil was by Juliet. A cascade bouquet of pink roses, phalaenopsis, orchids and stephanotis completed the bride's attire.

Ann Moore of Graham, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Monique Cottle of Austin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy Hodgson of Austin, Barbara Willingham of Duncanville, Rachelle Collins of Abilene, Delisa Duecker of Fredericksburg, and Judy Kyker of Brownwood.

Heather Pfluger of Eden, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Ring bearer was Dustin Moore of Graham, cousin of the bride.

Andy Thacker of Houston was best man. Groomsmen were Matt Apple of Carrollton, brother of the groom; Mitch Moore of Abilene, brother of the bride; Ricky Kyker of Brownwood; Steve Schoonmaker of Austin; Tim Davis of Abilene; and Trent Davidson of Abilene.

Male attendants wore grey shadowweave tuxedos with mauve cummerbunds and bow ties.

Belinda Eidson of Abilene registered guests.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered in lace with pink skirting. Candelabra and bows accented the table. A four-tiered heart-shaped cake filled with Dutch apple cream was topped with a bride and groom figurine.

Serving were Carla Biehl of Early, Connie Spain of Abilene, Dianne Cantwell of Brownwood, Jayme Roy of Brownwood and Lea Ann Copeland of Early.

The groom's table matched the bride's and held a chocolate fudge cake with satin ganache decorated in English ivy and large chocolate curls.

Mike Smith of Brownwood and Sid Beebe of Abilene served.

Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will be at home in Garland.

The bride is a graduate of TSTI in Sweetwater and American Commercial College in Abilene.

The groom is a graduate of Abilene Christian University and will be employed with the Peat Marwick Accounting Firm of Dallas in June.

Torture victims are finding help

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — At a clinic in a small stucco house near the University of Minnesota, doctors make a point of wearing street clothes instead of white coats, and patient files are stored in a bank vault.

Medical instruments are kept out of sight, along with scissors and other sharp objects. A psychologist may counsel a patient one day and take him to the dentist the next; the whine of a drill or sight of a needle can cause terror.

This is a story about people whose personalities have been taken apart, piece by piece, and the people who try to put them back together. The stucco house with its mismatched furniture, colorful artwork and donated plants is the Center for Victims of Torture, the nation's most ambitious attempt to rehabilitate torture survivors.

The psychologists, doctors and others who work here face a distinct disadvantage: Torture is ancient, but this is a science still inventing itself. "We are designing the car while riding in it," Linda Valerian says.

Though still a long way from the research, training, treatment and education institute envisioned by a governor's task force, the private, non-profit center already is looked to for leadership by a dozen groups trying to launch similar programs in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Elizabeth, N.J. In June, representatives of each group will travel to Minneapolis for four days of workshops.

The conference will focus on treatment of trauma because medical research on torture survivors has yet to be done. The 10 doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers at the Minneapolis outpatient clinic have borrowed from the treatment of rape victims, Vietnam veterans and others.

Executive director Douglas Johnson thinks torture victims are more profoundly damaged by their experience. "If you were raped or mugged, you would still have some hope of rescue," he says. "But being tortured by your government means losing all recourse. There's a sense of abandonment to evil."

Nearly three-fourths of the center's clients suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder, the disease of combat soldiers, rape victims and earthquake survivors. Symptoms include nightmares, flashbacks, loss of memory, inability to concentrate, and uncontrollable outbursts of anger.

Hall of Famer Frank Frisch made 58 hits in 50 World Series games but none was a home run.

American Championships. East was skating free-style when he jumped to three diamonds, but that bid only propelled North-South into an aggressive game.

Terry won the ace of diamonds and led a spade to dummy's ace, noting with mild trepidation the fall of the queen. She played a low club to her 10. West won the king and could now set the contract if he led the eight, nine or jack of spades into the K-10, but he played a second diamond. Michaels ruffed, played ace and ruffed a club. When East could not overruff, West's distribution was clear. Declarer played king and ace of hearts (the finesse would not help) and ruffed another club. Now came another heart. East tried to win with the queen, but West, down only to trumps, had to ruff and lead into declarer's K-10 of spades. If you count Terry's tricks, they add to 10, her contract.

Lesson: Although declarer played well, she gave West a chance to upset her apple cart when she played a spade to the ace. If West plays a second spade after winning the king of clubs, declarer will fail. Instead, declarer should play a low club toward the jack at trick two. The contract will now always make, provided South first plays ace of spades before attempting club ruffs.

Potatoes rise to occasion

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

Potatoes have come up in the world. They've always been tasty; now we recognize them as healthful complex carbohydrates. And thanks to the microwave oven, they're fast, too. Here are some tips for the best microwave potatoes.

BAKED

— Buy the same mealy-type potatoes for microwave baking as you would for oven baking.

— Pierce scrubbed potatoes once on top and bottom to release steam that builds up during cooking. When a potato bursts, it may be due to overcooking, but it's more likely because of the build up of steam.

— Cook potatoes on a microwave-safe paper towel to absorb any excess moisture. This keeps potato skins from becoming soggy and makes cleanup easier.

— Cook potatoes on 100 percent power (high). Cooking time will vary depending on oven wattage, the size of the potatoes, and how many you cook.

— To test for doneness, hold the potato with a cloth or paper towel and press firmly. The potato should give only slightly under your fingers; the center should still feel firm.

— Let potatoes stand 2 minutes after removing from the oven. They continue cooking during that time. Cover with a terry cloth towel to hold in the heat but keep them from becoming soggy.

BOILED

— Sliced: Scrub a 6-ounce potato and cut into 1/8-inch slices. Place in microwave-safe dish with 1 tablespoon water. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) 4 to 5 minutes. Let stand 2 minutes.

— Cubed: Scrub a 6-ounce potato and cut into 1-inch cubes; place in microwave-safe dish. Cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) 5 to 7 minutes. Let stand 2 minutes.

— Add salt at end of cooking time to prevent surfaces from drying.

— When done, fork should pierce potatoes easily but potatoes should still be slightly firm. They should not break apart when pierced.

QUICK RECIPES

— Chop Sticks: Cook baking potatoes in the microwave just until tender. Cut into thin lengthwise wedges. Arrange on greased baking sheet. Brush with mixture of melted margarine or butter, soy sauce, minced garlic and hot pepper sauce. Bake in 400-degree F oven 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve as side dish or snack.

— Potatoes Romanoff: Cook baking potatoes in the microwave just until tender. Top with steamed broccoli flowerets and dollop with sour cream with onion dip.

— Tomato Potatoes: Cook baking potatoes in the microwave just until tender; cool slightly. Slice three-fourths of the way through at 1/2-inch intervals. Insert a thin tomato slice in each cut. Drizzle with bottled Italian dressing and sprinkle with sliced green onions. Serve at once.

By Donny Brown

You finally realize your children are no longer "babies" when they reach the same age as your earliest memories.

This effectively brings kiddoes out of the la-la land we adults relegate them to. The age of innocence is past because we can now compare their actions and intents, successes and failures with our own.

We would propose that no one remembers what it's like to be a toddler, a terrible two or, for that matter, a first grader.

You may have vague memories of these early years, but we suspect these snippets seen in your mind's eye are actually photographs rather than film.

In other words, most folks can't remember two days put together from early childhood through approximately the second grade.

Since our common comparison to early time involves "what grade were you in?" we'd estimate the third grade as a universal benchmark regarding how far our memories "go back."

When your own children reach this age, a circle of memory has been completed and it forever changes the way you look at them.

It is a dead stop comparison as real as any you'd like to dredge up or caress, depending upon the facts. Things like striking out in Little

SDN Opinion Page

Columns-Cartoons-Look Back-Letters-Quotables

League, winning the class spelling bee or being sent to the office.

We believe in life's stages, and this head-on collision with the fuzzy ether that is your memory and the bright reality of your own flesh can be a real traffic accident.

Suffice to say it marks a major change in the parent-child relationship.

And for good reason, because it marks the point when all of the things hoped for and, in fact, taken for granted begin to be put to the test.

Your notion that your kid will be the fastest, smartest and strongest of the bunch.

Or, failing that, at the very least that they will be as fast as you were, as smart as you were and as strong as you were.

And, the third example, that they will be fast when you were slow, that they will be smart when you were dumb, and that they will be strong when you were weak.

Junior is suddenly scrutinized by a gigantic looking glass. And the person whose eyeball is magnified a zillion times behind it is mom or dad.

There is also the physical evidence.

Most adults, if their mother was of the pack-rat variety, are either in possession of or have access to their third grade report card.

It is probably stored with the other family heirlooms, inside that cardboard box which once kept jelly jars from breaking.

We'd suggest that comparing that score card of scholastic ability with your own child's is about as accurate as any other.

By that, we mean not at all.

The third grade you attended is not the third grade of today. No way no how.

And when we realize this, we must realize the intent of all this comparing. Do we want them to be "us" or do we want to be "them" again.

We're not answering that question since either option is equally impossible.

And so, the best approach might be to gain a permanent case of the galloping amnesia in each successive year your child grows older.

An adult who likes to sleep the night through might be better served by forgetting what they were like at any age in order to let junior "be" whatever in the heck he is.

They'll be plenty of time for comparisons once they're gone.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

Our family went to church last Sunday, as usual. It's not far from the house. The ceilings are vaulted, the stained glass glittering emerald and gold, the choir full of angel song, the floor cushioned, the atmosphere one of simple awe.

It's easy to get there. You just take the clearest cow trail through the catclaw bushes and mesquite trees, taking care to detour around the prickly pear cactus. There's not much traffic if we keep the horses up. The church is nestled down in a small hollow between craggy hills; the leafy entrance beckons at the sheltered foot of leveraged stepping-down flat rocks. The staircase is lined with little surprise bunches of wildflowers. We call it the Church of the Chinaberry Grove.

Inside, the air is soft and cool and filled with birdsong. More wildflowers litter last fall's leaves. Settle down against a fallen log and you have a perfect pew. Dogs and cats are welcome. We have scripture reading and Bible lessons, followed by inspirational stories from Christian children's magazines. We discuss whichever issues are pertinent to our family as it relates to our faith. We have family prayer. Our tithes are offered to deeply felt causes. For example, our son recently sent 10 percent of his allowance savings to the Cal Farley Boys' Ranch in the Panhandle in honor of a friend who was orphaned.

Our church is flexible even when the roads are impassable.

We've held worship services all burrowed in together in our big, warm waterbed, gathered around the front porch swing, and draped over the living room furniture. But our favorite sanctuary is the chinaberry grove. God's first chapel, if you will.

Last Sunday, after services which we call "Sunday Study," our son decided to stay behind and explore some of the pastures. As my husband, daughter and I climbed the flat rocks leading back toward the house, the peaceful morning air was ripped asunder by a scream so terror-filled I can still feel it in my spine, followed by our boy's horror-struck, "DADDY! IT'S A RATTLER! OH, GOD! I THINK IT BIT ME!"

I thought we were so close to him and yet we seemed to be running in place as we tumbled over one another, crashing through the leaves, screaming his name in harsh guttural tones. It's a pleasant 15-minute walk back to the house and another half hour drive to town, but facing it in a panic stretches it ahead to 45 HOURS.

When we got to him, the air was split with the loud, angry rattle of a big one, coiled up underneath a bush nearby. To our unbelievable relief, we were able to determine that Dustin had apparently put his foot down on the snake and it struck, but missed him by a hairsbreadth. It was rapidly coiling to strike again when reaction hit and the boy jumped back out of reach.

I found that you could FLY that 15-minute walk in five flat when going for a shotgun, and that muscular disorders can be FORGOTTEN when running full-speed in cowboy boots across a brushy pasture with a heavy rifle gripped close. My husband dispatched the creature with one shot and gave our son the prize rattle as a grim reminder of how unforgiving nature can be, and how respecting it should go hand in hand with appreciating it.

Later, as I stood shaking in the shower, washing off the sweat and the fear, a clear bell-tone sounded in my mind — it was the scripture verse we had studied just that morning in the Church of the Chinaberry Grove. Deuteronomy 31:8, "And the Lord is the one who goes ahead of you; He will be with you. He will not fail you or forsake you. Do not fear, or be dismayed." Amen.

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

May 14

For many cotton farmers this spring, it is a choice of "dry-plant or no-plant" as the Uniform Delayed Planting Date approaches, it was reported Sunday.

A defendant convicted of aggravated kidnapping here in March of 1988, one of three men tried separately and ultimately sentenced to prison in connection with the same incident, has been granted a new trial by the 11th Court of Appeals in Eastland, it was reported Sunday.

Grady Allen Davis, age 25 when sentenced by the local jury to a 25-year term, now becomes the second of the three suspects granted a new trial.

MONDAY

Reef Chemical here is adding a 600 sq. ft. addition to its facilities at 1600 Ave. Q, it was reported Monday.

The work is projected to cost some $29,000 and will be to expand the business' laboratory testing area.

Contractor for the addition is Dennis Chisum.

The project is part of new construction applied for during April. For the fiscal year to date, Snyder's building estimate is figured at $1,062,455 compared to $1,088,532 for the end of April last year.

The Snyder Chamber of Commerce added 34 new memberships to its rolls during last week's three-day membership drive, chamber directors were told Monday.

The list included 25 new businesses and nine individuals.

City and county officials Monday night laid plans to go to Austin on May 24 and ask the highway department to pave the landfill road which will ultimately serve as a link from U.S. Hwy. 84 to TDC's Price Daniel Unit.

In a 1½-hour work session involving most of the city council and county commissioners court, the officials discussed various aspects of the project.

TUESDAY

May 16

The southeastern tip of Scurry County caught some 2 inches of rain Tuesday night while the rest of the county was relatively dry.

The 2 inches was reported five to six miles southeast of Hermleigh, a system which apparently moved southward to dump firm 1½ to 2 inches of rain in Colorado City in neighboring Mitchell County.

The official total for Snyder was .07 of an inch.

WEDNESDAY

May 17

The leader of the group that is seeking to have the Price Daniel Unit doubled in size to a 2,000-man prison said Wednesday that Snyder is in competition with about 160 towns and cities and will offer a whole new slate of incentives to the Texas Department of Corrections.

"We don't have to do as much as we did last time, but I don't think we can afford to do nothing," said retired Exxon Corp. executive Roy Baze, who led the effort to bring the Daniel Unit here.

Addressing a noon meeting of the Board of County Development at Snyder Country Club, Baze said the incentives that will be offered in the expansion proposal must be kept secret because "this is a competitive business."

Snyder sales tax returns got back onto the positive side for both the month and the year-to-date with the latest report from the state comptroller's office, it was reported Wednesday.

The state reported Snyder had a plus 8.1 percent for the month and a cumulative year-to-date percentage of a plus 3.2. In actual figures, the 1 percent state sales tax collected here has generated a total of $326,786 thus far.

THURSDAY

May 18

Firemen spent an hour extinguishing a fire in the 2307 29th St. home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Beights Thursday afternoon. The blaze was believed to have been caused by a short in an electrical cord.

Snyder High School senior James Henderson was named Outstanding Vocational Agriculture Student of the Year and Steve Babcock, owner of Babcock Slick Wire Line, was the Honorary Chapter Farmer of the Year at the annual FFA banquet Thursday night at Towle Park Barn. More than 200 people attended.

FRIDAY

May 19

Art and photography entries from Snyder High School students are now on display in the SHS Library after being judged in an end of school competition, it was reported Friday.

The top art works were shown by Jim Torres, Clay Travis, Patricia Flores, Steven Kellams, Melissa Williams and Jose Bourgeon.

In the photography division, top awards went to Sherri Buchanan and Shelby Hilderbrand.

Classmates meet after fifty years

Members of the SHS Class of '39 met at Willow Park Inn in April for their 50-year reunion with 27 in attendance.

Also present were King Sides of Lubbock, high school principal in 1939; grade school teachers Mrs. J.P. Nelson, Mrs. Ophelia Blackard and Mrs. Helen Clark, all from Snyder; and high school teacher Mrs. Vera Periman Holsinger, also of Snyder.

Friends associated with the class who attended as guests included Mrs. Wynona Keller Adams of Liberal, Kan.; Melvin Hulsey of Canon City, Colo.; Lynn Hulsey of Panhandle; and Mrs. Mary Alice Whitmire of Taylor. Mrs. Carl Hargrove of Cisco also attended as a guest.

Whitmire brought a small autograph book in which she had asked friends to write in the third and fourth grades. She remembered Roy Allen Baze saying he was not the type to write in little books.

Edwin Terry of Concord, Calif., won most miles traveled at 1,800 and also most children with seven; Lila Mae Lincecum had the most grandchildren with 10; and Mildred Rainwater Browne had the most great-grandchildren with four.

Of 62 original classmates, 21 were deceased at the time of the reunion and five were physically unable to attend.

Three class members were killed in World War II: Daren Benbenek, Air Force, Europe; James Stewart, Air Force, Africa; and J.R. Popejoy, Army, Philippines.

Class members taken as prisoners of war were Carl Hargrove, Army, at Corrigedor in the Philippines; Prentice Riley, Army, at Bataan in the Philippines; and Johnnie Jones, Air Force, Europe. Hargrove and Riley were held over three years.

Classmates with long military careers include Hargrove who served 30 years; Riley with 23 years; and A.B. Sealy, Marine Corps, who served 30 years. He was also at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

Denson remembers the past

While Denson and his wife waited for their rock home to be built, he said they lived in Pete Snyder's home for a year. He said the remains of Snyder's home can still be seen on his land.

Denson bought the land his home rests on in 1942 and, in 1943, construction started on his rock home. He lost his first wife in 1966 due to a heart attack and, in 1967, he married Norma, whose own husband had died of a heart attack some three years earlier. Both Denson and his present wife had moved to Scurry County during the year 1924 and each was a close friend to each other's first spouse.

Today, they share the rock house together and one of Denson's favorite pastimes is to talk about his early days in the county.

Norma has one son and Denson has two sons and two daughters.

Once the oil boom began to put Snyder and Scurry County on the map, Denson turned his attention to new construction as well as farming and selling his Quick-Rid product. At one time he said he owned and leased some 1,800 acres of land. He also built a cafe in Snyder which he leased to Sallie Bly. It sat 50 people and Denson said he loaned her the money to buy fixtures for it.

He also built a service station in town complete with two rent houses behind it. He also built a store in Dunn which was operated by a man who had worked for Denson all of his life. Ironically, Denson's wife Norma also went to work in that store.

In addition, Denson also helped build the Dunn United Methodist Church which held its last scheduled service several weeks ago.

Denson was born in Alabama in 1900. The youngest of seven children, he is the only one who survives today. When he was a year old, he said they moved from Alabama to Arkansas. About a year later his father died and some two years later his mother, upon the advice of friends, decided to move her family to what was then Indian Territory in Oklahoma.

They spent a week traveling with about seven wagons and they herded the cattle along with them. The trip from Nashville, Ark. to Hugo, Okla. took about a week and along the way they had to ford rivers.

Denson doesn't remember doing much work at the tender age of four, but he does remember that he got to play in the water. One night he said they camped by an old building and when he went exploring he got lost. He said he kept yelling for his momma and eventually he was found.

He said that his mother rented a place for them near Hugo from a Choctaw Indian named Mingo Johnson.

Denson describes Hugo as being "a small Indian village" which boasted a Presbyterian orphanage called the Good Land Orphanage. This was the first school that he attended.

Denson said his mother never remarried and all her life she did what she could, including cleaning people's homes, to feed and clothe her children. He said they were very poor but because they all worked together they always had something to eat.

Everyone in his family had to work. At eight he was out in the fields picking cotton because, he said, "if you didn't work you didn't eat."

Weekends aren't always relaxing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ninety percent of Americans feel no more energetic at the end of the weekend than they do on Friday, according to a recent survey.

The survey for Hilton Hotels Corporation by R.H. Bruskin Associates found that Americans spend 14 hours each weekend doing chores, and women spend more than an hour more than men at such labors (2½ hours more if cooking time is included).

If there are children in the household, even more weekend work is in store. People with children spend 66 percent more weekend time cleaning, 43 percent more time cooking and 52 percent more time doing laundry than those without children.

"Because of our schedules, there is less time for chores during the work week, so we spend the weekend catching up ...," says Dr. Peter G. Hanson, a stress expert who analyzed the data based on 1,000 interviews.

"We need to better manage our activities to preserve what's left of our valuable leisure time."

Throughout his life, he said, he has attempted to be "a man of his word."

He said he doesn't regret his decision, but he never lost interest in medicine and has continued to study it all of his life.

Denson kept his interest in reading until his vision began to deteriorate and he had to give it up.

While in school he said he was the first in his class in spelling and eventually he did attend high school. He even made plans to attend medical school and had found a benefactor who had agreed to pay his expenses. He and two other men were making plans to do this when Denson's brother, Cleve, came home from World War I and asked Dewey to quit school and help him farm. And that is what Denson did.

HOW YOUR COMPLAINT CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Got a complaint? When you complain about a product or service, be sure to do it the right way.

To register a complaint, use the following guidelines:

—Describe clearly your current problem or complaint. Use facts like dates, costs and problem.

—State exactly what you want the company or agency to do to make things right.

—Print (don't write) your complaint legibly. Better yet, use a typewriter if you have one.

—Use standard paper, 8½ x 11-inches, preferably white. Colored paper often does not photocopy well. Since several people or departments may be involved in handling your complaint, your letter and other documents may be photocopied several times.

—Use a pen with dark ink in blue or black and medium point so that the letter will be legible when copied.

—Include copies, not originals, of all related documents, purchase receipts, service receipts, past correspondence with service agencies and the manufacturer.

—Date your letters and other documents.

—Provide your daytime telephone number.

—Reread your letter several times before sending. Put yourself in the reader's shoes. Your letter is not a place to vent your anger; only state the facts and what you would like as a resolution to the problem.

—Be polite and remain calm. Customer relations personnel with a company or agency may be instructed NOT to deal with rude or offensive customers.

Once your complaint is in process do the following:

—Don't delay providing any additional information that is requested.

—Follow the exact directions for procedures and filling out forms.

—Let the company know immediately of any new developments such as the product is repaired or is working, or if a new problem has developed.

Keillor, Wobegon returning to radio

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No longer woebegone are those longing for a fresh dip in Lake Wobegon.

Garrison Keillor, the folksy humorist and best-selling author whose radio program "A Prairie Home Companion" warmed audiences for 13 years, announced Thursday he will be back on the radio come fall after a two-year absence.

The fictional Minnesota town of Lake Wobegon will be back in his new show, Keillor said at a news conference following his address to a public radio conference, but the "town that time forgot" has undergone changes.

"A lot of things have happened to Lake Wobegon ... it's hard to make them into humor," he said. "Times have been hard back there, as they have been all across the Midwest."

His new, two-hour "American Radio Company of the Air" will be produced by Minnesota Public Radio and distributed by American Public Radio. It will feature Keillor sketches, monologues and a mixture of American music.

Keillor, 46, said the music will include Fats Waller, Aaron Copland, Leonard Bernstein, old hymns and "all the great things that every American ought to hear at least twice."

His new program will be performed before theater audiences in New York, St. Paul, Minn., and other cities in 12-show series in the fall of 1989 and spring 1990. It will be broadcast live Saturday nights starting Sept. 30.

Despite estimates that his show had a following of more than 4 million, Keillor said he has about 13,000 true fans while others "talk about buttermilk biscuits and the 'Home on the Prairie Show.'"

Minnesota Public Radio spokeswoman Susan Jensen in St. Paul declined to comment about the differences or similarities between "Prairie Home" and the new show. Minnesota Public Radio produced his old show, which was broadcast from St. Paul.

Asked what his new show will be like, Keillor replied, "I can't wait to find out."

Keillor joked that he and Minnesota Public Radio officials talked about doing a new show "as a joke and it was one of those jokes that got out of hand."

But he said that when he envisions himself back on stage, "it's nothing but wonderful."

Two years ago he announced he was leaving his fictional hometown of Lake Wobegon in order to "resume the life of a shy person."

He abandoned Sheila the Christian Jungle Girl, Norwegian bachelor farmers and other Lake Wobegon inhabitants in an attempt to leave an increasing frustration with notoriety and resentment that accompanied his fame and fortune.

After his last broadcast in June 1987, Keillor took up residence in wife Ulla Skaerved's native Denmark. But he found it hard to work there.

"I suppose that was kind of embarrassing, too, to have failed so publicly, to have planted your flag so publicly and having to pull it out," he said.

Now he calls Minnesota home again, but has a place in Manhattan and plans to retain his Copenhagen apartment.

"Home is a spiritual place," he said Thursday, "and in some ways I feel closer to Minnesota and Lake Wobegon" living in New York and Copenhagen.

"That's how you get to know your family," he quipped. "By moving away to a desirable place."

This Fish Story Is Not Just Another Tall Tale

DEAR ABBY: We have a goldfish named Spot. Whenever I walk into the room and Spot "sees" me (I assume fish can see), Spot gets very excited and swims rapidly back and forth in the corner of the fishbowl facing me.

In order to test him, I have sneaked into the room quietly to find out if Spot is relying on sound, but apparently he is not because when he sees me, he reacts in an excited manner. You are not going to believe this, Abby, but when I call his name "Spot!" his excitement increases! To reward him, I give him a treat of extra "flakes" — fish food.

Do you think Spot is reacting to the possibility of getting a treat? My family thinks I am totally nuts, but I say that Spot is one smart fish. What do you think?

SPOT WATCHER

DEAR SPOT WATCHER: According to the curator of reptiles at the Los Angeles Zoo, Harvey Fisher (his real name), Spot is reacting to the possibility of getting a treat. He said: "Fish are easily conditioned. When I was a teen-ager, I had a pet goldfish that would actually jump out of the water at feeding time."

This may sound fishy, but I'll take Fisher's word for it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy with a steady job that pays well. At the end of each week, I have to bring my earnings home and turn them over to my father. He has charge of my money and will give me whatever I ask for whenever I want it, but it bugs me to have to ask him for money I earned.

I have argued that it isn't fair for him to keep my money — I should be able to keep it myself. I even threatened to quit my job unless I could be in charge of my own earnings, but my father says he doesn't care whether I work or not.

These arguments are getting very persistent lately, and I need some advice on how to put a stop to them. It seems to me that a person who is old enough to earn money should be old enough to handle it without any help from his father.

Please answer this letter in your column, Abby. I'm sure I am not the only kid who has this problem. Please don't print my name. My father might not like the publicity.

BROKE IN BROOKLYN

DEAR BROKE: I see a large communication gap between you and your father. Obviously, your father has reasons for insisting on knowing how you spend your money. Has he reason to doubt or mistrust you? Have you ever been in any kind of trouble? (How about your friends?)

Count your blessings. You have a father who cares about you. Believe me, he's on your side.

DEAR ABBY: We own a cottage where we spend most of our weekends. Our problem occurs when our recently divorced son and one or two of our grandsons all show up with their girlfriends.

My wife and I have told them that they are welcome to come, but unless they are engaged to be married, we will not allow them to use our upstairs bedrooms.

They sleep together, fully clothed, on the floor of our large living room in front of an open fireplace. They prefer this arrangement to sleeping in separate beds.

These are not one-night stands, Abby; for the present, they care for each other and are going steady. The grandsons are in high school and college, and they want to finish college before making any commitment.

Do you think we are being too old-fashioned and straitlaced?

PITTSBURGHERS

DEAR PITTSBURGHERS: No. If you are "too old-fashioned and straitlaced," then so am I.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage included.)

immigrants will deprive Americans of jobs. I think we should take care of our own first.

Abby, the United States has sent billions of dollars overseas to help foreigners who have been hit with earthquakes, floods and famine, and I have no quarrel with that, but to open up our country to these people in such great numbers is a big mistake.

We taxpayers are getting sick of our government ignoring our own people and bringing in more foreigners for us to take care of.

Charity begins at home.
AMERICA FOR AMERICANS

DEAR AMERICAN: Unless you are a direct descendant of the American Indian, you would not be here if your forefathers had not sought refuge from a foreign country.

As I have said in previous columns, it would take more space than I am allowed in this column to explain why we must accept the homeless victims of war and oppression.

Recall the words of Emma Lazarus, the American poet, whose words are engraved on the Statue of Liberty:

"Give me your tired, your poor,

"Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

"The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.

"Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me.

"I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." Send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: I hear that thousands of people from other countries are moving to this country. We have our own homeless, hungry and unemployed, and taking in all these

MANGANESE
Basketball player Bill Walton had broken bones that would not heal. Blood studies showed zero levels of manganese for Walton, who was then a vegetarian. His doctor, Paul Saltman of U. of Cal., San Diego, noted in other tests that women with osteoporosis (weak bones) had manganese levels 75% lower than women with stronger, healthier bones. Dietary manganese is found in wheat bran, blueberries, nuts, whole grains, legumes, peanut butter - also in meats.

Relief workers continue to operate

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — More than 60 Western relief workers are defying kidnappers and constant shellings to aid Palestinian refugees and tens of thousands of Lebanese displaced by the country's 14-year civil war.

But a recent spate of abductions has raised questions whether the risks are worth it.

Some non-governmental aid agencies have withdrawn their officials in recent weeks after their relief workers, once considered immune from Lebanon's kidnapping, were abducted by Moslem militants.

On Thursday, the PLO told four West German relief workers to leave a Palestinian refugee camp after they refused to say who kidnapped some of their colleagues.

Fourteen aid officials — four Swiss Red Cross officials, four West Germans, an Irishman, a Swede, a Norwegian, a Briton, a Belgian and a Syrian — have been abducted since 1985.

Most were released after periods ranging from hours to a month. Three, including a West German kidnapped twice, remain missing, along with 15 other Western hostages. Longest held of the hostages is American Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was abducted March 16, 1985.

But 20 organizations are still functioning, providing badly needed help to a growing number of homeless people and refugees.

"There's no question of us leaving," said Françoise Derron, spokeswoman for the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), which has 13 Swiss officials in Moslem west Beirut, the largest foreign relief team in Lebanon.

Like most aid officials interviewed, she declined to discuss security arrangements. But, she stressed, "We're going to continue our work, especially a big program of aid distribution to the displaced people."

More than 750,000 people have fled Beirut's Christian and Moslem sectors since fierce artillery and rocket battles broke out March 8 between army commander Gen. Michel Aoun's mainly Christian forces and an alliance of Syrian troops and Moslem allies.

Ms. Derron said ICRC teams have distributed blankets, kitchen sets and food parcels to 61,000 people whose homes were destroyed by the shelling or who were forced to flee.

The Red Cross pulled out its 30-strong team Dec. 21 following death threats from unidentified extremists. But the Geneva-based organization sent a smaller team back Feb. 7.

A West German team working with the ASME-Humanitas group in Sidon, provincial capital of south Lebanon, have become the most recent targets for extremists.

Two of them — administrator

Heinrich Struebig and nurse Petra Schnitzler — have been kidnapped twice in the space of two weeks. They and colleague Markus Quint were first abducted May 4 near Sidon by unidentified gunmen.

Struebig and Ms. Schnitzler were freed after a few hours, apparently to relay a message to Bonn that Quint would be freed if a Frankfurt court handed down a light sentence on Lebanese Shiite Moslem Mohammed Ali Hamadi.

Hamadi, on trial for taking part in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner and the slaying of a U.S. Navy diver, was convicted this week of air piracy and murder and sentenced to life in prison.

Struebig and Ms. Schnitzler were kidnapped again May 16 with another colleague, 28-year-old male nurse Thomas Kempfner.

Ms. Schnitzler was freed when Moslem militiamen inadvertently intercepted her abductor's car.
