TDC open house expected to draw thousands to city

A crowd estimated as high as 10,000 is expected next Saturday as the open house for the Price Daniel Unit is held at the site. It will mark the first such event ever held for a new state prison. To facilitate tours of the prison and to avoid congestion at the site, individuals are asked to embark to the open house at the Scurry County Coliseum. Organizers noted that there is limited parking space at the prison site. Ten school buses provided by Snyder ISD will be used to transport persons to the site and back. The buses will begin leaving at 10 a.m. and the tours will continue through the morning and afternoon. A brief ribbon cutting ceremony is planned at the site at 10 a.m. Charles Terrell, Texas Department of Corrections board chairman, will offer remarks at that event. Terrell spoke here also at ground breaking ceremonies for the prison on April 18, 1988. Other TDC board members expected include vice chairman Jerry Hodge of Amarillo, Mrs. Mamie Moore Proctor of Houston and Allan Polunsky of San Antonio, speaker at the third graduating class for TDC correctional officers trained through Western Texas College. TDC deputy director Andy Collins will be here also, as will Mike Moore, head of TDC's Southern Region which includes the Snyder unit. Moore was in Snyder April 27 as the speaker for the second graduating class of WTC-trained TDC guards. Other top level TDC staffers are expected as well to include See OPEN, page 8A

Orientation to welcome TDC staffers

Community leaders and much of the Texas Department of Corrections' Price Daniel Unit staff will join in a mutual orientation meeting Monday in Scurry County Coliseum.

Mayor Troy Williamson and County Judge Bobby Goodwin will welcome an expected 150 to 200 TDC people, after which Chamber of Commerce executive director Bill Moss will distribute information packets about the Snyder area.

Chamber president Herbert "Herbie" Figueredo will discuss the activities and organizations that are available here, and public schools Supt. Dalton Moseley and Western Texas College president Harry Krenek will outline educational opportunities.

Cindy Banta, chairman of the Snyder Merchants Association, will deliver a welcome from that organization, and county economic development committee member Roy Baze will speak on "Snyder and the TDC — How We Came to Know Each Other."

The session will last from 9 to 11 a.m., with Moss making closing remarks.

Daniel Unit Warden Leslie Woods said Friday that although the session has been designed to welcome his staff to the community and acquaint them with it, he will also use it to tell them about the broad-based commitment that brought the state agency here.

"I want my employees to know just how much of a monumental effort it was, with the land, the utilities and all the things that were donated, and the effective leadership that brought it about," Woods said.

"It didn't just come about overnight. It took a lot of effort on a lot of good people's part, and I want my employees to know that, and I want them to appreciate it, too."

The warden added that he views the meeting as a chance for "the city and county and citizenry to be recognized for their efforts by the (TDC) people that are fortunate enough to have a job here."

"It will be a good meeting place to inform them of the next level we will be undergoing, what we expect of them and what they can expect, and to let them know about our warm gratitude for the hospitality that has been bestowed on those of us who have been here for the last month."

He referred to the agency's plan to begin accepting inmates after the open house that will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. next Saturday.

Woods has been assembling his administrative staff at the former Industrial Building on the south side of U.S. 84 in northwest central Snyder that now belongs to the TDC.

In addition to Woods and Assis-

54th annual rodeo to begin Thursday at west 30th arena

The 54th annual Scurry County Rodeo will begin its three performance run Thursday and the entry book for rodeo contestants will open Tuesday.

The annual Scurry County Rodeo Association stockholders roping will be Wednesday at the rodeo arena on west 30th St., preceding the three nights of rodeo action which will feature such events as saddle bronc, bareback and bull riding.

Other events will include calf roping, steer wrestling, team roping, girls barrel racing and girls breakaway roping.

Advance tickets are now on sale by calling 573-2259. Box seating, which includes six seats, is $90 for all three shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday night.

The rodeo will begin nightly at 8 o'clock. At the gate, admission will be $4 for adults and $3 for those 12 and under.

A special event this year will be a "mutton bust'in" with youngsters age 7 and under riding ewes. For protection, entrants will wear safety helmets and the first eight to enter will ride nightly.

On Saturday, a finals event will be held comprised of the top riders from previous shows. A buckle will be awarded as the prize.

The rodeo entrants will be competing on the Texas Cowboy Rodeo Association (TCRA) circuit.

Rodeo stock this year will again be provided by Smokey Davis and the Rafter D Rodeo Company of Fort Bend County.

Water shortages still a problem in Ira-Dunn area

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Customers of the Ira Water Supply Corp., which serves approximately 200 households in the Ira, Dunn area, are still experiencing water shortages and the president of the board which serves the non-profit entity says the best short-term solution is simple water conservation.

Aggravated by the prolonged spell of dry, hot weather here, the number of customers on the system appears to have outgrown its ability to deliver water.

"All we've got is a 4-inch line, and lately we just haven't been able to get enough water through it to meet our demands," said Corky Kruse, who serves as president for the board which oversees the water operations.

The corporation has only one paid employee, Lewis Helms, who is still recovering from a heart transplant operation performed in late June.

The water shortages at Ira first began to be experienced earlier this month.

Kruse noted the system is now approximately 20 years old and since its construction its list of customers has approximately doubled.

The addition of a booster pump along the line is now in the start-up phases, he said, an addition which is expected to help the water delivery problem.

"The pump is ordered, but I expect it will be at least two weeks before it can be installed," Kruse said.

Showers are spotty in county

Spotty showers Friday night dumped only .10 of an inch in Snyder but blessed the Lake Thomas area with 2.8 inches at the west side and 1.4 inches at the dam.

Some runoff into the lake was expected, but water district officials predicted it would not be sizable.

The rain showers were concentrated at the lake and the Ira-Dunn area, but trailed off further north. Hermleigh recorded no moisture.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Opposites do attract—like a closed mind and an open mouth."

Last week we told about the buzzard that tried to occupy the same airspace being used by the Snyder National Bank plane.

The aircraft hit the bird at about 3,000 feet while descending into the Austin airport. The plane landed without incident, but an inspection of the damage determined that repairs were necessary before it could fly again.

Snyder National executive veep Bruce Kallemeyn wasn't happy about the unexpected experience and waited nervously to find out just how much it would cost to fix.

However, there was one call he didn't expect. The voice on the line inquired about the bank's medical insurance as a result of the plane-bird incident.

"Nobody was hurt," Kallemeyn said. "That's what you think. I've got a buzzard in intensive care at Snyder Veterinary Hospital." The caller was Aggie vet Charlie Church.

There still may be hope for those of us laboring in the newspaper business.

A lot of successful people got their start either as newspaper carriers or as printer's helpers.

We were looking at a 1948 issue of the Scurry County Times. Publisher Willard Jones listed his entire staff in the paper's masthead. The weekly's utility man—sometimes referred to as a printer's devil—was John Jarrell.

Jarrell now is president of Ezell-Key Grain, is immediate past-president of the Texas Feed and Grain Association, and a long-time bank board member.

Then there are those who stayed in the newspaper business.

Coal strike

GILBERT, W. Va. (AP) — Coal miners in at least three states agreed to return to work this weekend, complying with the United Mine Workers union in its bid to end a month-long wildcat strike.

About 15,250 miners in Indiana, Alabama and Illinois decided to return to work beginning with shifts at midnight Friday and continuing through the weekend, UMW officials said.

Local

TDC wing

The open house for the newly completed TDC wing at Cogdell Memorial Hospital will be from 1 until 3 p.m. Sunday.

Refreshments will be served in the front lobby of the facility by members of the Cogdell Auxiliary. The tours will be conducted by Pat Vineyard, R.N., head nurse for the correctional care unit; and Lana Chambers, R.N., director of nursing at Cogdell.

The unit contains five patient rooms, two examining rooms, and an outpatient receiving area.

Reunion held

Members of the Class of 1969 from Snyder High School were to gather at the Snyder Country Club Saturday for their 20-year reunion.

Former classmates were invited to a dance to begin at 9 p.m.

Jury canceled

The jury call issued for 132nd District Court Monday has been canceled.

Those summoned need not appear.

Council meet

The Snyder city council will meet Monday at 6:30 p.m. to consider the billboard contract between the city and the chamber of commerce.

FBI investigations criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee on Friday sharply criticized the FBI for investigating American groups opposed to U.S. policies in Central America, saying the agency should purge its files.

The panel said in an 150-page report that the FBI's 1983-85 probe of the Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador (CISPES) and other groups was based on "allegations that should not have been considered credible."

"The CISPES files contain information about domestic political activities that the FBI should never have gathered," said Senate Intelligence Committee Chairman David Boren, D-Okla., and Vice Chairman Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine.

"That information must be removed from FBI records so it cannot be used to damage the reputation of innocent persons," they said.

A class-action lawsuit seeking the removal of the files is pending in federal court in the District of Columbia.

Boren and Cohen said there was no evidence the White House tried to influence the probe, which eventually involved all 59

FBI offices and included spin-off investigations of 2,370 people and 1,330 groups in the United States.

Hugh Byrne, political director of CISPES, called the investigation politically motivated.

"The Reagan administration wanted to stifle domestic opposition to its policies in Central America, particularly the unjust wars in El Salvador and Nicaragua," he said.

Senior Center events listed

A 42 tournament will be the featured activity in the Senior Center on Monday. Games will get underway at 10:30 a.m.

The local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet at 1 p.m. Monday in the center. The executive board of the chapter will meet at noon.

Hoss Clayton's band will present a musical program starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the center's dining room.

Wednesday will be the commodity distribution day in the center, with hours for distribution from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Persons picking up food items are asked to enter through the north door of the building. Senior citizens work as volunteers in the distribution and other senior citizens who would like to work in the program may contact the office for information.

The Kitchen Band will meet for a rehearsal at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

About 30 persons will be going to Palo Duro Canyon to see the musical "Texas" this weekend on a trip arranged by the Senior Center. Senior citizens who would like to join the travel club at the center are invited to contact the center office for details.

Church of Christ in Hermleigh sets VBS next week

Vacation Bible School at the Hermleigh Church of Christ begins Monday, July 17, and will conclude the following Friday, July 21.

This year's theme is "Wonderful Words of Christ." Daily activities begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 11:30 a.m.

All children from age two through the sixth grade are invited to attend. The week will conclude with a graduation ceremony Friday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served afterwards under the "big tent."

Pastor denies charges of plagiarism

DALLAS (AP) — The pastor of one of the nation's largest churches, who is accused of plagiarizing a 1907 book on the Bible, denied the allegation and said such an act is "a million miles" from anything he would do.

The Rev. W.A. Criswell, 79, told The Dallas Morning News he did not copy passages from a work by Reuben Archer Torrey and doesn't recall reading the book by the Congregationalist who died in 1928.

Criswell, who has served two terms as president of the Southern Baptist Convention and been pastor of First Baptist Church in Dallas for nearly 45 years, said he reads "endlessly" and "part of what I read would stay in my mind."

"But using anything plagiaristically is a million miles from anything I have ever done," said Criswell, who in 1969 published the book, "Why I Preach the Bible Is Literally True."

But, the Rev. Gordon James, an ordained Southern Baptist minister who works full-time as a writer, said Criswell copied Torrey at least 15 times in the book.

James pointed out the similarities to Criswell's publisher, who wrote him that they might want to review the text with Criswell if a new edition is printed.

James said he read Criswell's book while doing research for a book he was writing in 1986 about the Bible inerrancy movement.

Midwest enlists Wortham for rural development task

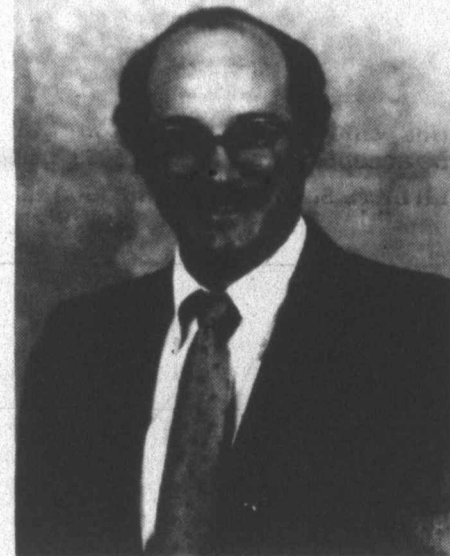

ROBY--Midwest Electric Cooperative of Roby and Snyder has contracted with Greg Wortham of Sweetwater to assist in rural development efforts in the cooperative's service area. The former legislative aid to Sen. Steve Carriker (D-Roby) began work in late June.

Midwest serves most of Scurry and Fisher counties, as well as parts of Garza, Borden, Mitchell, Nolan, Stonewall and Jones counties.

Wortham was the first Main Street project manager for the city of Sweetwater from 1983-1986, where he directed a major downtown revitalization effort. He served as legislative aid to Carriker in the Texas House of Representatives and the Texas Senate from 1986 to June 1989.

Wortham's assignment will be to identify potential development projects in conjunction with local residents. He will also work with state and federal agencies to stimulate broader action on rural development concerns.

In Memory of Bonnie Vardiman

Who liked to laugh, and have a good time? Who bubbled over and sparkled and shined? Some of you called her Bonnie, others NaNa or Ma.

But whatever you called her, she had love for you all. God made everyone with appointed times for everything. A time to give birth, and a time to die, a time to laugh and a time to cry, to embrace, to search, to love, to dance and to mourn. She had it all.

But we've gathered here on earth to say goodbye to a loving, caring friend, knowing in our hearts it's not the end!
John 11:25

Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me shall live even if he dies, and everyone who lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this? Bonnie did."

Farmers may apply for emergency farm loans

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by severe weather conditions in Howard County on May 4, 1989 are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Rotan, FmHA Acting County Supervisor, Donald W. Craddock said last week.

Scurry County is one of 43 contiguous counties in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the severe weather conditions.

Donald W. Craddock said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," Craddock said. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designator will be accepted until Feb. 2, 1990, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming session," Craddock said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Rotan is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

During World War II, Allied forces invaded Italy Sept. 3, 1943.

Scurry 4-H'ers win district horse show

Scurry County 4-H was named High Point County at the 1989 District 2 4-H Horse Show held last month in Lubbock. Scurry County had a total of 53 points. In second place was Parmer County with 35.5 points and in third was Lamb County with 32.5 points.

Individual winners from Scurry County were as follows:

—Dala Church: grand champion mare.

—Shawn Hays, 1st in showmanship, 1st in western pleasure; and 2nd in registered mares.

—Russell Riggan: 1st in pole bending, 2nd in barrel racing; and high point individual-times events.

—Debbie Schwarz: 3rd in pole bending; 3rd in barrel racing; and 7th in stake race.

—Deana Schwarz: 2nd in pole bending; and 6th in stake race.

—Cade Walton: 5th in registered mares; and 7th in showmanship.

Strings attached to bomber funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services committee is backing plans to build the expensive B-2 stealth bomber, but its support hinges on whether the plane performs as advertised.

"If that plane doesn't fly, the debate's over," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the committee chairman, telling reporters of the committee decision to impose a series of requirements before full production of the $500-million-a-copy jet.

"This is really putting some teeth in 'fly before you buy,'" said Sen. John Warner, R-Va., the senior Republican on the committee. The military wants to buy 132 of the aircraft.

Damaging articles rebutted

SEATTLE (AP) — The question of whether Brig. Gen. S.L.A. Marshall fabricated data in his book about U.S. soldiers under fire is central to a debate raging between his critics and his grandson.

In the renowned historian's 1947 "Men Against Fire," Marshall stated that as few as 15 percent of American infantry soldiers in World War II fired their weapons, for a variety of factors including paralyzing fear.

The "firing ratio" finding led historians to change their emphasis in studying combat from the perspective of the commander to that of the common soldier, and helped prompt the U.S. military to modify infantry training for the Korean and Vietnam wars.

"We think in a new way about combat because of Marshall," said Fredric Smoler, a historian at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y.

But Smoler wrote in the March issue of American Heritage magazine that Marshall's findings were merely a theory he had derived from anecdotal evidence, and not based on the authoritative study that Marshall claimed.

Marshall's thesis may have been based on evidence he "made up," Smoler wrote.

Marshall's grandson, John Marshall, entered the fray late in May with a three-part series in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer that defended his ancestor's thesis and questioned the research of his detractors.

Marshall, a reporter for the newspaper, spent four weeks interviewing his grandfather's colleagues and searching archives.

The younger Marshall fell out with his grandfather during the Vietnam War when he was given an honorable discharge from the Army as a conscientious objector.

In an interview last week, he said he conducted the investigation of his grandfather's work "as a reporter, not a defender."

"American Heritage raised questions of methodology but they haven't refuted his basic thesis. The bigger issue is, was he right or was he wrong?" John Marshall said.

S.L.A. Marshall, who died in 1977, wrote 30 books over his career as a reporter for The Detroit News and as military historian. Among his works are "Pork Chop Hill," about the Korean War battle, and the American Heritage history of World War I.

But his most important contribution was the "firing ratio."

French observe country's holiday

PARIS, Texas (AP) — If a spaghetti dinner and presentation of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" didn't quite hit the mark, the presence of two French visitors gave some authenticity to Paris, Texas', Bastille Day celebration.

Jean-Claud Savouret, 57, and Dennis Perraut, 38, who were visiting friends nearby, spent the holiday in Paris and became instant celebrities.

"I did not expect to be kind of a star for one day here," said Perraut, who works with Savouret at power company in Paris, France.

Linda Suarez of the Paris Chamber of Commerce was unsuccessful in her attempt to lure French officials to the town of 27,000 for the bicentennial of the French Revolution.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample send your name, address, and phone number today to: Department 92259, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

ATTEND SEMINAR—These three Ira students attended the Texas Farm Bureau's citizenship seminar June 12-16 in San Angelo. Those pictured are: Lori Clark, Lary Gunset and Lloyd Bennett. Sponsored by the Scurry County Farm Bureau, they were among approximately 400 high school junior and senior students from 162 counties across the state. Purpose of the seminar is to provide the students with a better understanding of their American heritage and the capitalistic free enterprise system. (Farm Bureau Photo)

2 Carter gridders enter guilty pleas

DALLAS (AP) — Two former Carter High School football players linked to a string of robberies pleaded guilty to armed robbery charges Friday in state district court.

Derric Evans and Gary Edwards, who played on the school's state championship football team, entered their pleas before state District Judge Joe Kendall, said Royce West, the teen-agers' attorney.

Kendall has until Aug. 11 to determine a sentence for the two. West said he will seek probation.

The maximum sentence is 99 years or life imprisonment. They also could be fined up to $10,000, West said.

Evans is charged with four counts of aggravated robbery in connection with the holdup of three stores and a restaurant between May 18 and June 20. Edwards is charged with three counts of aggravated robbery in connection with the holdup of two stores and a restaurant during the same period.

Both men entered guilty pleas to all but one of the charges. They entered no-contest pleas to charges they robbed a Taco Bueno restaurant in South Dallas.

Evans and Edwards apologized for the robberies at a news conference last Saturday.

On Thursday, Jimmy Edwards Jr., 18, became the third student to make a public apology, saying he allowed peer pressure to influence his actions.

Jimmy Edwards and Gary Edwards are not related.

"I was not strong enough to say no when the guys were talking about doing these things that I knew were wrong," said Jimmy Edwards, who has been charged with three counts of aggravated robbery in connection with the holdup of three restaurants between March 18 and May 11.

"I did not have the strength of character to say no," he said. "I just got in deeper and deeper."

About halfway through his speech, given at his attorney's office, Edwards apologized for the effect his arrest is having on his younger brother.

Cowboys' Johnson praises progress

IRVING, Texas (AP) — His first training camp remains one week away, but new Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson already likes the progress his players have shown.

"I thought we really had a good week of work," Johnson said Friday after the Cowboys completed a five-day "voluntary" quarterback school. "I felt like we progressed from where we were in the last quarterback camp, and I don't think that I could ever expect to have them more prepared to go into training camp, considering we have a new staff and all."

The Cowboys begin training camp next Sunday in Thousand Oaks, Calif., hoping to rebound from an NFL-worst 3-13 record of a season ago.

Jerry Jones bought the team from H.R. "Bum" Bright in February and immediately replaced Coach Tom Landry with Johnson.

In three mini-camps since, Johnson has proven to be an about-face from the unemotional Landry. He moved up and down the field, walking fast and talking faster, clapping his hands, offering advice and keeping his players in line. On several occasions during this week's camp, he joined players who struggled to complete wind sprints in the grueling heat.

"It's just a 180-degree turnaround from Coach Landry," defensive tackle Danny Noonan told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "Coach Landry was a guy who was really reserved and didn't do a whole lot of yelling.

Coach Johnson is just the opposite. He's an enthusiastic type of guy, a very positive guy, and that's something we needed. We needed a change. We needed a new outlook on things, and he's given us that. I think we'll play very well as a team for him. I think we'll be over .500 just because of the enthusiasm."

Defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones, at 38 the oldest player on the Cowboys roster, also has noticed the attitude change.

"Everybody is very positive," Jones said. "I can't compare him with anybody else. All I can say is everything is very positive. Any time you've got new coaches coming in, you want players believing in the system who are willing to give 110 percent. I think the guys here are willing to do that. I haven't heard any complaints about anything."

Johnson admits there was probably apprehension among the players, who didn't know what to expect from a coach who was making the transition from the college ranks.

"I've got to be true to my own personality and do what's been successful for me," he said. "I'm sure there are some that would question the style we do it in. But all I can say is it's been successful, and that's the way we'll do it."

All in all, Johnson appeared pleased with the state of his team entering training camp. He is satisfied with the general conditioning of the team, which has been an area of emphasis.

"We weren't a bad team last year," Noonan said. "It's just that we were missing that little extra inch, that little something in the fourth quarter. This year it's going to be different in that we're not going to lose in the fourth quarter. We're going to be a stronger team in the fourth quarter. That's where the conditioning comes in we're doing now. We're not going to be the ones hanging our heads in the fourth quarter. We'll be the ones pulling games out."

Ira cager beats odds to perform

By BILL McCLELLAN

STEPHENVILLE, Texas — To fans watching the annual State 6-Man Coaches Association All-Star Basketball Game in Stephenville this Friday, Charles Barbee might seem like any small-town kid who has some talent on the courts.

But although Chuck, as his friends call him, may be a small town kid, he sets big-time goals. A near-fatal accident at age 10 taught him how to reach goals that most kids only dream about.

"We had just put a new motor in this go-cart and were going to try it out," he said, reflecting back to May of 1981. "I took off around the house and when I came back around I hit the brakes real hard and the brake pedal broke. I guess I went into shock because I stepped down on the gas. I panicked and kept going around and around. There was a flat bed cotton trailer off to my right. I hit a rock or something and it knocked the wheels so that the go-cart went in the direction of the trailer. I couldn't get the wheels to turn back and I just went under the trailer."

Instinctively, Barbee brought his left arm up to protect his face as the accelerating go-cart collided with the trailer's axle. His arm snapped with the impact, knocking him backwards and preventing him from hitting his head.

"If it hadn't been for my reflexes jerking my arm up - I could have died," he said of the vivid memory. "I came that close to death. Afterward, I was really down about it. But eventually, it made me set my goals a lot higher."

His foremost goal was to be able to use his arm again. He spent two months in traction with a severely broken arm and a dislocated shoulder. When he was finally allowed to walk, he found it difficult. It hurt.

"The doctors x-rayed me and found out I had also broken both my heels," he said.

Those breaks and muscle deterioration because he hadn't walked in two months left him crawling for awhile. Months of therapy followed but in the back of Barbee's mind was a goal - to play Little Dribblers and make the all-star team.

"I've always loved basketball. I really wanted to play and that kept me going. It was my goal not just to play, but to make the all-star team again," he said.

By winter, he was working with a basketball again, and although it was sometimes freezing outside, he shot baskets three hours a day. Barbee made the all-stars, not just that year, but throughout his Little Dribbler career. He carried that determination into high school, lettering four years for the Ira High Bulldogs. As a freshman, he set his goal to play in the coaches 6-man all-star game. It was a long term goal, considering only seniors are eligible.

He started three of the four years, earning first team all-district honors as a junior and a senior. In his final season, he averaged 13.6 points, 7 assists and 6 steals a game.

A two-sport athlete, Barbee also earned second-team honors as a punter and as a quarterback, despite a noticeable bend in his arm where the break occurred.

But the main goal was to play in the all-star game.

"I was still surprised when I learned I made it," he said. "But I was real happy. I was proud that I had reached the goal I set."

Barbee would like to play basketball in college and has been invited to walk-on, but he'll need the help of a scholarship and so far nobody's been willing to take a chance on the 6-0, 163-pound guard.

"Hopefully, I'll play well in the all-star game and somebody will offer me one," he said of the game, scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, July 21 in Stephenville. "If not, I'll concentrate on agriculture."

A 3.5 student, Barbee has been awarded an agriculture scholarship and plans to major in agriculture education.

"If it came down to going to college on an ag scholarship or a basketball scholarship, I'd go where I could play basketball," he said. "I'd just like to play basketball awhile longer. If not, I'll go with the ag scholarship. Ag (to be an agriculture instructor) is what I want to do anyway."

"My main goal right now is to finish college and pursue my career."

Either way, Barbee has his goals set. And he's looking ahead to the future.

Athletes need physicals soon

Snyder public schools students needing an athletic physical will need to make an appointment with a local designated doctor.

The school will pay for physicals taken prior to Aug. 15. Steve Krueger, SHS trainer, has urged students to schedule appointments as early as possible.

Those requiring physicals are seventh and ninth grade students who plan to participate in athletics and all athletes new to the Snyder school system. Others required to have physicals are students who have not previously participated in athletics but plan to do so.

Athletes not needing a physical are still required to turn in a medical history and UIL rules acknowledgment form by Aug. 15. Forms are available at the athletic director's office or the field house.

Appointments for physicals may be made with Drs. Nelson Brice, Jim Burleson, Bid Cooper, Bill Pierce or Paul Thompson.

WTC to host golf tourney

Local and area golfers are invited to register for an individual player tournament, scheduled July 29-30 at Western Texas College.

Entry fee is $45. The event will be pre-flighted into six flights, depending upon the number of entries. All handicaps will be verified and tee times will be posted Friday, July 28.

Also planned is a Senior Flight for golfers age 60 and over.

The entry deadline is July 27. Prizes include 1989 Dawia Monday irons for first place; Advisor Medal woods for second place; Dawia Sunday Golf Bags for third place and a dozen balls and a shag bag for fourth place.

For reservations, write or call the WTC Golf Shop, Snyder, Tx. 79549, (915) 573-9291.

Gary Anderson of San Diego had the best single-game rushing performance in 1988, picking up 217 yards against Kansas City in a game on Dec. 18.

Snyder Stars advance to championship tilt

A strong pitching performance away from the Area 2 tournament championship. Snyder bats put the Snyder Little League All-Stars just one victory grandslam homer in the sixth inning as the Snyder Stars took an impressive 10-0 win over Colorado City Friday night.

Snyder can wrap up the championship at 8 p.m. Tuesday when the locals play the winner of the Colorado City and Rotan game set for 8 p.m. Monday at Logan Field. Should Snyder lose Tuesday, a second game with the Monday winner would be required on Thursday.

In other action Friday, Rotan eliminated Stonewall-Kent from the tournament with a 7-0 triumph.

Snyder went scoreless in the first inning but picked up its first run in the second when Jeremy Wells singled, advanced on a fielders choice by Lionel Ayiles and then scored on a single by Rinehart. Greg McAden also got a base hit in that inning.

Snyder picked up two more runs in the fourth. Lee Idom was hit by a pitch and Jeremy Wells advanced on a free pass. Idom scored on a centerfielder's error and Wells came home on McAden's second single of the night.

Holding only a 3-0 advantage going into the final inning, Snyder left little doubt about going for the title. The seven-run avalanche started with a solo homer by Wells. Joey Sanchez walked and advanced on a first baseman's error. Kyle Lewis tagged a single to drive in two runs. Jermy House advanced to first on an error, Shay Sisson walked and then Mitchell connected for his grand slam home run.

Rinehart allowed only two hits and struck out nine. The Snyder defense played errorless ball.

Lewis Martinez was the losing pitcher, and Colorado's two singles came off the bats of Michael Hoyle and Dusty Robinson.

Ronnie Martinez collected the mound victory with a one-hitter for Rotan in its 7-0 triumph over Stonewall-Kent. Scott Harrell suffered the loss for Stonewall, giving up five hits.

For Rotan, Jay Carreon had a triple and Daniel Silva pounded two doubles. Single base hits were collected by Jason Knight, and Jay Carreon.

Stonewall's lone hit was a single in the third inning by shortstop Michael Willis.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, last in the American League in scoring, aren't in any position to be picky about who does their hitting.

"You've got to always have somebody contribute along with your big hitters," Manager Doc Edwards said Friday night after utility players Brad Komminsk and Paul Zuvella both homered in Cleveland's 11-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"That's the way it should be," Edwards said. "When the going is rough, people are always going to point fingers at the big guys, but they can't carry you every game."

Komminsk started in center field and Joe Carter moved to left so Dave Clark could replace the struggling Cory Snyder in right.

Snyder, who has had a sore back since late April, has gone hitless in his last 12 at-bats, striking out seven times. He may be placed on the disabled list as early as today.

Komminsk responded to the start by driving in a career-high five runs. He snapped a 5-5 tie in the seventh with a sacrifice fly after tying the game 4-4 with a fourth-inning, two-run home run. He added a two-run single in Cleveland's five-run eighth inning.

Zuvella played third base in place of Brook Jacoby, who is hobbled with a sore hamstring muscle. Zuvella hit a solo home run, his first in 436 major league at-bats, and had a run-scoring double.

Komminsk was recalled from Class AAA Colorado Springs on June 29, and Zuvella was called up Tuesday.

"A lot of other guys on this team are expected to carry the load. They can't be expected to do it every night. It's nice to help out a little bit," Komminsk said.

Komminsk also drew two walks and is batting .348 with 10 RBIs in 23 at-bats.

Astros bow to Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dwayne Murphy, signed as a free agent by the Philadelphia Phillies in April, knows his place on the team, according to manager Nick Leyva.

The 11-year veteran who has been a starter most of his major league career now is a bench guy, a spot starter.

But Leyva points out that Murphy "gives us a big boost."

Like Friday night, when Murphy delivered a seventh-inning, game-winning single in a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Murphy started and walked in his first three times at bat. Then after taking an 0-2 pitch that looked like a strike, he singled to center in the seventh to give Philadelphia a 3-2 lead they never lost. He was asked later if the pitch he took was a strike.

"It was a ball," he responded. "The umpire called it a ball."

He said it with a faint grin on his face.

"He's the type of guy who knows his role," Leyva said of Murphy. "He doesn't mope or complain if he doesn't play. It's good to have veterans like that."

Murphy is candid about his feelings.

Seniors come from behind to defeat Sweetwater, 7-6

SWEETWATER—Snyder Senior League champions came from behind Friday night for a 7-6 victory over Sweetwater in a practice game in preparation for next month's trip to the state Senior Babe Ruth League tournament in Mt. Pleasant.

Trailing by one run in the bottom of the seventh, Ronnie Pruitt led off with a single followed by a base hit by Joe Sanchez. Then Lee Hamilton walked to fill the bases and Bart Morton followed with another walk and the game was tied.

In the bottom of the 8th, Randy Morris led off with a single and stole second. He then advanced to third on a passed ball. John Wright drew a free pass. With Justin House at the plate, Sweetwater tried a trick throw to the shortstop that went into left field, allowing Morris to scamper home for the winning run.

Lee Hamilton had the only extra base hit of the night, a double while Pruitt pounded two singles. Other singles were by Morris, Sanchez, Morton and Gilbert Herandez.

Morton was the winning pitcher. Snyder was to play at 10 a.m. Saturday against Cockrell Production, followed by a game with Ringo Drilling.

Mike Hulbert borrows caddy and holds one-shot margin

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The careers of Paul Azinger and Mike Hulbert bear little resemblance, but the two golfers do have one thing in common.

Azinger, who won last week's Greater Hartford Open for his fifth PGA Tour victory, opted to bypass the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic to go to Scotland and practice for next weekend's British Open.

That freed his caddy, Bill Poore, to work for Hulbert, as he usually does when not employed by Azinger.

"I like his attitude. I use him several times a year, and we seem to do well together," Hulbert said Friday after shooting a 5-under-par 66 that gave him a one-shot lead over Tim Norris and Don Shirey after two rounds of the Anheuser-Busch.

The 31-year-old Hulbert, whose lone victory was in the 1986 St. Jude Classic, was 11 under par after two tours of the Kingsmill

Golf Club.

Norris shot a 67 on Friday and Shirey came up with second 66 for second place.

Mike Donald was alone at 133 following a 66.

Tim Simpson, whose opening-round 64 had tied him with Hal Sutton for the lead, slipped to a 70 for 134, where he was joined by Scott Hoch, who carded a 65 Friday.

The seven players at 135 included Sutton, who had three bogeys and three birdies en route to a 71, and Roger Maltbie, who matched the lowest round of his career and tied Kingsmill's course record with a 63.

"My wife told me to shoot 63 when I left this morning," Maltbie said. "But you've got to remember something: She talks like that every day."

Maltbie played in one of the last afternoon threesomes, after sunny skies had helped dry Kingsmill's 6,776-yard layout from overnight storms that deposited about 2½ inches of rain on the area.

Hulbert, who has made the cut in 16 of 22 events this season and has won $215,196, had a bogey-free round in what he said were ideal scoring conditions.

He made three short birdie putts over the first 11 holes and missed several others as the round progressed.

"I wasn't cashing in on birdie opportunities, then I birdied the last two — both difficult holes," he said.

Hulbert made birdies after hitting a 6-iron to 18 feet on the 177-yard 17th and a 3-iron to 12 feet on

No. 18, a 438-yard par-4.

Norris, another Tour veteran with just one victory, also had a bogey-free round, with two birdies on each side.

"I played steady all day, and I put myself in good position for the weekend," said Norris, who had missed the cut in 12 of his previous 19 tournaments this season and has made just $16,760 — 183rd on the money list.

Moody keeps streak alive

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Orville Moody, the hottest golfer on the Senior PGA Tour, kept his streak alive right from the first hole of the Greater Grand Rapids Open.

Moody, the defending champion and the tour's leading money-winner this season, eagled the par-5, 522-yard first hole on the Elks Country Club course and went on to threaten the course record on Friday.

He finished with a 7-under-par 64, one shot off the tournament record and one shot better than Michigan native Dave Hill.

Dale Douglass carded a 66, while Harold Henning, Bobby Nichols, Agim Bardha, and tour newcomer Terry Dill finished with 67s. Bruce Devlin, George Bayer and Walt Zembriski were at 68.

There are 18 players within five shots of Moody and 30 of the 72 players broke par in the first round.

Purse snatching has 10-year prison term

A 20-year-old Snyder man pleaded guilty to robbery last week and received a 10-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections in connection with an April 25 purse snatching incident involving an elderly woman.

Willie S. Castillo of 314 25th St. entered his plea before District Judge Gene Dulaney. During the incident, according to reports, the suspects drove beside an 81-year-old woman, jerking a purse from her hand as she walked in the 2900 Block of Ave. O. The woman was knocked to the ground as a result and received minor injuries.

In another guilty plea, a 36-year-old Snyder man, Jimmy C. McBroom of Box 84, received a seven-year term in the TDC for the March 9 offense of possession of a controlled substance, amphetamines.

Gloria Rocha, 32, of Rt. 3 pleaded guilty to forgery by making last Oct. 12 and was given a four-year probated sentence.

regional directors, wardens, medical personnel and education officials with the TDC.

Other events planned Saturday in conjunction with the open house will include a gathering for mayors and council members from area towns hosted by the Snyder city council.

They will meet from 9 until 9:30 a.m. at the Cornelius-Dodson House.

Landfill road paving before commissioners

Scurry County commissioners Monday will consider a resolution concerning the state's proposed paving of the landfill road south of the Texas Department of Corrections' Price Daniel Unit.

Billy Jackson of Abilene, an area representative of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, is scheduled to appear at the meeting to propose passage of the resolution.

A contingent of city and county governmental leaders went to Austin in May to ask the department to widen and pave the two-mile road. Also part of this request was to widen and assume maintenance of the paved county road along the west side of the prison and Camp Springs Rd. from northwest of the unit to U.S. 84 north of Snyder.

A court spokesman said the resolution is a formality that the highway department has requested.

Other business in the 10 a.m. meeting will include the hearing of a proposal by the Snyder Park Club, a group affiliated with

Alcoholics Anonymous and several other substance abuse organizations, to expand the club's headquarters building, which is the old Lincoln Park swimming pool building near the Winston Park baseball field on the south side of 37th St. at Ave. M.

AARP to meet on Monday

The local chapter of the AARP will conduct two meetings Monday, July 17, at the Senior Center.

All board members will meet at noon and the regular monthly meeting will begin at 1 p.m. Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway will be the guest speaker.

Pump is stolen

Dermott farmer Weldon Lloyd Friday reported the theft of a transfer pump at his farm.

Lloyd, who farms two miles west of Dermott, reported the theft to the sheriff's office at 6:50 p.m.

Grass, truck fire prompt city runs

Firemen extinguished a grass fire north of Snyder and a vehicle fire in a Snyder Cablevision truck Friday.

The grass fire occupied them from 1:12 to 2:20 p.m. on the Kenneth Gibson Ranch 14 miles north of town off the Clairemont Hwy.

A fire in a 1987 Ford vehicle owned by the cable company and driven by Henry Ramos kept them busy from 5:39 to 6:10 p.m. in the 2200 Block of 32nd St.

Two wrecks noted

A 1985 Chevrolet driven by Freda D. Chandler of Grand Saline was in collision with a 1989 Chevrolet driven by Patsy M. Cavitt of Seminole at 7:38 p.m. Friday at the intersection of the Roby Hwy. and the Colorado City Hwy. in southeastern Snyder.

At 12:09 a.m. Saturday in the 4000 Block of Eastridge Dr., a 1974 Chevrolet Corvette driven by Justin W. Derryberry of 2404 41st St. was in collision with a 1989 Chevrolet Beretta driven by Melissa G. Devlin of 2507 Ave. M.

Kidnapped girl returned home

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 7-year-old Arlington girl whose father is suspected of abducting her and going to Nebraska was returned Friday to a foster home in Texas, authorities said.

The father, Fred Kenneth "Tex" Burke Jr., 32, and a companion remained Friday in the custody of Nebraska authorities.

Tarrant County Constable Jim Palmer brought the girl, Guinevere Garrett Burke, back to Fort Worth, said Andra Bennett of the Texas Department of Human Services.

Game wardens arrested Burke and his companion Thursday in a secluded area along the Platte River in eastern Nebraska, authorities said.

Obituaries

Valerie Gutierrez

SWEETWATER--Services were set for 10 a.m. Saturday at the McCoy Funeral Home Chapel for Valerie Marie Gutierrez, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Hernandez, who died Wednesday in a Lubbock hospital.

Burial was to follow in the Sweetwater Cemetery. She was the granddaughter of George Gutierrez of Snyder and the great-granddaughter of Antonio Gutierrez of Snyder.

She was born July 5, 1988 in Sweetwater.

Survivors include her parents; a brother, Nicholas Gutierrez of Sweetwater, other grandparents, Francis Gutierrez of Sweetwater and Mr. and Mrs. Evaristo Hernandez of Roscoe; other great-grandparents, Julie Lopez of Sweetwater and Pasqual Hernandez of Sweetwater.

Arrests here drink-related

State highway patrolmen arrested a 26-year-old man for DWI at 11:20 p.m. Friday on the Colorado City Hwy. south of Snyder.

In addition, DPS officers took a 32-year-old man into custody for public intoxication at 11:25 p.m. Friday at the sheriff's office.

City police arrested a 16-year-old boy for being a minor in possession of alcohol at 12:33 a.m. Saturday in the 1800 Block of 40th St.

An 18-year-old male was arrested for probation violation by a sheriff's deputy at 12:30 a.m. Saturday at the sheriff's office.

Davis' stock was used during the filming of some of the Texas scenes in "Lonesome Dove" shot near Del Rio. The rodeo company provided 80 head of horses which were used during the scene where Capt. Woodrow Call and Augustus (Gus) McRae bring a herd of stolen cattle back from Old Mexico, only to be met by the herd's owner bringing a group of stolen horses back from the U.S.

The rodeo company has been producing rodeos since 1968, heading up 135 events during 1988 across Texas.

Following each night of the Scurry County Rodeo, Jody Nix and his band will be playing for the rodeo dance at the slab area east of the rodeo grounds. The dance will begin nightly at 9 p.m.

Water supply low at Ira said the 72,000 gallon water tank at Ira was approximately half full.

"I think we've got plenty of water if people will just use it wisely. We'll be alright if we can just get a little more rain."

The ultimate solution may well be the construction of a bigger supply line, but with some 10 miles to be covered, Kruse said current estimates are it could cost as much as $250,000.

"You spread that kind of expense among 200 customers, and were reported and 1 inch was noted 3 miles east of Ira.

Fluvanna received .10 of an inch.

Snyder's total for the year is now 6.73 inches.

The possibility of rain remains in the Snyder area outlook through the middle of next week, although chances are listed as "slight" for afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

A 20 percent chance of thunderstorms was predicted Saturday night. The rain chance Sunday for the Snyder area is listed at less than 20 percent.

A high reading near 100 degrees is expected Sunday.

it's going to cost."

This is further complicated, he noted, since the current system was financed with a 40-year note which still has some 20 years to run.

When built, the system cost some $180,000, and he estimated the amount still owed at approximately one-half this.

For now, he said the board hopes to keep water charges to the customers at current levels.

Many of these have their own water wells as a backup to the corporation-provided water, he noted.

"For now, we're just asking people to use only what water is necessary."

The corporation contracts with the City of Snyder for treated water at the city's cost "plus 10 percent," Kruse said.

Officer fired for violations

DALLAS (AP) — Police Chief Mack Vines has fired an officer he said violated the department's deadly force policy when he killed an unarmed Hispanic man last month.

Vines said Friday an investigation revealed Officer Patrick W. LeMaire, 32, failed to "use reasonable alternatives to deadly force" when he shot the man, who approached LeMaire in a dark field in West Dallas after refusing orders in Spanish and English to remove his hands from beneath his shirt.

Another officer at the scene was preparing to tackle the suspect when LeMaire shot, Vines said.

LeMaire worked for nine months for the Dallas Park Police before joining the department three years ago. He has the right to appeal the firing to a Civil Service Trial board, officials said.

The disciplinary action, coming on the heels of significant community outcry over the shooting, was met with mixed reaction.

"We knew the man had been shot under mysterious and questionable circumstances," said Domingo Garcia, co-chair of the Unified Coalition for Police Reforms. "We're glad Chief Vines has decided to clean up the Dallas Police Department and the people can now have a little faith in the system."

Dallas Police Association President Monica Smith called the decision "improper and irrational."

"The lack of due process will make it necessary for the Dallas Police Association to take the department to the wall," Ms. Smith said in a hastily drawn news release.

Vines said that under the department's deadly force policy, the officer should have gathered more information from other officers at the scene and slowed his approach into the area where he confronted the suspect.

Vines added the provisions to the deadly force policy when he succeeded Billy Prince as police chief last year. They instruct officers to plan ahead, using deadly force as a "last resort" and "only when other reasonable alternatives are impractical or fail."

Past police chiefs usually withheld disciplinary measures until after a grand jury ruled on the criminal aspect of the investigation, but Vines said the officer had the right to know the investigation's findings.

Financial Focus

Understanding risk is an essential part of investing. For bond buyers it's particularly important because their investments are usually committed for a number of years.

Bond ratings, which guide investors in risk evaluation, are an integral part of the bond market. Most fixed-income securities, both corporate and municipal, are evaluated, rated and monitored by one or more agencies. The four major rating agencies are Duff and Phelps, Fitch, Moody's, and Standard and Poor's.

These rating agencies analyze bond issuers to determine default risk of either principal or interest. The agency then releases a rating to inform the public what level of risk to expect.

The primary concern of the rating agency is not the growth potential of the company being evaluated but rather the company's ability to service a fixed amount of debt over the life of the issue.

The system of rating securities was originated by John Moody in 1909. Today, Moody's ratings are probably the most widely accepted. Regardless of which service you select, the rating system is explained in the front section of the agency's bond record book.

A "rating symbol" is used to assess the investment quality of a bond. The four agencies mentioned rated investment quality by designating either letters or numerals. Although the symbols of different agencies may be similar, even slight differences are significant because they allow the bond buyer to distinguish which service rated the bond.

A bond may have no rating, NR. Although particular attention should be paid to this, the absence of a rating could be unrelated to quality.

Explanations for a nonrated bond include:

1. A rating application was either not received or not accepted. Issuers of tax-free bonds must apply for a rating and pay a fee for the service.
2. The issuer of the security may belong to a group that isn't rated as a matter of policy.
3. There is a lack of essential data on the issuer.
4. The issue is privately placed.

Circumstances that affect the rating of an issue can change. The current rating reflects the rating agency's best judgement at the time the rating is issued. The intrinsic value of a bond may also change. The rating agency monitors bond issuers and, if financial changes dictate, the ratings are changed.

It's vital to keep close track of ratings so you'll be aware of changes in the risk of your investments.

'Wandering plane' probe continues

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A gunshot wound suffered by Thomas Root is only one of the mysteries surrounding the attorney after he flew apparently unconscious 800 miles down the East Coast.

Officials from Washington to Florida hope to interview Root today about the flight and crash landing in Bahamian waters. But they also are curious about two probes involving his gun collection and conduct as an attorney.

Root was in stable condition today at Memorial Hospital in Hollywood, north of Miami. He was under heavy sedation Friday.

"It's an odd story all right," said Root's brother-in-law, Brett Geer, after visiting Root at the hospital. "With this wound and him not being able to recollect how he got it, I'm sure there is reason for an investigation."

Root had a .32-caliber handgun with him in the cockpit, Geer said.

"There are many questions I'll be asking," said NTSB investigator Andrew Alston.

Thank You

Dear Snyder Friends,
We, the family of Bonnie Vardiman, would like to express our love and appreciation for the kindness shown to us during the loss of our loved one.

Mr. Callaway, Mr. Cotton, their Secretaries, Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home, and the Friends at Scurry County Senior Center, have gone out of their way to help. It really means so much to us.

Thank you from our hearts.

Woman: boy's father rarely visited

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The guardians of an 8-year-old boy who was found nearly starved to death say the father is to blame for the boy's condition. Carlos Hoyos Rascon weighed 18 pounds when he was taken June 27 to Red Cross Hospital in Juarez. He was suffering from malnutrition, dehydration and had bedsores on his back.

He apparently was supposed to be in the care of Hermelinda Aleman Santos, who said Thursday the boy's father, Carlos Hoyos Vera, had sent a total of $80 to his son's guardians in the last two years. She said she has seen the father three times since he left the boy with her in 1987 to work on farms in the United States.

LEVI G. MCCATHERN II

Levi McCathern receives honor

Levi G. McCathern, II, has been placed on the Dean's Academic Honor List at Baylor University for the spring 1989 semester.

The honor is in recognition of a grade point average of 3.7 or better of a possible 4.0 while enrolled in at least 15 hours. McCathern completed 18 hours with a grade point average of 3.97 in the spring.

Last fall, McCathern was also honored for achieving a 4.0 on 18 hours. He is the son of Glenn and Jan McCathern of Snyder and is a pre-law major at Baylor University in Waco.

Particle beam said fired into space recently

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is studying results of a "Star Wars" test that is considered a key step in U.S. research to deploy futuristic weapons that could shoot powerful beams at enemy missiles.

Defense Department officials on Friday confirmed completion of the test, which involved firing a beam of electrically neutral atomic particles into space for the first time.

MIT resumed football in 1988 after a lapse of 87 years. It last played in 1901.

79702 has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to inject fluid into a formation which is productive of oil or gas.

The applicant proposes to inject fluid into the Canyon Reef (Formation), Salt Creek Field Unit (Lease), Well Number F-38 & H-45. The proposed injection well is located 9 miles northwest of Clairemont, TX in the Salt Creek Field, in Kent County. Fluid will be injected into strata in the subsurface depth interval from 6146 to 6496 feet.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Chapter 27 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, Title 3 of the Natural Resources Code, as amended, and the Statewide Rules of the Railroad Commission of Texas. Requests for a public hearing from persons who can show they are adversely affected, or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing, within fifteen days of publication, to the Underground Injection Control Section, Oil and Gas Division, Railroad Commission of Texas, Drawer 12967, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (Telephone 512/445-1373).

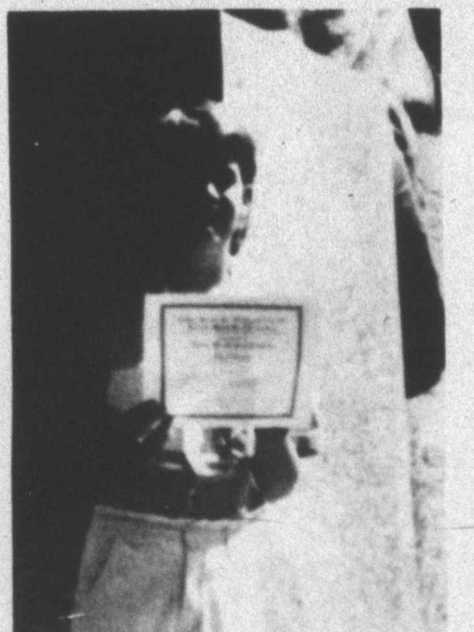

Kurtis McCathern gets high honors

Kurtis McCathern, a student at Snyder Junior High School, was chosen Outstanding Student by his professors in both his physics and leadership classes at the University for Young People's first term in Waco recently.

Besides physics and leadership, McCathern also attended a chemistry class. In the leadership class, McCathern was elected to serve as president by his peers during a parliamentary procedure session.

He is now attending the second term of the program where he is enrolled in computer graphics, debate and economics. The university program is designed to challenge the gifted and talented student in junior high.

In June, McCathern, son of Glenn and Jan McCathern, and Jennifer Early, daughter of Meloney and Jerry Early of Snyder, both received certificates from the Duke University Talent Identification program for high scores in the state on college entrance exams among seventh graders.

KURTIS MCCATHERN

Condemned killer files motion

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Convicted killer James William Hamblen has asked a federal appeals court to lift a temporary stay and allow his execution to go forward for the slaying of a Jacksonville lingerie shop owner.

The action is reminiscent of Gary Gilmore, who was executed Jan. 19, 1977, by a firing squad in Utah, after he fired his attorneys and asked that all appeals to save his life end. Gilmore, the first inmate executed in the nation after the U.S. Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976, said he preferred death to spending his life in prison.

In a handwritten petition filed Thursday, Hamblen, 60, asks the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta "to vacate its temporary stay of execution and allow his execution to proceed in accordance with the laws of the sovereign state of Florida."

Hamblen is scheduled to die at 7:01 a.m. EDT Tuesday in the electric chair at Florida State Prison near Starke.

The convicted killer has been represented by the state office of the Capital Collateral Representative in hearings before the state Supreme Court and U.S. District Court in Jacksonville.

The state attorneys got a temporary stay for Hamblen earlier this week in Atlanta to delay his scheduled execution for a week until Tuesday. The appeals court also scheduled a hearing for 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Larry Spalding, head of the Florida office that represents indigent death row inmates under warrant, said Friday he was aware of Hamblen's petition, but CCR attorneys would be in Atlanta to try and halt the execution.

Commodities distribution set Wednesday

Commodity distribution this month will be Wednesday, July 19, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center, 2603 Avenue M. All participants are asked to enter through the north door and to bring paper sacks or boxes to transport commodities.

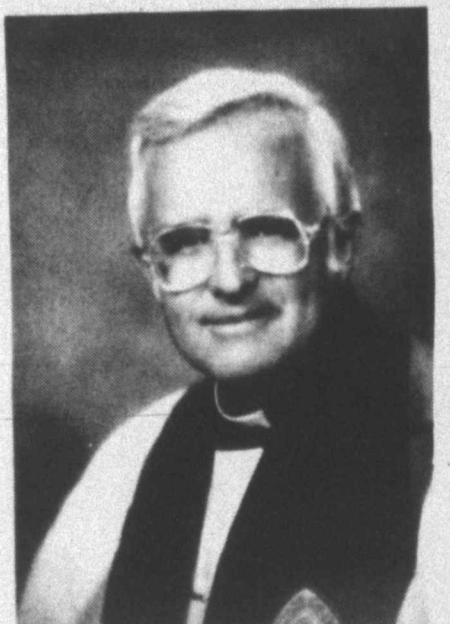

Income eligibility guidelines for all citizens of Scurry County are posted at the Senior Center. Rules for participation in the program are the same for everyone without regard to age, marital status, color, religion, sex, handicap, national origin or political belief.

Bishop Hulseby will speak at local church

The Rt. Rev. Sam B. Hulseby, bishop of Northeast Texas, will speak at St. John's Episcopal Church at 10:15 a.m. this Sunday. A covered dish meal will follow the service and all are invited to attend.

Hulseby was consecrated bishop in 1980 in Lubbock. He began his first service in Northwest Texas as rector and day-school headmaster in Pampa in 1966.

His interest in the hospice movement led to the formation of Hospice of Midland, Inc. and to beginnings of hospice work in other communities in Northwest Texas.

By Shirley A. Gorman

Dr. Carl Dillaha, the physician who admitted the first patient at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, closed his practice in Snyder on June 16, just a few weeks shy of 33 years of service. But he has no plans to retire. Instead he has accepted the position of health authority or medical director of the Daniel Unit which opens this month.

In his role as the health authority, Dillaha will provide medical care for the inmates at a daily sick call clinic.

This clinic will be open five days a week, Monday through Friday, and Dillaha said it will likely be scheduled throughout the morning and into the afternoon.

He will be assisted at the 24-hour prison clinic by a nursing staff which will include both RNs and LVNs.

In addition, Dillaha will remain on staff at Cogdell Memorial Hospital to care for TDC inmates admitted at Cogdell for "infirmity level" care. These will be housed in the newly renovated TDC wing at Cogdell.

When the patients require long term treatment, this responsibility will be transferred to other medical staff physicians either here or, in the case of severe illness, other TDC-affiliated hospitals.

He will continue to serve as a local physician for nursing home patients as well as his TDC responsibilities.

Dillaha said this is the first time that a doctor has been hired from outside the TDC system.

Dillaha said he has been told that about 40 prisoners will be housed at first.

While Dillaha is looking forward to his new position, he said it was hard for him to close his practice. He said he fully realized the impact of his decision when one of his patients began to cry in his office, saying that she did not remember going to any other doctor in her life.

Dillaha explained that initial plans were for a doctor to see TDC prisoners "a few hours each week." As the requirements became more clear, however, it became evident that no doctor in Snyder could provide the necessary service without jeopardizing his own practice.

When the question was asked if a doctor would consider closing his office and working for the prison full time, Dillaha said he decided "yes."

"I had already started cutting back on my hours and had been relieved of my duty in the emergency room at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. I also was no longer admitting patients to the hospital. I liked the idea and decided to try it," Dillaha explained.

Once the decision was made, Dillaha began the necessary steps to close his office and to prepare to work at the prison. In the process, he visited the Ramses II prison unit which is similar in size to the Daniel Unit.

Dillaha's association with Snyder dates to Aug. 1, 1953, when he and Dr. Tom Hartley opened a joint practice in a house located at 30th St. and Avenue S (now College Avenue) which had been converted into an office.

Dillaha and Hartley had known each other for years and had been classmates. He said they had always talked of opening an office together. Both had been in the military and he said they went hunting for a place to open their first practice when they were discharged on the same day.

Hartley found out that Snyder was building a hospital which was soon to be open and Dillaha said that strongly influenced their decision.

In addition, Hartley had not liked the cold, wet rainy country he had been living in so Dillaha said that Snyder's climate was an added incentive.

Another factor they considered was in Arkansas, where Dillaha is from originally, office calls cost $2 and Texas allowed a $3 charge. Soon after that, he said, the price went up to $5.

As their fledgling practice developed, Dillaha said that two more doctors joined them to form a four-way partnership. Those doctors included Dr. John O'Bannon and Dr. Wilton Jones.

The four-man partnership lasted about four years and ended when Dr. Hartley left Snyder and went to work for Scott and White. He is now an allergist in Scottsdale, Ariz.

When Dr. Hartley left Snyder, Dillaha said his cousin offered him a residency in dermatology but since he did not want to move back to Arkansas and because he liked Snyder and the surrounding area, he said he decided to remain here.

The three-way partnership continued for about a year. Since Dillaha was a general practitioner and the other two men surgeons, he said he left to open his own office.

Dillaha's office in the newly completed Cogdell Center was his base for nearly 36 years.

In addition to being the first doctor to admit a patient at Cogdell, he is the only doctor remaining who was on staff when the facility first opened.

When Dillaha began his practice here, he said house calls were common and he remembers one Thanksgiving where he waited all day for a woman to give birth. As soon as the hospital opened, he said he no longer delivered babies at home.

He said he did not keep an exact account of how many babies he delivered, but he said it was "a lot."

In 1977, Dillaha became a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice.

Diplomates of the American Board of Family Practice have to be re-certified every six years. Dillaha received his latest recertification in 1985.

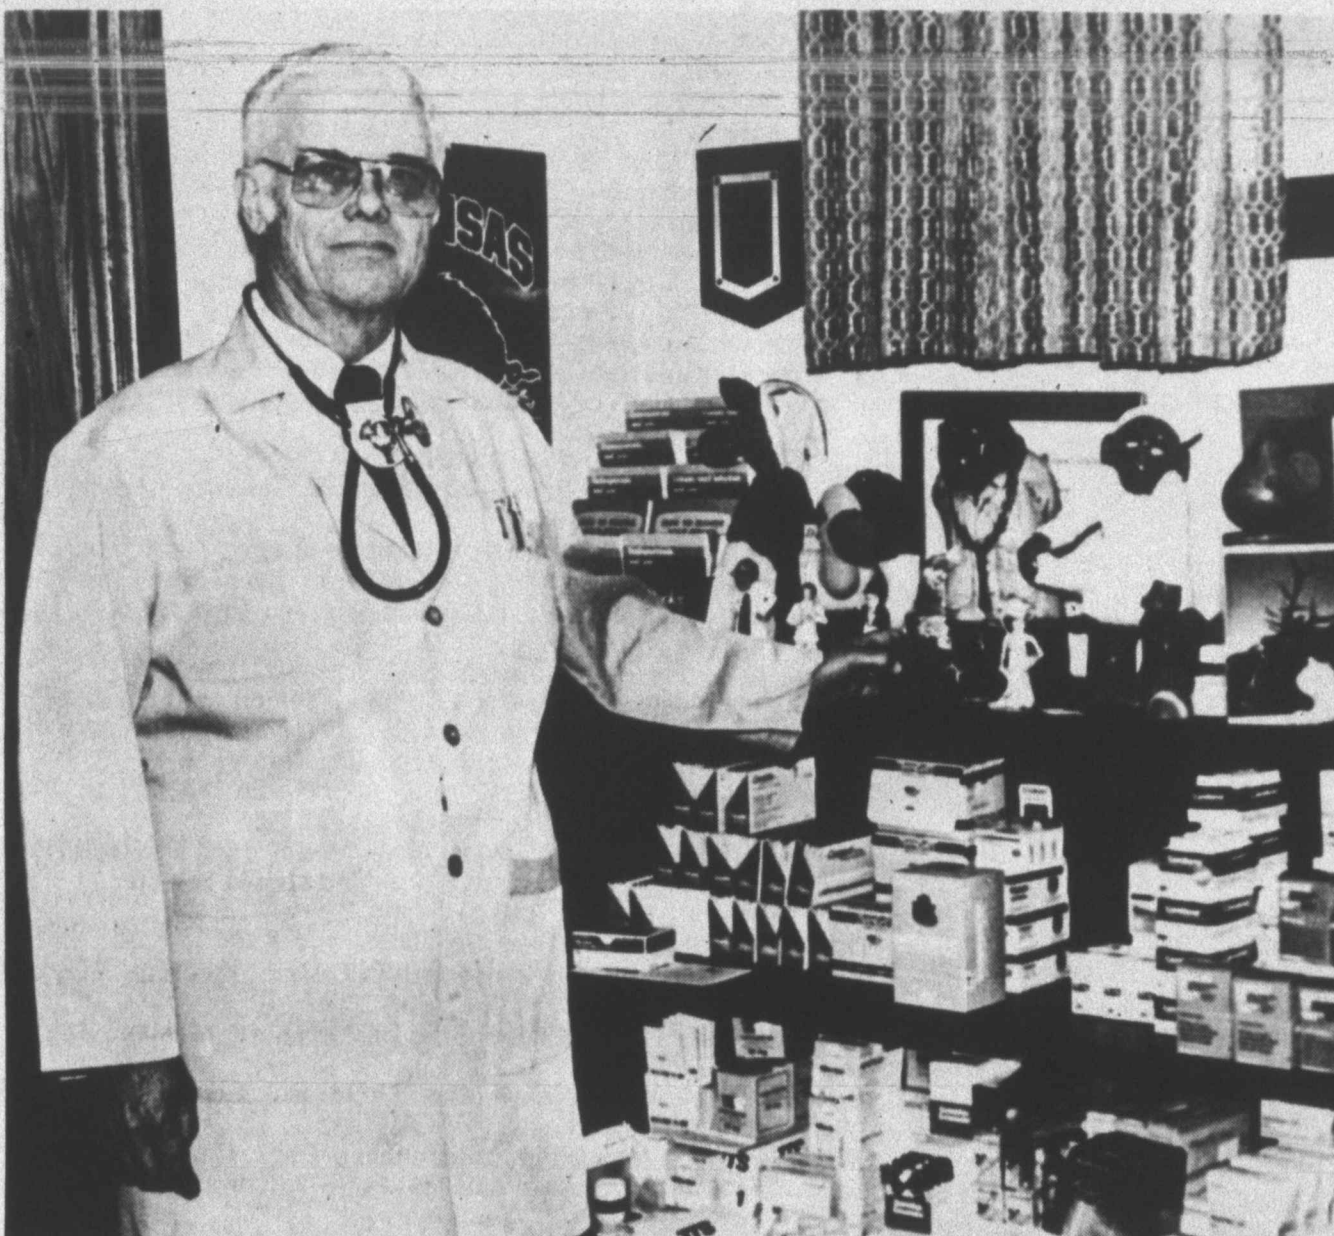

He is also a member of the American Academy of Family Practice and to keep accreditation current doctors have to complete 50 hours of study each year.

Dillaha was born in Little Rock, Ark. He graduated high school there in 1942 and it was there that he met his wife, Helen, in the 10th grade.

By the time Dillaha reached high school, he said he knew that he wanted to become a doctor. Various members of his family pursued medical careers and his father, who was a drug representative, had wanted to be a doctor but was unable to because of family commitments. These included quitting school in the sixth grade in order to support his family.

While medical careers seem to "run" in his family, Dillaha said he was the first one who was able

Camp Boothe Oaks...

Teen mothers invited to outing with kids

Mothers and young children will join the ranks of campers at Camp Boothe Oaks near Sweetwater this year. Being the largest organization in the U.S. for women, Girl Scouts is concentrating on adapting to the needs of girls in today's society, according to Nancy Henderson, executive director of the Girl Scout Council. The week of July 23, Camp Boothe Oaks will accept 24 teenage mothers and their children to participate in some of the camp's traditional activities such as canoeing, swimming and making arts and crafts. Some of the activities will include the children while others will be geared toward mothers. Child care will be provided at the camp. Special classes such as parenting, nurturing, cooking with commodities, career counseling and sticking to a budget will be offered by peer leaders in the camp. Volunteers from the three colleges in Abilene, Cisco Junior College, the Texas Department of Human Services, Abilene Intercollegiate School of Nursing and WIC Administration will also help with the sessions. Maxine Cockrell, membership director for the West Texas Girl Scout Council said that this is a pilot program for the state. The purpose of the project, according to Cockrell, is to provide a program for young mothers that will help increase their self-esteem and sense of self-worth and hopefully prevent repeat pregnancies. "We feel that the camp atmosphere is a great place for the girls to get away from outside pressures, relax, have some fun and learn some things about what they want for themselves," Cockrell said. The camp is available to any teenage mother and their child or children between the ages of three months and three years. Cost for the camp is $5 per mother. This includes all meals, lodging and program activities. A scholarship fund is available upon request. For information on registration and more details about the camp, call the West Texas Girl Scout Council, 698-1738 or in Snyder call Peggy Vernon, 573-3122.

Auto magazines mostly for trade

DETROIT (AP) — There are several hundred automotive magazines in the United States. A few of the more popular ones are Automotive News, which is a trade magazine that covers the latest industry developments; Autoweek, once a newspaper but which now has a magazine format, and Car and Driver, which often compares two similar cars. Road & Track provides general reading with special interest sections, such as for road tests.

Bullard's attend reunion

Descendants of Charlie and Emma Bullard met for their annual reunion July 9. The Bullard family first arrived in Scurry County in 1921. Attending from the Scurry County area were: Canon and Mamie Burditt; Dovie Vineyard; Jarvis and Oretha Bullard with Kelly; Oma Nell Kroger; Dennis and Mamie Lou Eubank; M.C. Burditt; Doug and Dorothy Vineyard; Cody Reams; Durwood and Nelda Kruger; Don and Pat Vineyard with Hayley and Hadley; Gerald and Shirley Bullard with Thomas; Olin Ray Burditt with Brandon and Bryan; Casey, Clint, Dallas and Patrick Strunk; Debbie Hornsberger with Michael; Tracey Williamson with Jennifer, Stacey and Brandon; Harley and Melissa Vineyard with Shaela. Those attending from other areas were Tommy and Gladys Gressett; Vernon and Marie Bullard; Mary Lou Eubank; David, Sue and John Meek; Jan, Sean and Brian Flanagan; Tommy and Sheila Vineyard with Kim, Brad and Ashley; Jeriva and Ken Reaves; Chuck, Tina, Cody and Kim Stephens; Felix, Michele, Michael, and Zachary Balderas; Lesa Morrow; Dola Sanderford; Mary Margaret Eubank and Katheryn; Dan, Sue, Jason, Alexia and Victoria Gray; Daniel, Denice and Leonard Maursak; Kim Clark and Todd Stinson. Travelling the farthest this year was Jan Flanagan with her sons, Sean and Brian. They are from Deschepelles, Haiti, where they are missionary representatives for World Concern. While most of the family lives in Texas, others attended from Oklahoma, Kansas, Wyoming and Florida.

Pecan trees valued for many things

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — It's not unusual for a pecan tree to produce as much as 500 pounds of nuts annually, and that's enough to make 1,000 pecan pies, says Georgia-Pacific Corp. About 248 million pounds of nuts are harvested from pecan orchards in an average year, the forest products firm says. Although they are valued mainly for their fruit, pecan trees also are used to make furniture, flooring and boxes.

Kruse family has reunion

Descendants of the late Frank and Alice Kruse held their annual reunion recently at Sherwood Park in Odessa. Ira residents attending were Corky and Donna Kruse, Robert and Anita Erwin, Kip, Sheila and P.K. Wadleigh and Mack and Ilene Kruse. Vera Kruse of Colorado City also attended. Attending from Snyder were Jimmy, Patricia and Lisa Nix. Family members from Midland who attended were Bo and Earleen Kruse, Beverly Scown and Sharla and James Baker. Those from Odessa were Steve, Ronda and Shelbi Marechal, Herb and Freddie Moore and Jerry, Linda, Connie and Darrell Kruse. Those travelling from Lubbock were Robert and Betty Knight and Jan Kruse. Others attending were Ross and Pauline Kruse of Monahans, Jack and Shirley Lightfoot of Houston, Brad, Valerie and Brianna Fleet of Cedar Park, Kathy McCam of San Antonio and Byrle and Pete Rigsby of Andrews. Out of state family members who attended were Cheryl, Julie and Kerry Qualls of Stillwater, Okla. and Leslie and Nilsa Wagner of Moore, Okla.

Getting it right — almost

Here is a deal from London reported by expert Martin Hoffman. North and South were vulnerable with 60 on score, which explains their stopping at two diamonds. East, who had doubled two clubs for takeout, now doubled again. That got South to three diamonds. Declarer was obliged to take the safest play for nine tricks, but look how he botched it.

On the opening lead declarer ducked in dummy. He won the heart continuation and led a spade back to his king, winning the trick. He quickly followed with the A-K of diamonds, frowning when East showed out. A club went to dummy's king, and another spade was led back. East took the ace and continued with the jack, and West ruffed out declarer's queen. West cashed the queen of diamonds, and the defenders still had to make another spade trick to set the contract.

Declarer's play was just right — to a point. After he has won the spade king, it's fine to play the ace of diamonds, but the king of diamonds is a no-no. Instead he should play a club to dummy and try another spade. Even though West will ruff, he will not be able to draw dummy's trump (if he plays from Q-10 of diamonds, it will be into declarer's A-J), and declarer will come to nine tricks. That's game and rubber — and making the contract would also be a good result in a duplicate game.

BE CAUTIOUS OF BUYING LOW CHOLESTEROL EGGS
You've read all the claims on various food product labels—low salt, low fat, low calories, low cholesterol. Yet another product is surfacing, low cholesterol eggs, and buyers need to be cautious.

Consumers should not be misled by a simple statement such as 'lower in cholesterol,' that may appear on egg cartons.

Any statement of this type requires a firm to declare a full nutritional label which must be approved by the Food and Drug Administration. That label should disclose the cholesterol level.

With all the concern about dietary cholesterol and fat these days, how do eggs shape up?

Recent analyses indicate large eggs contain about 210 milligrams of cholesterol. Tests dating back to 1976 show large eggs to have 274 milligrams of cholesterol.

At the same time, tests show large eggs containing 5.2 grams of fat, down from the 5.8 grams reported in 1976.

Why the reductions?

There are a number of possible explanations for the reduced levels of cholesterol and fat in eggs today. Changes in feed, management and breeding practices as well as more sophisticated analytical methods for measuring dietary cholesterol may all account for the lower levels.

FDA will likely release regulations next year regarding cholesterol labeling claims. Even if eggs have lower cholesterol, they cannot be labeled 'low cholesterol' or 'reduced cholesterol' without meeting FDA definitions.

Expected definitions include 'low cholesterol' - less than 20 mg per serving and 'reduced cholesterol' - 75 percent reduction from the original.

Because of the increased attention to healthy diets and the fact that people with high serum cholesterol levels need to control their dietary cholesterol and fat intakes, the market for low cholesterol and low fat foods continues to expand. Consumers need to be cautious of product labeling and various claims that may or may not be true.

POND MANAGEMENT

'MISINFORMATION' DISCUSSED

Certain misconceptions about pond management can make the role of a pond owner more difficult.

Here are a number of "un-truths":

Domestic ducks will eliminate aquatic vegetation in farm ponds. Ducks will eat some plants, but they usually create more problems than they solve. Large numbers of ducks can ruin a pond for fishing with their droppings. These make the pond overly fertile, increasing algae problems and reducing water quality. Often dissolved oxygen is reduced in the pond and a fish die-off occurs. Also, if the ducks eat all the shoreline vegetation, bank erosion will increase and the pond will become muddy.

Grass carp will remove all weed problems. First, it is illegal to stock grass carp in Texas ponds. In addition, they will eat only certain weeds and leave the others, especially algae. Grass carp are no cure-all for weed problems in a pond.

Turtles are often to blame for poor fishing. Although turtles will eat an occasional fish, they feed mostly on dead animals, vegetation and whatever else is too slow to escape. Therefore, turtles generally are good for a pond.

Fish die whenever a pond freezes over in the winter. Generally, ice on Texas ponds last only a short time and presents no problems for the fish population. If ice remains on a pond for more than three weeks and there is more than two inches of snow on top of the ice, then a fish die-off may occur in fertile ponds.

More information on pond management is available from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

20 year reunion...

SHS class of '69 preparing for activities at country club

The Snyder High School class of 1969 will have their 20-year reunion next weekend. Activities will be held at the Snyder Country Club and Western Texas College.

There will be an ice cream Memorial Park pavilion. Everyone is urged to bring their kids. Afterwards, there will be a dance at the old rodeo grounds in conjunction with the county rodeo. Jody Nix will be playing from 9:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. The cost will be $5.

Saturday morning, the classmates will have a breakfast buffet at Willow Park Inn at 10:30. The menu will include bacon, eggs, hash browns, biscuits, gravy, muffins, coffee and juice. Men are not required to wear suits.

At 11:30, those interested in golf will meet at the WTC golf course to draw teams. Tee time will be at noon. The cost will be $15, not including carts. Any money over the cost will be placed in a prize fund.

The WTC pool will be open for the group from 1 to 3 p.m. The men have challenged the women to a volleyball game at 2 p.m. at the WTC gym.

Everyone will meet for dinner at 6 p.m. at the Snyder Country Club. A dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. with the Easy Money Band playing.

All Snyder High School faculty members are invited to participate in the activities, and all SHS exes are invited to attend the dance.

Dillaha accepts new post to attend medical school.

After Dillaha graduated from high school, he attended Little Rock Junior College for one year. After that, he signed up for the government's V-12 program which paid college expenses in exchange for military service. Eventually, the government paid one year of pre-med and four years of medical school.

He attended Tulane University in New Orleans for two semesters of pre-med courses before he was given the choice between a boot camp for medical school or a line officer training at a nursing school. Dillaha chose the latter and was sent to Northwestern University where he graduated in September of 1944 as an ensign. He was immediately assigned to a mine layer in the Pacific, the USS Weehawken.

When World War II ended, Dillaha left active service but remained in the reserves.

He took one more year of pre-med at Hendricks College in Conway, Ark.

"I chose Hendricks College because it had a good reputation for getting people into medical school," Dillaha explained.

His sister was also then studying to be a biochemist.

Dillaha next attended the University of Arkansas where he began four years of medical school. He and his wife got married the first year he was there.

From 1951-52, Dillaha served as an intern at a Naval hospital at Oakland, Calif. From 1952-53, he served as a medical officer at a seabee base located on the west coast.

Dillaha was in Oakland, Calif. during the Korean War and because of all the dependants of servicemen living in the Bay area, he said anywhere from 200-300 babies were born each month.

Dillaha said he chose to become a general or family practitioner because it only required one year of internship and since he had a family to take care of he thought he needed to start making a living as soon as possible. In addition to that, he said he also likes general medicine because it gives him knowledge in a variety of areas.

Dillaha said he is very happy that he remained in Snyder because "the people here are the friendliest I've ever been around." He also said that it is gratifying for him to deliver babies and then watch them grow up.

The Dillahas have two sons, Steven is the general manager of Wilson motors and David works in the oil fields and currently lives in Dallas. David has a daughter, Maribeth, who is 10 and lives with her grandparents.

There was only one quarterback sack in the 1981 Super Bowl Game between the Eagles and Raiders, a record for the event.

Child care costs differ

ROCHESTER, Wis. (AP) — Full-time child care costs nearly four times as much in New York City as it does in Tampa, Fla., according to research from Runzheimer International.

The management consulting firm says full-time day care for one child averages $8,944 per year in New York and $2,392 in Tampa.

"Manhattan parents pay, on average, $172 per week per child for full-time day care, much greater than the $46 paid in Tampa," says Wallace J. McDonough, executive vice president of Runzheimer's Living Cost Division. "This difference may seem way out of line, but it is actually in keeping with area differences in the overall cost of living."

Boston has the second-highest overall cost with $5,688 per year, followed by areas surrounding New York City: Westchester County, N.Y.; Northeastern New Jersey; Long Island, N.Y., and Fairfield County, Conn.

Rounding out the top 10 are Anchorage, Alaska, $4,368; San Francisco, $4,264; Washington, $3,952; Chicago, $3,900.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT'S MY DAY. By Martha Gellhorn.

Eleanor Roosevelt's legendary diary to the nation, "My Day," is collected here for the first time. Her historic syndicated columns, which appeared in newspapers across the country for 26 years, were the perfect forum for the First Lady's shrewd wit and abundant compassion. In this volume, which spans the tumultuous time from 1936 through 1945, we get a fascinating glimpse into her social and political life as the wife of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and a first-hand look, through the eyes of a keen observer, at the events that changed the world. These columns, along with the brief historical precludes that enhance our understanding of the period, offer us new insight into Eleanor Roosevelt, a woman of true moral courage and imagination, the "First Lady of the World."

Lawsuit: buyout was attempt to shirk claims

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawsuit seeking to represent more than 80,000 people has targeted leveraged buyout giants Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. and Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., claiming the $2.4 billion buyout of Jim Walter Corp. was a ploy to escape legal obligations.

The lawsuit filed in state court in Beaumont claims the 1987 takeover was a fraudulent attempt by Jim Walter to avoid more than $3 billion in liabilities stemming from asbestos claims against the Tampa, Fla.-based home-builder's Celotex Corp. subsidiary.

The suit, which asks for class action status, seeks no monetary damages for three named plaintiffs or for the thousands of others it says have similar, separate lawsuits pending in courts around the country.

Instead, it attempts to prevent the further sale of any Jim Walter assets and to hold Kohlberg Kravis and the remaining corporate structure responsible for any judgments related to asbestos-related lawsuits.

"I think this will prove to be a landmark case in this country," said Houston attorney Stephen Susman, who filed the lawsuit Thursday in state District Judge Gary Sanderson's court.

Spokesmen for Kohlberg Kravis and Jim Walter, however, said the claims were similar to a suit already in federal court and were without merit.

"This was a standard, garden-variety leveraged buyout," Jim Walter spokesman David Townsend said. "Consequently, our position has been and continues to be that the allegations set forth in the previous (federal) complaint and in this complaint are totally without merit and we intend to defend ourselves vigorously."

The suit alleges Kohlberg Kravis's 1987 buyout of Jim Walter actually was part of a scheme by Jim Walter to evade its liability in the growing number of lawsuits being filed against Celotex.

About $2 billion of the buyout was financed by bank loans, and the investment group led by Kohlberg Kravis later sold bonds through Drexel to replace the bank debt. Selected Jim Walter assets have since been sold to help pay for the deal.

"The intended effect of these transactions was to strip Jim Walter of virtually all of its valuable assets and, as a necessary consequence, to limit the resources available to satisfy asbestos judgments against Celotex and Jim Walter," the lawsuit states.

"We want to undo this transaction," Susman said after the lawsuit was filed. "We want the people responsible for this transaction to be liable for any judgments in favor of more than 80,000 people who are seeking justice."

Parents' Helping Hand May Be Bitten During Divorce

DEAR ABBY: As an attorney with a large matrimonial practice, I spend a great deal of time helping to divide up the assets and liabilities of a marriage at the time of a divorce. Admittedly, no one wants the liabilities — the loans, the credit card charges, the boat payments — but eventually they are divided.

There is one liability, however, that usually goes by the wayside. This is the loan from the parents of one spouse to the couple. It could have been a large loan for a down payment on a house. Sometimes that is documented, and sometimes it even gets paid. More often, it is a series of small loans to pay the electric bill, the car insurance, the mortgage, or to help the newly separated daughter and child get a new apartment.

How bitter are those parents when the court finds these are "gifts" from the parents and need not be repaid by the other spouse — not even his half. Surely the parents never intended to make a "gift" to a son-in-law who was abusing and/or neglecting their daughter and grandchildren. Yet the court rarely orders repayment of these loans unless there is full supporting documentation to prove a loan. Canceled checks alone are not enough.

Parents, for big items, walk the kids down to the bank. Offer to co-sign for a loan if necessary, but make it their loan, their promise to repay the bank.

For smaller loans, the parents should invest in a book of promissory notes from the local stationery store. As they make a loan, even if it's only one loan, they should have both the daughter and son-in-law sign a promissory note to repay. Make payment due "on demand" if no specific date is promised by the borrowers.

Perhaps then at the time of divorce, the parents will have a better chance of repayment. If they forgive their own child's loan, that's their business, but as they never intended to make a "gift" to their daughter's fickle spouse, it will not be considered to be one.

Maybe the daughter will get a larger percentage of the assets if she agrees to repay her husband's share of the loan. That's all right, too. Parents should not feel they are dropping money into a void when they help a distressed child whose marriage may fail.

Please withhold my name and sign this ...

NON-ATTORNEY

DEAR N.J. ATTORNEY: What a gold mine of information, especially when so many marriages are ending in divorce these days. I'm aware that the laws differ from state to state, but thanks for clueing us in on how the law works in New Jersey.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to "Alice in Altoona, Pa.," who pointed out some bad habits we have in our manner of speaking — for example, punctuating the end of every sentence with "Right?" or using "OK" in the same manner.

I offer these overused meaningless words and phrases:

"At this point in time." "Telling it like it is." "State of the art." "When push comes to shove." "The whole ball of wax." "By and large." "You name it."

And: whatever, nitty-gritty, impacted, basically, top dollar, or what have you, hopefully, simplistic, viable, bottom line, you can say that again, and bye now!

How did Edmund Burke, Churchill, Jefferson and Lincoln, to name a few, manage to communicate without the help of the aforementioned? It, like, you know, boggles the mind, so basically, I'm out of here, I'm gone, until a new cliché master signs on. We're talking game plan, so hang tough, or whatever, right?

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from the woman who stayed on her side of the bed for 40 years because her husband hardly ever took a bath.

I have a brother who is just like him. He came to stay with me for two months last summer, and never took one bath or shower in all the time he was here. I kept checking the towels and washrag every day, and he never used one!

I changed the sheets and pillowcases on his bed every week, and had to hold my nose while I carried them to the washing machine. (I used to sneak into his bedroom while he was sleeping so I could get his socks and underwear in order to wash them.)

This man dressed up in a sport and looked clean, but he was anything but. He splashed a lot of cologne and after-shave on himself, so he must have known that he needed it. I gave him some deodorant, but he didn't get the hint and never touched it.

Why do some folks just hate to bathe? There must be something wrong upstairs. I would appreciate the opinion of a psychiatrist.

STINKY'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: I asked my No. 1 consultant, Dr. Judd Marmor, past president of the American Psychiatric Association, and he said: "Some older people who are chronically depressed will go for long periods — often many months — without bathing. They seem totally unaware that they smell bad, and may become hostile and defensive when told that they absolutely must bathe."

"In cases where there is repressed anger, refusal to bathe is one way of distancing oneself from a spouse or family members."

"People who have very low self-esteem will neglect personal hygiene. They feel loathsome ('Why bother; I'm not worth the trouble')."

"If it comes on late in life and hasn't been a lifelong pattern, it may indicate that an organic brain problem has developed."

"In order to determine specifically the reason for refusing to bathe, the person would have to be psychiatrically examined."

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing that wonderful poem Jimmy Stewart wrote about his dog named Beau. It was priceless.

It brought back some fond memories. I am a retired doctor of veterinary medicine and was formerly an assistant to Dr. J.D. Cozzens, who practiced in Westwood Village, Calif., back in 1936-1938. Most of our clients were movie stars, such as Pat O'Brien, Jeanette MacDonald, Gene Raymond, Fred MacMurray, Lloyd Nolan and Jimmy Stewart.

One day we received a telephone call from Jimmy Stewart. He was at the dog pound trying to retrieve his English setter, which had been picked up by the dog catcher. Mr. Stewart needed us to identify the dog. I took the dog absolutely no recognition of Mr. Stewart when he came to claim him. Because I had handled the dog, Dr. Cozzens sent me down to the pound to verify the ownership of the setter.

As I recall, the dog acted as though he had never seen Mr. Stewart before, which was quite upsetting to this famous movie star.

Anyway, I established the identity, and Mr. Stewart took the dog home. This happened more than 50 years ago, so Mr. Stewart may not remember it, but I will never forget it.

WALLACE R. EAGLE, D.V.M.,
GENEVA, ILL.

DEAR DR. EAGLE: Thanks for sharing a delightful memory.

DEAR ABBY: Please share an idea with "Worried Mom," whose in-laws fail to buckle up their grandchild in his car seat. Tell "Mom" to borrow a videotape on child safety from her local hospital, or police department, and view it with her in-laws.

Using dummies, these auto safety videos reveal graphically what happens to a young child or infant even in minor accidents.

I saw one of these videotapes in the hospital when our baby was born. Ten years later, I can still vividly recall how the head of the "doll" was crushed in a 20-mph car crash.

We have a rule at our house — buckle up or the car doesn't move!

After second attempt...

Convicted killer declared dead Friday

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — A mildly retarded killer died in Alabama's electric chair early Friday in the second execution attempt after the first try failed because of a misconnected cable.

Horace Franklin Dunkins Jr., 28, was declared dead at 12:27 a.m., 19 minutes after the executioner first flipped the voltage switch. The U.S. Supreme Court turned down two last-minute appeals to stop the execution.

State Prison Commissioner Morris Thigpen said the jacks connecting electricity to the chair were reversed, and so did not deliver enough voltage to kill Dunkins on the first try.

"I regret very, very much what happened," Thigpen said. "It was human error. I just hope he was not conscious and did not suffer."

Dunkins' attorney, Steve Ellis, described Dunkins' death as a "grisly scene."

When the guard raised the two vinyl shades covering the window in the witness room, Dunkins was already strapped in the electric chair, his face covered by a black veil attached to the hood of the electrodes on his head.

Thigpen said the first throw of the switch at 12:08 a.m. brought no visible response from the condemned man.

A guard in the witness room opened the door to the death chamber, and told another guard directing the execution, "I believe you've got the jacks on wrong." Neither guard was identified.

White House reassigns Secret Service officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several uniformed Secret Service officers at the White House are under investigation for alleged security violations and theft, and late night tours of the presidential mansion have been curtailed, The Washington Times said Friday.

The Times said one Secret Service officer, Reginald A. deGueldre, has been transferred to embassy foot patrol, and a second uniformed officer was transferred following an investigation by the Secret Service's inspections division. Both men worked the midnight

Dunkins determined he was unconscious, but had a strong heartbeat, Thigpen told a news conference later.

"They're torturing him," Ellis said softly to a fellow witness during the medical exam.

At 12:17 a.m., the switch was thrown a second time. Ten minutes later, Dunkins was pronounced dead.

shift at the White House, said the Times, which earlier this month reported that a 1 a.m. tour included two male prostitutes. Late night tours have been greatly reduced, and an internal investigation is under way, the newspaper said.

"You can expect a number of others ... on the hot seat."

Alabama law allows application of electricity to the condemned until the prisoner is dead.

Dunkins, who according to court documents has an IQ of 69, was convicted in 1981 of murdering Lynn McCurry, a 26-year-old mother of four who was found stabbed 66 times and bound to a tree behind her home. A second defendant, Frank M. Harris, pleaded guilty and is serving a life sentence.

Dunkins became the 115th person executed in the United States and the fifth in Alabama since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed states to reinstate capital punishment in 1976.

The U.S. Supreme Court, voting 7-2 each time, twice refused Thursday to block Dunkins' execution.

The victim's husband, Allen McCurry, had said that Dunkins deserved execution. "It's taken so long," he said. "It ought to be over."

By Donny Brown

The other day, we were searching for a one-word descriptive term for a "tool" used on a newspaper.

We failed. All we could come up with were things like "word processor" and "laser printer," "video display terminal" and "floppy disc" and that curious computer paradox, "hard discs" working with "soft ware."

At the time, it depressed us severely that our world was getting so complicated that it took two and even three words to describe what we generically refer to as "that thang over there in the corner."

We really got a case of the blue willies thinking that the tools of our proverbial trade had gotten to the point that they defy a single word explanation.

It seemed endemic of the times, and we had visions of the trend only growing worse, a world headlong committed to growing more complex.

In our worst nightmare, we found ourself reduced to entering the fluctuating multi-port for entrance and egress to gain access to our rest chamber-work area. That this work should be completed on a mixed-media display screen complete with hard-floppy disc memory capability and super fast keyboarding stations.

SDN Opinion Page

It made us feel, as we often do, like the only brown suit at the tuxedo rental shop.

This case of the post modern heebie jeebies faded, however. It dawned on us that nothing repeats itself like the past, as we had a vision of some news crank at the turn of this century eyeing suspiciously his newfangled "type writer."

We realized that this tool, now almost extinct in news rooms everywhere, likely began as a two-worder—a wonderful invention which sets type with such a flourish, it can truthfully be called "type writing."

You can't convince us that learning to use a word processor appears any more difficult to us modern types than a typewriter keyboard did to some guy accustomed to pencil or pen.

We are threatened by such things and we fight back. As a result, the good old "human bean" eventually gets around to making his two-word description of the device's function into a one-word "thang," i.e., the typewriter.

It is a defense mechanism of our race, to neuter such threatening words into forms which we can be more comfortable with.

Sometimes we simply lose the space between the two words, as in the case with a typewriter.

Following this assumption, the day isn't too far ahead when our current "equipment of the future" has been reduced in rank. What the final version will be will depend on general usage, but we can speculate on such terms as "worders," "vee-dees" or "flops."

With tongue in cheek, we can see the working man of the future punching his "flop" into the "worder" to punch out a line of copy which he might refer to as "hard stuff."

We could go on, but we're beginning to feel like Edd (Kookie) Burns.

Americans like to turn their spoken language into a shorthand that goes from open mouth to comprehension in slightly less than a New York minute.

Just between thee and me, we feel a whole lot better.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

OK, I admit it. I'm prejudiced. I like cops. Some of my best friends are cops; in fact, one of my closest woman friends (if I could have chosen a sister, it would have been her), is a cop. Because of the intense research demanded by my work — writing novels of suspense — I've made a network of cop friends all over the state; big-city and small-town cops, sheriff's deputies, highway troopers and Texas Rangers. My own father, an ex-career Marine, is involved in high-risk security at Pantex nuclear plant in Amarillo. We have great phone conversations, discussing things like riot control and weapons and obstacle courses. (I must confess though, half the time he says, "Well, I can't talk about that. It's classified." It's like reading a letter with the sentences and paragraphs cut out.)

I'm not going to paraphrase Will Rogers and say that I've never met a cop I didn't like, but let's just say that I've met so many I like that they make me forget all about the few whom I don't. For the most part they work impossible hours doing a thankless job and spend most of their time with people who would cut their throats if they had a chance or thought they could get away with it. (Recently my friend from Dallas, D.K., related a story about training a rookie, and how one night they arrested a guy who tried to beat the you-know-what out of both of them. Finally they managed to get him cuffed and in leg restraints and buckled into the back seat of the squad car. While D.K. drove, the young rookie watched their charge, who entertained himself thus confined by spitting on them. The rookie was getting all bent out of shape. She said, "I don't mind spit. It only costs $2.50 to get this uniform cleaned." When the rookie began to lose his cool, she told him, "Don't get upset. Just pull his shirt up over his face. He can spit all he wants to." Needless to say, it was a long trip to the jail.)

Now, Dallas cops don't face much different on their jobs than Snyder cops; they just face a lot more of it. In that light, I'm going to quote from a letter which was recently sent to the Dallas Police Department from a Mrs. Patsy Day, executive director of Victims Outreach. She called it a "love letter."

I don't have enough space to quote the whole letter, but the point is that these little acts of everyday heroism take place everywhere and anywhere a uniform answers a call for help:

"THANK YOU officers...

" for sitting at the hospital and coloring with a six-year-old victim awaiting a rape exam;

" for forming a protective circle around distraught victims when the cameras wanted to intrude on their grief;

" for not allowing the press or onlookers to approach a nude body until it had been covered;

" for digging into your own pockets to provide Christmas for a minority family whose breadwinner had been murdered;

" for providing protection to a terrified family who had been threatened by their loved one's uncaptured murderer;

" for gently making sure a six-year-old who had wandered away early from soccer practice had not been harmed during the two hours he was missing;

" for giving special attention to the teenaged brother of a murder victim by taking him to dinner and movies when you were off duty;

" for working with disadvantaged youngsters to keep them from a life of crime;

" for sitting at the breakfast table and crying with the families of missing and murdered children;

" for being honest with crime victims;

" for calling victims to update them on an investigation, even if you have nothing to report.

" for taking extraordinary pains to notify families of homicide victims that their loved one's body has been found before they have to hear it from someone else;

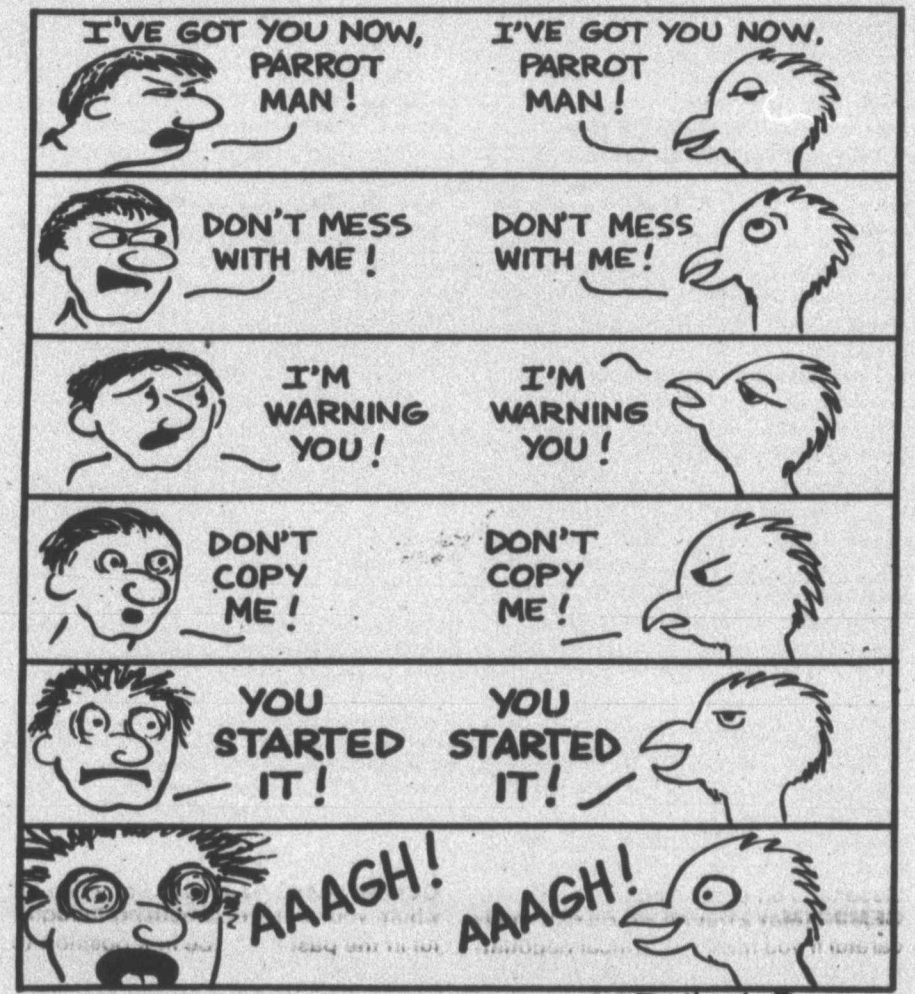

" for continuing to do the best job you can, even when you know the guy you arrest today will be out on bail tomorrow, free for up to a year or so to commit more crimes before he goes to trial, and paroled back on the streets within a few weeks or months of sentencing;

" for your dedication to a community in which you are underpaid, overcriticized and unappreciated;

" YOUR KINDNESS and acts of bravery have not gone unnoticed."

(quoted from the "Dallas Police News," Dallas Police Department, May 19, 1989, Vol. XXXV No. 3.)

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY

July 9

A "first" for Western Texas College has been taking place this summer as 21 area high school age students have been given an early taste of campus life, it was reported Sunday.

Called the "Mainstream" program, it has been coordinated by Debbie Brunson. This year's session will officially end Thursday.

MONDAY

July 10

The expected completion date has been moved forward 14 days for the Price Daniel Unit now under construction northeast of the city, and could be moved even further forward pending the receipt of equipment deliveries, it was reported Monday.

City council members Monday night were presented a working copy of the 1989-90 municipal budget and set a schedule of budgetary work sessions, the first being this Thursday.

Adoption of the budget is scheduled for Sept. 11, following an Aug. 7 public hearing.

To the editor,

Some things need to be cleared up and then the letter to the editor can be about something else when I am writing. This will be the last on this subject.

I read my letter that came out in the paper Tuesday and thought, "Why on earth did I apologize twice?" I just called the County Board of Development the Chamber of Commerce.

The Price Daniel Unit's upper-level management team has officially reported for work and say they are happy to be in a clean West Texas city and away from the crime-besotted Houston area.

Maj. E.J. "Ed" Norman and Capt. J.D. Smith and Mike Searcy said in a Tuesday morning interview at the temporary Texas Department of Corrections' offices in northwestern Snyder that they have also been encouraged by the friendly reception they have gotten from Snyder townspeople.

A lawsuit has been voluntarily withdrawn which was filed against Snyder ISD last September alleging race was a factor when a local woman was not employed by the district during the 1986-87 and 1987-88 school year.

Withdrawing her suit is Evelyn Malone, who claimed the fact that she is black prompted discriminatory hiring practices by the district.

The case was officially dismissed Tuesday "with prejudice," a term in the law which indicates the plaintiff agrees that the issues cannot be raised again in a future lawsuit.

Some 163 persons registered to give blood Tuesday with 156 pints ultimately drawn.

Included in the 163 were seven medical deferrals. There were 36 first time donors.

WEDNESDAY

July 12

Total deposits and loans declined in Snyder during the second-quarter, according to figures reported by four of the five financial institutions here.

Total deposits at three banks and one savings and loan association were $199.6 million. This figure is down $3.8 million from last quarter and $2.1 million from the second quarter of 1988.

A goal of $78,000 was set Wednesday by the Scurry County United Way board of directors, a reduced amount from drive's held here the past three years.

In lowering its hoped for goal, the board also redirected funding for the eight agencies to be served with the 1989 campaign with increased funding approved for the Snyder Child Day Care Center, Noah Project, the Boys Club and Oil Patch Foster Parents.

Trustees for Western Texas College received a first draft for the 1989-90 budget Wednesday, one which includes a tax rate calculated to generate the same amount of taxes for the college as last year and a 5 percent pay raise for college staffers.

Four new instructors at Western Texas College were approved Wednesday by WTC trustees.

Those named included Donny L. Brown, managing editor of the SDN since 1982, who will head the WTC journalism department beginning this fall; Janice Maudlin of Snyder, employed as an instructor of developmental mathematics; Jimmy S. McGee of Texarkana as a political science instructor; and Jack H. Price, a native of Lamesa now residing in Billings, Mont., as a management instructor.

THURSDAY

July 13

In a budget discussion with more than a dozen Cogdell

Memorial Hospital supporters present, Scurry County commissioners Thursday indicated that they will grant the county-owned hospital's request for a tax subsidy next year of $560,000.

This reflects an increase of the current subsidy of some $200,000.

City council members Thursday night reviewed a proposed 1989-90 municipal budget that would include a 20 percent increase in water, sewer and sanitation rates, an 8 percent property tax increase and a 5 percent raise for city employees.

Overall, the budget would increase by $584,324, or 12.3 percent, to a total of $5,334,520.

Closing the Snyder High School campus during the noon hour, an option discussed by board members at a June 20 workshop, is no longer being considered, at least for now, school officials say.

At Thursday's July meeting, school board officials informed a local attorney representing a group of "concerned citizens and parents" that the issue "will not be coming before this board for a vote."

Some things need to be cleared up and then the letter to the editor can be about something else when I am writing. This will be the last on this subject.

I read my letter that came out in the paper Tuesday and thought, "Why on earth did I apologize twice?" I just called the County Board of Development the Chamber of Commerce.

I made an error. I did not commit a crime.

It sounded as if someone had told me to make an apology and nothing could be farther from the truth. Except for one person, no one outside of the family has found this important enough to discuss. Mr. Moss did not ask for an apology. Basically, he asked if I could help him to set the record straight about the error above and I said I could.

I regret the error, but I am not apologizing for writing the letter. I still believe that out of the thousands of dollars that were spent on various forms of advertising that our company could have been given at least one order since we have been in business in Snyder for 27 years.

Just as the apron order was handled in Snyder, the button order should have been also. On See LETTERS, Page 7B

July 16, 1989

In the year ahead you will be showered by ample opportunities, but the best ones are not likely to be long shots. Stick to traditional types of sure things.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Usually you're a reliable, dependable person, but today you might pretend you took care of something for another when you really didn't. Truth will win out. Cancer, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you may be inclined to cater to your whims for overindulgence, both physically and financially. Uncontrolled appetites in these areas could lead to regrets.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not succumb to your restlessness today and begin to make important changes merely for the sake of change. Dissatisfaction could contribute to unsound reasoning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Refrain from attempting to embellish your achievements today. Your creditability will suffer if others catch you telling tall tales you cannot verify.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a person who seldom counts your chickens before they hatch, but today you might bank rather heavily on something that is not yet a reality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A clever acquaintance who is aware that you can be manipulated through flattery might lay it on thick today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your good looks and charm will not guarantee your success today. If there is something important you hope to accomplish, you'd better be prepared to roll up your sleeves and really work for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might be wise today not to subject yourself to a social involvement that will contain several people whose company you do not enjoy. If you must attend, have excuses ready for an early exit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not take bows prematurely today for something you have not yet accomplished. A person who would like to trip you up may ask to see the finished product.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Most of the time you like to play things by ear, but if you don't have concise plans for each step of the way today, you could experience some turbulence. Be careful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Joint ventures could be problematical today, especially if your counterpart ineffectively manages your collective interests. Keep close tabs on everything.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extremely careful if you have any critical negotiating to do today. You could go in thinking you have the edge, but this won't be the case.

July 17, 1989

Several partnership arrangements that will not be formed for material purposes will greatly enrich your life in the year ahead. Three in particular should be standouts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Happy results are in the offing regarding several matters where you and your mate are in agreement. Harmony of purpose is the secret to success in joint endeavors. Major changes are ahead for Cancer in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Ambitious objectives can be achieved today, provided you have the fortitude to do so. Give these matters top priority and put all else on the back burners.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Business and pleasure should blend rather well for you today, so if there is something important you want to discuss with a major client, do it in convivial surroundings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Several serious matters can be concluded to your satisfaction today, even though you may be doubtful of your ability to do so. Face the lion in his den and you'll see you have nothing to fear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your greatest gift today is your ability to keep everything in proper perspective. Even if you'll have to deal with serious issues, they'll not overwhelm you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This could be a good day to go shopping, because you'll be sensible about what you purchase and items you buy are apt to remain your favorites for a long time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The more difficult the challenge today, the more gratification you are apt to take in overcoming it. You know your limitations, but you also are keenly aware of your talents and abilities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your peers will perceive you to be someone they can rely on today. They'll know once you give your word to do something, you'll follow it through to a constructive conclusion.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being with loyal old friends and adhering to familiar routines will bring you considerable satisfaction today. You're not apt to find the same gratification in involvements with new acquaintances.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're better equipped to handle tough assignments today than you may realize or appreciate. What's more, you're likely to succeed completely unscathed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Special knowledge or expertise you've acquired through personal experience can be used to your advantage today. You'll instinctively know exactly how and when to apply it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone for whom you've done something thoughtful in the past might be in a position to reciprocate today. The affection with which this will be done could touch you deeply.

'Small fry' firms joining in search

HOUSTON (AP) — There was a time when most of the hunters for oil and gas in the Gulf of Mexico had familiar names like Amoco, Chevron and Shell. Now the monikers are Pilgrim, Pello, Newfield and others equally obscure.

The littler fish are swimming with the whales in increasing numbers, and they have given a noticeable boost to the level of activity offshore of Texas and Louisiana, analysts say.

"Independent oil and gas companies are leading the search for hydrocarbons in the Gulf of Mexico," said Tom Marsh, drilling editor for Offshore Data Services. "The percentage of independents to majors has increased."

Independents were operating 73 of the 138 drilling rigs working the Gulf as of June 26, and they started 13 of the 18 exploratory wells spudded that week, Marsh said. Major oil companies accounted for only 28 of the 65 rigs drilling exploratory wells.

Marsh said drilling by independents accounts for much of the recent increase in activity in the Gulf.

Many of the independents involved are small and new. "We've had a number of new companies that have qualified, and ... they spur drilling along," said Rod Pearcy, New Orleans-based regional manager for the Minerals Management Service, which sells federal leases and supervises operations offshore.

Many are taking farm-outs from major oil companies, Pearcy said. Typically, this occurs when a major company has a lease that is about to expire unless an exploratory well is drilled by the end of the five-year lease period. One quick way to get that done is to turn the project over to another company.

But a growing number of independents are developing their own prospects, and they are increasingly visible at lease sales.

In November 1982, 10 small firms submitted 24 bids and accounted for only 1 percent of the dollar outlay — but last March, 28 small companies offered 244 bids worth 16 percent of the cash exposed, said Minerals Management Service spokeswoman Eileen Angelico.

Among the small newcomers is Pilgrim Exploration Co. of Houston, which has yet to drill a well but was an active buyer in the last Minerals Management Service lease sale in the central Gulf. At the March sale, Pilgrim submitted high bids totaling $2.7 million for 11 tracts comprising 50,000 acres, outbidding several majors.

"We kind of surprised everyone," said Ed Jackson, president of the 2-year-old company.

Part of the attractiveness of the Gulf lies in the fact that it is primarily a gas-producing area, and many analysts are betting on increased demand and higher prices as the cleanliness of the fuel becomes more widely appreciated in an increasingly environment-conscious era.

"We are primarily in the gas business, and (the Gulf) is where the majority of it is. That's why we're out there," said James Brokmeyer of Houston-based Pello Oil Co., another busy player in the March lease sale.

But the biggest reason smaller firms are moving into the Gulf is the cost of operating has now come down to a level that is within their reach, Jackson said.

Leases are cheaper as a result of a change in policy by the Minerals Management Service. Before 1983, oil companies competed for just a few selected tracts, but that year the government began so-called areawide leasing, which opened up large areas and lowered minimum bonuses.

The minimum price in the March sale, for example, was $25 an acre for a five-year lease — whereas in the boom days of the early 1980s, the average price reached several thousand dollars an acre, Jackson said.

Drilling costs are lower, largely as a result of the prolonged slump in the oil and gas industry as a whole. "Owing to the fact that there's an excess of rigs, it is now possible to get ... drilling contracts at very attractive prices. It's very competitive for the driller," Jackson said.

It also helps that many areas of the Gulf have a well-developed processing and pipeline network that smaller operators can use to get their product to market.

the $2,900 order, we would have given a $290 discount and 40 percent of the remainder would have stayed in Snyder.

Who are we supposed to be helping, Midland or Snyder?

I realize people in Snyder could not handle the total package, but we could have handled part of it. It does not make sense to pay an advertising agency to order buttons for us when specialty advertising companies do not charge for doing it.

willful failure to file an income tax return and three counts of income tax evasion.

Mr. Roth's defense against the charges was his good faith that he was not required by law to file a tax return. In support of his belief, he pointed out that the filing of income tax forms couldn't be mandatory because the forms themselves don't contain certain data the government must legally include in all its requests for information from citizens.

Public Law 96-511, part of the Paperwork Reduction Act, requires that all government forms requesting information from citizens include an identification number assigned by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) with an expiration date in dictating when the form must be reviewed for renewal.

The law also required that the form explain why the information is needed, how it will be used by the government and whether providing the information is mandatory or voluntary.

The law also states, at 44 USCS 3512, that "...no persons shall be subject to any penalty for failing to maintain or provide information to any agency if the information collection request involved was made after Dec. 31, 1981, and does not display a current control number assigned by the Director...."

Mr. Bill Benson, a Chicago tax activist specializing in federal regulations who assisted Roth at trial, said Roth clearly established that he believed in good faith that he was not required to file tax returns because they did not include the OMB number and other legally required statements. And the jury acquitted him.

Benson said this win shows that the government is doing all it can to keep the truth from coming before the American people. Benson is the author of "The Law That Never Was," a two volume work establishing that the 16th Amendment to the constitution, providing for unapportioned taxation of incomes, was never legally ratified. His documentation includes the ratification papers of every state involved.

2-ex thrift executives get light terms

DALLAS (AP) — Two former thrift executives were given much lighter sentences than a third defendant in a scheme to steer money from the savings and loan for illegal political contributions.

U.S. District Judge Joe Fish on Thursday ordered former Commodore Savings Association executives E. Morten Hopkins and John Harrell to five years in prison, but suspended all but six months of the sentences.

Commodore's former owner, Robert H. Hopkins Jr., was sentenced Wednesday to 15 years in prison for creating the donation scheme, which began in 1982.

Fish said his sentencing of Robert Hopkins was in part to serve as a deterrent to others.

"I have a hard time accepting Mr. Hopkins' explanation and justification for his conduct that he thought what he was doing was legal, or in any event, he was just doing what everyone else was doing," Fish said.

Robert Hopkins testified he started the donation scheme at the thrift after using it at his mortgage company and said he did not know it was illegal.

Federal law prohibits corporate contributions to political campaigns.

Carol Vance, the Houston attorney who represented the defendants, did not return a phone call from The Associated Press.

A jury in May convicted the Hopkins brothers on 47 counts including conspiracy, making false entries into the records of a bank, misappropriation of funds and making false statements to a federal agency.

Harrell, former Commodore chief executive, was convicted on two counts of making false entries into the records of a bank, but acquitted on the other charges.

Fish also ordered all three men to pay restitution to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance

Corp. for money diverted from the thrift. The FSLIC will recover $104,062 from the judgment, with Harrell to pay about $4,000 and the Hopkins brothers to pay the balance.

During the trial, thrift employees testified they gave money to political action committees and were reimbursed through pay increases or checks for fictional travel.

Prosecutors alleged the defendants tried to hide contributions to members of Congress, including Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, who was then embroiled in an ethics investigation that led to his resignation.

Prosecutors said there was no evidence that recipients of the contributions knew of the scheme.

In setting his NBA record of 906 consecutive games played, Randy Smith played for four different teams, twice with San Diego. The others were Buffalo, Cleveland and New York.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

Parasite causes ubiquitous infection

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is toxoplasmosis? I was tested positive by my ophthalmologist. Does this affect other parts of the body?

DEAR READER: Toxoplasmosis is a ubiquitous infection (seeming to be everywhere) caused by the parasite Toxoplasma gondii. The microorganism is associated with four types of reaction:

- Mild lymphatic is the most common type and is marked by fever, fatigue and swollen glands. It resembles flu and mononucleosis. No treatment is required and patients recover uneventfully. The eyes are seldom affected.

- Disseminated infection occurs in patients whose immune systems are deficient. It causes rash, high fever, shock, meningitis, pneumonia or heart inflammation. Treatment consists of special antibiotics and cortisone.

- Chronic toxoplasmosis often affects the eyes, leading to visual difficulties. It is also associated with weakness, weight loss and headache. Without treatment, most patients with eye impairment reach a stage where the disease "burns out," meaning that scar tissue forms and does not progress, although the blood test for toxoplasmosis may remain positive for years. Treatment depends on the severity and activity of the eye infection (uveitis). In the United States, uveitis from toxoplasmosis is rare.

- Neonatal congenital toxoplasmosis causes infected pregnant women unknowingly to pass the parasite to their unborn babies. This can cause stillbirth because of fulminant, generalized infection in newborns. The treatment is special antibiotics and cortisone, as above.

Your ophthalmologist will have to decide whether your eye problems are due to toxoplasmosis and whether treatment is necessary. Because this type of infection is so rare in the United States, your physician will probably wish to obtain a second opinion. The main issue is whether your eye disease is active and, if so, the result of toxoplasmosis.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For years my wife and I have taken oyster-shell calcium 250 milligrams with vitamin D. We recently heard that if your calcium tablet won't dissolve in vinegar in half an hour, it won't enter your system. Our tablets don't dissolve, even if crushed first. Can it be that all the money we've spent has been thrown away?

DEAR READER: Forget what you read. Oyster-shell calcium with vitamin D will dissolve in your system. The vinegar business is nonsense. However, 250 milligrams is not enough for an adult. I suggest you and your wife take 750 milligrams; in this way, you'll be getting enough calcium to do some good. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I - Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

In the medical profession, the day of the good guy has passed. Thanks to the insurance industry, a venerated custom is now considered grounds for criminal and civil prosecution.

Have you ever been in the position of having a doctor discount his bill? Under these circumstances, he might say: "Don't worry about paying me. I'll accept whatever your insurance allows for my fee." I've done it hundreds of times and most doctors I know do it, too. Consider the case of an elderly widow on a pension. I admit her to hospital for treatment of pneumonia and I send a bill for reasonable charges to Medicare. She doesn't have the extra money to pay me, and I have no intention of billing her. In a sense, I'm lucky because, 25 years ago I was ulations, I could be thrown in the hoosegow if I don't collect from her.

In the past, the system of fee-forgiveness worked well. People paid what they could and the doctor forgave the rest. If the patient was fortunate enough to be covered by health insurance, including Medicare, the doctor billed the insurance company and accepted as full payment whatever the insurance allowed.

Today, this courtesy is dead. The doctor who forgives part of a fee runs the risk of being prosecuted under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, which mandates that alleged overcharges be tripled as fines. Here is how RICO puts the squeeze on patients.

Let's say the doctor bills you $100 for a service. You have health insurance that pays 80 percent of the fee, or $80. Because you have a limited income, the doctor is willing to accept the $80 as full payment, rather than having you pay the additional $20 co-payment. You obtain the service you required, the doctor gets a portion of his usual fee, everybody's happy. Right?

Wrong. The rules have changed. Today, the insurance companies claim that because the doctor accepted $80, he was actually charging $80, not $100, for the service. Therefore, the insurance pays 80 percent of $80 or $64. The $16 difference is viewed as an "overpayment" by the insurance carrier. Under RICO, the $16 is trebled and all hell breaks loose. Multiply that innocent $16 by enough patients, and insurance companies become very interested, you see. The patient doesn't think the arrangement is fraudulent, the doctor believes he is merely being compassionate — but insurance companies consider it criminal.

No one knows how much of the $50 billion a year in insurance fraud is made of co-payment forgiveness. However, it's enough for the companies to go after doctors. According to James Norman, writing in a recent issue of Medical Economics, "some insurers take the hard-line position that physicians don't have the right to forgive co-payments even occasionally — not for indigents, not for colleagues, not even for their grandmothers."

CIGNA, the insurance giant, recently wrote a letter to physicians, which included this statement: "no claims submitted by you can be processed until we receive a signed certification from you that the charges shown on claim forms are your actual charges, and that patients will be required to pay amounts such as co-insurance and deductibles." This is not a nickel-and-dime issue. Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. is suing a dermatologist for $900,000.

In all fairness, I must point out that physicians are not blameless for this unhappy state of affairs. Some MDs have been gouging insurance companies for years, by inflating fees, upgrading codes for services, adding fictitious services, or advertising that they forgive co-payments — in desperate attempts to attract patients. They should be punished.

Nonetheless, I'm sorry to see yet another wedge placed between doctor and patient. It seems to me that physicians should have the time-honored right of forgiving fees in situations where there is financial hardship or other extenuating circumstances.

However, under the threat of prosecution and severe penalties, I and thousands of other doctors are being forced to insist that patients pay their deductibles and co-payments. All of it. No more Mr. Nice Guy. Thanks a lot, insurance industry.

Variations exist in nat'l health

ATLANTA (AP) — People in Kentucky are bad about smoking but good about not drinking and driving, most Hawaiians buckle up and Montana residents aren't a sedentary lot, a health survey shows.

The national Centers for Disease Control asked people in 32 states and the District of Columbia about their exercise habits, their drinking, their driving and their efforts to ward off heart disease, breast cancer and the flu.

The survey, taken in 1987 and released Thursday, is the latest of the CDC's Behavioral Risk Factor Surveys — an effort to find out what Americans do to ruin their health.

The survey found a wide variety of health-related behavior from state-to-state. It also found variations in the use of precautions, such as cholesterol checks, mammograms and flu vaccinations.

"We've seen that risk-taking behavior varies a lot," said Dr. Robert Anda, a specialist in health risks with the Atlanta-based CDC.

He cited several possible reasons for the differences.

"It could be socioeconomic factors. It could be that the quality of medical care may vary from state to state, or the availability, or access," he said.

Judge dismisses Contra aid indictment on grounds of war

MIAMI (AP) — Six men accused of illegally aiding the Contras have been cleared of Neutrality Act violations by a federal judge who said the U.S. executive branch was conducting a secret war against Nicaragua at the time.

Defense attorneys on Thursday hailed the dismissal as proof of their contention that the indicted men were only carrying out Reagan administration policies.

The Neutrality Act allows prosecution of anyone making war from U.S. soil against a nation with which the United States is at peace.

U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger of Fort Lauderdale agreed with the defense that the Reagan administration waged war against the Sandinistas in 1984-85 despite congressional votes to cut off funds for the U.S.-supported Nicaraguan rebels.

"The facts show that the Contras, funded in part by the executive branch, continued their attempt to overthrow the Sandinista government," Roettger wrote. "The mere fact that Congress refused to fund the Contra cause for a brief period of time is not equivalent to saying that the United States was 'at peace' with Nicaragua."

He pointed to the conflicts in Vietnam and Korea as well as U.S. raids on Libya and the invasion of Grenada under the Reagan administration as evidence that war can be conducted without a formal declaration.

"It appears that declarations of war between nations have become passe," the judge said in his opinion released Thursday.

During the hearings, defense witnesses testified that Lt. Col. Oliver North, then a presidential aide, was providing the Contras with $32 million at the same time the defendants were training anti-Sandinista mercenaries.

North was convicted May 4 of lying to Congress, altering and destroying classified National Security Council documents and accepting an illegal gratuity — a security fence — in the Iran-Contra affair. He was sentenced last week to two years' probation and a $150,000 fine.

The defendants in the Neutrality Act case also submitted volumes of the Tower Report on the Iran-Contra affair detailing how profits from the sale of weapons to Iran were diverted to the Contras.

Defense attorney John Mattes, who represents former mercenary Jack Terrell, hailed Roettger's decision as a vindication of his client.

"This is the first time in the 10-year history of the U.S. war against Nicaragua that a federal judge has had the courage to declare what we all knew," Mattes said Thursday. "This has consequences far beyond a mere district court in south Florida."

Diane Cossin, spokeswoman for the U.S. Attorney's Office, said the prosecutors could not comment on a pending case.

Alleged fraud now under investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said Friday it is conducting a preliminary investigation of alleged financial fraud at an Energy Department plant in Ohio that makes materials for nuclear weapons.

Edwin Boldt, an FBI spokesman in Cincinnati, said the probe was unrelated to the Energy Department's decision to launch on Thursday its own investigation of environmental controls and other operations at the Feed Materials Production Center, one of the key contributors to U.S. nuclear weapons production.

The plant is situated at Fernald, about 18 miles north of Cincinnati.

Pete Kelley, a spokesman for Westinghouse Materials Co. of Ohio, which operates the plant under an Energy Department contract, said he was unaware of the FBI inquiry.

Westinghouse announced earlier this week it was shutting down production indefinitely in order to focus more work on cleaning up the site's hazardous wastes.

Westinghouse said the shutdown decision was unrelated to the Energy Department probe.

Will Callicott, a department spokesman, said Friday the shutdown was temporary and would not interfere with normal weapons production schedules. He said the shutdown decision was made by Westinghouse alone and that he could not comment on how long it might last.

Immigration overhaul clears Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate sponsors of a planned overhaul of the nation's immigration system, including a cap of 630,000 immigrants arriving each year, are predicting a strong chance of approval in the House.

"I'm very hopeful that we'll get legislation. It's early in the session," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Thursday after the Senate approved the measure, 81-

17, and sent it to the House.

The bill was originally designed to cap immigration at 600,000 in each of the next three years but was expanded to include room for 30,000 new arrivals annually before final passage. The ceiling represents 136,000 more visas than were issued last year.

Critics say the bill still could reduce visas for all but the closest relatives of American citizens and permanent residents of the United States.

The House killed a similar measure in 1988, but sponsors are more hopeful about their chances this year.

Kennedy and co-sponsor Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., said they have already received encouragement from House leaders.

"We've never given them anything like this early," Simpson said.

Simpson expressed concerns about changes the bill underwent before passage, but said it was "time to face the unfortunate but hideously cold reality that there are many more people who want to come here than there is room or intent to accommodate them."

Chief of KGB undergoes rare grilling

MOSCOW (AP) — Legislators Friday questioned KGB chief Vladimir Kryuchkov about the workings of his secretive agency and laughed in disbelief at some of his answers, but they voted by a resounding majority to reappoint him.

The most aggressive deputies were unimpressed with Kryuchkov's responses to queries on phone taps, informers and dossiers. But they relished the first opportunity in the nation's history for a public grilling of the boss of the KGB, which killed millions of Soviet citizens during the reign of Josef Stalin and is still feared by many citizens.

Only six members of the 542-person Supreme Soviet voted against the 65-year-old Kryuchkov, who has been KGB chairman since last year and was deputy chairman for 10 years before that.

Kryuchkov's confirmation came despite derisive snorts of laughter from the hall when he claimed that the KGB does not tap Soviet citizens' phones and complaints from several deputies about the KGB's network of informers.

Kryuchkov said the agency, which performs both domestic and foreign security functions, "strictly follows Soviet laws" and has only a few "helpers" who inform on their neighbors and colleagues.

Lawmaker Boris Yeltsin said Kryuchkov's statements about informers were "insincere" and that in reality "an army of many thousands constantly informs on what is happening in each work collective."

Yeltsin said there were agents in every Soviet institution. Yet during the 10 years he spent as Communist Party chief in the city of Sverdlovsk, "They never caught a single spy."

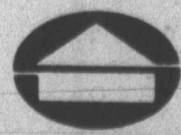

Marju Lauristin, a professor and People's Front leader from Estonia, also challenged Kryuchkov's claims that the KGB employs few informants.

Nat'l Space Council wants permanent base on moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Space Council, working on "a major new space initiative," is focusing on an American return to the moon, establishing a permanent base and proceeding from there to Mars.

But it will be expensive, warns Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., who was among a group of congressmen briefed Thursday on several options being considered by the council.

Any of the options, Walker said, will require "a substantial increase in resources available to NASA — it will require doubling the size of NASA and the NASA budget."

The council, headed by Vice President Dan Quayle, favors the moon-Mars scenario over other courses being considered, Walker said, but no final decision has been made. Quayle, NASA Administrator Richard H. Truly and Mark Albrecht, executive secretary of the space council, conducted the briefing.

"They basically outlined three options," Walker, the ranking Republican member of the House space science subcommittee, said in an interview.

"One, for the United States to move ahead with a robotic program and gradually phase men out of the space program; another, to go back to the moon with the idea of establishing a permanent moon base and then going from there to Mars; and third, to take us directly to Mars after the turn of the century."

The council is not expected to make a recommendation about America's space future to President Bush in time for inclusion in his speech next Thursday on the 20th anniversary of the first landing on the moon.

Walker said Quayle is "basically consulting with the people on Capitol Hill who have something to say about authorizing space funds as an advance of Space Council consideration of a major new space initiative."

Attending the meeting in the White House complex were the chairmen and ranking members of the Senate and House subcommittees and committees that handle the space program.

The space agency has asked for $13 billion in the next fiscal year, but is likely to get far less than that from a budget-minded Congress.

More cocaine found floating

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Another 110 pounds of high-grade cocaine wrapped in plastic was found floating in the Gulf of Mexico.

A fisherman spotted the package Thursday about 12 miles off Galveston and notified the Coast Guard, which retrieved the illegal drugs, Coast Guard spokesman Mark Kennedy said.

It's at least the 12th discovery of cocaine made in the Gulf or on the shoreline since June 30.

The drugs are believed to be from the same source since the markings and wrappings are the same, Kennedy said.

Authorities speculate a smuggler's boat sank about three weeks ago during Tropical Storm Allison. There also is speculation the cache was dumped overboard as smugglers believed they were under surveillance.
