Annual roping is preview for rodeo opening Thursday

The opening performance for the 54th annual Scurry County Rodeo is Thursday beginning at 8 p.m. at the west 30th St. rodeo arena.

As a warmup for the event, the annual Scurry County Rodeo Association's stockholder's roping was held Wednesday with Cody Newton and Don Stewart taking first place in the team roping.

The Newton-Stewart team won with a three-head combined time of 30.56 seconds, which included a 7.95 run.

The rodeo will continue nightly at 8 o'clock Thursday through Saturday. At the gate, admission will be $4 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

A rodeo dance will be held at the slab beginning at 9 p.m. each night, featuring the music of Jody Nix of Big Spring.

As a special feature for this year's event, a "mutton bust'n" will be held nightly for youngsters age 7 and under. The youth will be riding ewes and will compete for a prize buckle to be awarded at the finals Saturday.

Stock for this rodeo is again being furnished by Smokey Davis and the Rafter D Rodeo Company. See RODEO, Page 10

Moon base is sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, marking the 20th anniversary of man's first step on the moon, today called for establishing an American base there in the 21st Century to be followed by a manned mission to Mars.

Bush offered no firm timetable or price tag for a daring program he said would take the nation "back to the moon, back to the future, and this time back to stay."

"Then a journey into tomorrow," he proposed, "A journey to another planet, a manned mission to Mars," at least 35 million miles away.

In a ceremony from the steps of the National Air and Space Museum, the president reasserted the goal of establishing Space Station Freedom in the 1990s, the necessary first step to the moon and Mars.

The technological hurdles of getting to Mars could be matched by political ones, however. At a time of huge budget deficits, Congress already is balking at the start-up costs for the $30-billion space station, and it is the essential first step to the moon and Mars.

Bush was flanked on the outdoor museum stage by the three men who flew aboard Apollo 11 two decades ago. Each of them urged the nation forward in space.

Bush offered few details beyond his broad goals.

Ask Us

Q. — Why don't they shove the boat dock out at Lake Thomas since the lake is so low so the boats can get to it?

A. — The only public facility for boats at the lake is a boat "ramp" approximately 4 ft. wide and officials with the water district say it is mounted on skids so that it can be moved. Any other facilities would be privately owned.

In Brief

Clean air plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nineteen cities likely would be given 10 years to fix their ozone pollution problems, while severely polluted Los Angeles, Houston and New York would have two decades, according to a draft of President Bush's clean air bill.

The multibillion-dollar cleanup plan would set four new categories for cities with ozone problems — severe, serious, moderate or marginal — and require the most polluted communities to use the most stringent remedies.

Disarm man

DALLAS (AP) — Bailiffs disarmed a 21-year-old man as he tried to enter a Dallas County Courtroom where his brother's accused killer was standing trial.

Amanuel Zielo, a naturalized citizen born in Ethiopia, was arrested Wednesday as he tried to smuggle a loaded automatic pistol into fourth-floor courtroom where Manuel Castillo, 32, was standing trial.

Castillo is accused of murder in the death of Zielo's brother, Michael, who died in a barroom brawl in March.

Plan revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan, saying the central bank faces a "difficult balancing act," told Congress today the Fed has been pushing interest rates lower in an effort to keep the country out of a recession.

After a year of raising interest rates to dampen inflationary pressures, Greenspan said the Fed switched course in June and began lowering rates because of widespread signs of a weakening economy.

Greenspan, making his midyear report to Congress, indicated that the Fed stood ready to lower rates further, but he said its best efforts might not be enough to stave off an economic downturn.

Cooperation asked for bus use during prison open house

The Board of County Development Wednesday issued a request for persons who attend the Price Daniel Unit's open house Saturday to park at Scurry County Coliseum and ride the school buses that will be in use between the two sites.

BCD president Jack Denman said that if visitors take their cars to the prison site, parking there will become too congested and a possibly unmanageable situation will be created.

A crowd of 5,000 to 10,000 people has been projected for the event, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The south side coliseum doors will open at 8:45 a.m., however, with chairs already having been set up and the air conditioning turned on, and the buses will begin running when the first bus is filled.

Keith Gentry, transportation director for the Snyder school district, will oversee the operation of the buses to ferry visitors. See OPEN HOUSE, Page 10

Prison open house Saturday to draw 'who's who' of TDC

A who's who list of Texas Department of Corrections officials will be in Snyder Friday and Saturday in conjunction with the open house observance at the Price Daniel Unit.

A crowd estimated as high as 10,000 is expected for the event, which will mark the first open house ever held for a state prison.

For many TDC officials, it will mark a return visit, to include TDC board chairman Charles Terrell of Dallas, who spoke here as part of ground breaking ceremonies for the prison on April 18, 1988.

On Saturday, Terrell will again offer remarks at a ribbon cutting ceremony to be held at 10 a.m. at the site some 5 miles northeast of Snyder.

At noon Friday, a contingent of TDC staffers, headed by the deputy director for the state agency, Andy Collins, will arrive.

Mike Moore, head of TDC's Southern Region which includes the Snyder unit, has been in Snyder all week as part of the startup operations here.

Moore was in Snyder April 27 as the speaker for the second graduating class of TDC correctional officers trained through Western Texas College.

Other TDC board members expected to attend the open house and other related activities include vice chairman Jerry Hodge of Amarillo, Mrs. Mamie Moore Proctor of Houston and Allan Polunsky of San Antonio, the June 29 speaker at the third. See TDC, Page 10

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Consumer spending has risen more than consumer savings—and that's to the credit of most Americans."

You probably had this fellow at your last class reunion. You know the type—new threads, a rented sports car and borrowed gold watch and just enough cash to make it back to the old hometown for a reunion.

There's a story about this guy who met up with a fellow who had been his best friend in high school. They hadn't seen each other since graduation. The friend was driving an expensive car that he obviously owned, a hand-tailored suit and was obviously beaming with success.

Asked the unlucky fellow, "You've got it made, and I've had nothing but failures. I'm behind on my bills, my inventory is too high, my banker is breathing down my neck and my wife just ran off with her tennis instructor. Tell me your secret, how did you make it?"

"I got religion," he replied. "Right after high school I was just scraping by. Then one night I went to a tent revival and took the preacher's message to heart. I went home and asked for a sign. Then I opened my Bible and closed my eyes and I put my finger on the page. I looked down and the Bible was open to the book of Joshua and my finger was pointing to the word 'house.'

"The next day," he continued, "I looked in the paper and a horse named Joshua was running at 100-to-1 odds. I took every cent I had and bet on him. I took the winnings and bought some horses and opened my own stable."

"But there's more," said the successful classmate. "I took down my Bible again, closed my eyes and pointed. My finger was on the word 'cattle.' That very day I bought half interest in a ranch. Another time my finger landed on the word oil, and we've never had a dry hole."

The unlucky classmate listened to this success story, and left the reunion early. He rushed back to the motel and found the Gideon Bible. With hands trembling, he closed his eyes and opened the Bible and put his finger on the page.

He opened his eyes, looked down to where his finger was pointing and read, "Chapter 11."

Local banker enlisted for Boys Ranch effort

Bruce Kallemeyn has been appointed as the Scurry County Wagon Boss for the annual West Texas Boys Ranch Roundup. Making the announcement was 1989-90 Roundup coordinator, Robert Dierschke.

Kallemeyn, a vice president and member of the board of directors at Snyder National Bank, has lived in Snyder for five years. He is a member of the Snyder Lions Club and is a 32nd degree Shriner.

Kallemeyn is the director of the Scurry County Little Dribblers girls basketball program and belongs to the First Christian Church.

He and his wife, Vicki Sue, have three children; Kristen, 13; See BOYS, Page 10

Oriental cooking contents defined

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

There's no need for Oriental recipes to leave you puzzled. Here's a guide to some of the most common ingredients used in Oriental cooking. Shop for them at a supermarket, Oriental market or specialty food shop.

BAMBOO SHOOTS: Young, edible shoots from some kinds of bamboo plants. Ivory-colored. Available canned, whole (cone-shaped) or in ribbonlike slices.

BEAN NOODLES: Also called bean threads or cellophane noodles. Opaque, dry noodles

DRIED LILY BUDS: Also called tiger-lily buds and golden needles. Pale golden brown with delicate flavor. Soak in hot water before using in a stir-fry.

ENOKI MUSHROOMS: White and mild-flavored, these mushrooms have long, slender stems with tiny caps. Usually sold fresh.

FISH SAUCE: Thin brown liquid with bold, salty flavor. Used for seasoning Vietnamese and Thai dishes.

LAOS: A mild-flavored cousin of ginger also known as galangal root. Comes frozen, ground or dried. Use to enhance BOK CHOY: Looks like celery except with white stalks and larger, dark green leaves. Has a sweet, mild flavor. Stir-fry or shred leaves.

CHILI PASTE: A fiery condiment whose character varies depending on where it is made. Use 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon to season stir-fry.

CHINESE CABBAGE: Sometimes called Napa or celery cabbage. Pale-green, crinkly leaves are tall and compact with wide white stalks.

CLOUD AND WOOD EARS: Dried mushroomlike fungi that add chewy texture to dishes. Soak in hot water and remove tough stems before using.

DAIKON: Large, long or round, white Japanese radish with a sweet flavor. Use as you would turnips.

DASHI-NO-MOTO: The instant or powdered form of dashi, which is basic Japanese fish stock. Mix with water; use in soups.

green onion but is more fibrous. The strong lemon flavor is good for seasoning main dishes. Available fresh or dried.

LITCHI or lychee: Sweet, juicy white fruit similar to grapes. Available fresh (with hard red shell) and canned (minus the shell). Serve for dessert.

LOQUAT: An oval, orange-colored fruit slightly larger than litchis; has a slightly tart flavor. Sold both canned and dried. Good for dessert.

LOTUS ROOT: Pink root of the aquatic lotus plant with lengthwise holes. Available fresh, canned, dried or sugared. Stir-fry or use in soups.

RICE VINEGAR: Has a milder, slightly sweeter flavor than American cider vinegar.

SHRIMP PASTE: A mixture of fermented shrimp, chilies and curry. Has a strong flavor and aroma. Use about 1 teaspoon per 4 servings; dilute with water.

Dunn Community Center...

Merritt family holds reunion

The annual Merritt family reunion was held at the Dunn Community Center July 9. Some 81 people attended.

D.V. Merritt Sr. was the oldest member present. The youngest family member present was Darreyl Dawson, 1-month-old son of Gary and Joanna Dawson of Brownfield.

Wayne and Marge Dawson of Phoenix, Ariz., travelled the longest distance.

Those in attendance from the Joe Merritt family were D.V. Merritt Sr. and his son, D.V. Jr. with his wife, M.J., all of Snyder. Also, Snooks and Mildred Merritt of Snyder; Mayme Deal; R.C. and Jeannine Van Meter and Billy Stevens of Abilene; Jimmie Merritt of Balch Springs; Ted and Letha Merritt of Lubbock and Bud and Bert Merritt of Pecos.

Descendants of John Merritt attending were C.T. and Jack Ann Merritt; Doug Merritt; Shirley King; Brent, J.J. and T.J. Shofer; Cone and Florene Merritt; Dewaine, Belinda, Hugh and Kelly Merritt, all of Snyder. Also, J.B. and Judy Dawson of Brownfield; Wayne and Marge Dawson of Phoenix, Ariz.; Ermagene Sanders of Salem, N.M.; Lara Lynn, Trey and Gretchen Christensen; Buddy, Billie and Cody Burris, all of Morton. Also attending were Sue, Brandon and Zan Daniels of Floydada; Paul, Jeanette, Malie, Bucky, Chris, Whitney and Corbin Crouse; Michael, Matthew and Tiffaine Garrett and Pauline Merritt, all of Merkel; Raymond and Robert Merritt of El Paso; Ethelyn Vernon of Lockney; Gary, Joanna and Darreyl Dawson of Brownfield and Jane and Kaleb Hammond of Big Spring.

Those attending from the Will Merritt family were Clarence and Jimmie Cummings and Tom and Mary Farris, all of Snyder. Also, Floyd and Tess Mauldin of Lafayette, La.; Ruth Lollar; Jane, Shara, Chris and Tommy James of San Antonio; James, Dawn, Taryn, and Kelly Cummings of Minot, N.D.

Descendants of Wallace Merritt in attendance were Barney and Clestine Merritt of Lubbock; Janice McEwin of Odessa and Marjory Hill of Midland.

Ruby Lee of Colorado City represented the Homer Merritt family.

Bicycle riders need precautions for road

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bicycle riding can be an enjoyable sport, a good form of exercise and a great way to spend time outdoors.

But riders need to consider necessary precautions against bike injuries that may result from accidents and overuse.

While it is impossible to prevent all biking accidents, it is helpful to plan ahead, become familiar with the roads and obtain proper gear, according to Dr. Arthur Bartolozzi, orthopedic surgeon and sports medicine specialist at Pennsylvania Hospital.

A major cause of bike accidents is poor road conditions, from torn-up city streets to country roads with sand and loose gravel, he notes.

"Whether in the city or the country, the cyclist must take responsibility for protecting against injuries," Bartolozzi said.

He recommends the following precautions:

- Place flags on the bicycle to make the rider easily identifiable.
- Wear a helmet.
- Don't wear loose clothing that can get caught in gears or spokes.
- New knobby-tired bikes are an option for poor road conditions. They improve the grip on the road but are slightly more difficult to ride long distances.
- Solid wheel "spokeless" bikes made of ultralight metal help to prevent injuries.
- Drive defensively. Never assume you have the right of way.
- Since bike accidents frequently are caused by the driver of another vehicle, Bartolozzi said the most important precaution is to communicate intentions to other drivers and to make sure the communication is received.
- To prevent overuse injuries, Bartolozzi recommends warming and there was no guarantee that there would not be a spade loser. Still South was feeling lucky, and there's no better way to test your luck than to bid a close slam. Now place yourself in the West seat, on opening lead. Apparently declarer has a side diamond suit, so is your lead a club or a heart? West finally decided on a heart and led the five. Declarer put up the jack from dummy, and East was on play. Had West led from the Q-7-5? Or the 9-7-5? East finally decided the Q-7-5 or Q-9-5 was more likely than 9-7-5, so he played the king.

Declarer took the ace, cashed the ace of spades (noting the trump stack with West), played the queen of hearts, played ace and ruffed a diamond. Then came the 10 of hearts from dummy, declarer discarding the king of clubs. Declarer now ruffed a club back to his hand and played out the king and queen of diamonds. West was helpless and could take no more than the queen of spades.

The defensive methods of East and West cost them the slam. It's fine to lead low from three small cards against most contracts, but not against a slam. The right lead from three small cards against a slam is top-of-nothing. Had West led the nine of hearts, East would not have put up the king, and declarer would not have been able to get rid of his club loser in time to make the contract.

What's your lead from three small?

By James Jacoby

No doubt South's jump to six spades was very aggressive. Clearly his partner did not have the ace of clubs (he would have cue-bid it at some point),

Martin s hold 49th reunion

The 49th annual Martin reunion was held June 24-25 at the Towle Park Barn. Some 50 people were in attendance.

Recognition was given to W.J. "Butch" Martin of Aurora, Colo., who travelled the farthest. Also recognized were Ruth Martin of Snyder, oldest in attendance and Christopher Martin, son of Randy and Anita Martin, youngest in attendance.

Activities included a horseshoe tournament, dominoes, pictorial, volleyball, a "Martin style" fashion show and the annual family bingo game.

Kathryn Martin received a plaque for her continuing contributions to the reunion each year. Onessa Martin won the drawing for a quilt, made and donated by Kathryn Martin.

The Martin family has planned their 50th annual reunion for June 2-3.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A good friend of mine has Bartter's syndrome. All I know is that she has trouble keeping potassium in her body. She's sick so often and I want to help.

DEAR READER: Bartter's syndrome is a complex metabolic disturbance, resulting from a person's inability to handle certain minerals. It is characterized by inappropriately high losses of sodium and potassium through the kidneys, leading to an imbalance of salt and water in the body. This, in turn, sets in motion a cascade of hormonal reactions — primarily an increase in renin and aldosterone, the two substances that control blood pressure. Although Bartter's patients do not have hypertension, they often suffer from low blood potassium and magnesium.

The cause of the syndrome is unknown; however, it appears to be an inherited genetic disorder. Treatment consists of potassium supplements and medicines to re-establish the body's normal metabolic balance. Bartter's syndrome is not fatal, but it often produces chronic fatigue, weakness and ill health.

While I applaud your desire to help your friend feel better, I think you have to realize that you are really powerless to help her — except to the extent that you can be caring and supportive. She will get her most useful assistance from her doctor, whose job it is to prescribe the most effective combination of drugs to overcome her excessive mineral losses. I am sure just "being there" will give your friend enormous encouragement and confidence.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What do you think of the grinding process for bunion removal instead of major surgery? I believe we should all avoid surgery if there is any alternative.

DEAR READER: Several techniques have been tried to correct bunions, the swellings at the bases of the big toes. A bunion consists of burstis of the first joint, which causes the big toe to drift outward and override the second toe. This makes it difficult for the foot to bear weight normally, leading to pain and deformity.

In my experience, the most satisfactory treatment for bunions is a surgical procedure to re-align the big toe. This is almost always successful because the mechanical abnormality is repaired and the toe is straightened, as opposed to a pure "grinding" process, which removes only part of the deformity, without the necessary reconstructive element. Usually, this surgery is performed by orthopedic surgeons, although I understand that podiatrists in some parts of the country are equally skillful. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Plastic foam ban may not be enough

NEW YORK (AP) — From the tiniest city council chambers to the meeting rooms of Congress, elected officials around the nation have discovered a threat to the environment in front of their very noses: coffee cups.

Not just any coffee cups, but those made of plastic foam, the stuff that keeps hot things hot and cold things cold and protects those billions of McDonald's hamburgers.

Increasingly, local governments are banning the use of such products on grounds that they contribute to the nation's overflowing garbage crisis and contain chemicals that harm the Earth's ozone layer.

Such bans are easy and politically popular. Some experts say they also may be misguided and pointless.

The concern for the ozone layer is now largely moot. In a quiet revolution that has taken place during the past 15 months, the plastics industry has phased out most of the ozone-depleting chlorofluorocarbons that were used to manufacture plastic foam.

The other concern — landfill — comes closer to the target. But environmentalists and plastics industry officials argue it's pointless to ban plastic foam products when they are usually replaced by cardboard or plastic-coated paper.

"Neither are being recycled and both are going to take up the same amount of space in landfill," said Jeanne Wirka, a spokeswoman for the Washington-based Environmental Action Foundation. "The problem is really a trend toward disposability."

More than a dozen cities and counties have enacted bans on the use of disposable foam products made of polystyrene, a tough, flexible plastic. In Congress, a bipartisan group of House members has asked for the removal of polystyrene cups from the congressional restaurant system.

Private companies are getting into the act, too. Pacific Telephone recently banned use of plastic foam in its company cafeterias, and the Yosemite Park and Curry Co., the private concessionaire at Yosemite National Park, decided last year to phase out plastic foam containers.

The severity of the bans varies widely. Tempe, Ariz., banned the use of foam cups and plates in city offices only, while Suffolk County, N.Y., ordered stores throughout the county to stop selling food in polystyrene or polyvinyl containers. That ban has been held up by a court challenge.

In one of the most comprehensive ordinances, the city councils of Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., voted earlier this year to ban non-degradable, non-returnable, non-recyclable packaging.

In the latest action, the Irvine, Calif., city council voted Tuesday to ban use of all plastic foam made with chlorofluorocarbons — CFCs.

Delta says pilots were at fault in Texas crash

DALLAS (AP) — Survivors of Delta Flight 1141 say they want the airline monetarily punished now that it has accepted responsibility for the 1988 crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport that killed 14 people.

"I'm not looking for compensatory damages alone," said Pendleton Waugh, a Dallas attorney who was on the ill-fated flight. "I'm looking for the other type of damages as well. Let's call them exemplary damages."

Delta Air Lines said Wednesday that flight crew error led to the crash Aug. 31, 1988, and that the flight crew members "are no longer flying with Delta."

Christensen of Dallas said she has hired an attorney but has not filed suit.

She said she suffered a back injury in the crash and must visit a chiropractor three times a week. She also said she sees a therapist to deal with the aftermath of the tragedy.

"I will pursue some kind of legal action. Obviously with my medical problems I'm going to have to be taken care of," Ms. Christensen said. "At this point, punitive damages are probably going to have to be part of it."

Ms. Christensen, a real estate marketing director, said the crash is constantly on her mind especially Wednesday when a DC-10 crashed in Iowa, killing more than 100 people. "It caused me to relive what I went through," she said.

"What has been most difficult is I have to fly for my job," she said. "The takeoff is what's so traumatic. Because as I'm lifting up, I know what it's like when things go wrong. I hear every little sound there is."

Alicia Hayes, Waugh's law partner and a passenger on the flight, is said to also be seeking punitive damages.

"We both know that the only way to change your mode of operation is to be hit monetarily, so to speak," she said.

Hers is one of about 12 suits combined in 298th State District Court in Dallas. Waugh filed suit in Greenville, where flight captain Larry Davis lives.

Windle Turley, a Dallas lawyer representing at least eight Delta 1141 passengers, said Delta's announcement will allow litigants not pursuing punitive damages to proceed to a damage trial.

Turley said Delta probably considered the length of the trial on the cause of the crash of Delta Flight 191, which has continued for more than a year. A decision on the August 1985 crash that killed 138 people is expected in upcoming weeks.

"It's been very devastating and demoralizing and I'm sure that's had an effect on it," he said.

Dallas attorney John Howie, who has filed suits for six passengers and represents 10 others, said the next step for his clients depends on whether Delta admits to "gross negligence."

After taking depositions from the three crew members the past three months, Howie said, he is surprised Delta acknowledged crew error.

"They (the crew members) have been vigorously denying it," he said. "We've asked them point blank if it was pilot error and they say 'No.'"

Davis, the pilot, and Steven Judd, the flight engineer, had no comment Wednesday on Delta's announcement, said women answering telephones at their Dallas-area homes. Co-pilot Carey Wilson Kirkland Jr. did not have a phone number listed in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Capt. Jim Gray, spokesman for the Air Line Pilots Association, said the crew members were fired Tuesday after being called to the Delta chief pilot's office in Dallas.

ALPA officials believe the flight crew set the jet's flaps correctly, Gray said, and added that Delta's announcement was a public relations effort.

Lundy said the Delta investigation doublechecked all factors that could have contributed to the crash and eliminated all except the improperly set flaps and slats.

He said he is unsure of the legal implications of Delta's announcement.

Several insurance claims have been filed as a result of the flight, which was bound for Salt Lake City and originated in Jackson, Miss.

In NTSB hearings in November, crew members admitted certain technical violations of Delta regulations occurred before takeoff, but said they made all necessary pre-flight preparations.

Among those violations, crew members said, were not indicating completion of checklists and allowing a flight attendant into the cockpit area after the plane left the gate.

Delta instituted a new package of checklists and procedures after the crash, including having the crew check the position of the flaps twice.

Police: 'obsessive fan' stalked actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An obsessed fan of actress Rebecca Schaeffer wrote her a rambling love letter, kept videos of her TV show "My Sister Sam" and stalked her before shooting her to death, police said after arresting the man.

Robert John Bardo, 19, was being held in Arizona today, while Los Angeles authorities pursued extradition. Tucson police picked him up Wednesday as he was dodging cars on a freeway there.

Los Angeles investigators flew to Tucson, where Bardo gave police "statements related to the murder of Rebecca Schaeffer," Los Angeles police Detective Dan Andrews said.

"I don't want to say he confessed, but he implicated himself, for sure," the detective said.

The unemployed fast-food worker from Tucson was an obsessive fan of Miss Schaeffer, said Deputy District Attorney Robert E. Savitt, who filed a complaint charging him with murder.

The 21-year-old co-star of the old television sitcom "My Sister Sam" and the current film "Scenes From the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills" was shot once in the chest Tuesday morning at the door of her apartment building.

A female friend of Bardo's living in Tennessee called police headquarters early Wednesday to tell police of his obsession, Andrews said.

"He expressed a fixation with Miss Schaeffer. He appeared to be very fond of her," Andrews said.

According to the woman, Bardo said he had a video collection of "My Sister Sam" shows and an autographed publicity photo of Miss Schaeffer, Andrews said. About a year ago, Bardo had sent a letter to the actress, but there is no indication she had ever seen it, Andrews said.

"I wouldn't call it a threatening letter. I would call it an affectionate letter, but a bit rambling," Andrews said.

"He also expressed to his friend that he was going to harm Miss Schaeffer," but it was unclear to investigators why he might want to, Andrews said.

"The guy's real passive with everybody. He's being passive and polite with everybody," Tucson police spokesman Sgt. Paul Hallums said after the arrest.

The gun in the killing apparently was found discarded and has not been found.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An 8-year-old boy, who had been starved to the point of weighing as much as a typical 11-month-old, died Wednesday because he was so exhausted, his immune system failed, his doctor said.

Carlos Hoyos Rascon died of septicemia — blood poisoning caused by massive infection — Wednesday morning after spending two days in intensive care at Providence Memorial Hospital, Dr. Roberto Canales said.

When relatives discovered Carlos near death June 27 at a house across the Rio Grande in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, the boy weighed about 18 pounds. He was
