

Interviews for fourth guard class are slated

The process of testing and interviewing applicants for the fourth correctional officer training class begins Monday at Western Texas College.

According to Mike Thornton, head of the continuing education department at WTC, 84 completed applications were received and are being processed now by the Texas Department of Corrections.

The process of testing applicants will begin at 8 a.m. Monday in the WTC Christian Student Center. Interviews will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Officials from the TDC personnel office in Huntsville will direct the testing and interviews.

Thornton said he expects to learn the names of those eligible for employment about a week after the interviews are conducted.

The class is scheduled to begin Sept. 23. Registration will be held Sept. 21.

Unlike the previous three classes, the graduates of the fourth class will be considered for relocation only. They will be eligible for employment at units other than the Price Daniel Unit, located just outside of Snyder. TDC employees may be able to transfer to the unit, however. The TDC recently waived a six-months requirement for a duty station transfer.

WTC is one of seven colleges in Texas approved by the TDC for guard training. In three classes, WTC has graduated 89 individuals.

POURING IT ON — Volunteer fireman Ricky Clark, left, and Ezell-Key Grain Co. mill employee Paul Romero were among more than 20 men who worked all morning Wednesday to extinguish fires in four grain and corn bins at the company east of town. (SDN Staff Photo)

Firemen extinguish flames in grain bins

Firemen used more than 6,000 gallons of water Wednesday to extinguish fires in four bins at Ezell-Key Grain Co. off the Sweetwater Hwy. southeast of Snyder.

"Basically, we just filled them up with water," Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said, explaining that the fires had apparently been started the night before by a cutting torch.

Eleven volunteer firemen, five regular firemen, Wayne York from York Transport with a water truck, and Ezell-Key employees worked from 7:35 to 11 a.m. to stop the fires in two 18,000-bushel milo bins and two 5,000-bushel corn bins.

McDowell said three bins were heavily damaged while one had relatively minor damage, adding that filling the bins with water was the only option because running the corn and milo through the mill could have caught the whole mill on fire.

Firemen were either working high up in the mill, where firehoses were set to pour water into the bins, or in a support capacity on the ground.

TU Electric was called to the scene to shut off electricity when water started running over an electrical conduit, the fire chief said.

Ironically, city firemen were just leaving from a vehicle fire in front of the mill on the Sweetwater Hwy. when the mill fire was detected Wednesday morning.

They were called to put out a fire in the engine compartment of a 1976 Ford van owned by Jimmy Lynch and driven by a prospective buyer at 7:15 a.m., leaving the scene at 7:35, when the mill fire call came in.

"I had just been looking over at the mill and thinking, boy, I'm glad we don't have a fire over there," McDowell said.

He said engine wiring was the primary damage to the van.

Jaycees rest stop a success

Snyder Jaycees revived their Labor Day task of having a rest stop for tired motorists near Hermleigh and were rewarded as an estimated 500 people from both coasts and everywhere in-between stopped for free coffee, soft drinks, cookies, brownies and other donated items.

Project chairman Rudy Garza, an employee of TU Electric, said the total might have been more than 500, because some cars had five or six people in them.

Some of the motorists remembered when the Jaycees previously had the rest stop, up to three years ago, and expressed their appreciation for its revival.

"We had the only one between Sweetwater and the other side of Lubbock, over 200 miles," Garza said. "They thanked us because not having it made it hard on them when they were going through this area."

One of the highlights in the 72-hour project, from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Monday, was a visit from Texas Jaycees President Richard Hernandez of McAllen and area Jaycees rest stops project coordinator Bart Starr of Lubbock.

Food was donated by Lawrence IGA, Furr's, Everybody's Thriftway, Reta's Cake Shop, McDonald's and the Senior Citizens Center, and Mrs. Gilbert Ramos provided the cots on which sleepy motorists took naps.

Fifteen Jaycees worked on the project.

Hillside Memorial Gardens and Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home provided awnings and the state highway department set out poles to put up signs that had been painted by Jaycees and Kenny Miller of Snyder Signs. Thompson Ditching provided a battery charger and Dr Pepper donated all the soft drinks.

Richard Dolliver of Snyder allowed the use of his service station on the east side of U.S. 84 at Hermleigh, and the highway department stocked it with 'Short-list' due next week...

TDC team visits site here

Snyder and 45 other communities seeking location of six proposed prison units to be built in Texas should know by early next week if they made the first cut.

Larry Kyle, assistant director of industries for the Texas Department of Corrections, said Wednesday during his visit to Snyder that the "short-list" of 20 to 30 towns will be announced in conjunction with next Tuesday's Department of Criminal Justice (formerly TDC) board meeting in Austin.

Kyle and two other staffers were in Snyder Wednesday to confirm information contained in Snyder's proposal seeking a 1,000-bed facility which was submitted prior to the July 31 deadline. Other members of the staff site evaluation team were Bart Ewald of the agriculture division and Ron Howell of the facilities division.

The team spent Tuesday afternoon in Big Spring and left Snyder shortly after noon

Wednesday for their last visit in Sweetwater.

Kyle said the team's report is due in Huntsville by noon Thursday. As part of the inspection effort, a video tape of the site, industrial building and hospital wing were taken.

Seven teams fanned throughout the state, and Kyle's team last week visited in Eastland, Breckenridge, Abilene and Stamford.

In addition to visiting the proposed site, the team was also given a tour of the Price Daniel unit by Warden Les Woods. Of specific interest to Kyle was the industrial building under construction and due to be completed later this month. The industrial activity is part of Kyle's department.

Three 1,000-bed and three 2,250-bed units are being proposed in this round of construction. Snyder has made application only for the smaller unit.

Midwest Electric set to hold annual membership meeting

The election of three directors will be one of the key items when Midwest Electric holds its annual membership meeting Thursday evening at Scurry County Coliseum.

Activities will begin with registration at 6 p.m.

Running unopposed are Mickey Sterling of the Lake Thomas area in Place 5 and incumbent Bobby Gruben of Rotan in Place 6. The only contested race is for Place 7 between incumbent Jerry Upshaw and Andy Moore, both from the Roby area. Place 5 incumbent Joe Falls has elected not to run again.

Other members of the board are James Beaver of Fluvanna, president; Carl Williams of Snyder, vice-president; Melvin Clements of Rotan, secretary-treasurer; and Mike Herron of Sylvester.

Midwest Electric is celebrating its 51st year of service since being formed in 1938. The cooperative serves a nine-county area from east of Anson to Gail and from Sweetwater to Post. It is headquartered in Roby with local district offices at 2100 College Ave.

Prairie Fire, a local country swing band, will be entertaining prior to and during a barbecue meal, to be served at 7 p.m.

The meal will be followed by a business meeting conducted by Dan Cotton, cooperative attorney, with reports from Vesta Orr, general manager, and the election of three directors to the board.

Four permits issued

Some $22,850 in construction permits were issued through the city building inspector's office in August, bringing the total for the year to $1,694,758.

That figure lags behind last year's total through August, which equalled $2,532,271.

Only four building permits were issued during the month this year, to include a garage carport estimated at $11,150. This was located at 2209 Houston Ave. and owned by C.W. Berryman.

Israel Guzman at 3009 Ave. F for a carport addition, Rudy Gutierrez at 2111 O'Neil Ave. for a mobile home setup and Tom Brozovich at 4509 Galveston Ave. for a workshop.

The city made 108 inspections during the month, 52 of which were for plumbing work. The number of inspections for 1989 now totals 1,177 as compared to 1,137 a year ago.

Permit fees totaled $558.18 for the month and $7,080.08 for the year, compared to $7,773.45 a year ago.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The torrid days of summer are not so bad if you can still remember those miserable days when the wind-chill fell below zero."

Talk about being in a hot spot:

We overheard a conversation between two teenage girls in the DQ the other day. One girl was castigating her friend because a third party had found out something she shouldn't have.

"You can't keep a secret," accused the first girl.

"I sure can," protested the other. "It's one of the people I told who can't keep a secret."

That reminded us of the story of a priest, a rabbi and a protestant minister who got together and decided to talk openly about their transgressions.

The first to speak was the priest and he was very honest, admitting some terrible sins that he had committed. The other two men were shocked, and their mouths fell open and they became quite flushed.

The rabbi went next, saying that under normal circumstances he would never be able to tell things of his past. "But because my friend was so open and frank, I will do the same." The rabbi then layed out the many misdeeds of his life.

Then came the protestant minister's turn, so he stood and began to speak. "Well, I never would have dared confess my secret sin, but after hearing you two openly admit your wrongs, I will also confess. I am an incurable gossip and I can't keep a secret. Furthermore, I can hardly wait to get out of this room."

It's the thought that counts:

70 year term

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A Texas City man who attempted to extort $10,000 from the family of Mark Kilroy, who was killed by a drug cult in Matamoros, Mexico, was sentenced to 70 years in prison.

Robert George Miller, 25, one of five people charged in the extortion plot, pleaded guilty to theft stemming from the Kilroy case and two unrelated burglary charges. Tim Weatherly, an assistant Galveston County district attorney, said Wednesday.

Miller will be eligible for parole in six years, Weatherly said.

Kilroy, a University of Texas student from the Galveston County town of Santa Fe, disappeared last March while on a spring break outing in Matamoros. He was found slain on a ranch near the border city on April 11. Investigators said he was the sacrificial victim of a drug cult.

'War' plans

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The government offered a $250,000 reward for the arrest of two cocaine barons and said the military may take control of towns plagued by drug violence.

Meanwhile, a reputed money launderer for the Medellin cocaine cartel arrived in the United States, the first person extradited from Colombia during the recent crackdown on drug traffickers.

The government said Wednesday night that President Virgilio Barco would use his state of siege powers to name military mayors of violence-plagued cities. The opposition Conservative Party called the decree unconstitutional.

Barco's Liberal Party has supported him previously when he named military governors in areas where leftist guerrilla violence has been prevalent.

Bat Masterson...

Gene Barry to reprise role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tarnation, that's Bat and Wyatt and young Maverick and The Rifleman's son and a whole passel of Western stars on the two-hour season premiere of "Paradise" on CBS.

"I was very excited about playing Bat Masterson again after 25 years," said Gene Barry, who comes to the rescue of Ethan Allen Cord (Lee Horsley) with Hugh O'Brian returning as Wyatt Earp.

The two-hour show on Sunday is a roundup of old Western stars. Barry played the cane-carrying dandy in NBC's "Bat Masterson" from 1959 to '61. O'Brian was the Dodge City marshal on ABC's "The Life and Legend of Wyatt Earp" from 1955 to '61.

The Western also stars Jack Elam of ABC's "The Dakotas" in 1963 and NBC's "Temple Houston" in 1963-64; Johnny Crawford, who was Mark McCain on ABC's "The Rifleman" from 1958 to '63; Charles Frank, who was on CBS' "The Chisholms" in 1979 and CBS' "Young Maverick" in 1979-80; and Charles Napier of NBC's "The Oregon Trail" in 1977 and CBS' "The Outlaws" in 1986-87.

The cast gives new meaning to Old West. The exception is John Schneider of "The Dukes of Hazard." He's along for the ride by horse instead of gravel-spraying roadster, playing Sheriff Pat Garrett, the man who killed Billy the Kid.

In "Paradise," the "over the hill gang" comes to the rescue after Horsley is thrown into jail on trumped-up murder charges.

"We're a little clumsy at what we did so well 30 years ago," says Barry, 67. "I hope to see it come off because there could be a

Calls for anti-crime czar...

Hance joins officers who make drug bust

HOUSTON (AP) — Kent Hance, a candidate for the 1990 gubernatorial race, went to the front lines of Texas' War on Drugs when he accompanied Houston police officers on drug busts.

In a move designed to publicize his anti-crime proposals, Hance traveled with a special undercover team of Houston police officers as they made two drug buys and three arrests in little more than an hour Wednesday.

"It wasn't like you were having to go out and look for them," an incredulous Hance told officers later. "If you all had the manpower, you could make these around the clock."

"We could have twice the manpower and we still couldn't get them all," said officer David Chapman.

Hance watched as an undercover team drove into a Houston housing project, bought a rock of crack cocaine from a teen-ager and then tipped surveillance officers to the suspect. The plainclothes team, guns drawn, took off running after the suspect, wrestled the 16-year-old to the ground and found him carrying $40 in cash and a tiny plastic bag with 13 rocks — about four grams of crack cocaine with a street value of $260.

Minutes later, two other men — age 19 and 23 — were arrested a few blocks away after the younger man rode with two undercover officers for about 15 minutes, unwittingly leading officers to his dealer.

Lt. Carl Driskell who heads the special team told Hance his officers each week make a couple of four-hour "buy busts," generally arresting about nine suspects — some as young as 9 years old. But he said the officers were hampered by little manpower, excessive paperwork and often faulty equipment, like microphone transmitters.

"You've convinced me," Hance, wearing a suit and tie, told the shorts-and-T-shirt clad officers after the second arrests. "With bad equipment and going at high noon when you'd never expect — you still pick up someone in 20 minutes."

Hance watched the busts after announcing his gubernatorial plans to hire a Texas Crime Czar and develop a three-point strategy to curb drug crimes: more prison space, more treatment for drug and alcohol abuse and more anti-drug education.

Authorities said the 16-year-old would be taken to juvenile court and the other two arrested as Hance watched would be taken to jail to await a court appearance.

Under his proposal, Hance said the crime czar would answer directly to the governor's office and would be responsible for drug abuse prevention and education, oversee the state's prisons, parole and probation programs, and seek criminal justice money from the Legislature.

Hance wants the state to add 25,000 new prison beds, eliminate bail for drug dealers, establish 24-hour drug courts in major urban areas, use the Civil Air Patrol for drug surveillance and deny state benefits line drivers' licenses and welfare assistance for those convicted of felony possession of drugs.

In addition, Hance said he is creating a Texas Anti-Crime and Drug Task Force to study the state's crime and drug problems and recommend new strategies. Among those who will serve on the task force are Richard Collins, founder and president of the Dallas-based Associated Texans Against Crime; and Karolyn Hendrix, a Midland drug abuse counselor.

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: The dairy industry is bombarding us with claims that everyone needs to drink milk. Meanwhile, food-supplement people tell us the human animal is the only one that drinks milk beyond infancy and that animals are smarter about this than we are. What's the truth?

DEAR READER: Animals don't drink milk as adults because their mammas won't nurse them, and they are not smart enough to know how to get the stuff out of a cow, pasteurize it, bottle and market it. Most animals will drink milk if it is offered to them.

I believe milk is a valuable and important addition to a well-balanced diet. It contains calcium, protein, vitamins and fat. Unfortunately, it's the fat that may cause problems for some people on low-cholesterol diets. Therefore, I urge my patients to drink low-fat or skimmed milk, so they get all the benefits without the additional cholesterol in butterfat.

My recommendation takes on additional importance in light of several recent studies that show women who are most likely to develop osteoporosis (bone softening) in later life are those whose bones were calcium-deficient in their younger years. They enter menopause with a low "bone density," meaning that they have failed to store up enough calcium during their reproductive decades. Perhaps if more of us drank milk, we would enter old age with stronger bones.

Like you, I am somewhat dismayed by the dairy industry's media blitz, particularly with respect to butter and cheese — two foodstuffs that contain unacceptably high levels of cholesterol for people who must reduce dietary fats. Nonetheless, the industry is probably correct that milk is a healthy source of many important nutrients. These nutrients are not supplied as readily or as cheaply by any other food supplements. Therefore, you can understand why promoters of these supplements tend to downplay the benefits of milk.

If you like milk, drink a couple of glasses of the low-fat product a day and avoid getting into arguments about how smart animals may — or may not — be.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 22-year-old female. I get a breast lump, associated with pain, a week or two before my period each month. What causes this? Could it be some type of cancer?

DEAR READER: Most women with harmless breast cysts notice an increase in discomfort and size of the cysts around the times of their menstrual periods. This is due to normal hormone fluctuations and usually is nothing to worry about. As a general rule, cancerous breast lumps are not painful and do not change size during the monthly cycle.

Although I believe your breast problem is innocuous, you should bring it to your physician's attention, just to make sure. During the times you are experiencing symptoms, the doctor may choose to order an ultrasound examination. During such a test, harmless sound waves are beamed at the breast and the echo is recorded — confirming, if the breast lump is filled with fluid, that it is benign.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Breast Cancer and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Bert Parks will emcee pageant

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Miss America pageant host Bert Parks will be master of ceremonies at a beauty contest next week. But it's a far cry from the Atlantic City version he helped make famous.

While Miss America contestants stroll down the runway in Atlantic City, N.J., chubby beauties will hug into New York Harbor for the Tugboat Beauty Contest.

About 10 tugs will compete in Wednesday's contest, said coordinator Lauri Masur. They will be judged "on how well they are dressed, their trim, sparkle, maneuverability, charm and overall appearance," she said.

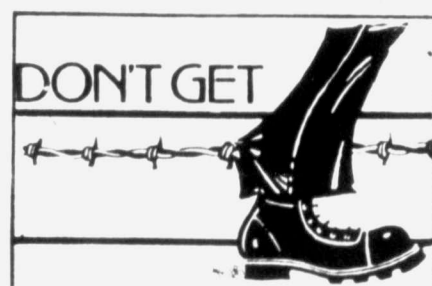

Parks will introduce them but skip singing "There She Is." The Tugboat Beauty Contest is part of Exchange Place Day and will coincide with the opening of a new commuter train station.

future in Bat and Earp. It's a love-hate relationship, like between Quirt and Flagg in "What Price Glory." Two old guys who fight and carry on. I've always felt there's a movie in it."

Although Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp both operated in Dodge City, the twin never met on television, since they were on different networks.

"I would have had him on my show," Barry said. "He had his own Bat Masterson. But he guarded his show with his Buntline Special."

Barry also stars in the NBC movie "Repeat Performance," which will be telecast in December.

The remake Barry is pressing hardest for is "Burke's Law," the ABC series (1963-66) in which he played a millionaire homicide detective who drove to the murder scene in a Rolls-Royce. He hopes to see it turned into a series of movies similar to "Perry Mason."

Barry also starred in "Name of the Game," in rotation with Robert Stack and Tony Franciosa on NBC from 1968 to '71.

He recalled that when "Bat Masterson" first came up 30 years ago he didn't want to do it.

"Then someone said he wore a derby hat and carried a cane," he said. "That appealed to the actor in me. If it hadn't been for that, I would have turned it down. I didn't want to be tied down doing a Western. I went to wardrobe and found the hat and cane and an elegant swallowtail coat and shiny black boots.

"I looked at myself in the mirror and I knew exactly how to play this man. The costume dictated my performance. It changed my life. Every role I've done since has been a guy who looked good in clothes."

Prayer group gets barred from school

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A Midland High School prayer group will have to meet off school grounds because of Constitutional and safety concerns, district officials say.

Members of the "7:14" prayer group said after Wednesday's announcement that they will appeal to the school board.

The 30-member group has been assembling in a city park near the school for its morning prayers since officials said it couldn't meet in Midland High's parking lot.

Member Brent Wetendorf said holding prayer meetings in the parking lot is "a way to bring back positive school spirit and create a sense of unity."

But Ricardo Torres, the district's executive director for secondary operations, said sanctioning prayer on school property would violate the principle of separation of church and state.

"(The school district) can't ignore Supreme Court rulings," he said Tuesday. "The decision will be to maintain the status quo."

Torres announced the district's final decision Wednesday after the district's top administrative officials met.

Wetendorf said the matter is less one of church and state than of the right to assemble, and he questioned the country's moral steadfastness.

"You can burn the flag and kill babies legally in this country," he said. "This country was founded on religion, and we want to preserve our rights."

School district officials also have said they believe meetings in the parking lot would be unsafe — a concern Wetendorf said is without merit.

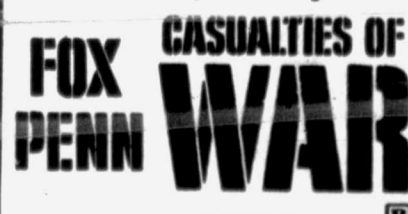

"We won't be running around the parking lot like a bunch of 3-year-olds," he said.

The prayer group's name comes from 2 Chronicles 7:14, which says the "Lord will humble you through prayer."

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a chance you might be denied doing something enjoyable today because of your past extravagance. Unfortunately, it is a lesson you may have to learn the hard way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you sulk about the house today, with a cranky disposition, don't expect family members to cater to you. They won't be in a mood to deal with a foul temper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extra mindful of how you interact with others today. Your patience could be rather thin and if someone does something you dislike, you might respond in an unbecoming manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Some special form of assistance for which you've been hoping might not be forthcoming today, so to be on the safe side, it might be wise to have a back-up plan prepared.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Objectives you are desirous of achieving today may not be handed to you on a silver platter. Be prepared to put out additional effort for what you deem important.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might relegate your logic and objectivity to second place and resort to the unproductive luxury of emotionalizing. This won't solve problems.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're not careful today you might be drawn into an undesirable arrangement and obligate yourself to engage in something in which you'd never participate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's necessary today that you do all that you can to be cooperative. An important relationship could be jeopardized if you are too self-serving.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Systematize your work today and set a realistic agenda for yourself. If not, you could become quickly fatigued or uninspired doing tasks in a disorganized fashion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to keep everything out in the open in your social involvements today. Tricky or petty political maneuvers could be interpreted as deceitful and cause you to lose face.

POULTRY PRODUCTS FIT TODAY'S DIET

Poultry products are nutritious, yet low in calories, fat and saturated fat when compared to other animal products. Poultry fits well into today's dietary needs and the emphasis on reduced consumption of total fat, saturated fat and caloric intake. At the same time, poultry offers appropriate levels of essential nutrients. By providing high protein levels with low caloric content, poultry products are excellent choices as nutrient-dense foods.

The 1987 data from the USDA's Human Nutrition Information Service showed that poultry products provided a more desirable ratio of nutrients to fats than other animal products.

Each day the average person consumes 3,560 calories, of which animal products account for almost 36 percent. Poultry products provide only 3.5 percent of these calories. Red meat provides 15.5 percent; milk and milk products, 10 percent; eggs, 1.6 percent; and fish and shellfish, .9 percent.

At the same time, animal products provide almost 57 percent of the total fat in daily diets. Poultry products account for only five percent of this total, with red meat accounting for 32.8 percent; milk and milk products, 20.5 percent; eggs, two percent; and fish and shellfish, .5 percent.

More than 75 percent of all saturated fatty acids consumed daily come from animal products. Poultry products contribute only four percent of this total, while red meat accounts for about 33 percent; milk and milk products, 20.5 percent; eggs, two percent; and fish and shellfish, .5 percent.

Despite much publicity to the contrary, poultry products continue to provide a greater share of many of the desirable nutrients than other animal products.

According to the USDA data, poultry provided more than 11 percent of the 68.5 percent protein provided by animal products in daily diets, with red meat providing 27.6 percent; milk and milk products, 20.9 percent; eggs, four percent; and fish and shellfish, 4.6 percent.

Poultry meat products account for about 25 percent of the total meat protein consumed per capita daily while providing only 17 percent of the calories, 14 percent of the fat and 11 percent of the saturated fat in animal products.

Not only are the poultry products nutrient-dense dietary choices, but they are good tasting, versatile and inexpensive.

Transform potatoes with cheese, bacon

By NANCY BYAL

Red potatoes are recommended for this dish; they hold their shape better than other types.
CHEESY POTATOES WITH BACON

4 medium potatoes (about 1 and 1-3rd pounds)
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
3/4 cup process Swiss cheese (3 ounces)
6 slices bacon, crisp-cooked, drained and crumbled

Wash and peel potatoes. In a large saucepan bring a moderate amount of lightly salted water to boiling. Add whole potatoes. Return to boiling; reduce heat. Cook, covered, about 30 minutes or until tender. Drain and cool slightly. Cut potatoes into thin slices; return potatoes to saucepan.

Meanwhile, in a small saucepan cook onion in hot margarine until tender but not brown. Stir in flour, nutmeg and pepper. Add milk all at once. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 1 minute more. Add cheese to sauce; stir until cheese is melted. Add cheese sauce and half the bacon to potatoes; stir gently until potatoes are coated. Heat through. Transfer to a serving bowl. Sprinkle with remaining bacon. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

According to a recently published 222-page book from AT&T titled "The World's Telephones," the United States is the country most often called from Nicaragua — despite political tensions between the two nations.

The book also notes that Sweden has the most telephones per capita, with 63 for every 100 persons. India has the least, with five per thousand.

Countries with the most telephones are the United States, Japan, West Germany, France, the United Kingdom, Italy, Canada, Spain and Brazil.

Three teachers attend vocational conference

Snyder High School teachers Carolyn Limmer and Carolyn Derouen, and Snyder Junior High teacher, Darlene Beard, participated in the State In-service Conference for professional development of vocational home economics teachers in Dallas Aug. 14-17.

The three, along with 2,800 teachers from school districts across the state, attended the conference which focused on new content in the home economics program as set forth in the Master Plan for Vocational Education.

Coordinated by the Vocational Home Economics Education Division of the Texas Education Agency, the conference offered 29 sessions to provide teachers with the foundation to effectively include the new concepts in all areas of instruction in home economics education.

Topics addressed included innovative ways to help students develop a healthy self esteem, developing a work ethic among young people, the impact of marketing programs on buying practices, prevention of illness through good nutrition, successful programs on the family, working with school-age parents, strategies for teaching money management, matching teaching styles to learning styles, future projections related to housing, Vocational Education funding and positive outcomes with the at-risk student.

Electronic shopping rises

NEW YORK (AP) — Interactive video units — computerized merchandising systems that offer convenient, electronic shopping without the need of salespersons — are selling Americans a widening variety of products from shoes to cosmetics, according to a report issued here.

To use them, a customer simply touches an infrared video screen for an audio and video presentation of what is offered, notes Intermark Corp. Once a selection is made, the screen and a printout tell the customer where in the store that product can be located.

In addition to being used in kiosks, smaller units are also appearing as shelf-edge computers right at the point of sale. Industry estimates are that some 200,000 of the shelf-edge units will be in retail stores by 1990.

Also, suede fashion boots with flat heels will be popular. Red and purple will be the "in" colors, according to Teaff.

Kathy Landes, education chairman, announced that Shannon Warren is the scholarship recipient. She will be taking 14 hours at Western Texas College, while maintaining her job at Western State Bank.

Shirley Miller dismissed the group with the benediction.

Tunnel dug oddly

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The 11 1/2-mile-long Appennine rail tunnel on the Florence-Bologna line in central Italy was built between 1920 and 1930 using an unusual technique.

The tunnel was not only bored from both ends, but a shaft was also dropped in the middle to allow workers to dig outward from the center.

Educated guessing

By James Jacoby

Whoever heard of cue-bidding with the 8-5-3 of the opponent's suit? North was not really demented when he bid three spades. He had four-card support for his partner's opening bid and enough high cards that he would have opened the bidding himself. If he bid an immediate four hearts, partner would play him for less strength and more distributional values. So three spades filled the bill, as long as South knew it only showed a sound raise to four hearts and did not absolutely promise a control in spades. Since South had a garbage opening bid, he bid four hearts and hoped he could make it.

The play came down to knowing how to count. West led three high spades and then the queen of diamonds. Declarer took the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and then played dummy's diamond king and ruffed dummy's last low diamond. West had shown with six spades and two hearts, and had followed to three diamonds. That left West with no more than two clubs. Since East had at least five clubs, it was right to play for the club queen to be with East. And virtue was rewarded.

Of course it was possible that West held the doubleton queen of clubs and declarer would be set. That would be bad luck, but at least declarer would have made an educated guess as to the location of the club queen.

Grid season starts...

District teams begin Friday

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Play in District 4-4A begins this Friday with a full complement of games on the schedule including Lubbock Coronado at Snyder, Monahans at El Paso Riverside, Frenship at Andrews, Ballinger at San Angelo Lake View, El Paso Ysleta at Ft. Stockton, Big Spring at Hobbs, N.M., Merkel at Sweetwater and Pecos at El Paso High.

According to the coaches in the district, Andrews should be the team to beat in 1989. The coaches also say that this loop should be the strongest it has been in many years with Sweetwater, Monahans, and Big Spring also vying for a spot in post-season play.

None of the coaches polled listed defending champions Sweetwater any lower than third in the district in spite of the fact that only one starter returns from last year's defense and none come back on offense.

Sweetwater was perched in the top position for class AAAA for much of last season before losing to Hereford in bi-district play, 29-12.

The Mustangs are going against Merkel to begin their title defense. Sweetwater is short on starting experience but long on enthusiasm. It's also a good bet that coach Tom Richey will field a well coached team when they take to the gridiron versus the Badgers.

Returning lettermen for the Mustangs include guard Jo Jo Martinez at 5-9, 245, linebacker Billy Rather at 6-1 and 190 and strong safety Robert Williams who measures 5-9 and weighs in at 165 pounds.

Monahans, the second place team in 1988, finished with a 10-3 mark. Their season ended in the third round of the playoffs at the hands of Cleburne. They had thumped Levelland, 35-6, and drew a bye in the second round before meeting the Yellow Jackets. The Lobos held the lead, 14-7, going into the fourth period before losing to a late Cleburne rally, 22-14.

The Lobos open the '89 campaign with a road trip to El Paso to take on the Riverside Rangers. Monahans coach Bren Holland returns three offensive and four defensive starters from a year ago. This year's edition of the Lobos will rely on team speed from those seven if they are to challenge for the title.

Fullback Shad Hanna at 5-9 and 160 will serve as some experience on offense along with tackles Gabriel Hisele and Reed Neff. Hisele is a 5-9, 186 pound specimen and Neff stands 6-1 and weighs 200 pounds.

Andrews was the 'Cinderella' team in last year's run at the crown, finishing the season with only a pair of district losses, one to Sweetwater and one to Monahans, teams finishing first and second in the conference.

The Mustangs' hopes for a playoff spot in '89 hinge on coach W.T. Stapler's 15 returning players from last year's 7-3 team. One strength for Andrews will undoubtedly be at the quarterback position where Robert Morris, 6-1, 170, has started for the past two years.

Other returnees include all-district guard Steve Boone, 6-1 and 244, center Corbin Elliott at 6-0, 172, Teddy Jennings, a 5-9, 148 pound linebacker and Matt Carroll, a halfback-safety combination that measures 5-7 and tips the scales at 150 pounds.

Big Spring Steers coach David Thompson, in his second year after a highly successful stint at 3A Post, brings back 15 lettermen including six starters on offense and five on defense.

The Steers were a 3-6 team last year but the return of so many players makes one like the chances of the Big Spring squad if for no other reason than experience.

Coach Thompson's son Rance will run the offense, an offense that is said to be quicker, faster and stronger than last season.

Rance Thompson completed 64 of 77 passes for 1,332 yards and 11 touchdowns as a junior in 1988. Joe Downey, a wide receiver, was one of Thompson's favorite targets. Downey hauled in 17 passes for 300 yards and an average of 17.6 yards per catch. He can also run the forty yard dash in 4.8 seconds.

Problem areas for the Steers will be at tailback in their formation offense and depth at some key positions.

Pecos coach Daylon Whitehurst has been in his position for ten years, making him the senior coach in District 4-4A. His Eagles suffered the loss of 20 lettermen from last season's 5-5 football team.

He is counting heavily on fullback Tommy Valdez and halfback Arturo Martinez to guide his offense. Valdez, 5-10, 180, carried the ball for 588 yards last year scoring 15 touchdowns while Martinez, a starter for the last two seasons, gained 458 yards on 87 carries in 1988.

On defense the Eagle holdovers include Monty Medanich at cornerback, Danny Solis at strong safety and free safety Michael Horton. The Pecos defense will come at opponents from a basic 5-2 set-up.

The Pecos season begins with a road game against El Paso High School.

The Panthers of Ft. Stockton are coached by Mel Gierhart, in his third season at the helm. His team from 1988 finished with a 4-6 season mark and a 3-4 record in district play.

Four starters return on offense but defensively there are none.

Guard Brian Fairchild and tackle Rudy Quintela will be relied on to open holes for Phillip Houston, returning tailback for the upcoming season.

Houston caught three passes in '88, one for a TD, while he rushed for a pair of scores.

Gierhart plans to use an option-type offense and get away, somewhat from the more traditional wing-T formation.

Last season's Panther defense allowed only 228 yards per game, intercepting nine enemy passes and recovering 15 fumbles.

They will take the field against El Paso Ysleta, a 5A squad, Friday evening.

San Angelo Lake View returns more starters from last year than any team on the circuit, six on offense and five on defense.

That's the good news. The bad news is these same players could manage only three wins last year.

Experience must play a role in matters if the Chiefs are to improve their lot in 1989.

Lake View allowed more points than any team in the district last year, 259, and scored only 114 points for the year.

Coach Mark Gesch has a solid line with returnees Aurelio Pando at center, guards Todd Coon and Brian Redman and tackle James Meadows.

Gesch feels that the weakness of the unit will be in the skill positions, while the strength of the team will be its experience.

The Chiefs will open the 1989 season at home against 3A Ballinger.

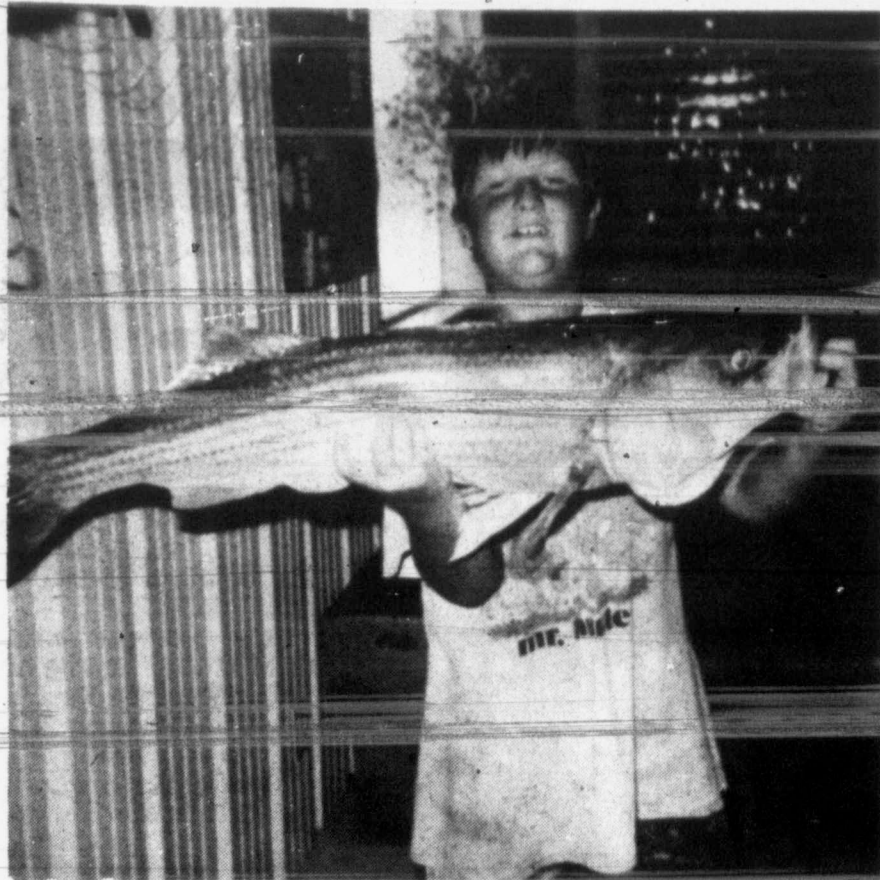

The Snyder Tigers will open their football season with a home game against 5A Lubbock Coronado.

Snyder is looking to turn their program around after going 1-9 last year.

Second Year coach David Baugh feels his young charges will have a better grasp of his system this season, making the Tigers and their fans hopeful in '89.

Quarterbacks Toby Goodwin, a senior and junior Ed Rios have had flashes of brilliance in the Snyder scrimmages, as has the Black and Gold defense.

In their scrimmage versus 5A powerhouse Plainview, the out-sized Tigers kept the Bulldogs out of the end zone on five successive plays inside the five yard line.

Becker trounces Noah in quarterfinal match

NEW YORK (AP) — Living on borrowed tennis time, Boris Becker is turning the often unforgiving hardcourts of Flushing Meadow into a private playground.

It was in the first week of the U.S. Open that the second-seeded Becker stared into the abyss of elimination, faced with two match points against somebody named Derrick Rostagno. He survived the crisis, winning in five sets, and now his game is reaching the kind of crescendo he usually reserves for the grass courts of Wimbledon.

Becker dominated Yannick Noah 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 in the quarterfinals Wednesday night, a thrashing that was thorough and convincing.

Certainly, Noah was convinced.

"His serve was much too fast for me," he said. "There was no way I could return. His first was pretty hard and his second was very high. I just had trouble through the whole match."

"It was much easier than I expected," Becker said. "I expected to lose a set, maybe two."

But his booming serve made the lime green tennis balls seem like they were being launched by a bazooka and kept Becker in charge. He broke Noah early in every set and just cruised after that.

"It was probably my most consistent, my best match ever here," the three-time Wimbledon champ said. "Wimbledon is the tournament for me and always will be. But if I win this tournament, I wouldn't mind at all."

The victory moved Becker into the semifinals against No. 14 seed Aaron Krickstein, who advanced when cramps forced Jay Berger to retire in the fourth set of their match.

Krickstein was leading 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 when Berger began moving in slow motion, his left leg stiff from cramps.

"I thought that something was wrong because in the second set he began playing a few loose games," Krickstein said. "I felt the longer the match, the better off I'd be. I didn't think he'd cramp up like that."

With Berger in obvious trouble, the crowd got behind the No. 11 seed, urging him on.

"I don't think a lot of the people know the rules exactly," Krickstein said. "A cramp isn't an injury, so a player can't take an injury timeout. He's got to play through it. I wasn't even going to serve. I was going to wait it out, but the guy gave him the code violation. Jay said he was ready. I served. What was I going to do? I'm trying to win the match."

Berger said nervousness and tension had caused his problem.

"I thought I did the right thing preparing. ... I had a lack of the right minerals and I was burning off a lot of energy," he said.

Six-man teams begin 1989 campaign Friday

The three area six-man football teams will open the 1989 season Friday night as Ira hosts Lazbuddie, Sands comes to Hermleigh and Borden County travels to New Home.

The Ira Bulldogs, hoping to challenge Trent and Loraine in District 7-A(6), will face a Lazbuddie team ranked fifth in Texas by Texas Football magazine. The Longhorns return 12 lettermen including honorable mention all-state QB Michael Williams and second team all-state wide receiver Kevin McGehee.

Ira has scrimmaged Sands and Dawson, beating each of them in convincing style to prepare for the 1989 football campaign.

Hermleigh will host Sands Friday with only a handful of football players suiting up. At the opening scrimmage of the preseason the Cardinals only sent seven players out of the dressing room to face Ira.

Coach Doug Cook feels that what he lacks in numbers his Cards will make up in heart.

Sands comes in following a 1988 season when they went 7-3. The Mustangs bring back four starters on each side of the ball for '89.

The Coyotes of Borden County will travel to New Home to begin, what they hope is, a play-off year.

Coach Joe Bond and his quarterbacking son will lead the team against the number one ranked team in District 3 trying to improve on last season's disappointing 2-8 record.

New Home returns eleven starters from last season's 6-4 team with only one of the group being on defense.

Defensive back Cody James, who intercepted nine enemy aerials last season and posted 130 tackles, leads the New Home defense this season.

Boys football league forms

Boys' Club football registration will run through Friday at the Boys' Club located at 1500 28th St. Players must be between the ages of 9 and 12 years as of Aug. 31, 1989.

The fee for players is $15. Registrants will need to bring a copy of their birth certificate and a parent.

Women bowlers to meet Friday

The Snyder Women's Bowling Association will host their fall membership meeting Friday at Snyder Lanes.

The 6 p.m. gathering will feature the election of a new director and the discussion of WIBC rules changes.

Astronaut thinks that probe is safe

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The astronaut who will command Atlantis next month on a mission to deploy a probe to Jupiter says he has no qualms about flying with two nuclear generators on board the shuttle.

The two radioisotope thermoelectric generators, or RTGs, will power the Galileo probe on its trip across the solar system. Some anti-nuclear groups claim the nuclear material could pose a health hazard if it were released during a shuttle accident, but Atlantis commander Don Williams said Wednesday the risk is minimal.

"The chances are so remote it's not worth worrying about," he said.

Williams and Atlantis' four other astronauts discussed the upcoming mission during individual interviews and at a final pre-flight press conference Wednesday at the Johnson Space Center. The crew will spend the next month training for the mission, scheduled to launch Oct. 12.

"There's a certain amount of risk involved in anything you do these days," Williams said. "(But) I'm satisfied in my mind ... that we've done the best possible job we can to make these things as safe as we possibly can."

Atlantis' other astronauts agreed.

"I don't see how it can hurt anyone unless it hits him on the head, and that's pretty remote. I think it is a complete non-issue except as a philosophical issue to some people," said pilot Mike McCulley.

The other crew members are Franklin Chang-Diaz, Ellen Baker and Shannon Lucid — all mission specialists. Mrs. Baker and McCulley are space rookies.

Each of the 122-pound RTGs contain about 24 pounds of highly toxic plutonium-238 dioxide. The heat released by the plutonium's decay is converted into electricity by instruments called thermocouples.

The astronauts noted that the nuclear generators are the only known devices that can power a spacecraft going deep into the solar system far from the sun.

Voyager 2, which last month relayed stunning photos from the planet Neptune, is powered by similar RTGs.

"If we want to explore the outer parts of the solar system, we don't have a choice right now," Mrs. Baker said. "Voyager wouldn't be where it is today and we wouldn't have gotten those beautiful pictures of Neptune back had it not been for the three RTGs that have powered Voyager so well for the last 12 years."

The United States has launched 22 nuclear-powered spacecraft since 1961, with all the plutonium packages encased in super hardened material designed to survive the worst possible fire or explosive conditions. None resulted in the release of radioactive material, even though one package was aboard a rocket that exploded and two survived flaming re-entries through Earth's atmosphere after mishaps.

"Testing shows that they are built to last and withstand about anything you can imagine," Mrs. Baker said. She added that even some environmental groups "knowledgeable about the RTGs have given their seal of approval on this."

But some anti-nuclear and environmental groups have protested the use of plutonium aboard Atlantis, citing the 1986 Challenger explosion as an example of how things can go wrong. They contend a similar explosion could result in radioactive contamination of the Cape Canaveral, Fla., area.

The White House has to approve the mission because of the nuclear material aboard, and an announcement on the matter is expected within a few days. If the mission is approved, opposition groups said they would seek a court order to block the liftoff.

NASA said an exhaustive post-Challenger safety review indicates that the chances of a launch accident in which substantial quantities of plutonium, pulverized to breathable form, could be released is about 1-in-2,700. And even then, NASA said, any contamination would be minor.

"They're completely safe in my opinion," Chang-Diaz said. "I'm planning to have my family there, and so I have tremendous confidence (in the RTGs)."

Once deployed, Galileo will embark on a six-year journey to Jupiter where it will fire a scientific probe into the Jovian atmosphere and orbit the planet for 22 months of extensive exploration.

"It's just very exciting," Lucid said of the mission. "It's important for us to learn. It's important for us to know about our solar system. It's important to learn about the universe we're in."

Williams said finding out more about another planet and its moons should help scientists learn more about how the Earth and its inhabitants evolved.

"Discoveries are awaiting the arrival of Galileo," he said.

Bennett testifies before committee on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American people want the government to ban U.S.-made assault rifles, which are stockpiled by Colombian drug lords, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told drug policy director William Bennett today.

Bennett, appearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee to push President Bush's plan for fighting drugs, defended the administration's opposition to such a ban.

Kennedy said the arsenals kept by Colombian drug lords have been heavily stocked with American-made guns. "The American people want action" to outlaw "the weapons of choice of these thugs and mobsters on the streets," he said.

"Are we going to get action out of the administration?" Kennedy, D-Mass., asked Bennett.

"I think there are very serious constitutional problems," Bennett responded.

The Bush administration already has banned the import of a number of foreign-made assault rifles but has balked at shutting off U.S. manufacturing amid a heavy lobbying campaign from the National Rifle Association.

The president's anti-drug strategy itself brought surprisingly little fireworks at the hearing, although Democrats have complained over the last several days that the Bush administration's plans for financing it were insufficient.

A number of congressional Democrats have said Bush should recommend a tax increase to pay for the plan instead of proposing to take money from other programs. The $7.9 billion sought is $2.2 billion above the 1989 budget authorization.

The committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., told Bennett he wanted to put legislation to implement the drug strategy "on a fast track" and urged consultations with the administration as soon as possible to help speed the bill through Congress.

Pregnant woman stabbed to death, but baby saved

HOUSTON (AP) — A team of physicians simultaneously performed a Caesarean section and emergency surgery on a woman who had been stabbed in the heart, saving the baby before the mother died.

Delores Garza, 40, who was about 8½ months pregnant, died three to five minutes after physicians delivered her 5-pound daughter at 10:10 a.m. Wednesday, said Dr. Kenneth Mattox, director of emergency surgical services at Ben Taub Hospital.

The baby was later transferred to Lyndon Baines Johnson Hospital where she is listed in critical but stable condition. The woman's throat had been slashed, and she had been stabbed several times in the chest. She also had been shot, but it was not clear how many times.

The baby's father was at work when the attack occurred inside the couple's apartment near downtown. A murder charge is pending against a man arrested after the attack.

Two teams of physicians, assembled at the back door of Ben Taub's emergency room, jumped into action seconds after the ambulance arrived with the woman, Mattox said.

"We had good communications with the paramedics, so we had a good idea of the time and we had enough personnel there. So, we could make decisions that we work on both people at the same time (mother and baby)," Mattox said.

"From the time the two of them hit the back door we had assessed them and done an emergency operation on the mother's heart and done a Caesarean section within 45 seconds," Mattox said.

Houston Fire Department paramedics were credited with resuscitating the woman en route to the hospital to give physicians a chance to try to save her and the baby, Mattox said.

Although Houston homicide detectives still are investigating the motive for the slaying, they believe the suspect thought Mrs. Garza caused a breakup in his relationship with either his girlfriend or his wife.

"We think it has something to do with Garza knowing the suspect's former girlfriend or former wife," said homicide Sgt. James Yarborough. "From what we can determine there were some hard feelings between him and this lady."

After the attack, the suspect sped away from the 48-unit complex, but a resident of the complex alerted police and followed the suspect.

Fort Worth teacher...

Youth in custody as police search for murder weapon

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police say they will continue searching for a knife that killed a Fort Worth elementary school teacher after a 12-year-old boy was taken into custody in connection with the case.

The youth, whose name was withheld because he was a juvenile, told investigators that he had disposed of the murder weapon near the school, but authorities had no luck finding it Wednesday.

"We're using a metal detector and we plan on mowing the lot," said Fort Worth police Sgt. Paul Kratz. "It's overgrown with heavy weeds, we're trying to do as thorough a search as possible."

Kratz said the youth is to be charged with delinquent conduct-murder in the slaying of Jana Simpson, 24, who died of numerous stab wounds outside a temporary classroom at Glen Park Elementary School in southeast Fort Worth.

The juvenile was being held Wednesday night at the Tarrant County Juvenile Detention Center, authorities said. Authorities said the slaying on Aug. 28 came a day before the youth's 12th birthday.

"As far as I know he was not retarded intellectually but he was emotionally disturbed," said Wyvonia Ruffin, who last year was principal at Glencrest Middle School, where the boy was in a special education program. "As far as I was concerned, I never experienced him being violent. He was defiant, not violent."

Under Texas law, a youth under age 15 cannot be certified to stand trial as an adult.

A detention hearing for the youth has been set for Thursday. A judge will determine if he will be allowed to go home or if he will remain at the juvenile detention center.

Police said the youth gave them a statement indicating that Miss Simpson caught him trying to break into her portable classroom. "Apparently, Miss Simpson caught this young man as he was prowling around the school," Kratz said. "Exactly what he was doing, we do not know."

"We know he was in other buildings at the school," Kratz said. "Some were actually broken in, some were opened, and he went in and wandered around."

A court-appointed attorney for the youth, Allan K. Butcher, said the boy is "clean-cut, small in stature—a slight boy."

"He gives the appearance of a boy younger than 12," Butcher said.

Judge rules...

Quadriplegic can let himself die

ATLANTA (AP) — A 33-year-old quadriplegic quietly accepted the news that a judge had granted his wish to be allowed to shut off the machine that has kept him alive the past four years.

Larry McAfee, paralyzed from the neck down in a 1985 motorcycle accident, won permission Wednesday to fit the ventilator that allows him to breathe with a device he designed in his head as he lay paralyzed.

"He said, 'Well,' and was quiet, just said, 'Well, good,'" said nurse Carol Philpot at the Briarcliff Nursing Center in Alabaster, Ala., where McAfee is staying. "He's kind of digesting the news, I think."

Under his plans, McAfee would be administered a sedative and use a mouth-held stick to activate the device, which would be connected to a timer to shut off the ventilator.

Fulton County Superior Court Judge Edward Johnson ruled that McAfee's right to refuse life-sustaining treatment outweighed the state's interest in preserving life.

As a competent adult, McAfee has the right to refuse medical treatment, the judge said.

"The ventilator to which he is attached is not prolonging his life; it is prolonging his death," said Johnson, who had jurisdiction because McAfee is from Atlanta and had petitioned the Georgia court before he was taken to the Alabama nursing home.

McAfee asked the court's permission to shield anyone who helped him from potential legal problems.

Johnson told McAfee's parents and three adult sisters that the ruling would set a precedent so families in similar situations could make their decisions more privately.

In that way, the judge said: "Larry will have made his last and greatest contribution to his community. I have never met anyone who had a stronger impact on my own life than he had on me when we had the hearing at the hospital."

Although most "right-to-die" cases involve comatose patients or those who cannot make their wishes known, a case similar to McAfee's came up in July. A 38-year-old Michigan man paralyzed in a surfing accident died after a court decided he had the right to have his life-support system shut off.

Johnson ordered the state, which supported McAfee's petition, to appeal to the Georgia Supreme Court but said McAfee need not await the outcome.

McAfee's lawyer, Randall H. Davis, said he didn't expect any opposition.

"The judge hopes they will issue a definitive opinion to make it so that similarly situated people won't have to go to court and go through all this," Davis said.

Davis was unsure when McAfee would ask to be sent back to Georgia so he could disconnect the ventilator; he said his client wanted to be sent to a friend's apartment instead of a hospital.

"He has expressed a desire all along to move this along as quickly as possible," Davis said. "I assume that continues to be his desire."

Johnson conducted a hearing at McAfee's bedside last month, hearing him testify that he wakes up "just fearful of each new day."

Trial resumes after judge says Bakker is competent

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jim Bakker isn't crazy and can aid in his defense, a psychiatrist testified before his trial resumed with a former PTL fund-raiser tearfully explaining how she was fired for not keeping her mouth shut.

Former fund-raiser Carol Price also broke into tears when she described trying to discourage an elderly woman from purchasing a $1,000 lifetime partnership that offered three nights lodging a year in a ministry hotel.

"I told her that selling a burial policy to buy a lifetime partnership was not a good idea," Ms. Price said Wednesday.

Her testimony came after a mental competency hearing and U.S. District Judge Robert Potter's dismissal of a defense mistrial motion.

Last week, Bakker was found hallucinating under a couch in his lawyer's office. He was sent to a prison for psychiatric evaluation.

"He is not going crazy," said Dr. Sally Johnson, head of the psychiatric team at the Federal Correctional Institution in Butner. "He has no hidden mental illness. The stress that he's feeling is normal."

"I can't rule it out that it won't happen again, but I can't rule it in, either."

Ms. Johnson said she didn't think Bakker had faked his breakdown. She said Bakker told her he hadn't felt well and that radio and television news crews gathered at the courthouse took on the form of frightening animals. She said he told her they appeared as "large ants with antennae."

Ms. Johnson said Bakker insisted he hadn't lost touch with reality.

"He did not lose sight that they were actually the press," she said. "It was an experience in which he was very frightened and there was a large number of people in the crowd."

She said Bakker simply suffered a "panic attack" and could stand trial on fraud charges.

After Potter agreed and released Bakker from custody, witnesses resumed testimony that Bakker and other ministry officials oversold vacations in PTL's resort hotels.

Former PTL Vice President Steve Nelson, whose fainting episode on the stand last week was cited by doctors as triggering Bakker's breakdown, returned to testify.

Nelson said he had gone to Bakker and former PTL Vice President Richard Dortch with concerns over the number of "lifetime partnerships" sold at the 500-room Heritage Grand Hotel.

"I told them we had problems getting people in there," he said. "I told them we could not sell more memberships."

Ms. Price testified that workers were encouraged to sell as many partnerships as they could, regardless of whether the hotel could accommodate them.

Ms. Price, who was in charge of handling partner relations, said she took her concerns to Bakker on several occasions.

She said that when she and 10 members of her staff were fired in 1985, she asked Nelson, her boss at the time, why she was let go.

"He leaned back in his chair and said, 'That's the price you pay for knowing too much and not keeping your mouth shut,'" she said, crying. "Ten people lost their jobs because my conscience wouldn't let me keep my mouth shut. I carry that with me to this day."

Bakker, who resigned from the PTL ministry in 1987 during a sex-and-money scandal, went on trial Aug. 28.

Prosecutors contend Bakker oversold the partnerships and used nearly $4 million in ministry funds to live in high style.

If convicted on all 24 counts against him, he could receive 120 years in prison and be fined more than $5 million.

Nationalists suffer heavy casualties

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Archbishop Desmond Tutu said today that 23 people were killed during protests against black exclusion from voting that saw the National Party suffer its worst setback in 41 years in power.

The Nationalists narrowly retained their parliamentary majority in Wednesday's elections, suffering heavy losses to both anti-apartheid and segregationist rivals.

But acting President F.W. de Klerk said today that the results showed that most voters support his party's plan to extend limited political rights to blacks.

With just two of 166 election districts undecided, it appeared the Nationalists would retain at least 93 of their previous 123 seats in Parliament's dominant white chamber.

The Conservatives, who want stricter enforcement of segregation laws, improved from 22 to 39 seats, and the liberal Democratic Party from 20 to 33, making the biggest gains ever for an anti-apartheid faction.

In protest of their disenfranchisement, blacks observed a nationwide general strike that anti-apartheid leaders called the biggest anti-government protest ever with 3 million people taking part.

Violence flared in many areas and police said an unspecified number of people were killed and more than 50 arrested.

Tutu said 23 people of black and mixed race were killed in townships near Cape Town, where some activists erected burning barricades and threw stones, and police were seen marching through streets firing in all directions.

Hospitals and monitoring groups said more than 100 people were injured as riot squads used whips, tear gas and shotguns to stop peaceful anti-election rallies and disperse stone-throwing crowds in more than 20 townships.

The South African Press Association said the dead included a 23-year-old black woman killed when police fired shotguns to disperse a crowd.

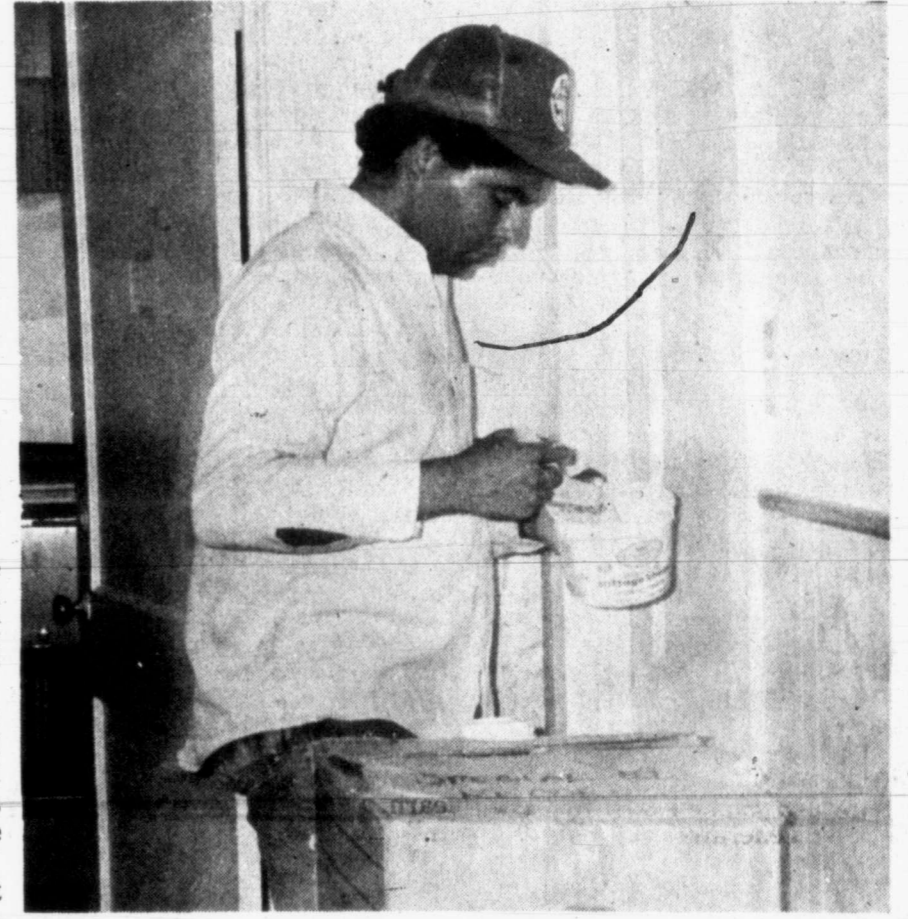

For the first time since a 1953 election, the Nationalists' were expected to receive less than a majority of the white vote. They won 48.5 percent, to 31.2 percent for the Conservatives and 20.2 percent for the Democrats.

De Klerk is expected to be chosen by an electoral college next week to serve a five-year term as president.

He described the results as "a clear mandate" for his party's plans for gradual political reform and said the government now must concentrate on opening negotiations with blacks.

"Seventy percent of the whites voted for political renewal and reform ... and granting political rights," de Klerk said today, linking his party with the liberal-minded Democrats.

During the campaign, de Klerk had associated the Nationalists with the right-wing Conservatives, saying that in the 1987 white election 80 percent of voters had shown a preference for those parties' promises to enforce segregation.

Report says gunner's mate 'probably caused' blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy report being issued today concludes that gunner's mate Clayton Hartwig "probably caused" the blast aboard the USS Iowa by inserting a detonating device amid bags of gunpowder in the battleship's 16-inch guns, Pentagon sources say.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified by name, said the Navy was unable to pinpoint a precise cause of the April 19 explosion, which killed Hartwig and 46 others. The tragedy ranks as the worst naval disaster since the Vietnam war.

Pentagon officials planned to release the report today, more than four months after the explosion in the battleship's No. 2 gun turret during training exercises northeast of Puerto Rico.

Vice Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Leon Edney; Rear Adm. William Schachte, the head of the Naval Investigative Service; and Rear Adm. Richard Milligan, who headed the inquiry, planned to brief reporters on the 1,100-page report.

The Pentagon sources said the Navy believes that Hartwig was the "most likely person" to have caused the blast. Investigators found that he was closest to the breach of the gun before the explosion occurred and that he was in charge of overseeing its loading.

The report found that "foreign material" was discovered in the gun that Hartwig manned, and that such material would not normally have been present after the firing of the 16-inch guns, the sources said.

The sources said they could not say what exactly was found remaining in the gun.

Suspect's low bond angers officials

FORT BLISS, Texas (AP) — A Fort Bliss soldier charged in New Mexico with capital murder in connection with the stabbing death of his girlfriend has taken military leave from the post despite an ongoing extradition attempt.

Dona Ana County District Attorney Douglas Driggers said he does not understand why military officials allowed Staff Sgt. Donald R. Fletcher to take military leave because they were aware he was a suspect in the Aug. 17 slaying.

Fletcher was originally wanted on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of his girlfriend, Josephine Kennon. The 43-year-old victim was stabbed 18 times in the back and chest, and her body was found near Chapparal, N.M.

Officials also believe she was run over with a car after the slaying.

On Aug. 24, the charge against Fletcher was elevated by New Mexico prosecutors to capital murder, which carries a life sentence or the death penalty, said Doug Driggers, New Mexico District Attorney.

That same day Fletcher was released from El Paso County Jail on a $10,000 bond set by El Paso Jail Magistrate Scott Segall.

Driggers said Fletcher's bond is far too low and called it totally inappropriate for seriousness of the crime.

"I am very apprehensive about the (criminal justice) system of Texas," Driggers said.

Fletcher, a 12-year Army veteran, is scheduled to return from leave on Sept. 26, said Brad Rose, Fort Bliss spokesman.

Lt. Col. James Lawson told the El Paso Herald-Post that to his knowledge Fletcher hadn't been charged with a crime and can take military leave.

"If he would've been charged with something, he wouldn't be out on leave," he said. "At some point in time, when the legal process has worked between the state of New Mexico and the state of (Texas and the) county of El Paso, to honor that extradition or not honor that extradition request, I suppose something will happen. But right now, he is on leave."

But Driggers said the Army should have known Fletcher was charged with capital murder.

He said the Army's Criminal Investigation Division, CID, was instrumental in handling the investigation and gave the Dona Ana County Sheriff's office information upon which the complaint is based.

Although the extradition process normally takes 60 days, Driggers said New Mexico authorities are hoping to speed it along.

Fletcher is fighting extradition.

Barbara Bush gets honorary degree

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — First lady Barbara Bush got an honorary degree and some good-natured ribbing at Smith College, which she left in her sophomore year "due to a previous engagement."

"I don't deserve this honor. I'm going to accept it," Mrs. Bush said Wednesday to the raucous approval of the more than 4,000 people.

Mrs. Bush was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters for her work for the homeless, handicapped and illiterate.

Mrs. Bush walked through a throng of students and stopped to remark on one woman's T-shirt, which carried pictures of herself and Smith graduate Nancy Reagan with the message, "There must be a better way to get a Smithie in the White House."

T-shirt wearer Jennifer Tegan, a sophomore, said Mrs. Bush "just kind of laughed and patted me on the back."

Talking About Son's Death Turns Mother's Loss to Gain

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter about how a mother who has lost a child in death should respond when she is asked how many children she has prompted me to share my experience.

I have two daughters living and one son who died last January on his 29th birthday.

The first time I was asked this question following my son's death, I was standing in the checkout line at the grocery store the Saturday before Mother's Day. The gentleman ahead of me asked me if I had any Mother's Day plans. I said, "No." Then he asked me how many children I had. I hesitated for a moment, then said, "Three, but I lost my son in January — that's why I'm not celebrating this year."

He asked how old my son was, and was his death an accident. I told him my son was 29, and I felt that his death was an accident because my son loved life so much I'm sure he would never knowingly overdose on drugs — but like so many young people of his generation, overdosing on drugs was something that only happened to "the other guy."

The man was very sympathetic and told me that he had recently turned his 16-year-old son in to the police for selling drugs. He said he had mixed feelings about what he had done, but after talking to me, he was convinced that he made the right decision. Now his son was getting the help he needed and he wouldn't be responsible for contributing to the possible loss of other lives. We said goodbye and wished each other luck.

When I got to my car, I sat and cried for a few minutes. Yes, it hurt to talk about my son's death, but in a small way, I had helped someone else.

Now when someone asks me how many children I have, I will always answer, "Two daughters, and one son who died." If questions follow, I'll answer them.

But not including my son who died is like saying that he never existed. With 29 years of memories, some good, some bad, my son will always live in my heart.

SACRAMENTO MOTHER OF THREE

DEAR MOTHER: My heart goes out to you and to all parents who have lost a child in death, which is the most tragic loss one can experience. That's why I recommend Compassionate Friends, a national fellowship of parents who have lost children in death. They meet and find comfort in consoling each other.

For those who have never heard of it, but have lost a child — of any age, regardless of how long it's been — the address is: Compassionate Friends, P.O. Box 3696, Oak Brook, Ill. 60522-3696, or call at (312) 990-0010.

DEAR ABBY: My children keep giving me "little things" for my birthday, Christmas, etc. I have asked them not to. Instead, I suggested that they deposit into a savings account in my name the money they would have spent. This can be used when I retire.

I am still working, but am looking at retirement in a few years. Due to some unfortunate circumstances, I will have a very small retirement fund to draw on, so I thought if they did this, it would help me to retain my self-esteem. (We aren't wealthy; neither are we poor.)

I live in a small condo with limited space and can display only so many of these "little things." I have all the material things I want or need. When it's time for a garage sale, guess which "little things" go. Right! Then my kids are hurt because I didn't think enough of their gifts, given in love, to keep them. Abby, I have no place to put them!

What do you think of my idea?

NEARING RETIREMENT

DEAR NEARING: I think it's a great idea.

Dear Abby's Cookbooklet is a collection of favorite recipes — all tested, tried and terrific! To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby's Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Scientists look for ways to control cocaine addiction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The addict slips the needle into his scarred arm and drives down the plunger, or flares a crack-filled pipe and inhales the heated vapor.

In both cases, the cocaine hits the brain within seconds, giving the user sensations of pleasure that some have said is like no other high.

But the pleasure lasts only 10 to 20 minutes, followed quickly by a "crash" and a relentless, ignore-all-else craving to get high again.

It's that cycle of ecstasy, depression and renewed craving for euphoria that makes cocaine and crack among the most habit-forming drugs. And, experts say, medical science has not found a treatment that can be applied universally to break the cycle of dependency.

"Cocaine is clearly a very addictive drug because it is the most reinforcing and pleasurable of the abused drugs," said Dr. Jack Blaine, chief of the treatment branch at the National Institute on Drug Abuse. "As yet, we don't have any good, solid research on successful crack or cocaine treatment."

Both cocaine and crack, a crystallized form of cocaine that is smoked, work directly on the brain.

It's believed the drug causes protein molecules called neuroreceptors to ignite sensations of pleasure and send pulses of euphoria along nerve pathways time after time after time. Eventually, the molecules are absorbed and the effects diminish. For the user, there's a letdown and then, quickly, a desire for more of the drug.

That, Blaine said, is a cycle of reinforcement that makes cocaine so dangerous.

By some estimates, almost half of all cocaine users quickly slip from casual use into an uncontrolled craving. And an even higher percentage of crack users quickly become addicts.

"Crack may be the most euphoric of all the drugs," said Dr. Herbert Kleber, a former Yale researcher who is with the National Drug Control Policy office.

"It is intensely pleasurable. It wears off very quickly and puts the user back to not feeling good. And the body has no barrier to its use."

Those who inhale powdered cocaine are limited by the amount the nose will absorb, Kleber said, and those who inject the drug eventually run out of veins. But the lungs have a virtually unlimited ability to absorb crack smoke, he said.

Success in treating addiction, he said, depends to a large degree on who is being treated.

"Some need only rehabilitation," he said. "Give me an employed (professional) and I will have 60 to 70 percent success. In a year, he'll be off the drug."

But for addicts living in poverty, particularly in the inner city, there are few positive elements to provide an incentive to stay away from cocaine. Drugs in such neighborhoods often are viewed as an industry and an economic opportunity for the young to gain wealth quickly.

"For those in the inner city, you have to address not just the drug, but the whole lifestyle," Kleber said. "First they have to be off the drug. Then they have to get the skills to stay off it."

That must include medical care, housing, education and vocational training.

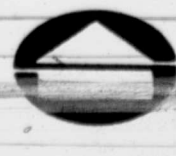

And "when they go back into the community there's got to be a strong support system, a drug-free network" to reinforce the new way of life, he said.

Meanwhile, scientists are searching for a medication to help wean addicts from cocaine.
