Exile ends; Marcos dead at age of 72

HONOLULU (AP) — Ferdinand E. Marcos, former president of the Philippines, died today, ending in exile a life that took him to the pinnacles of power and notoriety in his impoverished land. He was 72.

Corazon Aquino, who came to power in the 1986 uprising that drove Marcos from office, today refused to allow his burial in the Philippines for the sake of "the tranquility of the state and the order of society."

Marcos died at 12:40 a.m., said Eugene Tiwanak, spokesman at St. Francis Medical Center, where Marcos had been hospitalized for nearly 10 months with kidney, lung and heart ailments, pneumonia and bacterial infections.

At 1:17 a.m., Marcos' only son, Ferdinand Jr., emerged from his father's hospital room and announced his father had been taken to "a higher place."

"Hopefully friends and detractors alike will look beyond the man to see what he stood for — his vision, his compassion and his total love of country," the younger Marcos said. He said no funeral arrangements have been made.

"Father's not here anymore. He's gone," Marcos' wife, Imelda, told supporters outside the hospital room, said family spokesman Roger Peyuan.

The canny, combative politician, who governed at times as a democrat, at times as a dictator, was driven from the presidency in 1986, after which he settled into exile in Honolulu at a hillside estate overlooking the Pacific.

Marcos died without facing trial on U.S. criminal charges he plundered the Philippine treasury during his two decades in power.

He had been hospitalized three times since December, lapsing in and out of critical condition. The family had instructed doctors to take every measure to save his life, and life-support equipment was not turned off until after he died, Peyuan said.

Doctors would not comment on Marcos' death, but a hospital source speaking on condition of anonymity said it is the culmination of a "slow and steady" deterioration. Doctors had implanted a pacemaker on Wednesday.

Mrs. Aquino, who in May had rejected appeals from Mrs. Marcos that he be buried on Philippine soil, turned down a request from President Salvador Laurel today to reconsider.

"In the interest of the safety of those who will take the death of Mr. Marcos in widely and passionately conflicting ways, and for the tranquility of the state and the order of society, the remains of Ferdinand E. Marcos will not be allowed to be brought (see MARCOS, page 16)

Industrial shop at Daniel unit nearly complete

The Price Daniel Unit's huge new industrial center is almost ready at the northeast corner of the unit, with inmates expected to start manufacturing office partitions, modular furniture and other such equipment there by mid-October.

Project supervisor David Ritter of HCB Contractors of Dallas said Wednesday that work on the $1.4-million center proceeded rapidly after the general contractor, Rose & Sons of Abilene, poured the slab and started erecting the metal building in late March.

"We have a brand-new 39,000-square-foot factory that will be ready for operations after the first of October," said Ritter, who also supervised the general construction of the unit.

Plant manager Frank Ruiz plans an inmate work force of about 300, with sickness, college classes and other things expected to hold the daily number of workers to about 250.

Ruiz previously ran the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's modular panel system and modular furniture plant at the Ramsey I Unit in Rosharon, where $2 million in revenues were generated during the last 1 1/2 years he was there.

Ruiz said some of the plant's work here will be in building furniture for Mental Health-Mental Retardation facilities, in addition to the office partitions, high-back and low-back executive's chairs and swivel chairs for secretaries.

Other state agencies besides MH-MR often contract with the TDCJ for such furniture, he said. Manufacturing equipment in the plant includes laminating presses, sewing machines, paint spray booths, woodworking machines, sanders, dust-collectors for sanding machines and saws.

Ritter said HCB will turn the factory over to the TDCJ in three or four weeks and he will return to Dallas.

New board member to be sworn in Brenda Hedges is to be sworn in as a new board member at 6:30 p.m. today when the Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers holds its regular meeting.

Hedges was approved by county commissioners on Monday. She replaces Janet Hall, who recently resigned from the board. Hall will be recognized for her service during the meeting.

The board will also review capital equipment requests totaling some $17,683.30 and a request for approval of a six-day/night emergency room coverage contract with Emergicare of Abilene. Emergicare, a group of physicians who serve area hospital emergency rooms, is currently covering the ER five nights and two days a week.

Also on the agenda is an update on attempts to recruit physicians to Snyder, a quality assurance report, financial report and medical staff report.

Capital equipment requests include arthroscopic equipment for $11,500, a bedscales for CCU for $3,177 which is in the 1990 budget, and a continuous passive machine for $3,006.30.

Five years, $2,000 fine...

Local man receives maximum term

A 40-year-old Snyder man received the maximum penalties, five years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice and a $2,000 fine, upon being convicted of a felony DWI charge Wednesday in 132nd District Court.

Lelton N. Hoyle of 2101 Ave. K was accused of driving while intoxicated for the sixth time last July 21, when he and two other people were stopped by the Department of Public Safety at 10:25 p.m. a half-mile south of Dunn on the Colorado City Hwy.

He was tried under the state's subsequent DWI felony statute, which provides for a maximum five-year penitentiary sentence.

The six-man, six-woman jury heard final arguments from Assistant District Attorney Dana W. Cooley and defense lawyer Marvin Sentell of Snyder and deliberated from 2:50 to 4:22 p.m. before finding Hoyle guilty.

Cooley introduced Hoyle's five prior DWI convictions, into evidence during the trial's punishment phase, along with convictions he has had for public intoxication, unlawfully carrying a weapon and burglary of a vehicle.

The jury was told that Hoyle served a three-year TDCJ sentence when his 1974 probated sentence for burglary of a vehicle was revoked following one of his DWI convictions.

Jurors deliberated from 6:28 to about 7:45 p.m. on punishment.

The state's primary witnesses were DPS trooper Steve Torres, who stopped Hoyle's car, and county sheriff's deputy Kerry Fritz, who was in the area and went to assist Torres with the car's passengers, one of whom was intoxicated, the officers testified.

Sentell contended in final arguments that Hoyle "is a man with a problem, but he is going to have to deal with that problem."

Hoyle had earlier testified in his own defense that he has "a drinking problem." (see FELONY, page 16)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Babies are angels whose wings grow shorter as their legs grow longer."

Lawyers are going to ruin the sport. Golf is a game of etiquette and courtesy. One doesn't talk during a backswing, nor cheer at a missed putt. Slow players allow faster groups to play through and you never hit into the group ahead of you.

But just in case your drive accidentally goes longer or in the wrong direction, every duffer knows that "fore" means "duck" on the links.

Now lawyers are making a simple thing complicated. If you're struck by a ball while on the golf course, lawyers now say you may have a case—especially if the golfer's slice was only reasonably bad. A high handicap (awful) golfer, is likely to have a legal excuse.

The Wall Street Journal reports that under a general rule of law, victims generally can collect only if they are standing within the "reasonable and foreseeable ambit of danger."

In layman's terms, this is the zone where a bystander is most likely to get hit.

Outside that zone, the injured might have to settle for an aspirin and an apology. The rule is designed to require that a golfer warn anybody within range that a ball may be on the way. If the victim is out of range, chances of collecting are slim.

Previous golf ball injury cases have established "ambit of danger" definitions. Lawyers are now arguing a case in New York where a woman is suing not only the golfer who hit the ball but his partner who said it was clear to hit.

Defense attorneys argue the case should be dismissed because she was well out of the danger zone—in her cart near the ladies' tee and next to a water fountain.

In other words, if you see a duffer like me in his backswing, take cover because there's no assurance where the ball may go. In fact, there have been times when the ball didn't go anywhere.

Q—Are teacher aides' salaries paid by the state?

A—They are paid out of local maintenance budget. The school receives approximately $3,500,000 from the state and $7,900,000 from taxes and other miscellaneous revenue to make up the local maintenance budget.

In Brief

Canyon crash

TUSAYAN, Ariz. (AP) — A sightseeing plane crashed into a hill while making its final landing approach at Grand Canyon Airport, killing 10 people. Eleven others survived because the plane's fuselage remained largely intact.

The pilot and co-pilot were among those killed Wednesday when the de Havilland DHC-6 Twin Otter suddenly veered away from the runway and crashed into the wooded hillside about 300 yards away, authorities said. Eight people were critically injured.

Borden plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Borden Inc., whose Elsie the cow has been an enduring symbol of the milk business, today unveiled a restructuring program that includes significantly shrinking its dairy operations and reducing its work force by 7,000.

Chairman R.J. Ventres announced at a New York news conference that the company will set up an after-tax reserve of about $404 million to streamline and consolidate production in its rapidly-growing businesses.

Scout safe

TOOELE, Utah (AP) — Ten-year-old Joshua Dennis paced, prayed and never gave up hope during the five days he spent trapped by darkness inside an abandoned mine.

After days of frantic search efforts and growing doubt that he would be found alive, Joshua was found Wednesday afternoon by a mine search team that had passed within 150 feet of him during previous sweeps.

Museum owner's death is homicide.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Two years after wax museum heiress Patsy Wright died from strychnine poisoning, a Tarrant County medical examiner has changed the ruling in her death from undetermined to homicide.

Dr. Marc Krouse, deputy chief medical examiner, would not comment on why he made the change, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

But in documents filed Tuesday to change the death certificate, Krouse said a review of the psychological evaluation of Ms. Wright showed "no significant risk of suicide."

Dr. JoAnn Houts, a psychologist retained by the medical examiner, developed a profile of Ms. Wright after her death Oct. 22, 1987. Ms. Houts concluded it was very unlikely that Ms. Wright killed herself, said Arlington Police Sgt. Jay Gustafson.

Ms. Houts declined to comment and referred questions to the Tarrant County medical examiner, Dr. Nizam Peerwani.

Sony-Columbia combo said megastar

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A megastar was born by Sony Corp.'s $3.4 billion purchase of Columbia Pictures. The deal will make the Japanese giant the first company to control every aspect of movie-making.

Sony will own or produce the movie, the movie theater, the snack bar, the soundtrack album and the television series adaptation, as well as the VCR and stereo system on which the videocassette and album can be played.

In addition to yielding this integrated entertainment power, Wednesday's deal will give the Japanese electronics company a huge library of films and television programs to be seen on its TV sets the world over.

While not in the same league as the recent $14 billion Time-Warner merger, the Sony-Columbia pact does share the same motivation: survival in the booming international entertainment emporium.

"We're entering a new era of communications," said Dale Pollock, vice president in charge of production at A&M Films.

"It's global and it's not just studios," said Pollock, noting that his company's parent firm, A&M Records, is being bought by Dutch-owned Polygram for $500 million.

Sony's purchase follows a yearlong effort to establish a Hollywood foothold.

It will wed Sony's dominance in stereo, television set and tape player manufacturing with Columbia's proficiency in movie and TV production and motion-picture distribution and exhibition.

More important, Sony will have the supply to meet international demand. Entertainment is the United States' second-leading export, accounting for a net trade surplus of about $5 billion. During the past four years, overseas revenues from U.S. films have risen to $1.13 billion from $800 million.

"Fatal Attraction," for instance, recovered all of its production costs in Japanese theaters alone. French channel TF1 recently paid $11 million for 200 episodes of "Knots Landing."

With the coming deregulation of most of European television and increasing sales of prerecorded videocassettes overseas, the equation should continue to shift in favor of U.S. products.

Columbia has a library of 2,770 feature films, including "The Last Emperor," "Gandhi," "Kramer vs. Kramer," and "Lawrence of Arabia," and 23,000 episodes of 260 television series, such as "Designing Women," "Married ... With Children," and the syndicated "Barney Miller."

Sony also will take over Loews Theater Management Corp., one of the nation's top five chains with more than 820 screens in 220 locations and a national theater snack bar operation.

The combination between Sony and Columbia resembles Sony's acquisition of CBS Records. Sony purchased the label of Michael Jackson and Bruce Springsteen for about $2 billion in late 1987 and let Walter Yetnikoff continue to run the company the way he wanted.

Early speculation, though, holds that Columbia studio chief Dawn Steel will not remain at the helm. Sony executives also indicated they were courting producer Peter Guber ("Batman" and "Rain Man") for a major role, with some reports saying he would replace chief executive Victor A. Kaufman.

For Coca-Cola Co., Columbia's controlling stockholder for the last seven years, the studio never became a big revenue center.

Counting prevents waste

By James Jacoby

In today's deal, correct counting by declarer enabled him to play his side-suit to maximum advantage. West led the king of spades and then switched to a trump. Declarer won dummy's king of hearts and led a club back to the jack. West took the queen and played a second heart. Another club was played from dummy. West won the ace and played a club to East's 10, ruffed by declarer. South cashed the queen of hearts, discarding a spade from dummy, and then played a low diamond to dummy's jack. When that won the trick, he ruffed another club as East discarded a spade.

What should declarer know about West's hand? First, that West had A-K of spades, king of diamonds and A-Q of clubs. Second, it is almost certain that West started with five spades. With only four spades and four clubs, and 16 or 17 high-card points, he would surely have opened one no-trump. If West began with five spades, four clubs and only two hearts, how many diamonds was he dealt? Right, two. And that means the king of diamonds will be played next, regardless of which diamond South leads. So South played a low diamond to the king and ace, and the Q-10 of diamonds took the rest of the tricks. Had declarer carelessly led either his queen or his 10 of diamonds, East would have eventually taken the setting trick with his diamond nine.

Anxious Braniff passengers re-routed

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Anxious Braniff passengers, notified that the troubled airline had filed for bankruptcy protection, were scheduled on other carriers here today while airline employees took a wait-and-see attitude about their futures.

Some workers were confident that Braniff Inc., which said it would lay off 2,700 employees, could rebuild as a smaller carrier.

Dozens of worried passengers lined up at Braniff's ticket counters when its Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport concourse opened at 6 a.m.

"I just looked at the (flight departure) board and didn't see mine," said Kordi Mostafa of Dallas, who was ticketed for a 6:30 a.m. flight to Kansas City, Mo. "I didn't know what to think. And I didn't see anybody around here."

Braniff filed for bankruptcy protection early today, only hours after the airline canceled flights through the carrier's home base of Orlando, Fla., and its major Kansas City, Mo., hub and as rumors of the bankruptcy filing drove its stock price down.

"Although Braniff believes that its off-balance-sheet assets, specifically its Airbus A320 delivery positions, have substantial value, the company has suffered a liquidity problem as a result of a delay in completing recently announced financing and a softening of airline traffic and yields in recent months," said William G. McGee, chairman, president and chief executive officer.

Reunion...

Class of '80 to make plans

Snyder High School class of 1980 is having a reunion planning meeting Saturday at 4 p.m. at Sandy Pollard's residence.

Mrs. Pollard lives in the log cabin on FM 1611. For more information, call Sandy at 573-1686 or Billie at 573-4750.

Everyone interested in helping is invited to attend the meeting. Those interested are asked to bring address books and plenty of ideas.

No departures or arrivals were scheduled today by Braniff at D-FW, said Chuck Skinner, a Braniff agent, who went through the airline's first filing for Chapter 11 protection in 1982.

"We knew there was some financial trouble. But, we didn't realize the severity of it," he said. "The (latest filing) really surprised us."

But, Skinner said he believed Braniff would return, probably as a much smaller carrier.

"I am sure we will end up flying out of this one," he said. The airline's only flight today from D-FW was a contract charter departure, he said.

"Flight cancellations Wednesday at Kansas City International Airport stranded hundreds of passengers at D-FW.

Braniff will start operating one flight per day on Friday, with three daily flights beginning Monday, "presumably" to Kansas City, said Al Van Klies, one of five Braniff agents processing tickets at D-FW.

He said employees hadn't been told yet about staffing at the airport.

"Management hasn't arrived yet," he said, but added that he thinks employees with the most seniority will be kept.

Van Klies said he was employed at Braniff during its first reorganization. He predicted that company actions during the second would be similar.

"Today, we're just booking people on different flights," he said as he scheduled a passenger on American Airlines.

Another passenger, Cliff Baker of Plainfield, N.J., said he was told his ticket would be honored by American.

Convicted man receives life

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — A man convicted of infecting a 15-year-old boy with the AIDS virus doesn't plan to talk about the case until he returns to Corpus Christi, officials said.

Thomas Anthony Zule will be transferred back to Corpus Christi, where he was charged, by the weekend. The trial was moved to Uvalde because of extensive news coverage of the case.

"He has indicated he will talk to somebody at that point," Uvalde County jail administrator Buck Pruitt said. "But right now, he doesn't want to talk to any press people until he gets back to Corpus Christi."

Jurors took about an hour Wednesday to convict Zule and then took about 45 minutes more before sentencing him to life in prison, officials said.

Zule also was fined $10,000 after being convicted of aggravated sexual assault, Pruitt said.

Legal experts told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times it was a precedent-setting case because Zule was charged with aggravated sexual assault. Prosecutors pushed to have the assault classified as "aggravated" because he is accused of having caused the youth serious bodily harm.

The youth testified that he had first become acquainted with Zule while working for him as a housekeeper. The youth said Zule initiated a sexual relationship and he allowed it to continue because he was being given presents and taken on trips.

The youth learned he had the AIDS virus in May, when he took blood tests required by the Immigration and Naturalization Service for citizenship.

The youth and an AIDS counselor had testified that the boy initially was afraid to admit to authorities and his family that his relationship with Zule had lasted 18 months.

"I didn't want to tell anybody," the youth said from the witness stand. "I didn't want to go to the police, but my mother told me to go ... and my dad."

Mathis evangelist convicted

SINTON, Texas (AP) — A jury in San Patricio County deliberated only 28 minutes before finding a Mathis evangelist guilty of aggravated sexual assault of a 12-year-old girl, officials said.

The Rev. Antonio S. Martinez, 59, faces up to 99 years in prison and a $10,000 fine when the punishment phase of the trial begins Thursday.

"We actually decided in the first two minutes," said juror Janice Prewit of Wednesday's guilty verdict. "The rest of the time we spent reading the law."

Martinez contended he thought he had a common-law marriage with the girl that began in December 1988 while she was a fifth-grader. He testified that he had obtained her grandmother's consent before beginning a sexual relationship with the girl.

But all the witnesses in the trial, including Martinez, testified that the Pentecostal minister had never told anyone that he and the girl were husband and wife, according to the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

State law does not specify whether a 12-year-old can be considered married by common law, said San Patricio County District Attorney Tom Bridges. If Martinez had won his case, it would have set a precedent, Bridges said.

The girl's grandmother testified that she had warned the girl about having a relationship with an older man, but said the girl had insisted it was what she wanted.

The girl is now living with her mother in Kerrville.

Officials first found out about the 12-year-old's situation from an Aransas Pass doctor who said Martinez had brought the girl in for treatment of a vaginal infection and to determine why the girl was not getting pregnant.

Martinez denied telling the doctor about having sexual relations with the girl.

A grand jury has declined to indict the girl's grandmother, said District Attorney Bridges.

13 arrested in wide ranging investigation

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — The bottomless well of drug profit used to buy luxurious homes, jewelry, expensive cars and other property has been capped, authorities say.

Federal officials say they have broken a four-state drug ring and arrested 13 suspects following a three-year investigation.

More than 20 cars and $1,681 in cash were seized Wednesday, and to date about $253,000 in various assets have been seized, an agent with the Drug Enforcement Administration said. The assets include a home in Fort Worth.

Federal investigators said they still are looking for nine more people named in a sealed indictment returned last week in U.S. District Court in Amarillo.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James Farren told the Amarillo Globe-News that some of those arrested are suspected of making up to $150,000 monthly from the sale of amphetamines.

"The indictment and arrest will no doubt have an effect on the amphetamine traffic in Amarillo and elsewhere," Farren said. "We've cracked a major drug ring. Absolutely."

The investigation began in Amarillo and led authorities into an organization based in the Fort Worth suburb of Haltom City that produced, distributed and sold amphetamines, according to the 76-count federal indictment.

The leaders of the organization were identified in the federal indictment made public Wednesday as a pair of Haltom City men. Officials said the two men have been arrested, but they have not yet been arraigned.

Martinez receives bachelor's degree

David Martinez of Snyder received a bachelor of business administration degree with a major in accounting from Angelo State University during commencement exercises held during the summer.

Goat tying clinic slated in October

The Scurry County 4-H Horse Club is sponsoring a goat tying clinic on October 7th and 8th. Gayla Newton will be the instructor for the two-day clinic which will be held at the Riggans' Arena on the south side of Snyder.

Cost for the clinic will be $30 per person and goat tying strings will be furnished.

The clinic will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 7, and participants will need to bring a sack lunch. The start time for Sunday, Oct. 8, will be 2 p.m.

Participants will work on a horse and on the ground. Call 573-5423 for more information. October 4 is the deadline for entering and the clinic will be limited to 20 participants.

Trump ordered to pay more taxes

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An appeals court ordered billionaire developer Donald Trump to fork over an additional $81,000 a year in property taxes on his 100-room Palm Beach mansion.

The Fourth District Court of Appeal on Wednesday overturned a lower court ruling that had reduced the appraised value of the estate from $11.5 million to $7 million.

Trump bought the Mar-a-Lago estate in 1986 from the Merriweather Post Foundation for $10 million. He later said he sealed the deal with only $2,812 of his own money.

But several days after the purchase, when a county appraiser valued the home at $11.5 million, Trump claimed it was worth just $7 million. The rest of the purchase price was for untaxable furnishings, he said.

5 shootings Monday related to drug gangs

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Police are considering increasing patrols around two of the city's largest housing projects after an alleged territorial dispute over drug trafficking resulted in three gang-related shootings in as many days.

Only one person — a 17-year-old man — has been charged in connection with the shootings that injured five men, Galveston Police Lt. Rick Boyle said.

"Our investigation reveals that there are two gangs involved from the Cedar Terrace housing project and the Palm Terrace housing project," Boyle said during a Wednesday news conference at police headquarters.

Police officials met Wednesday afternoon to determine how they would deal with the increased violence related to the gangs at the housing projects located six blocks from each other.

"The information we're getting is that it's not over," Boyle said. "We don't know what to expect."

Boyle said the Cedar Terrace group is calling itself "The Crips" and are identifying themselves with blue bandanas, while those from the Palm Terrace refer to themselves as "The Bloods" and are wearing red bandanas.

"We haven't been able to connect them in any way to the groups in (Los Angeles) California with the same names," he said.

Boyle said the shootings are the first report of gang incidents in Galveston, where authorities reported less than six weeks ago that crack had not been seen anywhere in the city.

The two gangs involved are selling all kinds of drugs, including crack, he said.

The most recent shooting occurred Wednesday morning with 16-year-old Marlin Jones suffering a wound in the chest. The Ball High School student was listed in serious but stable condition at John Sealy Hospital after undergoing surgery Wednesday, hospital spokeswoman Helen Smith said.

Police charged Cleveland Martin with attempted murder in connection with Jones' shooting. He remains in the Galveston County Jail in lieu of $30,000 bail.

Kevin Williams, 22, was shot in the neck at Seahorse Inn on the Galveston Seawall about 11 p.m. Tuesday. He remains in fair condition, Ms. Smith said.

Three others were shot about 8:30 p.m. Monday when two men walked up to a large group at the Palm Terrace complex and allegedly opened fire.

Anti-drug...

Employers urged to boost efforts

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Law officers keep cracking down on drug trafficking, but employers must battle drug demand in the workplace to solve the problem, FBI Director William Sessions said.

"Either we succeed in dealing with the demand side of the equation or we will not be able to cope with the supply side," Sessions said Wednesday. "We can endlessly interdict drugs and seize drugs, and yet we find simply that the supply fills back up."

Although the FBI has identified 450 drug trafficking organizations, the agency only has been able to attack about 40 percent of those, he said.

A former federal district judge in San Antonio, Sessions spoke to about 200 people during a symposium on drug-free workplaces.

"It is impossible for me to believe that any business that stands up for drug-free can be hurt," Sessions said. "An understanding, vigorous program designed to help employees will, I think, work."

The FBI has designed its own drug-free work plan allowing employees to declare themselves drug-free and volunteer for testing at anytime. That identifies a group of workers strongly opposed to drugs, he said.

Also in the agency's program is help for workers affected by drugs, allowing them to confidentially seek help while protecting their jobs, he said.

"I think law enforcement should walk hand-in-hand with those community agencies that are seeking to attack the demand side," Sessions said.

In a news conference before his speech, Sessions said federal authorities were taking a serious view of threats against American officials by Colombian drug lords.

TEDs issue under discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is asking Gulf state congressmen to make their case for an alternative to trap doors on shrimpers' nets with scientific studies.

Beginning Oct. 15, shrimpers in the Gulf face fines for not using devices that protect endangered sea turtles from drowning in their nets, said Rep. Billy Tauzin, D-La., who attended the meeting with Sununu.

can be dangerous to use, and reduce their catches by 10 percent to 30 percent.

President Bush has agreed to look into the long-running dispute.

Rep. Greg Laughlin, a West Columbia Democrat who attended the meeting, said Texas shrimpers are complaining about having to use TEDs.

"They feel like the TEDs are not justified, they're just not catching any turtles in their nets," Laughlin said.

The shrimpers' nets are also being clogged with debris in the Gulf, Laughlin said.

"I'd like to see an arrangement where the environmentalists are happy, and the sea turtles are protected. But it will take much more than an action in Gulf Coast waters," Laughlin said.

He said other countries who have shrimpers in the Gulf of Mexico outside U.S. territorial waters would also have to be involved in protecting the turtles.

Tauzin said that with implementation of the fines less than three weeks away, "we have to move fast" to give the White House the kind of studies Sununu requested.

He said Sununu is seeking the kind of studies that would show alternatives to the turtle excluder devices, or TEDs, that would meet legal requirements and provide maximum protection for endangered sea turtles.

"I think we can and I think we will," Tauzin said.

The Commerce Department earlier this month ordered shrimpers to resume using TEDs in Gulf waters.

Environmentalists claim the turtle excluder devices are by far the most effective means of preventing sea turtle deaths, but shrimpers say TEDs are bulky, AUSTIN (AP) — A state appeals court affirmed the convictions of 11 anti-apartheid protesters who briefly took over the University of Texas-Austin president's office, dismissing their claims that they were governed by a higher duty.

The 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin on Wednesday said it could not be in a position of "legalizing criminal activity in the pursuit of political ends."

The 11 were part of the so-called "UT 16" that entered President William Cunningham's office on Oct. 20, 1986, to protest the school's investment in corporations doing business in South Africa.

The group, protesting South Africa's policy of racial separation, barricaded office doors and disconnected telephones and computers. About 30 minutes later, police forcibly entered the office and arrested the group without resistance.

In a Travis County Court-at-Law, the defendants were found guilty of disruptive activity on a university campus, a misdemeanor.

Judge Leslie Taylor handed down jail terms of three to six months in jail and fined the students $200, despite the county attorney's recommendation that the students be given probation, pay for damages and perform community service.

Ms. Taylor said the group used "terrorist-style tactics."

The sentences drew a public outcry by many who thought the punishment was too stiff.

In their appeal, the defendants said their actions were a public duty above state law to help stop apartheid. They also complained they were not allowed to have expert witnesses testify on the social, economic and political effects of apartheid.

But the Austin-based appeals court disagreed, saying other protest alternatives were available, "for example, legislative action to control investments by state universities or executive action through the gubernatorial power to appoint regents who would follow a specific policy."

The court also said the defendants were able to testify on the subject that the expert witnesses would have discussed.

The defendants also claimed the judge and jurors were biased against them. During jury selection, one juror made a hanging gesture with his tie, but he later said he was expressing frustration over the lengthy jury selection process, rather than signaling an opinion on guilt.

The group also said blacks were under-represented on the jury.

Oystermen along coast said facing very massive losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas oystermen may be headed to the "poorhouse" after pounding spring rains destroyed 90 percent of this year's oyster crop along a stretch of Gulf Coast, according to officials asking Congress for disaster relief.

"We really don't know the true extent of the impact of this fresh water," attorney Guy C. Jackson III said. "No one really knows how bad they've been hit."

In the Coastal Oyster Leaseholders Association Inc.'s appeal for help from Congress, Jackson said: "We are looking at an 18- to 24-month period of 'no oysters' and that will put a lot of people in the poorhouse."

Jackson, assistant secretary with the leaseholders association in Anahuac, said heavy spring rains drastically lowered the salinity in bays along the Texas coast, killing up to 90 percent of the oyster population.

"Our most significant problem is that most of the oysters that can reproduce or would reproduce have been killed and we don't have any oysters in our bays, to speak of, to reproduce and make new little oysters to stage a comeback on," Jackson said in his request for help.

Jackson said his organization, which represents about two-thirds of the total oyster leaseholders by acreage in Texas, had asked Congress for $1 million in disaster relief funding through a fisheries grant program.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, whose appropriations subcommittee has jurisdiction over the grants, agreed to set aside $200,000 for the Texas oyster industry. The panel approved the funding

Wednesday, and Jackson said it would be used for improving conditions in which oysters reproduce.

"I am pleased by Chairman Hollings' positive response to my request. The $200,000 falls short of the need, but it's a good start to build on," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

Bentsen had warned Hollings, D-S.C., that the tide of freshwater had resulted in "a disaster."

Jackson said some oystermen may also be eligible for low-interest loans through the Small Business Administration or the Farmers Home Administration. He estimated losses could total $13 million in the Galveston Bay area.

Snyder, Pecos only loop teams playing

Last week, Snyder and Pecos were enjoying their open dates for the 1989 football season. This week they will be the only District 4-4A squads in action.

Snyder will travel to Littlefield and Pecos hosts Kermit in the only contests involving 4-4A teams this Friday night.

Snyder enters Friday's contest on a high note, after a heartening performance in a losing effort against Levelland.

The Tigers were within a point of the Lobos when a penalty called for an unsportsmanlike celebration after a touchdown put them at the Levelland 32 to try the two-point conversion.

The try was unsuccessful but the Snyder faithful were impressed at the toughness of the Snyder squad and the tenacious play of the Black and Gold defense, in particular.

They will do battle with a team that lost to the Post Antelopes last week.

Littlefield's 14-0 loss to a rebuilding program in Post gives Snyder fans hope for their first win in 1989.

The Eagles were picked to contend for a play-off spot in '89 and Kermit is tabbed to finish second in District 4-3A behind Crane.

Kermit outlasted Ft. Stockton last week in a 24-21 contest.

The Eagles' last outing was a 24-0 thrashing at the hands of Carlsbad, N.M.

In other games within the district last week, Big Spring lost big to Plainview, 35-14, Monahans surprised El Paso Hanks, 21-0, Andrews thumped Lamesa 27-6, Sweetwater tripped previously unbeaten Stephenville, 27-3 and Vernon ran over San Angelo Lake View 35-7.

Tennessee puts 12 game win streak on the line against Auburn, Saturday

By The Associated Press

This time last year, Tennessee's football team was so bad that a local sportscaster climbed on a billboard platform and vowed to stay until the Volunteers won a game.

Thirty-two days and three losses later, he finally came down after Tennessee beat Memphis State 38-25. The Volunteers have been winning ever since.

They head into Saturday's home game against Auburn with an eight-game winning streak and No. 12 ranking in the Associated Press poll.

"It's certainly a lot different than last year," Tennessee coach Johnny Majors said. "I'm very pleased with the progress we've made."

The turning point occurred after a 52-24 loss to Washington State, when Majors ditched defensive coordinator Ken Donahue and switched assistant Doug Mathews from offense to defense.

"We were going nowhere fast," Majors said. "We had to make some changes."

with hard times."

Hard hitting is what Majors expects against fourth-ranked Auburn, which won its first two games by a combined score of 79-3.

"Year in and year out, they're as physically strong as anyone in the country," he said. "To beat them, we'll have to play a real hard-nosed game."

Local squads play in weekend action

Hermleigh, riding a two-game win streak after back-to-back offensive shows starring Felix Martinez, travels to Paint Creek for their homecoming on Saturday.

caused the misinformation as Paint Creek is the Hermleigh opponent this week.

Tennessee lost its next game to Alabama to fall to 0-6, but finished strongly with victories over Memphis State, Boston College, Mississippi, Kentucky and Vanderbilt. The Volunteers opened this season with victories over Colorado State, UCLA and Duke.

The most dramatic part of the turnaround has been on defense.

Both teams have plenty of motivation. Tennessee wants to avenge last year's embarrassing 38-6 loss, while Auburn coach Pat Dye was miffed by Majors' recent claim that the Tigers benefit by recruiting many academically suspect players.

Majors tried to downplay the remark this week.

"I have no problems with Pat Dye," he said. "What he's done is perfectly legal and a lot of other folks have done the same thing."

Hermleigh defeated Southland two Fridays ago, 62-44, and whipped Patton Springs 53-27 last week.

Ira and Borden County are both in action this week, too.

After giving up 35 points and 460 yards per game during the losing streak, the Volunteers have limited opponents to an average of 13 points and 324 yards in the last eight games.

The ball used in jai-alai games is estimated to travel as fast as 160 miles an hour.

In the two wins, Martinez has thrown 13 touchdown passes, rushed for two more, kicked three extra points and kicked off after the scores.

Ira was embarrassed by Guthrie 46-0 last week. The game was called in the third quarter on the 45-point rule in effect for six-man games.

"This time last year, we were not as disciplined on defense," Majors said. "We were not fundamentally sound and had to relay too much on blitzes and gimmicks. You live with the blitz, you die with the blitz ... and last year we died with it."

The 1989 schedule called for the Los Angeles Dodgers to fly 48,448 miles the most in the major league baseball season as of

It was reported that the Cardinals would travel to play Miami this weekend. An apparent mistake on printed schedules Borden County is looking for respectability after last week's debacle versus Jayton. Their road looks a little easier this week as they tangle with Wilson.

Although Majors had led Tennessee to seven straight bowl games, he came under fire after last year's horrible start. But he never considered leaving his alma mater, where he was an All-American tailback and runner-up for the Heisman Trophy in 1956.

WWII veteran treasures souvenirs of Hitler

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — When Germany surrendered in World War II, U.S. Army Cpl. Leroy Smith had just been transferred from infantryman to engineer.

And if the war hadn't ended a few months later, Smith would have been sent to Japan. He was ready.

Eighteen months before, the newly arrived serviceman had expected to find the Germany he had seen in films, a defiant nation feeding on the perils of war. Instead, he found streets ripped apart by mortar shells, children begging for food, soldiers heading home on foot and a small group of elderly speaking enough English to relate their shame and fear of the Nazi troops.

"I was amazed," he said, "to find they hated war as much as we did."

He drove by concentration camps whose names he can't remember. They were cleared of survivors by that time, but mounds of corpses remained.

Smith wanted a more tangible souvenir to share with his family. Chance gave the 19-year-old Lubbock man the stuff for thousands of history lessons.

As they waited to ship out of Germany, Smith and a buddy were granted permission to go deer hunting. While millions of its citizenry perished, Germany was ironclad on its "no open season" policy on deer hunting. Each man was limited to two deer.

As they drove their jeep through the southern Bavarian forests surrounded by newfound poverty but showered in scenic wealth, Smith and his friend came upon a house that appeared to be carved from the mountain supporting it.

The young soldiers entered the house, and found themselves surrounded by splendor. The beauty was tainted when they realized the mansion's owner was Adolf Hitler.

Hitler's famous Bavarian retreat, commonly known as "The Berghof," looked like a sumptuous army barracks to Smith. "He kept all his SS troops there," Smith explained.

Wandering through the endless rooms, which sat atop a bowling alley, an underground kennel for Hitler's dog and private bunkers for top-ranking officials, Smith saw large, graceful pictures adorning the walls.

Rows of Hitler's clothing filled closets, and there was an assortment of guns, any of which Smith would have loved to take.

'Orphan'...

Kin campaign for disease awareness

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Jolie Potaracke and her sister, Suzi Marshall, are beginning a drive this month to make others aware of a rare blood disease.

Mrs. Potaracke's 6-year-old daughter, Jeri "Sissy" Potaracke, remains in remission from histiocytosis, an incurable disease in which white blood cells multiply uncontrollably and attack various body parts.

Histiocytosis is labeled one of the "orphan" diseases, those that are too rare and obscure to attract much substantial research and funding.

"It can be controlled, but it can't be cured," Ms. Marshall said. Nor do the doctors know exactly how to control the disease.

She and her sister attribute Sissy's lengthy remission — since December 1987 — to the doctors' decision to change the type of chemotherapy to alleviate her negative side effects.

"Other doctors can't even learn what has happened to Sissy, or how he treated her," Ms. Marshall said. "Most doctors don't know how to diagnose the disease."

The family is joining the 850 other members of the national Histiocytosis Association in an attempt to create an information bank about the disease and regional support groups.

To do so, they are asking San Angeloans to volunteer their labor to print and mail information and fund-raising packets on the disease in a group effort on Thursday night (Sept. 28).

They also will accept any donations toward postage, Ms. Marshall said.

"We have to find a way to research this disease," she said. Mrs. Potaracke is on the national association board, which plans to meet in Ontario, Canada, at the same time a group of doctors will meet to discuss the disease.

Family members also are concerned because the nation's health system leaves few options for treatment of children with fatal diseases or who need organ transplants, Ms. Marshall said.

"I am angry," she said. "Insurance companies find ways to make the disease a pre-existing condition. They didn't diagnose 'Sissy' with the disease until she was 2 or 3 years old. But the insurance company went back through her records, until the day she was born, and found a citation saying she was born a purplish color, to exclude her from coverage."

Families have little choice but to go deeply into debt to finance costly operations and steep down payments on transplants, or to plaster their child's face onto milk cans in stores for donations, Ms. Marshall said.

Murder convictions affirmed by court

AUSTIN (AP) — Death penalty convictions for robbery-murders in Tarrant, Navarro and McLennan counties were upheld by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The court reversed itself Wednesday in affirming the capital murder conviction of Bruce Edwin Callins in the 1980 shooting of a man during a Tarrant County bar robbery.

It also upheld the death penalty for Clifton Eugene Belyeu in the 1985 robbery and murder of a woman in McLennan County, and Ernest Orville Baldree in the 1986 robbery and killing of a couple in Navarro County.

In the Tarrant County case, Callins was convicted in the slaying of Allen Huckleberry, who bled to death after being shot in the neck during the holdup. According to court records, Huckleberry didn't surrender his wallet quickly enough to suit Callins.

Callins was convicted of capital murder and two aggravated robberies. He was sentenced to life in prison and fined $10,000 in each of the robberies.

The Court of Criminal Appeals initially reversed Callins' murder conviction, saying the three offenses were improperly listed in a single indictment.

But in reconsidering its decision, the court Wednesday deleted the aggravated robbery convictions and allowed the capital murder conviction to stand.

"This court can choose one of the offenses to affirm because there is no danger appellant will be punished for more than one offense," said the 7-2 opinion.

In the McLennan County case, Belyeu was sentenced to death in the murder of Melody Bolton of West, who suffered a shotgun blast to the head and multiple stab wounds to her back.

Ms. Bolton's body, with her hands tied behind her back, was discovered by her husband in their home. Belyeu's conviction was affirmed 9-0 by the court.

In the Navarro County Case, Baldree was sentenced to death in the murders of Homer and Nancy Howard, to whom he was related by marriage.

Nancy Howard's body was found in the couple's trailer home, and Homer Howard's body was found about 200 yards away in his truck.

According to testimony, Baldree confessed to robbing and shooting the two after going to their home to help build a fence. His conviction was affirmed 9-0.

Sheriff agrees to 5 year term for woman

CLARENDON, Texas (AP) — Donley County Sheriff Jimmy Thompson says he agreed to a five-year sentence for a woman who plotted to kill him because he wanted to save the county the cost of a trial and is worried about prison overcrowding.

Alice Watson, 30, of Clarendon pleaded guilty Tuesday to solicitation of capital murder in exchange for the minimum possible sentence in a plea bargain that District Attorney David Mc-Coy opposed. "I wasn't for it. I was pretty strong against it," McCoy said after sentencing. "I just felt like it was worth more than that, but if Jimmy wanted to do that, I respect his judgment."

Dear Abby

Game of Hide-and-Seek Opens Mom's Eyes to Hidden Danger

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In preparation for cleaning out my refrigerator, I emptied it and removed all the shelves. Then I took the shelves to the laundry tub in the next room adjacent to the kitchen.

When I returned a few minutes later, I didn't see my children (ages 2 and 4) who had been beside me in the kitchen while I was unloading the fridge. When I opened the door to the refrigerator, there they were — inside — probably playing hide-and-seek with Mom!

Abby, if the telephone or doorbell had rung and distracted me for a while, I might have returned to find my precious children either dead or brain-damaged from lack of oxygen.

Please warn your readers to remove only one shelf at a time when cleaning the fridge, so small children cannot crawl inside and risk suffocation.

STILL SHAKEN IN DETROIT

DEAR SHAKEN: Thanks for a valuable safety tip. And may I add, small children rely on their parents or caretakers to keep them safely out of harm's way. Children are naturally curious and fearless, and one wonders "where were the parents" when a child pulls a kettle of hot grease from the stove, or falls down the basement stairs, or drinks bleach. Our children are our most precious possessions. We must protect them.

DEAR ABBY: Your column starts my day, and many of your articles are on my refrigerator door. Now I need your opinion. Physicians always used to have a nurse in the examining room during an examination. Now when you go in to see the doctor, the nurse just takes you back to a room, gives you a paper gown and leaves you there alone, and you never see the nurse again.

If physicians are concerned about the possibility of being sued for malpractice or improper behavior, why do they take this chance? I know from experience that the patient would feel more comfortable with a nurse in the room.

Hoping to see your answer soon.

Appellate court rules no immediate funds needed

AUSTIN (AP) — GTE Southwest Inc. has halted refunds ordered for telephone customers by the Public Utility Commission, at least until a state judge rules on the estimated $140 million rebate.

A temporary injunction stopping the refund until GTE's court challenge of it is resolved was upheld Wednesday by the 3rd Court of Appeals.

The appeals court said State District Judge Joseph Hart, who issued the injunction, was correct in concluding "that the telephone company would suffer irreparable harm" if forced to make refunds immediately.

"Today's action ensures that GTE Southwest can pursue its appeal ... without further financial harm from the retroactive refunds while the appeal is being heard in district court," said company President Earl Goode the physician who examines his or her patients with no one else present. And since you would feel more comfortable with a nurse present, by all means, share your feelings with your physician. It would be appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are newlyweds. We are fortunate enough to own a home in a beautiful neighborhood. We do not have children to get ready for school in the mornings. We work nights and try to sleep in the mornings.

Our neighbors, on the other hand, have children and car pools. Around 7 a.m. their children are picked-up by someone who honks the horn. This wakes us up. We have asked our next-door neighbor to please tell the honker to quit honking as it disturbs us. She said she would mention it. Well, maybe she did, but so far nothing has changed.

My husband and I have some suggestions for this neighbor:

1. Have your children ready and waiting.
2. Have the driver call before leaving their house.
3. Have the driver get out of the car and go to the door, or have one of the children get out of the car and go to the door.

The purpose of the horn is for emergencies and not for summoning people.

We do not wish to bring the police into this, but we will, if necessary. We hope that they will read this and try our suggestions this school year. Thanks.

TIRED IN MOUNTAIN BROOK, ALA.

DEAR TIRED: Thank you for sharing some very sensible suggestions. I hope the guilty parties read and heed them. Then the only honking you will hear will come from an occasional goose going south for the winter.

Caperton will not run again

AUSTIN (AP) — The announcement by state Sen. Kent Caperton that he will not seek reelection immediately set off speculation about who will run for his seat.

Caperton, D-Bryan, and one of the most prominent lawmakers in the Legislature, said Wednesday that will he serve the remainder of his term and not seek any other office in 1990.

State Rep. Richard Smith, R-Bryan, said he will meet with community leaders in the East Texas district over the next two weeks and announce his decision on whether to run.

"I was looking at a district race. With (U.S. Sen. Phil) Gramm at the top of the ticket, I felt like we had an excellent chance to win this seat regardless (of Caperton's decision)," Smith said. Gramm is a Republican.

But Democratic Party officials said they will hold on to the district. Possible Democratic candidates include, state Rep. L.B. Kubiak; his brother Dan Kubiak, who is a former state legislator; Mike McKinney, who recently announced his resignation from the Texas House; and state Rep. Allen Hightower, chairman of the House Corrections Committee.

Republican Lou Zaeske, whose major issue is making English the official state language, has announced his candidacy. Zaeske took some credit for Caperton's resignation, saying the senator was "out of tune" with the district.

Caperton, who has served in the senate since 1981, said he was proud of his record and confident he could have won, but said he did not look forward to campaigning with the possibility of several special legislative sessions.

"Although I have no crystal ball, I would not be surprised if we were also in special session on public school finance and judicial redistricting in the months ahead," Caperton said.

Lawmakers are coming back in special session Nov. 14 to try and overhaul the state workers' compensation system.

Caperton, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said his decision will allow him to serve the remainder of his term "unfettered by electoral consideration."

Caperton said he would return to the private sector but that he may re-enter politics at a later date.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said of Caperton, "I respect his decision but the Legislature will be poorer."

Caperton had won a reputation as a strong advocate of open government, pushing legislation to guarantee public access to government records and meetings.

Frank Gorshin is suing casino

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Entertainer Frank Gorshin is suing Harrah's Marina Hotel Casino, claiming it reneged on a contract for his appearance.

Gorshin, who played the Riddler in the "Batman" television series, is seeking $75,000 in damages in a suit filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court. On July 14, Harrah's canceled his contract to appear at the casino's Bay Cabaret Oct. 4 through Oct. 30. The 55-year-old impersonator was to have been paid $15,000 for the appearance.

Gorshin performed in mid-June and walked off the stage on more than one occasion, said Alyce Parker, a spokeswoman for Harrah's.
