

In Tuesday election...

Scurry County residents reminded to vote

Scurry County residents are reminded of their right to vote Tuesday in the statewide constitutional amendments election.

Polls will be open at four locations from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. and voters will cast their ballots depending upon place of residency. The voting precinct in which they reside is listed on their registration card.

The Scurry County Clerk's Office reported a total of 9,028 registered voters in the county. Some 142 people took part in the in-person absentee voting. Two others had requested and received ballots by mail.

The location of the precincts are as follows:

—Precinct 1, Scurry County Health Unit. Janelda Davis is the election judge.

—Precinct 2, Scurry County Library. Jerry House is the election judge.

—Precinct 3, Towle Park Barn. Clarence Payne is the election judge.

—Precinct 4, Senior Citizens Center. Mrs. Howard Jones is the election judge.

The election date is nation-wide in scope, but the only decisions pertaining to Scurry County voters will be the 21 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution.

Of special interest to voters in the county is Proposition 8 which authorizes $400 million in bonds to finance correction, mental health and law enforcement facilities.

A related amendment would authorize consolidation of the criminal justice agencies.

Other proposed amendments include ones which would permit courts to inform juries about the impact of parole eligibility on a sentence set by the jury; would allow four-year terms for hospital district bonds; would authorize $500 million in bonds for water supply, water quality and flood control; would authorize $75 million in bonds for college savings and student loans; and would authorize the state to provide financial assistance to local fire departments.

Among the most controversial of the amendments is Proposition 1, which would increase the annual salaries of state lawmakers from $7,200 to $23,358 and the house speaker and lieutenant governor from $7,200 to $46,727.

Stabbing here sends area man to hospital

A 19-year-old Abilene man was hospitalized over the weekend at Abilene's Hendrick Medical Center with an abdominal stab wound suffered in Saturday night incident here.

Sheriff's deputies said Miguel "Mike" Silva had a four to five-inch-deep stab wound that was treated initially at Cogdell Memorial Hospital before he was transferred to Abilene, where a Hendrick spokesman reported today that he had been treated and released.

Lucio Medrano Silva, 23, of Rt.

2 was arrested for public intoxication in the hospital emergency room, where he was given stitches on the crown of his head to close a cut that officers said had been caused by a brick.

No other charges had been filed this morning.

Mike Silva was reportedly stabbed with a steak knife in the incident, which took place about 6:30 p.m. Saturday at a residence off Brick Plant Rd. in southern Snyder.

Officers said the two men are cousins.

Commissioners accept bid for road emulsion

Scurry County Commissioners Monday morning unanimously approved a motion to purchase approximately 100,000 gallons of emulsion from Fina Oil and Chemical of Big Spring to cover all paved county roads.

The bid of fifty cents per gallon, accepted from the Big Spring company, was the only bid submitted to the county.

Commissioners also passed a resolution commending KSNV Radio on their 40th anniversary which will be Friday.

Program Director Bob Clifton, who regularly covers commissioners court for the station, was congratulated by commissioners. Clifton has been with the station for 26 years.

In other business, commissioners approved the minutes of the last meeting and bills payable for the week.

City council will review several bids

Bids for several purchases, including four new police cars, will be considered in a 6:30 p.m. city council meeting today.

Bids are scheduled for consideration for the police cars, for a computerized fuel system at the city barn off Ave. M and for the sale of a used sanitation truck and compaction body.

Other business will include a resolution pertaining to the election of county appraisal district board members, who are chosen collectively by the various taxing entities they serve.

A resolution will also be considered to honor KSNV Radio for its 40 years of service here, as will an ordinance on first reading to update service credits in the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

250 join in area town rally

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — The head of an Hispanic civil rights group is calling for a federal investigation into a police shooting of an Hispanic last year.

The push comes as the state prepares a second investigation into the shooting death of Sammy Gomez, a sexual assault suspect shot to death by a police officer in this West Texas town in May 1988.

Pressure from LULAC has led to a second grand jury investigation into the shooting, but Jose Garcia de Lara, LULAC president, said he would rather see a federal investigation than another state-led inquiry. The second grand jury convenes Wednesday.

About 250 members of the League of United Latin American Citizens marched here Saturday to protest the shooting and alleged coverup.

"I can't understand why the system continues to cover the racial injustice here," said Garcia de Lara, whose group has pushed for another inquiry.

"I can't understand the wishy-washy coverup of the brutal murder of Sammy Gomez," he added.

Garcia de Lara said he believes officer Billy Ray Williamson killed Gomez to end a vendetta against the 27-year-old man, and then planted a knife at the scene as part of a police coverup.

Police say Williamson was forced to shoot after Gomez became abusive and pulled a knife on Williamson and another officer.

A grand jury convened one week after the shooting refused to indict Williamson.

"I don't think there can be justice served here," Garcia de Lara said. "Maybe they could bring in a special prosecutor. We don't trust the system — I'm talking about the attorney general, the district attorney, the grand jury."

Garcia de Lara said LULAC officials are unsatisfied with another state-led investigation in the shooting because the attorney general's investigator is unwilling to seriously examine the case.

"We're not trying to make a difference with the justice system," he said. "We just want the district judge and the district attorney and the powers that be

Fluvanna native leads employee rally following station shutdown

A Fluvanna native and former news editor of the Snyder Daily News is leading a protest over the weekend closing of a Big Spring radio station.

Eight employees of KBYG AM Radio spent Sunday night camped next to the station and have called a 6 p.m. news conference today to draw attention to their plight.

John Dunnam, advertising and personnel manager at KBYG, said the station was ordered off the air at 8 a.m. Sunday by a trustee of Federal Bankruptcy Court. The station had been operating under Chapter 7 since Aug. 23. Employees of the station, he said, had been told the station would be kept in operation at least until Nov. 20 while a buyer was being sought.

Sunday morning, employees were told to come to the station and pick up their personal effects.

KBYG is located just inside the entrance to Comanche Trail Park.

"We want the station to stay on the air and we believe the people want the station on the air," said Dunnam. "As quickly as we were unplugged we could be back on the air. As long as there is a chance that KBYG will be back on we will be fighting for it. Every day the station is off the air it diminishes the potential value of the station."

"We don't want people to interpret what we're doing as anything radical, but we do want people to know what's happening," said Dunnam. "We (the employees) have put a lot of time and effort to keep the station going and we don't want to just abandon it."

The station had employed some eight full-time workers and a number of part-time workers, according to Dunnam.

Dunnam is a graduate of Fluvanna School and West Texas State University. A long-time Snyder resident until he moved to Big Spring about two years ago, he was employed as news editor of the SDN from March of 1978 until May of 1981.

He was hired by KBYG in June of 1987.

Supervisor goes undercover

NEW YORK (AP) — The talk in School District 27 was about hiring white Christians, not blacks or Jews. And providing patronage jobs. And cutting deals.

Colman Genn, the school superintendent, taped all this with a recorder fastened to his back and a microphone stuck to his chest. The undercover educator's work led to the suspension of nine elected officials amid charges of patronage, racism and anti-Semitism in their Queens district.

"We need a system with people responsible for dealing with children instead of feeding off children," Genn said in explaining why he did what he did. "Our children should not be seen as cash cows."

Genn's colleagues say his students have always come first, ever since he came to the city's school system in 1958 as a gym teacher.

As he moved up, Genn won raves for his work as principal of the Manhattan Center for Math and Science, an East Harlem specialty school that blossomed under his leadership.

But things changed after he arrived in July 1987 at District 27, an area that includes the predominantly white Howard Beach and Breezy Point sections. Although more than half the district's students are black, the nine-member school board included a single black representative.

Of the district's 1,690 teachers, 82.5 percent are white, above the city average of 70.7 percent, and its 35 principals include only a half-dozen blacks, below the city average.

Under the city's decentralized system, 32 locally elected boards run the city's elementary and junior high schools.

Few New Yorkers vote in school board elections; there is little media oversight of school board activities. Perhaps as a result, some boards have been exposed in recent years as fonts of corruption.

Genn, 53, learned first-hand how district business was done during a March 1988 trip to Los Angeles for a convention. He was dining with local board members James Sullivan and Samuel Granirer when they laid it all out, Genn testified before a school commission last week.

So Not in the World Explains the Switching of V's and W's?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Many of my friends and relatives of Scandinavian origin switch their v's and w's. For example, they say, "Wiolet went to Wancowter to work for vun veek in November."

This puzzles me. I have asked a few people who speak that way why they do it, but they just smile, which is no answer, so I don't mention it again for fear of hurting their feelings.

This seems to be a peculiarity common to Swedes, Danes and Norwegians. But the letter "w" doesn't even exist in their alphabet, so how does a "v" become a "w"?

Perhaps you, or someone in your reading audience, can explain it.

VONDERING IN VICTORIA

DEAR VONDERING: I, too, am "vondering." Perhaps some Northern European or a linguist (one proficient in languages) can provide an answer.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from "Missing Out in St. Louis," the woman who complained that her husband always wants to leave early from ball games, the theater, etc. in order to save time getting out of the parking lot. Maybe this will change his mind.

Last year, my husband and I and our two children were lucky enough to get tickets for the first game of the '88 World Series between the L.A. Dodgers and the Oakland A's — for us, like many, a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. It was a fairly uneventful game and our team, the Dodgers, was losing. Since the stadium was packed, we decided to head out to the parking lot at the bottom of the ninth inning and avoid the rush. What a mistake!

Once outside, we heard the surprise announcement that Kirk Gibson was coming to bat. Well, of course the rest is history, and when Gibson hit that now very famous game-winning home run, we were on the freeway on-ramp, cleverly beating the crowds home. We had to wait for the evening news to see the home run. Now, whenever they show the replay of that "great moment in baseball history," we just cringe.

So, show this to your husband and tell him that Abby's right... the best is often last, so stay put and let some other poor slob miss out!

JANET IN HACIENDA MISSOIDS

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column about a woman named Jane whose husband was killed in an accident and left her with two little boys. The letter said, "Jane has no intention of marrying again because she doesn't want to lose the $500 a month she gets from Social Security as a widow."

Abby, that is a very popular misconception held by many women. Jane gets $500 from Social Security because she has two underage sons — not "just because she's a widow." A widow has to be 60 years old to collect Social Security. I know because it happened to me!

I was 53 when my husband died suddenly. I went right down to the Social Security office to sign up for that nice Social Security check I thought I was entitled to. After all, my husband had worked steadily since he was 17, and he passed away at 55. Guess what? I found out I was entitled to a big fat zero! I went into shock.

Needless to say, I had to go to work at age 53. Thank God I found a pretty good job, and three years later I found a man who married me and I didn't need to work anymore.

Please let women know that Social Security does not give benefits to widows until they are 60 years old.

Bush names black conservative...

Senate moves toward 'judges' war

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are bracing for a fierce fight over the nomination of black conservative Clarence Thomas as an appeals court judge, saying it could rekindle the so-called judges' war that raged in the Reagan era.

"If they try to do to Clarence Thomas what they did to Bill Lucas and Bob Bork and you might as well throw in John Tower, then it's going to be all-out, bloody war," Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said after the nomination arrived in the Senate last week.

Democratic senators are treading warily.

"I am one of those who has spoken out for more minority representation on the courts, but I don't want ideologues," says Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who, like Hatch, is on the Senate Judiciary Committee that will consider Thomas' nomination. "Will he apply the law or will he apply his philosophy?"

Civil rights forces thus far have been holding their fire, but for months they have been building a thick dossier on Thomas and clearly are weighing an intensive fight to block his confirmation.

That would guarantee a return to the brand of political drama that flared last summer when the lawmakers killed the nomination of black Republican William Lucas to become the Justice Department's civil rights chief.

Such fierce skirmishing between liberals and conservatives accompanied the nominations of Robert Bork to the Supreme Court, Daniel Manion to the appeals bench and other judicial candidates during the Reagan administration.

Behind the so-called judges war has been a fight for the philosophical tone of the federal courts, which grew more conservative in the eight years that Reagan appointees donned judicial robes. And President Bush can carry the change further as he fills 57 current vacancies on the federal bench.

Actually, the administration's laggard pace in finding candidates has brought on a lull for most of this year.

Bush has sent just 18 judicial nominations to the Senate this year, causing impatience even among Senate allies.

Until the Thomas nomination, the only contested judicial nominee has been Vaughn Walker, a San Francisco attorney who antagonized gay rights groups and compounded his problems by waiting months to resign from a private club with a history of bias against women and blacks.

No plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Katharine Hepburn turns 80 Wednesday, but the actress doesn't plan to celebrate.

"Who cares about my birthday?" she said in an interview published Sunday in the Daily News. "I don't, as long as I can get around and think straight."

The years have brought changes, Hepburn said.

"I'm shrinking rapidly — used to be 5-7-and-a-half, now I'm 5-6," she said. "Pretty soon I'm going to disappear."

The star of "The African Queen" and "On Golden Pond" said she has plenty to do. "There are 20 million books I haven't read, 20 million walks I haven't taken," Hepburn said. "And 20 million parts I haven't played, if I can find them."

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Rolling Stones lead singer Mick Jagger was surrounded by children in tattered clothes and Red Cross workers during a visit to this earthquake-ravaged farm town.

The rock star and rock promoter Bill Graham flew in by helicopter on Saturday to this Northern California town of 30,000 where residents are slowly rebuilding their lives after the Oct. 17 quake.

"It's a bit hard to take in. It's such a small community," said Jagger. The 46-year-old rock star was given a Red Cross jacket and an "I survived the earthquake" T-shirt.

Jagger made the hour-long tour of Watsonville two hours before a performance at Oakland Coliseum. The town was chosen because so much attention has been focused on San Francisco, Graham said.

Jagger talked about the quake during the Oakland performance. "Our hearts go out to you who suffered from that. I know that you Northern Californians have an incredible spirit... so I don't have to tell you it's a wonderful place to live," he said.

Catholic bishops take on abortion and AIDS issues

BALTIMORE (AP) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops religious denomination also will elect a new president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Archbishop Daniel E. Pilarczyk of Cincinnati, conference vice president, was expected to be elevated to the presidency.

The bishops on Sunday celebrated a special Mass in the Basilia of the Assumption, the nation's oldest Roman Catholic cathedral, marking the 200th anniversary of the establishment of the Diocese of Baltimore and the appointment of the Rev. John Carroll, on Nov. 6, 1789, as the first U.S. Catholic bishop.

The prelates leading the 53 million-member church turn their attention to an agenda that includes proposed policy statements on AIDS, abortion and the Middle East.

On Sunday, a bishops' committee announced some last-minute revisions in its Mideast statement, which had been criticized by Jewish groups.

The criticism of the draft statement by the Ad Hoc Committee on the Middle East said the proposal went too far for calling on Israel to negotiate directly with Palestinians over "territory and sovereignty."

The revisions added a statement that there must be negotiated limits to the exercise of Palestinian sovereignty to protect Israel's security. It also noted that Israel has been the victim of acts of terrorism by groups aligned with the Palestinian cause.

Bush will keep Dan Quayle on the 1992 GOP ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle says he's happy that President Bush is keeping him on the 1992 ticket, but says it's too early to talk of having any presidential ambitions of his own.

Bush, in an interview published Sunday by The Dallas Morning News, said Quayle "absolutely" will be his running mate again. His comment appeared to be an offhanded way of acknowledging his own hat will be in the ring for a second term — something the first-year president has not said publicly before.

White House Chief of Staff John Sununu, asked Sunday if Bush had meant to end any suspense about his own intentions, said, "I think they've been thinking in terms of an eight-year team all along. I hope that's not a surprise to anybody."

Sununu, speaking with reporters on the tarmac at Westchester County Airport in White Plains, N.Y., added with a laugh, "I need the job."

Quayle, appearing on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press," said, "I am very pleased that the president is pleased with the job that I am doing." Asked whether he had thought about running for president himself, he said, "What has crossed my mind is just doing a good job right now."

Bush visited his mother, Dorothy Walker Bush, at her home in Greenwich, Conn., on Sunday after participating in a convocation at his prep school, Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass.

Mrs. Bush, 88, hospitalized for a week in September with pneumonia, was well enough to take part in a presidential photo opportunity outside her front door before her son departed.

Amounts varied for rollback checks

LIVINGSTON, Texas (AP) — A recent rollback election in Polk County has forced the county to give $700,000 back to taxpayers, but some residents are complaining about the way the returns are being handled.

In Polk County, the treasurer's office is the distribution center for more than 50,000 tax refund checks — the result of an Aug. 5 election in which voters approved a property tax rollback.

The rollback election also resulted in 40 layoffs, cuts in services and a whopping loss in tax revenue for the county.

Since the county began distributing the checks Oct. 6, only 8,300 checks have been picked up, said county Treasurer Cheryl Henry.

Although the average return check totals $20, at least 10 taxpayers have received checks in the amount of only a penny. Champion International Paper Co., the county's largest landowner, received more than $80,000, which it donated back to the county.

And citizens aren't given advance notice of how much they're owed. One taxpayer apparently paid $5 for a ride to town to pick up three checks that totaled only 65 cents, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday.

County officials say the checks were issued by parcel, rather than in lump sums, because of the way accounts are computerized. A massive mailout of the checks was ruled out because many addresses have changed and postage costs were prohibitive, officials said.

But local businessman George Snook, 54, who headed the rollback movement, is more suspicious of the county's actions.

"If it weren't so serious, it would be comical," Snook said.

"They did nothing to prepare for the possibility that the rollback might pass. They're refunding at the treasurer's office, only during certain hours. They've made it very hard on the elderly people who have to stand in line," he said.

Polk County Judge Wayne Baker, who has held office 16 years, contends that Snook and the 200 members of the Polk County Taxpayers Association — the group behind the rollback — misled the public about county government and its spending practices at every turn.

"They're what you call 'aginners' — they're just against everything. They're against progress," said Baker, 66.

Friction between the tax revolt and county officials heated up in the summer of 1988, when commissioners court proposed a 10-cent tax rate increase to 52 cents per $100 property valuation.

When citizens protested at public hearings, Baker and commissioners whittled the rate to 48 cents — a 32 percent increase above the effective tax rate. That meant taxes on a home valued at $50,000 rose about $30.

The disenchanted taxpayers threatened a rollback, but state Attorney General Jim Mattox at the time had ruled that counties were exempt from rollbacks.

The taxpayers' association seized its new opportunity in June, when the Texas Supreme Court ruled that counties were indeed subject to rollback challenges on tax increases exceeding 8 percent.

Members play at the wedding

RED WING, Minn. (AP) — Paulette Carlson, lead singer for the country music group Highway 101, didn't have to worry about music for the reception that followed her wedding to construction engineer Randy Smith.

The three other members of her band performed at the reception at the St. James Hotel that followed the wedding Saturday in this southeast Minnesota city, said publicist Mark Bliesener.

Ms. Carlson, a 36-year-old native of nearby Winsted, met Smith in Alaska, Bliesener said. The couple will live in Nashville, Tenn.

Highway 101 was voted top country vocal group by the Country Music Association the past two years. Their hits include "The Bed You Made For Me," "Whiskey, If You Were A Woman," and the current "Who's Lonely Now?"

Struggling to go down one

By James Jacoby

Suppose you held the North cards and heard your partner open with one spade. You would of course respond with one no-trump, and next you would hear two hearts from South. What now? It's a coin toss whether you pass or raise to three hearts. I prefer the pass, but you certainly might miss a game with that action. The deal comes from the 1988 Epton World Pairs competition, and many declarers did arrive in four hearts. A few saved something when they managed to take nine tricks with careful play.

When the club five was led, East won the jack and tried to cash the king. South ruffed, led a spade to dummy's queen, and played a heart back to his jack. West won the king and played the 10 of clubs, covered by the queen and ace, and ruffed by declarer. Declarer played the heart ace and was disappointed when East showed out. There was nothing left but to play out the spades. When West ruffed in with the nine of hearts on the third spade, declarer had a choice of plays. If he discarded a diamond from dummy, West would play a heart to dummy's queen, and declarer would then have to play up to his king of diamonds. But East had passed originally and had already shown up with A-K-J of clubs. He could not hold the diamond ace. So South overruffed the nine of hearts with dummy's queen, cashed the good nine of clubs, and then threw West on lead with the last heart. West had to take the ace of diamonds, and declarer was down only one.

To fund schools...

Clements says he'll block new taxes

MALLEN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says a tax hike is not the answer for overhauling the state's unconstitutional school finance system.

"You can forget additional taxes. We're not going to have any," the lame-duck governor said.

Clements pledged to fight new taxes in a weekend speech in which he reiterated that the Nov. 14 special legislative session will be limited to reforming the workers' compensation system.

"I've been asked by many people to put additional issues on that special session," the governor told about 800 members of the Texas Federation of Republican Women Saturday. "It's not going to happen."

Clements' one-issue agenda for the November session comes as a setback to several groups, including those who wanted the Legislature to take up school funding, abortion, campaign ethics and school bus safety standards.

The State Democratic Executive Committee adopted a resolution Saturday criticizing Clements for refusing to open the November session agenda to school finance.

By delaying action on education reform, Clements "is either playing ostrich or playing politics," the resolution said.

Clements, who sets the agenda for special legislative sessions, has called for a session in March to deal with school finance and said he would reject any new tax proposals.

"I can assure you it's not going to happen on my watch," said the governor, whose term expires in January 1991.

The Texas Supreme Court last month declared the funding system unconstitutional and ordered the Legislature to devise a new system by May 1 that channels more money to poor school districts.

Clements noted that the high court ruling said the school system should be made more "efficient" but did not call for new taxes or additional revenue.

"They want a more efficient school system and that's what the special session in March is going to be all about," Clements said.

adequate funding for public schools.

Last week, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who is leaving office, broke with other state leaders by calling for a state income tax on corporations and individuals to pay for education.

Hobby, a Houston Democrat who presides over the Texas Senate, said an income tax coupled with reductions in the state sales and local property taxes is the only effective way to ensure adequate funding for public schools.

Clements, who until Saturday had not completely ruled out the need for additional revenue to revamp the school finance system, said he strongly disagrees with tax-increase supporters.

"Our problem on the school issue is we are mispending the taxes we have. We have sufficient taxes," Clements said.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've experienced soreness and swelling of my breasts. My doctor assured me that there were no lumps and diagnosed mastitis. I'm past middle age and know something is wrong, but what?

DEAR READER: Women often have breast soreness because of hormone fluctuations. Although you may be familiar with the common premenstrual breast tenderness that most women experience, a similar condition affects menopausal women, too.

Because of your age, I suspect your breast discomfort may be due to the normal hormone imbalance associated with the change of life. See a gynecologist. Mastitis (breast infection) would, in my opinion, be an unusual cause of breast soreness in an older woman.

Mastitis is often treated with antibiotics, a form of therapy that would not be appropriate for menopausal breast tenderness. The gynecologist may suggest you take hormones to stabilize your system, or the doctor may recommend "waiting-out" your discomfort until your breasts have adapted to your menopausal state.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Menopause." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In 1987, I had a TIA, which my doctor said was caused by stress. He found no evidence of a blood clot. Is this possible? I'm a 73-year-old female and fear a stroke because of the disability it produces.

DEAR READER: I do not believe temporary strokes (transient ischemic attacks) are caused by stress. Most experts agree that TIAs result from small blood clots that are carried to the brain, where they produce various neurological abnormalities and then dissolve, leaving no residual damage. Many studies have shown that TIAs herald more serious, permanent strokes; therefore, your concerns are well-founded.

At the time of your TIA in 1987, no blood clot was discovered because either the clot was too small to be observed on tests (such as a CT scan) or the clot had dissolved by the time the tests were performed. The absence of a blood clot does not mean you are out of the woods.

The medical consensus is that TIA patients should be placed on a low dose of aspirin (one tablet a day) indefinitely; the aspirin reduces the possibility of further blood clots and appears to prevent stroke by reducing the blood's natural tendency to coagulate.

I urge you to be examined by a neurologist. This specialist can confirm that you had a TIA and suggest further treatment.

Steamroller, King form a team

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Mannheim Steamroller, which cut America's No. 1-selling holiday album last year, teamed up with talk show host Larry King to find the heartbeat of Christmas this year.

King, who had bypass surgery after a heart attack two years ago, and Mannheim Steamroller composer Chip Davis hope the Christmas cassette of King's words and Davis' music will raise money for the Larry King Cardiac Foundation.

The foundation helps people who can't afford heart bypass surgery. The $10 tape grew out of Davis' appearance on King's radio show last December.

"I wanted to do something for people who couldn't afford" heart surgery, Davis said in Omaha last week during a recording break.

Souix Indian sings at memorial Mass

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — White Eagle, a Sioux Indian who sings opera, performed at a Mass marking the 30th anniversary of Mario Lanza's death as a tribute to the singer who inspired him.

White Eagle sang "Ave Maria" at the annual memorial Mass at St. Mary Magdalen de Pazzi, the Roman Catholic church where the young Lanza sang his first notes in public.

Hillside serves area for many years

Hillside Memorial Gardens, located on the Colorado City Highway, has been serving Snyder and the Scurry County area for many years.

Hillside Memorial Gardens is a perpetual care cemetery governed by the State Banking Department. The one price you pay for perpetual care is the only one you ever have to pay. There are no yearly dues necessary for the upkeep of the property.

The staff at Hillside Memorial Gardens is committed to serving your best interests. W.C. and Greg Graves will be glad to help you with any of your pre-need planning. Everyone plans for the future in one way or another whether with savings or insurance to take care of something that might happen. Why not prepare for the inevitable? Making the decision to purchase a Family Memorial Estate plan now insures that the decision is made together and one is not left to make it alone. Statistics show that these decisions are made 67 percent of the time by widows and children and 33 percent of the time by husbands.

The purchase of a Family Memorial Estate plan can also be a savings plan because the deed is the equivalent of a paid-up insurance policy.

Lots at Hillside Memorial Gardens are reasonably priced and they offer a Pre-Need Financial Plan of only 20 percent down and small monthly payments without interest or carrying charges. If the only time you have is on the weekends, Greg can be contacted at 573-5864 and will be glad to help you anytime.

Granite and bronze memorials are available at Hillside Monument Works and Greg goes to great lengths to see that the finished product is one that pleases the family members and reflects the individualism of the loved one for whom the monument has been created.

The staff at Hillside realizes that they provide an important service to the community and work hard to maintain the trust and confidence of the people. They will be happy to counsel with anyone at anytime concerning their present or future needs. Give them a call at 573-5251 or go by and visit with them at Hillside Memorial Gardens and Monument Works on the Colorado City Highway.

Packed house observes debate

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Two influential voices in the abortion issue squared off in a debate before a packed auditorium in this South Texas town.

"If a mother doesn't want (her baby), she can terminate it,"

Phyllis Schlafly, a national spokeswoman for conservative political causes, said during Sunday night's debate. "There are a lot of unwanted people in this world. Do we say therefore that they have no right to life? That's the conclusion in Roe vs. Wade."
