Sen. Gramm...
Anti-drug campaign reviewed

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm brought his anti-drug campaign to Snyder Wednesday, saying committee chairmen in the House of Representatives are blocking reforms that are generally favored in the Senate.

Gramm said in an interview following a 5 p.m. meeting with about 60 people in the 132nd District Court courtroom that key House members are opposed to mandatory drug testing, enacting the death penalty for drug dealers and other changes in federal statutes.

The first-term Republican, who is expected to seek a second six-year term next year, said he has been encouraged by the support President Bush's $9.4-billion anti-drug program has been getting in Congress, with a 50-percent increase in federal penitentiary space recently having been approved.

But he said the House continues to block other reforms that would be constructive.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin opened the meeting with an introduction of Gramm and a general review of the topic, and Sheriff Keith Collier, Police Chief Bill Stone and Department of Public Safety trooper Steve Torres discussed the county's drug problems from their various perspectives.

Collier reviewed his office's Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE), and Stone said Snyder had eight drug overdoses and two drug-related deaths last year and six overdoses and one death in 1989.

Torres said his department makes numerous drug arrests among the college students who travel U.S. 84.

Gets cool reception...

White enters governor's race

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Mark White's entry into the 1990 Democratic gubernatorial primary got a cool reception from the other leading candidates.

Attorney General Jim Mattox said he has no fear of the competition. He called White "the largest tax-raising Democratic governor in history, the largest fee-raising governor in history, the largest tuition-raising governor in history. I don't think that's going to sell in Texas."

State Treasurer Ann Richards' press secretary, Monte Williams, said voters "have a clear choice in March between Ann's new, positive message and old-style politics as usual."

White hit the comeback trail on Wednesday, saying he knows being governor is "more vilification than glory" but that Texas today needs a leader with his record.

"For the past three years, Texas has been drifting in a sea of challenge, change and uncertainty," said White, who in 1986 lost the Governor's Mansion to Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

"I have the proven qualities that people are looking for in their governor: leadership, vision, courage, integrity and experience," White said.

Now a Houston lawyer, White, 49, said he believes voters will return to his side after deserting him three years ago.

"A lot of those people I talked to admitted that they had voted against me in anger. And most of them, after time for reflection, agreed that change comes hard," he said.

"But I was gratified that time after time I was congratulated — not for education reform or for the high-tech revolution — but for standing up for Texas and doing what I thought was right, even though it wasn't always good politics."

White is a former secretary of state and attorney general. He first ran for governor in 1982, ousting Clements, who turned the tables in 1986.

White said deciding to get back into politics "was not an easy decision for me" and that "I am not running on past deeds."

He said he already has pledges for nearly $1 million and expects enough contributions to match the other candidates. A television advertising effort will come "sometime soon," he said.

The former governor cited education reforms, expanded highway construction, water conservation programs and crime victims' restitution as accomplishments of his first administration.

White refused to rule out new taxes for schools, as the state grapples with a Texas Supreme Court order to overhaul the public school finance system.

"I would hope the Legislature could solve the problems without new revenues, but certainly the problems have to be solved," he said.

On abortion, White said, "I don't believe the governor should make that choice for women."

White acknowledged that some of the actions he took during his term — including competency testing of teachers — hadn't been popular. "The shock of the change at the time was very tough," he said, adding that he would handle some issues differently if he could do it over again.

"Oh yeah, we'd make some... (see WHITE, page 9)

'ESP' production receives 13 awards

Western Texas College's production of "Hamlet ESP" received 13 awards and some positive reviews in its performance at the 22nd annual American College Theatre Festival in Beaumont recently.

Jeff Koep, critic judge for the play festival, chose the Lamar College production of "A Company of Wayward Saints" as the play to be considered for regional competition.

Koep gave Critic's Awards to four WTC cast members: Jeff Hicks from Muleshoe, Brandon Neeley of Snyder and Scott Weaver from Levelland for their portrayals of the three Hamlets, and Richard Lack of Snyder for his role as Polonius. He nominated Lee Ann Bonner from Albany and Kenn Kern from Hurst for the Irene Ryan Award.

Jim Rambo, WTC theatre director, nominated Joy McSpadden of Snyder and Lack for Irene Ryan Awards. All the Ryan nominees will go to a regional competition on Feb. 22 at Texas Tech University, with the winner to advance to national competition in Washington, D.C.

Teresa Rambo of Snyder was recognized for her costume design, Galen Price of Snyder for his set and lighting designs, and Melvin Branch for the graphics.

Branch, a former WTC faculty member, is now on the Texas Tech University faculty and created the Hamlet program design.

Overall, Rambo said he felt good about the results of the production and festival.

"Our students knew, and anyone who saw the show knew, what an undertaking it was," he said. "We could have done a show much simpler in scope and have done better (from the critic's standpoint), but we chose to do this show for a variety of reasons. I was gratified by the comments I heard from those who saw the production at the play festival as well as from the critic judge."

One of the comments made to Rambo came from Roberto Popo, Texas ACRF chairman from Texas A&M University, who said he was mesmerized by the show and described it as "a complicated play, breaking theatre traditions."

That thought was repeated in a review by Shari Fey of the Beaumont Enterprise, who wrote, "Whether it was planned or not, the best was saved for the last at the 22nd annual American College Theatre Festival. This college troupe from Snyder put on a... (see ESP, page 9)

Even opportunities can come out of a bad situation. You may remember the flap over the flag-burning incident.

One free-spirited entrepreneur was inspired to develop a technique now available in its commercial cleaning outlets. The firm will fireproof your flag, guaranteed to 3,000 degrees.

The approach of December turns us to the thought of finding that special gift for that special person. One enterprising person has suggested bottled water.

The Water Centre of Edison, N.J., offers "Class in a Glass," a water-of-the-month club. Each month the center will send you or your favorite water-lover an elegant six-pack of exotic bottle water.

Each pack combines domestic and imported, bubbly and still, flavored and straight waters.

A one-month membership is $40, but the monthly fee drops for longer terms.

There have been solar-powered and waterproof watches for some time, but now a guy wants your watch to be waterlogged.

If the watch is not wet, it won't run. The Kansas City, Mo., company says its water watch will run on tap water, sea water or just about any liquid.

Instructions say pour several drops of water over the watch to get it started. Then wet the watch twice daily to keep it running. The liquid powers the cells between the grills much like water gives life to a car battery.

In case you're interested, the watch is available in black or pink at under $13.

Storm Karen

MIAMI (AP) — A poorly organized tropical depression strengthened this morning into Tropical Storm Karen with 50 mph winds south of rain-drenched Cuba on the final day of the Atlantic hurricane season, forecasters said.

An Air Force reconnaissance plane that flew into the storm early today detected the stronger winds, prompting the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables to issue a storm bulletin.

At 8 a.m. EST, the center was located near 21.3 north latitude and 83.1 west longitude.

Gorbachev given more credit...

Poll: Soviets are gaining trust of American people

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans give Mikhail Gorbachev more credit than President Bush for lessening East-West tensions, and nearly eight in 10 believe the Soviet leader seeks true reform in his country, according to a poll.

The Media General-Associated Press survey found suspicions of the Soviet Union's intentions fading rapidly, with a majority of Americans now convinced that the Soviets do not seek world domination.

Bush and Gorbachev, who are meeting in a shipboard summit off Malta this weekend, won exceedingly high popularity marks, with roughly seven in 10 respondents rating each favorably.

Their summit comes at a time of momentous change in the communist world. While Gorbachev pushes reforms in the Soviet Union, his Eastern European allies in recent weeks have moved dramatically away from political domination by their Communist parties.

Forty percent of the 1,117 adults surveyed Nov. 17-25 in the continental United States rated Bush as "too cautious" in encouraging reform in the Eastern Bloc; 46 percent said he was doing enough. The rest were unsure.

Moreover, 41 percent said Gorbachev has done more than Bush to ease tensions, compared with 29 percent who said Bush has done more. The others weren't sure.

To encourage Soviet reforms, respondents by 2-1 favored establishing normal trade relations — a step the Bush administration is exploring. A less likely move, foreign aid, was opposed by seven in 10.

Goodwill toward Gorbachev aside, the poll found lingering doubt about Soviet reliability. Fifty-three percent said the Soviets cannot be trusted to live up to its arms control agreements, down from 61 percent in a poll last year but still a majority.

Reflecting that cautious view,

52 percent opposed making significant cuts in U.S. military spending because of lessened tensions. The Bush administration is contemplating large cuts in its military budget.

Similarly, respondents split on whether the United States should remove all its troops from Western Europe if the Soviets removed theirs from Eastern Europe. Forty-seven percent favored such a deal and 42 percent were opposed, a division within the poll's 3-point error margin. The rest were unsure.

Respondents overwhelmingly opposed immediate cuts in U.S. troops in Europe as a response to the reforms. But among those who were opposed, a majority favored reductions later if reforms continue.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, single, a second-year graduate student who works full-time and also conducts a lab as a graduate assistant. I don't have much spare time, which doesn't matter since I don't know too many people (I just moved to Texas last year), but I like my job and working in the lab.

Lately, when I am away from the lab, I have found my thoughts turning more and more to one of the undergraduates I work with there. (I'll call her "Terri.") She is probably 20 or 21, bright, pretty, and she seems to like me, not just as a teaching assistant but as a person.

The feelings I am experiencing pose a problem for me.

As Terri's lab instructor, I am responsible for a portion of the grade she will receive in this class. I would never let my personal feelings affect how I graded any student, but do you think my integrity would be sacrificed if I asked her to dinner or a movie?

I really like Terri, and I'd like to think that there might be a chance for something more than a classroom relationship. I look forward to the days when I know she will be in my lab. But the nature of our existing relationship (teaching assistant-student) dictates that it will be a temporary one unless I make my feelings known. What should I do? (Please don't print my name.) Sign me ...

HEART OF TEXAS

DEAR HEART: Some institutions of learning frown on faculty — which includes lab instructors — dating their students. If yours does, "Terri" is off limits. Otherwise, go ahead and ask her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are the parents of three wonderful, healthy daughters, ages 10, 8 and 6.

Following the birth of our third daughter, I had a hysterectomy, so all hope of having a son vanished — until we were told that an 8-year-old boy was available for adoption.

When we met him, we were thrilled to see such a bright and attractive boy, and knew immediately that Todd (not his real name) would fit right into our family.

After having Todd in our home for five months, we signed the papers and the adoption was finalized — and that's when the trouble began.

Todd started to have violent temper tantrums, screaming, throwing and breaking things, hitting the girls and defying all discipline. We immediately took him to a psychiatrist, who placed him in a very fine private institution. After three months, Todd begged to come home, promising to "behave," so we brought him home.

After five weeks, he started acting up again — lying, stealing, hitting the girls and making all our lives miserable.

Abby, is there any way to abort adoption? We just can't handle this child.

AN ERROR IN JUDGMENT

DEAR ERROR: It is regrettable that the behavior problems did not surface during the five-month trial period before the adoption became final. Perhaps an exception can be made in your case, but generally speaking, once an adoption has been finalized, there is no way to "abort" an adoption. Your legal obligation, as parents of your adopted child, is the same as though he were your biological child.

I suggest that you have Todd evaluated physically, mentally and emotionally. Don't trust to luck that he will not harm the girls or you. My heart goes out to you — and this obviously disturbed child. He may need to be institutionalized again.

***

DEAR ABBY: Occasionally I have clipped some inspirational pieces from your column. Now I want to give you one. Unfortunately, the author is unknown. I hope you think it is worth sharing with your readers.

OLIVIA V.

DEAR OLIVIA: I do. And thank you for it.

THANK YOU FOR TODAY

This is a beginning of a new day, I can waste it or use it for good. What I do today is important because I am exchanging a day of my life for it.

When tomorrow comes, this day will be gone forever — leaving in its place something I have traded for it.

I want it to be gain, not loss; good, not evil; success, not failure; in order that I shall not regret the price I paid for today.

Residents reportedly receive letters of support from KKK

MALONE, Texas (AP) — Residents of several Hill County towns have received a letter reputedly from the Ku Klux Klan offering "support" to the three white men who were investigated after a suspected burglar died at the end of a wild chase through the streets and alleys of Malone.

Malone Mayor James Lucko, one of the three men investigated by a Hill County grand jury, isn't sure what kind of support the Klan is offering, but he doesn't want it.

"I'm not for it, really," Lucko said Wednesday. "I say there's not any racial problem here, and if you get 500 Klansmen walking down the street, it's going to look like there is."

The letter, found in the front yards of many residents of Malone, Hillsboro, Hubbard and several other Hill County towns, criticizes those who questioned the accounts of men who chased down James Oliver King Jr. on Oct. 9 and held him face-down in a plowed field for up to 30 minutes.

Lucko, Malone welder Doyle Tanner and off-duty Texas Department of Corrections guard Danny Krumnow said they were not aware King was dead until sheriff's deputies arrived on the scene. Local investigators supported that story.

And a Hill County grand jury returned no indictments against the three following an investigation that ended Nov. 14.

The Xi Alpha Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a pledge ritual for new members in the home of Jackie Buckland Nov. 21. Martha Knowles, Janeen Patterson, Lisa Hartzog, Edie Hopping and Betty Watts were the pledges. Following the ritual, new members were welcomed into the sorority by each member. A business meeting, presided over by President Betty League, followed. Committee chairpersons presented their reports. Members, spouses and guests shared Thanksgiving dinner Nov. 19. The social committee, along with Mona and Truett Bryan, hosted the party. The executive committee met prior to the ritual and their recommendations were presented. Refreshments were served by membership committee following the close of the business meeting. The next meeting will be Dec. 5 at Snyder Country Club. Hostesses will be Barbara Bills and Wanda Early. Loretta Dodson will present the program.

Mayor speaks to ABWA chapter

Mayor Troy Williamson spoke to members of the Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association during their November meeting.

Mayor Williamson spoke of things on the horizon for Snyder. Within the last couple of years, Snyder has been involved in the planning of the water and sewage system for the prison. He stated that the operation was under-budget, and since the prison is now open, they are paying their water and sewer bills.

The expansion of the water plant was also touched on. Williamson said the expansion was really needed in 1983 when it was originally planned. To keep the water pure and clean, samples from various locations are tested by the health department each month. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has two criteria which cannot presently be met.

During hotter months, the plant is required to let water stand long enough to have the impurities settle out. With the high temperatures, this is sometimes impossible to do, according to the mayor. To meet the criteria, the idea has been to install a two stream system which includes adding solid contacts clarifier to produce the amount of water currently being produced, and allow for the required standing-time.

This method would be less costly and allow the continuation of producing pure water. The estimated cost for this expansion is approximately $700,000, with outlying areas of Scurry County paying $150,000.

Mayor Williamson stated that the sewer plant has been operating for 30 years and is about worn out. Since EPA is responsible for the cleanliness of the water that goes into streams, they are more stringent with their regulations every year, according to the mayor.

A permit is only good for five years, and the deadline for Snyder's permit is the year 1990. The plant will not meet the anticipated requirements, so, the mayor said, the most inexpensive thing to do is to build a new plant.

Financing is available through the state government with funds set up for building a sewer plant. Application for a new plant was made this year, to have the money available by 1990, but was turned down because Snyder's water is pure.

Mayor Williamson stated he has read in the "Kiplinger Letter" that by the year 2005, Snyder will have a population of 18,000. A state of Texas forecast also indicated Snyder as a growing area. Texas A&M has a population center, and they also indicated Snyder is growing.

"I don't know where they are getting their information, but I hope it is accurate," he said. The mayor also spoke of the city installing a 911 system to be available by the year 1995.

North's diamond opening, even though the no-trump overcall showed that most of the outstanding high cards would be behind North. West made a good choice of leads in the queen of spades. When that held the trick, he switched to a trump. He hoped that East held two trumps and could deprive declarer of a spade ruff in dummy. East won the heart ace, cashed the spade ace, and then tried to take the setting trick with the king of clubs. But declarer ruffed.

South assumed that East held four diamonds to the queen. From the play of the club king, East held the ace also. So declarer ruffed a spade and ruffed a second club back to his hand. He then played K-Q of hearts, discarding a club and a diamond from dummy. East discarded a spade and a diamond. Declarer now played another trump, shedding dummy's jack of diamonds. That forced East to come down to four cards. If he threw a club, declarer could play a diamond to dummy and ruff another club, dropping the club ace and setting up dummy's queen. If East threw another diamond, declarer would cash both the ace and the king of diamonds, the Q-10 would fall, and South would ruff a club back to his hand to take the last trick with the now good diamond nine. All that was needed was for declarer to visualize East's discomfort with four cards left to play.

Dr. Gott Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you discuss the side effects of antibiotics, specifically Septra, as concerning tinnitus and hearing loss? Is there any relationship between tinnitus and TMJ syndrome? What treatment is available? Are there organizations that focus on tinnitus in the United States.

DEAR READER: As a class of drugs, antibiotics have many potential side effects, the most serious of which are acute allergic reactions, rash, liver inflammation and kidney damage. A few antibiotics, such as streptomycin and neomycin cause hearing damage (ototoxicity) when used in high doses for extended times.

Septra is a combination antibiotic, containing trimethoprim and sulfamethoxazole. In rare instances, it can cause an allergic reaction characterized by vertigo and ringing in the ears (tinnitus). It has not been reported to cause hearing loss.

Tinnitus, a common affliction in people of all ages, is defined as the subjective perception of buzzing, roaring, hissing or whistling. It is particularly prevalent in older people and may result from age-related circulatory deficiency to the inner ear and auditory nerves. It can also be caused by exposure to loud sounds, wax buildup and infection.

Tinnitus is not ordinarily associated with temporomandibular joint (TMJ) dysfunction, a condition marked by headache, a sore jaw joint and clicking of the temporomandibular joint where the jawbone joins the skull.

Comedian needs break from all-female household

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor-comedian Chevy Chase, who is reprising his role as the dedicated family man in "National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation," says he thinks about going out with the guys as a break from an all-female household.

Chase said living with his wife, Jane, and three daughters has changed his life, but he also feels "out of control of my life now."

"I think I need to be taken away, dropped in some territory with just a lot of loud guys," he said in an interview scheduled for broadcast today and Friday on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America."

"Like just get Danny Aykroyd and Marty (Martin Short) and (Tom) Hanks and a bunch of us and just put us all together and leave us alone with a 'fridge full of beer or something."

lar joint where the jawbone joins the skull.

In many cases, the cause of tinnitus is difficult to determine. If treatable causes, such as infection, have been ruled out, patients are often advised to put up with tinnitus and "learn to live with it." To my knowledge, there is no organization that acts as a support group for people with this affliction.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Ear Infections and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is the correct time to take Metamucil or other laxatives and vitamins — before, during or after meals?

DEAR READER: It probably makes no real difference whether laxatives and vitamins are taken before, during or after eating. Customarily, laxatives are taken at bedtime (to produce an effect about eight hours later at an appropriate time) and vitamins are taken after a meal (to reduce the incidence of stomach upset).

However, as far as I know, in most cases these substances can be swallowed at any convenient time. Remember that Metamucil is not a laxative and can cause a feeling of abdominal fullness that can interfere with appetite; therefore, it's best taken after meals.

WTC starts WJCAC slate against Chaps

The Western Texas men's basketball squad begins conference competition tonight as the Westerners travel to Midland College for a battle there.

The Chaparrals were tapped in the pre-season coaches' poll to take the Western Junior College Athletic Conference crown.

They return eight sophomores from last year's squad, three of which are expected to start for Midland.

Fred Campbell, a 6-8, 198 pound post player, is one of coach Reggie Franklin's projected starters against WTC.

Campbell started in all 31 games for the Chaps as a freshman, averaging 12.6 points per game and snatching 248 rebounds over the course of the season.

Kethus Hanks, another expected starter, stands 6-3 and plays a guard position. His 57 assists last season leads the conference among returners in that category.

Another returnee to watch is 6-9 Darryl King who blocked 100 shots last year for MC.

The Westerners take a record of 10-2 into conference play. Tip-off time in Midland is 7:30 p.m.

Bulldogs bounce 'Cats; Sturdivant paces effort

The Ira Bulldogs used a 24-point second quarter and a stifling defense that held Grady to just nine points in the third period to take a 74-67 win Tuesday night.

James Sturdivant poured in 18 points on eight field goals and a pair of free throws to pace the

Dallas slams Hornets 102-83

DALLAS (AP) - Richie Aduabato will be the Dallas Mavericks head coach again tonight and he hopes his team responds like they did against the Charlotte Hornets.

"We have San Antonio on the road then I'm going to set down with (owner) Donald Carter, (general manager) Norm Sonju, and (operations manager) Rick Sund and discuss the whole thing," Aduabato said after Dallas beat Charlotte 102-83.

After 10 years as an assistant coach, Aduabato returned to the head coaching ranks.

"Ten years ago seems like an eternity," Aduabato said. "This is terrific. As you can see, I sweated about 80 pounds off. I thought everybody on the team worked hard."

Aduabato replaced John MacLeod who was fired before the game.

"I told the team I expected them to hustle, play defense, give 110 per cent effort, and have fun," Aduabato said. "I felt the coach was a little rusty out there. I need to get some cobwebs off."

Rolando Blackman scored 22 points and the Dallas Mavericks led from start-to-finish to defeat the Hornets.

Carter said "the players weren't showing hustle under MacLeod. I still don't see enough hustle."

MacLeod was fired eight hours before the game after the Mavs stumbled to a 5-6 start. Rick Sund, operations manager of the Mavs, said MacLeod was let go after 11 games because the team wasn't motivated.

Aduabato, an assistant for four years at Dallas, will coach the team through at least the next two games.

Carter said "when we stopped being this city's team we had to do something drastic. There's still more to do but tonight is a beginning."

Herb Williams added a season-high 17 points and Adrian Dantley had 19 for the Mavericks. Derek Harper also contributed 17 points for the winners.

Forward Sam Perkins said "Richie is like a sixth man now. When the starter is out, you have to step in and do the job. That's what Richie did tonight. You have to respect his basketball knowledge. His style is between Dick Motta and MacLeod."

Charlotte was led by Kelly Tripuka who had 19 points and Rex Chapman who added 15.

Aduabato was the interim coach for the Detroit Pistons in the 1979-80 season after Dick Vitale was fired after 12 games.

Dallas center James Donaldson didn't play because of a sore hamstring.

"This is a new beginning for us and we have to make something positive out of it," Perkins said. "It wasn't John's fault we didn't play well this year."

Coach Dick Harter said he thought his Charlotte team outlasted Dallas.

"We played harder than Dallas did, I'm sure of that," Harter said. "I was surprised by the coaching move. I guess management gets paid to make those kind of decisions."

Dallas fires MacLeod

DALLAS (AP) - Fired Dallas Mavericks coach John MacLeod said one of the reasons he lost his job apparently was his unwillingness to criticize players for their shortcomings.

"It's not my style to blast. I feel like it takes more self-discipline and toughness not to blast a guy," MacLeod said Wednesday afternoon, hours after club officials fired him and installed assistant coach Richie Aduabato as interim head coach.

"The last thing I think a player wants to do is wake up the morning after a bad game and find out that the coach has ripped him in the newspaper. Well what kind of a man is that?" MacLeod said in an interview with television station WFAA-TV of Dallas.

"I think the way you do it if you tell a guy face to face behind closed doors so nobody else finds out about it. And that's toughness."

MacLeod said he plans to pursue another job in coaching and feels he has done a good job at Dallas. He led the team to a seventh playoff game with the Los Angeles Lakers before losing in the Western Conference championship game of the NBA in 1986.

But the Mavericks failed to make the playoffs last season and stumbled to a 5-6 record early this season, including the worst home loss ever, 117-70, to Seattle on Saturday night.

The team was hurt last spring by a season-ending injury to center James Donaldson and the loss of forward Roy Tarpley to drug suspension. The Mavericks dealt leading scorer Mark Aguirre, who was often moody in Dallas, to the Detroit Pistons for Adrian Dantley.

Those things were out of his control, MacLeod said.

"You have a chance if you can be fortunate enough to have good health and not have all of the stinking problems that I've had to deal with. And to be honest with you I thought I handled those problems very well last year," he said.

Landry says he would have gone with more experience

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) - Only time will tell if Dallas is on the road to recovery, former Cowboys coach Tom Landry says.

Landry, who was in South Carolina on Tuesday on behalf of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, said he would not have taken the approach of going with younger players to turn the NFL franchise around.

Landry was the only coach the Cowboys had in their first 29 years before being fired by new owner Jerry Jones, who hired Johnson from the University of Miami after buying the team this year.

Dallas, which won only three games last year, is 1-11 with four games left in the regular season.

"Everybody has their own thoughts" on how to turn the Cowboys around, Landry said. But he said he would not follow the route Johnson is taking "because I believe a great deal in experience. I would have tried to blend the experience with new people as you try to rebuild."

"The problem they're having is they're starting over again, getting rid of Herschel Walker (to Minnesota) and a number of older players," he said. "Now they've got a complete rebuilding program to do before they come back again."

"I think Dallas has a great opportunity with their quarterback, Troy Aikman, who I believe can be a very outstanding football player. But the whole question that'll come is can the other parts of the team be built strong enough (and) fast enough that will let him take advantage of his talents."

Landry also said he felt his firing - and the dismissal of team President Tex Schramm - were handled poorly.

"It just destroyed the PR of the new owner and the new organizational staff handling it the way they did," he said. "They could have handled it very easily. Tex and I were not informed of the change until the day before it was consummated, and the papers had it all week."

Rail car shortage may affect agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the biggest agricultural problems of the next decade will be a shortage of railroad cars for transporting grain, a railroad spokesman says.
Jim Howarth, a CSX assistant vice president, said Wednesday that his company has about 13,000 covered hopper cars, but that nationwide the fleet is shrinking.
CSX, one of the nation's largest freight railway companies, operates between the East Coast and Chicago and as far south as New Orleans.
Howarth said railroad companies don't get enough profit from hauling grain, and that big freight companies will abandon more and more lines for lack of business in many rural areas.
"You can't get away from the fact that the railroad system was overbuilt for today's transportation," Howarth said, adding that his company supports the growth of shortline rail companies to carry products short distances or to larger freight train systems.

Wallace Burnett of the Transportation Department said some business might return to railroads as the cost and congestion of trucking increases.
Howarth and Burnett spoke at Outlook '90, a three-day conference sponsored by the Agriculture Department to examine farm policies and factors that affect them.
Howarth said that when CSX decides to discontinue a line, it looks for a shortline operator to take over.
"We want to see as many lines as possible continue operating," he said. "Shortline owners are sometimes public entities, but 90 percent tend to be private owners who feel they can make a go of a piece of railroad that a big company can't."
CSX, Howarth said, recommends that grain companies buy their own railroad cars to ensure transportation is available.
During another segment of the conference Wednesday, a housing consultant described the plight of elderly farm workers who often find themselves with no money and no home when they retire.
Joseph Belden, deputy executive director of the Housing Assistance Council, said a study he conducted showed no federal housing projects exist specifically for farm workers.
Although they often qualify for subsidized housing under other programs, the biggest problem is that farm workers tend to stop working about age 45 rather than 62 as required to qualify for retirement housing under many federal programs.

"Because of the working conditions, this group is going to be older at a younger age," Belden said, describing the back-breaking toil and harsh lifestyle of migrant farmworkers.
He said there was anecdotal evidence to show that many farm workers don't get Social Security benefits, either because their employers never withheld payments from their wages or because they were stolen by dishonest employers.
Another problem facing rural planners is poverty among children.
Carolyn Rogers, a USDA demographer, said studies show that since the late 1970s there has been an increase in poverty among both urban and rural occupants.
Rogers said that in 1987 about 24 percent of the children in rural areas were below the poverty line. Another 9 percent were considered "near poor," which means they are either right at the poverty line or in families that make just 149 percent of the poverty threshold.

The poverty threshold of a three-person family with one child under 18 was $9,142 in 1987 and for a four-person family with two children under 18 it was $11,519.
Rogers said much attention had been paid to the breakdown of families in central cities, but statistics show that the number of rural children living with just one parent also has increased — from 14 percent in 1960 to 25 percent in 1988. About 29 percent of urban children live with one parent.
Rural development policies need to include education and employment that lead to greater earnings for parents and improved financial conditions for their children, Rogers said.
"The type of childhood experienced in the rural community will undoubtedly affect the decisions of the next generation about remaining in the community," she said.

changes. No question about that," he said. "We've never suggested for a moment that we ran a perfect administration. But certainly I think our goals were right."
As White was touring the state to announce his bid for governor, a contributor to his unsuccessful 1986 campaign for re-election sued him, saying White never repaid $75,000 in campaign loans.
In the lawsuit filed Wednesday in state court in Travis County, Lubbock physician Ray Santos said he made loans of $50,000 and $25,000 in October 1986 for White's campaign.
Santos said he has unsuccessfully sought repayment of the loans since November 1987. His lawsuit seeks $75,000, interest and attorney fees.
White learned of the lawsuit during an appearance in Houston. He shrugged off the development.
"There is no foundation to that. I don't know about the suit and I haven't had a chance to look at it, but I'm sure there's no foundation," he said.
Mattox said Democrats need to guard against a divisive primary, recalling the bitter 1978 Democratic primary between former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and John Hill. Hill won the nomination but lost to Clements, who became the first Republican governor of Texas in 100 years.
With White's entry, Mattox said, "I think there's a danger of the Dolph Briscoe-John Hill type problem... When this primary's over with, I want to make sure I have both Mark White's supporters and Ann Richards's supporters."

Man in custody

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An unemployed Tennessee man had been plotting for as long as seven years to kidnap Fort Worth billionaire Robert Bass and hold him for $5 million ransom, a federal prosecutor says.
Austin James Veleff, 57, of Germantown, Tenn., was being held today in the Johnson County Jail at Cleburne on charges of racketeering and extortion.
FBI agents from Dallas arrested Veleff Wednesday near Fort Worth after he had driven to Texas with an undercover FBI agent, who he thought was going to help him.
The arrest came after Veleff had taken pictures of City Place, a 33-story office complex built by the Bass family where Robert Bass has his office.
Carroll Andre, an assistant U.S. attorney in Memphis, Tenn., said Veleff had never met Bass and had no connection with him. He had made Bass the target of the kidnapping plot after reading about him in a business magazine, Andre said.
"He was trying to pick someone that had a lot of money, it appears," Andre said.
Although federal authorities had been aware of the plot only since May, Andre said Veleff told the undercover agent he had been planning the abduction for seven years.
Dee Kelly, a lawyer for the Bass family, declined comment, but a source close to the family referred to Veleff as "a crank" who did not have a chance of succeeding in the plot, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.
FBI agent William Fallin of Memphis, the agent in charge of the investigation, said Veleff planned to ask for $5 million ransom after taking Bass to South Texas.
Veleff, an advertising salesman for the Memphis Commercial Appeal newspaper for about 20 years, had operated a swimming pool business for about eight years before becoming unemployed.

Bush heads for first one-on-one session with Gorbachev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush is off today to a saltwater summit with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, bearing pledges of U.S. support for sweeping reform in Eastern Europe and a complaint about the flow of Soviet arms to leftist rebels in El Salvador.

Harnessing nuclear and conventional weapons also is on Bush's agenda. And while Secretary of State James A. Baker III says the sessions aboard U.S. and Soviet warships Saturday and Sunday will not amount to "an arms control summit," two sets of negotiations could get a shot in the arm.
The eventual result might be completion of treaties to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact troops, tanks and artillery across Europe and to slash U.S. and Soviet arsenals of long-range bombers, missiles and nuclear submarines by 30 percent to 50 percent by the time Gorbachev visits Washington next summer for a more formal summit.
Negotiations are proceeding briskly in both arenas in Vienna and Geneva, and the easing of tensions across the European landscape serves as a catalyst for even speedier resolution of the pacts.

Still, Baker stressed at a White House news conference Wednesday that the president would conduct no negotiations behind the backs of U.S. allies.
Immediately after the summit Bush will fly to Brussels to brief leaders of the 15 other North Atlantic Treaty Organization governments. And, in unprecedented coordination with other U.S. friends around the world, senior American diplomats will be dispatched as far away as South America and the Middle East with the summit results.
Heads of state have held their summits in unusual locales and even at sea. During World War II, for instance, President Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged U.S. support to Prime Minister Winston Churchill aboard a warship in the Atlantic for a British empire struggling to beat back Nazi Germany.
But the Bush-Gorbachev sessions, secretly proposed by the president in July, still are extraordinary by contrast to the usual summit fare.
The leaders will meet aboard the Soviet guided-missile cruiser Slava on Saturday and on the U.S. Sixth Fleet, on Sunday. The warships will be anchored in Malta's Marsaxlokk Bay — an area far removed from international cross-currents.

Gorbachev will use the summit to provide Bush with a "very frank" assessment of his domestic woes and try to commit the United States to rapid progress on nuclear and conventional disarmament. The Washington Post reported today, quoting unidentified Soviet officials.
The officials, the newspaper said, don't expect Gorbachev to make any "grand unilateral gestures," but hinted that he might announce the withdrawal of some warships from the Mediterranean and call for the region to be declared a nuclear-free zone.
Baker stressed Wednesday that U.S.-Soviet relations are on the upswing and that U.S. support for Gorbachev's perestroika, or restructuring, program to reform the Soviet economy was firm.

"In Central America," Baker said, "we find the most disturbing approach of throwing fuel on the fire."

show that was colorful, confusing, weird and very, very interesting. 'Hamlet ESP' was a whole lot more than 'to be or not to be.'"
She added, "It's too bad all theater isn't as imaginative as the Western Texas College production... It wasn't so intellectual that it made my brain hurt, but it certainly was an immensely satisfying production."
"Hamlet ESP" was adapted by Paul Baker from the original work by William Shakespeare after 20 years of study and work.
Baker visited the WTC campus for the opening night performance on Nov. 10 and visited the cast and crew.
There were some unexpected complications with the production at Lamar. A portion of the set damaged in moving had to be repaired on site and one of the television sets used on stage was not working properly.
There are almost 100 light cues for the three-act play and the technician assigned to operate Lamar's newly installed computerized lighting system was not able to respond at the proper times. Nonetheless, Rambo said the WTC students did perform well.

Crane operator reportedly attempted suicide 2 times

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The operator of a crane that plummeted 16 floors, killing five people, twice tried to commit suicide during the last nine months and was a chronic alcoholic, according to published reports today.
Lonnie Boggess, the 45-year-old crane operator who was among those killed, also had been hospitalized for psychiatric observation twice since March, according to court documents obtained by McClatchy Newspapers.
The Sacramento Bee and The Morning News Tribune of Tacoma, Wash., where Boggess lived, said his 14-year-old daughter, Christine, testified in January that he "drank to the point of drunkenness on a regular basis."
The San Francisco coroner's office said Wednesday an autopsy would attempt to determine Boggess' blood-alcohol level at the time of death. It is to be made public within two weeks, the newspapers reported.

bat the problem would be to enact stricter penalties for users. "The real drug kingpin is the guy who's buying drugs," he said.
He noted that in Japan, citizens who are found guilty of possessing drugs are jailed, released after they complete a rehabilitation program and jailed again if they relapse.
He said jail over-crowding standards are too strict because, for example, sailors on submarines are much more crowded than federal penitentiary inmates.
Gramm said in an interview on his way to the county airport that liberal Democrats dislike him because "I have a different agenda for America than they do."
He remarked that a U.S. senator from Texas "can end up being the senator for Dallas and Houston if you're not careful" and that he has been solicitous toward rural areas and West Texas in part to avoid that.
He said his opponent, whoever it is, may try to depict him as being uncaring toward people, "but it's hard to convince people, when I've been to see them three or four times, that I don't care about them."

Four county men escaped injury in a two-vehicle collision at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of county roads 461 and 466, 5.4 miles southeast of Snyder.
A 1988 Ford Lariat pickup driven by Michael F. Graham, 37, of Rt. 1, Hermleigh, was southbound on 461 and a 1982 Pontiac driven by 23-year-old Anthony P. Roa of Huffman Ave. and Ave. O was going west on 466 when the collision took place, a Department of Public Safety trooper said.
Both drivers and Philip Ratliff, 34, of Snyder, a passenger in Graham's pickup, and Mac Costella, 20, of Hermleigh, a passenger in the car, were unhurt, according to reports.

Castillo's benefit dance rescheduled for Saturday
A benefit dance to help offset hospital costs for Manuel Castillo of Hermleigh has been rescheduled for this Saturday from 8-11:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory in Snyder.
Castillo has been hospitalized in Abilene since being injured in a September football game.
Tickets are $5 per person and may be obtained at the gate on Saturday.
The dance was originally scheduled for Nov. 11 but was cancelled when the band equipment truck broke down in Sweetwater. Dance organizers rescheduled the dance for Dec. 2 in the Hermleigh Gym. Due to the recent resurfacing of the gym floor however, the dance has been moved to the armory in Snyder.
Music for the dance will be provided by The Shade Tree Band.
