Garden City Elementary receives national honor

By ROGER CLINE
 Managing Editor

Garden City Elementary School, part of the Glasscock County Independent School District, is one of 31 Texas schools named a "National Blue Ribbon School" for 2022.

According to a press release issued by the U.S. Department of Education, the small school joins four schools from Dallas, four from Houston, one from Midland, and 23 others from around the state in receiving the award, which was issued to just 297 schools nationwide this year.

Glasscock County ISD Superintendent Ben Eubanks said the district is very proud to receive the award. "It recognizes the top-achieving schools in the nation," he said. "It recognizes just overall achievements of a school Test scores are one of the criteria. Man, it's an honor to be put in there as one of the top schools in the nation. Garden City kind of established ourselves as one of the top schools in the state, and this is kind of putting us in there as one of the premier schools in the nation."

"I applaud all the honorees for the 2022 National Blue Ribbon Schools Award for creating vibrant, welcoming, and affirming school communities where students can learn, grow, reach their potential, and achieve their dreams," said U.S. Education Secretary Miguel Cardona in the press release. "As our country continues to recover from the pandemic, we know that our future will only be as strong as the education we provide to all of our children. Blue Ribbon Schools have gone above and beyond to keep students healthy and safe while meeting their academic, social, emotional, and mental health needs. These schools show what is possible to make an enduring, positive difference in students' lives."

With its 39th cohort, the National Blue Ribbon Schools Program has bestowed approximately 10,000 awards to more than 9,000 schools. The National Blue Ribbon School award affirms and validates the hard work of students, educators, families, and communities in striving for – and attaining – exemplary achievement.

National Blue Ribbon Schools serve as models of effective school practices for state and district educators and other schools throughout the nation. A National Blue Ribbon School flag gracing a school's entryway or on a flagpole is a widely recognized symbol of exemplary teaching and learning.

Having a buddy can make all the difference.

Forsan High School Seniors are finding out just how much of an impact they can make on little buffaloes through the start up of a new program called "Buffalo Buddies". For the first year, Seniors are being partnered up with a kindergarten student or two. This past Wednesday was opening day for the program and a grand celebration was held.

"This is our first year to start Buffalo Buddies and the inspiration came from a motivational speaker we heard from this summer. We heard a message about a Senior named Charlie and the impact he made on a young boy; our hearts were touched and we wanted for our little buffs and graduating buffs to have that," Mysti Mims, Counselor at Forsan JH/High School, said.

Mims continued, "The goal is to build relationships, give young students a positive role model, teach our older students compassion, empathy, and understanding amongst younger students. The main goal is for our kids - at all ages - to know their worth and how important and amazing they are."

To kick off this new program the Seniors met the Kindergartners on the football field. In a heartwarming ceremony the kindergartners were introduced one by one as they ran through

Billie L. Flanagan

Billie L. Flanagan, 90, of Stanton, passed away Wednesday, Sept. 14, 2022. She will lie in state Friday, Sept. 16, at Gilbreath Funeral Home in Stanton. The family will receive friends from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m. Friday at Gilbreath Funeral Home, 209 N. St. Charles. Rosary service will begin at 7 p.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 405 N. Convent. Funeral Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 17, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Interment will follow at St. Joseph's Catholic Cemetery.

Billie was born August 1, 1932, in Coahoma, to William Oren and Myrtle Elizabeth (Morgan) Tucker. After graduating from Courtney High School, Billie worked as a telephone operator for Southwestern Bell in Big Spring when she met the love of her life, Curtis Glen Flanagan. Billie and Curtis were married March 27, 1951, in Colorado Springs, CO where Curtis was stationed with the U.S. Army. They soon moved with the Army to Anchorage, AK where their two eldest children were born.

In September 1957, Billie and Curtis moved back to Martin County and built their home on family land north of Stanton where they farmed/ranched and lived for 60 years. In 1964, Billie started work at the Martin County Courthouse where she split her days working for Judge Martin Gibson, Ag Extension Agent Billy Reagor and Home Demonstration Agent Mildred Eiland. She worked there until the late 1970s when she began bookkeeping at Long Gin.

Billie was a true helpmate to her husband in farming and ranching. Feeding cattle, helping to tend to the cotton fields and sat in the cab of Curtis' tractor "driving" while he ate lunch or dinner. She loved fishing and spending time at their lake house on Lake Amistad. But more than anything, she loved her grandkids and great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband of nearly 66 years, Curtis; her parents, W.O. and Myrtle Tucker; her brother Dewitt Tucker; sisters Margie McCormick and Nadine Wilmut; her sister-in-law, Annie Laurie Fox; and grandson, Matthew Cook.

She is survived by her son, W. Curtis Flanagan and wife Betty, of Stanton; two daughters, Liz Cook and husband Mike, of Georgetown, and Leah Flanagan, of Stanton; four grandchildren, Kara Ulibarri and husband, Monty of New Braunfels, Cory Flanagan and wife, Katherine of San Antonio, Jared Cook and wife, Rachel of Brenham, and Sean Flanagan and wife Hali of Pipe Cree; six great-grandchildren, Marlee Ulibarri, Leena Flanagan, Victoria Flanagan, William Flanagan, Olivia Flanagan, and Caleb Cook; and her sister-in-law, Margaret Franks of Midland.

The family gives heartfelt thanks to Angie Aguirre, Linda Barrera, Adela Cantu, Irma Orona, Mary Vela and Nicole Wells for the dedicated and loving care given to our mother. They also want to thank Sally Poteet and the staff of the Martin County Senior Citizens Center, Trulite Home Health, and lastly, Lisa Sartain and Hermelinda Gonzales of Interim Healthcare Hospice for the meals, care and comfort provided during her illness.

Memorials may be made in Billie's name to the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital (www.stjude.org) or to the Martin County Senior Citizen's Center, P.O. Box 1233, Stanton, Texas, 79782.

Arrangements are under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home of Stanton. Online condolences may be made at www.npwelch.com

Robert L. Carlile

Robert L. Carlile of Austin, and former long-time resident of Big Spring, died Saturday, Sept. 3, 2022. Born Sept. 27, 1928, Bob grew up and lived in Big Spring, until his retirement from the Cosden Refinery after 36 years. Working for Cosden was a family affair. His father and brothers also worked at and retired from the refinery. Robert (Bob) Carlile married Koleta Hoisager June 7, 1951. Together they raised one daughter, Cathy; and three sons, Bobby, Kelly and Bruce.

After retirement, Bob and Koleta moved to Killeen where they managed a ranch for two years. Bob had an amazing connection with all of the animals at the ranch but his favorites were Cabrita, the goat, who followed him around like a loyal dog, and Star, a colt born the day they moved to the ranch. In 1986, Bob and Koleta moved to Austin where he drove a school bus for Round Rock ISD for the next nine years.

Bob enjoyed giving back to his community. He was more than willing to help in any way he could. Through his church he had the opportunity to build a Habitat House and was part of a team that built a compound for educating and housing orphans from across the border. In his spare time, you could find Bob outside working in the yard, riding his bicycle, or chatting with neighbors. He was known to the neighborhood kids as "Uncle Bob" and would do anything for them. No conversation was complete without a story or joke from Bob. He loved to make others laugh and smile. Everyone knew Bob had a sweet tooth. Every year he could count on his grandkids giving him a big jar full of Snickers or Peanut M&Ms.

Bob is survived by his daughter, Cathy and husband, Jim Griffin; their children, Casey and wife, Katherine; and Cara, and great-grandchildren Jack, Libby, and Emma Griffin. Bob is also survived by his son, Bruce; and his children Austin, Amanda, and Adam.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Koleta who passed five weeks prior to his death; his two sons, Robert (Bobby) Carlile and Kelly Carlile; his parents, Allie and Mamie; and two brothers, Elwood and Billy Wayne.

A private family service will be held at a later date.

the big blow up tunnel used to present the Forsan Buffaloes during Friday Night football games. Then came the introductions to their Senior Buddy. "The little kids loved it, but I think the big kids loved it just as much as the little kids," Jeanette Lindsey said. For the first meeting the students did a fun coloring activity together as they got to know each other. According to school representatives, the buddies were matched based on personalities in hopes of building a stronger connection. The plan is to have the Buffalo Buddies meet at least once a month, but there is discussion on creating additional events for the buddies to come together. "We started it to help build relationships among our students. We hope our seniors and kindergarten students remember their buddy always," Mims said. The journey may be a new one, but at this point, it appears connections are being made and a positive impact will be the result. "I believe this will not only benefit the little ones, but the seniors as well just knowing we set an example from them is a good reminder to always do what's right," Kelcey Zubiate, Forsan HS Senior, said.

Texas board denies posthumous pardon for George Floyd

By JUAN A. LOZANO

Associated Press

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas board on Thursday declined a request that George Floyd be granted a posthumous pardon for a 2004 drug arrest made by a now-indicted ex-Houston police officer whose case history is under scrutiny following a deadly drug raid.

The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles in October 2021 had initially decided to unanimously recommend that Floyd become just the second person in Texas since 2010 to receive a posthumous pardon from the governor.

But before Texas Gov. Greg Abbott could make a final decision in the case, the board in December reversed its decision, saying that "procedural errors" were found in its initial recommendation in Floyd's case and it needed to reconsider more than a third of a group of 67 clemency applications it had sent to Abbott.

"After a full and careful review of the application and other information filed with the application, a majority of the Board decided not to recommend a Full Pardon and/or Pardon for Innocence," the board wrote in a letter it sent Thursday to Floyd's attorney, Allison Mathis, with the Harris County Public Defender's Office in Houston.

In its letter, the board said another request for a posthumous pardon for Floyd could be submitted again in two years. The letter did not specify why the board had denied the request.

The board's decision was first made public Thursday by a reporter with The Marshall Project.

Mathis and a spokesperson for the paroles board did not immediately return emails or calls seeking comment.

Mathis had first submitted the pardon request in April 2021.

Floyd, who was Black, grew up and was laid to rest in Houston. In June 2021, former Minneapolis police Officer Derek Chauvin, who is white, was sentenced to 22 1/2 years in prison for Floyd's killing, which led to a national reckoning in the U.S. over race and policing.

Years before his May 2020 killing, Floyd was arrested in Houston in February 2004 by former police officer Gerald Goines for selling $10 worth of crack in a police sting. Floyd later pleaded guilty to a drug charge and was sentenced to 10 months in a state jail.

Goines is now facing two counts of felony murder, as well as other charges in both state and federal court, for a deadly 2019 drug raid in which Dennis Tuttle, 59, and his wife, Rhogena Nicholas, 58, were killed.

Prosecutors allege Goines lied to obtain the warrant to search the couple's home by claiming that a confidential informant had bought heroin there. Goines later said there was no informant and that he had bought the drugs himself, they allege. Prosecutors have accused Goines of making up informants in other cases as well.

"We supported George Floyd's pardon because we do not have confidence in the integrity of his conviction. We support clemency because it is appropriate," Harris County District Attorney Kim Ogg said Thursday.

About 150 drug convictions tied to Goines have since been dismissed by prosecutors. Earlier this month, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ordered that a fifth conviction tied to Goines be overturned.

Goines has maintained his innocence and his lawyer is fighting the charges.

Small Towns Have A Lot To Offer

I've heard this said many times about small towns: "The best thing about living in a small town is that everybody knows everybody. The worst thing is everybody knows everybody."

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

In small towns you meet the most interesting people and learn some surprising and fascinating things. Besides the convenience of getting around and having time to enjoy life, small towns offer a sophistication and worldly charm.

Winnsboro in northeast Texas has a population of around 3,500. It is known for its autumn trails, when visitors go to see fall color.

Lately it has been attracting artists and entertainers to show their works and perform. Winnsboro's Center for the Arts has been in operation twenty years. It was started by a dedicated group of residents who thought something needed to be done to showcase local artists and musicians; some are nationally known and have won important honors. Jami Moore is the center's director of programming.

"We have painting classes, several different workshops throughout the year, including calligraphy, tie-dyeing and all types of creative endeavors. It's a great way to try something new. Some people learn to play an instrument here."

Jami got academic and athletic scholarships to college where she was on the wrestling team. She earned a master's degree in art education. She was an elementary art teacher in Dallas and decided she wanted to travel and live abroad.

"So I went to Chile to teach English then was a peace corps volunteer in Myanmar and the country of Georgia. I wanted to find a position where I could use all of the skills and experiences I had acquired and was lucky to find this position in Winnsboro."

The center has two buildings. One houses a performance space that seats 210 people. There a concert or play there every month. Most of the shows are sold out. A new performance hall is on the horizon. It'll have a much bigger theater and a bigger space for art exhibitions

RENAISSANCE UNDER THE STARS is a gala held in the spring. An event called ART AND WINE takes place in the fall. It's a huge festival that draws around 5,000 visitors. Works from 60 artists are displayed and juried. The first, second and third place winners go home with prize money.

The Center is funded by annual memberships, fund raises and grants. Jami is the only fulltime employee. Two other staff members are part time.

"We have an amazing group of volunteers. We have hard working, friendly people here. It's really a cool, special little place."

Winnsboro's downtown is full of shops and good places to eat.

Arrington: We Cannot Afford to Destroy the Oil and Gas Industry For the Sake of the Left's Radical Climate Narrative

By JODEY ARRINGTON

U.S. Representative, 19th Congressional District

On Thursday, during a House Ways and Means Committee hearing, Representative Jodey Arrington (TX-19) criticized President Biden and the radical Left's illogical prioritization of climate change, specifically as it relates to the healthcare industry.

"The Green New Deal agenda is an extreme position where the solution is far worse than the problem of stewarding our environment and reducing emissions," said Rep. Arrington. "I believe the climate is changing, but I do not buy into the premise that it's the greatest threat to the United States or the planet, and that's the framework that our President and the radical Left have supported."

Remarks as Delivered

For the record, I believe the climate is changing, but I do not buy into the premise that human activity is driving that. I do not buy into the fact that climate change is one of the greatest threats to the United States or the planet. I do not buy into the Green New Deal, and that's the framework the President has supported. Kamala Harris, our Vice President, said we should remove the filibuster and pass it, and folks up here have endorsed it.

That is a radical and extreme position. It is a position where the solution is far worse than the problem of stewarding our environment and reducing emissions.

It's crazy to me that we would undermine – unilaterally surrender – our energy independence at a time like we're experiencing. At a very tenuous time, a destabilizing time, when we're watching Europe in their weak position vis-a-vis the petro-tyrant, Vladimir Putin.

We had a hearing yesterday on Taiwan. We discussed their 100% dependence on energy sources outside of their country and what a predicament that is, and the implications of national security that energy independence is. We're undermining it, and we're running up the cost on Americans. One out of five [Americans] couldn't even heat their homes this winter. I'm certain things haven't gotten any better for them.

So, you talk about the implications of taxing and regulating something or having a whole of government assault on an industry that has blessed us with low consumer costs, energy independence, the greatest economy in the world, and the land of opportunity. I don't get it – I absolutely don't get it. It's the extreme position of many of my colleagues, but not all of them.

I'm looking at Ron Kind, and I don't think he subscribes, probably, to the extreme policy. But too many do. I think probably those folks who subscribe to that are the ones driving the agenda, and it's unfortunate. I think when the American people look at those implications and count the costs, they will reject the Green New Deal agenda and philosophical view that this is the greatest crisis of all.

I go back to my district, and the Covenant is a hospital that the Providence System owns. We appreciate the investment in our community. I love the team and work closely with them. So, I'm very grateful...tell me what the top three threats are to providing healthcare – the quality care that you folks are committed to – to my constituents and your patients in West Texas and beyond?

The Idle American

The Road Taken....

I, as well as most others who string words together, will never be confused with Robert Frost, the poetry genius from whose pen flowed marvelous words about his beloved New England. One of his best-published in the Atlantic Monthly in 1915-

DON NEWBURY

-was "The Road Not Taken." Actually, it was intended as a joke to a writer friend.

Joke or not, it warmed a nation's soul, causing millions of readers to re-think their paths. Analysts say that wasn't Frost's intent at all. After all, in one of the poem's 20 lines, Frost admitted that grass on both paths was worn about the same, so it is unlikely that the one "less traveled by" would have been easily identified.

Had it been more jocular than pensive, it may have been scuffed into "file 13," there abandoned, never to be seen again....

Here I go on a road taken too often. I'm digressing to the max, which likely isn't even possible when claimed in the opening sentence. I sigh, realizing there's no initial thought to break away from.

Oh, well. I'll stop short of suggesting that if I'd had the chance to hear New England's babbling brooks and gaze timelessly into emblazoned foliage where paths are many, perhaps I, too, may have been a poet. Winters there, however, would have been my undoing.

I can't imagine turning out memorable poetry as teeth chatter and hands shake too much to coax beautiful words from a quill....

That said, our recent 3,500-mile trip to Charlotte, NC, Washington, DC and Cincinnati, OH was on roads purposely taken.

There were enticements to veer off our planned route. Even in retirement years, we purposed to reach planned destinations well ahead of schedule. It felt strange to rely more on an automobile than a jet plane to arrive on time.

We weren't on "yellow wood paths," though much topography along the way soon would take on colorful autumn tweeks.

Ours was to visit the Dr. Billy Graham Library, make a 100th anniversary talk for Lions International members in DC, Delaware and Maryland, tour the Museum of the Bible in Washington, and both the Creation Museum/Ark Encounter attractions in Kentucky. (Our only "water haul" was in Charlotte, where the Graham Library is being renovated, with re-opening sometime next spring. We knew of the renovation, but figured there'd be a "wangling way" to at least visit the grounds. No such luck; the security guy at the iron gate was cordial, but firm.)....

There was much along the way to pique interest. Welcome centers on roads entering most states were exactly that: welcoming. In Virginia, heart cockles were stirred by the naming of bridges along the way to honor troopers whose records of service were notable. This impressed.

After telling Lions more than I knew, we visited DC's Museum of the Bible.

It is said to be the most technologically advanced museum in the world. Opened in 2017, the eight-story, billion-dollar museum already is one of DC's ten most popular tourist destinations. Just three blocks from the National Mall, it dazzles. Even Robert Frost might have been challenged to describe this masterpiece....

With 1,150 permanent exhibits and some 2,000 more on loan as main attractions, the museum has zoomed to the top of many Christians' bucket lists. Marble and glass abound, with the 430,000 square feet bathed in light. It simply is a "must see" for Holy Bible devotees.

The Internet is awash in details; interested persons are urged to seek more information about the museum. Let us be thankful that David Green and his family (founders of Hobby Lobby) and many hundreds of others whose dream for such a museum in our nation's capital is now a reality.

One day in the museum was not nearly enough. But, we hastened on to Cincinnati, lodging near the Creation Museum and but 40 miles from the replica of Noah's nautical handiwork that gave the world a new start....

BIG SPRING NETTERS RUNNING THINGS

With football season going on we tend to overlook the other fall sports. Coach Connie Riddle and her Big Spring tennis team has been running through the district competition in team tennis play.

At the time of this copy, Big Spring was 3-0 in team play, beating Snyder 12-7, San Angelo Lake View 15-4 and Sweetwater 13-6. Big Spring has been dominant to say the least.

For instance, the Steers didn't lose a single match against Lake View. The Steers have several returners: the Lady Steers not so much, only three - Ananya Limaye, Lexie Rodriguez and Itzel Garcia-Marquez.

Riddle is liking what's she's seen so far. "All of the team has been consistent," Riddle said. "They have all been putting in the hard work to be where they are. They support each other tremendously, especially our captains Eric Landin and Ananya (Limaye)."

STEERS RUNNERS LIVING UP TO THEIR BILLING

The Big Spring Steers, ranked No.3 in the state in class 4A cross country, continues to shine.

Last week at the LCU Invite in Lubbock, the Steers finished second as a team behind Lubbock Monterey. Leading the way in the three-mile run was Adrian Solis with a third-place finish (15:43) and Isaac Gonzales who finished fifth (15:45). Diego Rios was eighth (16:26), Jordan Mitchell, 48th (17:31) and Augustin Salgado 54th (17:35).

In the girl's division Sando finished eighth as a team paced by sophomore Hayley Connell's 26th place finish in the two-mile run (13:21). The Lady Steers finished 10th as a team and were led by freshman Bergan Pinkley's eighth place finish (12:37).

WHAT'S GOING IN BROCK?

I don't know what they're doing in Brock, TX but they could bottle it and sell it. The town in Parker County (Weatherford area) has got one heck of an athletic program.

The Eagles are flying high! The Class 3A school has won several boys and girls basketball state titles but the most intriguing thing about Brock athletics is its football history.

Brock incorporated football into its athletic system in 2012 and in that year they played a JV schedule. From 2013 to now, the Eagles have won a football state championship in 2015 and they've compiled an incredible 109-10-1 record.

But guess what? The Eagles have lost their first three games of the season this year, 28-7 to Texarkana Mt. Pleasant, Wichita Falls Hirschi 37-30 in overtime, and Wimberly 32-23 last week.

All three of those schools are ranked in the top 15 in Texas in Class 4A. Is it the fall of a dynasty? I think not. Just call it playing a loaded non-district schedule.

Speaking of a loaded schedule. Stephenville is boldly defending its state class 4A Division I state title. The Yellowjackets have beaten two Class 5A state ranked teams Midlothian (49-42) and Everman (62-61).

The Yellowjackets had an easier time with Decatur, 52-34 in week three. Stephenville will have another tough test again this week as they get ready to take on Abilene Wylie on the road.

WILDCATS PASSING THE TEST

Westbrook coach Homer Matlock said he wasn't concerned about winning another six-man state championship. His goal was that his Wildcats got better every game. For the second straight week the Wildcats have beaten a top 10 ranked opponent.

Last week was No.7 Jonesboro. This week was No. 5 Rankin in a 59-58 barn burner. Westbrook does it with a two-headed sword in the running game. Headliner Cedric Ware ran for 251 yards and Grayson Jeffery compliments him with 81 yards himself.

Rankin went up 58-52 with 2:30 left in the game. The defending state champs responded by scoring with 40 seconds left on the clock, running in the one-point conversion.

The Wildcats defense responded by stopping Rankin the next four plays and that was it. "Like I said earlier I don't care about my personal records - wins and losses," said Matlock. "I just want us to get better. The rest will take care of itself. It was a good game, a fun game and both teams got better and stayed healthy."

UPSTART LORAIN BULLDOGS

There's a new kid on the block in Mitchell County and its the Loraine Bulldogs. After having several fruitless seasons the Bulldogs are barking loud right now.

Loraine recently beat a good Klondike team 60-40. The 3-0 Bulldogs are ranked No. 2 in the state in six-man Class 1A-Div. II. Klondike, which falls to 1-2, is ranked No.8 statewide in the same division.

The Cougars other loss was to highly ranked Jayton 48-40, so they are playing a tough schedule. Since Loraine and Westbrook (No. 1 in Division I) are only 20 miles apart it's a shame they don't play each other this season for county bragging rights.

Queue for Elizabeth II coffin reopened

LONDON (AP) — A surging tide of people — ranging from London retirees to former England soccer captain David Beckham — have lined up to file past Queen Elizabeth II's coffin as it lies in state at Parliament, so many that authorities on Friday had to call a temporary halt to more people joining the miles-long queue.

By late afternoon, a live tracker of the queue to get into historic Westminster Hall said it had reopened, but the British government warned that the waiting time to cover the 5 miles (8 kilometers) from the start of the line in Southwark Park to Parliament had climbed to more than 24 hours. The government also warned that "overnight temperatures will be cold."

King Charles III and his siblings will be standing vigil around the flag-draped coffin on Friday evening.

Beckham was spotted in the line of mourners near Britain's Houses of Parliament at lunchtime Friday. He's believed to have joined the queue at 2 a.m. and to have lined up for more than 10 hours with thousands of others.

Wearing a white shirt and black tie, he bowed briefly to the coffin before moving out of Westminster Hall.

"We have been lucky as a nation to have had someone who has led us the way her majesty has led us, for the amount of time, with kindness, with caring and always reassuring," Beckham said. "I think that's the one thing that we all felt safe and we will continue that with the royal family. But I think (her) majesty was someone special and will be missed, not just by everyone in our country but everyone around the world."

Helena Larsen, 76, arrived just too late at the park.

"We have literally got here and they have shut it in front of us," she said, adding that she would likely hang around the area until the gates were reopened.

London Mayor Sadiq Khan said viewing the queen's coffin lying in state was an unforgettable experience.

"You're in Westminster Hall in her presence, with a crown on top of her coffin, and it's incredibly emotional,"

he told The Associated Press.

Meanwhile, a delegation of Chinese officials reportedly was barred from visiting the historic hall in the Houses of Parliament where the late queen's coffin is lying, as geopolitics cast a shadow over the solemn pageantry surrounding the monarch's death.

The Chinese ambassador to the U.K. has been banned from Parliament for a year after Beijing sanctioned seven British legislators last year for speaking out against China's treatment of its Uyghur minority in the far-west Xinjiang region.

The office of House of Commons Speaker Lindsay Hoyle declined to comment Friday on a report by American news outlet Politico saying the Chinese delegation would not be allowed into Westminster Hall. Prime Minister Liz Truss's office also declined to comment.

In Beijing, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning said she had not seen the Politico report but that as host of the queen's funeral, the U.K. government should "follow the diplomatic protocols and proper manners to receive guests."

A Chinese delegation is expected to attend the queen's Monday funeral, which is in Westminster Abbey church and not Parliament. Organizers of the funeral have not published a guest list and it was unclear who from China might attend.

The sanctioned British legislators wrote to officials this week to express concerns about the Chinese government having been invited to send representatives to the queen's state funeral.

After a day out of the public eye on Thursday, King Charles III flew to Wales on Friday on the final leg of his tour of the nations that make up the United Kingdom.

Charles, who for decades before his accession to the throne was the Prince of Wales, visited Llandaff Cathedral in Cardiff for a service of prayer and reflection in honor of his late mother. After the service he and Camilla, the Queen Consort, greeted crowds of wellwishers, including flag-waving schoolchildren as people chanted "God save the king!"

A small group protested the visit, one of them holding up a banner saying: "King? No thanks."

The king later traveled to the Welsh parliament, the Senedd, to receive condolences from legislators and replied to them, telling members of the parliament that Wales "could not have been closer to my mother's heart."

Charles said he felt "immense gratitude for the privilege" of serving for decades as Prince of Wales, the title traditionally bestowed on the heir to the throne. Prince William now has that title.

Charles returns to London later Friday and will briefly stand vigil at his mother's coffin in the evening with his siblings, Princess Anne, Prince Andrew and Prince Edward.

Before the vigil, Edward said the royal family had been "overwhelmed by the tide of emotion that has engulfed us and the sheer number of people who have gone out of their way to express their own love, admiration and respect" for "our dear mama."

A day later, all eight of Queen Elizabeth II's grandchildren are expected to stand vigil beside her coffin for 15 minutes.

Charles' sons, Prince William and Prince Harry, will attend the vigil along with Princess Anne's children, Zara Tindall and Peter Philips; Prince Andrew's daughters, Princess Beatrice and Princess Eugenie, and the children of Prince Edward — Lady Louise Windsor and Viscount Severn.

William, who after his grandmother's death is now the heir to the throne, will stand at the head of the coffin and Harry at the foot. Both princes, who are military veterans, will be in uniform.

Most senior royals hold honorary military roles and have worn uniforms at events to commemorate the queen. Harry, who served in Afghanistan as a British army officer, wore civilian clothes during the procession of the queen's coffin from Buckingham Palace because he is no longer a working member of the royal family. He and his wife Meghan quit royal duties and moved to the United States in 2020.

The king requested that both William and Harry wear their uniforms at the Westminster Hall vigil.

London police said Friday that the queen's state funeral on Monday will be the largest single policing event the force has ever handled.

Metropolitan Police Deputy Assistant Commissioner Stuart Cundy said the massive police operation surpasses even that for the 2012 Summer Olympics in London as well as the celebrations earlier this year of the queen's 70 years on the throne.

"The range of officers, police staff and all those supporting the operation is truly immense," he said.

"You're in Westminster Hall in her presence, with a crown on top of her coffin, and it's incredibly emotional."

Bingo, Lite-Brite, Nerf among Toy Hall of Fame finalists

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Voting opened Wednesday on which toys should go into the National Toy Hall of Fame this year. The class of 2022 finalists are: bingo, Breyer Horses, Catan, Lite-Brite, Nerf Toys, Masters of the Universe, piñata, Phase 10, Pound Puppies, Rack-O, Spirograph, and the top.

"These 12 toys span the history of play. The top is as old as civilization itself and bingo has been played in some form for hundreds of years," said Christopher Bensch, vice president for collections at The Strong museum in Rochester, where the hall of fame is housed.

The public is invited to vote online through Sept. 21. The three toys that receive the most public votes will make up a single "Player's Choice" ballot. That ballot will be counted alongside those turned in by a national selection committee whose members include industry experts, academics and others.

The inductees will be announced Nov. 10.

"All 12 of these toys have what it takes to be contenders for the class of 2022," Bensch said.

Anyone can nominate a toy for the annual honor, but to be recognized by the hall of fame, toys have to have achieved icon status, longevity and foster learning or discovery. They also must have changed play or toy design.

The National Toy Hall of Fame opened at The Strong in 1998. So far, 77 toys have been inducted, from simple favorites like the paper airplane, bubbles and sidewalk chalk to the even more ubiquitous, including the stick and cardboard box.

Last year's honorees were American Girl Dolls, Risk, and sand.

Taste of the Season

Wholesome foods packed in glass canning jars are a treat to the eyes as well as to the taste buds.

By JUDY TERELETSKY

HSWCD District Clerk

September is one of the months known for county fairs across our great nation. I always enjoyed going to the fair to view the artworks created by local artists even being honored to juror those shows. Along side these entries were always the awesome quilts that I dreamed of curling up under on the couch with a good mystery. Another colorful treat to the eyes were the rows of canned foods displayed in those glass Mason jars. I am envious of those talented folks who can create those jars of wholesome goodness in the greens of cucumbers and okra to the yellows of squash and peaches to the reds of tomatoes and salsas. Yum!

For city dwellers it would be hard to imagine a world where you don't open a can of tuna for a quick lunch, a can of soup on a crisp winter day or for use in a recipe, a can of green peas for the side at dinner or the readymade spaghetti sauce for the family get-together. It is even harder to think of a world without a can opener.

The process of preserving foods whether in glass or tin was the answer to a challenge from Napoleon. The French emperor saw that his troops were suffering from poor nutrition and issued a Preservation Prize in 1795 for 12,000 francs to anyone who could improve the process of preserving foods. Fifteen years later, French Chef Nicolas Francois Appert offered a solution called canning. Also the inventor of bouillon cubes, he created a way of sealing food in glass jars. Appert believed that using heat to seal the jars would keep decay out and only until Louis Pasteur discovered the process of pasteurization in 1863 did the world come to understand the role of bacteria in food spoilage.

The glass jars used in Appert's method were cumbersome and had a tendency to explode so in 1811 food cans made of tin were patented in Britain. In 1813 Bryan Donkin served canned beef to King George III and Queen Charlotte. The first tin can arrived in America in 1825 when Kensett and Daggert sold their patented cans filled with oysters, fruits, meats and vegetables to New Yorkers. Not a commercial success, canned food was not very popular until Gail Borden brought the new world condensed milk in 1856. Real wide-spread demand for canned goods arrived with the Civil War. I guess an army really does travel on its stomach. One problem with the tin canned food was opening them for use. The first "can opener" was not invented until canning used glass jars.

In 1858, John L. Mason patented the glass Mason jar for canning. He had created a metal screw-top that year which replaced the old Appert's cork, wax and wire seal on the original glass canning container. In 1884 the Ball Corporation stated producing the glass jars for home canning that are still popular today especially in combination with Alexander Kerr's two-part lid (1915).

The greatest danger with canning food is the deadly bacterium that can develop in containers not properly done. In 1895, a team at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) determined that applying pressurized steam at 120 degrees would kill bacteria in 10 minutes and in 1917 the USDA determined that pressure canning is the only safe way to process low-acid foods. Of course, not everyone follows safety guidelines and in 1931 the dangers of home canning revealed itself when twelve people including some children died after consuming improperly home-canned food at a dinner party in North Dakota. The peak of home canning in the United States with more than four billion cans and jars processed occurred in 1943. Shortly afterwards in 1945, the increased of availability of home refrigerators created a decline in the popularity of canning food at home. Home canning has had its ups and downs in popularity since 1945 and unfortunately the outbreaks of Botulism still occur now and again. The largest recorded outbreak was 59 people becoming ill with Botulism after eating salsa prepared with home canned jalapenos at a Mexican restaurant in Michigan in 1977.

The first tin canning company in the United States was opened in 1812 by Robert Ayars and the process soon became a staple of American life.

Canned foods shown at county fairs are often family recipes passed down through generations of agriculture families. My parents were of the 40's generation and did canning, but the closest I have come is using the Mason jars as drinking glasses or for a water container as I paint with my watercolors. I foresee home canning staying around especially with some of the food shortages and inflation recently. If you're interested in taking up canning, I urge you to research the proper ways. There are plenty of books on the subject from the Ball's Blue Book of Canning to the USDA Complete Guide to Home Canning. The new generation will also find lots of YouTube videos to guide you through the process whether it is low-acid or acid-based foods. Remember safety first and enjoy those beautiful colors of the jars that have captured the tastes of a season.

Wall Street slips as FedEx warning adds to market woes

By DAMIAN J. TROISE

AP Business Writer

Stocks fell broadly in morning trading on Wall Street Friday, putting the market on track for another week of sizable losses.

The latest discouraging news for traders came from corporate giants FedEx and General Electric, which warned about worsening trends in the economy hurting business.

The S&P 500 fell 1.1% as of 10:12 a.m. Eastern. The benchmark index is down 5% for the week, with much of the loss coming from a rout on Tuesday following a surprisingly hot report on inflation.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 240 points, or 0.8%, to 30,721 and the Nasdaq fell 1.4%. Both indexes are also on track for steep weekly losses.

Technology stocks, retailers and industrial companies had some of the biggest losses.

Package delivery service FedEx fell 21.2% after warning investors that profits for its fiscal first-quarter will likely fall short of forecasts because of a dropoff in business. It is also shuttering storefronts and corporate offices and expects business conditions to further weaken.

Industrial giant General Electric fell 3.8% after its chief financial officer said it was still bogged down by supply chain problems that were raising costs.

Utilities and makers of household goods, which are typically considered less risky investments, held up better than the rest of the market.

The worrisome corporate updates hit a market already on edge because of stubbornly high inflation as well as the higher interest rates being used to fight it, which will slow the economy.

The Federal Reserve is aggressively raising interest rates in an effort to cool the hottest inflation in four decades, but that has raised worries that it could hit the brakes too hard and slide the economy into a recession. The central bank has already raised interest rates four times this year and economists expect another jumbo increase of three-quarters of a point when the Fed's leaders meet next week.

The rate hikes have seemingly done little to cool inflation. Reports this week from the government showed that prices for just about everything but gas are still rising, the job market is still red-hot and consumers continue to spend, all of which give ammunition to Fed officials who say the economy can tolerate more rate hikes.

Bond yields rose. The yield on the two-year Treasury, which tends to track actions by the Fed, rose to 3.90% from 3.86% late Wednesday. The yield on the 10-year Treasury, which helps dictate where mortgages and rates for other loans are heading, rose to 3.46% from 3.45% late Wednesday.

Treasury recommends exploring creation of a digital dollar

By FATIMA HUSSEIN

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Biden administration is moving one step closer to developing a central bank digital currency, known as the digital dollar, saying it would help reinforce the U.S. role as a leader in the world financial system.

The White House said on Friday that after President Joe Biden issued an executive order in March calling on a variety of agencies to look at ways to regulate digital assets, the agencies came up with nine reports, covering cryptocurrency impacts on financial markets, the environment, innovation and other elements of the economic system.

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen said one Treasury recommendation is that the U.S. "advance policy and technical work on a potential central bank digital currency, or CBDC, so that the United States is prepared if CBDC is determined to be in the national interest."

"Right now, some aspects of our current payment system are too slow or too expensive," Yellen said on a Thursday call with reporters laying out some of the findings of the reports.

Central bank digital currencies differ from existing digital money available to the general public, such as the balance in a bank account, because they would be a direct liability of the Federal Reserve, not a commercial bank.

According to the Atlantic Council nonpartisan think tank, 105 countries representing more than 95% of global gross domestic product already are exploring or have created a central bank digital currency. The council found that the U.S. and the U.K. are far behind in creating a digital dollar or its equivalent.

Treasury, the Justice Department, the Consumer Finance Protection Bureau, the Securities and Exchange Commission and other agencies were tasked with contributing to reports that would address various concerns about the risks, development and usage of digital assets. Several reports will come out in the next weeks and months.

On Capitol Hill, lawmakers have submitted various pieces of legislation to regulate cryptocurrency and other digital assets.

The director of the National Economic Council, Brian Deese, told reporters that "we've seen in recent months substantial turmoil in cryptocurrency markets and these events really highlight how, without proper oversight, cryptocurrencies risk harming everyday Americans' financial stability and our national security."

"It is why this administration believes that now more than ever," he said, "prudent regulation of cryptocurrencies is needed."

Hacker claims to breach Uber, security researcher says

By FRANK BAJAK

AP Technology Writer

Uber said Thursday that it reached out to law enforcement after a hacker apparently breached its network. A security engineer said the intruder provided evidence of obtaining access to crucial systems at the ride-hailing service.

There was no indication that Uber's fleet of vehicles or its operation was in any way affected.

"It seems like they've compromised a lot of stuff," said Sam Curry, an engineer with Yuga Labs who has communicated with the hacker. That includes complete access to the Amazon and Google-hosted cloud environments where Uber stores its source code and customer data, he said.

Curry said he spoke to several Uber employees who said they were "working to lock down everything internally" to restrict the hacker's access. That included the San Francisco company's Slack internal messaging network, he said.

He said there was no indication that the hacker had done any damage or was interested in anything more than publicity. "My gut feeling is that it seems like they are out to get as much attention as possible."

The hacker had alerted Curry and other security researchers to the intrusion on Thursday evening by using an internal Uber account to comment on vulnerabilities they had previously identified on the company's network through its bug-bounty program, which pays ethical hackers to ferret out network weaknesses.

The hacker provided a Telegram account address and Curry and other researchers then engaged them in a separate conversation, sharing screenshots of various pages from Uber's cloud providers to prove they broke in.

The Associated Press attempted to contact the hacker at the Telegram account where Curry and the other researchers chatted with them. But no one responded.

The New York Times reported that the person who claimed responsibility for the hack said they gained access through social engineering: They sent a text message to an Uber worker claiming to be a company tech employee and persuaded the worker to hand over a password that gave them access to the network.

The Times said the hacker reported being 18 years old and saying they broke in because the company had weak security.

One screenshot posted on Twitter and confirmed by researchers shows a chat with the hacker in which they say they obtained the credentials of an administrative user through social engineering.

Social engineering is a popular hacking strategy, as humans tend to be the weakest link in any network. Teenagers used a similar ploy in 2020 to hack Twitter.

Uber said via email that it was "currently responding to a cybersecurity incident. We are in touch with law enforcement." It said it would provide updates on its Uber Comms twitter feed.

The company has been hacked before.

Its former chief security officer, Joseph Sullivan, is currently on trial on allegations he arranged to pay hackers $100,000 to cover up a 2016 high-tech heist in which the personal information of about 57 million customers and drivers was stolen.

Asian stocks follow Wall St lower amid inflation pressure

By JOE McDONALD

AP Business Writer

BEIJING (AP) — Asian stock markets followed Wall Street lower on Friday after higher-than-expected U.S. inflation dashed hopes the Federal Reserve might ease off more interest rate hikes.

Shanghai, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Sydney declined. Oil edged higher.

Wall Street's benchmark S&P 500 index lost 1.1% on Thursday, adding to declines since this week's release of government data showing inflation stayed near a four-decade high in August despite four interest rate hikes this year to slow the economy.

On Thursday, U.S. government data showed unemployment claims last week declined while August consumer sales rose. That gives ammunition to Federal Reserve officials who say the economy can tolerate more rate hikes.

Wall Street's decline indicates "no sign of relief for risk sentiments" while the job market data "provided the go-ahead for further tightening" in monetary policy, Yeap Jun Rong of IG said in a report.

The Shanghai Composite index lost 0.7% to 3,178.31 and the Nikkei 225 in Tokyo sank 1.1% to 27,568.68. The Hang Seng in Hong Kong retreated 0.8% to 18,800.78.

The Kospi in Seoul shed 0.6% to 2,386.81 and Sydney's S&P-ASX 200 was 1.2% lower at 6,762.00. Singapore gained less than 0.1% while New Zealand and other Southeast Asian markets declined.

On Wall Street, the S&P 500 declined to 3,901.35 after the Labor Department said the number of applications for unemployment benefits last week fell to a four-month low.

The market benchmark is down 4.1% for the week following the biggest pullback in two years on Tuesday after the government reported U.S. consumer prices rose 8.3% from a year earlier and 0.1% compared with July.

The overall figure was down from June's 9.1% peak, but core inflation, which strips out volatile food and energy prices, rose to 0.6% over the previous month, up from July's 0.3% increase.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1♠ Pass 2♦ 2♥
 2♠ Pass 4♠

Opening lead—queen of hearts.
 Assume you're declarer at four spades and West leads the queen and another heart. East wins the second heart with the king and continues with the ace. This presents you with a thorny problem of sorts, since it is virtually certain from the bidding and play that West started with a doubleton heart.

If you ruff the third heart with the ten, you say to yourself, and West is able to overruff with the jack, you are sure to go down. If you decide to ruff with the king instead, you run the risk that West might have started with three trumps to the jack, in which case you will also go down.

But if your thoughts have been running in only these two channels — which card to ruff with — you are not giving yourself a fair shake. The fact is that you should not ruff at all! Instead, you should discard your eight of diamonds.

This discard changes the complexion of the situation completely. In the actual case, you have no trouble taking the rest of the tricks, whatever East plays next.

It is true that East could have defeated the contract had he been smart enough to cash the ace of diamonds before he played the ace of hearts. In that case, you would have to go down one as the cards lie regardless of which card you elected to ruff with.

The moral that emerges is clear. If you are given a chance to make a contract that could have been defeated by better defensive play, you should try to take full advantage of your opportunity. You're not expected to reciprocate in kind.

Texas Commission on Environmental Quality

NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN AIR PERMIT (NORI) RENEWAL

PERMIT NUMBER 53425

APPLICATION. Alon USA, LP, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for renewal of Air Quality Permit Number 53425, which would authorize continued operation of a Petroleum Refinery located at 200 Refinery Road, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas 79720. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to application. <http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=32.269444&lng=-101.421388&zoom=13&type=⊞r>. The existing facility is authorized to emit the following air contaminants: carbon monoxide, hydrogen sulfide, nitrogen oxides, organic compounds, particulate matter including particulate matter with diameters of 10 microns or less and 2.5 microns or less and sulfur dioxide.

This application was submitted to the TCEQ on August 24, 2022. The application will be available for viewing and copying at the TCEQ central office, TCEQ Midland regional office, and the Howard County Library, 500 South Main Street, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas beginning the first day of publication of this notice. The facility's compliance file, if any exists, is available for public review in the Midland regional office of the TCEQ.

The executive director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application. In addition to the renewal, this permitting action includes the incorporation of permits by rule related to this permit. The reasons for any changes or incorporations, to the extent they are included in the renewed permit, may include the enhancement of operational control at the plant or enforceability of the permit. The TCEQ may act on this application without seeking further public comment or providing an opportunity for a contested case hearing if certain criteria are met.

PUBLIC COMMENT. You may submit public comments to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below. The TCEQ will consider all public comments in developing a final decision on the application and the executive director will prepare a response those comments. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the TCEQ's jurisdiction to address in the permit process.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. You may request a contested case hearing if you are a person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the facility. If requesting a contested case hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number; (2) applicant's name and permit number; (3) the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing;" (4) a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the application and air emissions from the facility in a way not common to the general public; (5) the location and distance of your property relative to the facility; (6) a description of how you use the property which may be impacted by the facility; and (7) a list of all disputed issues of fact that you submit during the comment period. If the request is made by a group or association, one or more members who have standing to request a hearing must be identified by name and physical address. The interests the group or association seeks to protect must also be identified. You may also submit your proposed adjustments to the application/permit which would satisfy your concerns.

The deadline to submit a request for a contested case hearing is 15 days after newspaper notice is published. If a request is timely filed, the deadline for requesting a contested case hearing will be extended to 30 days after mailing of the response to comments.

If any requests for a contested case hearing are timely filed, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for a contested case hearing to the Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. Unless the application is directly referred to a contested case hearing, the executive director will mail the response to comments along with notification of Commission meeting to everyone who submitted comments or is on the mailing list for this application. Today in History: September 18, Ruth Bader Ginsburg died

Today is Sunday, Sept. 18, the 261st day of 2022. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Sept. 18, 2020, Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a towering women's rights champion who became the court's second female justice, died at her home in Washington at the age of 87 of complications from pancreatic cancer; her death set off a battle over whether President Donald Trump should nominate a successor, or the seat should remain vacant until the outcome of the election six weeks away. (Trump would nominate Amy Coney Barrett, who was confirmed by the Republican-led Senate days before the election.)

On this date:

In A.D. 14, the Roman Senate officially confirmed Tiberius as the second emperor of the Roman Empire, succeeding the late Augustus.

In 1793, President George Washington laid the cornerstone of the U.S. Capitol.

In 1850, Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, which created a force of federal commissioners charged with returning escaped slaves to their owners.

In 1851, the first edition of The New York Times was published.

In 1947, the National Security Act, which created a National Military Establishment and the position of Secretary of Defense, went into effect.

In 1961, United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld (dah HAWM'-ahr-shoold) was killed in a plane crash in northern Rhodesia.

In 1970, rock star Jimi Hendrix died in London at age 27.

In 1975, newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was captured by the FBI in San Francisco, 19 months after being kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

In 1987, the psychological thriller "Fatal Attraction," starring Michael Douglas and Glenn Close, was released by Paramount Pictures.

In 2001, a week after the Sept. 11 attack, President George W. Bush said he hoped to "rally the world" in the battle against terrorism and predicted that all "people who love freedom" would join. Letters postmarked Trenton, N.J., that later tested positive for anthrax were sent to the New York Post and NBC anchorman Tom Brokaw.

In 2005, "Everybody Loves Raymond" won the Emmy for best comedy in its final season; first-year hit "Lost" was named best drama.

In 2014, voters in Scotland rejected independence, opting to remain part of the United Kingdom in a historic referendum. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club at St. Andrews, Scotland, ended years of male-only exclusivity as its members voted overwhelmingly in favor of inviting women to join.

Ten years ago: Chicago teachers voted to suspend their strike and return to the classroom after more than a week on picket lines, ending a combative stalemate with Mayor Rahm Emanuel over evaluations and job security.

Five years ago: Hurricane Maria intensified into a dangerous Category 5 storm, surging into the eastern Caribbean on a path that would take it near many of the islands recently devastated by Hurricane Irma. Toys R Us, the pioneering big box toy retailer, announced that it was filing for bankruptcy protection, but that it would continue its normal business operations. (The company announced in March of 2018 that it would be liquidating its U.S. business.)

One year ago: Police were deployed in large numbers outside the U.S. Capitol over concerns that a rally in support of jailed Jan. 6 rioters would turn violent; the crowd for the rally was sparse, and there were few incidents. Four space tourists safely ended their trailblazing three-day flight to orbit with a splashdown in the Atlantic, off the Florida coast; the all-amateur crew, a billionaire and his three guests - aboard the SpaceX capsule was the first to circle the world without a professional astronaut.

Sweeten dinner with fresh fruit The tastes of summer are often amplified by fresh, regional produce. Peaches are a classic warm-weather fruit that provide just the right amount of sweetness to a variety of dishes. While it's easy to pigeonhole peaches into breakfasts and desserts, they're equally at home in more savory dishes. Fruit often pairs well with mild-flavored meats like poultry and pork. For a refreshing dinner that's easy to prepare and cooks up in just about 30 minutes, try "Roasted Pork Chops and Peaches" from "Real Simple: Dinner Tonight Done!" (Time Home Entertainment) from the editors of Real Simple. Roasted Pork Chops and Peaches Serves 4 1 10-ounce package couscous (1 1/2 cups) 1 tablespoon olive oil 4 bone-in pork chops (3/4 inch thick; about 2 pounds total) Kosher salt and black pepper 2 peaches, cut into wedges 1 small red onion, cut into thin wedges 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar 1/2 cup fresh basil leaves Heat the oven to 400 F. Cook the couscous according to the package directions. Meanwhile, heat the oil in a large ovenproof skillet over medium-high heat. Season the pork with 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper and cook until browned, 3 to 5 minutes per side. Transfer to a plate. Add the peaches, onion, vinegar, and 1/4 teaspoon each salt and pepper to the skillet, and cook, tossing, for 1 minute. Return the pork and any accumulated juices to the skillet. Transfer the skillet to the oven and roast until the pork is cooked through and the peaches are tender, 8 to 10 minutes. Serve with the couscous and sprinkle with the basil.
