 T.I.M.E. is important; paying attention to the changes in your body temperature, recognizing infection, mental decline and extreme illness. Sepsis Awareness Week was Sept. 9-13 and Scenic Mountain Medical Center, along with Kindred at Home, hosted a Sepsis Symposium.
 "When it comes to sepsis, it's about early detection so we can provide early treatment," Laurie Burks, RN, Scenic Mountain Medical Center Quality Analyst, said. "When dealing with sepsis, every minute counts and can be the difference between life and death."
 The sepsis campaign has been going strong for the last year and a half inside SMMC. The initiative was first kicked off with Dr. Brian Nelson - an emergency room physician - and Burks. The two had a passion to educate patients and their families on early warning signs of sepsis.
 "There are 1.7 million people in the United States alone dealing with sepsis every year, which equates to one person every 20 seconds diagnosed with sepsis," Burks said. "We are hoping through the symposium we will be able to help educate the community on what to look for and reduce those numbers."
 The symposium was held Sept. 13 from 10 a.m. to Noon at the Dora Roberts Community Center. Several health care agencies were on hand to provide information, as well as several physicians.
 Burks said the symposium featured "...patient testimony, along with a few of our doctors speaking on specific areas of sepsis and how it can affect anyone. Sepsis does not discriminate by race, by gender, or by age."
 A few of the physicians on hand were Dr. Brian Nelson speaking on detecting sepsis round and year after year," Natalie Permenter, Big Spring Symphony publicist, said. "This was an opportunity for us to show our appreciation and offered them a chance to purchase season subscriptions and beat the rush at the box office."

Before the main program began, the 2019-20 Phyllis Graumann Scholarship winners were recognized and offered a short performance. David Summers performed his piece on the piano, and Raymond Smalling and Christian Garrett – both vocalists at Big Spring High School – performed a duet.

"The Angelo State String Quartet provided entertainment during the meal and a short performance at the end as well. We were able to hear a recap of last season and a preview of what to expect this season, from Dr. Graumann," Permenter said.

In addition to recognizing the scholarship winners, the Big Spring Symphony Guild presented a $10,000 check to the Big Spring Symphony Orchestra, which came from the numerous fundraisers throughout the year.

"This is going to be a great season. Fei Fei Dong is returning and is going to give an amazing performance. The last time she was here was in 2014," she said.

For those who are still wanting to purchase season tickets to the Big Spring Symphony, there will be one more chance tomorrow evening before the concert. Tickets for the symphony performances are $20 per show for adults or $15 for seniors (55 and older), and all students – college, high school and elementary – get in to the concerts free.

To reserve tickets, call the Symphony phone at 432-816-5196, and tickets will be held at the Will Call table for the night of the performance.

Heritage Month in the United States.

Hispanic Heritage began as a week-long celebration in 1968. It was established by legislation sponsored by Rep. Edward R. Roybal of Los Angeles and signed into law by President Lydon B. Johnson. New legislation was sponsored in 1988 to expand it into a month-long celebration from Sept. 15 through Oct. 15. This 30-day period is used to recognize the contributions made by Latinos to the United States.

I recently attended the Kindred Coffee Hour, which is held in the Yellow Rose Cafe at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, and the guest speaker was Raul Marquez. Marquez is Big Spring's District 1 City Council Member. He also hosts a radio show on KBYG, volunteers with Food2Kids, and is a member of the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club, among many other civic duties. Marquez was the first Latino to be awarded Man of the Year by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. During his speech, Marquez made us aware of some of the great contributions made by Latinos here in Big Spring. Amongst them are:

Debbie ValVerde is the first Latina to service as Executive Director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce;

Christian Fair is the first Latina to head up the

local United Way;

Amanda Duforat is the first Latina to be editor of the Big Spring Herald;

Rick Nunez is the first Latino to be publisher of the Big Spring Herald;

Viola Barraza was the first Latina, and Billy Pineda the first Latino on the school board;

Emma Krabill is the first Latina to be CEO of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

There are many other "first Latinos" throughout the history of Big Spring. They paved the way to make life easier for future generations. We thank them all for their contributions, dedication, and hard work.

and the importance of detecting it early; Dr. Joseph Chavez who spoke about pediatric sepsis and the impact it can have; Dr. Ladd Hoffman, speaking about watching for infection post-op. In addition to the physicians, the Wound Healing Center Director Tiffany Crawford provided information on the importance of treating wounds and ensuring they heal correctly and quickly.

"We had a wide range of information available at the symposium," Burks said. "The symposium was valuable for caregivers, planning for the future or for those just wanting to know more about what to look for when it comes to sepsis."

Saving the Horny Toad Bar

There are more things happening in Cranfills Gap, Texas than in most major cities. It was settled by Norwegians and four families from Norway maintain homes in Cranfills Gap. “They come here about 4 times a year,” says Gap resident Sandi Carlson. “They travel all over Texas and know more about the state than most Texans. They keep up with our music and everything that’s going on in the state.”

Sandi and her husband Carl own the Horny Toad, perhaps the most photographed bar in the state. “We were at a Ducks Unlimited meeting and we talked about saving some kind of critter,” says Carl.

“We were all drinking and somebody mentioned saving the horny toad. We decided it would be too much trouble, so instead of starting a program to preserve the Texas lizard we decided to just preserve the Horny Toad Bar.”

It’s the town’s community center. Farmers drive their tractors up to the Toad and go in for lunch. Some years ago a man from Las Vegas was in the bar and said he was looking for the ideal small town. “We thought it was some sort of scam,” says Carl, “but it was legit. The Convention and Visitors Bureau of Las Vegas had a nationwide search going on to find the best little town in America. As the search went on, we were one of the top 10 finalists, and then there were 2, then we won. A busload of Gap residents flew to Vegas and spent a week, all expenses paid.”

Every December Cranfills Gap has a lutefisk dinner that’s been going on for more than 30 years. Carl has done the cooking.

“That fish gets a lot of bad press and people make fun of it, but it’s a staple for poor people in Norway. It looks like a shingle of beef jerky but it cooks out nice. Sandi and I really like it. Apparently others do, too.”

Cranfills Gap has a Bacon Bash

every October. It started in 2012 and attracts more than 2,000 people. “We limit it to 2,500 tickets,” says Carl. “We figure that’s about all our downtown can hold. Tickets are fifty dollars each and the proceeds go to sending kids to a diabetic camp and providing blankets and other winter gear to homeless people.”

Some 40 cooking teams enter the contest. Organizers provide everything but the bacon, which is furnished by a grocery store in Hamilton. Cooks create items ranging from steaks to ice cream. Sandi loves bacon ice cream. “I’m usually not an ice cream eater, but that’s something really good. They caramelize the bacon.”

Prize money is $10,000 and sometimes the winners just donate the money back. Carl said they have a trailer load of blankets, coats, hoodies, gloves, caps, and backpacks and take it to Austin, Waco, Dallas and Abilene passing out the winter items. It’s all free. Since the Bacon Bash started it has raised nearly half a million dollars.

Last year it raised $100,000. This year the event is scheduled for Saturday, October 19th. A team from Norway has entered.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader Update

Dear Editor:

I know I should have written this letter much earlier and I apologize to all of my wonderful customers which I have left in the lurch as far as my well-being. I did go through surgery back in December of 2017 as I had previously told you that I would at MD Anderson in Houston. I was in surgery for 13 and a half hours with 3 doctors working on me trying to remove my colon cancer and a hernia that I had. I came out of surgery and everything seemed fine however in less than 6 hours my colon ruptured and I had to go back in for emergency surgery for another 10 and a half hours.

This time I did not wake up. I had to be intubated and for the next three days my wife said I did not move no matter how much she, my children and the doctors talked to me. She tells me she told me that I had told her and everyone else that would listen that I was a fighter and that I would not let this beat me. Then she picked up my phone and had it start playing music that I like and she said that within five minutes I opened my eyes. I told her she should have done that three days ago. I was not me when I woke up however. I did not want to get out of the bed. I wanted nothing to do with physical therapy. To the point they had transferred me to a long term care facility. Finally after about a week I decided I would not spend my life like that. I dedicated myself to therapy, I rode a bike 3 miles at a time, did the hand bike two miles twice a day and walked everywhere they would take me until I gained my strength back as well as my balance which is still not as good today as I would like it.

I came home and took chemo therapy for the next 3 months. I have gone back and forth to MD Anderson seven different times since. I have completed that each time being told I am cancer free. I have been cancer free for 20 months now and I am proud to say that I am a cancer survivor. My daughter had me a hat made that says I fought cancer and I won. I realize no one fights cancer and wins I can’t bring myself to tell her that. You are always looking over your shoulder and praying that your next test tells you that you are still okay. I have been back at work since March of last year and have gotten to see several of you through here or Little League baseball or soccer. I am doing well.

I would like to leave you with three things. God is great. Prayer works thanks to all the people that prayed for me and still pray for me today. When your doctor tells you to get your prostate checked at 40 and your colon checked at 50 there is a reason. No one likes to be invaded like that but it can save your life get checked early and often. I waited until I was 57 and was told that if I would have gotten it done at 50 I might not have gotten cancer. Please get checked. Live every day like it is your last be

Fit and fitting in

As might be expected, my Uncle Mort thought he had heard every birthday-related joke in the book. At his 107th party a few weeks ago, he got a real birthday surprise.

They rolled out three large gifts. When he tore away the wrapping on the first one, there was a birthday cake adorned by 36 candles. He laughed, ready to joke that maybe this was the 71st anniversary of his 36th birthday.

He stopped short, however, eyeing the frosted lettering under the candles. It read, “Continued on next cake.”

Sure enough, unwrapping of the second package revealed yet another cake. It had the same number of candles, with instructions to open the third package.

The cake therein had 35 candles, with the terse affirmation: “Concluded on this cake.”

Mort figured that Aunt Maude was privy to the surprise, and may have footed the bill for the three cakes.

Mort has ramped up his commitment to exercise. Until now, he claimed to get most exercise serving as a pallbearer for his friends who exercise.

Oh, he’s gained a couple of pounds, but whispers at the party about his “pudginess” stung.

His soaking-wet weight is probably no more than 125 pounds, and—upon first glance at his wiry frame—one might think about all he could do effectively would be serving as a trellis for varicose veins.

He has taken up yoga, and laughs about the great work-out he experienced upon his initial gym arrival.

“I pushed, pulled, squirmed, yanked, reached, squeezed, tucked and stretched,” he moaned. “It was a sweaty 30 minutes, and by the time I got my leotards on, the class was over.”

Mort always looks for the bright side, and found one even during a brief connection with yoga. He’s dead sure that he’s allergic to the elastic in his leotards.

“I sneezed 15 consecutive times in a three-minute period, and sweat poured,” he said. “Then, it dawned on me that such serious sneezing as this burns calories.”

He’s considering promotion for a health package, allowing that “sneeze barrages count as “upper body exercise,” with a secondary benefit linked to breathing techniques.

He’s trying to figure out how to market the new exercise plan, but admitted that anyone can do it by just taking a few sniffs of their own elastic strips, followed by concentration on sneezing. “Yoga enthusiasts should be able to sneeze at will, and maybe a far-out effort such as this might get folks’ minds off vaping,” he maintains...

Aunt Maude, Mort’s wife of 87 years, abides as always, “going with the flow.” She’s far from sure that Mort’s whiffs of elastic are “sneeze-induced,” but thinks this “what if” is harmless, and might keep him from “trailing off” into something worse.

“I think it could just as easily be food color, since his multiple sneezes have occurred after ingesting birthday cake. Who can say?” Maude added.

She believes his “sneeze attack” might be more credible if charged to food color. Maude chooses, though, to “let it be,” like the wisdom of permitting dogs in their slumber to continue sawing logs.

She does her part in reining him in—a chore she’s readily accepted since saying, “I do.” Truth to tell, someone has to, and who better than his bride?

She heard him regaling players at the domino table. Mort was trying to convince them that in his youth, he “might near made it” in TV and movie careers. Maude provided the “deflation needle,” with clarification. “Wait a minute, Mort.” They made it clear that you have a face for radio and a voice for silent movies.”

When guests started to leave, many of them “cracked wise.” One of ‘em said he hopes Mort has as many more birthdays as he wants. Mort had planned to make closing remarks, but a sneezing fit intervened. He counted it as exercise.

9-pound, 11-ounce Tennessee baby is born on 9/11 at 9:11

GERMANTOWN, Tenn. (AP) — A Mississippi couple welcomed a 9-pound, 11-ounce baby into the world on 9/11, at 9:11 p.m. The Commercial Appeal reports Christina Malone-Brown was born by cesarean section at a hospital in Germantown, Tennessee. Christina's father, Justin Brown, says bystanders joked his family should play the lottery. He says the doctor kept saying "Oh my goodness, I've got a 9/11, 9/11, 9/11." A photo of the baby shows her asleep in a hospital bed for infants, wires connected to her torso and a blue elastic band wrapped around her head. Her mother, Camertrione Malone-Brown, says her baby girl brought a spot of light to a day darkened by memories of the 2001 terror attacks.

Bulldogs celebrate Homecoming with a win

STEVE BELVIN

Herald Contributing Writer

COAHOMA - It was about as perfect of a half as you could get. That's all the Coahoma Bulldogs needed on this homecoming night as they steamrolled the Wink Wildcats 55-22 before a packed Coahoma crowd.

Coach Chris Joslin's Bulldogs did whatever they wanted whenever they wanted against Wink in the first half building a 48-7 halftime lead. In the second half Joslin showed mercy, playing his second units.

How good were the Bulldogs in the opening 24 minutes? They scored touchdowns on all six of their possessions. To throw in good measure, defensive back Sean Striegler returned an interception 75 yards for another Coahoma touchdown. Striegler, a junior, had a huge game, catching scoring passes of 24 and 52 yards from quarterback Zach Schneider.

Schneider had a big first half, as well, as he connected with Braxton Chandler on a 48-yard scoring pass. He also scored the game's opening touchdown on a nine-yard run. Throw in a 42-yard run by Gaige Hill and a five-yard plunge by Isaac Murillo, and it was time for the reserves to get mop up duty.

Schneider was very effective, completing eight of 10 passes for 191 yards in the first half. He also gained 46 yards on the ground. Joslin said that Schneider, who was primarily a running quarterback last year, has turned the corner. "He's (Schneider) made a great improvement from last year," said Joslin. "This summer we really worked on his throwing mechanics and his footwork. It's showing now."

The Coahoma defense did give up a few big plays in the air. But when the time came, the defense led by linebacker Kolt Redden, defensive end Keegan Dobbs and Schneider at linebacker shut Wink down. A pivotal play came early in the first quarter with Coahoma leading 7-0 and Wink facing a fourth-and-one from its own 38-yardline. Wink running back Zach Rosas was stopped for no gain by Schneider and Gaige Hill.

Coahoma's only score in the second half came on a 70-yard kickoff return by Isaiah Martin in the fourth quarter. Brant Gartman also picked off a pass for the Bulldogs in the second half.

Joslin is liking the versatility of his offense. "We've been preaching all year about spreading the

Steers bring home a win against Monahans

ERICA MORSE

Herald Contributing Writer

The Big Spring Steers pulled off their first win of the 2019 season over the Loboes of Monahans, thanks to determination and a strong second half.

Monahans led the first half, while the Steers worked to find their footing. Two interceptions early on kept the ball in the Loboes hands, and multiple penalties against the Steers kept Big Spring down, but not for long.

The Loboes had the lead 13-7 at the end of the first half, but the Steers charged their way into the third quarter, both on offensive and defense. Big Spring dominated the third quarter with a strong running game, and they went in for a touchdown, bringing the score to 14-13 going into the fourth. In the final quarter, the Steers got down to the 16-yard line and chose to go for the win, taking the score to 21-13. When Monahans got the ball back, Big Spring shut them down. With 1:30 on the clock, #27 Dequorian Gordon intercepted the ball, stopping the Loboes, and leading the Steers to their win, 21-13.

Despite multiple turnovers and penalties for the Steers, they pulled out the win, as Steer nation celebrated their determination and grit.

The Steers get ready to host the Eagles of Pecos at home next week in a non-conference game, hoping to continue the momentum. Game time is 7:30pm.

Forsan earns first win of the season

Herald Contributing Writer

It was the battle of the Buffaloes last night, as Forsan traveled to Stanton, but it was the Buffaloes of Howard County who won the matchup, squeezing out a 22-19 win.

Stanton dominated the first quarter, putting 13 points up on the board, with no response from Forsan. In the second, Forsan came alive, thanks to offensive player Nate Hernandez, who had a strong showing for the third week in a row.

Forsan saw their first touchdown in the second quarter. Stanton couldn't stop them, and Forsan put another TD up on the board. Stanton took a few hits with penalties, giving the Forsan Buffaloes the opportunity to tie the game going into the half at 13-13.

The third quarter opened with Stanton receiving the ball, and they put together some good running plays to get down to the 19-yard line and passed it in for a touchdown. Stanton missed the extra point, bringing the score to 19-13, with Forsan in the lead. The Forsan Buffaloes responded with a safety, ending the third at 19-15 with Stanton leading.

In the fourth, Forsan went in for the win, when they got the ball to the 48-yard line, then delivered a long pass for the touchdown, taking the score to 22-19. Stanton got the ball back and fumbled, and Forsan recovered. The Forsan Buffaloes took home the 22-19 win and a 2-1 record. Forsan now turns their attention to the Wolves of Colorado City, where they will travel next week, looking for another win on the road.

We will Never forget! Sept. 11, 2001 - forever changed

September 11, 2001 is a day that changed our nation forever. It is only one of many dates in history that we will never forget where we were when ... Local residents shared with us, where they were when they first heard the news. See memories continued on Page 12B.

The Big Spring Herald wants to say Thank You to all who shared with us and a special Thank You to all of our military personnel and families who have given the ultimate sacrifice for our great nation.

Pictured below is a close up of part of the display used annually for the 9/11 Memorial Service. The service is meant to pay honor for the local veterans who lost their lives in battle and remember the tragedy of 9/11.

"At my office, four miles from the Pentagon on the phone with my dearest and reading my emails. Second plane hit the tower, and dearest told me to 'come home now'. I just had gotten out of the garage at the office to start driving home; saw the plane heading for, and then heard it hit, the Pentagon. All I wanted to do was get home. Stuck in traffic trying to get out of the immediate area. Ten miles took three hours with people starting to panic; but I got home safely and received the biggest, most needed hug of my life. Phone lines jammed and fighter planes flying. Don't know how long it took to contact my family to let them know I was okay. It was surreal. So thankful that the meeting I was supposed to attend at the Pentagon that morning had been canceled. Still saddens me when I think of those that I know who were killed or injured. Don't go to sleep angry at anyone. You don't know what will happen on any given day."

Beth Carman

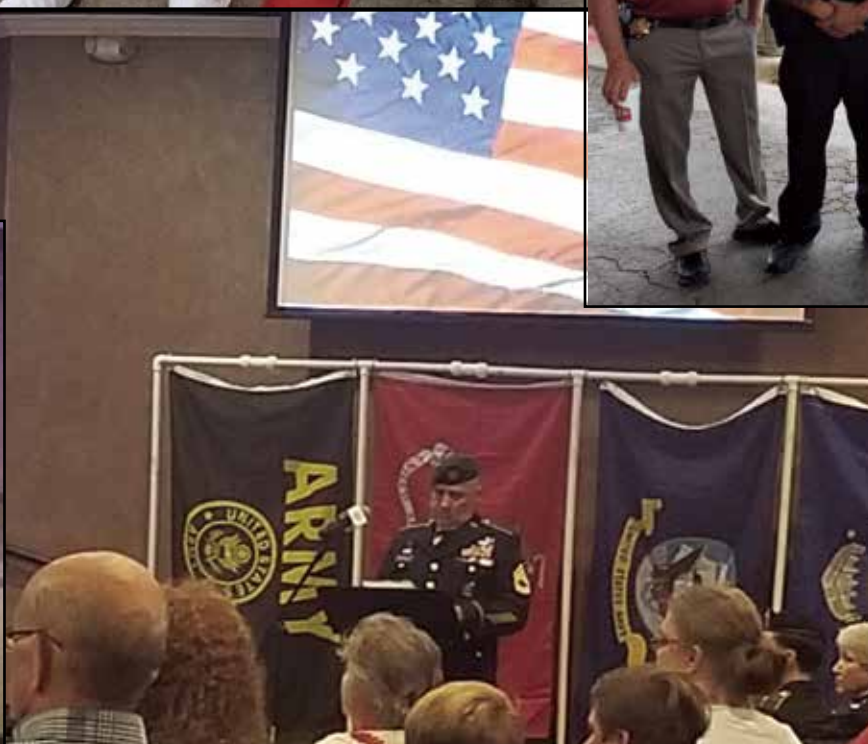

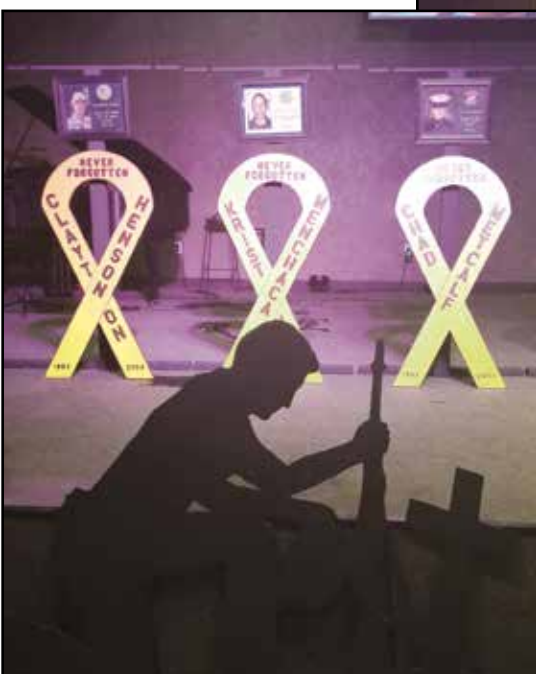

"I was driving towards Denton, Texas when I received a call to move off the road because we were under attack. I just kept going, but in Denton. I was surprised what was being shown on TV!"

Carlos Leal

"I was working at Whataburger. It was a scary and confusing day. Lots of prayers to the families!!!"

Terry Murphy

Overcomer

This may be an unpopular opinion in this neck of the woods, but I don't particularly enjoy when a movie preaches to me. Not entirely sure why I feel this way. I'm a Christian myself, and I enjoy a good sermon in church. Perhaps it's that liturgical or evangelical language is used in these movies in stilted or unrealistic ways. That's my biggest gripe with the new Kendrick Brothers film "Overcomer," released Aug. 23 and available at Cinemark Cinema 4 this week.

"Overcomer" begins with the Brookshire Christian School's basketball team narrowly losing a game. Coach John Harrison (Alex Kendrick) comforts his son Ethan (Jack Sterner), the team's star player, saying their rivals are losing four starters next year, while the entire Brookshire team is returning. Next year will be their year.

Unfortunately, it's not to be. The town's primary employer, a large manufacturing plant, is closing its doors. Within a very short time period, the school's enrollment is cut in half. Most of John's stars move away as their parents seek greater stability and more opportunities.

We see a group of high school boys playing basketball in the park. A young high school girl, Hannah (Aryn Wright-Thompson), steals an expensive pair of headphones from the bench by the basketball court. One of the boys notices them missing and sees Hannah. The boys chase her through the woods, giving up when they encounter an apartment complex. Hannah is hiding behind a tree, and we see her take out an asthma inhaler and take a hit from it.

Hannah continues home, where she lives with her grandmother Barbara (Denise Armstrong). Grandmother shows Hannah an iPod and asks her where it came from. Hannah says she found it, but Barbara believes she stole it, telling her to take it back where she got it. When Grandmother leaves for work, Hannah puts the iPod and the headphones in a box along with other stolen swag.

The high school principal Olivia Brooks (Priscilla Shirer) tells Coach Harrison that the school is losing teachers and coaches and asks him to coach cross country. He doesn't want to, because he doesn't consider cross country a "real sport," but she convinces him to do it for the good of the school. At tryouts, only one person shows up - Hannah.

He learns of her asthma from her permission form signed by her grandmother, as well as her Valentines Day birthday.

Principal Brooks tells him that even one student is important, and asks him to continue on coaching Hannah.

On a hospital visitation trip with his church's pastor (Bruce Marchiano), Coach Harrison accidentally enters the room of Thomas Hill (Cameron Arnett), a diabetic man who has lost his eyesight and is on dialysis due to the disease. Hill asks John to stay and talk with him, so he does. John learns that Hill had been a cross-country runner in his younger days, winning the city championship and placing third in state.

Hannah participates in a few races, improving each time.

I won't go much further into the plot of the movie, but I will say that it involves Coach Harrison re-evaluating his relationship with Christ; and Hannah discovering God and Christ, and becoming a Christian.

The movie also stars Shari Rigby as Amy Harrison, John's wife; and Alex Kendrick's son Caleb Kendrick as Harrison's younger son Will. Notably, Kendrick's son Joshua works on the camera crew for the movie.

This isn't a bad movie. I really like the underdog aspects, the redemption of Thomas Hill and Hannah's redemption and success on the cross country track. It's good and heartwarming, and the spoiler I'm not going to give you about the state finals race she competes in is great...very well done.

I can buy the language and mental exercises that Thomas Hill uses to express his Christian walk - he's been bedridden and hasn't had a lot to do other than think and listen to audio, which may well have been religious in nature.

But the part that doesn't make a whole lot of sense to me, and strikes me as stilted and unnatural, is the language Hannah uses immediately after converting to Christianity. It seems very steeped in Christian lingo for someone who is just discovering Christianity.

I dunno, perhaps she watched internet videos of other Christian teens and acquired some of the language that way. If they had shown something like that - or had her use more natural teen language in expressing her emotions at her new Christian rebirth - I would probably have given this movie a couple more than the seven stars out of 10 I'm going to give the film in this review.

If you get the correct answer before you reach the • dot, you get 15 points. If you stop and answer before the dot and get it wrong, you lose 5 points. If you get it right after the dot, you get 10 points; if you get it wrong after the dot, you get no score.

You only get a shot at the three Bonus questions if you get the tossup correct. They're worth 10 points for each correct response, and no score for any incorrect response. Answer the bonus questions in order without looking ahead to the next question.

Texas hunters brace for hot teal season opener

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department

AUSTIN – This year's early teal hunting season is expected to be a hot one, both in terms of temperature and prospects. Extended forecasts for Saturday's opener indicate waves of blue-winged teal headed for Texas, along with daytime highs in the mid to upper 90s.

The 16-day statewide early teal and Eastern Zone Canada goose season in Texas will run Saturday, Sept. 14 through Sunday, Sept. 29. The daily bag on teal is six, with a possession limit of 18. Bag limit for Canada geese will be five and a possession limit of 15 in the Eastern Zone only.

"Literally millions of teal are heading our way and growing numbers are already being reported across the state," said Kevin Kraai, waterfowl program leader with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "It is looking like the timing of this year's teal season may be another encouraging point considering the full harvest moon will be on Friday, the day before the season opener. That will trigger mass migration of teal out of the Dakotas."

While the stars may be aligning for what could be a bountiful teal season, the extended dry weather across much of the state could be a concern. Kraai indicated a lack of water now following the wet spring and early summer that hit much of the eastern half of Texas isn't necessarily a detriment to hunting.

"Seems we are always in a pattern of too much or too little rainfall here in Texas," he said. "We have definitely entered a dry spell over the last couple of months, which is not necessarily a terrible thing for many parts of Texas. Typically, when there is less water spread out across the landscape it concentrates birds in areas where hunters tend to be waiting."

The extremely wet spring and summer in eastern Texas had rivers in flood and lakes way above conservation pool. This unfortunately will impact the amount of terrestrial seed producing vegetation that generates the high energy foods that teal will be seeking. The upper ends of these reservoirs will still be a great place to check for migrating teal despite high waters earlier in the year. Submerged aquatic vegetation should be growing rapidly this time of year and aquatic bugs, essential to migrating and molting teal, will be flourishing in those locations.

As for conditions and prospects for teal season around the state, TPWD waterfowl biologists report:
• The Gulf Coast is drying out quick but freshwater flows into the bay systems have sparked an above average amount of submerged aquatic vegetation currently growing in places that are typically much more saline. Marsh complexes up and down the coast should see an increase in teal use this fall.
• Further inland in the agricultural areas of the Gulf Coast there are a lot of people prepping for the wave of teal coming our way. Pumps are running night and day and canals are open and flowing. These folks will most certainly see incredible teal concentrations enjoying the tables that they set for them.

• Much like the rest of the state the High Plains playas received substantial rainfall this spring and summer. Very high temperatures and strong dry winds have really wreaked havoc on the standing water across much of the Panhandle the last couple of months. There are still some locations with clusters of wet playas, but they are receding fast. Definitely going to need some replenishing rains soon to carry this important waterfowl area into the winter.

Hunters are reminded to purchase their 2019-20 hunting license before heading afield, available online at www.tpwd.texas.gov/buy, at license retailers or by phone at (800) 895-4248. The online transaction system is available 24/7. Call center hours are Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is a required $5 administrative fee for each phone or online transaction, but unlimited items can be purchased during a single transaction for this $5 fee.
New this year are enhancements to make the licensing process simpler and faster. "Expedited checkout" speeds the process of re-purchasing the same license items bought during the previous three years. TPWD has also made it easier to show proof-of-license. Now hunters and anglers can use an electronic image of their license as proof-of-license and show/display it in any of these ways: (1) an electronic photo of your license, (2) an emailed receipt, (3) via your account within the license point-of-sale system, the Outdoor Annual App or the My Texas Hunt Harvest App (for hunters). You still must have your physical license for any activities requiring tags and the physical federal duck stamp for waterfowl hunting

Genetic testing fraud

Better Business Bureau

DNA testing is a practice that is becoming more common in the medical field. According to the National Institutes of Health, one of the main benefits of genetic testing is the ability to make more informed decisions about the future of your health-care. Unfortunately, some scam companies are using these tests as a way to access your Medicare information or even steal your money.
A company commits genetic testing fraud when it bills Medicare for a test or screening that wasn't medically necessary or ordered by the beneficiary's doctor. So, how does fraud like this happen? Better Business Bureau has been seeing it pop up across the country. Companies advertise "free" DNA tests and set up booths or tables in grocery store parking lots, AARP groups or senior living facilities. Seniors are generally the targets of scams like these, so the companies advertise tests that screen for cancer or dementia. They'll swab your cheek, and you fill out your Medicare information and go on your way. Sometimes, people even receive testing kits in the mail with a DIY swab and instructions to fill out their Medicare information and mail it back.

You might be wondering, "How does this benefit a scammer?" When the test gets sent off, the company bills Medicare and pockets the money. However, there are instances where Medicare doesn't cover DNA tests, and you can find yourself stuck paying for them. The costs of these tests can end up being more than $10,000, which is why it's so important to only do one that's medically necessary.
BBB serving the Heart of Texas has the following tips to help consumers avoid genetic testing fraud:
• Work with your doctor. The best way to avoid being scammed is to only do a genetic test your doctor has ordered. They will know if you need the test and can help you determine if it is covered by Medicare.

• Keep your information safe. Do not give your personal or Medicare information out or accept DNA tests at places like community events, local fairs, farmer's markets, parking lots, or other events not directly sanctioned by your doctor.
• Read documents closely. Documents like your Medicare Summary Notice or Explanation of Benefits can tip you off if something is wrong. Words like "gene analysis," "molecular pathology" or "laboratory" can be red flags of questionable genetic testing.
• Report your concerns. If you or an elderly relative received a cheek swab or screening that was not ordered by your regular doctor, report your concerns about billing errors or fraud to your local Senior Medicare Patrol and to Better Business Bureau's Scam Tracker. Not sure how to locate your Senior Medicare Patrol? You can find them, and more information, at SMPResource.com

London Stock Exchange rejects Hong Kong takeover bid

By KELVIN CHAN

AP Business Writer
LONDON (AP) — The London Stock Exchange on Friday rejected an unsolicited takeover bid from its Hong Kong counterpart, citing "fundamental concerns" about the offer.
The London Stock Exchange Group said strategic and regulatory problems were among the reasons it turned down the unexpected proposal by Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Ltd., which would have created a $70 billion company.
One potential roadblock was concern in Britain about the possibility of the Chinese government influencing one of the symbols of global capitalism. At least half of Hong Kong Exchanges' board and the chairman are nominated by the city's government, whose leader is ultimately appointed by China's communist rulers.

The cash-and-shares offer would have valued the London Stock Exchange Group at 29.6 billion pounds ($36.9 billion). It was conditional on the group scrapping a plan to buy financial data provider Refinitiv for $27 billion.
"Given the fundamental flaws in your proposal, we see no merit in further engagement," Chairman Don Robert said in a letter to Hong Kong Exchanges CEO Charles Li and Chairwoman Laura Cha.
One flaw it cited was a lack of "strategic merit." Robert said it would be a "significant backward step" compared with the Refinitiv acquisition. Refinitiv's appeal is its data, viewed as a lucrative new business operation that would help the London exchange move on from being a simple trading platform.

Check this out at the library this week

We had a great turnout for the Read Across Texas event this past Monday. We want to thank Armando Mireles for his presentation. If you did not get a chance to come out, you can still check out the book Tattoos on the Heart by Gregory Boyle; it is available at the library and in Libby and Overdrive as an EBook and Audiobook.

New at the library!

Playaway Launchpads ready for checkout! Launchpads are learning tablets pre-loaded with educational games for children. They are available for a seven day checkout period, no renewals and limited to one per family. Like DVDs, only an adult may checkout a Launchpad. These tablets are not internet accessible, and games are all downloaded into the tablet. They are great for ages pre-k through seven years old.

We have seven Launchpads ready for checkout; come by the library and checkout one out for your child.

Babytime and Storytime return this week. Babytime is Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m., and Storytime is Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. We are also resuming Code Club on Thursdays with two sessions, first session at 10:30 a.m. and the second session from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. All programming will take place in the children's room.

This week's reviews include biography, fiction and non-fiction, available in audiobook format.

Based on hundreds of exclusive first-hand interviews and cultivated over 20 years of research, historian J. Randy Taraborrelli draws back the curtain on the next generation of America's most famous family in his audiobook, The Kennedy Heirs (AUCD B KEN J). A unique burden was inherited by the children of President John F. Kennedy and his celebrated siblings Senator Robert and Ted Kennedy. Raised in a world of enormous privilege, against the backdrop of American history, this third generation of Kennedys often veered between towering accomplishment and devastating defeat. John Kennedy Jr.'s life in the public eye is explored, following him as he faced the challenges posed by marrying his great love, Carolyn Bessette.

Riveting new details are shared about the couple's tragic demise and why Ethel Kennedy advised Carolyn not to take the trip that would ultimately end her life. Caroline Kennedy, had her own complicated relationships, including a marriage to Ed Schlossberg that surprised her mother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. Additional stories, many shared here for the first time, illuminate the rest of the Kennedy dynasty and at the center of it all is the family's indomitable matriarch, Ethel Kennedy, a formidable presence with her maddening eccentricities and inspiring courage. "The Kennedy Heirs" is an epic drama of ambition, scandal, pride and power.

Half a ton of a dead man's gold lies hidden beneath a mansion on the Miami Beach waterfront in "Cari Mora" (AUCD F HART) by Thomas Harris. Ruthless men have tracked it for years.

Leading the pack is Hans-Peter Schneider. Driven by unspeakable appetites, he makes a living fleshing out the violent fantasies of other, richer men. Cari Mora, caretaker of the house, has escaped from the violence in her native country. She stays in Miami on a wobbly Temporary Protected Status, subject to the iron whim of ICE. She works at many jobs to survive. Beautiful, marked by war, Cari catches the eye of Hans-Peter as he closes in on the treasure. But Cari Mora has surprising skills, and her will to survive has been tested before. Monsters lurk in the crevices and Cari Mora is a woman fighting against evil, greed, and the consequences of dark obsession.

Francis Gleeson and Brian Stanhope, two rookie cops in the NYPD, live next door to each other outside the city in "Ask again, Yes" (F KEA M) by Mary Beth Keane.

What happens behind closed doors in both houses, the loneliness of Francis's wife, Lena, and the instability of Brian's wife, Anne, sets the stage for the explosive events to come. "Ask Again, Yes" is a deeply affecting exploration of the lifelong friendship and love that blossoms between Francis and Lena's daughter, Kate, and Brian and Anne's son, Peter.

Luminous, heartbreaking, and redemptive, "Ask

Again, Yes" reveals the way childhood memories change when viewed from the distance of adulthood, villains lose their menace and those who appeared innocent seem less so. Kate and Peter's love story, while tested by echoes from the past, is marked by tenderness, generosity, and grace.

Pulitzer Prize-winning historian David McCullough rediscovers an important and dramatic chapter in the American story in his book, "The Pioneers: The Heroic Story of the Settlers Who Brought the American Ideal West" (AUCD 977 MCC D).

As part of the Treaty of Paris, Great Britain recognized the newly formed United States of America, and ceded the land that comprised the immense Northwest Territory, a wilderness empire northwest of the Ohio River containing the future states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Manasseh Cutler, a Massachusetts minister, was instrumental in opening this vast territory to veterans of the Revolutionary War and their families for settlement. Included in this Northwest Ordinance were three remarkable conditions: freedom of religion, free universal education, and most importantly, the prohibition of slavery.

In 1788 the first band of pioneers set out from New England for the Northwest Territory under the leadership of Revolutionary War veteran General Rufus Putnam. They settled in what is now Marietta on the banks of the Ohio River. McCullough tells the story through five major characters: Cutler and Putnam; Cutler's son Ephraim; and two other men, Joseph Barker, a carpenter turned architect, and Samuel Hildreth, a physician. These pioneers overcame incredible hardships to build a community based on ideals that would come to define our country.

West Texas Centers recognizes Suicide Prevention Month

BIG SPRING – Suicide is a serious public health issue among our youth presenting long-lasting, significant effects on families, peers, and communities.

The causes of suicide among our youth are complex and involve numerous factors, West Texas Centers CEO Shelley Smith, LMSW, said.

Suicide is the act of harming oneself which leads to death, Smith said. Several risk factors include, but are not limited to mental health disorders such as depression, bipolar, substance abuse withdrawals, and schizophrenia.

"We know treatment works," Smith said. "But the youth we are helping today are very different from past generations. Social media is an outlet in which they use to express themselves, and it's a vital window we need to access."

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported a 30 percent increase in suicides in the United States from 2000 to 2016, with rates increasing in all age groups. However, the authors of the article published in June 2019 in the Journal of American Medical Association noted they were especially concerned with adolescents' suicide rates because of increases in social media use, anxiety, depression, and self-inflicted injuries.

"Youth post suicidal thoughts on social media more frequently," Smith said. "Anyone reading social media accounts should be on high alert to contact the individual, or immediately contact 911."

In 2017, 6,241 suicides occurred in individuals aged 15 to 24 years, of which 5,016 were male and 1,225 were female. At ages 15 to 19 years, the rate of suicides was 11.8 per 100,000, according to the JAMA article.

According to the American Psychiatric Association, warning signs include, but are not limited to:

- Often talking or writing about death, dying or suicide
- Making comments about being hopeless, helpless or worthless
- Expressions of having no reason for living; no sense of purpose in life saying things like "It would be better if I wasn't here" or "I want out."
- Increased alcohol

- and/or drug misuse
- Withdrawal from friends, family and community
- Reckless behavior or more risky activities, seemingly without thinking
- Dramatic mood changes
- Talking about feeling trapped or being a burden to others

"Our main goal at West Texas Centers is to prevent suicide by providing awareness to the public about signs and symptoms or a 'cry for help,'" said Smith. "West Texas Centers also provides an outlet through our crisis hotline for anyone going through a difficult time or just needing to talk. I believe education and awareness is key in reducing suicides."

West Texas Centers operates a 24-hour crisis hotline for anyone who needs immediate assistance. The toll-free number is 1-800-375-4357. "This can be used by anyone facing a crisis or may have questions about suicide," Smith said.

"Whenever anyone commits suicide, there is a great deal of stress," Smith said. "Survivors can become emotionally debilitated. Most family members tell me over and over again, 'If I had only known what they were thinking, I could have helped.'"

West Texas Centers also offers Mental Health First Aid Classes several times a year for those who want to learn the risk factors and warning signs of suicide. For more information about Mental Health First Aid, contact Amy Vidal at amy.vidal@wtcmhmr.org or 432-264-3256.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY
Notice of Draft Federal Operating Permit

Draft Permit No.: O3626

Application and Draft Permit. R2R and D, LLC, 3408 11th Place Ext, Big Spring, TX 79720-3522, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality

Legals

(TCEQ) for a renewal of Federal Operating Permit (herein referred to as Permit) No. O3626, Application No. 28891, to authorize operation of the Fiberglass Pultrusion Facility, an Oil and Gas Field Machinery and Equipment Manufacturing facility. The area addressed by the application is located at 3408 11th Place Ext in Big Spring, Howard County, Texas 79720-3522. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to the application. You can find an electronic map of the facility at: <http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=32.25278&lng=-101.4317&zoom=13&type=r>. This application was received by the TCEQ on April 11, 2019.

The purpose of a federal operating permit is to improve overall compliance with the rules governing air pollution control by clearly listing all applicable requirements, as defined in Title 30 Texas Administrative Code § 122.10 (30 TAC § 122.10). The draft permit, if approved, will codify the conditions under which the area must operate. The permit will not authorize new construction. The executive director has completed the technical review of the application and has made a preliminary decision to prepare a draft permit for public comment and review. The executive director recommends issuance of this draft permit. The permit application, statement of basis, and draft permit will be available for viewing and copying at the TCEQ Central Office, 12100 Park 35 Circle, Building E, First Floor, Austin, Texas 78753; the TCEQ Midland Regional Office, 9900 W Interstate 20 Ste 100, Midland, Texas 79706-2636; and the Big Spring Public Library, 500 S Main St, Big Spring, Texas 79720-2729, beginning the first day of publication of this notice. The draft permit and statement of basis are available at the TCEQ Website:

www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/tvnotice

At the TCEQ central and regional offices, relevant supporting materials for the draft permit, as well as the New Source Review permits which have been incorporated by reference, may be reviewed and copied. Any person with difficulties obtaining these materials due to travel constraints may contact the TCEQ central office file room at (512) 2392900.

Public Comment/Notice and Comment Hearing. Any person may submit written comments on the draft permit. Comments relating to the accuracy, completeness, and appropriateness of the permit conditions may result in changes to the draft permit.

A person who may be affected by the emission of air pollutants from the permitted area may request a notice and comment hearing. The purpose of the notice and comment hearing is to provide an additional opportunity to submit comments on the draft permit. The permit may be changed based on comments pertaining to whether the permit provides for compliance with 30 TAC Chapter 122 (examples may include that the permit does not contain all applicable requirements or the public notice procedures were not satisfied). The TCEQ may grant a notice and comment hearing on the application if a written hearing request is received within 30 days after publication of the newspaper notice. The hearing request must include the basis for the request, including a description of how the person may be affected by the emission of air pollutants from the application area. The request should also specify the conditions of the draft permit that are inappropriate or specify how the preliminary decision to issue or deny the permit is inappropriate. All reasonably ascertainable issues must be raised and all reasonably available arguments must be submitted by the end of the public comment period. If a notice and comment hearing notice and comment hearing is granted, all individuals that submitted written comments or a hearing request will receive written notice of the hearing. This notice will identify the date, time, and location for the hearing.

Written public comments and/or requests for a notice and comment hearing should be submitted to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087, or electronically at www14.tceq.texas.gov/epic/eComment/ and be received within 30 days after the date of newspaper publication of this notice. Please be aware that any contact information you provide, including your name, phone number, email address and physical address will become part of the agency's public record.

A notice of proposed final action that includes a response to comments and identification of any changes to the draft permit will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments, a hearing request, or requested to be on the mailing list for this application. This mailing will also provide instructions for public petitions to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to request that the EPA object to the issuance of the proposed permit. After receiving a petition, the EPA may only object to the issuance of a permit which is not in compliance with the applicable requirements or the requirements of 30 TAC Chapter 122.

Mailing List. In addition to submitting public comments, a person may ask to be placed on a mailing list for this application by sending a request to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address above. Those on the mailing list will receive copies of future public notices (if any) mailed by the Chief Clerk for this application.

Information. For additional information about this permit application or the permitting process, please contact the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Public Education Program, MC-108, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087 or toll free at 18006874040. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040.

Further information may also be obtained for R2R and D, LLC by calling Mr. Frank Mayfield at (432) 270-7207.

Annie's Mailbox

Declining to Dance

Dear Annie: I am a single woman who is quite social, and frequently I go out to dinner during the week with a close group of friends. We also go to bars or clubs about twice a month on Saturday nights. Many of my friends love to get out on the dance floor and dance the night away. I've never enjoyed dancing, and so my preference is to just enjoy the social part of our nights out. This is where the trouble begins. One friend has decided that I "need" to dance, and he has made it his mission to get me out on the dance floor. It began as a joke, but now every time I see him, he asks me if I have started taking dance lessons and says that he can't wait to see me out on the dance floor. In my opinion, he has taken this too far. And I am not sure what to do. His constant "joking" is beginning to feel like harassment, and I really want it to end. On multiple occasions, in a very clear tone with very clear wording, I have told him I don't dance and that is my choice. Yet the chiding continues. Soon we both will be attending events that will include dancing, and I would like to be able to enjoy myself without the fear of him tugging me toward the dance floor or making a joke out of the fact that I don't dance. As I mentioned, I am quite happy being who I am -- a "nondancer" -- and I am honestly baffled that this has become such a focus for him. I should mention that his attention is not due to any attraction on his part as he is happily married. The only solution I can think of is not participating in our nights outs anymore, which I don't want to do. Any suggestions? -- Perturbed

Dear Perturbed: I'm not so sure that you can rule out his being attracted to you. In any case, regardless of his motivations, his actions are way out of line. Perhaps it's time to enlist the help of a trusted friend in the group: Let this mutual friend know the situation, and this person can intercept when he or she sees Mr. Footloose dancing his way over to you.

Dear Annie: I had a different take on the column from "Feeling Left Out" -- the parent who, after 40 years of addiction to meth and alcohol, has now been sober for two years and is, thankfully, finally having a relationship with her adult children. She was feeling left out because she is not being included in family functions. The key line for me from her letter was: "My kids are drinkers, but nothing like I was." Her kids might not be including her because it may infringe on THEIR drinking, making THEM feel like they can't and shouldn't be imbibing, and thus taking away THEIR fun. In any event, an honest conversation with them, communicating how she feels, may be eye-opening to everyone. -- Andrea, Stanhope, NJ

Dear Andrea: This is an astute point, and an angle I neglected to include in my initial response. Often, newly sober folks' invitations seem to get lost in the mail, so to speak. While many in recovery find it better to steer clear of situations where alcohol is present, there are also many who would be perfectly fine having a soda while their friends have their beers. Communication is key in determining expectations, concerns and fears on all sides. Thanks for reading the column, and thanks for writing in.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass Pass 1♥ 1NT
Pass 3NT
Opening lead — six of hearts.

On most deals, the lines of battle are drawn within the first two or three tricks played. Once these lines have been set, it is often impossible to alter the outcome, since the later plays will merely reflect the plans formulated at the outset.

Take this case where South reaches three notrump after East has opened the bidding with one heart. West leads the heart six, and if declarer plays either the five or ten from dummy, he will never recover.

After East plays the eight on the five (or the jack on the ten), South wins with the king. However, he soon finds himself in trouble after East next takes the ace of diamonds and returns a club. If declarer finesses, he is defeated at once when West wins the king of clubs and returns a second heart, allowing East to score four heart tricks for down two. And if South puts up the ace of clubs instead, he can collect only eight tricks before meeting a similar fate.

The battle lines can be completely reversed, however, if declarer puts up dummy's queen of hearts at trick one. This forces East to win the trick to prevent South from scoring two heart tricks instead of one. Furthermore, it stops East from returning a heart, which would hand South a trick with dummy's ten.

East therefore shifts to a club, but declarer must still be careful. If he finesses, West wins and returns a heart to establish three heart tricks for East before the ace of diamonds has been driven out. Instead, declarer should rise with the ace of clubs and attack diamonds.

East wins, but the conflict is now over. He still cannot play a heart without permitting the ten to become South's ninth trick, so he must try another suit. A club return develops a trick for declarer in that suit, while a diamond or spade return allows South to win and establish the club trick himself.

As is so often the case, the very first trick determines which side ultimately wins the battle.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Warrior Moon Insights

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You do well because you work hard and because how much work you put in is something you have complete control over. Your motivation grows with every small win, and with every small loss, so you really can't lose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). People who are comfortable in themselves are easy to be around. You'll have talks with friends where nothing of note gets said and yet so much gets shared.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Wherever possible, handle things up close and in person. It's the close range where misunderstandings get cleared up, facial expressions can be accurately read and intentions can be felt.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's OK to expect a certain tone from people and distance yourself from lesser behavior, especially if the moodiness could be part of some pattern of emotional manipulation. You're right to protect yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Welcome the unknown. Make friends with fear. Ideally, a comfort zone is ever-expanding. This way, you can be comfortable in many different situations. Life becomes more varied and exciting.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Life is a little like grammar today. You don't have to know why a thing is technically wrong to know that it sounds wrong, doesn't read well and that you probably shouldn't use it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Improvements aren't always done with action. Sometimes what helps things along is more of an understanding. Better listening is part of this, and so is taking your ego out of the equation so you can be impartial.

SCORPIO (Oct.

24-Nov. 21). You don't want to disrupt others, upset the status quo or risk the decline that could happen after a shake-up. The reasons to call things "good enough" are valid, though you'd do well to revisit the matter next week.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The bigger the group, the more anonymous people feel, the more likely some will be to heed baser instincts. Things happen in big cities and on the internet that wouldn't readily occur in a small community.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Not every relationship has to be a love story. People connect in different ways.

Trying to force the connection into a category may reduce it to something less beautiful and interesting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). When should you do what you don't want to do? This question will keep coming up. Gently encouraging yourself to do the bigger thing is better in the long run than letting yourself stay small.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You ask more of yourself than you ask of others and also more of yourself than others ask of themselves. Are you being too hard? What would you ask of a best friend? That should define the limits of your demands.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 15). An early theme of this solar journey centers around peace, knowing what it means to you and creating more of it. A state of tranquility allows you to do something productive with all the learning and circumstances caused by past trials. Peace helps you maximize the many opportunities coming your way. Taurus and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 33, 25, 17 and 4.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: The Saturn retrograde ends on Wednesday. Subsequently, the direct path of Saturn will start to bear fruit in our lives. Here's the thing about fruit trees, both of the figurative and literal variety: The fruit of a tree may seem to appear suddenly and abundantly, though the fruiting season often occurs after many years of maturation. For instance, many apple trees take six to 10 years to produce apples. This week, it may seem that things are happening very quickly when in fact what's occurring has been years in the works. It's worth noting that those who respect and appreciate all that's already happened will get the most out of this week's spoils.

Also featured this week is the progression of Mercury and Venus through the early stages of social, glamorous Libra. Seek out relaxed environments. Avoid hype. Apply this party metaphor: Socialites go to the preshow to be photographed and seen. The professionals go to the event because they have to. All the real value to be had is at the after-party. This is where people can relax and the connections and conversations are finally able to happen. If you've limited time for socializing and can only choose one thing, skip the reception; go to the after-party. You'll have a genuine experience.

PATRIOT DAY SEPTEMBER 11

"Substitute teaching for second grade at Washington Elementary. Kids were at recess when we got the news. I walked inside, turned on the T.V., and the second plane hit. I was devastated, upset, angry, and hurt, all at the same time. We just let the kids play the rest of the day. We were all dumbfounded on what to do."

Tisha York

Where were you?

"Walking into history class at the junior high. The hallway TV's were turned onto the news. When the first tower fell and everyone around me grew emotional, I didn't."

Joe Busta

"I was living in Stephenville while going to college. I was in bed asleep and my girlfriend called and said, "Turn on the news. A plane hit the world trade center." I thought it was a small plane until I saw everything on TV. They canceled class for the rest of the day, and we sat around staring at the TV."

Brice Born

"I had just come out of surgery; I was eight months pregnant. When I woke, my doctor put the news on, laid in my bed next to me, and he was in tears and was telling me what happened. I was so out of it. I thought it was a scary movie. God bless everyone who went through this all."

Belinda Garcia

"I was at home sleeping when a friend called to tell me to turn on the tv, we are under attack. I lived in Houston, and the rumors were running wild that other planes were headed to other targets such as the Seattle Space Needle, the St Louis Arch, NASA and the port of Houston. We were so scared. It felt like the end of the world."

The Chaplains are ordained/licensed clergy and/or laity who train to be available to serve our Public Safety Departments, Victim Services, SMMC Hospital personnel and the families and citizens of Big Spring and Howard County.

They are to assist personnel and citizens while standing by at the scene, at the hospitals, as well as major incidents where families are displaced and are in need of support and help.

The chaplain provides assistance, spiritual guidance, counseling and comfort at all times of crisis without attempting to moralize, evangelize or criticize.

They strive to create a relationship with all personnel so they will feel free to turn to a chaplain for counsel and support at any time.

The Chaplains provide family support and counseling, spiritual guidance and prayer support, home and hospital visits, stress management counseling, assisting agencies with death notifications and Bible presentations by Agency request (over 400 given to date).

Community Involvement with BSPD

The Big Spring Police Department has sworn to protect and serve the community of Big Spring, but in addition to the daily protection and service, police officers make it a point to get involved with the community and make their presence known. A few of the annual events the BSPD has become a part of include:

Partnerships are the way to improve the community and the BSPD fully understands that. A few of the partnerships include: Relay for Life, Guardians of the Children, Scenic Mountain Medical Center, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Pops in the Park, Trinity Baptist and the Boy Scouts.

October is an active month, with officers getting out to the following events in the community: National Night Out, Coffee with a Cop, Kentwood Community Helper, and Trunk or Treat.

Police Officers have given presentations at Kindred Coffee Hour at Scenic Mountain Medical Center and even cooked up a hefty bowl of soup for the United Way Empty Bowls annual fundraiser.

In December you can find police officers involved with: Christmas Parade, HEB Feast of Sharing, and Cocoa with a Cop.

Several school presentations have taken place across the community; Nazarene Christian Academy, Big Spring Junior High, Kentwood, and BSISD for guardian training.

Each year, in addition to the community events that BSPD supports, they host National Pharmaceutical Take Back. This allows the community to dispose properly of their unused medications. They also support the SkyWarn Weather Class and provide support for the annual Health Fair's Bike Rodeo.

We Support Our Local Home Town Heroes.

BSFD - looking back at history

The following information and photos were provided by the Big Spring Fire Department and the Heritage Museum, from a previous exhibit.

On Sept. 22, 1909, the new fire truck was delivered by rail to Big Spring at a cost of $3000.

The chains on the tires were to keep the truck from getting stuck in mud. Fred McCrary was hired to drive the truck and was paid $50 per month, later $75.

McCrary was fired when he allowed others to take it to the City Park and play with it.

The truck was the first motorized fire truck in Texas.

The Lone Star Book of Records from the Texas Archives, shows this honor. Two other towns made claims to purchasing the first motorized fire-truck, Baird in 1906 and Canadian however, nether counties could produce verification to uphold their claim.

Fighting brush fires

The Howard County Volunteer Fire Department has been protecting the residents of Howard County and surrounding counties since 1990. Before the HCVFD joined together in 1990, volunteer firefighters were still doing their part to fight fires out in the county.

According to Howard County Volunteer Fire Chief Mitchell Hooper, there are guys who are serving that have between 30 and 35 years of experience. HCV Fire Chief Hooper has been with the volunteer fire department for 15 years. Last year after HCV Fire Chief Tommy Sullivan passed away, Hooper stepped into the role of Fire Chief and has been leading the volunteer firefighters from the experience he gained under Sullivan.

This past year, the HCVFD has been kept busy with multiple grass fires. Thankfully, through the quick response and dedication of the team, all of the fires have been contained fairly quickly and the loss of structures has been kept low. Some of the more notable fires this year include two south of town near Wildfire Road and the fire which took place in the Tubbs Edition area, earlier this year where structures were lost. A few smaller fires have also occurred out in the Moss Lake area, Sand Springs and west of town.
